WHISKEY DEALERS GIVEN ROAD TERMS IN COUNTY COURT

Five Men Charged With Manufacturing
Liquor Sentenced to Roads for
Terms of 8 Months and 2 Years

Offenders of the law again suffered full penalty for their crimes in yesterday's session of the criminal term of Pitt county court, and as a result five are today confined in the county jail to be later transferred to hard work on the county roads. The entire session was consumed mainly in the disposition of whiskey cases and cruelty to animals and in practically every instance, with the exception of one, defendants received either road or prison sentences.

The session did not prove as productive as the day before as considerable time was required in hearing evidence in each case. The juries also required more than customary time in finally reaching decisions and consequently many cases could not be reached. Judge Cooper proved as determined to deal severely with criminals as any time since the beginning of his administration and members of juries were impressed from time to time with the importance of careful and unbiased deliberation. He brought out in a forceful way the necessity of dealing more severely, especially with members of the illicit whiskey traffic, and in every case possible provided sentences that ought to be instrumental in discouraging both the manufacture and sale of contraband liquors.

There are several other cases to be considered during the remainder of the week and if everything runs along smoothly it is very probable the calendar will be cleared completely by adjournment Friday evening. This will be the last session of the court, with exception of regular Monday morning hearings, for sometime, and Judge Cooper and officials are exceedingly anxious to dispose of every issue possible so they will not be confronted by congested dockets every Monday morning as for the past several months. Numbers of cases are continued from mayor's court in this city and other towns of the county every week, and as a result the court is always faced by plenty of work it matters not how long each term may be. This has been the case for at least three years, but if the docket is cleared this week such situations will be eliminated in the future.

Mistrial was ordered in the case of Claude Brinkley, white, charged with manufacturing contraband liquor on account of insufficient evidence. Brinkley was indicted by Edward Higgins and Henry Porter, Craven county dark eyes, after he had them arrested on the same charge. They live in the same neighborhood, and evidence brought out during the hearing showed they got things mixed up in a puzzling way before appearing before the court.

Edward Higgins and Henry Porter fared considerably worse than Brinkley as each was sentenced to eighteen months in the county jail to be assigned to duties with the county road forces. The negroes were indicted by Brinkley on a charge of manufacturing liquor, and evidence was more convicting than that which they presented against Brinkley as a counter stroke to even up things.

Edward Fleming, colored man residing in the Maple Cyprus section of this county, was sentenced to two years on the county roads on a charge of cruelty to animals. Fleming, according to witnesses, tied his horse in the woods and permitted him to starve to death. If he fed the animal at all it was not brought out in the evidence, for investigation showed beyond doubt that the horse came to his death from actual starvation.

Herbert Dixon, colored man of the Farnville district, was sentenced to eight months on the county road on a charge of manufacturing liquor. County officers sometime ago located a still on his premises and subsequent investigation indicated his connection with both manufacture and sale of the beverage.

ROTARIANS ENJOY LARGEST BANQUET EVER IN NORFOLK

Over 1,500 Gathered Around Festive
Board at Opening Session of Seventh District Convention

Greenville people are naturally interested in what Rotarians are doing at the seventh district convention now in session at Norfolk, especially since Greenville sent a delegation consisting of thirty members and several wives of members. So far reports from the convention fail to give out activity of the Greenville organization, but the banquet conducted Tuesday night, of which account was carried in this morning's edition of the Ledger-Dispatch will be of more than general interest. Rotarians like to eat and the fact that over fifteen hundred gathered in one banquet all at the same time during the convention is a fact of much interest.

The Dispatch has the following to say of the event.

When Rotarians of the seventh district sit down at the Armory at 6:30 o'clock tonight for the annual conference dinner, they will be participants in the biggest banquet ever given in Norfolk.

Without counting the address of Crawford McCullough, first vice-president of international Rotary, and the various stunts with which the occasion will be enlivened, the banquet will be unique from the standpoint of size alone.

Arrangements have been made to seat 1,500 people and to place before them in a minimum of the time an elaborate menu consisting of the good things to eat for which Tidewater Virginia is famed.

One Hundred Waiters There

An idea of how immense is the task of providing for so large a number of dinners may be obtained from enumeration of some of the things it has been necessary to secure for the banquet.

