WILSON INFLUENCE FELT IN NEW JERSEY

The Early Returns Favor William Hughes

"SUGAR" JIM SMITH OPPONENT

Wilson Casts His Vote Against Former Boss Of The State and Campaigns Against Him

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 24.—The first returns from the statewide primary for the Democratic nomination for United States senator were received from Trenton. One district there gave Hughes 25, Smith 16, McDermitt 3, Wescott 1.

Senator Frank O. Briggs, Republican is opposed for renomination.

Gov. Wilson Votes Against Smith

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 24.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson came home today for the first time since he became the Democratic presidential nominee. Escorted by a procession of students the former president of Princeton rode in an automobile (through Nassau street while the students cheered. The governor went to a booth and voted for William Hughes, who is a candidate at today's primary election for the Democratic indorsement for United States senator against former Senator James Smith, Jr.

Governor Wilson shortly afterwards addressed the students from the steps of a church. He discussed the bosses and the trusts.

"The boss merely as a political organizer," the governor said, "is not dangerous, merely as a manager who commands the organization and gets out the vote on the polling day, he is not to be feared and he is an almost necessary instrument of politics, but the man we call boss is the agent of those who wish to control politics as their own interest.

"I have known some of these gentlemen personally and I know exactly how they work. They haven't any politics at all. That is the point and there is no difference between a Democratic boss and a Republican boss, because neither of them is working for his party. They both are working for their clients. And their clients wish to see that men do not get into office who thwart them and that laws are not passed that embarrass their business.

"The chief supporters of the Democratic boss, if he happens to be in the majority, are often those most closely associated with the Republican boss and vice versa. The men who chiefly want Jim Smith in the senate are Republicans, not Democrats and whenever I have fought him, his chief support has come from Republican newspapers, not independent Republican newspapers that seek public opinion."

Foss Democrat, Has Apparently Won Renomination in Mass.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 24.—Incomplete returns from the Massachusetts primaries at 10 o'clock tonight indicate the renomination of Governor E. N. Foss by the Democrats over Jos. C. Pelletier, district attorney of Suffolk county. The contest for the Republican nomination for governor was close and Everett C. Benton, of Boston, formerly a member of the executive council had but a slight lead over his opponent, Jos. Walker, former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives. In many of the towns the polls did not close until nine o'clock.

A light vote was cast throughout the state notwithstanding fair weather and contests in both parties for the head of the ticket. Even congressional and local senatorial contests failed to arouse the voters.

Governor Foss expressed himself as well pleased with the returns. He said: "I am gratified with the result and deeply appreciate the signal indorsement of my administration by the party. It spells victory in November."

BITTER FEELING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Inquiry Into Primary Methods Begun

BLEASE MEN THREATENS RIOT

Alleged Fraudulent Method of Voting at the Recent Primaries is to be the Subject of a Probe

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 24.—Meeting here today to investigate the charge of fraud in the primary election of August 27 in which Governor Cole L. Blease was nominated for reelection on the face of the returns by a majority of 3,000 out of 140,000 votes cast, a subcommittee of the state Democratic executive committee received numerous affidavits and reports from county committees in which it was represented that hundreds of fraudulent ballots were cast in the Piedmont counties and irregularities were frequent all over the state. Many specific instances were cited in which non-residents, not enrolled, negroes and minors were allowed to vote, while repeating was said to be common. Several cases were found, it was declared, in which one man voted as many as five times.

The meeting of the subcommittee was interrupted several times by a noisy throng of supporters of Governor Blease, who at once threatened to create a riot when J. M. Greer, a pro-Bleasure member of the subcommittee denounced the anti-Bleasure majority for having held a meeting at Charlotte, N. C., at which they outlined the committee's plan of procedure. Inflamed by Mr. Greer's angry words a 100 or more men left their chairs with yells and advanced menacingly towards W. F. Stevenson, chairman, when he called Mr. Greer to order.

