TAR RIVER YIELDS BODIES

The Remains of The Three Drowned
Boys Interred

ALL BODIES FOUND YESTERDAY

Families of Unfortunate Youths Prostrated by Grief. Crowds Gather on Sunday Near Spot Where Tragedy Occured Friday

On Sunday was enacted the final scene of the tragedy of Friday afternoon in which three boys, Theodore and Elbert Tucker, sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Tucker and Robert Hardee, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hardee, lost their lives. It was on that day the waters of Tar river yielded their bodies to the hands of relatives and friends to be transferred sorrowfully into the bosom of mother earth. Heart rending indeed was the grief of the parents and families of the dead boys when their bodies were conveyed home and hundreds who had gathered mourned in sympathy with them. The particulars of the drowning of these three boys, as far as could be told, though just how they were drowned may never be known, have already been published. The two Tucker boys and another brother, Milton, and Robert Hardee, their cousin who was visiting them, left Mr. Tucker's house about one o'clock and went to the river about a mile distant, fishing. Milton got tired of the fishing about three o'clock and returned home, leaving the other boys at the river. They failed to come home as dark drew near and Mr. Tucker sent Milton back to the river to call them. When he reached the river he found only their clothes piled on the river bank and saw the canoe in which he left them fishing pulled up on a sand bar with the tackle all in it. The supposition is they left the boat, undressed on the river bank, went in swimming and in some way were all drowned.

The alarm was given and a large crowd gathered to begin a search for the bodies. This was kept up through Friday night, all day Saturday and through Saturday night. Some dragged the river, others walked the banks and watched the stream and still others in gas boats patrolled back and forth for several miles below the scene, hoping to find the bodies. Saturday afternoon several ticks of dynamite were exploded where the drowning must have occurred, in the hope that it would dislodge the bodies and cause them to rise to the surface, but this accomplished nothing.

Early Sunday morning the first reward came to the faithful efforts of the searchers, who had been at their task about forty hours through two nights and a day, when the body of Robert Hardee floated upon the water near the scene of the drowning. A few hours later the patrol boats found the bodies of both the Tucker boys, one of them a mile and the other about two miles down the river.

The burial of the two Tucker boys took place together Sunday afternoon in the Tucker grave yard near Salem church, and about the same hour Robert Hardee was buried in the grave yard near Red Banks church. The attendance at both funerals was very large.

Lawn Fete To-morrow Night

Everything is ready for the lawn fete to be given tomorrow night in Mrs. Ficklin's beautiful lawn. The Ladies of the End of the Century Club and St. Pauls Guild have left nothing undone to insure an evening's pleasure and from the program we gather that everything presented is sure to appeal. Many children are to take place in this fete and for their sakes we ask all those that intend going to be sure and be there at 8:30 sharp, as otherwise the little ones would have to stay up later than it is their custom. Tickets are already on sale as advertised in another part of the paper. When a man has no more sense than to ask a girl for a kiss she is perfectly justified in refusing him.

STILL HUNTING GIRLS' SLAYER

New York "Braves" Baffled by Evidence

LONG INVESTIGATION USELESS

Ex-Convict Who Lived But Five Feet From Apartment Where Horrible Crime Was Committed, Disappears From Gotham

NEW YORK, July 14.—Inspector Hughes, chief of the central office, took charge yesterday of the hunt for the murdered of Julia Connors.

The failure of Captain Rice, of the Bronx detective bureau, to take a step forward after seven days of investigating and the fact that Price and his men let Nathan Swartz slip through their hands, has not pleased Inspector Hughes, and it was said last night that some pretty warm messages had passed between police headquarters and the Bronx detective bureau.

Young Swartz, the ex-convict and hanger on at prizefighters' camps, who lived in an apartment at 3870 Third avenue, which was separated only by a five foot airshaft from the apartment at 3968, where the bathtub stained with the little girl's blood was found, has disappeared.

Last night 6,500 uniformed policemen, the night force, in addition to 50 plain clothes men specially detailed were searching for him and detectives had been sent also to Jersey City and Newark. In addition the police of every important city in the country have been supplied with a description of the stocky, dark faced youth.

Inspector Hughes' men expect that the inactivity of Price's squad will be rectified within 48 hours, because young Swartz had no money when he quarreled with his mother and left home last Sunday morning. He could have no source of supply, the police believe, except fourth rate prizefighters and other acquaintances of this character.

His family insisted yesterday that they had no knowledge whatever of his whereabouts, that they were astonished that he hadn't appeared to answer questions the detectives want to ask and that they will give him up if he comes to any of them.

Admitting now that their investigation of the murder is centered for the time being on Nathan Swartz, alias Joe Nathan, the Bronx detectives had no explanation ready as to why they took no interest in Swartz's movements early in the week. Angry over the complaints that have arisen in the neighborhood of the Connors home that the police have bungled the whole business, Captain Price declines to discuss the case except to say that 20 men lost valuable time because of the little Molz girl's remarkable fabrications.

On Sunday, July 7, when Julia's body was found in the vacant lot just under the windows of the Swartz apartment the detectives professed to make a house to house inquiry, asking every family as to who was missing. On that day and for the next few days the street talk had to do with Nathan Swartz, who had served 18 months for an assault on a little girl and was again gone from home under circumstances that aroused comment.

It was known that he had not been at home on the night of Saturday, July 6, and that he had disappeared the following morning after failing to get oney from his family. But Price apparently disregarded these suggestions and his men spent most of their time picking up vagrants and defectives and listening to the incoherences of these unfortunates.

