BRYAN LEADING PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS SUFFERS DEFEAT AT HANDS OF N. Y. ALLIES

Parker's Speech Keynote Interrupted By Scenes of Disorder—Session Adjourned

TOTAL ABSENCE OF POLICE FORCE FROM HALL MARKED

BALTIMORE, June 25.—W. J. Bryan lost his fight for progressive control of the Democratic National Convention today when he was defeated for temporary chairman of the Convention by Alton B. Parker.

Mr. Bryan first nominated Senator Kern to oppose Parker. The latter declined the honor and named Mr. Bryan to make the fight. The Nebraskan made an eloquent plea for the cause he had been representing for sixteen years, but it was unavailing.

The debate preceding the roll call threw the convention into wild disorder. The vote on a roll call was: Parker 579; Bryan 506.

On motion of Luke Lea, of Tennessee, Judge Parker's selection as temporary chairman made unanimous.

After the official announcement of the temporary chairmanship Judge Parker was escorted to the platform where he began delivering his address outlining the views of the party's policies.

The crowds wearying by long delay began leaving the galleries and there was great disorder as Judge Parker sought to proceed.

Owing to the great disorder and the manifest weariness of the delegates and spectators Representative Fitzgerald's motion to adjourn was carried at 3:47 with a whoop.

Every good citizen has been put to shame by the brutality and the abuse which characterized the wrangle between a President and an ex-president. Gratitude, friendship, party loyalty, patriotic mand common decency forgotten in the tussle.

BALTIMORE, June 26., 1:05 P. M.—Second convention day fair and called to order at 12:20 o'clock. A motion to adjourn till night was defeated. Governor Folk of Missouri speaks. Senator Raynor of Maryland, introduced. Big ovation.

election of Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York as temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention was formally announced, the distinguished New Yorker was introduced by Chairman Mack, and delivered his keynote address which in part follows:

"We meet while the hills yet echo to wild cries of liar, thief and traitor, and furious walls of fraud, bribery, treachery and corruption; and our ears are weary with the din of the articulate shrieking and passionate vilification of the most shameful brawl of our political history.

"Our candidates, however, are without expectation, men of sumb lofty mien that we meet immune from the distemper which seized the Chicago convention, and privilege to discharge a solemn public duty, deliberately, seriously.

County Guard Fatally Shoots Unknown Negro

FAYETTEVILLE, June 25.—H. C. Matthews, a convict guard, shot and perhaps fatally wounded an unknown negro whom he thought to be Eugene White, an escaped convict, near Buies, in Roberson county, this morning. White escaped from the Cumberland county chalgang and Matthews being sent to apprehend him, met a negro in the road. Thinking he was the escaped convict, the guard ordered him to halt. The negro, according to Matthews, advanced on him and he shot. e was brought to the Highsmith hospital here and the ball removed from his body.

BRYAN DENOUNCES MONEY INFLUENCES IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, June 25.—William J. Bryan accepted the challenge of battle and went down to defeat at the hands of the conservatives—Ryan, Sullivan, Mack Taggart alliance—today, when Alton B. Parker was chosen as temporary chairman.

The battle was plainly a Bryan-Wilson affair against the combine. Many of the same influences are working here that defeated Roosevelt at Chicago, except Bryan charged they were more brazen.

Ryans presence with the Virginia delegates and August Belmont and others are regarded as very significant. The Wilson people attempted to look on the bright side tonight but the New Jersey man's chances are somewhat eclipsed by Parker's choice although Wilson people claim the vote was not indicative.

Clark seems to be leading tonight, especially if he continues to swing the Murphy support. Bryan is probably out of the running although always likely to turn up unexpectedly.

Some predicted that if an untainted man, like Wilson was not nominated, the progressive Democrats had as well join the Roosevelt party. The convention today was about as disorderly as the Chicago gathering, according to the newspaper men.

The next big fight will likely come on the platform and it is probable that Murphy's steam roller will put across what big business wants, although the Bryan forces are going to make another fight and may be a little more successful resulting in a mildly progressive affair.

