TACIT SUPPORT OF COMMONER WILL NOMINATE JERSEY'S PROGRESSIVE GOVERNOR

Bryan Wilson Forces Unseat Clark Delegates After Hot Fight in Convention Floor--Murphy and Ryan See New York Delegation Slip Through and Join Progressive Ranks

Wilson's Name Calls for A 33 Minutes Deafening Declaration of Support

WILSON IS THE STRONGEST CANDIDATE BEFORE CONVENTION

- BALTIMORE, June 27.—The Bryan-Wilson forces won another victory in the Democratic convention today when they overturned the credentials committee's action in the South Dakota contest and succeeded in forcing the seating of the Wilson delegates.
- The committee had seated Clark delegates. The vote was 633 1-2 to 437.
- Ollie James was elected permanent chairman on the report of the permanent organization committee and delivered his keynote speech.
- The Wilson supporters claimed that the vote made the nomination of Woodrow Wilson a practical certainty.
- New York's ninety votes, which yesterday went to the Clark, Harmon combination were today cast in a block for the Wilson delegates. The announcement was greeted with cheers from the Wilson delegates.
- In the roll call on the adoption of the minority report on the South Dakota cases, which would seat the Wilson delegates the Virginia delegation voted solidly in favor of it.

CONVENTION HALL, Baltimore, June 27.—Tumult interrupted the Democratic convention this afternoon during the debate on the report of the credentials committee, involving the seating of contesting Clark and Wilson delegates from South Dakota.

The Wilson adherents started the demonstration and the Clark, Underwood and other factions not to be outdone, at once took it up.

The uproar became general, floor and galleries standing on chairs and yelling madly.

Banners of all sizes and hundreds of lithographs of the various candidates were raised.

The Missouri and New Jersey standards were torn from the clamps and a disorganized struggling procession filled the aisles of the delegates section.

Several women appeared on the floor during the demonstration. The galleries, crowded with partisans, were quieted with the greatest difficulty.

The demonstration lasted 22 minutes.

The report of the committee on permanent organization nominated Ollie James of Kentucky, as permanent chairman; E. E. Broton, of North Carolina, as secretary and Urey Woodson as associate secretary. The other officers were filled by the selection of the temporary officers. The nominations were confirmed.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, Representative Hughes, of New Jersey; Senator Pommerene, of Ohio, and Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, were appointed a committee to notify Mr. James of his election, after the report of the committee had been adopted by a viva voce vote.

They escorted the big Kentuckian up the center aisle, while delegates and galleries cheered and the band played "My Old Kentucky Home".

When Mr. James reached the platform Judge Parker thanked the convention for its conduct while he presided and introduced "one of the greatest leaders of American Democracy, Ollie James".

Mr. James, looming high over the other men on the platform, began his speech.

Mr. James's speech bristling with comments on President Taft was listened to with close interest and an occasional smile.

The sergeant-at-arms stationed policemen ten feet apart in every aisle.

A double row of police was placed in front of the press stand where the scuffle of last night occurred. Despite these added forces the sergeant, at arms was unable to prevent crowding in the aisles.

The heat was oppressive and again today the coat as a garment was discredited thoroughly.

Harris of the Illinois Bankers Association and William Reed, assistant cashier of the National City Bank of New York.

After the appointment of committees the bankers enjoyed a sail and surf party.

THE MOST SHREWD AND CONSERVATIVE LEADERS PREDICT THAT WILSON WILL BE THE NOMINEE. BRYAN HAS NOT DECLARED HIMSELF FOR ANY ONE, BUT THE CONSENSUS OF OPINION IS THAT HE FAVORS THE VIRGINIAN.

FIFTH REGIMENT ARMORY, BALTIMORE, SCENE OF THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION.

BRYAN MAKES GREATEST POLITICAL MOVE

Keeps Wall Street Interests out of Appointing a Presidential Candidate at the Baltimore Convention

BALTIMORE June 27.—Following the adoption of the Bryan resolution nominations were called for and at 11 o'clock Senator Bankhead of Alabama, arose and began his speech nominating Representative Oscar W. Underwood. The convention leaders agreed at 11:10 p. m. that no ballots would be taken tonight. The convention will wait until for 2 a. m. to hear nominating speeches and then will adjourn until noon tomorrow.

