INVESTIGATION BEING PUSHED

District Attorney Now Busy Finding Evidence to Corroborate Confessions of the Three Gamblers. Schepps Will Give Up

NEW YORK, August 1.—Steps toward the corroboration of the confessions implicating Police Lieutenant Becker in the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, are to be taken carefully and slowly that, as District Attorney Whitman says, the whole truth of the relations between the gamblers and the police will come out.

Satisfactory progress is being made by District Attorney Whitman in supplying the missing links in the confession of Jack Rose, Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon, who, in their stories to the public prosecutor said that Becker instigated them in the killing of Rosenthal.

District Attorney Whitman says he has obtained some important testimony confirming parts of Rose and Webber's story that they met Lieutenant Becker by appointment after the murder. Two restaurant employees, according to the district attorney, have given information that they saw Becker talking with Rose and Webber on Forty second street after the shooting.

District Attorney Whitman, who has been advised by several Supreme Court justices to go slow, said today: I am confident that the whole truth will come out. It may appear a little slowly, but I am not going to rush the case.

The court of appeals has held that there must be some corroboration of the testimony of accomplices. The establishment of a motive is corroboration. There is no doubt in my mind that the motive has been established.

The initiative relations between Becker and Rosenthal, their quarrel, the fear of Rosenthal of Becker, the accusations against Becker, the killing itself, the meeting of Becker and Rose after the killing, all point to one thing.

Whitman is investigating stories that Becker is worth nearly a million dollars.

The appearance of Sam Schepps is keenly awaited at the prosecutor's office. Schepps, according to the story Rose told the district attorney, received $1,000 in bills from Rose, which Becker had handed him. Rose says that Schepps gave this money to Harry Horowitz, otherwise known as Bib the Blood, and Louis Rosenzweig. Schepps, it is understood, will be treated leniently if he can prove that he did not pull a trigger.

Dago Frank Cirofici and Shapiro, the chauffeur and joint owner of the murder car, were taken before the grand jury this morning. The inference was that Cirofici had confessed and that his statements were of sufficient importance to warrant his being taken immediately before the grand jury.

Mr. Whitman said that Cirofici has been positively identified as one of the men who shot Rosenthal.

Blind Tigers Rounded in Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Aug. 1.—Following closely in the wake of a wholesale indictment for violation of the late prohibition law here last week, as the result of the operations of Detective W. M. Pinson and assistants, of Shreveport, La., under the direction of the local Good Government League, the grand jury at the present term of state superior court today returned its 27th indictment for the term, the last batch today including 42 charges of retailing, nuisance, owning and operating and frequenting places of sale.

GRACE WAS SHOT DURING SCUFFLE

Defence Admits He Was Fussing With Wife

POLICES AT BOTTOM OF IT ALL

State Rests Its Case After Winning Three Decided Points Over the Defense. Alleged Letters are Not Admitted as Evidence

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 1.—Outlining the defense in the trial of Daisy Opie Grace, accused of having attempted to kill her husband, Eugene, counsel for Mrs. Grace received a bullet wound during a scuffle with his wife after a quarrel over the sale of the woman's property.

The attorney declared that Grace tried to shoot his wife after choking her and during the scuffle which followed the weapon was discharged. The attorney declared Grace made his wife leave home because he did not think he was badly hurt and he feared he would be disgraced if it became known that he was shot in a "nigger row" with his wife.

The state's theory that Grace was shot during the night or early in the morning is utterly untrue, declared Attorney Branch. We will prove that he was shot after 11 o'clock in the morning and that he was not doped when shot. We will prove that he got up that morning and wrote a check and that he talked over the phone as late as ten o'clock.

It was ridiculous to say that Mrs. Grace married Grace and tried to get rid of him for his money. She had given him between $15,000 and 20,000 in a year and he was going to Philadelphia to sell her property to get money for himself when the shooting occurred.

We are going to show the whole miserable facts. The truth is that Grace wanted to get his wife out of town first. Mrs. Grace suspected that he had an engagement with another woman. She accused him of it and said she was going to take back the power of attorney she had given him to sell her property. Grace fought to keep her from taking the document. He cursed her and threatened to kill her, grabbing up his revolver.

In the scuffle the revolver was discharged and Grace was shot. Grace made his wife leave the house without calling a physician. He said he was afraid of the disgrace that would follow if it came out that he had been shot in a nigger row with his wife. So he made his wife promise that she would say nothing about it.

The alibi letters written by Grace himself, and his wife knew nothing about it concluded Mr. Branch.

The witness for the defense was M. O. Jackson, a telephone official, who identified Grace's handwriting on a letter submitted to him.

Mrs. Grace is expected to go on the stand. Her attorneys say she will deny that she has the pistol with which Grace was wounded in her hand until after the gun was discharged.