As predicted North Carolina split over the Chairmanship. Bryan getting only nine votes. There were forty-nine delegates and alternates from North Carolina and the following voted for Bryan: R. B. Glenn, J. S. Carr, W. C. Newland, E. J. Justice, L. L. Smith, E. F. Aydtlett, W. A. Finch, A. S. Roscoe, R. B. White, A. L. Cox, J. B. Ramsey, A. W. Graham, V. S. Bryant, C. . aynes, O. L. Clark, D. E. McIver, R. S. Young, W. A. Self.

Wilson Implicitly Believes in Commoner's Sincerity

SEA GIRT, N. J., June 25.—Over the telephone today Governor Wilson directed from his cottage here the fight which his supporters have declared they would make against the election of Alton B. Parker as temporary chairman of the democratic national convention.

The governor was in constant communication with his leaders.

Do you think Mr. Bryan is a candidate for the nomination, he was asked. I believe that Mr. Bryan is acting from conviction in true devotion to the cause of progress and without any selfish ulterior motives whatever, he replied.

Mr. Bryan has stated that he is not a candidate, and I believe that he will stick to his statement.

CONVENTION CITY BREAKS RECORD

Veritable Sea of Humanity Storms Outside Convention Hall

KLONDIKE RUSH ON TICKETS

Many Disappointments over Inability of Thousands of People to Gain Admittance into Hall Where 20,000 Persons Feverishly Watch.

(By D. J. Whichard.)

Baltimore woke up in a rain Tuesday morning, and it gave delegates and visitors even further excuse, if any was needed for turning out late. When they were in shape for moving everything turned toward the convention hall, which was in the large armory building with seating capacity of 20,000. The appeal for tickets had been something phenomenal, and thousands who had been unable to get the coveted long strip of pasteboard coupons, or even part of one, followed in the direction of the armory anyway in the hope that something might turn up which would give them an opportunity of getting on the inside. But it was no go, for the convention zone was laid off with ropes for a block in each direction from the hall and no one was permitted to pass through the ropes without first showing his ticket to a policeman. Thus the crowd was kept back from blocking the entrances against those who had the "password." And it seems that there were never so many policemen. They were everywhere, in bunches of two and three along every avenue of approach, and around every entrance to the immense coliseum.

Be it said in passing, too, that there was never a cleverer array of policemen brought together than those on duty in Baltimore. To find out anything desired, what car to take, or where to go, one had but to ask a policeman or street car conductor and information was cheerfully and patiently given.

And as to arrangements for the connection these were as complete as it seems possible for any city to have made. There is nothing wrong with Baltimore, for it is far enough South to have real Southern ways when it comes to entertaining people and making them feel at home.

It was 11 o'clock when the convention band began entertaining the gathering thousands. At that time spectators were rapidly pouring in and being shown to their seats. At that time very few delegates were in their places, but they kept coming in until the time for calling to order.

The first demonstration was when the Texas delegation displayed a handsome Woodrow Wilson banner.

As Cardinal Gibbons in his priestly robe was escorted from main entrance to platform he was given an ovation. The next demonstration was when W. J. Bryan entered, the crowd rising and cheering. Every time cheering started in any part of the hall the crowd sprung up to see the cause.

It was 12:15 when Chairman Norman E. Mack, of the National Committee, rapped for order but it took several minutes of intermittent rapping to bring quiet enough for his voice to be heard, and not until fifteen minutes later could the official call for the convention be read. This was followed with the opening prayer by Cardinal Gibbons.

Chairman Mack was then about to make some announcement but the tumult would not quiet for some minutes.