Baltimore, June 27.—William Jennings Bryan tonight led the Democratic convention into a declaration of progressiveness, unhead of in political history.

A resolution introduced by him which was passed by a two thirds majority, declared the convention opposed to the nomination of any candidate for president under obligation to J. Pierpont Morgan, Thomas F. Ryan, August Belmont, or any privilege seeking class.

The convention was thrown into a furor by the proposition which as originally introduced called for the withdrawal of Ryand Belmont delegates from Virginia and New York, respectively. This part of the resolution was resented as invading the rights of sovereign states and when its full import became known boos and catcalls, jeer and hisses, were mingled with hand-clapping, cheers and stamping of feet in the galleries and on the floor.

Representative H. D. Flood of Virginia dramatically characterized the proposition as insolent and said it came from the only man who desired to destroy the Democratic party.

Former Governor McCorkle of West Virginia called it foolish. Mr. Bryan made the situation even more dramatic by asking Virginia to New York to request a modification of the resolution and when they scorned the suggestion he took that course himself.

From that moment sentiment changed and the early voting indicated that Mr. Bryan as the exponent of progress retained his hold upon Democracy.

N. C. DELEGATION PARTLY FOR WILSON

Vote in the Caucuses Gives New Jersey Man 16 Ballots

UNDERWOOD NEXT WITH 7

It is Again Predicted That After the First Ballot the Tar Heel Delegation will go Solid for Wilson. Harmon Smallest

BALTIMORE Md., June 27.—The North Carolina delegation caucused in a committee room of the convention hall a few minutes before the convention met Delegate McLean and two others had not come in before the convention was called to order, so Chairman Glenn refused to announce the result of the caucus and said he would hold another ballot before the first ballot was taken.

Several delegates renewed their prediction that the vote would be solid for Wilson after one or two preliminary ballots. It was thought probable that if it became apparent as the first roll call progressed that a combination was at work to put Clark over on the first ballot and if New York, which is called three turns ahead of North Carolina, votes for Clark, the Tar Heel vote will be 24 for Wilson on the first ballot.

"The Tar Heel delegation will fight the Wall Street combination on the first ballot, if necessary," said a delegate as he took his seat.

At the conclusion of the roll call and before the result has been announced a delegation has the right to change its vote. Delegate Underwood predicted that North Carolina would do this on any ballot which gave Clark enough votes for the nomination.

A final ballot was taken after the convention adjourned this afternoon. The vote was Wilson 16, Harmon 1, Underwood 7. Here is the poll:

For Underwood—Ransom, Hill, Daniel, Underwood, Bailey, Blair Daughton, Clement, R. L. Smith, Mills, Weaver, Love, Dillard, McQueen.

For Harmon—O'Berry, Brenizer. It was agreed that the new delegates at large should cast four votes for Wilson on each ballot.

BRYAN - O'GORMAN TOGETHER

Will Draft Platform for Progressive Democrats.

Document Will Praise Efforts of the Democratic House in the Revision of the Tariff and Other Matters.

BALTIMORE, June 27.—Mr. Bryan and Senator O'Gorman of New York will write the platform of the Democratic national convention.

When the working sub-committee of the committee on resolutions met today the members found themselves without a platform draft of sufficient cohesiveness to form a basis for the committee's operation and a conclusion was arrived at speedily to appoint a second sub committee to prepare a draft for the convenience of the sub committee and later of the full committee and Mr. Bryan and Mr. O'Gorman were designated to perform that service.

After the sub committee adjourned at midnight at last night, the members went to their rooms under instructions to prepare various planks for consideration and when they assembled this morning a number of comparatively complete propositions were presented. These, however, were without connecting links and moreover, it was necessary that each of them should undergo the supervision of other members of the committee.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. O'Gorman went to work immediately to thresh the platform into shape.

CHAIRMAN JAMES FLAYS REPUBLICANS

Kentucky Senator Elect Makes the Tariff His Subject

DON'T RESPECT PEOPLE'S WILL

Permanent Chairman of the Convention Makes Tariff Keynote of his Speech in Baltimore--Severely Criticises President for "Joining the Idols."