Fertilizer Manufacturers Meet
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 15.—Fertilizer manufacturers and members of the allied trades from many parts of the country met in Atlantic City today for the nineteenth annual convention of the National Fertilizer Association. In connection with the gathering which will continue in session the greater part of the week, there is an elaborate exhibition of fertilizer machinery.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON, INSURGENT SON OF A STANDPATTER

ALMOST if not quite the most insurrectionary of the insurgents is Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California. Elected in 1910 by a plurality of about 50,000, he has been a staunch exponent of progressive principles, was one of the hardest fighters at Chicago in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt and has undertaken with the ex-president the task of forming a new party organization. He has frequently been mentioned as a possible running mate for the colonel. At the same primaries at which the governor's nomination by the Republican party was assured his father, Grove L., a strong conservative, was defeated for re-election to the state legislature.

No Successor to Lorimer as Yet.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 14.—Barely had the news of the unseating of William Lorimer from the United States senate reached this city than all sorts of speculation was indulged in regarding the action to be taken in filling the vacancy. Governor Deneen, who holds the key to the situation through the power vested in him to name a successor, refused to talk.

It is reported as reasonably certain that Governor Deneen will name a successor to Lorimer. Among those mentioned as possibilities, all close political friends of Governor Deneen are: Roy O. West, newly elected member of the Republican national committee and B. B. A. Eckart, a Chicago miller. Friends of former Senator Albert J. Hopkins who received the advisory vote at the primary preceding the Lorimer election, are urging that he be appointed.

Governor Deneen has issued a statement in which he says: "I am not surprised at the vote in the senate. The facts were too plain for successful controversy. No one could explain on any reasonable and honest theory why 53 Democrats should vote for Mr. Lorimer for senator, as they did, or why four Democrats should confess to receiving money for having voted for him. Nor could any one disassociate this vote from the by-partisan organization of the assembly or the jackpot. "The effort to meet these incontrovertible facts followed the course pursued by the defense in desperate cases in our criminal courts and the scandals which have followed the investigations of this case through the grand juries and criminal courts have had their climax in the conspiracy to ruin the reputation of Clarence S. Funk.

"The public I think knows in a general way the enormous influences which had to do with the election of Mr. Lorimer, with the defense in the criminal courts and before the invest-

William McCombs Wilson's Choice

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 14.—Indications at Sea Girt tonight, gathered from party leaders with whom Governor Wilson has been in constant consultation recently, are that William F. McCombs of New York, is his choice for chairman of the Democratic national committee; William G. Adoo of New Jersey, builder of the Hudson tunnels, or Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York, for vice-chairman and Joseph E. Davis, national committeeman from Wisconsin, for secretary.

These views and the following have been gleaned from a canvass of the governor's political friends. As to the contents of the message which Robert S. Hedspeith, Governor Wilson's spokesman, is conveying to the national committee at Chicago for its action tomorrow, Governor Wilson has divulged no word. On the contrary, he has consistently declined to speak for publication on that subject. His objection he bases on the fact that he is acting by courtesy of the national committee in placing his preferences before it. To say what the message would contain in any particular, the governor asserted, would be a distinct violation of that courtesy.

Game at Parmele

Parmele won the game from Winterville Saturday by a score of 5 to 4. It was a very interesting game. Parmele's victory was a surprise to the Winterville fans. THIRTEEN DIE R. R. WRECK

Woman in Block Tower Claims Innocence

BLOCK WAS AGAINST TRAINS

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Train Jumps Track in Western Springs, Chicago Suburb, and Fifteen Perish. A Score Injured

Chicago, July 14.—Thirteen persons were killed and 15 to 20 more were injured in a wreck on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at Western Springs, a suburb of Chicago, at 6:30 a. m. today.

Coming through a fog with supposedly clear track ahead train No. 8, a fast mail, ran at full speed into the rear of train No. 2, known as the Overland express from Denver, which was standing still on the track, telescoping two of the Overlands pullman cars.

Railroad officials refused to fix the blame until after the wreck had been investigated thoroughly. Mr. F. A. Wilcox, who was in charge of the tower from which the block signals were controlled, said she was certain the block was thrown against both trains. She collapsed after the accident and still is in a nervous condition. The dead:

- Francis A. Barclay, 20 years old, Billings, Mont.
- George Bronson, 55 years old, Galesburg, Ill., engineer train No. 8.
- B. B. Bunch, 30 years old, Chicago, negro porter of pullman car No. 2.
- Mrs. C. M. Hart, wife of a physician at Canton, O.
- Mrs. E. G. Pohlmann, San Francisco.
- M. E. Stein, 40 years old, Chicago.
- G. W. Tuber, 40 years old, Laeey, Iowa.
- Three unidentified women.
- Two unidentified girls.
- One unidentified boy.

All of the dead except Bronson were taken from the rear coach of the Denver train. The engine of No. 8 plowed through this car halving it and crushing out the lives of helpless passengers, many of whom were still in their berths, on to the second coach the engine then sped. Half way through the car it veered to the left, derailling the sleeper. The engine was entirely stripped when it stopped.

Fire, starting from the gas lights, in the sleepers, then broke out. Many victims, pinioned down by the heavy timbers and iron pleaded for death. Members of the fire department of Western Springs and LaGrange were in the scene within a few minutes after the wreck occurred and they put out the fire with lines of hose.

Ghouls are believed to have robbed the dead before they reached the morgue. More than a dozen large diamond sets are missing from jewelry and although most of the dead appeared to have been persons in comfortable circumstances a dime was the largest sum of money found on any of the bodies.

