SPEED MANIACS SUFFER LOSSES

Bruce Brown Dead, De Palma Injured

BRAGG WINS IN GRAND PRIX

Condition of Young Popular Driver And That of His Mechanician is Pronounced Critical

WAUWATOSA, Wis., Oct. 5.—Caleb Bragg, of Cincinnati, driving a Liat car, won the ten thousand dollar Grand Prix automobile road race here today. Time for 409 miles, five hours, fifty-nine minutes, twenty-nine seconds, an average of six-eight and a half miles an hour.

On the last lap Ralph De Palma went into a ditch. Both De Palma and his mechanic, Tonie Alley, are reported fatally injured.

Bob Burman was forced to withdraw from the race at the end of fifteen miles because of a broken piston. He was the first man to fall by the wayside under the terrific pace set by the leaders.

The biggest crowd of the week gathered here today to witness the $10,000 Grand Prix automobile road race. Under ideal weather and track conditions, drivers started expecting to break all records for the new course.

Eleventh hour changes in the list of starters this morning aroused much interest. Caleb Bragg, who on Tuesday announced that he would not drive his big Fiat because of the death of his close friend, David Bruce-Brown, this morning reconsidered the decision. As a result he was at the wheel of his car as the machines were lined up by Starter Fred Wagner.

Louis Fontaine had the driver's seat in the Lozier entry in place of Harry Nelson. Barney Oldfield, after a night of uncertainty regarding his participation in the event, appeared with a Fiat.

Instead of Joe Dawson, winner of this year's 500-mile race at Indianapolis, Joe Horan was elected to pilot the third Benz car entered.

Webb May Call Together Committee to Decide Who Is a Democrat

RALEIGH, Oct. 5.—Chairman Charles A. Webb may call the state Democratic executive committee to meet in Raleigh this month for the purpose of again taking up the question of who shall be eligible to vote in the senatorial primaries. The chairman has received hundreds of letters protesting against the drastic motion of the committee two weeks ago.

It was Governor Kitchin and his friends who forced the committee to take action that is regarded by a few as detrimental to the best interests of the party. It will be remembered that they forced the issue at the first meeting of the committee and that later the Governor himself requested Chairman Webb to call the committee together.

When the committee met the last time factional lines were not followed, the wise heads on both sides seem to think that the committee should not debar a voter from the primary because he could not or would not vote for every man on the ticket. The question has disturbed all Democrats, it is said, and many requests for something more in line with twentieth century ideas have poured in to the chairman.

Convention of Teamsters

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 7.—Between 200 and 300 delegates from various parts of the United States and Canada were present here today when the biennial convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers was called to order by President Daniel J. Tobin of Cambridge, Mass. The officer's reports show an increase of about 10,000 members in the past two years and a treasury gain of $60,000 in the same period. Indications point to the re-election of President Tobin and nearly all of the other officers.

MOUNTAIN DISTILLERS TURN GUNS ON POSSE

DISCOVERED IN THEIR LAIR VIRGINIANS SHOOT AT ATTACKERS AND DISAPPEAR IN MOUNTAINS

DISTILLERY WAS IN FULL SWING

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 7.—R. F. Henry, of the Federal internal revenue service has returned to Roanoke with an account of a pitched battle in the mountains of Carroll county between moonshiners and a posse composed of himself and three other officers.

Having information of a large illicit distillery near Jipor's Gap, the revenue men plunged into a wild section of the Blue Ridge, passing through the country covered by the detectives in their famous chase of the Allens.

About two miles from Floyd Allen's home, between Piper's Gap and Fancy Gap, they saw a man walking through a cornfield and following him, landed in a deep ravine, where smoke was curling above the tree tops.

A moment afterward they stumbled upon a large and up-to-date distillery with fires burning briskly and from which whiskey was pouring.

As they stood looking at the still, shots rang out from the thickets and bullets whistled. The officers emptied their revolvers into the bushes and firing their rifles, ran in the direction of the sound of the new course.

The moonshiners fled. No one was wounded. Nearly three thousand gallons of beer and a large quantity of whiskey were destroyed and the copper still was cut to pieces.

Allen's Protracted Hunt Cost State of Virginia $14,000

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 5.—Chief W. G. Baldwin, in Richmond today to see Governor Mann, said the total amount paid out by the state for expenses and services of detectives in connection with the capture of the Allen gang was only $14,000. He estimates the court costs will be $7,000 more.

