MATINEE RACES TO BE STAGED IN CITY DURING AFTERNOON

Second Matinee Horse Race of Year to Begin at Fair Grounds 1 O'clock.

SEVERAL GOOD HORSES ARE ALREADY ENTERED

Ball Game Between Greenville and Middlesex to Occur After the Races.

The second matinee horse race to be conducted in this city since the completion of the race track at the fair grounds will be staged this afternoon at 1 o'clock when some of the fastest and best trained horses in this section of the state will be seen in action. Preparations for the races have been continuing for some time and the several horses that have been under training at the track since the first matinee are in prime condition for an unusually good showing this evening.

According to the program completed Saturday evening, there will be four races during the evening, in which a class has been set aside for everybody and for every horse, regardless of his racing qualities. In the Class A a purse of $100 has been offered for the horse completing the half heat in less time. This race will be for pacers only, and it is expected that more than ordinary interest will be created by the splendid showing of the contestants. In the Class B trot a purse of $100 has been offered also, and as there are five entries to appear in this class each heat will no doubt be closely contested. Class C pace no doubt will afford some splendid racing as there are only three contestants entered, and it is believed the horses will show up to an unusually good advantage. The purse in this class will be $100. The races will be concluded by Class D race, pace and trot, with four contestants, purse $100, and as each of the horses are pretty well matched it is believed that this class will be a fitting climax to the evening activities.

The names of horses and drivers to appear in today's races follow: Class A Marie Dewey, driven by Anderson "Corbstalk," driven by Johnson; "Snap Anthony," driven by Mayo; The Autocrat, driven by Price. Class B trot "Chiquita," driven by B. L. Smith; "Chestnut Belle," driven by T. Venters "Martine J.," driven by Joe. Staton. Class C pace—Woodrow, driven by Simon Moyo; "Miss Patrick," driven by M. W. Price. Class D trot and pace "Myrtle S.," driven by W. Johnson; "Miss Wingate," driven by Jess Wingate; "Headlight," driven by J. S. Staton; "Alma Belle," driven by M. W. Price.

Much interest has been centered in the training of the some 30 odd horses, which have been given daily training at the track for some time, as practically all of them are owned by local men and have appeared on the fastest tracks in this section of the state. The horses to appear in the race track today are in exceptionally fine form, but it is not believed that they will measure up to the expectation of their owners until later on in the season when races become more frequent and every thing is in readiness for the opening of the county fair. However, virtually every horse, excepting in one or two classes, have established a mighty enviable record in half mile heats, and for that reason the races today are looked forward to with great interest.

It was the purpose of the track promoters in this city to have had the grandstand and fence around the fair grounds completed in time for the event today, but the scarcity of labor and material has prevented construction work in many ways, and it is not believed now that the grounds will be fully completed before the latter part of next month. The grandstand and bleachers and also the fence will be completed as early as possible in order to accommodate the crowds to attend the league ball games to be played on the

RIOTOUS LIVING IN PROGRESS IN EVERY PART OF ANTWERP

Cafes of City Crowded Till Late Hours With Revelers from All Parts.

WINE AND BEER FLOWS FREELY IN ALL CAFES

Big Recreation Halls Crowded Nightly With Noisy Dancers and Others.

Antwerp, May.—The cafes of Antwerp, where American "Jazz" music resounds nightly until the early morning hours and champagne corks pop continuously at 50 to 100 francs a pop are so crowded that even now with tourists, sailors in for a shore celebration, and local spendthrifts that their proprietors wonder what more can happen when Antwerp is crowded with visitors to the Olympia games.

There are no spirits sold except surreptitiously but the wine flows so continuously in the gilded cabarets, and the beer so continuously in the saloons "estaminets" down near the docks, that the noise and dancing know no bounds.

Some of the dock saloons have been especially rechristened since Antwerp became the chief American port on the continent, to catch the trade of the American sailors and make them feel as if they were down by the docks at home in the anti-prohibition days.

One finds American sailors tramping out their unpracticed feet for the bar halls in "Dirty Dick's Place," or "Sailor Jim's" down by the docks, consuming huge schooners of beer that look like the pictures on the frosted windows of the "biggest beer in town." There are just as many merchants (Continued on page two.)

COUNTY LEGION TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY HERE MONDAY

Appropriate Exercises to be Held in Court House During This Morning.

Memorial day will be appropriately observed in this city today by the closing of practically all stores, banks, and public institutions and a splendid program to be conducted at the court house under auspices of the county post of the American Legion. The city school will not take a full holiday as was first supposed, as final examination and closing exercises are in progress, and will prevent an observance of the occasion during the morning hours.