William Jennings Bryan took platform and presented name of John W. Kern, of Indiana, for temporary chairman. He reserved the right of assumption by the national committee to name the temporary chairman. His speech was filled with enthusiasm, especially from the spectators. In the midst of his peech the hall took up the cry of Parker that drowned him for a while. After him John W. Kern himself took the stand, urging harmony and declining to be presented for temporary chairman. Bryan again spoke expressing a willingness to support any good progressive or that he would accept the temporary chairmanship himself. Theodore Bell, of California spoke in behalf of Judge Parker, and said he did not see wherein Par-

THREATEN TO CLOSE NAVY YARDS

Unless Funds For Their Upkeep Are Forthcoming

THOUSANDS MUST LEAVE WORK

Unless the House and Senate Agree as to the Appropriation for the Current Year, Thousands of Civil Employes Will be out Next Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Employes of all the United States Navy Yards in the country to the number of 20,000 or more, will be laid off July 1, unless Congress makes a provision for payment of their wages.

This announcement was made by Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop at the White House today.

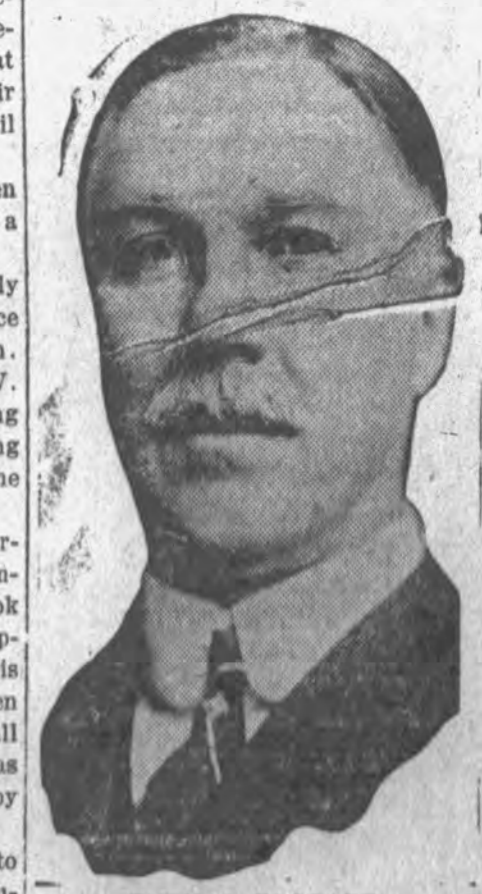

Every navy yard in the United States will remain closed next Monday morning and all civil employes therein will be laid off without pay unless Congress tomorrow passes a resolution extending the appropriation for the current year.

Acting Secretary Winthrop is making ready to telegraph and cable this order to the remote Cavite naval station in the Philippines.

The great navy yard with its 4,000 employed will be hit hard, for the law offices of the navy department have decided that the law prohibiting the acceptance of volunteer service by the government, except to save human life or prevent the destruction of government property will apply to that and all other yards.

The same situation will obtain as to the vast river and harbor projects of the War Department. The only exception of this closing order will probably be the civil employes in the executive departments in Washington and those in the custom houses and postoffices elsewhere. To preserve government property a few caretakers will be retained.

The only way of saving the situation, it is declared by the officials here, is for the leaders of the House and Senate to pass the extension resolution in spite of the so-called gentlemen's agreement under the terms of which tomorrow's session of the two houses was to have been purely formal and without legislative business.

THOMAS TAGGART.

ker's democracy had undergone such change in four years that Mr. Bryan did not think him good enough to preside temporarily of this convention. Almost every sentence of the speakers was interrupted with clamor and calls for Bryan, Parker, etc. It was a noisy, tumultuous gathering, most of racket coming from spectators. Quite a stirring Parker speech was made by Congressman Cove Johnson, of Texas, who came by to shake hands with a bunch of North Carolinians when he saw their badges. Bryan again took platform and asked that the debate be closed. This was agreed to, and a roll call on temporary chairmanship resulted in a victory for Parker.

WITH his habitual disregard of precedents Colonel Roosevelt contributed one of the most spectacular features to the Chicago convention by coming to the city two days before the opening session and assuming the direction of the fight in his own behalf. After a triumphal progress through crowded streets to his hotel he appeared on a balcony overlooking the street and delivered a brief but characteristic address to the thousands who had assembled in front of the building. The photograph shows him in the full flood of his speech, surrounded by his staunch supporters, among whom (the second from the left of the picture) may be distinguished his intimate friend, Gifford Pinchot, formerly chief forester.