Coroner Hoffman early in the afternoon ordered all of the bodies embalmed immediately and impaneled a jury to investigate the wreck.

In a little room above a business house in LaGrange, Mrs. Wilcox hid herself from the visitors throughout the greater part of the day. The shades were drawn and she was trying to collect her thoughts. Finally she said:

"After thinking the whole affair over I have decided that I was not in any way to blame for the accident. I know that the blocks were set against the train. It was not I that erred.

"Three trains instead of two passed the signals in violation of all rules, although it might have been that the engineers did not see the board.

"First I heard No. 4 train in no way connected with the wreck, pass. Then in a few inutes No. 2 came by. I thought something was wrong and I began to try to think of something to do to stop the trains from running by the board. But before I could get my wits together No. 8 had sped by. The crash followed."

It takes a silly woman to trust a man who would get credit at a 3-cent head of cabbage at the corner grocery.

GOV. COL. BLEASE IN HOT WATER

South Carolina Executive Accused of Grafting

RATE FOR GRANTING PARDONS

William J. Burns, the Atlantic City and McNamara Trials Famous Detective Said to Have Strong Evidence Against Blease

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 13.—Sensational testimony charging Governor Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, with official corruption, was introduced before the dispensary investigating committee of that state at today's hearing. A. S. Reed, a Burns detective, and Thomas B. Felder, the Atlanta attorney, were the principal witnesses.

So unexpected was the character of the evidence that after the hearing was adjourned, Chairman H. B. Carlisle, of the committee, asserted that the newly adduced charges against the South Carolina governor would be thoroughly sifted.

Detective Reed's testimony included records taken with a telephonic device relative to negotiations for the purchase of a convict's pardon from the South Carolina penitentiary. The records, Reed testified, were of conversations between the detectives of Sam J. Nicholls, a Spartanburg attorney, reputed to be a go-between for Governor Blease.

Reed testified James Johnson, a yeggman with several aliases, serving a ten year sentence in the penitentiary for robbing a safe of $8,000, was the convict about whom the negotiations were conducted.

After making arrangements with Johnson, according to the detectives testimony, he called upon Nicholls and informed the latter that the convict was heir to an estate, but could not become a beneficiary by securing his pardon.

The detectives testified that Nicholls was interested and the offer agreed to pay the attorney a handsome fee. As an evidence of good faith, the detective stated that he gave Nicholls a check for $4,500 duly endorsed.

Reed then read records taken by the telephonic device of conversations he held with Nichols in Spartanburg at the New Willard hotel in Washington on June 26, 1912. According to the records, Nichols told of his influence with Governor Blease and named the terms upon which he would secure the release of the convict. The amount was tentatively fixed at $10,000 or $15,000. The record as read showed that Nichols repeatedly referred to the amount of the proceeds which would go to Gov. Blease for signing the pardon. On two occasions this sum was stated at $5,000. According to the record Nichols was to receive $5,000 and his law partner, C. P. Sims, $5,000.

A number of telegrams were introduced in evidence from Nichols to Reed, one of which was to the effect that Nichols had left Spartanburg to confer with Blease about the pardon.

When Reed had concluded, Thomas B. Felder testified that a certain amount of money had been put on deposit with the understanding that it was to be released to Nicholls' order as soon as Reed secured a cipher telegram from Nichols stating that the convict had been pardoned.

"We know," testified Mr. Felder, "that Nichols left Spartanburg to confer with Gov. Blease, that he saw Mr. Blease at Brnwell Friday and was closeted with the governor at Blackville Friday night. We have been unable to locate Nichols today, however."

Mystery surrounding the adjournment of the hearing from this morning until this afternoon was cleared up by Mr. Felder on the witness stand. He stated that he expected Governor Blease to sign Johnson's pardon during that time, and for that reason the postponement was made.

Will Leave This Evening

The Boy Scouts will leave at six o'clock this afternoon for their camping trip, instead of going tomorrow morning as first intended. About thirty will be in the party and they are expecting a great time. They will camp at Runby Hammock, about 4 miles from Atlantic and 30 miles above Beaufort.

Our Special Washington Letter COMMENT ON CURRENT EVENTS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—There is a lot of talk nowadays about unit rule and there is also a lot of talk about the failure of the Illinois voters to return Shelby Cullom to the United States Senate. While at first glance this rule and this man seem to be near relatives than cabbages and kings, they have so close a connection that the tale of how it all happened is one well worth reciting.

In 1876 there was held in the city of Cincinnati a Republican National Convention. Shelby Cullom and Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois were delegates to that convention. It was there the unit rule, the rule of voting by states as a whole for the candidate for whom a majority vote is cast in the state, was first introduced.

About eleven o'clock on Saturday morning Robert Ingersoll arose and placed James G. Blaine in nomination for the Presidency.

Then came another nomination including that of Rutherford B. Hay.

The nomination speeches continued throughout the Saturday. It was hot one, one of the hottest days of the season; in fact, newspaper weather stories for years spoke of the current weather as the hottest since that convention day. There was no balloting on Saturday afternoon.

Dusk came on the lights were called for. There was a bustling about and then the chairman announced he would entertain a motion to adjourn and explained this surprising step by saying that the gas pipes had been out and sufficiently managed to prevent their holding a night session. The Hayes men alleged at the time that Blaine men had cut the gas pipes to prevent the Hayes storm from gathering that night.

On Sunday the following day, the heat continued and that afternoon, the news came from Washington that James G. Blaine had fallen under a sunstroke and was not expected to live. Monday morning the convention opened with the wind taken out of the Blaine men's sails. The balloting began.