BATIMORE, June 27.—Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky, permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention, in his keynote speech today spoke in part as follows:

"The Republican party, flushed with many victories, imperious as a tyrant, unheeding the demands of the people took the reins of the government in 1908 under the solemn promise that they would revise the tariff in the interest of the consumer. Instead of keeping this promise, as they should have done, because it was their bond of honor, they betrayed it. They raised the tariff higher than it was ever before, until it reached its maximum of protection.

"The story of this base betrayal is known to all men. The Democratic party appealed on their record in the Sixty-first Congress upon Payne-Aldrich tariff bill to the American people and we received from them a verdict of guilty against the Republican party and the bestowal of power upon ourselves. How faithfully we have kept our promises to them is but to resume of our official action."

Mr. James reviewed at great length the tariff revision question passed by the Democratic House and referred to the bills vetoed by President Taft referring to the veto of the wool bill, he said:

Picking Pockets of the Poor.

And today the wool crust stands not behind a majority of the lawmakers of the republic, but behind the veto of the president and the 11 more than one-third of the representatives of the American people picking the pockets of the shivering poor and ragged people of America. The Republican party by his character of robbery would try to become so arrogant and confident continue to meet the favor of the American people that they boldly wrote into their platform of 1908 a declaration that he tariff should not only equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, but it should be high enough in addition to this to give a profit to the manufacturer here.

President Taft has the lone and singular distinction of being the only president in the life of this republic who ever vetoed bills cheapening cloth to the people, lumber to the homeless, and meat and bread to hungry Americans, and free farming implements to the tolling farmer.

Mr. Bryan says it is an incorrect report that has gone out over the state to the effect that he was engaged in the practice of law in Washington and would remove his office to Oxford. He was engaged as principal of the Washington public schools and studied law while thus engaged.

Comment on Current Events

(By Victor Elliott)

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Though endowed by the sacred constitution with privileges not accorded other mortals it behoves the members of Congress to remember that "He who is slow to anger is better than the might and he that ruleth his spirit than he who taketh a city." In fact a reef of disaster awaits the legislator whose peppery disposition is ever uppermost. For him legislative prominence is not.

Despite this well-known precept, however, some ardent member of Congress will now and then break the bounds of convention and enter upon the thorny course of personally expressed antagonism which, has already wrecked the political future of many brilliant men. It is the inevitable effluence of a new comer to Washington.

Publicity with a capital P, in the front page columns of the metropolitan newspapers is pleasing. But there are two kinds of publicity. One heralds the conservative achievements of a well-balanced mind. Folks throughout the country are prone to respect such a record. The other blatantly holds up for ridicule or caustic comment the doings of the misguided, who are solely a seeker after notoriety?

There are, for example, to men now in Washington whose efforts to wrest fame from their sojourn in congress have brought them to grief.

One of them is a Kentucky congressman whose surname is the same as that of a certain New Testament character to whom the descriptive adjective "Doubting" is often applied.

Now underneath an exterior which tips the scales at two hundred pounds or more the Kentucky members harbors a great faith in the efficiency of a knife, in settling arguments, in this conviction he might today be basking serenely in the light of good work well done. But the political aspiration, and the qualities which brought him to Congress, plus the combative idea, proved too much for his safe passage.

He is a member of the Judiciary of the House, a body which prides much on Parliamentary procedure, but I can wallow and muss round.

Chaeron began the battle by charging that his mail was being held up.

He followed up his campaign of wallowing and musing around by asking leave to print a few remarks in the Congressional Record, and when congress picked up its several copies next day, they were astonished to find that Chaeron had characterized, described and otherwise designated the dignified Senator from New York, who at one time was secretary of state as that refrigerate culture of the dead.

Then Chaeron proceeded to repudiate the whole Republican party. The Democratic party, by a failure to enthrone over welcoming him into their ranks, brought down another denunciation from the New Yorker, and he scuttled back toward the Republican fold, but the door has not opened very wide up to the present time. So the Congressional Chaeron is now busy playing his political ferry back and forth on the political Styx, which touches first at one shore and then the other.