J. Frank Bell, chairman of the conference banquet committee, has had charge of the arrangements. He has provided fourteen tables ninety feet long to seat the guests. He has secured the services of 100 waiters to attend the wants of the diners. There were not enough waiters in Norfolk to fill out his quota and he had to send to Newport News and recruit a force there.

A total of 4,500 plates, 3,000 forks, 1,500 spoons, 1,500 knives and 1,500 cups and saucers had to be provided. It will require 3,000 rolls, sixty pounds of butter, forty Smithfield hams and thirty-five Princess Anne turkeys for the dinner.

On journeys westward, the air mail service has found that generally an altitude of one kilometer (about 3,300 feet) results in the most speed, the winds being almost favorable there.

UNITED STATES TO ATTEMPT TO BUILD DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIP

Ask Italian Government for Loan of Skilled Man to Assist in Construction Operations

Rome, April 14.—The United States has asked the Italian government to lend to America the services of an engineer skilled in the construction of semirigid dirigible airships and several other men to aid in the building in the United States of craft like the Roma, the big dirigible purchased from Italy. The Italian government has granted the request and the Italian engineer, Celestine Uselli, designer of the Roma will supply plans and instructions for the proposed American craft.

It is understood that the Americans have estimated that they would be glad to have the services of Signor Nobili, the builder of the Roma and also her Italian crew to aid in airship building. It is stated that the American airships of the same kind as the Roma are to be five meters shorter than the Italian vessel bought by America, so that they can be sheltered in the American hangars.

Signor Uselli is planning larger dirigibles for Italy. 'I intend to start immediately the construction of another dirigible measuring 46,000 cubic meters. This new ship will replace the Roma.

My next great construction will be a super-giant, semirigid dirigible for the construction of which I must await the arrival from Germany of three colossal hangars assigned to Italy. I shall then build an airship 220 meters in length, 34 in height and 120,000 cubic meters in volume. It will be equipped with 24 motors of 250 horsepower each of which only one-third will be in use at a time. The other two thirds will be kept in reserve so that each motor will work only six or seven hours, and will have from 10 to 12 hours rest and cleaning.

VALUE OF AVIATION TO WORLD POINTED OUT BY AUTHORITY

Knowledge of Air Conditions Absolutely Necessary in Development of National Aerial Service

Washington, April 14.—The value of an aviator of knowledge of air conditions is pointed out by C. LeRoy Meisinger, government meteorologist, in a paper analyzing the results of data gathered by the weather bureau and the air mail service.

Mr. Meisinger explains that information of upper air conditions has enabled a saving of as high as two hours in the time taken for certain air mail trips, of 450 miles and he looks upon the general lack of knowledge of air currents as the most serious present obstacle to immediate commercial aviation on a large scale in this country.

Europe's vaunted superiority over the United States in commercial aviation is discounted by Mr. Meisinger, who says that every day the United States mail planes are flying over laps of such length that the famous European routes seem to diminish in importance.

To keep the eagle in the air, however, the confidence of the American public must be maintained, according to Mr. Meisinger. He declares that expert knowledge of air conditions and applications of the value which he obtained from this knowledge, will be of flying and create support of commercial aviation.

On journeys westward, the air mail service has found that generally an altitude of one kilometer (about 3,300 feet) results in the most speed, the winds being almost favorable there.

DR. VINES PREACHES FAREWELL SERMON AT BAPTIST REVIVAL

Dr. Turner Will Continue Revival for Remainder of This Week
Through Sunday

Dr. Vines, who has been conducting a series of revival services in the Immanuel Baptist Church, preached his farewell sermon last night to a crowded house. His sermon, which was one of the best of the entire series, was taken from the text, John 5-24, 'Verily, verily I say unto you, he that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death into life.' Dr. Vines divided his subject into two questions, namely what must I do to be saved? and How will I know that I am saved? After asking the questions he answered them with the text. There are two conditions and three promises in the text. First a man must hear. No one can be saved without hearing the gospel preached. Second, a man must believe. No one can inherit eternal life until they have heard the gospel and believed. After hearing and believing, then God fulfills His promises, namely, everlasting life, freedom from condemnation; and a pass from death into life. Dr. Vines delivered each thought with appropriate descriptions and brought the facts down to every day life, showing that God can save, will save and wants to save. He also showed God's power in keeping His children and when they wander out of the path, how He draws them back again.