On Site of Wisconsin's First Capitol.

PLATTEVILLE, Wis., Oct. 7.—With interesting exercises, a bronze memorial tablet was erected to mark the site of the first capitol of Wisconsin in the town of Belmont, east of this city. The tablet was erected through efforts of the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Dr. Wiley to Speak for Wilson

AKRON, O., Oct. 7.—Summit county Democrats are making great preparations for the big political rally here tomorrow night, at which Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former United states chemist and pure food expert will speak in behalf of the Democratic national and state tickets. It will be Dr. Wiley's only speech of the campaign. He will be accompanied by Akron by Congressman James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for governor.

More Capital Forthcoming to Dredge Gold in Catawba

MORGANTON, N. C., Oct. 5.—While gold mining has been carried on in Burke for years, yet a new form of this industry has developed recently which is a revolution to the former methods.

Some time ago, a mining expert came here and spent several weeks making tests from sand in the rivers for gold and became convinced that with proper machinery a large amount of gold could be secured from the river-bed.

In a few weeks he interested a number of capitalists in the proposition and a $25,000 suction dredge is now in operation in the Catawba river, and the results have so far exceeded expectations and options have been secured on the river-bed throughout the county.

Bloody Battle in Nicaragua Costs Uncle Sam Four Lives Nicaraguan Rebel Chief Wounded

Revolutionary Oposing American Marines, Puts Up Stubborn Fight But is Finally Conquered After Losing Many Soldiers in the Conflict

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A dispatch from Rear Admiral Southerland today gives the names of the four marines killed in the fight with Nicaraguan rebels and announces that Lieutenant Colonel Long, with 1,000 men and bluejackets from the cruisers California and Colorado, are moving on Leon, the remaining rebel stronghold.

The marines killed in yesterday's fight were Privates Babbitts, Durham, McGill and Pollard.

The seven marines wounded will recover.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Four American marines were killed and the American forces took the town of Coyotepe from the Nicaraguan rebels, according to a telegram received early today by Minister Castrillo from Chamorro, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Nicaragua.

The cablegram to Minister Castrillo, dated Managua, October 4, was as follows: "Masaya taken today by assault. We had 100 dead and 200 wounded. Americans early took Coyotepe with four dead and six wounded. Correa simultaneously took Barranca. Zeledon fled with followers and was captured eight leagues from Masaya, wounded and died later. Today I visited the American legation to express deepest sympathy for marines death. Granada municipality requested marines' bodies for burial at that city. I beg you express Department of State my deep sympathy." (Signed) "CHAMORRO, Minister of Affairs."

Zeledon spoken of in the cablegram is a rebel general, a Honduran in the employ of Mena, the fallen dictator recently captured and taken to Panama for exile.

Though the lives of American marines have been lost and others have been wounded in what appears to have been one of the most sanguinary battles fought in Central America in many years, yet technically the United States is not engaged in war.

As defined by the State Department the status of the relations between the United States and Nicaragua is one of friendship.

forcibly protecting American lives and property as well as of the citizens of European nations.

The admiral has strictly refrained from intervening in any way between the warring factors in Nicaragua and has confined himself entirely to opening up railway communication and maintaining it free from interruption that the large foreign element scattered through the Nicaraguan towns might be able to receive food.

For nearly a week after the American naval forces managed to open the way from Managua to Granada, where the condition of foreigners was pitiful.

Insane Doctor from Virginia Shoots Down and Kills Boy

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5.—Dr. Samuel L. Stellard, a well known physician of Clintwood, Va., near Pikeville, held up a party of boys on the road near Clintwood today and commanded them to "line up so he could kill them," according to a special from Pikeville, Ky.

One of the boys instead of "lining up" turned and ran. Stellard drew a revolver and shot him in the leg.

He then turned the weapon on the other boys, killing one, the others escaping unhurt.

Stellard was arrested. He is believed to be insane.

SECTION MAN'S CHILD KILLED BY A. C. L. TRAIN

MOTHER ATTEMPTED TO RESCUE

A most unfortunate accident happened yesterday evening as the A. C. L. train due in Greenville at 6:32 swept from the track the five-year old daughter of Thomas Manning, a section hand of the road, and killed her instantly. The fatal accident took place at a point between Parmele and Whitehurst almost opposite the place where the Mannings live.