To Frame Code of International Law.

RIODE JANEIRO, June 26.—The conference of the international commission of jurists, for which the preliminary arrangements were made at the Pan-American conference of last year, assembled in this city today with delegates in attendance from virtually all of the American republics. The United States has sent its representatives Fredrick Van Dyne, assistant solicitor of the Department of States and John Bassett Moore, professor of international law and diplomacy at Columbia University. The conference is expected to initiate the first formal code of international law, to which all the American states will subscribe, and which eventually may become the basis for the administration of the great international tribunal for which peace advocates have been striving.

To Head University of Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., June 26.—The trustees of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville met here today to discuss the selection of a president of the university to succeed Professor Carolina. It is not known whether Dr. president of the University of South Carolina Dr. S. C. Mitchell, who is now the J. N. Tillman, who has resigned. The first choice of the trustees is said to be Mitchell, and which eventually may become the basis for the administration of the Fayetteville institution.

HOW ARE PRICES AFFECTED BY THE TARIFF?

Behind any right adjustment of rates there must stand an intelligent public opinion. That can no more be created by the publication of interminable pages of statistics that are difficult of comprehension even by specialists than it can be by a limited circulation of reports of committee hearings and political speeches on the floor of the House or Senate.

In brief, the tariff will be a bone of political contention, a cause of disturbance and depression in trade and production until, through the agency of some responsible and politically independent board or commission, the facts of the various industries affected and supposed to be affected have been studied and intelligently reported to the American people.

Light is one of the strongest preventatives of crime. Increasing the illumination will do more to reform a street than doubling the force of policemen. A light hung in front of a safe is better protection than a watchman, for all the passersby are transformed into watchmen.

WHAT CAN PUBLICITY ACCOMPLISH?

Light is one of the strongest preventatives of crime. Increasing the illumination will do more to reform a street than doubling the force of policemen. A light hung in front of a safe is better protection than a watchman, for all the passersby are transformed into watchmen.

Aroused and informed public opinion is a force which is almost irresistible. As a witness before the Senate Committee aptly said, "No one except a fool disregards public opinion."

There are hundreds, even thousands of such cases in history. Where the great mass of the people has had no direct voice in the government, wise rulers have always made concessions to public feeling.

Instances could be multiplied from the daily papers. A few years ago the Long Island railroad wished to raise its rates. It bought columns of the newspapers to explain the financial reasons which made such action necessary.

Editorial of Human Interest

By Arthur Brisbane

THE HUMAN WEEDS IN PRISON. Part I.

How shall we approach a prison to see it fairly and to study it intelligently?

Let us imagine ourselves visitors from a world outside of this.

Far off in infinite space there is a small whirling planet—our earth.

Little creatures move about this planet, chained to it by the force of gravity.

There are millions of free square miles, and hundreds of millions of free human beings.

But there just below us is the prison at Auburn. There the human beings are not free. There suffer those who for any reason have violated the established rules of the little globe that supports them.

They have not even the freedom of the little patch of soil fenced in for them. They cannot walk, speak, sit down, lie down or stand up as they please.

They have broken some of the rules established for the protection of all. They have misused their freedom, and in punishment their freedom is taken away from them.

They live in small cells in a very big prison.

Gray stone, iron bars, striped suit, enforced silence, enforced work, enforced regularity of life—all these punish most keenly those whose first crime was lack of self-control and lack of regularity.

In every prison and in every prisoner there are lessons for each of us. You will not waste time today if you walk through this great Auburn prison and think of the men there—think why they came there, think how they could have been saved, think what will gradually empty prisons and make them unnecessary.

A man with one arm opens the first iron gate—his mutilated body foreshadows the mutilated minds and souls within.