Dr. Vines' sermons have been an inspiration to the Christians and have showed the sinners that they are on dangerous ground. He has preached the Bible in all its glory and beauty and drawn wonder pictures in words.

Dr. Turner will continue the series through Sunday.

ENGLAND LOOKING FOR BIG INFUX OF AMERICAN TOURIST

Eyes of Transportation Companies
Turned Expectantly Toward America
for Support This Summer

London, April 14.—First signs of spring in England have spurred the transportation companies and the tourist agencies into a fever of expectancy and all eyes are turned toward America which Europe regards as the haunt of the millionaire.

Visitors from the United States are promised much in the way of accommodations, with conditions approximating those in pre-war days. The hotels and pensions again will have plenty of rooms on comparatively short notice, and passports ceremonies are shortened.

Incoming passengers are still closely supervised by British port authorities, but the examination is much less exhaustive than last season. Then it was necessary for an American citizen to go to the trouble of getting a passport even when embarking for his native land. Such procedure is no longer necessary.

Police restrictions in the British Isles are also relaxed, registration being required only if a visitor intends to remain more than 60 days, and railway facilities are greatly improved in schedules and travel accommodations.

At this date, no steps have been taken toward organized welcome for American tourists because it is believed they can be taken care of adequately by the regular institutions for this purpose. No detail will be overlooked, however, it is pointed out, to insure comfort for all who touch British shores this season.

Travelers to Ireland, it is said, will be taken care of as far as it is physically possible under the circumstances.

BUSINESS MEN ARE HEARTILY IN FAVOR OF CLEAN UP WEEK

Dr. C. J. Ellen and W. E. Hooker Say
It Is the Best Thing That Could Be Undertaken

The clean-up campaign which is to be waged under the auspices of the chamber of commerce of this city is today receiving more direct consideration in every section of the city, and indications point to one of the most successful campaigns of any other city in the state. Greenville people have always taken more than ordinary pride in development of the municipality, and if a strenuously conducted clean-up campaign will be instrumental in better conditions, then it is certain the summer will be one of the most healthful and pleasant in a number of years.

Secretary Smith of the chamber of commerce stated this morning that interest is becoming more noticeable even in suburban sections and people are realizing the necessity of making sanitary conditions equal if not better to those existing in other sections of the state. They realize this cannot be accomplished without a strong spirit of co-operation on the part of every individual, and that they are going to give this is not doubtful in the slightest sense of the word.

The chamber of commerce has been promoting clean-up week and the anti-fly campaign for sometime, and really intended getting both drives under way before this time, but was prevented doing so by unforeseen obstacles. However, it is hoped everything will be in readiness by the beginning of next week. In that case it is urged that every person feeling the slightest interest in this environment get busy at once and do his proportionate part in making Greenville one of the cleanest cities in Eastern North Carolina. Hard work will be required, but everyone should be amply rewarded in many different ways. Visitors will naturally be attracted and home people will have something to really be proud of.

The following business men have unreservedly endorsed the movement. These two expressions make the fourth carried by city papers since Monday and show to what extent people are interested:

BELIEVES COMING WHEAT CROP WILL SATISFY DEMANDS

Sir James Wilson Tells Scotland People
That Next Crop Ought to Supply the World

London, April 14.—The prospects of the coming world's wheat crops are favorable and the harvest is likely to produce enough to meet the world's demand, says Sir James Wilson, chairman of the Central Agricultural Wages Committee for Scotland, in an authority on that subject.

He declared in an address he delivered the other day on 'The World's Wheat' that the world's supply for the current cereal year is more than equal to the demand, and he predicted that on August 1 next there would be a surplus of exportable wheat left in the exporting countries. But, he said, this surplus, outside of Russia and India, would not be large and if the world's future weather proved unfavorable, the fall in the world's price of wheat might be checked and the price might even rise again.