Edward McPherson, before the convention and after it, Clerk of the House of Representatives, was both temporary and permanent chairman of the convention.

On the first ballot the states voted under the unit rule, or at least a great many of them did. But four Illinois delegates under the leadership of Lawrence Y. Sherman, acted in direct opposition to Shelby Cullom, the head of the Illinois delegation, bolted the unit rule and voted four in favor of Blaine.

Cullom took the matter up with the chair, and asked that the vote be thrown out. A stiff argument ensued. Finally Chairman McPherson sustained the insurgent Sherman and his associates and held the four ballots cast for Blaine valid. He explained that the unit rule under the circumstances was oppressive. A certain section of the states was radically opposed to the instruction of the unit, and the vote of the state was won in the state convention by the slightest majority.

Hayes was nominated and Cullom lost his fight. But he was strong in his state and Sherman outlawry was formed on by the political bosses of Illinois. Cullom went to the Senate a few years later and has been there ever since.

But Lawrence Y. Sherman and the unit rule, which after that ruling went out of vogue in Republican National conventions have come to the surface in company.

There was a Chicago newspaper which took up Sherman's fight after the 76 convention and has been carrying it ever since. Sherman and this paper have been fighting through the intervening twenty-nine years and his election this spring to succeed the man he fought in that early political conflict, is the direction of the taking of sides on the unit rule issue in the Cincinnati convention.

FOR THE FARMERS
From HOME AND FARM

TRUST NOT MOTHBALLS ONLY
Clothing and Furs Should be Packed So That Moths Cannot Get In
Many housekeepers have the mistaken idea that camphor, mothballs, or similar preparations, will "kill" moths, or prevent their ravages, and that clothes packed away with plenty mothballs are safe. Many housekeepers have learned that this is a mistake, after losing perhaps valuable garments.

The fact of the matter is that mothballs, camphor, cedar, etc. are not moth killers, but only moth repellents, that is: Clean clothes free from moth eggs, properly packed away with moth repellents, will not attract the adult moths.

The Household editor of Farm and Home says: The proper way to pack away woolen winter clothes is first to air and brush thoroughly, to make sure no moth eggs have found lodgment in them. They may be packed in any receptacle, as long as it is free from cracks. Line with seral thickness of newspaper, and pack away clothes with layers of newspaper between and camphor or mothballs wrapped in paper. Tuck each layer of newspaper in well around the clothes—newspaper (or rather, the printers ink) is another moth repellent. Have the top layer paper, put the cover on, and seal by pasting paper over the cracks.

That is all there is to do: Putting the clothes away in a clean, moth-free state, and sealing the up so no moth can possibly get in. Furs can be packed and securely sealed in heavy paper bags—using two bags, one within another each carefully sealed—and they will be perfectly safe.

Two Boxes Born Again
A handsome piece of furniture can be made out of a few store boxes, a sash curtain and a little stain and vanish. Julia V. M. Smith describes in Farm and Home how her father made her a combination writing desk with a combination writing desk and a bookcase.

First he took one of the boxes and soothed it on all sides. Then he fitted shelves into it. A smaller box was smoothed off in the same manner as the first, and its sides were cut off at an angle, so as to form the slanting sides of the desk. This box was nailed on top of the first. It was divided into compartments by the pting in of little shelves.

The desk cover was a whole board and was fastened to the lower part of the desk with hinges, so that it might be closed when not in use. When the cover is open it rest upon two sticks which slide in and out of two cases made for them, placed at the joining of the two boxes.

Fasteners such as are used for ordinary sash curtains were used to hold up the brass-rod upon which the curtain was hung. The whole desk was given a coat of walnut stain and a pretty curtain was provided. The result was a very attractive and convenient piece of furniture, at a minimum cost with little labor.

Cheap Cleaner
A bicycle pump is a good substitute for a vacuum cleaner in getting dust from nooks and crannies in marble statuary, plaster casts, carved furniture or any crevices where it may lurk in spite of dust cloth and brush. Run the open end of the rubber tubing over the surface to be dusted, while working the pump vigorously with the foot. A soft dust cloth will do the rest.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Grapes too Good for Rose-Bugs
The rose chafer does much injury to grapes, often destroying the entire crop soon after blossoming. In small gardens the vines may be protected by covering with mosquito netting. Where this is impracticable spraying will hold them in check. Farm and Home says the New York experiment station has had excellent success in using eight pounds arsenate of lead and two gallons of molasses with 100 gallons water. Spray should be applied as soon as the rose bugs appear. For the grape root worm spray twice, the first spraying about one week after the first beetles appears and the second spraying ten days later.

For State Senate
Having been endorsed by the anti-riding element of the Democratic party, I announce myself a candidate for the State Senate, subject to the action of a voting primary of the Democratic party under the plan of organization. Upon the questions confronting the people I stand upon the following platform of principles:

1. No extension of the stock law except by a vote of the people in the territory effected.
2. The repeal of the stock law legislation of the last legislature.
3. The improvement of the public oads without bond issues.
4. Against any bond issue in Pitt county for next two years except in towns—and then only by vote of the people effected.
5. Improvement of the county home.
6. A legalized primary for North Carolina.

If you desire the above principles upheld, I most earnestly solicit your votes.

GOVERNMENT AND BANKING

The control of money is and always has been a function of the sovereign power. Coinage of money, the selection of the unit of the monetary system; its weight and fineness, the various denominations of coins and money, the regulation of alloy and seigniorage, the kind of metal out of which the standard and subsidiary coins shall be made, are all attributes of sovereignty.