The program by the American Legion will be one of the most inspiring parts of the day's activities, as several features have been planned that will be of more than general interest from beginning to end. Colonel Rodman, of Washington, a member of the famous 30th division who won distinction in service of the army, will be the principal speaker of the day, and those who have heard him and know of his experiences as a soldier say he is one of the best informed men on military affairs in this section of the state, as well as an eloquent speaker. The program will begin at 10:30 o'clock with a business meeting of the legion post at the court house, and after its conclusion exercises will begin.

The presentation of diplomas from the French government to some forty odd relatives of soldiers from this county killed in service will immediately follow the business meeting, and it is expected that this will be one of the most impressive parts of the program. Colonel Rodman will speak immediately afterwards, and then a barbecue dinner will be served to relatives and ex-soldiers at the Long building on Dickerson Avenue. Dinner will be provided for colored ex-soldiers.

WAY TELLS YOUNG SCHOOL TEACHERS OF LIFE'S FUTURE

Carolina Minister Delivers Eloquent Sermon to Training School Students.

EXERCISES YESTERDAY OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

Baccalaureate Sermon Filled With Inspiration for Young Women of Today.

Sunday was an ideal day for the opening exercises of the commencement of East Carolina Teachers Training School. At 11 o'clock in the morning the congregation had gathered for the annual sermon before the graduating class. The entire school filed in singing as processional "God of Our Fathers." It was an impressive sight to see two hundred and seventy-five young ladies dressed in white as they came in, and the singing was beautiful indeed. The congregation joined in the singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," after which prayer was offered by Rev. C. H. Bascom, rector of the St. Paul's church, Greenville. The school then sang Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

Rev. William Way, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Charleston, South Carolina delivered a great message to the graduating class Sunday morning. His theme was "consecrated consecration." He based his sermon on the latter part of the fifteenth chapter of Matthew, which gives the story of the woman who persistently besought Christ to heal her daughter possessed of evil spirits, with this passage as the key-note: "I was sent but unto the lost sheep of Israel."

STANDARDIZATION FOR CLOTHING NOW BEING ADVOCATED

Boston Clothing Industry Seeks Another Way for Reaping Profit.

Boston, May 29.—Standardization of quantity and quality of work in the clothing industry with a view to checking laziness as well as undue speed of production is one of the aims of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the cooperation of the manufacturers is hoped for by the union according to the general secretary of the clothing workers, Joseph Schlossberg. The plan which is in the hands of the general executive board of the organization is regarded as a new departure in the management of labor.

The general executive board will make a study of the market conditions in each large city and then invite a conference with the clothing manufacturer for the purpose of agreeing upon a scale of work. It is planned to establish a standard of quantity and quality that must be performed for the maximum pay, and there is to be a lower standard of quantity and quality with a corresponding rate of pay for the worker who cannot reach the first standard.

In the past the workers have claimed that they have been speeded up to meet that issue by fixing an arbitrary limit upon production in certain fields while some manufacturers have been contending that the men and women in the trade have not been doing an honest amount of work for the pay. Peace work tended to drive the worker too fast, according to their own view of it, and was everywhere discouraged by the unions; pay by the week regardless of the amount of work performed has not been satisfactory to the manufacturers.

IMMIGRATION TIDE BRINGS NO RELIEF TO AMERICAN WIFE

Continuous Flow of Immigrants to Nation Give Little Prospects Relief.

LABOR SITUATION STILL MATTER MUCH CONCERN

Servant Girl Problem Still Far From Being Solved Throughout Country

New York, May 31.—Though the tide of immigration has begun to flow again into the United States from Europe so that the incoming ships have their lower decks crowded with homeseekers from other lands, there is little prospect that relief is in sight for the American housewife who has been promising herself a cook or maid of all service to be recruited from the newcomers. At least that is the opinion of Superintendent P. A. Baker of the United States Immigration Station on Ellis Island.

"Immigration has been increasing by leaps and bounds," Mr. Baker said, "and it is a hopeful sign that the aliens arriving in this port during the last few weeks have exceeded the number going back to their native lands by many thousands. Last week six times as many came in as qualified to leave the country."

"People who think the servant girl problem is going to be solved soon will be disappointed if they are depending on the women immigrants from Ireland and the Scandinavian countries. Plenty of these are arriving on every boat but they turn up their noses at the thought of menial labor. They have their minds set on work in the better factories, principally those manufacturing (Continued on page four.)

RUSSIANS PUSHING STEADILY TOWARD ARMENIA LOCALITY

Immigrants Crowd Constantinople on Way to Armenian Territories.

Constantinople, May 31.—The foreign sections of Constantinople are crowded with Russians who want to go to Armenia but cannot. Of the 40,000 or 50,000 of them in the city, at least 50 percent long for the time when passport restrictions shall be less rigorous and they can fit to the land of plenty in the west.

Friends in America, or at least say they have. But the doors of America are closed unless it is clearly proven the applicant is not a Bolshevik and will not become a public charge in the United States. All the singers, dancers, and artists want to go to New York. But applications for permission are denied unless the performers can show an actual contract with some reputable manager.