The child was in the middle of the track when the train hove in sight and the mother of the infant, who had probably neared the track to persuade the child to leave her place of danger, took in the situation at a glance and made a brave effort to reach her daughter, but before she could accomplish it, the cowcatcher of the locomotive had hit the child and thrown her quite clear of the tracks.

The engineer immediately stopped the train and with the help of some of the passengers picked up the little girl, already dead from the impact and carried her to the house. According to passengers the engineer of the train stated that he did not see anything of the child on the tracks before being already quite dark when the fatality occurred.

Mr. Manning, the father of the little girl was not at home when the sad accident took place.

Dusky Joy Rider Gets Pulled Up in Sight of Greenville

Ben Davis, a Farmville negro, who in some way has acquired the art of piloting bezine wagons through curves and down homestretches, made a famous sortie yesterday evening from the neighboring thriving town, aboard Mr. W. M. Lang's mobile.

In the tonneau of the car, two dusky maids reclined luxuriously, as Misto Davis applied the "gas".

It was sure some joy ride, Ben and his two "cousins" were in for. The start was made somewhere after 7:30, from Farmville, with the objective point in view our own town of Greenville.

Everything went on happily enough for the speedy trip until a few yards from Greenville Ben was obliged to leave his seat, descend and tinker with the machinery. He had not tinkered very long ere he was imperatively hailed by a voice which the negro acknowledged with a slight shaking of the knees. That voice belonged to that terror of delinquents, Chief Smith of the Farmville police.

Capt. Smith was doing some joy riding on his own and Mr. W. M. Lang's account, for it seems that Ben had forgotten to ask Mr. Lang if he was willing to let him have the car for his nightly expedition. Had he done so he would have heard Mr. Lang say "No." Davies was taken back to Farmville and his two cousins left to ponder over his honesty.

Carolina Club Postpones Meeting Till Tomorrow Night

On account of the public speaking to take place at the court house tonight, the Carolina Club monthly meeting that should have been held also tonight, has been postponed till tomorrow night, when a full attendance is requested and expected.

It is not so long ago since these monthly meetings of the C. C. were regular classics where much enthusiasm was evidenced by large attendances. There are many matters of the utmost interest up for discussion, amongst others the question of a new piano and pianola. It is expected that some solid start will be made towards a movement for the much needed good roads.

With Everything in Readiness For The Mammoth Contests The Park Owners Are Scalping

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—With the close of the regular baseball season in this city today, Boston's baseball enthusiasts began to mark time to the opening of the world series between Boston and New York, championship teams of the American and National Leaguers, respectively.

Successful applicants for tickets who have not called for the pasteboards during the past two days, lined up this morning for the distribution. It was expected that more than half the total of fifteen thousand reserved seats open to application will have been delivered and paid for when the club shuts up its ticket shop for the day. Those of the Boston fans who retain the name of "royal rooters", under which the Hub's world championship team was cheered and sung to victory against Pittsburg eight years ago, arranged today for a special train to take them to the opening game at New York. There will be more than three hundred in the party. Clubs, other combinations and individuals also made their arrangements for train accommodations.

While all these activities were going on in Boston, the Red Sox were playing the best game of the season at Philadelphia. Two days remain before the opening of the world series in which the team will prepare generally for the test to come. Word was received from Philadelphia today that all members of the team are in good shape. Both Gardner and Carrigan have recovered from their injuries and the physical condition of all the other players is said to be good.

Quotations on the reserved seat tickets for three games which cost $9, are about $20 bid and $30 and $35 asked. In the betting, wagers generally have reduced the New York end largely as a result of the recovery of Boston's injured players and the odds on Boston are 10 to 8 and better.

STAR AVERAGE FOR TODAY IS A "STAR"

Wisenhelmets on the Greenville tobacco market who knowingly shook their heads at the beginning of the season are requested to notice that prices are firm, especially so in the Star warehouse. Customers of this ever popular house have a great deal to congratulate themselves with. Every load they sell there brings full appreciation of the methods put into action at the sales.

With practically small houses all over the Star had today 18,746 lbs. of tobacco which sold for $4,401.37, or for a total average of $23.44. Manager Foxhall says that he is pleased beyond words with this showing and further promises to "keep on" doing his best for his friends. His friends know well enough what "that best of Foxhall's" means.

Items from Scotland Neck

Scotland Neck, N. C., Oct. 1, 1912.
Editor Reflector:

As I had promised to write after returning home, will say that I reached home the 21st of September, after having spent two and a half months away at Greenville, Arthur, Farmville and Wilson.