Samuel J. Nichols, an attorney for Governor Blease begged the men for the governor's sake to preserve order and was joined by Sded H. Dominick, the governor's campaign manager. They finally induced crowd to permit the investigation to continue.

In opening the session Chairman Stevenson expressed the hope that there would be no cleavage in the committee along the line of Jones and Blease, the rival candidates for governor. The other members of the committee then spoke similarly. Nevertheless there was a sharp division between the Blease and Jones members an almost every question which arose and almost constant wrangling.

Gov. Blease's attorneys took the position that the committee ought to admit only such evidence of fraud as was presented by Judge Jones, but Chairman Stevenson ruled that the committee would admit evidence from any source. He promised, however, that every opportunity would be given for the refutation of the charges.

It was late in the afternoon when the roll call of the counties was begun and the inquiry made, as to whether fraud had been discovered in them. Spartanburg, Greenville, Aiken and Anderson counties presented the most serious allegations of fraud. The investigators in the first two counties asked an extension of time to permit them to inquire into the identity of many voters of the same name who are suspected of having been repeaters.

In Abbeville county it was reported the required oath was not administered to the voters in Cold Springs and Entreville and these boxes were accordingly thrown out.

The investigation will be renewed tomorrow. Most of the counties remain yet to be heard from.

UNCLE SAM'S BOYS TO GO TO SAN DOMINGO

LITTLE ISLAND TO BE VISITED BY BAND OF MARINES TO INDUCE PEACE WITH WARRING MEN

CONDITIONS ARE NOT REALLY SERIOUS

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 24.—After a conference with President Taft on his private car en route to New York today, Acting Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop announced that a force of 750 United States marines will be dispatched at once to Santo Domingo.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The gunboat Wheeling is the only American warship now in Dominican water. She has a complement of about seventy marines. The gunboat Petrel left there a few days ago now is on her way to New York and last was reported off the Florida coast in an equinoctial storm. She might be turned back by wireless. Most of the marines who go to Santo Domingo, however, undoubtedly will be drawn from posts at Washington, New York, Boston, Norfolk and other Atlantic coast stations.

IT WILL BE RED LETTER DAY

Fall Millinery Opening to be Biggest Event

Ladies' day was every day to the old sport in the Red Mill. Here in Greenville there are some old sports, but none like the one featured in the musical show. Therefore, there are here special days for ladies. And of those special days, the most special one will be next Friday, September the 27th, when Mrs. I. F. Lee and Company will show the most wonderful line of fall hats and millinery ever exhibited in Greenville. Every article on this particular fall opening will be a feature by itself and collectively will make up the finest exhibition of fall goods for ladies.

Besides the already strong force of milliners employed by the Mrs. I. F. Lee and Company and composed of Mrs. W. B. Green, Mrs. M. T. Cowell and Mrs. R. Green, a northern milliner of much experience will be on hand, Mrs. M. R. Grace.

COALGATE, Okla., Sept. 25.—Representatives of commercial bodies in Oklahoma and of the industrial bureaus of the various railroads met here today to agree upon a plan for advertising the sale of the segregated coal and asphalt and the unallotted Indian lands in Oklahoma. The sale of the $17,000 acres of unallotted land is scheduled to begin early in November. The tracts embrace more than 50,000 acres of good farming and grazing lands.

SECRETARY HILLIS MUST PROVE CHARGES

BULL-MOOSE DOUGH BAG MAN INSISTS THAT INVESTIGATION BE CARRIED TO THE LIMIT

ALLEGED TEDDY USED TRUST MONEY

WASHINGTON, September 24.—Senator Clapp has received a letter from George W. Perkins, asking that Chas. D. Hillis, chairman of the Republican National Committee, be called before the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures "to testify fully as to his charges" that Colonel Roosevelt "spent millions of dollars of Harvested Trust money."

Senator Clapp today stated that Mr. Hillis undoubtedly would be called before the committee, but would be questioned not alone upon that reported statement, but upon the general subject of campaign contributions. A plan for the opening of next week's hearings was outlined today by Senator Clapp for presentation to the full committee when it meets.