In the past there have been many such instances and once the shadow of tragedy fell upon congress simply because a congressman, Talby from Kentucky, overlooked the light in which a chronicle of one of his acts might appear in print.

Kincaid, a veteran newspaper man, now, but real young then, printed certain stories. Talby, it is said, had threatened to shoot Kincaid, arming himself, came upon the Congressman as the latter was going up a flight of stairs within the Capitol and shot Talby down. Kincaid was acquitted, but not even this instance has had the very slightest deterrent effect, and members of congress still are and still will be victims of misdirected energy.

SOME ANCIENT TRUST OFFENDERS.

Why not compare monopoly with itself Why not study the trusts of today in the light of the trusts of yesterday?

Step by step the problem will grow simpler. One by one those features of trust practice which we have thought so new will be seen to be old and they will grow less important as we see how our fathers met defeat with them.

Trusts will be found from Hudson Bay to the Bay of Bengal from the Baltic to the Gulf of Mexico. One trust ruled India and controlled the destinies of millions of people; another made the Baltic an inland sea, making treaties and dethroning monarchs as need arose.

Trusts were international monopolies. Of the lesser national or sectional monopolies there were many. Every guild organized in the Middle Ages included some features which we would call monopolistic, while kings bestowed upon individuals the sole right to sell various luxuries or necessities which right was sold or leased to the merchant or the producer.

The story of Joseph in Egypt is one of the prettiest examples of cornering the food supply and exacting a monopoly price therefor of which we have record. We are told in Genesis that the Egyptians gave in exchange for bread their money, their cattle, and finally their liberty and their land which they afterward worked as tenants or serfs of their royal master.

Solomon as a monopolist surpasses any of our modern trust magnates. We know that he levied heavier tolls on the caravans passing over his roads than the most grasping transportation manager of the nineteenth century ever dared to do. We are told in the Book of Kings that he brought linen yarn out of Egypt which the men of business sold at a fixed price. He imported war horses from the same country and sold them at a high price to the princess and warriors of the whole region.

and the consuming public paid. Practically every feature of modern monopoly to which objection is made is another version of an old story told long ago. The methods in the past were much the same as those pursued today, except that they were more vigorous. The little finger of the ancient monopolist was thicker than the loins of his degenerate successor.

HOW "BIG BUSINESS" SINS

There are in the practice of "big business" today a new sin which is fundamental. True is it not yet recognized as a sin but it should be and must be declared a crime. The sin is not an inheritance from the monopolies of a remote past but has grown out of that fierce individualism so characteristic of American life.

This practice, which seemed natural and logical in a simpler social and industrial organization of society has been permitted to continue, though its effects today are wholly bad when viewed in the large. What, then is this policy which has become improper and even wicked with the industrial development of the United States?

Our country and our times are not those of our ancestors and changed conditions have brought different standards in their train. Today many acts, once grave crimes, are considered harmless or even praiseworthy. On the other hand, law and public opinion now condemn many practices formerly ignored.

Editorial of Human Interest

By Arthur Brisbane

Poverty is the Father of Vice, Crime and Failure

There are days when men do their hardest work for money, when they scramble and struggle and strike each other down in the effort to reach wealth. And it is not possible to blame them. They are trying to escape from poverty from a disaster worse than any prairie fire or other physical danger.

Dire poverty is the worst of curses. It combines every kind of suffering, physical, mental, moral and in the end it means either death or degradation.

The great task of humanity is the abolition of poverty. The great benefactors of humanity are the great industrial organizers of this day, because in spite of individual selfishness, they are planning production on a scale that will in the end provide for all.

It is worth while to discuss and to realize what real poverty is. If you can realize its meaning every one must be more anxious to relieve as far as we can, the poverty around us, and especially anxious to work for the social betterment that shall wipe out poverty forever.

Poverty means dirt. The thoughtless and comfortable have a way of saying: "The poor might at least be clean." But cleanliness is a luxury; it demands leisure and peace of mind, as well as bathtub, soap, hot water and good plumbing. The very poor cannot be clean.

Poverty means ignorance and it means ignorance handed down from father to son.

Poverty means drunkenness. The pennies of poor men and poor women pay for more than half the vile whiskey, gin and other poisons that men buy to help them forget.