The rainfall here last Tuesday was 3.25 inches. Many said it was the biggest rain that they had ever seen and some of them were old people, too.

Dr. Wimberley took four or five of his friends out on a pleasure trip last Wednesday on his new car and when he was returning home in the evening, not knowing a bridge was washed away, ran his car in a ditch that was six feet wide and four feet deep. It was a general pileup, but none of the occupants were hurt except slightly. The most of the damage was it left the automobile where it needed some repairs.

Miss Lizzie Braxton returned home a few days ago from a four week's visit to relatives near Farmville, Pitt county. Messrs. J. A. Kitchen, J. T. Lewis, J. C. Bowers and J. T. Braxton went to Spring Hope Saturday to hear Mr. Claude Kitchin make a speech in behalf of Governor Kitchin. They went on Mr. J. A. Kitchen's automobile and he brought Mr. Claude Kitchin back here with them in the evening. They report a very nice barbecue dinner and say nearly everybody up there is for Kitchin.

The graded school here opened three weeks ago with a good attendance and is progressing finely with Prof. J. B. Akin superintendent.

Yesterday about eleven o'clock the fire alarm was sounded to let people know that Mr. J. S. Band's dwelling was on fire. The top was nearly ready to fall in before it was found out and then it was seen first by some of the neighbors. The house and most all of its contents were consumed. It caught from the kitchen flue. It was only by the hard work of a large crowd that other nearby buildings were saved. It was in East Scotland Neck.

Rev. R. A. McFarland of Suffolk, commenced a protracted meeting here in the Baptist church last night and preached a very good sermon to a large congregation. It is expected that the meeting will continue ten days or more.

The railroad has built a very nice depot here and it is expected to be open for use in a few days.

The electric light plant, it is said, will in a day or two give us city lights on our streets. We have had nothing but dark streets, except when the moon gave us light, for some weeks.

On account of the above occasion the ATLANTIC COAST LINE RAILROAD offers the above attractive affording the public opportunity to take advantage of a pleasant and a cheap trip to Richmond, where one of the best fairs of the year will be held, $50,000 in prizes being awarded. Tickets on sale for all trains Oct. 4th-12th, inclusive, limited, returning, to reach original starting point not later than Oct. 14th.