Serbia and Italy are the only two countries in which Russians can gain admission with ease and even they are very cautious about admitting persons suspected of Bolshevik tendencies. There are more Russians than other nationals in the foreign districts of the city. Russian commission shops have been opened where refugees offer their diamonds, Laplanders, Siberians, Georgians and Cossacks of all the various tribes have been shuttled into Constantinople by the red wave which swept them over the black sea.

Hotels are filled by Russian barons counts and princes, especially princes, for every third high class Russian in Turkey seems to be a prince. Singers and dancers from the imperial theatre are in evidence everywhere. They are so conspicuous they can not be overlooked entirely, but their efforts to gain publicity are not highly successful. (Continued on page four.)

FRIGATE RICHMOND LYING IN RUINS AT NEW YORK ISLAND

Famous Vessel of Admiral Faragut's Among Curios at Coney Island.

WAS GREATEST VESSEL IN WAR AGAINST SPAIN

Last of Famous Vessels of Conflict Burned by Members of Navy Department

Eastport, Me., May 31.—A mass of twisted metals and charred timbers lying on Coney Beach here is all that remains of the frigate Richmond, once the pride of the United States navy. The famous wooden warship, built in 1858, was used during three wars in capacities varying from admiral's flagship to receiving ship and finally was burned for the copper in her hull.

The Richmond was Admiral Farragut's flagship during the civil war and was in several famous engagements in Southern waters and along the Mississippi river. It is said that the Richmond was one of the first American ships to be camouflaged. During the bombardment of New Orleans, Farragut ordered the man-o-war camouflaged and not having the necessary paint, the frigate was smeared with mud, partly obscuring her from the enemy's view.

A few years later the Richmond was retired but was put in commission again in 1898 for the Spanish-American war, when she was used as a receiving ship at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Then for almost 20 years she was held idle at the Norfolk Navy Yard but was put into use again in the World War as a receiving ship (Continued on page two.)

NEW YORK FARMS TO PRODUCE USUAL YIELDS THIS YEAR

Planters Expecting Usual Crop If Nothing Happens to Prevent Growth.

Albany, N. Y., May 29.—Farms of New York state will produce their normal contribution to the nation's food supply this season if the farmers are willing to pay the high wages demanded by farm labor, say officials of the State Department of Farms and Markets. These officials express the belief that the farmers are beginning to realize that their products will command high prices next fall and that this will induce them to pay high wages to laborers and to plant at least as many acres as in former years.

The farm workers will be found, say department officials, when the farmer is willing to pay them the wages they want. The problem of the farmer is the cost of labor rather than shortage they declare. Woodsmen who have been working in the logging camps during the winter are expected to go on the farms in the summer. Besides, say state officials, the annual "back to the land" migration from the cities should help to relieve the labor situation. Men who have been lured from the rural communities and towns by the higher wages offered in shop and factory begin to long for outdoor life when the warm days come, they say, and little coaxing is needed to make them exchange their work on their bench or machine for open spaces of field and meadow.

Planting has been delayed but this is attributed mostly to unfavorable weather conditions. There was difficulty early in the spring in obtaining seed, fertilizer, farm implements and machinery but the state officials say these commodities have been available as a result of efforts of the department of Farms and Markets in co-operation with railroad officials.

PHILLIPS DELIVERS TIMELY SERMON TO GRADUATING CLASS

Presbyterian Pastor Tells High School Students of Life's Essentials.

SAYS EVERYBODY FACES UNALTERABLE LIFE FACT

Assets, Liabilities and Record of Every Human Summed Up in Message.

The cause of higher religious development in educational circles of the country was forcefully and convincingly presented to the graduating class of the Greenville high school here last night by Rev. S. K. Phillips, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city. The speaker devoted a greater part of his sermon to a discussion of the relationship of the church to the school showing plainly that religion is an absolute essential if education is to be made one of the fundamental principles in the progress and expansion of government. He said that every human being coming into this world faces three unalterable facts, his liabilities, his assets and his record, and that every life faces this divine program in the course of its construction and evolution.

The commencement exercises were attended by an unusually large number of patrons of the city schools and visitors from various parts of the country, were thoroughly enjoyed and undoubtedly opened the way to one of the most auspicious commencement periods in the history of the school. The exercises were opened by prayer and song and concluded with a song by the glee club of the high school. Members of the graduating class, about 25 in number, listened attentively to the baccalaureate sermon, and at its conclusion sang the concluding song animatedly, apparently deeply impressed and inspired by the message of exhortation from the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Phillips based his sermon on the biography of Saul, King of Israel. He said, "every human being coming into this world faces three unalterable facts his liabilities, his assets, and his record. We are all liable for some worthy task, if it be only that of a boot-black doing his work for the glory of God. Our assets are the equipment which God furnishes us for this task. Our record is the story of what we do with these assets, told by the mark we leave upon this world. Something to do; Equipment for it; Balancing up at the end, every life faces this Divine Program."