What, then, is the relation of the sovereign power to bank checks—the currency of commerce?

Up to this time the amount and forms of the deposit currency have been left to the regulation of the laws of trade and experience. Modern business has created a satisfactory medium of exchange so connected with private operations that the function of its issue could not be undertaken by government.

It may be a startling conclusion to those who live in the past and who suppose that our exchanges of commodities are still effected only by the transfer of some form of so-called money, that apart from lawful money, preferably gold or gold certificates required as bank reserves) the notes issued by banks are demand obligations serving fundamentally the same end in completing the process of making a loan as a deposit account.

The duty of the government is fully discharged when it has prescribed general provisions for the common interest. In a general way it may determine the purpose for which bank notes may be used, how far they may be made payable in liquidating contracts or debts, in what money may be redeemable, how fraud and forgery may be prevented and punished and it may provide for inspections and the examination of commercial paper or other assets upon which the value of the deposit currency or the bank notes must always depend.

It is no function of the government to provide food for the people, but it can supervise methods of production and sale so as to secure plenty of food. So it cannot provide capital for the people, or for any of them, but it can supervise the methods by which credit institutions loan capital to the public.

THE TWO GREENVILLES

"Greenville, S. C., readily gets confused with Greenville, N. C." says The Charlotte Observer. It does in The Observer. The Landmark had had it in mind to ask The Observer news editor to attach S. C. to the date line of the Palmetto town and save Observer readers the trouble of guessing which Greenville it is.—Statesville Landmark.

We had been thinking that way, too. The Observer seems to have been overlooking the fact that there is a Greenville, N. C., and that it is the biggest and best place of its size on the map.

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia legislature designed to prohibit the marriage of all persons who are habitual users of intoxicating liquors or stimulating drugs; also prohibit the marriage of persons afflicted with a transmissible or inherited disease. It also provides for a commission to investigate all applicants for marriage licenses.

Teddy Bull Moose is taking great comfort out of a statement of Marion Butler that he (Butler) was going to carry North Carolina for him (Roosevelt). If he but knew it, the people of North Carolina would want no other reason for voting against him than the fact that Butler is for him. The man who wants to get Jonahed sure enough can do so by getting Marion Butler to take the stump in his behalf.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, says that if conditions in the United States change as much in the next thirty years as in the last thirty, the country will face a condition similar to that of France during the French revolution. This is not the first prediction that the United States would some day be rent asunder.

Had you noticed how seldom in recent months a house for rent advertisement has appeared in The Reflector. The fact is there is not often one for rent. It is a good indication that the population of the town is constantly growing.

Now that the date for the county primary has been set, there will be a month of real activity among the candidates.

Senator Lorimer lost his seat by a vote of 56 to 26. His three days' speech in his own defense did not carry much influence.

Editorial of Human Interest

THERE SHOULD BE A MONUMENT TO TIME

Part I
Time has no real existence. Yet time is man's most precious possession.

Time is defined as a "succession of events". What we call an hour means certain ovements in the machinery of a watch. What we call a day means one revolution of the earth upon its axis, the turning of its surface toward the light of the sun. Time is the most mysterious factor in our lives and thoughts. It never had a beginning, it can not possibly have an end.

Time only exists for us in the actual moment in which we live. Yet our thoughts are in the time of past and future and hardly ever on the actual reality of the moment.

With the ceasing of our own consciousness time ceases, so far as we are concerned. If you go to sleep soundly, you can not tell when you awake whether you have slept a minute or an hour. Time stops when you cease to observe the succession of events. In dying we duplicate on a big and prolonged scale our little daily sleeps in life.

If a man were told that after death his soul would not regain consciousness for a thousand millions of years, he would worry and complain of the long time. But it would make no difference to him whether the time were a thousand millions of years or forty seconds—time would not exist for him; he would not know the difference.

There is little doubt that to the ephemeridae, creatures that live but for a day, that day must seem as long as our century, for in their life of incessant activity and agitation every second is a long space. And there is no doubt that to the giant turtles of the Galapagos Islands, heavy monsters that live ten centuries or longer, a week is a fraction of time far less important than an hour to us.

Time is time and its divisions. Man manufactures a watch capable of registering a fraction of a second. And in the force called light we have a power that can go seven times around the world in one second.

We estimate our time by years. It takes one year for our little earth to go round the sun. And during that year it turns three hundred and sixty-five times on its own axis. While the entire body of our earth flies through space, accompanying the sun on its journey, the northern extremity of our planet has a separate circular motion of its own. This circular motion takes twenty-seven thousand years to complete one circle and as it moves in this inconceivably slow journey our pole selects for us and points out the various suns which in turn we call the North Star.

We have written thus much to fix attention of readers on the question of time. Now, does it affect you? Time represents your only chance, your only wealth, your only possibility for achieving anything.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON

"The Most Available Democrat."

