

COMMITTEE SEES GREAT SUCCESS IN PITT COUNTY DRIVE

Canvassing for Members of Marketing Association Continues to be Featured by Great Success

After several days of intensive canvassing in various parts of the county twelve members of the canvassing committee of the Co-operative Marketing Association returned to Greenville this morning for the purpose of putting in a full day's work among the large crowds that generally throng princely thoroughfares of the city the last day of the week.

A. W. Swain, director of the campaign committee, O. F. McCrary, district demonstration agent and W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent of Pitt county spent yesterday afternoon and last night in the Bethel and Belvoir sections, where it is estimated that eighty five percent of planters seen signed the contract and assisted the canvassing committee in securing the names of other members of the industry.

Despite inclement showers of the evening, other members of the committee working in remote districts reported similar success, and indicates that there will be little trouble in getting other farmers of the same communities to sign when they find out what has been accomplished. The percentage proved as favorable as any day during the week, and leaders believe a careful estimate will show that at least ninety percent are prepared to take in the program to be later outlined thru the association.

Mr. McCrary stated this morning that interest in Pitt county compares favorably to that in any section of the state where the necessary fifty percent of cotton and tobacco growers have already signed the contract. There is greater reason why Pitt county farmers should sign, he declared. They produce probably the largest and best crop of bright leaf tobacco and cotton grown throughout the entire country, yet its planters failed to receive prices in proportion to the cost of production at any time during the season. This fact, he says, has made it very plain that organization is imperative if conditions in the future are to be improved, and that the man who remains behind waiting to see what the association will do is going to be the one to suffer consequences of his folly. The time for action is here, and the sooner this is realized the sooner the farming industry will recover from the serious situation produced by low prices and lack of foreign demand.

Mr. Pace says reports have been received from many communities which haven't been visited up to the present time, and that community leaders are impressed with the fact that organization such as offered by the association is necessary. The wisdom of principles involved in the contract has had its effect, therefore, it is certain the next several days will see Pitt county reach the fifty percent goal and then surpass records established in other counties.

REVIVAL RECEIVING WIDE ATTENTION IN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Evangelist Ben Edwards of Texas, Preaching Splendid Sermons in Revival Services

The revival services which have been in progress in the Eighth Street Christian church since Wednesday evening are attracting wide attention and people are attending in large numbers. The weather was very inclement last evening, in addition to several features of interest in the city, but the main auditorium was comfortably seated, and those who braved the weather heard a splendid sermon by Evangelist Ben Edwards, who is conducting the services.

Mr. Edwards preached on the subject "Christian Zeal", taking as a basis for his sermon the account given in 1st Chapter John, of Andrew following the Lord to see where He dwelt, and having found Jesus, he went out as a personal worker, and carried his brother Simon to Jesus. The speaker took for his text the first half of the 42nd verse of the Chapter "And he brought him to Jesus". The text was developed from the following points. First, The privilege of being a personal worker for Jesus; Second, The fact that the revival started in Andrew's own home; Third, He brought him to Jesus. The speaker drew a vivid picture of the two Andrew and his friend following the Master, and after hearing Him talk,

WOMEN ARE STILL RUNNING MEN RACE IN PRIMARY DRIVE

Registration Yesterday Showed the Women Only Slightly Behind the Men in Number of Day

Men and women ran another close race in registration for the city primary yesterday which resulted in 42 registrations of which 20 were women and 22 men. The total registration at this time approximates 811. The past three or four days has witnessed intense activity on part of the woman voter, and there is every indication the next several days the books are to be open will see the total number run close to the eleven hundred mark.

The Fifth and Second Wards tied, having eleven registrations each against ten in the Third Ward, six in the Fourth and four in the First. The day's average was much below that of the day previous, but there is every indication today will see a revival of interest in which each ward will tie for honors. The women started off in a rather disinterested way, but when they saw the men getting ahead of them the situation changed materially, resulting in the woman taking the lead Wednesday, and falling on short Thursday.

Interest in the contest for mayor and alderman has undergone very little change. No new candidates have announced their names since yesterday, although it is conceded that there are one or two others preparing to file their hats in the ring at the very first opportunity. Each candidate is working over time for honors, and soliciting votes is continuing on a greater scale than ever before. The aldermanic candidates have received some of the enthusiasm from the races for mayor, and consequently it is believed the next week will see something going on in the way of speech making and canvassing.

Registrar Bowling will remain at the Warren Drug Company until closing of the books, and urges everyone to get busy immediately and get in position to vote for their favorites. Registration is absolutely necessary owing to recent rulings of the state legislature.

