CONFESSED DYNAMITER, WITNESS

Ortie McManigal Appears for the State

RE-OPEN DYNAMITING CASES

Long Drawn Trial of Other Alleged Dynamiters Is Expected to Begin in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—Stationed within a rail in the small court room where they occupied almost half the space, the defendants charged with complicity in the McNamara "dynamite plots," were placed on trial before Federal Judge Albert B. Anderson today.

Judge Anderson at 9:45 a. m. ordered called "consolidated case No. 3, the United States versus Frank M. Ryan, et al."

On motion of the government the cases against J. W. Ryan, Peoria, Ill.; Andrew J. Kavanaugh, Springfield, Ill., and Patrick H. Ryan, Chicago, were dismissed.

The government announced it had no evidence against them to warrant their trial. All of the men had been identified with the iron worker's union.

At the outset Ortie E. McManigal pleaded guilty.

Eugene A. Clancep and Olaf A. Tvitmore, of San Francisco, pleaded not guilty. All the other defendants at their arraignment last March had pleaded not guilty.

Daniel J. Brophy, Brooklyn, N. Y., a former executive board member of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was reported unable to attend on account of a broken leg. His absence left fifty men to be tried.

A motion to set aside the order on sciliciting the cases, made on behalf of the defendants, was sustained. This separated the various indictments, but left the defendants to be tried together.

McManigal, aged about fifty years, short, chubby and of a florid complexion, entered the court room grinning. His eyes twinkled keenly as he glanced at the other defendants.

He closely scrutinized one by one the men with whom, he asserts, he once was associated, but against whom he is now arrayed as a prosecuting witness. As he looked not a sign of recognition other than McManigal's inscrutable grin, passed between them.

First Annual Fair of the E. C. F. Association

The first annual fair of the Great Eastern Carolina Fair Association Company will be held at New Bern on October 29, 30, 31 and November 1st, 1912. The association has been getting everything in readiness for the last six months and they now announce to the public that this fair will be one of the best and largest ever held in North Carolina.

Several thousand premium books have been issued and are now ready for distribution all over Eastern North Carolina. Six thousand dollars in premiums will be offered in this premium book. Those who desire this book an information are requested to write J. Leon Williams, Secretary, New Bern, N. C., at once and one of these books will be mailed to them.

One of the features of the fair will be the daily monoplane flights by Mr. Frank Champion, the noted aviator. Last year an aviation meet was held in New Bern and Mr. C. C. Witmer made some marvelous flights in a Curtiss biplane.

Another attraction that will draw crowds to New Bern will be two exhibitions daily by Mr. James Hardy, the High Wire King. Mr. Hardy won world-renown by walking across the Niagara Falls on a tight wire several years ago.

The public will have the opportunity of seeing some fine horse racing. Inquiries are coming in every day of its kind, ever pulled off in Eastern North Carolina and special rates will be offered on all railroads.

BOSS MURPHY MUST BEHAVE

Promises He Will Not Dictate to Dix

DEMOCRATS TO BE LEFT ALONE

Tammany Chieftain Will Keep Off the Contest for the Nomination of New York Governor

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The problem of unbossed nominations by a political convention three-fourths of the membership of which is reputed to be the control of one man, confronts the Democracy of New York, which met here at noon today in state convention.

The situation is unlike in that Chas. F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, has declared that he will not seek to dictate thenomination for governor, although it, has been asserted that did he so desire, he could control four hundred of the 450 votes in the convention.

Believing that the nomination of Governor Dix is improbable, friends of other aspirants for first place on the ticket are working for support wherever it may be found.

Foremost among those mentioned for the honor are Representative William Sulzer, Lieutenant Governor Thos. F. Ryan, and ex-Comptroller Marin H. Glynn, the latter the temporary chairman of the convention.

Proceedings of the assembling of the convention work proceeded on the platform in consultation with United States Senator O'Gorman. It will be in the main devoted to state issues, including highway development.

There is a belief that this convention will abandon the system of voting under the unit rule.

That the high cost of living and the rule of the people are the principal issues of this campaign was the declaration of Martin H. Glynn, temporary chairman of the Democratic state convention here today.