Before the door of the prison there are bright flowers—the name of the prison itself stands out in brightly colored blossoms to prove the gardener's ability and strange sense of the appropriate. Many of the causes that bring men there are written out in just such bright colors—when first seen—and many a prisoner must have ity or the ruler chose to profess.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

SENTIMENT.

Sentiment is a volatile influence which floods the world with sunshine and the ladies' waiting room with blushing brides. An ounce of sentiment is worth a pound of grouch.

thought of that as he passed through the iron door.

A party of six or seven go through the prison with you.

There is a woman of middle age, stout and cheerful, in a bright purple dress. There are two children, a moon-faced man, a tall, thin man, and others whom you do not notice.

Carelessly they look at a nervous woman sitting in the reception room talking to a convict. They take no interest in her, no interest in the convict. To you the prison guide says: "She comes here to see him as often as the rules allow. She's his wife. She's been coming for seven years. I tell you, women get the hard end of it in this world."

Women do indeed get the hard end of it. There are twelve hundred men in that prison—and every one of them has caused some woman to suffer. And every one of them has broken the heart of one other woman—his mother.

Through a narrow door you turn with your fellow-visitors.

At every step you marvel at the curious indifference of average humanity to the one interesting thing—their fellow-man.

There are shown to you piles upon piles of loaves of bread—fresh and brown. The guide says: "We bake every day. Nine hundred loaves a day."

The stout woman in purple sighs with amazement, the children gape, the man with the round face has an anxious look—he seems to be a taxpayer.

But not one looks at or thinks of the convict who turns quickly away to hide a thin, white face. To you the guide says: "He is a forger. You can see he is sensitive about being here. Some of them never seem to get used to it."

The stout woman in purple is delighted with the enormous copper vats for making the convicts' coffee. She is charmed with the great iron pots for boiling soup.

But you will be more interested in these facts:

There is a great chapel—but no convict is compelled to attend.

There is a huge wash room—fitted with showers for the hardy, with porcelain tubs for the old and crippled—and every man is compelled to take his bath.

How much progress, how much that is hopeful for humanity, is told in those words!

Religious services are optional—no more compulsion of man's soul or of his belief.

Bathing is compulsory. Truly, we progress, and the prison rules prove it.

There were showers in every prison and in every insane asylum one hundred years ago—but those showers were used only to torture the criminal or the lunatic. He was doused with cold water until senseless.

There were chapels in the old-time prisons, and all were forced to accept and profess such views as the majority or the ruler chose to profess.

Press Comment

Now that condemnation of Alton B. Parker for the position of chairman of the Democratic Convention, by the Hon. William Jennings Bryan, was rather little upon the part of the Com-moner, and it would have been more becoming in some cross roads politician.

The Democratic convention is going to be anti-Bryan just to show the country that Bryan is not the boss. The Democratic party does not tolerate bosses long and the country is suspicious of Bryan.

Road Song

Come from the murk of the city's streets to the tent of all the world,
When your final work in art is said; and flag of faith is furled;
When your heart no longer gives a throb at the first point breath of spring—
Turn your feet from the ribbonroad with a chours all may sing,

Where the sandaled down like a Greek takes the hurdles of the hills
And the brooding earth rubs sleepy eyes at the lone song bird thrills;
Where the brook's like the silver scythe of a moon, awaits your warm caresses.
Ah, these are the gifts that the high gods fling to the mortals in dures!

When the blood-red sun swings low in the west and an end comes to desire!
When the candle-gloom of the low-called room is bared to a pine-log fire,
And the tales of men are told anew Still the hunters leaves the Sky—
Ah, these are the gifts for the sons of men to set their treasures by!

Then give me the clear blue skys Overhead, and the white road to my feet,
And a dog to tell my secret to, and a brother tramp to meet—
And the years may tane their toll of me till I reach the weary west,
When I loge for good in the world's won inn, a way-won, waiting gnest.

The Camping Trip of the Scouts.