BRILLIANT SCENES IN SENIOR PLAY AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Presentation of Monsieur Beaucaire Proves Great Success Despite Lowering Clouds

The performance of Monsieur Beaucaire was a brilliant success and in spite of the lowering clouds, there was a full house. The audience was entranced with the beautiful scenes and followed breathlessly the thrilling plot. The light, neutral background, into which the scenes sometimes seemed to bend and which sometimes threw scenes out into bold relief, was very effective. The pictures of Monsieur Beaucaire or of Lady Mary standing on the threshold will long linger in the minds of the audience.

It is difficult to say which scenes were the most beautiful but perhaps the festive ballroom scene and the moon light scene comes first. The rose motif in the former was enchanting, and the tones of the violin accompaniment added greatly to the spell cast by the scene.

The lighting effects were ahead of anything of the kind ever attempted at the Training school. The spot lights and the high lights and shadows were excellent and the soft blues in the moon light scenes were wonderful effective.

Miss Ruth Poindexter as the star was superb, never once letting go her part, which required poise and delicacy as she caught the attention of the audience at once as Monsieur Beaucaire a gentleman she looked a sif she had stepped out of the frame and was the portrait of Louis Philippe come to life. When she finally threw off her disguise she seemed to step out taller and finer. She was always that gracious, fine spirited, wonderful being, a gentleman of France.

Miss Elyse Holloway, as Lord Winterstet, the villain, played well at the opposite part, a blustering.

Miss Helen Zahnson was a lovely Lady Mary, and the hearts of the audience went out to her and they wished for her a happier ending. One felt that the Prince could not have found his French lady so charming. Miss Grace Jenkins as the English fop, furnished the humor of the play, and did some very artistic acting. Her lines never failed to bring forth the laugh, Miss Camilla Pittard as Lady Clarice charmed the audience as well as the sturdy officer, Capt. Badger, whose part was well taken by Miss Millie Everett. Miss Earle Wynne, was Mr. Millyneau made a handsome and fine second Monsieur Beaucaire, and represented the finer type of English Lord. Miss Mabel Thomas as Lord Towbrake made a good snob, and Miss Julia Taylor as Sir Hugh Bullford made a good typical Englishman of the rugged type.

ROAD SENTENCES AGAIN FEATURE IN SUPERIOR COURT

Will Barnhill, Charged With Larceny Sentenced to One Year on the County Roads

Criminal term of Pitt county superior court adjourned shortly before the noon hour today until next Monday morning when criminal hearings will again be resumed. In the case of J. H. Newell and Adolph Wingate, white men of the Grifton district charged with assaulting W. G. Coltrain, superintendent of Grifton schools, Judge Devin imposed a fine of $100 and costs upon each defendant. The case grew out of a whipping administered by the school teacher to one of the Newell children, the father in company with Wingate later going to Mr. Coltrain's home and assaulting him without provocation.

Joe Green, colored, was found guilty of breaking into and robbing a store owned by Richard Buck in the Grimesland district and sentenced to six months at hard labor on county roads.

The criminal term of Pitt superior court failed to adjourn yesterday afternoon as customary, but continued its sitting through today with the intention of disposing of every issue possible. The session yesterday was as successful as any day during the week and as a result there are from three to four offenders of law today bound for the county roads to serve sentences ranging anywhere from four to twelve months.

SCHOOL SYSTEMS OF NEW YORK TO RECEIVE CHANGES

Sweeping Revision in Course of Studies in Elementary Schools Proposed by Association

New York, April 22.—Sweeping changes in the course of study of the city's elementary schools—for instance less technical grammar, fewer history dates and new geography—are badly needed in the opinion of the New York Principals Association.

Recommendations of the association passed at its recent annual meeting, point out in detail why alternations in almost every subject of the school curriculum are urged. It takes this stand on the subject of history:

The focus should be placed correctly. Our histories should be revised by reducing the detail of the earlier epochs, and emphasizing the topics of more vital importance to modern situations.

History, the recommendations point out, should be taught to Fifth year classes, as supplementary reading higher than as history. In the grades, the study of explorers and leaders should be limited to a smaller number of selected characters.

There should be no detailed study of war, the principles assert, only general clauses, trend of struggle and the leaders who effected the results.

Elimination of the number of dates within a cycle also is proposed, for example it is insufficient to know the dates of the beginning and the end of the Revolutionary War, but is not necessary to memorize any date within that period.