Wilson Will Win

The Observer never before read the big Northern papers with quite so much delight. "Aloft to a man" predict his election. The Philadelphia Record openly says that Wilson will be the next president, and it rejoices to say so. The New York Times, The New York World and The New York Evening Post are Wilson shouters. The staid old New York Tribune gets around saying too much in praise of Wilson by diverting attention into an important direction—the effective Wilson nomination will have upon the fortunes of Colonel Roosevelt. The Tribune thinks the victory of the progressive at Baltimore knocks the props from under the projectors of the third party movement. It holds that there is not room enough for two radical candidates in the field. "There will be no defection of Bryan Democrats from Wilson," it argues, "and as the candidate of a third party Colonel Roosevelt would be limited to the role of a mere faction leader trying to break down the Republican organization in some States, while hoping to seize and use it in the others." The Tribune thinks there is nothing for Roosevelt to do but to give up. There would then follow "a resumption of normal party activities and a contest all along the line between Mr. Taft as a Progressive Republican and Governor Wilson as a more or less radical Democrat." It is easy to conjecture what would be the result of such contest. Taft would be the worst defeated Republican who ever ran for the presidency. But even should Roosevelt refuse to pull out, we've got 'em. The Democrats should win with Wilson even where the Republican camp not converted into a political shambles. Wilson's success is assured because, ha Te Philadelphia Record proclaims, "no party ever ominated a candidate for president more free to enter the presidency as the impartial representatives of the whole people."

Press Comment

Coming to the Front

The man who has not seen welcome recently has a surprise in store for him. This hustling little village on the Southbound is coming to the front and is coming fast. There are new houses going up and a fine church building is about completed.—Lexington Dispatch.

New Church for Durham

Work has begun upon the new Methodist church to be erected at Lakewood Park, Durham, and son the people of this section of the city will have a very pretty church.—Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Will Whistle in Vain

The statement comes from Oyster Bay that the Colonel's plans to make a big campaign and that he will make a desperate effort to break the solid south. The colonel believes, so he says tat he has good fighting chances in North Carolina, Texas, Georgia and Louisiana and see other Southern states are debatable. The colonel is simply whistling to keep up his courage.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Keep at it in Vain.

The town is to install waterwrks. The next thing we need is a good building and loan association. After we get that, we want to go after more factories. We must have something to give people employment. There can never be a town without something to attract attention. We have all the things needed now except the work and the means to enable the worker to own his home. Let us go after these.—Moore county news.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

HORATIUS AT THE BRIDGE

DUBLIUS HORATIUS was a Roman hero who broke into the headlines about 507 B. C., by standing off 30,000 invaders with a broadsword and soe of Lord Macaulay's best poetry. It seems that a Swedish gentleman named Lars Porsena, who invented the deadly weapon known as the Etruscan vase, had organized the militia and was about to desiccate what was left of the Roman empire. When Horatius heard of Mr. Porsena's intentions he became suffused with patriotism and talked in short meter poetry for several minutes, after which he suggested that the bridge across the Tiber river be removed while he and a couple of sub-patriots stood on the other side and decorated the right of way with Etruscan gore. This proposition was adopted by a unanimous vote and Horatius and his comrades passed over and threw themselves and some more poetry into the breach. A number of the Etruscan militia came down the pass and made several earnest efforts to pulverize Horatius before the bridge fell in. Horatius gave them all a cordial welcome and soon had the pass choked with large quantities of the deceased foe. Every time he would run his sword through somebody with whom he was not personally acquainted he would give vent to four lines of hectic verse, which Lord Macaulay afterward upholstered and sold in book form. It must have been an inspiring sight to have seen Horatius slaying the Etruscan army with one hand and hurling strophes, dactyls and impromptu at them with the other. Finally, after Horatius had caused one of Porsena's non-commissioned officers to blow up with considerable emphasis, the bridge sank into the rushing Tiber, carrying with it the two companions of Horatius who knew when they had had enough. This was the sublime moment in Horatius' career. Facing the foe with calm courage and a gaping wound in his collarbone, he turned, delivered an original poem in a haughty tone of voice, and plunging into the Tiber swam across in 9 4-5 seconds. Thus was Rome saved by a union of poetry and pluck, qualities which are not often fused in the same individual.

Favorte Fiction.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)
Gentlemen, in this contest the people are expecting us to act like patriots.
Personally, I care nothing for the result of this election, but the very foundation of our government are threatened.
Feeling as I do, the highest respect for those with us on questions of policy.

Evangelistic Meeting

A series of Evangelistic services began in Delphia Moye chapel, July the 8th inst., and continued until the evening of the 14th. The services were very interesting but the congregations were much fewer in number than they should have been. One united with the church and several others expressed determination to do so as soon as they can obtain letters of dismission from the churches in places from which they have removed. All Free Will Baptists who have moved to Greenville owe it to themselves and the cause, to unite with the church here the first opportunity and aid in making it more efficient and useful. Rev. R. V. Lancaster of the Presbyterian church, Eld C. B. Jones from the, m. e. t. s. and Eld Philip Woodard and several students from the Training school, two of them studying for the ministry, gave the pastor, Thomas E. Peden, D. D., valuable aid in the meeting. A weekly cottage prayer meeting for every Wednesday night was established and arrangements made to build a house of worship on the lot owned by the congregation, on Croatan street. Between three and four hundred dollars are already in the hands of the the trustees with which to begin the work. It is believed that this meeting is of permanent moral, spiritual and financial value to the church and community.

Prof Branes at the Training School

Prof. Harold Barnes, of Girard College, Philadelphia, who is delivering a series of lectures to the summer students at the Training school, will tonight depart from the serious subject which has been engaging him lately and will deliver tonight in the auditorium of the school an address on the Philosophy of Laughter. Those of us who were fortunate enough to hear some time ago discourse on the Region of the Loop Hole Country, remember with pleasure the evening spent listening to him. Prof. Barnes can be as funny and entertaining as anybody we ever heard speak from a platform and no doubt tonight he will be heard at his best.