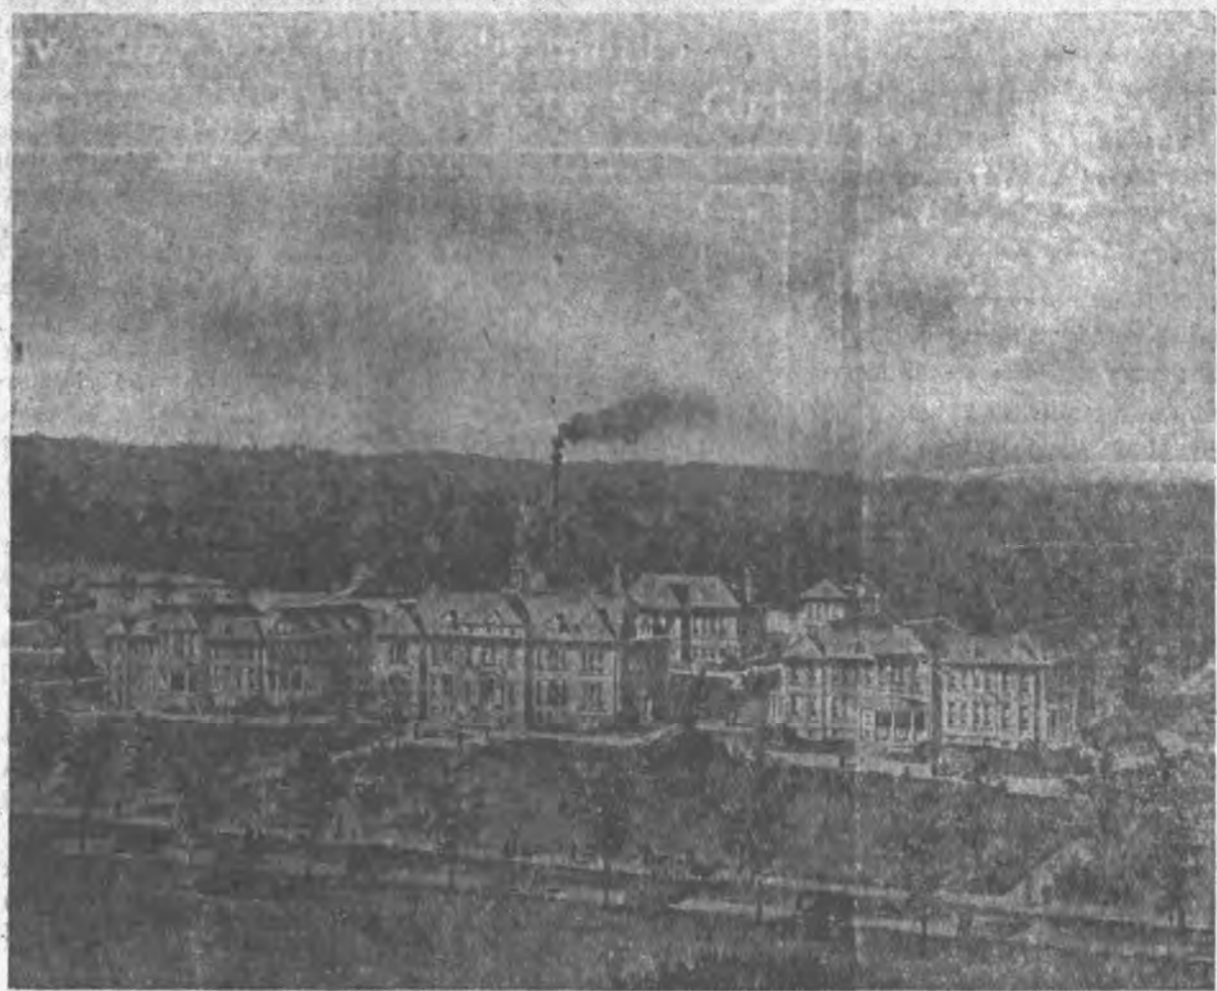

PITT COUNTY FAIR.

Governing Board and Committees Actively at Work.

The governing board and township committees of the Pitt County Fair Association met in the court house this morning to consider matters in connection with the county fair to be held Nov. 14th and 15th. There was a good attendance and much interest was manifested in the coming fair, the idea being to make it even better than the one held last year.

At a former meeting it was decided to use the Star and Liberty warehouses for the next fair, but owing to enlargement and improvement of the Gum Warehouse, making it a more desirable place than the other, that structure was substituted for the Star, and the fair will be held in the Gum and Liberty warehouses.

The premium list as arranged by the committee was read and met with the approval of the governing board. The premium list is $200 larger than last year, a total of $500 to be distributed at the next fair. These liberal premiums should bring out large exhibits and the people should be getting ready for them. The premium list will be published soon.

TRAINING SCHOOL SUMMER SESSION

Good Work Accomplished This Term

163 STAND EXAMINATIONS

Bustiest Place During Past Eight Weeks Has Been East Carolina Teachers Training School. Management Work Hard

Those who take pride in the career and progress of East Carolina Teachers Training School will be interested in some points from the session just closed. With this purpose in view The Reflector reporter visited the school Thursday to get some data on the work of the past year. He found that the enrollment of the regular term had reached 235 and of the summer term 359, making a total enrollment for the year of 594. In addition to these, there were 266 more applicants for admission than the school could accommodate. Through the kindness of the people of Greenville in opening their homes to students, about one hundred of these excess applicants found places to board outside of the school and thus were enabled to take advantage of the course, but this still left 166 who could not be admitted through lack of accommodations.

Fully a month before the summer term began the applications had reached the capacity of the school, and from then on letters had to be sent advising that there was no more room. Could all who applied for admission to this term have been taken the enrollment would have reached 760, not to mention others who would have applied but for the information being sent out that the capacity of the school had been filled. The attendance this year was much larger than last year, and more than twice as many teachers remained through to the end of the term than remained last year, the number standing the final examination being 163.

Another remarkable thing about the summer term this year is the earnestness with which the teachers took up and pursued their work. Even with such large attendance, necessitating much work in registering and classifying, they were ready to take up the regular routine of class duties on the second day. And they did straight, clear-cut work all through the term, seeming determined to take advantage of every possible opportunity and equip themselves for better teaching. Only once during the term was there a real relaxation from work and giving over entirely to pleasure, and that was on last Saturday night when the faculty gave the student body an informal reception that all entered into heartily and made a most delightful occasion. All during the term faculty and students alike devoted the time to most serious work with a view of making every day count for the best.