The first witness probably will be Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and the second C. C. Tegetholf, private secretary of the late Edward H. Harriman. These two men will be called upon to produce any papers belonging to the estates respectively of Cornelius N. Bliss and Mr. Harriman that might throw light on the charges made by John D. Archbold, that the Standard Oil Company had been asked to contribute to the Roosevelt fund of 1904.

Former Speaker Cannon and Representatives McKinley of Illinois and Weeks, of Massachusetts, probably will be asked to testify in connection with the probe into alleged campaign contributions by protected interests prior to the tariff session of 1909.

Telegrams received today from New York, signed by members of the National Retail Tobacco Dealer's Association, demanded of Chairman Clapp an investigation of the relation of the American Tobacco Company to campaign funds of recent years. The retailers asked that the Senate committee investigate the affairs of the so-called "Tobacco Trust" and of large individual companies to determine whether they had contributed to presidential or congressional campaigns.

Tampering Around Tampa and the Cigar Factories

(D. J. Whichard.)
TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 21.—There is much in and around Tampa to interest the tourist and visitor. The city is on a peninsula between the bay for which it is named and the Gulf of Mexico, and within a radius of 50 miles there are fully a hundred attractive coast resorts and springs. These are reached by trolley lines or boats, and the guests at many of these come to Tampa for their shopping, and some of them are to Tampa what Coney Island is to New York and Ocean View and Virginia Beach to Norfolk.

A very beautiful trip we had since coming here was by boat down the Bay to Pass-a-Grill, thirty miles distant. This resort is right on the Gulf Beach and is a most popular place for surf bathing. It is very similar to the surf bathing in the Atlantic with the exception that the breakers do not roll quite so high. Then we have had trolley trips to Sulphur Springs, Ballast Point, Palmaria, the Country Club and other places, all attended with much interest.

Another thing that interested us no little was a trip through some of the cigar factories. We took in two big ones and were shown through the entire process from where the Havana leaf is taken from the package as it comes from the bonded warehouse and the succeeding transformations of manufacture ready for shipping. The cigars are made entirely by hand with every safeguard for cleanliness and purity surrounding the work. It is this that gives the Tampa cigar such a reputation, for the consumer smokes them with the satisfaction of knowing they are pure.

A member of one of the largest establishments—the Cuester-Rey Co.—told us there were but three pieces of machinery in their factory: a typewriter, an adding machine and an X-ray machine. Of course we wanted to know what the latter machine was for, and we were told that every cigar shipped from the factory is first sterilized in this machine. Consumers of cigars, especially what is known as the domestic and machine made kind, have noticed frequently little bug holes in the wrapper. This is due to eggs deposited by the tobacco fly on the leaf while it is in the field and which no ordinary curing or handling will kill, hence the eggs are hatched later in the cigars and the bugs get their way out. The sterilizing process in the X-ray machine mentioned above destroys the eggs and they never hatch. The Cuester-Rey factory works 450 hands here, 150 in a branch establishment in Jacksonville, and has 100 in Cuba looking after selecting tobacco to supply the factory. Its output last year was 17,000,000 cigars.

Another factory visited was the Tampa-Cuba Co. This factory is unique in that it is a co-operative establishment in which druggists all over the country, now to the number of some sixteen hundred, are stockholders. Some of these are at points in North Carolina. A feature of this co-operation is that the druggists handle the output of their own factory and participate in the profits. This factory turns out a fine quality and they go all over the country.

If small houses were the feature during the first two days of the week, record breaking sales promise to be the order for the remaining three. The weather which would not relent Monday and Tuesday suffered a break for the better some time after midnight and the farmers encouraged by the looks of the clear sky began to roll into town with their loads. Long had they waited for their opportunity and eagerly did they seize upon it when it came to them. For the second time this season some unloading was done this morning on the street adjoining the New Brick. The Gum had all it could do to put on its floor the tobacco brought in and the order of unloading whilst buyers were following the sale was once more established. Bidding was keen at both these houses and prices, naturally kept up to the delight of the farmers, who will realize this year handsomely on their crops.