T. L. Williams For Legislature

Among the cards of candidate for the various county offices that are published in The Reflector appears today the announcement of T. L. Williams as a candidate for the House of Representatives. Mr. Williams is a son of the late Senator Willis R. Williams of Falkland township, who was a representative from Pitt county for two years and senator for twelve years, so it will be seen that in addition to his own sterling qualities he comes of legislative stock, some of his ancestors before his father also having filled similar positions. He is in every way qualified to make the county a good representative.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Hines-Murphrey Company, of Greenville, North Carolina, composed of Z. V. Murphrey and James M. Hines, has this day dissolved by mutual consent. James M. STATE AND COUNTY NEWS

WINTERVILLE, July 13.—After spending sometime with friends and relatives near Darden, Martin county, Mrs. J. H. C. Dixon returned Wednesday. Miss Lizzie Cox of Cox's Mill, who is now attending the Training school at Greenville, was visiting Misses Jeannette and Olivia Cox on last evening and returned this morning. The Fargo hog cholera remedy is guaranteed to cure any case of cholera. You will find a full supply at A. W. Ange and Co. One bottle will convince any one of its excellency as well as the disease. J. F. Stokes, of Greenville, was in our city Thursday talking insurance. While making tobacco flues for the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company, Mr. John Cooper accidentally got a piece of steel lodged in his eye which caused him severe pain. He made a trip to Knston yesterday for the purpose of consulting a specialist. Rubber roofing guaranteed for a period of ten years without painting, for sale by Harrington, Barber and Company. Through the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McGlohon the Methodist and Episcopal Sunday School spent a most delightful day yesterday in the grove around his tobacco barns. Dinner was plentiful and some to spare for they gathered up several baskets full; after all present had satisfied their hunger with the good foods that were spread. Swings were inconstant use and the cream at 4 p. m. was exhilarating. A vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. McGlohon for the pleasant day and their spirit of making life pleasant for others was appreciated by everyone. For shoes and hats, any size and any kind call on Harrington, Barber and Company. Mr. Fred Mallord of Wilmington is visiting here this week. Rev. and Mrs. Budgers of Ayden were here a short while yesterday. Miss Sac Butt of Bonnerston is visiting Miss Olivia Cox this week. A. W. Ange and Company have moved their furniture department into the building formerly occupied by the Bank of Winterville. A car load of furniture just arrived. Miss Lottie Bell Aldridge of Ayden is spending a few days with Miss Olivia Cox.

Must Believe It

When Well-Known Greenville People Tell It So Plainly When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Greenville the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every sufferer of kidney backache and every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following: Mrs. L. Mangum, 416 Dickison ave., Greenville N. C. says: "Doan's kidney pills are by no means a new remedy to me. I have used them on different occasions and have found that they are a preparation of great merit. Kidney complaint and backache made me miserable and it was not until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the John L. Wooten Drug Co., that I found relief. Recently I again got a supply of this remedy and it helped me as promptly and effectively as before." For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name--Doan's--and take no other.

Congratulations to:

Marie Tepest, well known actress, 46 years old today. Rev. Thomas Bowman, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, 95 years old today. Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California, 58 years old today. William Winter, the dean of American dramatic critics, 76 years old today. Lord Northcliffe (Sir Alfred Harmsworth, famous English publisher, 47 years old today. Bishop Leo Hald, abbot of the famous Belmont Abbey in North Carolina, 63 years old today.

Mail Carriers Will Fly

This is an age of great discoveries. Progress rides on the air. Soon we may see Uncle Sam's mail carriers flying in all directions, transporting mail. People take a wonderful interest in a discovery that benefits them. That's why Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and other throat and lung diseases is the most popular medicine in America. "I cured me of a most dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis, Stickney Corner, Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." Excellent for coughs, colds or any bronchial affection. Price 50c. an $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

D. M. Clark Explains Position

To the Editor: Being a candidate for the House of Representatives I have been interrogated several times regarding my position on some of the public questions that are of much concern to the people of Pitt county. Some months ago when I announced my candidacy I outlined policies for which I stood and which I would advocate if sent to the legislature. However believing that the people have a right to know just where those who seek to serve them would stand if so honored by them, I gladly give my position on the following questions: First and foremost I am heartily in favor of the Initiative, the Referendum and the Legalized Voting Primary. I favor these measures because I believe through them we have the most available method of placing the government directly in the hands of the people. The people themselves are the sovereigns of this country and their voice should govern. As previously stated I am advocating a Road Commission for Pitt county. I outlined the plan of this commission in an article in 1910 and will gladly explain the system again to any one upon request. We are spending too much money each year on our roads not to get better results. I believe a road commission of three men would give much better results and without an increase in the rate of taxation. I also favor the Torrens Land Title System as recommended by the State Bar Association. It will take some years to get this system into operation in North Carolina, but that is also true regarding all great reforms and we cannot begin on any of them too early. However, as a pilot or reformer I would suggest "A course and distance for all conveyances of real estate". This will eliminate law suits and hasten the perfection of the Torrens System. Not as a candidate but as an individual citizen I am advocating the candidacy of Chief Justice Walter Clark for the United States Senate, and believe in the progressive principles laid down in his platform. However, should I be sent to the legislature and Judge Clark fail to get the nomination for the Senate, it will then become my duty and will be my pleasure to cast my vote in the legislature for the nominee of the Democratic party no matter who that might be.

Billiard Cue Causes Death

LENOIR, July 14.—Saturday afternoon at Bowling Rock, two men, Alonzo Hartley and Lewis Trexler, met in the pool room and engaged in a quarrel over some ice, Hartley accusing Trexler, who owns a cold drink stand, of taking ice from his house. The men passed some hot words and Hartley became enraged and picked up a billiard cue striking Trexler a heavy blow across the head, felling him to the floor, from the effects of which the latter died in less than three hours. Both men have long been residents of this popular mountain resort. It is understood that Hartley is in the hands of the officials of the law. Trexler was at one time chief of police of the little town and was about 28 years old. He is survived by a wife.