This term of the school has more fully than ever demonstrated the fine executive ability of President R. H. Wright and shown the wisdom in selecting him for the head of this institution. He selected every member of the faculty with the utmost care to their especial fitness for the work in hand, and the arrangement of classes and courses of study were with an eye single to procuring the most efficiency. The harmony and smoothness with which everything moved along showed his splendid leadership. Besides keeping his hand constantly on the pulse of the school, Mr. Wright had much outside work to do, being called for two visits of two weeks each to Washington City where in the Bureau of Education he prepared a national bulletin on teacher training for the country schools. This recognition of Mr. Wright's ability by the United States Commissioner of Education and those associated with him in the educational work of the government, shows the treasure that East Carolina Teachers Training School has in him at its head.

One has but to look over the list of the faculty at this summer term of the school and the departments they were in charge of to be convinced that

TAFT FORMALLE RECEIVES NOMINATION

DEMOCRATIC AND NEW PARTY SCORD

President Claims That Both are a Menace to the Country at Large. Attacks Muckrakers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—President Taft was formally notified today of his nomination by the National Republican Convention at Chicago.

Surrounded by his family and friends in the historic east room of the White House, the President received from Senator Elihu Root, chairman of the committee of notification, his first official information of the convention's action.

Your title to the nomination is as clear and unimpeachable as the title of any candidate since political conventions began, said Senator Root at the conclusion of his address.

I accept the nomination which you tender, replied President Taft, beginning his speech of acceptance. I accept it as an expression of confidence that in a second administration I will serve the public well.

Moving picture machine operators perched on points of vantage in the corners of the room while Senator Root and the President were speaking. It was the first time a moving picture had been taken in the White House. The state department will preserve one of the reels in its archives.

Although Mr. Taft defined in detail the issues of the campaign as he saw them, he reserved the right to amplify his statement in a letter as the campaign develops.

The supreme issue that confronts the voters, the President declared, was that of the maintenance of the nation's institutions and the preservation of the constitution, threatened, he said, on the one hand by the Democratic party and on the other by those Republicans who had left the party to try their fortunes in a new one.

Next in importance Mr. Taft placed the tariff. In the proposals of the Democrats for reductions in the present schedules, he said, lay danger of business depression and hard times. The Republican principle of revision only where scientific investigation shows it necessary, marked the straight road to continued prosperity and commercial peace.

Father and Son Held For Murder

WILMINGTON, Aug. 1.—James McCullen, a prominent young farmer of Sampson county, was jailed today with his father, W. P. McCullen, at Clinton, today, the son being charged with shooting to death from ambush in his yard Jonah Simmons, a neighbor and his father charged with being an accessory. James McCullen was captured by a posse near his home at Newton Grove early today. The McCullens had trouble with the dead man over a dog.

BULL MOOSE PARTY WANTS "CULLOD" VOTE

ROOSEVELT ON THE RACE QUESTION

Bull Chief Preparing a Long Statement With Which It is Expected New Party will Win Negro Vote.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., August 1.—The attitude of the national progressive party toward the negro, one of the knottiest problems to be solved in the formation of the party, is taken up at length in a careful statement which Colonel Roosevelt completed today and which he will make public in a few days.

The Colonel said today that the question would be met squarely.

Neither of the old parties, Colonel Roosevelt asserted, had met the question fairly and honestly. The Democratic party he said, was openly against the negro and the Republican party had placed the colored man in the South on an artificial basis, so far as his relations with the party were concerned. The colonel declined to discuss the policy which he has proposed in his statement, but he made it clear that he was determined to do all in his power to prevent a repetition of the conditions which he said exist in the South in the Republican party.

The Republican convention at Chicago, Colonel Roosevelt said, illustrated his point and showed that the Republican party had been ruined by the character of its southern representation. He said that he had the delegates from most of the great Republican states and had it not been for the southern delegates, who represented no real party, President Taft would not have been renominated.

The southern delegates, he continued, were in many cases boss-picked and machine-controlled and represented little more than the aspirators of a handful of men for patronage. It is this condition which, he said, he desires to avoid in the formation of the new party. Colonel Roosevelt declined to comment on the statements attributed to Governor Wilson that he favored a gradual reduction of the tariff, saying that he would reserve discussion of the tariff until he made his speech in Chicago on Monday night.

Union Services Sunday Night

Beginning next Sunday night the congregations of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist and the Presbyterian churches will worship in open air services on the lawn in front of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Hoyle and Mr. Lancaster will alternate in the preaching and the services will begin with singing at 8:15 o'clock.

A temporary platform for the speakers has been erected and a sufficient number of benches and seats has been secured for the congregations.

The choir will be placed on the front porch of Mr. Wiley Brown's home and preparations are being made for special musical offerings.

The grove lighted by strings of electric lights will furnish an attractive place for reverent and impressive worship.

DENVER IS AGAIN VISITED BY Flood

MANY VILLAGES A TOTAL WRECK

Hundreds of Tourists are Marooned in Colorado Springs, as R. R. Lines are in Most Hopeless Tie-up.

DENVER, Col., August 1.—Cloud-bursts followed by raging torrents in gulches, the overflowing of the banks of streams and rivers, inundation of several villages and railroad tracks, the washing away of crops and cattle and the paralyzation of railroad traffic and electric power plants, causing any thousand dollars damage were reported from several sections of the state late last night.