The speaker followed this statement with the prediction that the former would cease to be an issue after March 4, next saying:

"President Wilson and a Democratic congress will attend to that."

The government report issued today places the condition of the crop at 69.6 and the amount of cotton ginned up to Sept. 25th, at 3,000,015 bales.

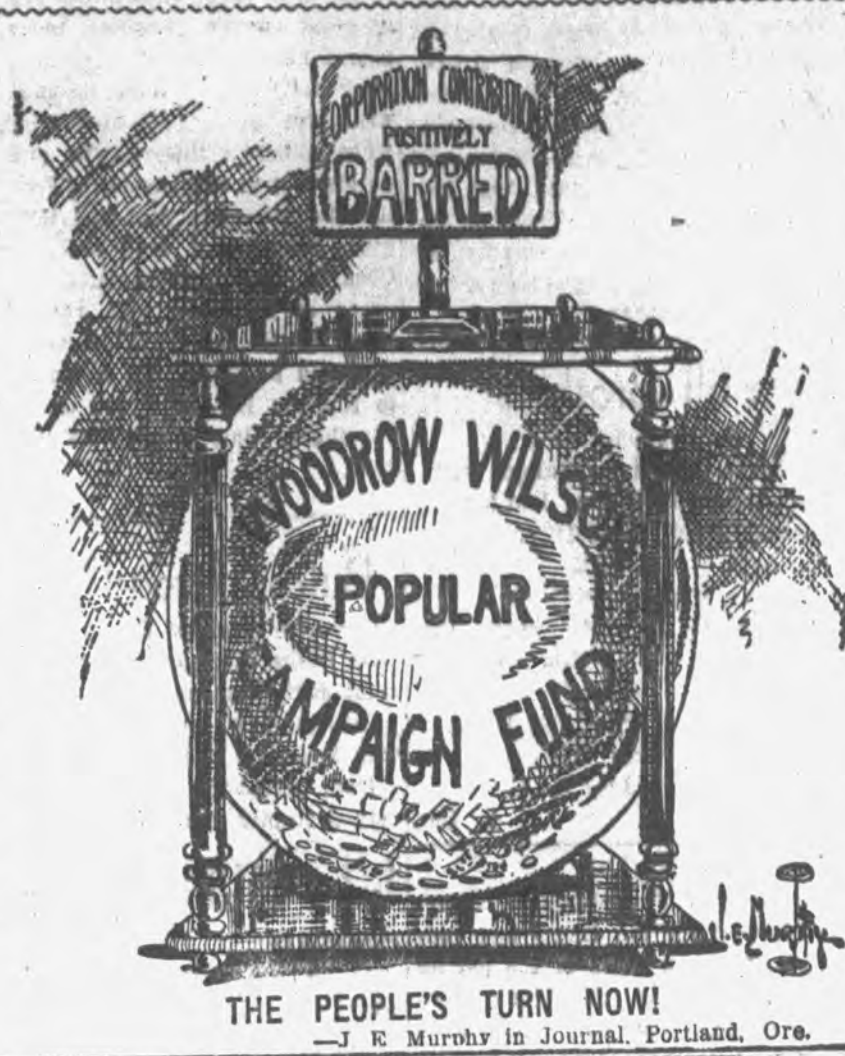

The fair grounds are situated on what is known as the "Oaks Farm," a beautiful spot on the Neuse River. The association owns one hundred acres of land. Thirty acres are now enclosed in the fair ground.

There has been erected a magnificent main building, 60 x 200 feet, an enormous grand stand with a seating capacity for thousands, a poultry building, a swine building, sheds for cattle, stables for the race horses, and a standard oval half a mile race track.

Music for the fair will be furnished by A. Passeri Italian Band from Philadelphia.

Wednesday, October 30th, will be children's day. Every school child in Eastern North Carolina will be given a ticket which will give them admission to the fair grounds for that day. Amusements of all kinds for the children will take place on that day.

This fair will be the biggest event of its kind, ever pulled off in Eastern North Carolina and special rates will be offered on all railroads.