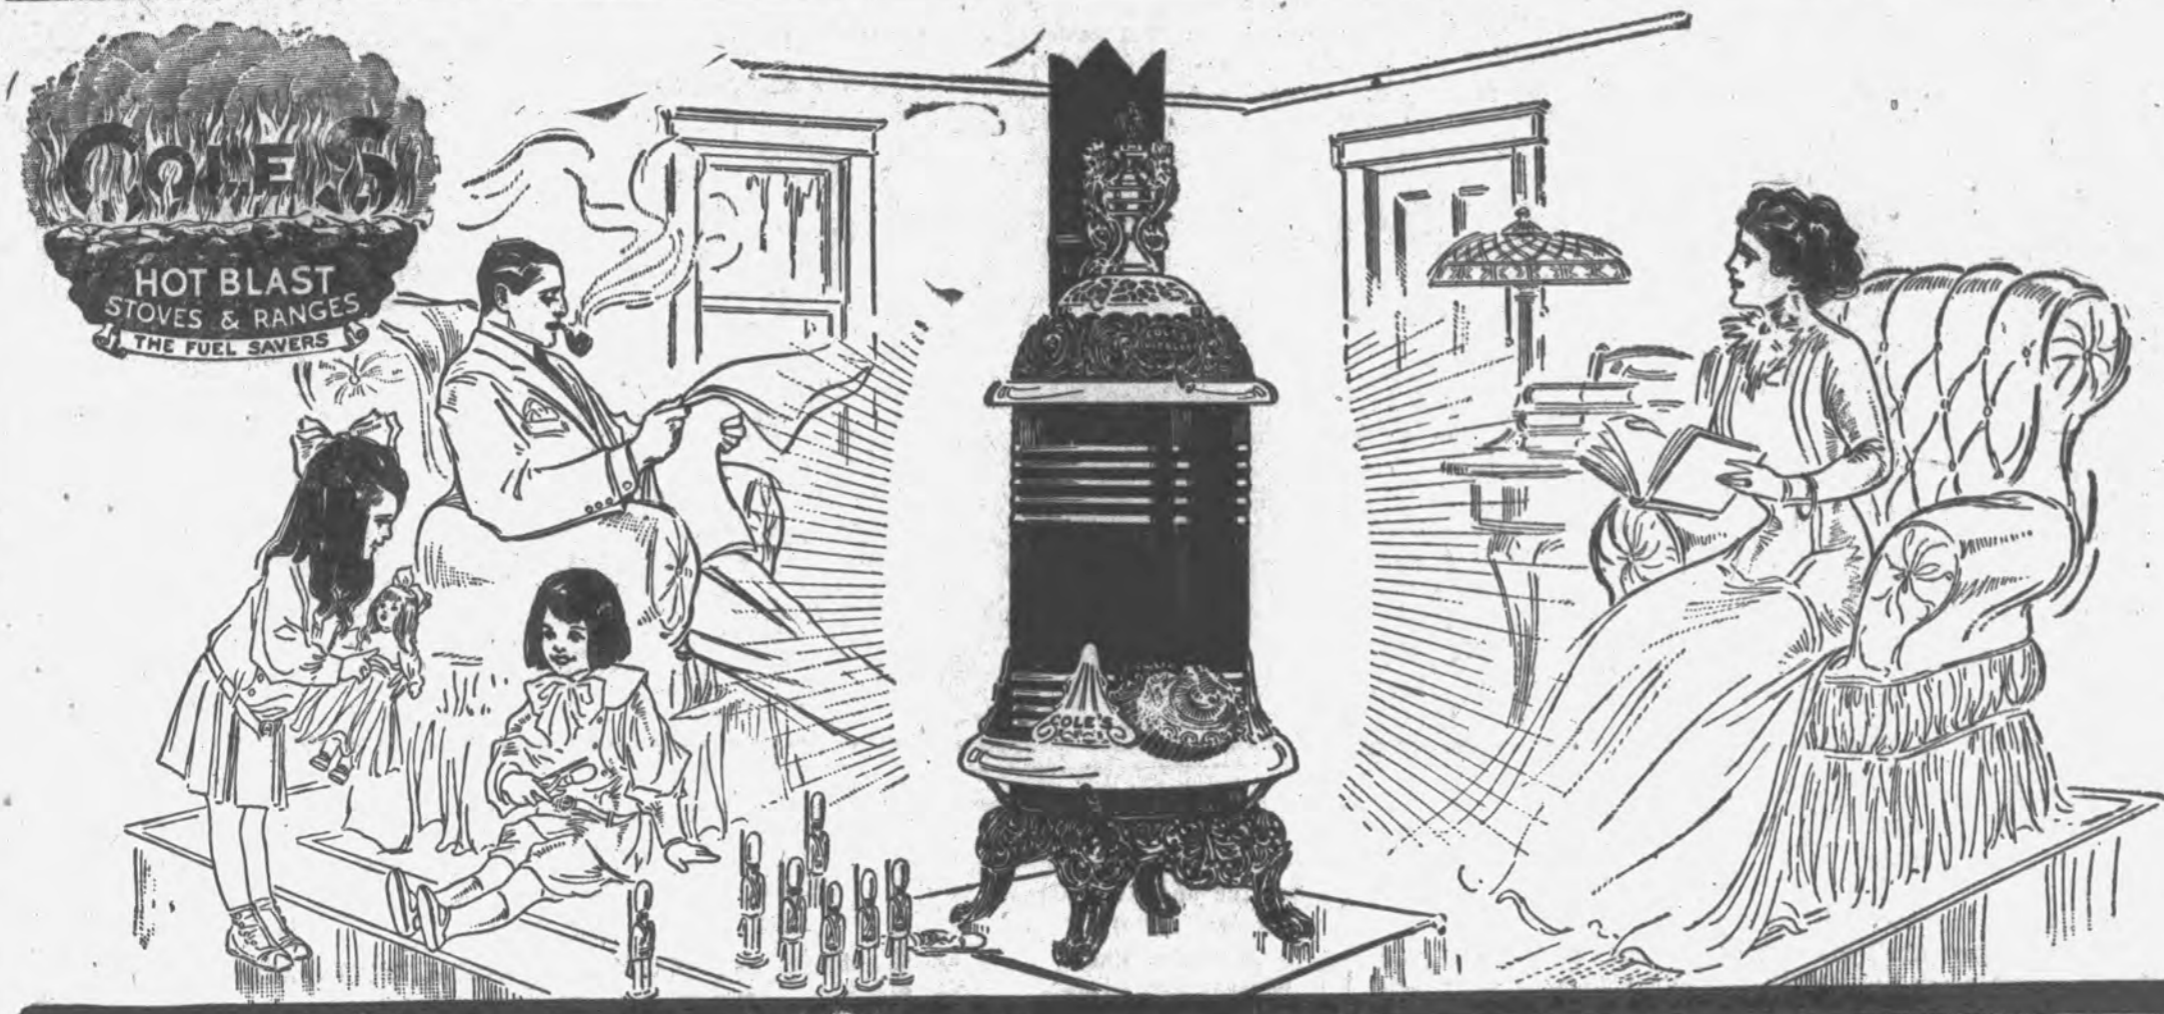

Children between ages 5 and 12 years, half fare.
Go see and be seen.

It means comfort and health for you and your family to have comfortable living rooms—
We want to sell you one of these truly marvelous heaters—
We know it will give you more home comfort for the money you spend for fuel than you have ever had before—

The same comfort you would get from the most costly Hot Water or Steam Heating Plant you could buy. And besides—Cole's Hot Blast Heater is better because you can regulate it perfectly—

Cole's Hot Blast Heater gives a steady even heat day and night using for fuel the cheapest grades of soft coal. It is as clean as the highest priced Hard Coal Heater and costs you less than half the money—costs less than half to operate throughout the winter because your fuel bill will be cut in two. Surely this is the Heater you want and will have this winter.

This Original Hot Blast Stove has patented features which insure an everlasting air-tight and gas-tight construction. No leaky stove will hold fire—remember that.

Cole's Patented Hot Blast Draft insures perfect burning of the gases in coal which makes this heater the greatest fuel saver ever known. Soft coal is half gas and is wasted with other stoves.

We are authorized by the Cole Manufacturing Co. to sell this heater on the most rigid guarantee ever made by any stove manufacturer. The Remarkable Guarantee is—

- "1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.
- "2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with the same size fire pot.
- "3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
- "4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.
- "5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
- "6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.
- "7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.
- "8—That the Anti-Puffing Draft will prevent puffing.
- "All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and connected with a good flue.

(Signed) COLE MANUFACTURING CO., Not Inc.

Rev. Livingstone Johnson, of Raleigh, who spent Sunday here, left this morning.

Thornton-Hammersly Wilkison-Hammersly