Hundreds of tourists were marooned in Colorado Springs because the railroad tracks in oth directions had been carried out. Anxiety was felt by the farmers in the Springs section because of a telephonic farning that Monument Dam was weakening under the strain of the flood incident to the heavy rains.

The loss of many heads of cattle was reported from Kunter where the heavy rains were interspersed with hail. John Swatsman, a farmer, was rendered unconscious by hailstones and lay for six hours before being rescued.

An electrical storm at Fort Collins stopped the power plant.

The Arkansas river at Pueblo was at the highest point of the year, though no alarm was felt. Florence, Col., a small town just west of Pueblo was reported to be inundated. No loss of life reported from any point.

Durham-Bound Train is Disrailed

WASHINGTON, August 1.—Local passenger train No. 107 on the Southern Railway which connects with the southern train leaving Richmond at 6:10 a. m., was in a head-on collision early today with a freight train near Clarksville.

The train takes on Richmond passengers at Keysville and runs to Durham, N. C. A report to Southern Railway headquarters here says no one was killed at that several were injured.

Dorcas Snodgrass Died a Suicide

CATSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The finding of a three-ounce can labelled ether but which had apparently contained some other fluid, has strengthened the county officials belief that Miss Dorcas I. Snodgrass, the Mount Vernon nurse committed suicide.

The can tightly corked and containing a small amount of liquid was found along the edge of Dubois Creek near the first bend.

District Attorney Wilbur will send the can and contents to Albany for analysis.

DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION

Face to face with the realization that a Democratic administration is coming into control of the government and knowing that their will mean an end to the tariff protection privilege under which they have plundered the people for nearly a score of years, the tariff trusts are going to raise prices again this fall. They are going to take one final gouge in the pocketbooks of the people before they are pushed away from the troughs of special privilege at which they have grown fat.

The leather trust, which is owned for the most part by the beef barons, has announced that the price of leather is to be increased 20 per cent. This increase is attributed to the greater demand of the automobile manufacturers for leather. This demand is no greater now than it has been for the last three or four years, and those who are familiar with trade conditions say the trust's excuse is only a subterfuge. The increase will mean another boost in the prices of shoes, which in turn will mean that hundreds of thousands, especially women and children, who are unable to pay more than they are now paying, will have to use a cheaper grade of shoes.

The cloth manufacturers which means the woolen trust, also have announced an increase in prices for fall and winter deliveries. The price of woolen cloth, it is announced, is to go up all the way from 5 to 15 cents a yard. This increase is made necessary, the trust managers say, by the increased cost of labor and by an alleged shortage of wool, not only in this, but in other wool producing countries as well.

It will be recalled that immediately after the Lawrence, Mass., strike last winter the wool trust boosted the prices of its products to meet the slightest increase granted the workers. The mill men and women who had been working for $5, $6 and $7 a week were given a five percent increase, which meant only a few additional cents to them. And to meet this increase the wool trust raised prices 15 per cent, which was sufficient to meet the labor increase and to pay for all the losses brought about by the strike. By sticking on this increase the trust's dividends were not interfered with and when the stock holders came to clip their coupons they found that as far as profits were concerned there might just as well have been no strike.

Both of these announced increases are purely arbitrary. There isn't the slightest necessity to increase the prices of leather or clothing and the only excuse for either is the inordinate greed of the trust owners. These men know that after next year they will have to climb down from their high perch, from where they have been directing their wholesale robbery of the people and for that reason alone they are preparing to get the last dollar possible for themselves before their special privilege graft comes to an end.

A news item is going the rounds of a bottle being picked up on the Rhode Island coast containing a note written by Major Archibald Butt, one of the victims of the Titanic. The note purports to have been written on a raft in midocean. It may be true, but we are more of the opinion that the note is the would-be joke of some fool who would make light of a very sad matter.

Editor DePriest of the Shelby Highlander, must love to get in deep water, he got in too much of it at Morehead City and now Senator Simmons is after him with a libel suit.

The fewer promises a candidate makes, the less he will have to go back on or explain later.

As the county primary draws near the candidates get more active.

Maybe they are called army worms because they go in regiments.

Press Comment

Hear Them Talk

Grover Cleveland declared that the tariff was the mother of trusts, and it will hatch out more if the republican party is kept in power. To give that party another trial on promise of tariff revision of any kind simply means to indefinitely perpetuate an infamy.—Wilmington Star.

A Gentle Reminder

In his speech on the wool tariff Senator Simmons declared that when ever a reduction in the wool tariff was talked of this industry swarmed around the capital demanding a continuance of the outrageous rates. This swarming business must remind the senator, of the day the lumbermen acted, with their lobby of widespread public note.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Better to Think First

When Governor Wilson began work on his speech of acceptance he withdrew to some quiet retreat and denied himself to all callers. Reporters stationed at Observer Bay have it that Colonel Roosevelt is also devoting much time to the speech which he will deliver at Chicago. When President Taft delivered his Winona speech, so widely known to fame, approving the Payne-Aldrich bill as the best tariff measure yet produced by his party, he found it expedient subsequently explain that it was prepared "between stations."

It is much better to do some thinking before delivering a state address. Otherwise the consequences are likely to prove anything but pleasant.—Greensboro News.

Louisiana Progressives

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 2.—Followers of Roosevelt among the Republicans of Louisiana held a state convention here today for the selection of delegates to the national convention of the Progressives at Chicago next week.

Congratulations to:

George P. Wetmore, United States senator from Rhode Island, 66 years old today.