He then enumerated Saul's liabilities. "He was liable for the responsibility of being Israel's first King. He had to lead the people thru untrodden paths. He had to preserve the honor of God. He had subtle enemies to meet. He had keen competition to face. He had risk himself with an untried people. His liabilities were great but their very greatness struck fire from the steel of his youthful soul, and he determined to rewrite them and face his task."

Mr. Phillips then declared that God always equips us with assets big enough to offset our liabilities, and in Saul's case God gave to him, 1. Good clean blood. 2. A splendid physique. 3. A magnetic personality. 4. A brave heart and quick wit. 5. True humility. 6. A sensitive conscience. 7. A good start. 8. The promise of divine leadership and help." He declared that no man could have asked for more, that God had fully met his part of the contract for life.

He then called attention to the fact that what Saul did with his assets was answered by the record he left and he showed how he prostituted every single asset that God had given him, and "took a toboggan that landed him in failure and despair."

"He disgraced his blood; he sold his fine physique to sin; he changed his personality into an atmosphere that drove good men from his presence; he permitted cowardice to take the place of bravery and changed his quick wit

MONDAY, MAY 31, 1920.

Six million pounds of beef have shipped to European markets by western meat packers, so it is perfectly natural to expect shortages of commodities in this country as long as this continues.

If democratic members of congress are capable of breaking down a republican "gag rule" as they did in passing the bill for relief of American soldiers who suffered losses during the war, it looks like they might be able to transfer the gag to the other side of the house long enough to sign the peace treaty with Germany.

The Republican platform is nearly complete, we are informed, and after the last plank has been securely nailed in the world will be startled by the magnitude of its provisions. It will be made public soon, so there is no need of worry, the splendid material employed in its construction won't be consumed by its own fiery brilliance before the convention.

That million dollar "slush fund" to finance General Wood's campaign for the presidency may turn out to be more "slush" than promoters at one time anticipated, for after investigating his expenditures, the general won't be so proud of his rich friends after all. He may appreciate the monetary support just now, but as we all know, it requires something more than cold cash to win votes where people are fully capable of thinking for themselves.

It required some time on the part of the corporation commission of this state to convince the Interstate Commerce commission that North Carolina was being treated unfairly in freight rates, compared to those enjoyed by Virginia, but the decision just handed down by the commission removes all thought of further provocation for it is evident that cities in both states hereafter will pay about the same rates. Virginia's rates will be raised in proportion to those in this state, but North Carolina will be subject only to slight changes in the final adjustment of the situation.

Hiram Johnson, California's versatile aspirant for the presidency, has visited North Carolina and gone. The state failed to rock and quaver under the impressiveness of his oratory while here, and no political eruptions were reported in the districts which he visited. He is inclined to be one of the go get 'em kind of candidates, always ready to push his candidacy at a moment's notice, but judging by way he acted here naturally brings one to the conclusions that he found himself in strange territory where his sentiment was entirely out of order. This fact, however, hasn't discouraged him, if reports are true, for the remainder of his campaign will be pushed by the same buoyant spirit of old.

HONORING THE DEAD.

Memorial day exercises in Greenville today will be marked by a degree of simplicity peculiarly in keeping with the ideals of the several thousand young men from this country who paid the supreme sacrifice in the war against Germany that democracy might be preserved throughout the coming ages. The preparations by the local post of the American Legion provide for presentation of some forty odd diplomas to relatives of men from this county who went to war and never returned, and as these diplomas express the deep appreciation of the French government for what the honored heroes did in the interest of a greater civilization the presentation to relatives will convey a meaning that can only be interpreted by those who fought side by side with the honored dead, sharing in defeat and victory alike until war's grim objective had been achieved.

Memorial day throughout the county and in Europe too will be observed with a true spirit of reverence, for the consciousness that the day dawns with a new meaning, with new considerations for everyone appreciative of the heroism and intrepidity of the honored, brings us face to face with problems of the future in which ambitions of the dead soldier must play their part if the world's highest plane of mortal ambition would be reached. This democracy which the boys fought for must be stronger, more forceful and impressive today than ever before; they fought and gave their lives that this might be so, and if the nation would honor them truly and with proper devotion to the cause which they fought for, then it is imperative that every source of influence be directed for making their ideals of democracy constructive, dominating in all classes of society where this becomes possible.