Important elements of European history bearing rather, directly on United States history should be specified, the teachers believe, as the text book available contain such a mass of information that is not relevant. History should be treated as the social environment of man, with less stress on the dates of events for pupils in all elementary classes, the recommendations add.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO BE INITIATED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Intensive Drive to Increase Membership to be Waged in Every Part of County

Announcement was made this morning by the Board of Directors, Greenville Chamber of Commerce, that an intensive effort will be launched immediately to expand their organization. The membership will be materially increased, it was announced. Representative men and women of Greenville and of all other sections of Pitt county will be invited to join. There will be a complete reorganization, which will take approximately two months to complete. The new membership will decide what the Chamber of Commerce shall do and how a program of work will be adopted and followed. Officers will be elected by these members. All who join will have an equal chance to serve as directors or with committees and plans were adopted for adequately financing the Chamber, by making the dues $25 per year and having members join for three years.

Dr. C. J. Ellen, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided last night at the meeting. Others who were present: W. L. Best, First Vice-president, J. H. Blount, Second Vice-president, J. B. Kittrell, C. D. Tunstall, R. L. Crow, J. E. Winslow and H. L. Smith, Secretary. William C. Ewing, Campaign Director, American City Bureau, who will have charge of the campaign, and St. John Armes, also of the American City Bureau Staff, were present at the meeting and were formally introduced to the Board of Directors.

It was decided sometime ago by the Board of Directors, which also includes among its members Messrs. A. L. Blow, J. L. Little, B. B. Sugg and H. A. White, that the Chamber of Commerce should be reorganized and expanded. These public spirited men felt that the Chamber should be linked with an organization from which expert guidance could be obtained. With that object in view an invitation was extended to The American City Bureau, of New York, to send a representative. This resulted in the Board of Directors deciding to place the Chamber under the guidance of the American City Bureau and have the work of increasing the membership and reorganization under the direct supervision of staff members of that concern. Mr. Ewing will be in Greenville for several weeks, directing the first phase, which will be the campaign to show residents of Greenville and Pitt county what the Chamber of Commerce will be when reorganized and the actual signing of the members.

The American City Bureau is a national wide organization. Officers are maintained in New York, Illinois and San Francisco, California. Its officers and staff representatives have started or reorganized hundreds of civic-commercial bodies and guided them on their successful careers. Among some of the most recent were the organizations at Newberry, South Carolina, Charlottesville, Va., Oneonta, N. Y., Greenville, Penn., Burlington, N. J., Phoenix, Ariz., Sacramento, Calif., Quincy, Ill., Independence, Mo., Pittsfield, Mass., Augusta, Maine, Atlanta, Ga., Niagara Fall, N. Y. and Woonsocket, Rhode Island. Cities of all sizes and county organizations in all parts of the United States and of Canada are now boasting of successful civic-commercial organizations as a result of campaigns which were started under American City Bureau guidance.

Mr. Ewing is one of the foremost campaigners of The American City Bureau staff. For years he has been actively interested in civic-commercial work. Last night he presented his plan for campaigning, the directors giving unanimous approval. The very first phase of the work will be the compiling of all men and women in Greenville and throughout Pitt county to whom data regarding the Chamber of Commerce will be sent during the next two weeks.

Saturday Afternoon, April 23rd

Farmers of the nation have petitioned President Harding to bring about a reduction of freight rates. They also might have asked for a cut in passenger rates and not go wrong by any means.

Hearing other towns talking about baseball makes Greenville people rather envious of having such good sport last summer. Every city ought to have some kind of wholesome diversion, and there is nothing better than baseball.

A contemporary says a town that is not selling some bonds to build roads or school houses or for some other public improvements must be a mighty lonesome quarter at this time. This may be true, but there are many which may profit by delaying bond issues until conditions become more normal and taxation decreases somewhat.

Reports from Lenoir county indicate the reduction campaign for cotton and tobacco is expected to be a great success. Farmers have rallied to the movement much better than expected, and it is believed the future will witness relief of the congested world market. The plan is about the only definite way yet proposed, and the grower who fails to do his part will do his community an injustice.

The clean-up campaign will be brought to a close in Greenville today. According to reports emanating from chamber of commerce it has been a gratifying success. People responded in a pleasing way, and large business houses and manufacturing enterprises deserve much praise for offering services of their trucks to haul rubbish and refuse away from various homes. Other cities reported success along the same line of work, but if they were more successful than Greenville they were going some, there's no doubt about that.

The canvassing committee of the cooperative marketing association is meeting with success in Pitt county at this point to even greater success than that in Lenoir county, which claims a record of 95 percent. No one can dispute the advisability of the new marketing plan for it has been realized all the time that some such medium is necessary. The farmer who remains outside the association will realize the great mistake in the course of a few months. Experience however, is a great teacher, and no one really appreciates it until he has caught its real significance.

Women of Catawba county are said to have saved a bond issue of $500,000 for improvement of schools and other public institutions. The issue would have been defeated if the women vote had not come in just as it did. It's a mighty progressive step in every sense of the word, but one naturally questions the advisability of the issue just at this time when economic conditions are so unsettled.