Dr. William L. Hooper, acting president of Tufts College, 57 years old today.

Sam. R. Sells, representative in Congress of the First Tennessee district, 41 years old today.

Princess Ingeberg, sister-in-law of King Gustaf, and one of the most popular members of the Swedish royal family, 34 years old today.

William Watson, who started English society with his poem of "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue," 54 years old today.

Editorial of Human Interest

By Arthur Brisbane

TOO MUCH FOR ONE—TOO LITTLE FOR MANY

Part II

To those that see only the events of today and today's injustice, this is a depressing world full of discouragement—almost without hope.

Every development in our history means that somebody gets a great deal for which has worked little or not at all.

The great Steel trust is formed a gigantic industrial structure based on the solid foundation of iron that the country must have. And those that organize this structure take one thousand millions of dollars in artificially created stock for their pains.

The industry is purchased in a lump for five hundred millions or less. And it is sold to the public for fifteen hundred millions. And on this vast capitalization the public must forever pay dividends—the consumer must pay and the cost of living, of building, of rent must go higher.

Fortunately, there is a bright as well as a dark side to industrial conditions, to the picture that shows us few with too much, not knowing how to spend what they have and the millions with too little, always worried and anxious about the days to come.

That which is an evil today, luckily, is often a blessing tomorrow.

The old warriors built their aqueducts that fresh, pure water might be brought to them, to their places, to their baths.

They built their great roads that they might travel in safety, that they might send their armies to fight, murder and pillage.

Those warriors and those armies that murdered are gone. But the work remains, and that which was planned selfishly is used unselfishly for all. The great monument, temple, city or park built to commemorate the egotism of one remains for the education and delight of all—and the egotist is dead, forgotten, dust.

It will be so when the time comes to write the history of our civilization which seems so unjust, so cruel, so brutal in its unfair distribution.

The cunning organizers plan and scheme. They combine their industries, their railroads, their public monopolies.

They take the millions of the public and give back little and keep much for themselves.

Their thought is on their own power and fortune and pleasure.

But the cunning schemers of today will also pass away and become dust without a name—and their work will stand.

A few may monopolize the power of Niagara or of the great falls of the west. But at least they do harness the power and the people can take it and use it for themselves when they will.

The builders of railroads make vast fortunes and leave them to be squandered. They pass away, the roads remain.

In days to come people more intelligent than ourselves will be grateful for the selfishness and ability that did the constructive work of this day and left an industrial system ready to the hands of the people great economical factories, wasteful competition eliminated, a network of railroads and wires covering the country bringing the people together and eventually belonging to the people.

You cannot tell who dug the well in the desert from which you drank. But you know that he dug it for himself, selfishly, without a doubt. And you know that he is dead and gone and thousands of others drink from it.

So it is with all efforts of man, especially of the great men—great in cunning, fortune and power.

They strive for themselves but they build for others—they cannot help it.

And when you see a man who builds a wall across the stream of wealth, dams it up and forms a great golden reservoir for himself you can find comfort in the knowledge that without knowing it he builds that dam for the millions to come. He organizes, preserves, simplifies and if his name happens to be remembered it will be as that of one who selfishly, thinking to help only himself, wore out his strength and power in working for others.

Wilson for President

Woodrow Wilson's Administrative Ability

During his campaign for Governor it suited his political opponents to describe him as a man who had led a cloistered life so that he was unfamiliar with affairs and was wanting in administrative ability. Such a notion seemed very grotesque to those who knew Woodrow Wilson. It altogether misconceived the nature of a university president's work. The post calls for administrative ability of a very high order, and incidentally brings about contacts and acquaintanceship that put one in personal touch with all great national interests, whether business or political. The administrative problem that may engage a university president's attention involve men of exceptional ability and force, so that controversies, if they arise, are more than usually formidable.

Woodrow Wilson possesses in a singularly high degree the great administrative faculty of prompt apprehension of the true nature of a case, so as to disengage it from the irrelevant and adventitious and to guide discussion to sound conclusions. Whether might be the matter coming up at faculty meetings, whether through a committee report or a chance motion his mind seized it at once, stating the case clearly and bringing out all its element for consideration. At times he took an active part in debate. The speech he made in introducing the preceptual system has become a faculty tradition as a model of perspicacity and force. His quickness of apprehension was also marked whenever he took part in a conference or was present at a committee meeting. No matter how complicated the subject, his mind seemed to bear effectively upon it at once, cutting into it like a circular saw into a new lot. His apprehension extends to the points of view at all concerned and he is particularly happy in removing differences by producing clear understanding.—From "Woodrow Wilson, A Character Sketch," by Henry Jones Ford in the American Review of Reviews for August.

At Parting

The play was just splendid, the leading man grand. (But really, now, must you hold on to my hand?)

You thought the distinguished star's action was good? Yes, I thought so too. (Now please don't be rude!)

How strange! You liked D. in the emotional part? (Why, of course, Mr. Silly, I still have a heart).

What's that? The lovemaking at all times was tame? (Mr. Smith, do be careful! There are rules to this game!)

No, I didn't take notice. Were the stage settings bare? (Now, Mr. Smith, stop it. You're mussing my hair!)