Poverty and its sister, Ignorance, fill the jails and the insane asylums. Poverty is the mother of disease and it fills the hospitals.

Ten of thousands of consumptives alone are murdered every year by poverty. They are too poor to do that which is required to save their lives. The great men of the world do not emerge from poverty, from squalor.

They come from very modest homes from the log cabin and from the tow-path, as advertised. They come from those whose fathers and mothers and grandfathers and grandmothers had at least enough to eat and enough air to give them pure blood and proper nourishment for their brains.

Poverty destroys ambition, inventive power and the capacity to struggle.

A starved body produces a starved brain. The greatest genius that ever lived could not think better than a child of ten if you deprived him of food for ten days.

What can you expect of the inferior minds—that have been half fed through a life time, or through several generations?

Do you know what made the Revolution and changed conditions in France? It was poverty. Not a single poor man was a leader in that Revolution. Every one of them was well fed, had a well nourished brain—Danton, Robespierre, Marat, Desmoulines, Mirabeau—every one a well fed brain in a vigorous body.

The labor unions and the great strikes, although sometimes unwise and unreasonable, are great blessings to the Nation. They compel the worker to get such pay as will feed himself and his children, giving the Nation well fed brains. The Union is the enemy of poverty and for that reason especially it is an agent for food.

As poverty breeds ignorance, so ignorance breeds poverty. The greatest enemy of poverty is the Public School. Work and vote, therefore, for public school betterment.

Miserable women walk the streets by thousands on cold winter nights—poverty has put them there.

Hundreds of thousands of children are born only to struggle for a few years through a stunted infancy—poverty digs their graves.

For one genius that has fought and conquered in spite of poverty ten thousand have sunk out of sight in the fight against the worst of enemies.

Don't waste time extolling the blessings of poverty—use your energies to diminish poverty's curse and to improve humanity by giving it the full efficiency which freedom from worry alone can give.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

OLD AGE

OLD age is that period of man's existence when his enthusiasm and teeth begin to slip away from him. It is becoming quite an easy matter to pick up bargains in teeth, but at three score and ten a man's enthusiasm for joy rides and the light fantastic fades out faster than the colors in a 6 cent gingham. Old age is largely a state of mind. Its outward symbols are wrinkles and a mild preference for corn meal mush together with a tendency to arise early in the morning and shake down the furnace just when the rest of the family are trying to collect in a little lost sleep. There are two kinds of old age—sweet and sour. The former is the more popular of the two and is generally surrounded by love and a collection of bed slippers. A sour old age gives a great deal of pain to all concerned especially at the time of probating the will. Some people are naturally contrary and arrive at old age several years ahead of their schedule saddening the home with sarcastic comments relative to the quality of the pie crust, while others trip into the 80's like an animated sunbeam, scattering unselfish service and silver threads among the gold along life's pathway. The old age which retains its interest in youth and flowers and politics is the most beautiful thing in the world, bar none, unless it is the brightness of youth as yet unspoiled. The man of fifty who turns into Old Age alley, accompanied by crowfeet and the Nature. A medallion bears a profile has relief of Rosseau's head. sound of a slipping clutch had better start repairs on his digestion or his bank account. Worry hurries more men into old age than length of years. There are a whole lot of people who are laying in supplies for a rainy day for relatives who proceed to blow in what is left on bright green limousines with cigar holder and reading lamp.

I'd Like to Go.

It seems to me I'd like to go Where the bells don't ring or whistles blow Nor clocks don't strike nor gongs don't sound, And I'd have stillness all round— Not real stillness, but just the trees, Low whispering, or the hum of bees, Or brooks, faint babbling over stones In strangely, softly tangled tones; Or maybe the cricket or katydid, Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid, Or just some such sweet sounds as these To fill a tired heart with ease. If 'twern't for sight and sound and smell, I'd like the city pretty well; But when it comes to getting rest I like the country lots the best. Sometimes it seems to me I must Just quit the city's din and dust And get out where the sky is blue— And say now, how does it seem to you? —Eugene Field.