Teddy the First Streaks Through N. C. Like A California Tornado

Enters by Asheville, Delivers Four Important Speeches, Several Minor Ones and Exits After Addressing Raleigh Audience

Tobacco and Oil Trust Come in For Some of His Blunt Criticisms

THE GOVERNMENT CENTRALIZED, HIS IDEAL

(By J. A. Lorente) of the military came on time, that is St. Peter stood behind the massive door of Paradise, his right hand wrapped around the golden knob, ready for applicants.

Rat-tat-tat! came modestly from the other side. "Who's that?" demanded the doorkeeper. "George Washington, sir," answered a mild voice. "Come in George," answered the saint and tell me what you have done to claim the recompense of eternal paradise. "Not much, sir," replied Washington, meekly, "I just saved my country." "All right, George, I guess you deserve it."

Another faint knock to the door, as Washington was being registered. "Who's that?" "Thomas Jefferson," came back in shaky tones. "Come in, Tom, and let me hear how you expect to stay here with us." "Well, sir," said Jefferson, "I know I did not do so much, still, I saved Democracy in my country, and my people thank me for—"

Jefferson did not finish his sentence. A tremendous noise was heard by all three as they stood behind the door. The rumpus seemed to approach via the stairway. St. Peter, opened the door just a little bit. Through the crack he saw a man coming up, lickety-clip, four rounds at a time. Hearing the intruder, he drew back and locked the door. The noise neared and neared until it crashed against the door with these words: "Hey, it's me, I, Bwana Tumbo, Teddy, the Bull Moose, the big Noise, and I WANT TO GET IN."

That's just the way with Teddy. When he makes up his mind about wanting a thing he goes after it and hollers for it. He may or he may not, stop long enough to explain his qualifications to obtain his wish. Oftener he does not. So when Bill Taft ran the steam roller over him in the primaries, Teddy got up and hollered that he wanted the nomination, because he wanted the presidency.

In his Bull Moose party-swing around the states Teddy marked down in blue pencil the word South. He realized that something could be done in the south and he came. What he did in other states is not of much consequence to us. Into Raleigh did the Colonel roll yesterday evening, a full five minutes ahead of schedule, in other words, at 5:15 p. m. Getting in so early kept him waiting at the station for five minutes, a few rah rahs, in fact a great many more rah rahs than were necessary. The 3rd Regiment band found a place to enter the town without the help of the 3rd regiment band, which being

LIEUT. MORRISON KILLED ON BOARD

The Explosion Bl. w. Off. Turbine Engine

TESTING SHIP AT THE TIME

Other Eight Are Seriously Hurt, Steam Chest Blown Open by Force of Explosion

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 1.—Lieutenant Donald P. Morrison was killed and eight men, injured today by the explosion of the steam on the torpedo boat destroyer Walke.

The accident occurred off Brenton's Reef lightship while the Walke was preparing for her second quarterly trial.

Lieutenant Morrison entered the service from Missouri in 1902.

The seriously injured were: Lieutenant Robert L. Montgomery, of the destroyer Fanning; E. B. Crawford, gunner's mate of the destroyer Patterson, the umpires named to watch the tests; and the following members of the Walke's crew: J. W. Rumps, machinists mate, first class; H. L. Wilder, machinist mate, first class; D. S. Kelly, chief machinist mate; J. Delaney, first class, fireman; W. E. Kraus, oiler, and F. B. Conway, oiler.

The Walke was in company with several other destroyers when the forward end of the port turbine, together with the steam chest, was blown off.

Lieutenant Morrison, the chief engineer on board, was instantly killed, and the others were badly scalded.

Signals were at once hoisted for assistance and a wireless dispatch sent to Rear Admiral Osterhaus, on board his flagship Connecticut, at anchor off Jamestown.

The destroyers Perkins, Sterrett and Maquant immediately went to the assistance of the Walke. A heavy southerly gale was blowing, but efforts were made to send a line on board the damaged craft.

It was then discovered that her starboard engine was in commission. The Walke steamed back into the harbor and ran alongside the hospital ship Solace, on board of which had assembled the greater part of the medical staff of the fleet.