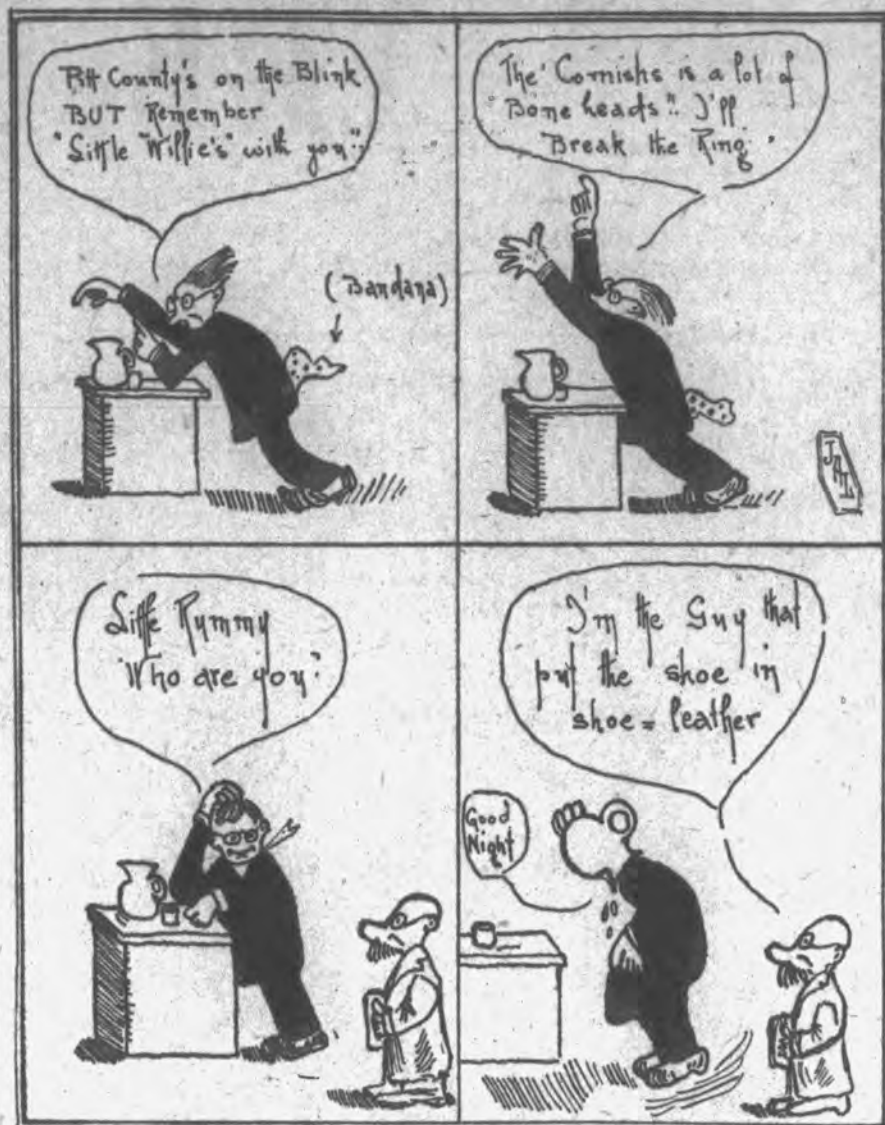

Yes, I fancy the orchestra was a bit loud. (Pul-lease—Mr. Smith—you will soon draw a crowd!)

The plot of the piece?—Um-m! A little too light. (Well, if you must have it, just one then. Good night!)

Suffragists Active in Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Belva A. Lockwood, the noted equal rights advocate and one time candidate for President of the United States, was the guest of honor here today at a state wide picnic given under the auspices of the Ohio Woman's Taxpayers League. The demonstration was a feature of the active campaign that is being waged throughout Ohio in behalf of the proposed woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution, which is to be voted on next month.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

HABIT

HABIT is an acquired luxury that consists in driving the human will with the bridle off.

Some habits are able to get over the ground faster than others, and have to be curbed by the grand jury four times a year at heavy expense to the truculent taxpayer.

The most difficult habit to acquire is the habit of thinking in words of five syllables without falling into a little syllable without falling into a literary vein and flooding the market with unbalanced verbiage.

Habit is something which seizes a man in an unguarded moment when ginger ale would do just as well, ties him in an upright position to the nearest bar and causes him to inhale enough whiskey slings to float a whaleback at low tide.

One of the best habits now made is that which prevents people from digging into other folk's business without first being invited to draw cards. This habit is not as common as chewing gum at the theater in a loquacious and uninterrupted manner, but it wears better with the general public.

Whenever a habit becomes so familiar that it sends a man to work with a pair of eyes looking like two burnt holes in a rag carpet, it is time to taper off on seven up or Five Hundred.

Some people try to disguise habit by chewing coffee beans while others go about in company with the embittered young onion. If there is any habit which onions will not kill, it deserves to live to a ripe old age.

The most cohesive habits are those which have to be coaxed, coddled, sub-soiled, discharrowed and irrigated before they become enthusiastic over their surroundings and take out a life lease. Among these is the olive habit, which never yields until it has been swallowed several times in a defiant manner.

Gibbons for High License

Cousin Phebe Pleades for the Husband—He Has His Troubles—Make Home a Heaven of Peace

How few women give men credit for having nerves. When comes home cross and snappy, instead of taking into consideration the fact that he has had a long trying day, with perhaps some financial problems to solve that make or break him, they just make matters worse by nagging, or a recital of their own worries and troubles in the management of the home.

The man, all on edge, will naturally retort sharply! The wife will weep or talk back! The air grows thicker with dissension and recrimination, until the poor "brute" slams on his hat, bangs the door, and goes, as he forcibly expresses it, "where he can get a little peace."

Then the woman, considering herself terribly abused, buries her head in some soft, capacious pillow, and howls until she hears his key in the door.