MADISONVILLE, Va., Oct. 6.—Quite a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of L. H. Hammersly, in this place last evening, to witness the marriage of his two daughters, Louise, to Sidney F. Thornton, of this county, and Carlotta to Charles Lynwood Wilkison, of Greenville, N. C., who was accompanied by S. E. Gates, of Greenville, as best man, while Miss Frances Hammersly was maid of honor for his bride.

Miss Bessie D. Wood, of Concord, Va., acted as maid of honor for the other bride, with Craig D. Thornton as best man. Rev. J. R. Sturgis performed the ceremony.

DR. JOHNSON SUNDAY

Speaks Twice in the Baptist Church.

Rev. Livingston Johnson, of Raleigh, secretary of the mission board of the Baptist state convention, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church here Sunday morning and night. Dr. Johnson was scheduled to speak at the woman's missionary meeting here two weeks ago, but was prevented from coming, so on Sunday morning made the talk that he intended to make on the former occasion, dealing mainly in the part the women are taking in the missionary work of the state and in helping to build churches. The talk was full of interest. Sunday night he delivered an excellent sermon on "The Two-Fold Life," showing that God was the giver of both physical and spiritual life, that He was the God of both and cared for His children through the physical life in preparation for the spiritual life and that as the physical life grows it broadens and merges into the spiritual life.

On with tobacco sales again. Greenville Lodge A. F. and A. M. meets tonight.

Mrs. Eliza Laughinghouse Hurt
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5.—While attempting to alight from a moving York road car at Fayette and Charles streets this afternoon, Mrs. Eliza Laughinghouse, of Raleigh, who is visiting the family of Wm. H. Gorman, at Cantonville, fell to the streets, striking her head and badly cutting the left side of her face and bruising herself. She was picked up by a patrolman and taken to the Mercy hospital in an ambulance. Her physician stated that her injuries were not serious. She is resting easy tonight.

Mrs. Laughinghouse is the mother of our townsman, Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse. Her host of friends here at her former home regret that she met with such a painful accident.