We are making all arrangements for the 16th of July to leave here on that date by six in the morning to be able to reach Rumley-Hammock that night for supper if possible. Rumley-Hammock is an Island in Core Sound about 30 miles from Beaufort and three or four from Atlantic. All the boys can get their mail from Atlantic every day if need be. The island is a beautiful place with trees a plenty and a good well of water. There is one house on the island not occupied—we have the privilege of using it if we desire. I have the use of the island as long as we wish it for this summer and no one will be there but those taken from here. There is splendid fishing around there and about as little danger as any place I could find on the sound.

Capt. Salter, with his boat will be at the pier on the 16th of July to take us all there and to bring us back. The boat is large, safe, and the men are careful. The stay will not be less than ten days and maybe more. The cost will be somewhere about six or seven dollars for everything for each person, it may be a little less or a little more, however, it will be a very cheap trip. All the scouts who intend to go must have two dollars in the hands of the Scout-Master by the last of this week—this is for the boat fare round-trip. All others who go with us will have $2.50 for fare for round trip. We have allowed a few young men to go with us to be in a separate camp but on the island. All who desire to go must speak to us at once as we cannot take very many outsiders. We want none but genuine gentlemen to go with us, such as we have already agreed to take. Card-playing and drinking will not be allowed, swearing and obscene language forbidden by anyone at all.

Every Scout will and must obey the Scout oath and keep the Scout laws, must obey the Scout-Master to the letter and any officer whom he may see fit to appoint. Every rule must be kept in order to insure safety. I will do my best to take care of all who go and give them a good time. We will have some one with us who understands something of medicine and have also the first-aid outfit. Will have a colored man to do the cooking and help keep camp. Let each scout carry some covering and what personal things he thinks he will need, but he must have a towel and comb and brush and a tooth brush and bathing suit or an old suit for that purpose. We would like to say to the parents that we are expecting a pleasant, nice time with the boys and no trouble at all and we will do our best to take care of your boys and if any boy does not do right you may expect to see him before the time is out to come back.
C. M. ROCK, Scout-master.

From Woman's View-Point

Hand Made Trimming

Yokes of embroidered net or sheer linen and batiste make a delightful trimming for any tub dress.

Bands or embroidery done in the rich eastern coloring or in one tone to correspond with the material used, effectively trim gowns, of linen, pongee or rajah.

One of the prettiest handmade trimmings is the Roman cut work. The design cut is buttonhole-stitched to another place of fabric.

Designs in this work may be introduced upon the bodice, forming the collar and cuff. Wide bands are often used in the skirt.

When cream or white laces are used to introduce a touch of color, work over the design with the color thread desired, using the knot as if for padding. Effect produced by this is most attractive. It is an almost impossible task to match a practical color in laces. (North American)

The Separate Skirt.

Designs have been undecided for some time as to the question of the enlargement of the skirt. That the skirt is to be enlarged is now quite definite and the only remaining point at issue is where the extra fullness is added.

The enlargement of the tailored gowns will be around the bottom of the skirt, but on afternoon and evening dresses it will be seen as panniers and draped overskirts. This enlargement of the skirt has been so widely discussed that one would be inclined to look for some radical change in line, when, as a matter of fact, the straight silhouette is maintained in all the newest models. There will be no skirts five yards around, or even three yards in width, as was threatened early in the season. The extra inches which are to be inserted in the bottom of the skirts will only make them a little easier to walk in, and prepare the way for side and box pleats, which will undoubtedly be seen in models.

The effect of a wide skirt is achieved by the arrangement of flat inserted panels on the side, which are seldom more than six or eight inches, rather than by extra material.

The panel gives the fictitious idea of breath in simulating another skirt underneath. This same idea of largeness is given by the flat bands, three or four narrow ones and sometimes one broad one, laid diagonally around the bottom of the skirt and sometimes slanting up as far as the knees. In this way, a skirt no more than 2 1-2 yards around will look at least a yard wider.

In the tailored skirts there is seldom an underskirt, but the effect is gained by clever paneling, and in many cases the use of several rows of buttons.