Then if she is sensible she will be as nice as she can and the storm will blow over. Too often, however, no matter how contrite she feels while he is away, she will "keep it up" as soon as he gets within hearing distance. Thus many a rift widens and widens, until it is too gaping ever to be bridged.

Now a very excellent plan is for the wife to keep all unpleasantness under cover until her husband has been fed. Give him time to feel that home is a place of calm content, not of continued uproar and dissension such as he had had to contend with all day.

An even better plan would be for her not to say anything about the cook's impudence, the children's naughtiness or the grocer's shortcomings.

If, however, she must tell him or burst, let the confidence be postponed until his frame of mind is such that the trouble will seem trivial and easy disposed of.

A man's nerves are just as delicate as a woman's. She needn't think she is the only one privileged to pose as a sufferer from the fashionable neuritis.

In fact when the stronger physical frame is besieged by the little demons called nerves, the break-down is apt to be more serious than when the sensitive, high-strung wife goes to pieces.

Let the home be the antidote for the strenuous, nerve racking daily existence of the average business man. To make it such the wife should endeavor to keep her troubles to herself as much as she can, or dwell on them a good meal or a soothing cigar has put her husband in a receptive mood.

Above all, let her bear in mind that it is not permissible for both of them to have an attack of "nerves" at the same time.

Cousin Phebe.

A Simple Conservatory.

If there is a glass fish-bowl in the house which is no longer wanted for its original purposes, it will make a little nursery conservatory which is sure to please the children. Scrupulously wash the bowl until it shines again, and then place at the bottom of it some fresh green moss that has been dipped in a basin of clear water. Sow nasturtium or hepatica seeds in the moss. Other flowers will flourish quite well but these do admirably. Place the bowl in the dark corner, and cover the top with a piece of plain glass—such as is used for picture frames will suffice. After a fortnight or so, remove the bowl to a light window, keeping the piece of glass on the top. A moisture will rise from the moss cover the glass, and soon the leaves and flowers of nasturtium and hepatica will begin to burst with a very pretty effect. —New York Tribune.

To Aid The Housekeeper

To remove mildew soap the spot well and, while still wet, rub into them powder chalk. Then place the garment out of doors all day to leach, damping it as often as it dries. After this, washing with soap and water will remove what remains of the stains.

Old tablecloths, when no longer fit for the table, make excellent dress bags. Join up the sides and make a hem top and bottom and take a tape drawstring. If you want to put a delicate skirt away, slip one of these bags over it and hang in a wardrobe. No dust will then come to it.

NEW ATTRACTIONS ADDED AT VIRGINIA BEACH CASINO

All Amusements Harmoniously Grouped Around Wide Plaza at This Modern Resort

NORFOLK, Va., July 31.—An aerial ride into the sea is one of the latest amusements installed at the Virginia Beach Casino and from now on bathers at this attractive resort may glide down a steel cable, across the sand and plunge right into the midst of the foaming breakers.

This device is a part of the aquatic gymnasium that the Casino management is installing in front of its magnificent resort and will be a feature full of thrills and excitement for the hundreds of bathers who daily frolic in the surf there. Already the crazy raft has made a hit with the crowd and its dollars to doughnuts that there will be scores of contestants for the five dollars that goes to the bather who sticks aboard this ocean bronco for thirty consecutive minutes. If you want to try your skill against the raft and the surf, a combination that hard to beat, simply go to the Casino bath house, don a suit and notify the bathing master of your intentions. He'll keep time on you.

In planning the amusement features at the Casino the management decided not to string them out along the seawall, but to group them in attractive and harmoniously designed structures on the north and south sides of the wide plaza that extends from the Casino to the car station. This plaza is about two hundred yards wide and fifty long. It is divided by side brick walks and between them are fresh grass with a fountain here and there and the bandstand just at the Casino entrance. This allows a full tour of all the amusements without waste of energy and keeps the beautiful water front free for those who desire to rest along the seawall promenade, with its velvety lawns and comfortable benches.

Last night the ball room was crowded with dancers from Norfolk, Portsmouth and the cottage colony, the number being materially augmented by the great number of people who arrived at the Beach yesterday from Richmond, Washington, Baltimore and other points to stay over until Monday, for as a week end resort Virginia Beach is the queen of the South Atlantic coast.

What makes you think Kurt is marrying me for money? Well, he must have some reason. —Fliegende Blaetter.

The Dream-Ship
A sweet little ship stole up from the south
With a cargo of baby dreams;
Of dolls and kittens and warm little mittens,
And rose-colored peppermint-creams;
A wee wind wafted it on its way,
And it sailed along at the end of day
Down the sleep streets where the lights lit,
To leave each child some wonderful bit.

"Oh, hush little child, if you want a dream,
You must close your eyes—ah, yes!
For the dreamship carries a gift for you!
More lovely than you could guess;
Perhaps a moon will shine all day,
Perhaps a gown of color gay.
Or a queer little fish
In the silver dish—
Sail away, little boat, and away!"

Cleaning Up

Those people who are cleaning their lots and sidewalks of weeds and grass in advance of any order from the town authorities to do so, are taking the right step. It improves the appearance of their lots as well as lessens the danger of disease. Again when everybody waits for the order to clean up, it makes labor harder to get in the specified time.

Seventy One Years Young

Justice of the Peace C. D. Rountree celebrated his 71st anniversary yesterday by putting in the usual day's work at his official duties. The Squire carries his years well and in appearance and activity is younger than many who have seen fewer years. We wish him many more happy birth days.