The wounded were transferred and the Walke was sent to the torpedo station for repairs.

The torpedo boat destroyer Walke was launched at the yard of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, at Quincy, Mass., November 3, 1910. She is a sister vessel of the destroyers Perkins and Sterrett and has a displacement of 742 tons. Her complete crew is 89 men.

New Jersey Christian Endeavors.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 2.—A large attendance marked the opening here today of the 26th annual convention of the N. J. Christian Endeavor Society. The initial session was held this afternoon in the First Reformed Church and was devoted to reports from officers, special workers and department superintendents. The sessions will continue over tomorrow and Friday.

East Texas Opens.

TYLER, Texas, Oct. 2.—The annual exhibitions of the East Texas Fair Association opened today under the most favorable conditions. The exhibits of horses, cattle, sheep, and swine and poultry are the best ever seen here, and everything points to a most successful fair. The exhibit of machinery is very large and includes all kinds of modern improved farm implements and labor-saving devices.

GENTRY & GORMAN'S BULLETIN.

The sales for this week have all been finished by dinner. Prices have been higher on some grades, especially the cutters (high grades) and the orange leaf. Our sales have averaged over 20 cents each day. This means our whole sale and not picked lots. Some showing, which he believes could not be duplicated in the state. It is the Pittsburg Pirates are giving the Chicago Cubs a great battle for second position in the National league race.

CHAPEL HILL PRES. EXPLAINS

Wanted to Suppress News From College

AT ODDS WITH NEWSPAPERS

According to President Venable The Press is Partly to Blame for The Student's Stand

CHAPEL HILL, Oct. 1.—President F. P. Venable on his return from Raleigh where yesterday he appeared before the executive committee of the board of trustees, in fulfillment of a promise, read his official statement as to reasons of the wholesale expulsion of students recently, in chapel this morning. Both faculty and student body gave an attentive ear to his exposition of the matter. Turning aside from his subject proper, President Venable sought to flay what he termed "sensational newspaper utterances", and in emphatic terms branded the newspapers that carried the names of students expelled (which consisted of all the leading North Carolina dailies) as committing a "gross injustice". For years reporters have been current here and in the state that news had been suppressed here that vitally affected the life of the state and should have been turned loose to the papers as public property. And in the light of recent developments, in which President Venable put forth strenuous efforts to suppress news in the strictest sense, has caused the comment to become general in Chapel Hill that the denunciations of newspapers is only in keeping with President Venable's time honored policy to suppress news that should have been given as much publicity as possible.

President Venable's statement follows:

I am not only willing, but anxious to make clear to the students action taken by the faculty. First, because it is important for them to understand it and to see that simple justice has been done for without the feeling that the government is just the attempt to govern is hopeless. Secondly, the statement why punishment has been inflicted serves to fix in mind both punishment and offense far better than the annual recounting of the laws which often falls on heedless ears.

The university law forbids hazing in any form. I am well aware that the student definition of hazing differs in varying groups of students and often widely from the interpretation of the faculty. The faculty cannot accept any other interpretation than their own. Hazing in any form is a broad phrase and covers everything from physical violence to any foolish and humiliating performance which a gentleman would not willingly do in public under ordinary circumstances. The fact that it is done without resistance and on a simple request has no bearing on the matter. The young stranger may well believe that resistance would bring about something still worse.

FOXHALL'S STAR HITS A HIGH AVERAGE

Things are being done in a big scale in the Greenville tobacco market this season. In fact we are accustomed to hear of averages that nobody would have dreamed of a few days prior to the opening of the market.

One of the five warehouses that has distinguished itself for fine salesmanship has been Foxhall's warehouse. Figures had been set in that popular house that have sent scores of farmers home, happy and with a big check.

Today's sale at the Star have resulted in another fine showing, an average of $22.14 being made for the 34,886 pounds of tobacco auctioned there this morning. In other words checks to the value of $7,722.17 were issued to pleased customers.

Mgr. Foxhall is delighted with this showing, which he believes could not be duplicated in the state. It is the Pittsburg Pirates are giving the Chicago Cubs a great battle for second position in the National league race.