Tweeds, cheviots, whipcords and serges are the popular materials used in the separate skirts. All are made in straight lines, many of them having no seam in the center of the back, where the cloth lies perfectly plain, the seam being on the side over the hips.

Don't be Ashamed of Your Home

Your home may not be just the kind of a home to which you would like to invite your friends if you had a choice in the matter, but since you haven't, and it is the best you have to offer, it is as much to be honored by your friends, as though it were a palace. It only reflects discredit upon you to be ashamed of your home, and to avoid asking your friends to call on you. Every home has a skeleton in the closet, more or less ugly, and it is far better for people to meet your selection than to weave all kinds of mysteries about him and picture him in their minds far uglier than he is, for that is evidently what your young man has been doing. The people who are invited to your home and find it lacking in luxury must be entirely wanting in sense as well as sensitiveness to blame you for it. Poverty is no disgrace. It is a misfortune, and surely no one can be blamed for a misfortune.

However, the things that make home are the home spirit, the hospitality and good cheer, rather than the Persian rugs or the carved mahogany. It is the people in the house that makes a home quite regardless of the furniture of surroundings, and this isn't merely a sermon, but a fact. So don't hesitate to invite your friends. If you give them the best you have, and they fail to appreciate it, they are simply not worthy to be your friends or anybody else's. (Boston Post)

Advertising

Is the connecting link between the merchant and customer—it is the merchant's salesman.

Goods snugly resting on a shelf are very much like a miser's gold—all right, but in need of circulating.

A Secret has better chance to travel than the goods of a merchant who will not talk about them all the time. The up-to-date merchant looks to advertising like the announcer to his megaphone. Advertising enlarges the circle of merchant's business, the megaphone strengthens the volume of the voice. Both multiply the chances of a hearing. In grandfather's time advertising was not thought of. But in grandfather's time competition was slight. Today it is so keen that a merchant must look out else the edge of competition may separate him from his business.

Be sure to tell the people what you have, why you have it, and what they can have it for. This is vital to your business. Also when telling the people use a medium that will reach them with your message of intelligence.

The Daily Reflector

will do it for you!

Gubernatorial Candidate Weds.

Henderson, Ky., June 26.—The marriage took place today of Miss Laura Dolker, member of a prominent family of this place, and Edward G. Dunn, who was recently nominated for governor of Iowa by the Democratic party of that State. After a short wedding trip the couple will take up their residence in Mr. Dunn's home town of Clear Lake, Iowa.

SPECIAL LETTER FROM THE NATIONS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Realizing the advantages to be gained by properly training the naval military of the various portions of the United States, the navy department is making extensive arrangements for the annual circuit for the different states during the coming summer season. These cruises will take on an added significance this year by reasons of a manifest determination on the part of the government to bring this branch of reserve up to a high standard of efficiency.

* Of course these cruises of the militiamen are no new features of the annual manoeuvres. In fact they have been going on for years, in company with the yearly camps of the land branch of the government's fighting reserve. This summer, however, will be the first cruising period in perhaps a decade that will gain wide spread advertisement through its importance.

There are, indeed, a number of circumstances that will militate toward the elevation of the coming cruises. One is the troubled condition of Mexico another the affairs of Cuba and still another, and by far most important, is the manifest desire of certain statesmen to force through legislation that will place the fighting reserve of the United States on much the same plane of efficiency and readiness as that of European countries.

This desire is not only shared by certain legislators, but is most strong in the ranks of naval officers. To the end that it may be accomplished, therefore, the naval militia of the country has been divided into three sections. These are: Naval organizations to the north of New York City; similar to the south of that point and the Pacific Coast divisions.

The organizations north of New York will rendezvous at Providence-town, Mass., July 7 and will set sail from this place the following day, remaining out until July 15. During this time the "landlubbers" will receive instructions in naval procedure, drilling, handling guns, signalling and the thousand-and-one units of daily routine which Uncle Sam's blue jackets practice every day. It is expected that at the end of their eight-days' cruise the militiamen will be somewhat injured to the boat life and they will then be given additional practices with the big guns.

