FUN NIGHT WITH KIWANIS CLUB IS GREAT SUCCESS

Several Interesting Things Pulled Off During Evening of Mirth and Laughter

KIWANIANS TO MEET IN AYDEN OCTOBER 20; BIG NIGHT PLANNED

Visitors From Winterville, Grifton and Other Towns to be Invited to Attend

Last night was known as fun night at the Kiwanis club and the occasion was one of the most interesting in several weeks.

After blessing had been offered by Rev. W. P. Shambart, J. K. Brown was appointed sheriff.

President J. B. James was in charge of the meeting, and announced the subject for the evening. There were five speakers, their subject being "Bobbed Hair and Rolled Stockings."

Dr. Laughinghouse spoke on the subject from a sanitary point of view. C. Heber Forbes from a moral standpoint, W. H. Woodard from an economic standpoint.

Each speaker was limited to two minutes, but they crowded into each speech many things of an humorous nature.

A quartet appeared in rain coats and football headgear as protection against anything the members might throw.

A liar's contest was held with J. Frank Harrington, C. W. Harvey, B. W. Moseley and Z. P. Vandyeke being the participants.

President James called the attention of the club to the annual district meeting to be held at Asheville, October 17 and 18th.

The next meeting of the club, October 6th, will be a strictly business affair. The second meeting, October 20th, will be held in Ayden, at which time the local Kiwanians plan to have as their guests a majority of the business men of Ayden, Winterville, Grifton and surrounding vicinity.

Several visitors were in attendance last night, among them being Attorney Clarence Pugh of Elizabeth City, who in response to his introduction made a brief and interesting talk.

GREENVILLE WINS FOOTBALL CONTEST FROM WILSON CLUB

Locals Show Remarkable Strength in Initial Skirmish Here Yesterday

Wilson High was no match for the foot ball machine Greenville High has developed and the Pitt county lads inflicted a humiliating defeat on the visitors yesterday afternoon to the tune of 26 to 0.

Playing in form that would have done credit to an experienced team in mid-season, the local boys tore the Wilson line into shreds and scouted the ends at will.

If the Greenville High lads hold the stride they hit yesterday they will be real contenders for the Eastern Carolina championship.

One of the most pleasing features of the game was the way in which the Greenville High line held. Time after time the Wilson backs tried line bucks only to be held or thrown for losses by the Greenville line.

On Friday, Coach Duncan's charges go to Kinston where they are to meet Kinston High. It is hoped that a number of Greenville rooters will accompany the team and give them the support accorded them at the Fair Grounds on yesterday.

The line-up for yesterday's game:

Table with 3 columns: Greenville, Position, Wilson. Rows include players like Foley, Humber, Smith, Williams, Skinner, Wilson, Winslow, Evans, Hardee, Forbes, Brown.

Substitutions: for Greenville, Mayo for Evans, Jenkins for Forbes, Harvey for Foley, Fleming for Winslow, Suggs for Smith, Pulley for Skinner, Barber for Wilson, W. Evans for Humber.

GREEK TROOPS WILL NEVER PERMIT TURKS TO CAPTURE THRACE

Retention of Territory Essential to Preliminary Peace Plans

FOREIGN OFFICE ISSUES STATEMENT AS TO POSITION

Declares Smyrna Massacre Speaks for Itself; Developments Expected

Athens, Sept. 23.—Greece will never permit the Turks to invade Thrace, which she considers part of her homeland and retention of which is an "essential preliminary condition to any peace conference."

"We have lost Asia Minor, but we must keep Thrace," said the statement. "That is an essential preliminary condition to any peace conference. Our army in Asia Minor, which had been fighting for the two years, was absolutely exhausted, but the Greek nation will never permit the Turks to invade Thrace, which we consider home territory."

"We have demobilized the (military) classes of 1919 to 1921, but the classes from 1919 to 1923 we are keeping on a war footing, making a total army of 150,000 men available for Thrace should the Allies permit the Turks to cross to Constantinople."

"Unhappily, we lack ammunition, artillery and general equipment, but our friends will help us in our efforts to keep the Turks out of Europe and that the English fleet will aid us in preventing the Turks from crossing the straits."

"The Smyrna massacre speaks for itself. Greece is defending Christian civilization. Internally, Greece is quiet. There is absolutely no danger of a revolution. Foreign reports of trouble are the outgrowth of the insistence of our troops that they be returned to Ploesus instead of being demobilized on the island. But these worried men had no revolutionary designs they only wanted to go home."

Saturday, September 23, 1922

President Harding has signed the bill tending to prohibit gambling in grain. If it should meet with desired results the country will reap much benefit, especially producers of grain. Legislation tending to eliminate gambling on other products might also come in good, and the government should investigate and find out exactly what products are involved more than others. Gambling in grain will be cut out by regulation of trading in futures. While sometime may be required in getting the law to work effectively, this will come about in course of time, and everyone will receive direct benefit from it.

Senator Simmons did his best to convince members of the senate that the tariff measure is not what the country needs, and while failing the nation will give him credit for what he did. Passage of the bill establishes the highest protective tariff rates in years and the public will have to pay for it. This has always been the case in tariff issues and certainly there will be no difference in this particular instance. Numbers of articles are involved in the tariff and prices will have to be fixed high enough to cover the rates. American people are oppressed by taxation as it is, but with this additional burden the load will become so great here will be more failures in business than successes.