Mr. W. A. Fleming, of Hassell, was here today.

Y. W. C. A. Services

Prof. C. W. Wilson conducted the Y. W. C. A. services at the Training School on Sunday evening. He made a strong talk on "Some Help to Christain Living".

N. C. BANKER DIES FROM GAS JET

J. C. Robertson, of Robertsonville, is Victim. Found Lying in Bed Covered Up

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5.—With the covers pulled tightly up around his neck, J. C. Robertson, a banker of Robertsonville, N. C., was found dead in his room at the Westminster hotel shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning with gas flowing from a jet. Coroner John G. Jeffers gave a certificate of death due to accidental asphyxiation. The body is now being held for relatives.

The odor of gas issuing from Robertson's room was first detected by a negro waiter at the hotel. With the aid of the clerk and the waiter, a policeman bust into the door and by the dim light of a jet, which was burning very low, he could see the form of the southerner lying in the bed. The windows were immediately thrown open and it was found that the man was dead.

Mr. Robertson was well known in Greenville and Pitt county, and his death is much regretted here.

CHAPTER XV.

Fortune's Riddle Solved.

Fortune, without deigning to reply, walked slowly and proudly to her tent, and disappeared within. She looked neither at Ryanne nor at George. She knew that George, his soul filled with unalloyed quixotic sense of chivalry which had made him so easy a victim to her mother, would not accept his liberty at the price of Ryanne's, Ryanne, to whom he owed nothing, not even mercy. And if she had had to ask one of the two, George would have been the natural selection, for she trusted him implicitly. Perhaps there still lingered in her mind a recollection of how charmingly he had spoken of his mother.

She could have set out for Cairo alone: even as she could have grown a pair of wings and sailed through the air! The fate that walked behind her was malevolent, cruel, unjust. She had wronged no one, in thought or deed. She had put out her hand confidently to the world, to be laughed at, distrusted, or ignored. Was it possible that a little more than a month ago she wandered, if not happy, in the sense she desired, at least in a peaceful state of mind, among her carnations and roses at Mentone? Her world had been, in this short time, remolded, reconstructed; where once had bloomed a garden, now yawned a chasm; and the psychological earthquake had left her dizzy. That Mahomed, now wrought to a kind of Berserk rage, might begin reprisals at once, did not alarm her; indeed, her feeling was rather of dull, aching indifference. Nothing mattered now.

But Ryanne and George were keenly alive to the danger, and both agreed that Fortune must go no farther.

Ryanne, under his bitter rallery and seeming scorn for sacred things, possessed a latent magnanimity, and it now pushed up through the false layers. "Jones, it's my funeral. Go tell her. You two can find the way back to the canal, and once there you will have no trouble. Don't bother your head about me."

"But what will you do?"

"Take my medicine," grimly.

"Ryanne, you are offering the cowardly part to me!"

"You fool, it's the girl. What do I care about the rest of it? You're as brave as a lion. When you put up your fists the other night, you solved that puzzle for yourself. For God's sake, do it while I have the courage to let you! Don't you understand? I love that girl better than my heart's blood, and Mahomed can have it drop by drop. Go and go quickly! He will give you food and water."

"You go. She knows you better than me."

"But will she trust me as she will you? Percival, old top, Mahomed will never let me go till he's taken his pound of flesh. Fortune!" Ryanne called. "Fortune, we want you!"

She appeared at the flap of the tent. "Jones here will go back with you. Go, both of you, before Mahomed changes his mind."

"Miss Chedsoye, he is wrong. He's the one to go. He was hurt worse than I was. Pride doesn't matter at a time like this. You two go," desperately.

Fortune shook her head. "All or none of us; all or none of us," she repeated.

And Mahomed, having witnessed and overheard the scene, laughed, a laughter identical to that which had struck the barmaid's ears sinisterly. He had not studied his white man without gathering some insight into his character. Neither of these men was a poltroon. And when he had made the offer, he knew that the conditions would erect a barrier over which none of them would pass voluntarily. So much for pride as the Christian dogs knew it. Pride is a fine buckler; none knew that better than Mahomed himself; but a wise man does not wear it at all times.

"What is it to be?" he demanded of Fortune.

"What shall I say to him?"

"Whatever you will." Ryanne was tired. He saw that argument would be of no use.

"All or none of us." And Fortune looked at Mahomed with all the pride of her race. "It is not because you wish me to be free; it is because you wish to see one of my companions made base in my eyes. I will not have it!"