Second sale houses had a most generous support and this will probably see another blocked sale. Perhaps over 400,000 pounds were on the floors of the five warehouses.

As it seems that the weather has now settled and Knk Sol is going to do its best to cheer up things, the market should hum to a record breaking tune for the remainder of the week.

From mere observation it seems that the tobacco being brought to the market lately is of much better grade than was the case at the beginning of the season. This certainly must be so as otherwise the warehouses would not be making the tremendous averages they are.

All factories are well up on their work and ready to take care of all the tobacco brought in. No matter how much it is, no such conditions as caused an erroneous report to circulate some days ago, will be repeated this season. As for the warehouses there is no question as to their ability to handle the biggest breaks, and please their customers.

Governor Kitchin Heard Last Night by People in Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Sept. 24.—Governor Kitchin arrived here tonight and spoke to a crowded house in the Thomasville opera house. He was introduced by B. W. Parham of the local bar. The speech of Kitchin was an attack on the record of Simmons for the past four years and an enthusiastic appeal for the cause of Democracy. He attacked bitterly the 19 votes of Simmons by which he claims that Simmons is out of harmony with his party. It was a brilliant speech for Democratic principles and an appeal for himself for the senate. When the picture of Simmons was displayed on the back of a western lumber journal, it was met with applause. A large and attractive crowd was present to hear the governor.

Speaking of cigars, we have noticed that nearly everybody here smokes them, and a big cigar sticking from the corner of the mouth is met at every turn, and almost as soon as one is burned up another takes its place. It is a city of smokers, but even what to an observer looks like excessive smoking seems attended by no bad results as they smoke the pure article. Very few people are seen smoking a pipe or cigarette.

The devotional exercises were inspiring and the Bible selection was taken from Nehemiah.

The words of welcome and greeting from the sister churches of the town were appropriate and the response was also especially good.

The vice president's report to the union was very impressive. She gave a full account of the work for the past year and drew striking contrasts with last year's and previous years' work. She then gave sweet words of encouragement for the future work. The close of her talk was very touching, closing with the plea, "Let us be Christians."

The talk on "The Ideal Missionary Meeting," by Mrs. Finch, of Rocky Mount, was especially helpful. In it she gave hints on how to conduct an effective meeting and also showed the results of the hints on the society. She closed her talk with a beautiful legend which showed how even the smallest and poorest works done in the right spirit are rewarded.

Miss Dickson, representative of Meredith College, made a very interesting talk on "Meredith College". She told much of the inside life of the college and showed how much good a Christian college does for a country and for the students.

At the adjournment of the morning session the congregation was invited down stairs to lunch. The Baraca and Philathea class rooms were transformed into a lunch room. The menu served was: chicken salad, beaten biscuits, tongue sandwiches, saltine crackers, pickles, iced tea, ice cream and cake.

The afternoon session was for a great part devoted to reports of the work for the past year and also reports of the various committees. These reports were very interesting and showed what splendid work the organizations are doing.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Mrs. S. J. Everett, president.

Mr. JOAB TYSON

Editor Reflector:

Joab Tyson died at his home in Beaver Dam on Sept. 13, 1912 at the age of 76 years with pellagra, having been sick for ten weeks. He was the son of John J. and Laney Tyson. A faithful wife and four children survive him. He was first married to Jane Parker in 1860; C. L. Tyson is a son of first marriage. In 1869 he married Susan Smith. By this union 3 children survive, Mrs. Arden Tucker, Joab Tyson and Miss Lucy K. Tyson.