This fact must be supreme in every heart today if Memorial day is going to be impressive and of interest to every person taking part in the celebration. Not because, of course, that the day must be so if a success, but because the men who paid the supreme sacrifice to save the world fought for preservation of the American ideal, its advancement and uninterrupted progress towards the goal of their ambition. It is this fact that must be remembered by all today and in the years to come, for if we properly observe and honor the heroic deeds of the progressive, aggressive and determined young American while on the battlefields of Europe, it is highly imperative that his ideals be given consideration and carried to the highest point of perfection.

The decisive manner in which President Wilson vetoed the Republican proposal declaring peace in the country is the country is indicative of strong resentment against the party for its opposition to the peace treaty with Germany. Mr. Wilson feels like this matter should have been settled long ago, and it was perfectly natural that he should offer opposition for declaration of peace when there can be no peace as long as the treaty remains an open question with Germany. Our peace now must be separate from that of the Allied world and this is to be regretted by every American who helped win the war by the Allies' side and who would have made peace with them too. The situation is bad enough as it is, and to declare the country in a state of the peace without official signing of the treaty cannot be brought about without intensifying the present deplorable state of affairs.

Republican delegates are flocking into Chicago for the national convention to be staged there this week, so political factions may anticipate some disquieting and "exceedingly alarming" reports from the city before the convention is over. It may be assured that all statements emanating from the convention will be issued simply for the purpose of coaxing additional voters for the party, but then it must not be forgotten that American people are living in one of the greatest ages of enlightenment of the nation and will require something more than well-directed remarks, carefully prepared for the situation, to bring them into the snares of that which democracy has fought against.

Today will be an important period in the history of Greenville, for beside the Memorial Day celebration to be conducted under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion, there are several other activities on foot which are going to do much toward making the day one long to be remembered. Commencement exercises of the city schools and the Eastern Carolina Training School will be in progress from time to time throughout the day, and in the evening the second matinee horse race of the year will occur followed by the first exhibition game of the season of the Greenville league base ball club. Amuzu park will open during the evening, and the opening dance and other activities to occur during the opening hours at this resort will be of unusual interest. The day is one that opens a new period in the annals of the city, and gives one an accurate conception of the industry and enterprise of city business men and educational leaders. The several hundred people from other sections of the country will gain an entirely new impression of the greatest tobacco growing district in this section of the country, and probably will not be disinclined to refuse an invitation of visiting the city again whenever an opportunity is afforded them.

MATINEE RACES TO BE STAGED IN CITY DURING AFTERNOON

(Continued from page one.) diamond in the center of the race track beginning with an exhibition game today after the races, and continuing regularly when the season opens on June 7th. Promoters of the Eastern Carolina Fair association are anticipating one of the best attendance at the Greenville fair any other in this section of the state, and for that reason no little interest is being manifested in completion of work at the grounds, and in making the race track the fastest in North Carolina. This single feature, it is believed, will bring hundreds of people here during fair week in September and make the christening of the county's first fair in many years an auspicious occurrence.

He seared his conscience; he threw away his good start; he forgot the meaning of humility; he inspired God's spirit by consulting witch craft and ending in the grave of a suicide. "His coronation day was cloudless, but his death bed was shrouded in blackest despair."

Mr. Phillips closed by declaring that God has given us just as good assets as he gave Saul; that we enter life fully equipped; and that it is our choice to say what our record will be.

He drew a parallel between that other King, Jesus Christ, who took his good blood and fine physique and brave heart and keen intellect and humble spirit and noble conscience, and following the leading of God's spirit, left a record that is inspiring the world today to better things, and calling us all to a wise use of our assets for the glory of God. Which shall our choice be, that of Saul, or that of Christ? Youth is the time when that choice is made, either for failure or for success.

The once great warship's days of usefulness were over and a short time ago she was towed to Eastport. The torch was applied to her by Captain John F. Turner, of Newburyport, Mass., holder of the world's deep sea diving record. After lighting several fires from bow to stern Captain Turner hauled down the American flag from the frigate and jumped into Passamaquoddy Bay. He was picked up by part of the ship's crew in a dory for the noted diver cannot swim.

The beach on which the Richmond was burned is the most Eastern point on the Maine coast and is where four other wooden frigates, the Franklin, Wabash, Minnesota and Vermont, were burned by junkmen in other years.

MISSISSIPPI ENTERTAINMENT

IN HONOR MISS PARSONS

Fountain, May 31.—On Friday afternoon from four to six o'clock, at their lovely home near Fountain, Misses Capitola and Myrtle Turnage delightfully entertained in honor of Miss Sarah Parsons, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Lahar Stainback.

The guests were received at the door by the Misses Turnage and Miss Emma Cobb of Tarboro. Then they passed on to the side veranda where most refreshing fruit punch was served by Misses Carrie Joyner and Ethel Turnage. The reception hall brightened by the season's choicest roses was most inviting. Here each guest was presented a tablet on which was a picture representing some stage of the average woman's life. These pictures particularly applicable to in cident in the life of Miss Parsons and every one was asked to write an original verse on the tablet they were holding.