The anti-malaria campaign seems to be making much progress in this county at the present time, and Greenville as a result is going to be free from much of the malaria going its rounds in other sections of the state. The town is to be congratulated in making an appropriation for this work, for it is very essential. Money spent in preservation of health is spent wisely, and there is no other improvement measuring up to it in importance.

UNWISE SPENDING

Everyone likes to believe that the period of readjustment is going to be as constructive as the period of war destructive, but the evidence of reckless expenditure of government, state and municipal funds for improvement which could be delayed until conditions become settled has produced much speculation as to what the future is going to hold in store. No one likes to be pessimistic nor unduly stingy concerning necessary improvements, but it is very plain that this is no time for any thing conservative handling of public funds, it matters not, what they may be spent for.

Right recently state papers have carried accounts of bond issues for road school and other improvements affecting town, state and nation. In each instance, the sum of money required was enormous, in fact, far too much so, considering the present economic situation in prevalence throughout the nation. But, yet officials have not paused to consider the increased taxation to be incurred by the public in each issue, nor have they presented the matter for consideration as they should have done.

It's mighty commendable of any community to spend any amount of money for bettering environments and opportunities for civic betterment, but we do not believe this is exactly the right time to spend too freely when there is no guarantee that the country is going to recover from the past period of depression and unrest in the near future. Conservation should be the first thought of every municipality and state, for unless this is done enormous debts may be created from which they will be long in recovering, particularly the persons forcing to bear the brunt of the issue through taxation.

The tax question has been discussed seriously for the past several months. There are by far too many kind of taxes, yet it must be remembered that the great war must be paid for while regular town and county taxes must come regardless of whatever takes place. With this state of affairs prevailing, is a community fair to itself and its people to increase its burden by unnecessary bond issues and borrowing of money which could be delayed until conditions adjust themselves sufficiently to determine exactly what the money market is going to do, and whether or not rates are to be lowered.

The question is plain enough to convince any sound-minded person that the time for serious consideration is at hand, for unless this occurs America will be faced by a situation anything but pleasing in every sense of the word. We do not mean to discourage progress nor to intensify the hard times scare, but we do mean the time has come when economy of government must be an actuality. Times are too uncertain to create further debts, and no community will lose anything by deferring bond issues and improvements until changing conditions justify them.

The first week session would have been concluded yesterday afternoon as usual but there were several matters left on the docket requiring immediate attention, or at least should be disposed of if next week's session is to prove as successful as the present term. Judge Devin expedited activity in every way possible, and there is every indication that the docket for the first week will be cleared by adjournment this afternoon.

Bonnie Andrews and Robert Cavanaugh, charged with larceny, were found guilty and sentenced to six months on the roads. Barnhill was also tried on charges of carrying concealed weapons and another larceny case judgment being suspended in both instances.

Mack Weatherington and Leslie Smith, charged with larceny, was sentenced to six months on the county roads, or to be disposed of as the commissioners see fit. Mrs. Bertha Croom was found not guilty of larceny, the charge growing out of an indictment issued by a foreigner staying at Mrs. Croom's house, in which it was alleged she declined to return a sum of money which he placed in her care. Evidence tended to show that the money was put away, being stolen by someone believed to be the foreigner himself.

Judgment was suspended in the case of Bonnie Andrews, charged with assault with deadly weapon. Judgment was also suspended in the larceny charge against Riley Wooten. The case against John Tripp charging him with assault with deadly weapon and carrying a concealed weapon was continued. Judgment was suspended in the case of Mack Worthington for larceny.

(Continued from page 1) and realizing that they had found Jesus they were indeed happy and then the personal work started. In order to do personal work for Jesus, we must first know Him ourselves. We must walk with Him, we must talk with Him, and then we must go out and lead others to the Master. Andrew started the revival in his own home. At this point Mr. Edwards brought out the fact that Christians do not do enough personal work in their home. They find it difficult, but they like Zaccheus must climb over the difficulties, and show their loved ones the way of the Lord.

And He brought him to Jesus. At this point Mr. Edwards appealed to the people present to help make the meeting one of the best ever conducted in our city, from the points of winning souls for God, and personal work. He appealed to the sinners to throw aside their sins and wordly way of living, and accept Jesus while He is passing their way.

Evangelist Edwards is a splendid speaker and possesses a magnetic personality. He is deeply interested in the saving of Greenville, for God's Glory and he wants the co-operation of the Christian people.

There will be no services this evening, but on tomorrow morning the evangelist will preach on the subject, 'The whole church'. Tomorrow evening his subject will be 'If we only kne'. Mrs. Pollock is pianist.