The naval militia organizations to the south of New York City will gather at Tangier Sound, Chesapeake Bay, on July 15 and will cruise like the comrades in the north, especial attention being paid to target practice.

As it is not considered practicable to arrange a rendezvous on the Pacific Coast, the organizations of the different western states will make the following cruises: The Washington naval militia will cruise on the Pennsylvania, and the Oregon organizations on the Maryland from July 16 to 21; while the California sailors will sail on the Marblehead from July 6 to 21. Target practice of the naval militia organizations on the Pacific Coast will take place later in the summer on Puget Sound.

The Iowa now in reserve in the Philadelphia Navy yard, will make two cruises with the naval militia during July, taking out first the combined organizations of Pennsylvania and Maryland and secondly the first and second battalions of the New York Naval Militia. During the cruises the necessary complement of the Iowa, in addition to the reserve crew, will be furnished by the Naval Militia, thus giving the landsmen an opportunity to learn pretty near every phase of life on the waves.

Royal Visit to Wales.

London, June 26.—The long anticipated visit of their Majesties to the west of England and Wales was inaugurated today, when the King officiated at the laying of the foundation stone for the national museum of Wales at Cardiff. On Friday the King and Queen will proceed to Bristol for the formal opening of the King Edward Memorial infirmary in that city.

Celebration July 2, 1912 at E. C. T. T. S.

Because of its importance we republish today a part of the interview with Governor Jarvis published yesterday in reference to the celebration at the Training School, July 2, 1912, as follows:

The school management is pleased to announce that Hon. Locke Craig, Hon. E. L. Daughtridge and Hon. B. R. Lacy have accepted invitations to be present and make educational addresses. Mr. J. O. Carr, a member of the board of trustees, has also consented to speak. In addition to these, Dr. Cyrus Thompson and Hon. Zeb Vance Walser have been invited to be present and deliver addresses. Both of these gentlemen are now in Chicago and we hope to have at least one of them present.

This is a state school pre-eminently and must depend upon the appropriation made by the legislature for its support. It is doing a great work in supplying better equipped teachers for the public schools, which are likewise dependent upon the legislature and public sentiment. It is fairly certain that the Hon. Locke Craig, Hon. E. L. Daughtridge, Hon. J. Y. Joyner and Hon. B. R. Lacy will have much to do in shaping the policy of the state for the next four years in reference to these institutions. We are therefore, glad to have them visit the institution and see for themselves and we trust the citizens of the county and town will give them a rousing reception.

SPORTING NOTES

According to unofficial figures the Washington team has seven men in the 500 list of batters.

With the exception of Zimmerman the Chicago Cubs have not been able to do much in the batting line this season.

Catcher Hank Gowdy, of the Boston Nationals, is temporarily out of the game nursing an injured hand.

The Philadelphia Nationals have landed Pitcher Rixey, the clever south-paw of the University of Virginia.

It begins to look as though the Pittsburgh Pirates are the real hope to give battle to the Giants for the National League fabric.

The Cleveland Naps have four of the first six men in the honor list of American League Batters, and still the Naps are not able to get up among the contenders.

It would be tough luck for the Saint Louis fans to have two teams in the cellar at the same time, so it is up to Roger Bresnahan to keep his Cardinals hanging on the ladder.

Detroit and Chicago fell down badly on their home grounds against the Eastern teams. The Tigers won six of the 16 played and the White Sox copied only 5.

Some of the critics predicted the first of the season that the Cincinnati Reds would curl up and wither about July 4th, and Hank O'Day would have to keep his hired men on their toes or the critics will win.

It is said that five clubs—Brooklyn, St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, are lined up solidly against President Lynch of the National Association. The chief count in the indictment against Mr. Lynch is alleged poor work in handling his staff of umpires.

With only two veterans in the lineup, Milan and McBride, the Washington Senators have been standing the American League teams on their head. Moeller, Gandil, Foster, Shanks and Morgan, the other stellar members of the Griffith aggregation, are youngsters.