For The Legislature

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the House of Representatives, subject to the action and approval of the Democratic primary of Pitt county. T. L. WILLIAMS. 7 15 lmd&w Primary August 17th The Democratic executive committee met here today and selected Saturday, August 17th, as the date for the primary to nominate candidates for county officers. If it arises that any nominations are not made at this primary through failure of a majority of the votes cast being for any candidate and a second primary becomes necessary, Saturday, September, 7th, was named as the date upon which to hold a second primary.

From Woman's View-Point

The Sunshiny Habit—How it May Inspire Your Husband—Makes Life Worth Living

I recently met a young married woman whose radiant sunshiny disposition seemed to envelope with whom she came in contact. She created an atmosphere of optimism as uplifting and exhilarating as a glass of bubbling champagne—without its after effect.

"Does she ever worry?" I queried. Her cousin who knows her home life intimately replied, "If she does, she doesn't let any one know it. Her creed is to forever and eternally look on the bright side. By the sheer dominance of her own theories, she makes others believe that life is sunshiny and well worth living.

If her husband, who is a farmer, looks dubiously at the sky and predicts rain when hay is to be cut, she will point out what to her are certain more indications of fine weather. And she will so buoy him up that he will get busy with his men, instead of bemoaning the chances of rain. Nine times out of ten he will get the hay in before the drops begin to fall. If her children show symptoms of coming down with a cold or a fever, she is not dismayed. Vigorously and cheerfully she undertakes their treatment, putting so much real hope into her every action that she inspires the patients into a belief in their speedy recovery, thereby effecting a cure which would certainly be prolonged if she were one of the doleful, pessimistic mothers, who see in the slightest rise of temperature a sure of scarlet fever, or from a slight cough the certain outcome of pneumonia."

Such a disposition is worth more than money. Even though she is not possessed of many worldly goods, she glorifies the few she owns by looking at them through grateful, appreciative eyes. Her friends regard her sometimes as being unaware how paltry her belongings really are, and are inspired with a sort of pity for her lack of knowledge.

How much better, however, is such a treatment tloegd a temperament than the one that is always looking for flaws and for trouble ahead.

How much more desirable such a wife is than the wife is, than she who weeps over every trifle, who sees only the dark side who constantly bemoans the fact that she hasn't this, that or the other thing owned by her richer neighbor.

Perhaps in the early days of the honeymoon a man may think little wife looks adorable with tear drops trembling down on her long lashes. But after a while weeps grow tiresome and he notes the red eyelids and the swollen nose and though he may not voice his feelings in so many words, he certainly prefers his neighbor's sunshiny, optimistic, healthy-minded wife, who isn't quite so sensitive.

The doctrine of cheerfulness should be preached by every mother to her daughter about to marry.

Of course a certain caution in money matters and a reasonable precaution where the future is concerned are commendable in any real help mate, but it needn't resolve itself into a never ceasing pessimist, that can only see the showers coming and not enjoy the present sunshine.

Cousin PHEBE.

JOAQUIN MILLER, PICTURESQUE POET OF THE SIERRAS.

If you had destined your son for a poet's career you wouldn't christen him Cincinnatus Heine, would you? Even the author of "Songs of the Sierras" couldn't support that name, so long ago he rechristened himself Joaquin Miller. Miner, lawyer, express messenger and journalist as well as poet, he has led an adventurous, unconventional life, and now that he has given up the vaudeville stage, stopped writing poetry for the most part and settled down at his mountain plantation near Oakland, Cal., he is at seventy odd the same picturesque, unconventional figure he has been all his life. Unlike many poets, Joaquin Miller, what with oil and land speculation and the patronage of Andrew Carnegie, has accumulated a comfortable fortune. It is said that nothing he ever wrote paid him so well as these lines:

There's fighting Ted and good King Ned
And valiant old Com Paul,
But I'd rather twist Carnegie's wrist
Than shake hands with them all.

The jingle was composed for a birthday dinner to Mr. Carnegie and is said to have led to the friendship of the two men.

Last Dollar Bill Paid by Astor

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The last debt paid by Col. John Jacob Astor, a victim of the Titanic disaster, will help to build the great memorial in Washington to the men who died on the ill-fated steamer.

Mrs. Archibald Forbes, a New York social leader, is the woman to whom the debt was paid. Her letter forwarded to Mrs. John Hays Hammond by Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien wife of the American ambassador at Rome, inclosed a dollar bill that was handed to her by Colonel Astor when the party of which they were members settled up for the last bridge game played in the social saloon before the Titanic sank off the New Foundland banks.

Mrs. Forbes said that when Colonel Astor handed over the dollar the only money she ever won at cards, he made a jesting remark about the luck of beginners. Mrs. Forbes' luck held, for a few hour later she was afloat in a lifeboat, while Colonel Astor and the other men of the party had paid the price of self sacrificing bravery.

was as liberal as the invitation. A permanent organization was affected and a large working committee was elected, composed of representatives from each mill here and a number of others to work the rural districts of the precinct. The club will at once bet in touch with the other Roosevelt men of the various precincts of Rockingham county with the view of organizing the county. Many speeches were made, and Roosevelt sentiment ran high. The organization and workings of the club is, and is to continue to be, a demonstration that the people shall rule.