THE NATIONAL TICKET

Wilson Marshall

THE SMALL PARTIES IN THE CAMPAIGN

To the intelligent observer in Europe, and to many persons here who are not actively interested in our political situation, it may seem as though the relative claims of the Republican party, the Democrats and the new Progressive organization are the only ones which are being presented to the voters of the country, or about which they are concerned.

And yet, one voter out of every eighteen—if he follows precedent and the law of average—will cast his vote next November for a presidential candidate not on any of those tickets. Eight hundred thousand persons "threw their votes away in 1908, by voting for one or another of five candidates who had not the slightest chance of being elected. This represents a larger number of voters than appeared at the polls that year in the seven Southern states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. Surely the creeds of these men are worthy of careful consideration.

Not in twenty years, however, has there been so small a number of minor political organizations which have seen fit to enter the contest for the presidency. Besides the candidacies of Mr. Taft, Governor Wilson and Colonel Roosevelt, there are those of Mr. Debs, the Socialist, Mr. Chaffin, the Prohibitionist, and Mr. Reimer, representing the Socialist Labor group.

The People's party,—the only minor party with in the last fifty years which ever carried a state for its presidential nominee,—is without a national ticket for the first time since 1892. In that year General Weaver polled more than a million votes and carried five western states. The Populist strength has gradually diminished, however, and four years ago there were less than 30,000 voters in the party ranks.

Mr. Hearst's Independence party, which had made its appearance in but one national campaign, that of 1908,—has also decided to remain out of the running this year.

THE KIND OF MEN WHO SHOULD BE IN COLLEGE

We suspect we are likely to underestimate the number of naturally fit men, now barred out of college by the traditional requirements, who could readily enough prepare themselves to enter with quite as promising an equipment as that possessed by the regular high-school candidates. They are to be found in every walk of life. Some are on the farms, many are teaching school, others are clerking in banks and commercial offices or working at the trades. These promising men should not merely be welcomed; they should be sought out. All colleges and especially those connected with the state universities should bear torches in the search.

It is a phase of conservation which transcends in importance the conservation of the forests, the water powers, and the coal. Why should there not be "state surveys" for this higher object, something after the plan proposed by Jefferson for the discovery of geniuses in Virginia?

Not all naturally brilliant youths will desire to enter the professions and this is well, for they are needed in the other walks of life also and will ever be found in goodly numbers, as now, in business, in the trades, on the farms. Those preferring these occupations ought to prepare for them at the vocational schools or in other effectual ways. The college course would be open to them for the purpose, but they would be expected to pursue it under the severe intellectual regimen prescribed for those looking forward to the professions.

The big Bull Moose did not cause a stampede and his following in this state is not increased.

Democrats will have two thanksgivings next month, to only one for the Republicans.

The colonel has come and went, and left North Carolina about like he found it.

Do not let the Wilson campaign contributions lag.

Get the habit of boosting Greenville and keep it up.

Carl Hayden

Carl Hayden, who has the distinction of being the first congressman sent by the new state of Arizona to the national house of representatives, was born in Tempe, Arizona, October 2, 1877. After graduating from the Normal School of Arizona in 1896 he attended Leland Sanford, Jr., University, where he distinguished himself as a member of the football team. Upon his return to Arizona after completing his university career young Hayden succeeded his father in the presidency of the milling company that years before had built the first flour mill in Arizona. His public career began ten years ago with his election as treasurer of his home county. Following this, he was twice elected sheriff and upon the admission of Arizona to statehood last year he was the Democratic choice for delegate-at-large to Congress and ran neck and neck with Senator Ashurst for first honors as a vote getter.

Gov. Jarvis at Assembly
The student and faculty of the Training School were delighted to have an opportunity to hear Gov. Jarvis at assembly yesterday morning. Pres. Wright in his introduction spoke truly when he said Gov. Jarvis had left his imprint on everything connected with the school. His words and life are a constant source of inspiration to those who attend the Training School.

Gov. Jarvis began his talk by asking "What are you here for?" As established to help, fit, train and prepare people for work in life only those who have this spirit should come. The students who have gone out have been witnesses to the good work done here.