The Spartanburg Herald exults that a Wrightsville hotel is heading its bill with "Brolled Bluefish a la Spartanburg," and explains that Spartanburg's breaking into the menu map is due to three Spartanburg fishermen now at Wrightsville Beach. We are not told whether "Lobsters a la Spartanburg" have been put on yet.—Charlotte Observer.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON

"The Most Available Democrat."

Woodrow Wilson The Answer Woodrow Wilson is the answer to Mr. Roosevelt's third party.

If Governor Wilson is nominated at Baltimore honest and sincere for President progressives will have a candidate for president for whom the can conscientiously vote and through whom they can voice their protest against Republican reaction. There would then be no legitimate field for Mr. Roosevelt's third party, and its members would be confined to Mr. Roosevelt's personal followers.

But if the Democratic convention nominates a reactionary or a weak to this crisis, Mr. Roosevelt's party progressive who does not measure up will immediately become a vital element in American politics. It will come into existence in response to an irresistible demand, and will do practically as much damage to the Democrats as to the Republicans.

To name a so-called conservative at Baltimore—the kind of candidate Tammany and Wall street are scheming for—is merely to divide the conservative vote with Mr. Taft. That vote is not large enough to elect one President, and it would make a pitiful showing if divided between two candidates. To nominate a progressive of the hackpolitician type is to insult the intelligence of thoughtful independents and to convict the Democratic party of false pretenses in the eyes of all independent voters.

The situation at Baltimore is so simple that there can be no excuse for the conventions going astray. The Democratic politicians who are bragging that, with the Republican party split anybody can win, are fools who are drunk with their folly. Anybody cannot win. This is a year in which only somebody can surely win, and he must be a real somebody, not an imitation somebody.

If the Baltimore Convention blunders there will be no such dramatic acts of session as that which took place in Chicago; but tens of thousands of disappointed Democrats will instantly begin to seek means of registering their resentment, and Theodore Roosevelt will naturally be the club that they seize upon.

Let there be no delusions about Mr. Roosevelt's being dead politically. As a third-party candidate appeals to an electorate disgusted with both parties, he would have quite a different status from that which he would hold as a third-term candidate of the Republican party. He would at last be a real independent. He would at last have proved that he had the courage of his conviction. The spectacle of such a man battling singlehanded against the bosses and reactionaries of both parties would make a powerful impression upon the mind of the average American. Even if he were beaten he would be able to take over the discredited Republican machine after election and nominate himself again in 1916.

Let Baltimore remember this Rooseveltism was only scoffed at Chicago. If it is destroyed, it must be destroyed at Baltimore. Every consideration of political intelligence, political strategy and political common sense counsels the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for President. Will the Democratic National Convention arise to its great opportunity?—Ney York World.

Press Comment

The refusal of Governor Hadley to join the Roosevelt bolt is a terrific body blow to that groggy enterprise. At the same time it reveals Hadley as after all a small man in a great crisis. Hadley pretended to be a Roosevelt man. Hadley agrees that Roosevelt was the choice of the Chicago convention. Hadley says that the nomination was stolen from Roosevelt. Hadley is estopped from disputing that the whole structure of the convention was fraudulent and that all its acts were vitiated by fraud.

But Hadley says "that in his opinion the best way to fight the men and methods of the Chicago convention, and to fight for correct principles of government is within the party rather than by leaving it". In brief after a week of stormy denunciation of robbers and thieves, Hadley humbly takes his place as their apologist and excuser. Now he fares forth valiantly to assist in perpetuating the rule of privilege, the rule of the bosses, the rule of Taft.—Columbia State.

With the rush of the wires Saturday night the dispatch of Col. J. C. L. Harris from Chicago was not received by the News and Observer until Sunday morning. It is highly illuminating in parts as have been every one of the colonel's inside stories from the field of battle. He says in one part that the Roosevelt contingents are bitterly disappointed. They felt that with Roosevelt as the candidate they would have had an even chance to carry their state. That feeling is gone now, as they cannot tell now what they can do with three tickets. Roosevelt says he intends to keep his promise to make several speeches in North Carolina. There is no enthusiasm among the Taft people. They feel sure of his overwhelming defeat and their only consolation is the defeat of Roosevelt. This statement is significant. Have the Republicans thought of anything but Taft or Roosevelt since the campaign began? One says: "Only I can save the country". The other says: "You are not going to save it. I am going to save it". In the meantime has there been any talk of principles, of ideas, of ideals?—Raleigh News and Observer.