"The will of Allah!" He could not repress the fire of admiration in his own eyes as they took in her beauty, the erect, slender figure, the scorn upon her face, and the fearlessness in her great, dark eyes. Such a woman might have graced the palace of the Great Caliph. He had had in mind many little cruelties to practice upon her, that he might see the men writhe, impotent and helpless to aid her. But in this tense and dramatic scene, a sense of shame took possession of him; his pagan heart softened; not from pity, but from the respect which one brave person gives free-handed to another.

Mahomed was not a bad man, neither was he a cruel one. He had been terribly wronged, and his eastern way had but one angle of vision: to avenge himself, believing that revenge alone could soothe his outraged pride and re-establish his honor as he viewed it from within. Had the courier returned with the Holy Yhordes, it is not impossible that he would have liberated them all. But now he dared not; he was not far enough away. To Bagdad, then, and as swiftly as the exigencies of desert travel would permit. One beacon of hope burned in his breast. The Pasha might be deposed, and in that case he could immediately dispose of his own goods and chattels and seek new pastures. It would come hard, doubly hard, since he never could regain the position he was to lose.

Nine hundred pounds English, and a comfortable fraction over; the yellow-haired dog would have nothing in the end for his pains. It would be what the Feringhi called a good joke.

A week passed. Christmas. And not one of them recalled the day. Perhaps it was because years had passed since that time when it meant anything to them. The old year went out a-lagging! neither did they take note of this. Having left behind civilization, customs and habits were forgotten.

Sometimes they rode all day and all night, sometimes but half a day, and again, when the water was sweet, they rested the day and night. Never a human being they saw, never a caravan met or crossed them. In this week, the secret marvels of the desert became theirs. They saw it gleam and waver and glitter under skies of brass, when the north wind let down and a breeze came over from the Persian Gulf. They saw it covered with the most amazing blues and greys and greens. They saw it under the rarest azure and a stately fleet of billowy clouds; under the dawn, under the set of sun, under the moon and stars; and unfurling the interminable reaches of sand and rock and scrubby bush, chameleon-like, readjusted its countenance to each change in the sky. George, who was a poet without the gift of expression, never ceased to find new charms; and nothing pleased his fancy more than to see the cloud-shadows scud away across the sands. Once, toward the latter end of day, Fortune cried out and pointed. Far away, palely yet distinctly, they saw an ocean liner. She stood out against the yellowing sky as a magic lantern picture stands out upon the screen, and faded similarly. It was the one and only mirage they saw, or at least noticed.

Once another caravan, composed wholly of Arabs, passed. What hope the prisoners had was instantly snuffed out. Before the strangers came within hailing, Mahomed hustled his captives into his tent and swore he would kill either George or Ryanne if they spoke. He forgot Fortune, however. As the caravan passed she screamed. Instantly Mahomed clapped his hand roughly over her mouth. The sheik of the passing caravan looked keenly at the tent, smiled grimly and passed on. What was it to him that a white woman lay in yonder tent? His one emotion was of envy. After this the prisoners became apathetic.

Upon the seventh day, they witnessed the desert's terrifying anger. The air that had been cool, suddenly grew still and hot; the blue above began to fade, to assume a dusty, copperish color. The camels grew restless. Quickly there rose out of the horizon saffron clouds, approaching with incredible swiftness. Little whirlwinds of sand appeared here and there, rose and died as if for want of air. Mahomed veered the caravan toward a kind of bluff composed of sand and precipitous boulders. All the camels were made to kneel. The boys muffled up their mouths and noses, and Mahomed gave instructions to his captives. Fortune buried her head in her coat and nestled down beside her camel, while George and Ryanne used their handkerchiefs. George left his camel and sought Fortune's side, found her hand and held it tightly. He scarcely gave thought to what he did. He vaguely meant to encourage her; and possibly he did.

The storm broke. The sun became obscured. Pebbles and splinters of rock sang through the pall of whirling sand. A golden tone enveloped the little gathering.

Had there been no natural protection, they must have ridden on, blindly and desperately, for to have remained still in the open would have been to await their tombs. It spent its fury in half an hour; and the clearing air became cold again. The caravan proceeded. The hair of every one was dimly yellow, their faces and their garments.

When camp was made that night it found the captives untalkative. The girl and the two men sat moodily about the fire. Fatigue had dulled their bodies and hopelessness their minds. The men were ragged now.