The greatest asset of the country is its women because, as teachers and mothers, they have the best opportunity to train the children, future citizens who make the nation.

He closed by pleading with the students to use every moment here for preparation so they would make efficient workers in the world.

Rev. C. M. Rock, pastor of the Baptist church, conducted the religious part of the assembly exercises at the Training School yesterday morning.

IT WAS A CLEAN SHOW

Sun Brothers Went Ahead of Expectations in Excellence

Those who failed to see Sun Brothers show Tuesday because of waiting for something bigger, certainly missed a treat. There have been bigger shows to come this way, but nothing better. "It was a knock out," is the way several were heard to express themselves after witnessing the splendid high classed performance.

Sun Brothers aggregation of saw dust entertainers proved to be a revelation as the whole was a hundred per cent better than expected. The show was comparatively unknown here and very few had any idea that it was to be of such meritorious character. From beginning to finish there was a succession of fine trained horses, beautifully and skillfully executed equestrian feats, wonderful Japanese and Mexican performers, men and women trapezists and some that performed at dizzy heights while suspended by their teeth. In fact everything was of the best.

Probably one of the biggest hits was made by the acting elephants. These monsters outclassed anything of the kind ever seen in Greenville before.

Sun Brothers are particularly to be commended for the absolute refinement of their show and the freedom from fake games, ticket scalping or cheating of any kind. During the day there were no arrests in town, the officers reporting it the quietest circus day they have experienced.

Gen. Robert B. Brown, Republican commander-in-chief of the G. A. nominee for governor of Ohio, and for R., 68-years old today.

Rev. John H. Griffith, of Kinston, came in Monday morning to attend services at the Episcopal church.

Miss Yula Cox, a trained nurse from Kinston who has been spending some time with her parents here, left Monday for Grifton where she goes to assist Dr. Dawson in his practice. After October 1st the Bank of Winterville will charge ten cents exchange on cashier's checks.

Bishop Strange held services in the Episcopal church Monday morning and evening and preached two excellent sermons. He was assisted in the night services by Rev. Dalas Tucker, of Greenville.

Must Believe It

When Well-Known Greenville People Tell It So Plainly

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Greenville the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every sufferer of kidney backache and every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following:

Mrs. L. Mangum, 416 Dickison ave., Greenville N. C. says: "Doan's kidney pills are by no means a new remedy to me. I have used them on different occasions and have found that they are a preparation of great merit. Kidney complaint and backache made me miserable and it was not until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the John L. Wooten Drug Co., that I found relief. Recently I again got a supply of this remedy and it helped me as promptly and effectively as before."

Teddy the first streak

In the crowded gallery and entertained until Teddy's arrival at the Auditorium.

Chocolate-drop gallery was attended to overflowing, it appearing as a patch of black melons artistically hung from the ceiling of the Auditorium.

At 8:15, preceded by all the Raleigh cops and handled with great care by men who seemed to belong to the gum-shoe aggregation, Teddy the first himself ascended the platform, well-filled with state moosers, and moosettes, (think this is the right term for them.)

Scarcely had Teddy tread the platform when the band struck Dixie and a mixed demonstration was given the mighty hunter. For a while Teddy tried to boss the band, by swinging his right arm to the tune. After sitting down however, he relinquished the leadership to the right man.

Ex-Judge Robinson, of Goldsboro, annexed the platform for a few minutes and introduced the speaker as "Col. Theodore Roosevelt."

Another demonstration quite as riotous as the first one followed Roosevelt's rising from the chair and bowing to the assemblage.

Easily, very easily Roosevelt began his speech, sprinkling a peculiar kind of oil, which was meant to appeal to the vanity (if they should have any) of North Carolina citizenship. The Colonel went back to history to prove that Tar Heels should be one and all in joining in the movement to free the country from the bosses, for did not North Carolina declare independence before any of the other states?