His War Record

He enlisted in the spring of 1862 in Dr. Joma Lawrence, afterwards Licurgus Barriett Company which was annexed to the 12th North Carolina and Georgia Cavalry. Chadrorn of Georgia was colonel, Deering brigade. This company was of the flower of the land who were able to furnish their accoutrements. He spent the winters of 1862 and 1863 on Black Water, Va., doing picket duty and very often fighting the federal cavalry. He was stationed at Kinston, N. C., in the summer of 1863 where he was a special crier at the battle of Wise Fork where he rode near General Deering. The federal fire was concentrated on him and the General commanded him to "throw down dispatch and flee for your life."

This faithful regiment was sent on a forced march to repel Foster's raid through Greenville to Rocky Mount. They rested on their arms on Hunters Creek on the night of July 3, 1863. The federals were piloted by a guard to an old colonial ford. Next morning found them in Greene county. He was in the battle to Capture Washington and Plymouth, N. C., where he heard the blowing up of the iron clad Albermarle Ram. He often spoke of Plymouth as being a bloody seige where the Confederates are lying on the ground where they had repeatedly charged were thick enough to step from one to another.

The winter of 1863 was again spent on the south side of the James river below Richmond where the winter was bitter cold and almost every day scrambling with the enemy. The summer of 1864 again found this battle scared regiment in eastern North Carolina where when the Confederates attempted to capture New Bern they sent around on the flank to capture a fort which they did and two hours later, received orders to march to Petersburg with all possible haste. (Having marched hard the day previous) remaining in this captured fort only a few hours to get a full supper of the federals good rations and feed and rest their faithful horses. Their long forced march begun and at dark on the fourth day found them striking camp on the north side of the old historic Appomattox, just over the bridge opposite Petersburg. Dark and rainy, soldiers and horses wet and tired and hungry and but little food in their haversacks and no food for the horses till near dawn, men drop to mother earth and took a peaceful slumber. Next morning a bright July day. Grand formed army coming up the Appomattox and is near Petersburg. Joab Tyson and William Smith (R. L. Smith's father) were sent out by General Deering to reconter and report any information about the federals. The federal cavalry were now in sight of Richmond. Lee's heroic army is gathering before Grant; it is near night and both armies are aware that many will die next day. Only sorties are made. Lee begins to build breastworks. Grant too, begins to build breastworks. Now the fighting in the trenches before Petersburg begins.

This well known Bridge of Deering is found south of Petersburg fighting Grant at Stoney Creek, Reams Station and one hundred flanking movements. Just a few days before Lee evacuated Petersburg the subject of this sketch was given a squad of men and detached to get up forage in N. C. Two horses were killed under him but he never received a scratch. He ran out of a fort one time after its surrender and he was a target over an open field only to have his rifle shot from his hand; came home and bought an old army horse and made bread for his beautiful wife an two babies.

BROTHER GRIGG.

Mr. Clark Asks Democrats to Stick

"He who best serves his party, best serves his country."

Now that our internal troubles are all settled and the enemy are arrayed in line of battle against us, it becomes imperative that not only every Democratic candidate should shoulder the wheel side by side, but that every true Democrat who believes in the great fundamental principles of the party should look to his priming and fall in line for the fray.

We may have had our differences and many may not have gotten their choice, but the choosing was done under the auspices of the party's organization and the candidates so chosen are the standard bearers of Democracy. Those who have seemed repugnant to you may not when in office prove to be so bad, at any rate they are preferable to a Republican administration.

From the beginning of time internal strife has been the germ of all downfall. The cause of a grand Democracy is at stake and I do not believe that any one who loves his party will allow his personal dislikes to undermine its foundations and cause its overthrow. The party is above the individual.

It must be remembered by those who fought and lost, that had they won they would have justly expected the losers to support their candidate.

Personally, I shall stand by the promises that I have made the people, and if elected I shall endeavor to honestly and impartially serve those who fought me as well as those who fought for me. I do not believe that any candidate should work only for his own election, but rather for the triumph of the Democratic party. My appeal is to patriotism and reason.

"It is a condition that confronts us—not a theory."

D. M. CLARK.