For the world as a whole, he said, there is no more reason to fear a future permanent dearth of wheat than that the world will be starved of food generally. He predicted that some time within the next 20 years the world price of wheat measured in gold, will return to a level not far from the pre-war average.

REGISTRATION FOR TOWN PRIMARY IS MOVING SLOWLY

Registration Books Moved From Horne
Drug Store to the Greenville
Drug Company Today

While registration is continuing slowly for the municipal primary to be conducted in this city May 2nd closing of the books yesterday afternoon indicated that practically every voter intending to participate in the election of a mayor and five aldermen will have entered their names during the remaining fifteen days in which the registration books will be open. Men again outnumbered women in registration yesterday, and unless the women exhibit more active interest than during the first four days in which the books have been open it is certain they will stand poor chance of exerting desired influence in the government of their city.

Exactly fifteen persons registered yesterday. Nineteen were included in this number against 40 men. The second ward led with 21 registrations against fifteen in the Fourth ward. The total registration up to the present time approximates 380, of which 82 are women. It is roughly estimated that the total vote of the city including women, will be in the neighborhood of eleven hundred. This cannot be considered accurate in the slightest sense of the word as women have not participated long enough to get any definite idea as to their normal voting strength. The estimate, however, is based on figures recently compiled by candidates already entered for the mayoralty contest and is the nearest way of calculating the vote at the present time.

Registrar Bowling this morning left the Horne's drug store and will be stationed at the Greenville Drug Co., the remainder of the week. He is making every effort to co-operate with the public, and Monday will be located in some other ward. It has not yet been ascertained exactly at what store he will be located but this will be announced through the columns of this paper at a later date. No one can complain of not having an equal opportunity of registering, and if they fail to get their names on the books they will have no one to blame but themselves.

The primary this year promises to be probably the most interesting in many years. Two candidates have already entered against Mayor Clark, and as they both are prominently identified in business circles of the community, strong opposition is anticipated. So far not a single candidate has been suggested for aldermen, but it is hardly probable the present board will get by without an interesting contest. The woman vote is something to consider too, and as a consequence much uncertainty is in evidence regarding their favorite, especially if they rally to the polls as they have done in other elections throughout the state.

There is always much interest manifested in the election of a mayor, and the spirit behind the contest in Greenville is no exception. Two years ago Mayor Clark defeated two candidates and his administration over the city's affairs has not weakened his strength in the lightest strength of the word. Opposition this time, however, it is believed is decidedly stronger than formerly. Both W. L. Hall and J. C. Lawler, candidates so far mentioned have a following worthy of consideration and it is quite likely they will put up stiff opposition. The rab, however, comes in with the women, as it is very uncertain where their choice is going to center, and their vote will be something to consider, no doubt about that.

Thursday Afternoon, April 14

It is not a bad guess to say that the Reflector is read daily by 10,000 people.

President Harding has proclaimed final rejection of the League of Nations. That's what the country has been expecting, therefore, no one is surprised in the least.

President Harding's opening message to congress pleased senate leaders, so we are informed. That's because the majority belongs to his party.

Great Britain is encouraging the growing of cotton. If prices remain the same, there won't be much encouragement in it.

Emma Goldman denies she is having a hard time in Russia and would not like to come back to the United States. That is very gratifying in every sense of the word. It is one time absence is preferred to company.

Sixty-five percent more readers which means that much more service and at no higher price than other charge, is what makes the Reflector the best advertising medium of any newspaper in Pitt county. Leading business people would not be such liberal users of this paper unless they realized that it pays to do so.

The co-operative marketing campaign seems to be meeting with great success in every part of the country at this time, and if Pitt county planters put it across they will be following in the pathway blazed by pioneers of industry. Practically every important agricultural center of the South is being benefited by the serious consideration of the certain conditions will be much better in the future, especially where prices are concerned.

Not much interest has developed in the municipal primary to be conducted in this city May 2nd, but it is expected things will warm up considerably in the near future, particularly after the women get interested. Candidates for mayorality honors are frequent, but aldermen jobs are going to begging. However, it is very probable the situation may warm up before long. It ought to, for the town government is deserving of first consideration. The aldermen and the mayor are at the head of the largest business concern in the town itself, and it is certain they should be capable of handling business to the satisfaction of everyone possible.