After a few minutes spent in patting and caressing North Carolina, Teddy started to explain the reason for the third party. He could only see that the Bull Moose was a natural born party. The people wanted it and he provided it. In other words had the people turned him down at the primaries he would not be campaigning today, but as he knows it was the politicians who tricked the victory from the people, he is now hitting the grit on his private train to tell the United States at large, that he will see victory redeemed from under the steam roller. Along here Teddy said, "If the people had not wanted me, I would have said nothing. But as the people do want me, I have to say a great deal. I have said something already."

Roosevelt had a double voice with him last night. A carrying voice and a retrieving voice. With the first one he "got there," with the second one he brought back the applause. The one vibrating and penetrating, the other one squeaky and with a falsetto register. Some people thought it was affection. Others that the strain to which he has subjected his voice in the past few weeks, has brought a strain to it.

As in other speeches of the day, Roosevelt had it in for the tobacco and the Standard Oil trusts. He said that whilst he saw no evil in big business as long as big business behaved itself as it should, he proposed, if given a chance, to put a halter to it in case of misbehavior. He would treat it as Uncle Sam treats a naughty National Bank. Sick a receiver to it, and turn on the screws. Teddy somehow or other did not go very deep into trusty things, last night. He rather skimmed over the big boys, much as a sea gull cuts capers over the ocean just wetting its feet slightly as it describes circles.

He told one anecdote of particular interest to grocers. It had to deal with the trouble he had in Cuba with HIS regiment and a matter of 1,100 pounds of beans. The supply commissary and himself were the chief actors in the bean episode and naturally Teddy got the best of the commissary.

Along towards the end of his speech he tumbled into the Panama canal, it being about the only ditch big enough in the whole world to trip such a big man. He said in part. "The Spaniards discovered the canal four centuries ago; they talked about the advantages of a canal being built there to link the Atlantic and the Pacific. Other people talked about it too. And all that resulted in four centuries of conversation: 'I TOOK THE ISTHMUS AND STARTED THE CANAL. Had I instead written a masterful report of the canal, congress would have discussed the masterful report for another fifty years, and another half century of conversation would have resulted. As it is they are not discussing the Canal, but ME. And nobody really cares what they discuss about, not even ME. And the canal will be opened next year.'

Teddy repeated his story about the constitution. It (the constitution) is not a straight jacket, but a flexible instrument to be used for the best advantage of the people. That's just what he did. But "that does not make me unconstitutional."

This is the only accusation (that of being unconstitutional that he engaged to disprove last night. Many accusations had been made against him, though. In fact he had been accused of everything. But, that, he could not help. He was for the people, strong, and he wanted the people to be for him just as strong.

As to the Standard Oil dissolution all he could say is that whereas a man buying stock previously in the Curb would receive one slip, he now gets an envelope with thirty nine slips. Dissolution. In the meantime, Rockefeller who had not suffered poverty has now doubled the value of his holdings.

Several features in Teddy's speech last night were the absence of "unhappy" words for his adversaries. The following words he used once each and once only: Molycoddle, Democratic, Republican, Cheated and Swindled. This was a phenomenal disappointment to the thousands who had gathered to hear the political fireworks started in the auditorium.

As Roosevelt "took the stand in his own defense" he looked more like a well-to-do Dutch farmer than the exponent of radical politics that he really is. Rather short for his weight and with a common place physiognomy, nobody would credit him with that power of energy he possesses. With that tremendous self-confidence that he evidences in coming to the front as the savior of America. He held his large audience with ease, and spoke for about an hour and a quarter.

And, lest we forget, another typical Roosevelt story gong hie rounds: Roosevelt was expected in heaven. The angels were holding a kind of aldermanic inquiry into it. Something of a mass meeting. Roosevelt with something to do, was one thing. Roosevelt idle, quite another. After a few hours conference they decided to let him have the pick. Teddy came as scheduled. A committee met him at the gate and asked him "What will you do, should you decide to stay with us?" "Well," said Teddy, "I think I'll devote myself to choir work. I want a million tenors, a million contraltos and a million sopranos and of course you'll have to let us have a place to practice in." "We can arrange all that for you, Mr. Roosevelt," was the answer, "but we think you have left an item out. What about bases?" "I'LL SING THAT MYSELF," was Teddy's rejoinder.