Thomas Settle of Asheville, is said to be about as happy as District Attorney Holton and Postmaster Reynolds over the Taft victory. The Asheville Citizen says: "The famous Settle smile which the victorious Rooseveltians of the North Carolina convention reported as being somewhat frayed came out in full bloom last Tuesday when the Taft men at Chicago elected Elihu Root as temporary chairman and Saturday afternoon and that night the smile which Mr. Settle wore could be seen several blocks away "Politically speaking," said Mr. Settle, "Theodore Roosevelt is a dead one. His entrance into the ring was a flash in the pan. It served to give him that notoriety which he is so fond of, but as an issue in Republican politics he has been eliminated."—Winston-Salem Sentinel.

One reason for wanting to reduce the colored representation in the National Republican Convention is that they cost too much.—Richmond Journal.

TAFT GROWING FORGETFUL

HIS MESSAGE REACHES HOUSE
TOO LATE

Prosecution Against the Trusts Will Not be Continued for a While, Announces Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President
Taft finished his special message urging congress to pass a joint resolution to provide money to run the government and the many and navy after July 1 and until the apply bills are acted upon just a little too late to get it to the House today before it adjourned

The message now cannot go in until Monday and it looks as if a temporary tie-up of the government business might result. Attorney General Wickerham announced at the White House that all anti-trust activities would be suspended until congress passed the sundry civil appropriation bill or a joint resolution extending the operation of the present sundry civil bill beyond July 1.

"The trusts are trying to get through congress what they can't get through the Department of Justice", he said

After disposing of the Bryan resolution the convention proceeded with nominating speeches for a candidate that a ballot would not be reached until well along toward morning

From Woman's View-Point

WOMANS ..6.. 6..6 ..6.. 66..6....

The lingerie blouse, more or less discredited among fashionable folks for a year or two, seem to be coming to its own again. Directoire collars of the high turn down kind, leaving the throat bare across the front, have been introduced in the lingerie blouse but have little to recommend them, as they quickly wilt, crumple and look disreputable. In silk or satin and occasionally in linen one sees an effective blouse of this type, but on the whole the collar is an uncomfortable, impracticable and unbecoming thing.

The lower rolled collar to which the name Robespierre has been attached is more practicable and becoming and is achieving decided popularity, though it too, unless carefully cut and adjusted, is likely to look wrinkled and mussed in rather short order. It is far more becoming to most women than the Dutch collar or any other collar as low in the back as in the front. The nape of the neck being usually far from beautiful after a certain age has been reached.

Some very good-looking blouses with V fronts have turn-down collars extending around the back and sides. And are held together across the front by a little cravat tie of some sort, thus mitigating the effect an lowness in the front.

There are many delightful blouses in very supple white satin of the charmeuse or meteor sorts, trimmed usually with satin covered buttons or folds and with some kind of attractive lace or tulle collar and cuffs or sleeve frills. Most of these are made with low rolling collars or frills, but may be worn with a guimpe and high collar of tulle and the sleeves are either of the just below the elbow sort with broad opening and turn back cuffs or frills, or are long. A sleeve with cropped armhole seam into which the sleeve is eased just a little, and with a close fitting cuff into which also the body of the sleeve is filled slightly, is often used on the simple white satin blouses and with other blouses of crepe or satin intended for wear with tailored costumes.

Simple blouses of white marquisette or other sheer white made with narrow hems of colors on the collars, cuffs and front plaits are pretty if well made of good material, and a little embroidery in color is effectively used upon some of the white models, agarie embroidery being considered very smart in this connection.

Handmade buttons will play an important part in the decoration of the summer frocks and costumes. An attractive button is made by covering a mold with coarse linen and embroidering it with French knots in Floss Silk. Another form of handmade buttons is that formed by buttonholing twist, which is first wound over a square button mold covered with the Chinese silk.