To the Voters of Pitt County:

I understand there is a report being circulated to the effect that if I should be nominated and elected as one of Pitt county's commissioners that I would favor and use my influence towards building a bridge across Tar river at Yankee Hall or Pactolus landing and by reason of that report I take this method of denying it, and wish to say further that with the present indebtedness of Pitt county, I would be strictly opposed to any further bonding of the county to build a bridge anywhere across Tar river.

Training School

no school in the country had a superior array of talent and ability. These were:

Prof. H. E. Austin, Science.
Prof. C. W. Wilson, Pedagogy.
Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, School management.
Prof. Edwin D. Pusey, History.
Mrs. H. B. Smith, English and Mathematics.
Miss Maria D. Graham, Mathematics.
Miss Elizabeth Pugh, Domestic Science.
Miss May R. B. Muffy, Public School Music.
Miss Margaret M. Everist, Drawing.
Miss Mary Nance Fair, Primary Methods.
Miss Daisy Bailey Waitt, Latin.
Prof. Harold Barnes, Administration and Supervision.
Miss Margaret Blow, Teacher Practice School.

Besides these all the officers of the school were at their places during the summer term doing their best to make the work a success. Through it all there was not a busier man than the bursar, Mr. J. B. Spillman. Looking after the interests of so many students and the business affairs of such an institution makes his office a bee hive of industry, and he carries everything through in most perfect system and order.

The good to come to the children of North Carolina from a school of this kind, whose mission is exclusively training teachers to instruct them, cannot be estimated. At the same time the past year has fully demonstrated that the school cannot get any larger or do any more work than it is doing until additional room and equipment be provided. During this term some of the classes had as many as sixty students crowded into them. The next legislature should come to the rescue with an appropriation sufficiently large to meet the needs of the school and better equip it for its great work. The rural schools of the state must look to this school mainly for trained teachers is greater than the school can supply. The special work of teacher training, and this is the only school in the state that is doing this work exclusively, is the most important in the State's educational system, and the State should give it all possible aid and encouragement. If the rural schools are to reach the stage of efficiency desired, it must come through the teachers, and the teachers must be thoroughly trained for their work.

The board of trustees are so gratified at the success of the summer term of the school, that it has been decided hereafter to make the summer course one of the regular terms, dividing the school year into four terms, any three successive terms of which shall constitute a school year. The next term will begin September 24th.

Farmers' Meeting.
On Thursday, August 15th, a meeting of farmers will be held in Greenville at which several experts from the state and government agricultural departments will make talks on agricultural topics.

The talks will be especially helpful to farmers and a large number should be present.

DONATION TO LOAN FUND.

Students of Training School Help Worthy Girls.

The following letter explains itself and shows the interest students of the East Carolina Training School take in helping worthy girls in the school.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 2, 1912.

Dear Mr. Wright:—

I as treasurer of the Loan Fund Organization of the Summer term, 1912, take pleasure in placing in your care forty-five dollars ($45) to help some worthy girl obtain training in this school.

This sum is the expression of the gratitude we feel toward the State for the benefits we have received in this school.

"Group D" led in raising this sum, which we wish was larger. The whole amount is deposited with the bursar's office.

Respectfully,
Lucretia Hughes, Treas.

We appreciate greatly this gift and the spirit of loyalty shown by all the students of the school.

BIG FRENCHMAN FOOLED HIM

Pitcher Quinn Intentionally Passes Joe Jackson to Get at the Mighty Nap Lajoie.

For the first time since he has been a member of the Cleveland club, Nap Lajoie had the experience of seeing an opposing pitcher pass his predecessor at bat so he could take a chance at Lajoie. That happened in a recent New York game. There were two out, with Graney on third and Olson on second. Jackson had already procured a triple and a single. Quinn pitched carefully to him this time. He soon found himself in the hole and rather than try to get the ball over for Joe, deliberately pitched two wide ones and passed him, evidently preferring to take a chance on Lajoie.

All the big Frenchman did was to drive in three runs.

Watkins' Good Work.

Rube Watkins, the star portlander with the Sharon team of the O. & P. league, in 10 games fanned 101 batsmen, an average of 10 men a game. He has issued 25 bases on balls and has been touched up for 70 bingles. Watkins was sent to Sharon by Manager Bill Phillips of Youngstown, for development. It is understood that Cleveland has a string on the young pitcher.

Ban on Suspended Players.

The national commission has put the ban on the Lake Shore league for taking up suspended players who were under the national agreement. Dahlen of Cincinnati is playing at Escanaba and other association players include Stoney McGlynn of Milwaukee, Harry Selbert of Kansas City, and Ernest Groth of Columbus.

Brief Making Good.

Anthony Brief, turned back by the St. Louis Browns, is playing great ball for Traverse City in the Michigan league, and is the chief hitting power of his team.

county court house, though his hearers might have been more in number. Accepting the estimate of Mr. Simmons' manager, he had 125. Another man, tall of stature and fair in his estimate as well as feelings, said there were 110 by actual count. OWNER DIDN'T KNOW ONE OF HIS OWN PLAYERS.

One of the New York American pitchers told a funny one recently. "I was pitching," he said, "for a team out in Rockaway Beach one Sunday when a big stout spectator whom I didn't recognize at once came up to me and said, 'Say, young fellow, didn't you belong at the hilltop? We've got a pitcher that twirls just the same as you do.' The questioner was one of the Yankees' owners. 'No,' I said, 'I never saw those fellows play.' 'The next day I went to the club's office to see the secretary on some business and related the incident. He laughed and said, 'Then you're the find I heard about this morning.' It was a good joke. He didn't know one of his own players."