Upon reading these much interest and merriment were manifested and when gathered and compiled into book form made a most valuable and entertaining memoir for the guests of honor. The prize a pair of silk stockings won by Mrs. Beasley was presented to Miss Parsons.

A delicious salad and ice course was served during which the amusing game.

The guests again being ushered to the punch bowl reluctantly said good by declaring the Misses Turnage most delightful hostesses.

Flying Parson To Speak Here

Winner of Transcontinental Aero Race

Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, better known as "The Flying Parson," because he entered the aviation service from the ministry at his country's call, is naturally famous because of his winning the Transcontinental Aero Race, conducted last October.

At the invitation of the Swarthmore Chautauquas, Lieut. Maynard upon his discharge in April, 1920, from his military service, has turned his attention to the lecture platform where he will have ample opportunity to continue his patriotic labors under the title, "Motor Troubles of Humanity." This intrepid aviator, who knows to well how to overcome aeroplane motor troubles, will discuss our national and social problems from a new viewpoint. Lieut. Maynard is the red-blooded type of man whose varied experiences and training fit him for a practical and helpful discussion of this subject.

His physical fitness and mental alertness led the flying parson to take chances that most aviators shun, although he instantly enters a modest disclaimer when faced with the tribulation. When others followed railroad tracks or the ribbon-like highways in going from control to control, Lieut. Maynard took the cross-country cut, flying entirely by compass. He set his faith upon his star and sheared off the miles. On the trip from San Francisco he had occasion to take a long chance. Leaving Chicago, his course led him straight across Lake Michigan, and he followed his needle without hesitation. More cautious competitors circled the water and lost valuable time. His charge across the lake was one way of showing confidence in himself.

The real conditioning he believes in brought him earlier fame than his victory in the great Derby. Months ago he took to the air, bent on record-making. Three hundred and eighteen laps in 67 minutes did the trick—an average of better than a loop every fifteen seconds, continued for over an hour. It is a mark which has remained unblemished after assault by other aviators. Maynard came out of the test tired, of course, but far from exhausted.

This clear-headed parson, undisturbed and unexhausted, comes on the closing night of Chautauquas to tell us how our problems look from the far heights to which he has become accustomed.

Famous Spy Teuring Country

Curtin Known as "Man Who Dragged The Truth Out of Germany"

"Will Testify at Kaiser's Trial." This headline in the metropolitan newspapers last summer drew public attention to Mr. D. Thomas Curtin, who was then lecturing on a circuit of the Swarthmore Chautauquas. At that time the Allies were assembling all the possible evidence to establish the Kaiser's war guilt, and were trying to arrange for Mr. Curtin to testify against the Kaiser. Since that time the possibility of the Kaiser's being tried has grown less and less, but the reasons for Mr. Curtin's being subpoenaed are as strong as ever. During the war, Mr. Curtin, who will lecture on the second afternoon of the coming Chautauquas, was employed as a spy by the Northcliffe press of England, and as such most successfully penetrated the web of German intrigue.

Because of his intimate knowledge of Germany's "inside information," it was thought that his evidence would be most damaging to the Kaiser.

As this is written, Mr. Curtin is again in Europe, and is gathering material in those warring countries for his lecture, "Behind the Scenes in Europe." He will give facts which the newspapers seldom print about European unrest.

On the same day at Chautauquas, the Oxford Company will appear afternoon and night, presenting at night the mighty and melodious French opera, "The Doll."

Strike up the Band Here comes the Sailors!

The Straw Hat parade has started and as usual, the sailors are up in the front carriage with the Mayor.

Such braids, and such blocks that 1920 has brought in could hardly be pictured in a message like this, but who cares as long as the gang's all here.

Frankly; this is the biggest and brightest Straw Hat proposition we have ever been connected with and we want to sell you a share of stock in our company.

The dividends will be enormous.

sailors in the expensive cafes, spending freely and dancing hard.

American consular and other Antwerp authorities are awake to the necessity of establishing some kind of recreation halls for the merchant sailors here, to take the place of the cafes, but, they told the correspondent, there seems as yet no way of doing it.

"Big recreation halls, with plenty of music and light beer would serve the purpose splendidly, one consular official said. "Jack is bound to spend his money when ashore."

Memory, Money and Man

THE mercenary never wins. Because he does not have a cause—a conviction—a purpose. He is after the spoils, not the objective. He is never a soldier.

The greatest things accomplished in this world were fought for the sake of the glory of winning not the winnings.

Veterans of the Civil War and the Great European cataclysm know what it means to fight for something without a price ticket on it. They are the kind of men who knew what it means to fight for a principle, an ideal, in the days of peace. There are men—there are business concerns—that do not know what is the biggest thing in the world—they want the money, want to see the price ticket before they start. They scoff at the idea of playing the game for the fun of the playing—fighting for the sake of a flag, Truth.