Very pretty are those buttons which are fashioned of plain taffetas, embroidered in the center with a tiny look particularly well on evening wraps and afternoon frocks. China threads of silk leaves or flowers, being repeated in a piping round the thread mingled with blue. Tiny butchiffon-covered buttons, the chiffon dots in juxtaposition are swaying and tons no larger than small seed pearls are used to decorate fine jabots and silk shirt blouses. Lace stocks are seen trimmed down the center with Taffeta parasols of plain color carry floral and Persian borders, which for the most part are wide ribbon. The border is no longer on the edge, but has moved higher up on the parasol, directly in the center or several inches above the hem, and a narrow border frequently appears several inches below the top.

Sashes are even more popular than ever. The new plaited sash is usually about twelve inches wide and made with narrow inverted side plaits that meet in the center, the outer edges being finished off with a hem.

Florence Fairbanks.

Ladies Afternoon or Home Gown
White corduroy was used for this model, which is also suitable for voile, panama, chambray, pique, linen and other wash fabrics. The skirt has front and back panels, with plaited extensions below knee height. The collar and cuff finish on the waist, and the revers effect are very pleasing. The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 3-4 yards of 40 inch material for the 36 inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Ready to Race at Fort Erie
BUFFALO, N. Y., June 28.—Everything is in readiness at the Fort Erie track for the opening there tomorrow of the first of the two summer meetings to be conducted by the Niagara Racing Association. The stables are well filled with fast horses and the officials predict one of the most meetings in the history of the association. Four big stake events will be run during the seven day's meeting. The most notable of the fixtures is the Canadian Derby, value $3,500 for three-year-old 1-1-4 miles.

Advertising
Is the connecting link between the merchant and customer—it is the merchant's salesman.

Goods snugly resting on a shelf are very much like a miser's gold—all right, but in need of circulating...

A Secret has better chance to travel than the goods of a merchant who will not talk about them all the time. The up-to-date merchant looks to advertising like the announcer to his megaphone. Advertising enlarges the circle of merchant's business, the megaphone strengthens the volume of the voice. Both multiply the chances of a hearing. In grand father's time advertising was not thought of. But in grandfather's time competition was slight. Today it is so keen that a merchant must look out else the edge of competition may separate him from his business. Be sure to tell the people what you have, why you have it, and what they can have it for. This is vital to your business. Also when telling the people use a medium that will reach them with your message of intelligence.

The Scene of the Olympic Games Of 1912 at Stockholm, Sweden

THE Olympic games of 1912 will take place July 6-15 in the stadium at Stockholm, Sweden, specially built for the purpose. The structure, which cost about $250,000, is of gray-violet Swedish brick and undressed granite, built in the form of a horseshoe magnet. Only the arena is open to the sky. The style of the building is Swedish of the early middle ages. The two arms rest against a rocky slope and at each of the two points where the building joins the hill rises a square watch tower. One lap of the running track is 333 meters (1256.56 feet). The prizes of the games are medals and diplomas and in some cases special challenge cups. The national flags of the victors will be hoisted from flagstuffs in the middle of the northern arcade. The photograph shows the procession around the arena by which the formal opening of the stadium was celebrated.

New Drug that Quickly Removes These Homely Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as a new drug, othine—double strength, has been discovered that positively removes these homely spots.

Simply get one ounce of othine—double strength, from any first class druggist and apply a little of it at night and in the morning you will see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

List Your Taxes—Last Call.

The same penalty is provided for the citizens of the county liable for poll tax. The penalties prescribed by law will be enforced.

Rescuer Succumbs After a Heroic Act

WILMINGTON June 27.—John Quince Meyers son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Meyers, one of the most popular young men in this city, died on Wrightsville Beach early this evening probably from an attack of heat failure, brought on by exhaustion following his struggles in saving Miss Isabel Williams from drowning in the surf, in front of the Carolina Yacht club

Dr. R. B. Seen and Dr. J. W. Hooper, surgeons in charge of the James Walker hospital, worked for nearly an hour and a half in an effort to resuscitate Mr. Meyers, but it was seen that nothing could be done. From the time he was brought from the water unconscious, not a pulse beat was noticeable, and it is thought the young man died in the water or soon after being brought out.

The nomination of Taft will help the Democrats in a number of counties in the state to win out. In close counties the Republicans in great numbers are so mad with Taft that they will not vote at all.—Greensboro Record.