It is gratifying to note that the police department has stationed a traffic cop at Five Points, for this will have a tendency of doing away with accidents such as have occurred in the future. The town may be occasioned extra expense in improving traffic conditions but it is well worth it when considering human life is being protected. There are hundreds of people who do not regard the law as they should, and the police department should conduct its war against them with the same recognition the law in its real light. Every town is similarly affected, but it is hardly probable any place has a section of greater danger than Five Points, the intersection of five principal streets of the city.

The sentiment existing between the United States and Mexico has been a matter of considerable comment for the past several months, especially since Mexico has undergone a change of administration, and people have been anxiously awaiting some development that in some way will clarify the attitude to dominate the two countries in the future. Much has been said regarding the lack of stability in Mexican government and the probability of intervention on the part of this country, but so far it is very evident indeed that Mexico is recovering from abnormal conditions produced by social unrest, and revolution and bids fair of becoming one of the most reliable neighbors of the American government.

Since the inauguration of President Harding Mexico has been looking forward with interest for the first movement to be made by the government, but so far nothing has occurred that tends to throw the slightest light on intentions of what cabinet members have in store for the future. This state of affairs has produced something of uncertainty in Mexico, but its people are still very hopeful the United States will recognize its right of self government and help it protect its people from becoming the victims of unscrupulous American speculators. It is this faction which has placed Mexico even momentarily in bad with the United States. Its wily members plotted to gain absolute control of oil fields by fair means or foul, and so far have accomplished their mission.

Mexico has submitted to these indignities uncomplainingly, hoping against hope that the American government would come to its rescue, but so far the situation has not changed in the slightest. President Obregon has appealed for aid and if the Harding administration adjusts its affairs properly it will be a source of gratification. The smaller nation is weak and unable to battle against opposing forces, and now that it is on the road to recovery and reconstruction everything America can do to aid will be absolutely proper and in accordance with sentiment prevailing among the ordinary run of American people.

Commenting on the change in American government the great editor of Mexico in the last number of the 'Ent' fernal, a leading Mexican daily newspaper, reprinted in the Mexican Review summed up the situation in splendid terms, declaring the Mexican people have faith in the fairness and good intentions of its members and means to do everything to live up to expectations. The article in part says:

"During the world war, when Belgium was overrun and enslaved and France invaded, the educated classes of Mexico saw with wonder and approval, the men of the United States flocking to the colors and leaving their homes and families to cross the seas to sacrifice their lives if need be, to fight for right and justice. We watched your noble women stand imperturbable in the face of stress, and with courage and abnegation do the work that charity and war demanded of them.

"Our suspicions regarding the moral standing and social responsibility of your countrymen disappeared when your powerful country stood united to defend the integrity of small nations and respect due to the sovereignty of weak countries. And we Latin Americans, almost forgot then, the offenses to our sister Republics in Spanish America and even those to our own country.

So it is in the name of a people, which now begins to know the moral and physical strength of its neighbor, which has forgotten the aggressions of the past; and has nearly healed its wounds, and which, convinced of the necessity of a friendly co-operation and mutual understanding with your country, that this newspaper addresses America in an impersonal manner, not voicing any political party, but rather reflecting the complete and unanimous opinion of the Mexican people.

"The more powerful your country becomes, the weaker Mexico may seem to be, and we are therefore all the more justified in endeavoring to make you understand our characteristic traits and respect due our dignity.

"The many obstacles in our way during the hundred years in which we have been fighting for our independence have made the struggle a long and bloody one.

"We are not blind to the errors made by our governments, particularly in their dealings with foreign countries, and we know we lack national training, and of experience and proper training, capable of discussing international questions with expert statesmen of the world. Perhaps we have, as an unhappy characteristic of our race, the love of the sound of words and are prone to be carried away by lyrics. "But one of the great troubles in our country has been that created by American dollar magnates in gaining possession of our oil fields. During the great war, while our foreign office flirted openly with German diplomacy and persisted in quarreling with child-like simplicity with the Allied governments, oils, metals, and other products of Mexico were being exported in enormous quantities, without interruption to the United States and England.