This is a different thought than you usually read in connection with Memorial Day—but it is an important one, an often overlooked these days, in politics and business.

The biggest things done in this world are done with the idea of giving—not in getting.

This store—and the famous House of Kuppenheimer—have advanced in the public's confidence because we both have always endeavored to serve in a bigger way than just to "get the money" tried to stand for better things; Progress and Sincerity.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
To the Democratic voters of the Fifth Judicial District:

I have entered the Primary for the office of Judge in this District.
I have practiced law for the past 18 years, during which time I have assisted in the prosecution of the Federal docket for about 7 years. Since entering my name for the Judgeship I have resigned the office of Assistant U. S. attorney.

Before beginning the practice of the law I had fourteen years experience in business, beginning life as bank book-keeper at the age of 16 years.

I shall not make a canvass of the district for the Judgeship. My conception of the duties and responsibilities of the high office of judge is such that in my view a canvass, and the methods of the political campaign, usual and perfectly proper for other offices—purely political, tend to cheapen and lower its tone. I would rather lose the nomination and never hold the office than lower it a hair's breadth from the high plane of honor and dignity on which our fathers have played and kept it in North Carolina.

I shall appreciate the support of all democrats in the district; and if by their suffrages I should be elevated to the Superior Court bench, I assure them that its high traditions shall be upheld, and in the administration of the office justice shall be meted out to all men alike.

This April 28th, 1920.

Twin-Six Cartoonist
Twelve Cylinder Packard Draws Crowd
Alton Packard, Master Cartoonist and Humorist Extraordinary, is not a car but a cartoonist. In fact, he may be said to be a car-tune-ist, for the musical part of his program is as tuneful as the cartooning is clever. The Louisville Courier-Journal in one of his work, "Vanity Fair," by Alton Packard, was undoubtedly the best entertainment feature of the splendid Chautauqua program.

This platform favorite here on the opening night of the Chautauque. His program will be superlatively fine in all its features. He calls it a "Comical Musical and Cartoon Review" is both comical and musical. Packard says, "I first practiced cartooning on the school teacher. In turn practiced teaching and then on us boys. We kept the teacher as busy as a one-eyed mule. I drew cartoons of the teacher and the teacher drew blisters on me. Almost daily I was invited to the wood-shed where I was warmly applauded. My cartoons and jokes always got a hand and teacher was a hard-handed applier."

This boy grown to manhood has developed his natural tendencies to the point where he is perhaps the best-known platform cartoonist in the country. His "Review" will be applauded by the Del Mar Ladies' Quartet in an instrumental and vocal program of unusual merit and popularity.

SCHOOL TEACHERS OF LIFE'S FUTURE

spoken with power and conviction and was an inspiration not only to the young women in the graduating class but to all who heard it. Dr. Way has a national reputation as a preacher and scholar. He was originally from Asheville, North Carolina. He was at one time assistant pastor of Grace church, New York. He has been exceedingly popular as a commencement preacher.

In the sermon there were two big thoughts, "consecrated concentration," and "vision-seeing faith." The first part of the sermon was the development of the idea of consecrated value of undivided devotion to a cause. He began by picturing the scene in the Bible story of the woman, Greek by language, Canaanite by nationality, and Syro-Phoenician by residence, who came to Christ as he stood on the slopes overlooking the great commercial city of Tyre, surrounded by His disciples who tried to drive the woman away; but Christ finally yields to her pleadings and health the daughter because of the persistent faith of the mother.

This event gives two life principles, concentration and faith, and a lesson from Deity and one from humanity. He defined concentration as the focus of the combined power of the mind and the will on some definite thing in life.

Genius is concentrating; the beginning of it is attention. Never is a person's life worth while until he has learned how to develop the power of concentration. "This world has seen just one perfect success, Jesus. Concentration was His talisman. On the long period of preparation he was getting ready for an active ministry which lasted less than three years, yet He so concentrated that His brief ministry was worth more than all else to the world. He was the world's greatest teacher, yet his method of teaching was one of concentration. He gathered together around Him a small band, only twelve men, and yet this apostolic college was the greatest school the world has ever seen. He made the center strong; this follows the laws of physics; making the centrifugal force strong makes the centrifugal force stronger. Christ's ministry was limited to a small area, a region less than the state of New Hampshire, about one-fifth the size of North Carolina. The lesson concentration was then carried far afield from religious matters. Concentration is the secret of success in fields. In the business world, John Pierpont Morgan his chief mental asset was his tremendous five-minute concentration of thought. Among statesmen, the examples given were Alander Hamilton Lincoln and Ellihu Root. Among inventors, Edison stands out as one having the power. Among women, those who have achieved success have been those who concentrated on one thing; those cited were Nordica, Sara Barnhardt, who developed voice and physique by main force of persistence; Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and George Eliot.

The lesson of concentration was here applied to the profession the young women of the graduating class are about to enter, that of teaching. He said one of the chief troubles in teaching is the lack of definiteness. He gave examples of great teachers who had devoted themselves to a small group but whose influence was far-reaching. He told the story of Martin Luther Hurlbut, a Massachusetts man, a fellow student of Emerson at Harvard, who won first honors in the class of 1921 among his students were congressman, senators, a college president and the great Shakespearean scholar, Furness. He came from Massachusetts to South Carolina as a teacher and later went to Philadelphia. He had two sons, one of whom was a high officer in the union army and another who was the founder of the New York World and of a magazine.

The latter part of the sermon the big idea was that of "vision-seeing faith." Faith is more than a creed; neither is it dogma; it is not sight, but insight, it is "the evidence of things unseen," "the conviction that makes the unseen." Faith is a faculty, whereas concentration is a capacity. It is conviction of the conscious and unconscious mind. It takes possession and possesses the whole of life and being. The popular eye cannot see as faith sees. Faith has an infinitesimal beginning and must develop and grow as all the other faculties do, or it dies. It is like the little rill increasing until it becomes the large stream turning mills.

This growth of faith is clearly seen can be traced clearly through some of the poets; especially in Tennyson is it interesting to see the evolution from the first poems through "In Memorium" and on until in his old age he declares his own longing in the world is to get a clearer vision of God. This growth of faith is clearly seen in H. G. Wells, beginning with his gropings in "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," in "God the Invisible King," and reaching the point where his soul is knit together as one with God in "The Bishop's Soul."

Faith begins as the mustard seed, but it grows into the greatest things of life. Governor Jarvis had a vision of this soul, and his faith faculty developed into the school. Faith is not only an evolution, it is a response of man's whole nature, his mind, soul and spirit reaching Godward. Jesus knocks at the door of faith faculty.

As a rule appreciation comes long after death, but with Christ it came immediately. The woman at the tomb responded instantly with belief. The doubts of Thomas are quickly dispelled; the denials of Peter were quickly turned to acceptance, all by the call upon faith made by Christ, when the faith faculty emerged. Raphael's picture in the Vatican of Faith, Hope and Charity shows Faith clinging to both. Faith clings to like here and the like beyond.

We must have more faith in ourselves, not in the self one sees but in the ideal self, more faith in humanity, in spite of sin; and more faith in God and in the ultimate triumph of His purpose. Faith is the life boat that saves man. When there is no faith one is stranded on discouragement and faure. We order to have faith one must concentrate on a definite purpose and have the vision. Then when the end comes there will be a glorious picture of achievement and the welcome sound of "Well done thou good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

The sermon was great in thought, was developed logically, richly and aptly illustrated, and was fully of opportunities for those who heard it to make practical application of the lesson. The inspiring message sank deeply into the minds and hearts of the young women.

At the close of the sermon the school sang the anthem "Like as the Heart." The auditorium was artistically and simply decorated in potted plants, masses of poppies and green shrubs. President Wright made the following announcements, cordially inviting all to the exercises:
Music recital Monday evening, 8:30.
Tuesday evening at six o'clock, class day exercises, on the campus if it does not rain and in the hall if it rains.

not rain and in the hall if it rains. Wednesday morning, at ten thirty, annual address by Rev. J. W. Glass, of the University of North Carolina, graduating exercises.

IMMIGRATION TIDE BRINGS NO RELIEF TO AMERICAN WIFE

uring luxuries such as candy and women's finery. They want to get into places where employes are well treated and into localities where housing facilities are best so that they can live on the scale justified by the high wages paid them. If employers want to attract these classes of women immigrants they had better look to the reputations of their factories for pleasant working conditions.

Mr. Baker scouted the idea that prohibition was one reason why immigration was not gaining more rapidly. He said the foreigners were coming in at about one third the rate of the year immediately preceding the European war. principal reason why more were not coming was that the men are urgently needed in their own countries, some of which, notably Poland, are supporting huge armies which use up a large part of their man power, with the result that those who are free to do civilian work command wages comparable to those paid in this country.

The present wave of immigration originates in about the same countries as before the war with the exception of Germany and Austria-Hungary. Italy furnishes by far the greatest number. These are largely unskilled laborers who find their way into the big cities all over the country where they go into the big industries and mines.

Only in the case of one country is the outgoing population greater than that coming in. This is Poland whose nationals besige the Polish Consulate daily in great numbers seeking passports. About 8,000 of these passports were issued last month and nearly as many in each of the months preceding since the first of the year. They are going back, it is generally believed, because of homesickness and anxiety over the welfare of relatives in the war zones.

The shadow of a man on the inside wall of a hog house at midnight is a pretty sure sign that large litters are day exercises, on the campus if it does