"The United States powerful, Mexico is weak. The United States can demand honesty, loyalty, sincerity on the part of our statesmen and citizens, but it is under obligations to respect our rights, our national sovereignty and liberty.

"The time has come for us to endeavor to consolidate forever a sincere friendship between Mexico and the United States. Upon America's shoulder rests the responsibility of a great humanitarian task. We hope and believe sincerely, that the sordid and petty policies of individual interests will not close the eyes of the eminent to our plight or to our rights, and that the clamor of speculators will not deafen the ears of the great president of today to our solemn and just pleas."

Greenville people should not fail to do everything to make the proposed clean up week a great success. Practically every town in the state has staged similar drives with great success and it is certain it would not do for a progressive place like Greenville to fall down. Santa Fe is one of the greatest drawing cards of any town, it is absolutely proper and just that people get busy immediately and do their part in making their environments better. This is imperative if health conditions are to be what they should, and longevity will be increased to a great extent.

SOMETHING ABOUT EYES THAT ALL SHOULD KNOW

There are forty-three distinct and easily traced pairs of nerves in the human body. Thirty-one pair are given off from the spinal column. Twelve pair are given directly from the brain, two pair which run down to the lungs, stomach and heart, etc. The tongue is supplied with two pair, one for the motion and the other for the sense of taste. The eyes have 4-13 pairs, no other organ in the body have as much as one whole pair exclusively. This tells us that nature regards the eyes and tongue a two important organs. Poets have called the eyes the window of the soul. Accident insurance companies regard them as much value as life, paying your policy in full if you lose both eyes and half if you lose one eye.

Normal Vision Does Not Mean Normal Eyes—

A great many people have normal vision, but suffer from headaches, indigestion, skin eruption, loss of memory, irritable temper, mental dullness and many other nervous derangements, simply from the nerve strain involved in seeing clearly.

The eyes are the only organs of the body supplied with facilities for overcoming the most common anatomical defect, but these facilities were not put there for that purpose. The static or natural condition of a normal eye is when its focal apparatus is adjusted a long distance such as twenty feet or further, when there is no nerve demand whatsoever, but when such eyes are used for near points, the power of the crystalline lens is increased by applying nervous energy to a circular muscle around the lens and the mechanism acts automatically and subconsciously to keep the retina in focus. When the eye is deformed because of deficient development, this apparatus is used to keep the retina in focus, thus neutralizing the deformity but at a fearful expense. Almost anyone can take up a pair of ordinary convex lenses with 40-inch focus and see very well at a distance, though most people would call these window glasses, yet for a person with an error requiring that much for correction, has an excess demand on their nervous system of 23 percent daily, and we find many people in our practice who have three times that much, or 69 per cent strain. Is it any wonder they have nervous trouble? Yet many of these people have normal vision and do not want to wear glasses all of the time.

Some of the effects of eye strain is directly on the eyes, cross eyes are one exhibit, inflamed lids is another, styes, granulation, tumors of the lids; itchy eyes, winking eyes, and etc. All internal ones, such as pain in the eye ball, retina inflammation, atrophy and etc, are signs of eye strain.

If you have eye trouble, and been unable to get relief from other doctors you should try a McCormick Graduate.

For Cleaner City

Everything that makes for a city beautiful; everything that makes for progressiveness; everything that makes for enlarged business; everything that makes for the happiness of the homes; everything that makes for efficiency; everything that makes for thrift; everything that has for its ultimate aim the general welfare of the people, should at least have the careful consideration of every citizen in our city. The Clean-Up Campaign, which will be put on at an early date, has my hearty endorsement.

Drinking a Glass of Hot Water is a Splendid Habit

Cleanse and sweeten the system, each morning and wash away poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before eating more food.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast. A quarter of a pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is enough to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism an enthusiast on internal sanitation.—Greenville Drug Co., special agent.

Outward Beauty Must Reflect Inward Worth

"How will they look when I have worn them two or three weeks? is a pertinent question in shoe buying

Surface beauty cannot last unless workmanship and materials are right. But when fine materials and fine workmanship are united with appealing style, you may be sure of lasting pleasure in the shoes you choose.

Intrinsic worth is quite as important as correct style, at our store.