The coming of General John J. Pershing to the Raleigh fair will be received with much interest in all parts of the state and it is likely his address to be delivered the opening day will be heard by thousands of people. General Pershing forged to the limelight when he was appointed commander of American forces in Europe, and honor and position which at the time turned the eyes of the world upon him. Since the time he has taken an important part in military discussions and is considered an authority on anything pertaining to warfare. That he will have an interesting message for the crowd attending the opening day of the fair cannot be questioned and those present may be assured of being well entertained.

Capt. J. J. Aughtinghouse of this city, writing in the News and Observer, says the railroads should not decline to give the old Confederate veterans their usual low rate to the annual state reunion in Asheville. Most of these men have passed their four score years and will never attend another reunion, he says, and the railroads should be very generous to them during the remaining days they are with us. This is a mighty line plea in behalf of that strong body of warriors who did so much for the South and the railroads should not for an instant think of refusing to reduce rates for the reunion. Many of the old veterans are poor and haven't the means of paying high rates, and unless some reduction is made they will be forced to remain at home. The railroads should not forget the service these men rendered their country. The debt is one which we can never pay, but it can be recognized whenever an occasion of the kind presents itself.

The Pitt county fair which will be held November 8-13 will be the greatest since it was organized three years ago, and those who attend can rest assured that many products produced in Pitt county will be on exhibit. The poultry department will be especially interesting because the county poultry association has signified its intention of having the greatest exhibit possible. The association has a number of members who are the largest raisers of chickens in this part of the state and their products will be of interest to everybody residing in the county. It is hoped live stock raisers and farmers will also get busy and see what can be done. Premiums in every department will be an inducement and competition should be very keen. There is no worry about what will be seen in the floral department, the woman's work department and other things in which the women are interested. They had things of a most creditable nature last year and it is safe to say they will do everything to better their record, if this is possible, and there is always room for an improvement in anything. We should be proud of our fair as other counties are. They mean much in an advertising way and show the outside world what we are capable of producing.

It is now proposed to raise the soldiers bonus through a five per cent tax on beer. That would probably be all right if there was enough beer to tax, but since it is limited only in certain sections, we can't see where five billion dollars will be raised. The bonus must come, however, through some source, and the sooner some definite plan is decided upon the better ex-service men will feel about it. Many of these men sacrificed good paying businesses to go to the war and it is nothing more than natural for them to expect some compensation from the government. The Republicans have credit for defeat of the bonus, and it may be they will be given it to the fullest extent in the next election.

Representative Blanton of Texas vigorously defends Attorney General Daugherty for obtaining an injunction against the striking railroad workers, believing as many others that it was the only effective emergency measure possible at the time. If an injunction had not been issued there is no telling how serious the strike would have become. In fact it is possible violence would have been more accentuated than reported even in sections where several lives were lost. While the strikers believe they have been treated unfairly, the public cannot possibly censure the attorney general for taking steps to protect the public rights of the laboring man. If the strikers had been on the other side of the fence they might see the matter in the same light. Certainly they could see no other way if they can look at anything from an unbiased point of view.

The protective tariff measure passed by Republicans this week cannot possibly be for the best of the country. It will do more to increase the price of certain products than anything that has occurred in months. Merchants with ship loads of goods on the ocean did everything to get them in port before the tariff became effective Friday. If they had not taken this action they would have been forced to pay out thousands of dollars in additional duty. This increased tariff rate must come from somewhere, and the public will be the goat as it has always been. We can't see where the Republicans expected to better conditions by such a measure, unless they were trying to increase the wealth of the government. That's the only benefit that can possibly be derived, but in the long run it is all the same. The public makes the nation and if it is burdened by taxation everything else will be affected likewise.

President Harding has signed bills providing federal investigation of the coal industry and for control of prices while the strike is in progress. That some action of the kind is very necessary is indisputable as the hands has suffered unspeakably at the hands of the coal gouger and if something isn't done the winter will see thousands of homes without sufficient coal to keep them warm. This would be an awful condition for a country as prosperous as America, but it will be true if something isn't done, and that quick. Investigations have proven futile in the past, but if the government employs the right kind of men results should be obtained this time. The time for action has come and the sooner the investigation begins the earlier we may expect relief from the merciless profiteering of the gouger.

Senator Simmons charges that the Republican congress has been a failure. Senator McCormick, of Illinois, says their achievements have been instrumental in reducing expenses of the government to the tune of several million dollars. He also claims they have lifted the nation from industrial paralysis. The statements are mighty conflicting, but it doesn't take an expert to see that the Senator from North Carolina is basing his claims on a comparison with achievements of those eventful years the Democrats had charge of things. The Republicans, it is true, have made a great bluster as if setting the world afire, but if they have accomplished anything their record isn't indicative of it. The next election will tell the story of whether their great saving to the nation has been appreciated, and it will also tell whether Senator Simmons was right when he said the senate is a failure.

The raising of food crops, cattle and poultry is very necessary while the boll weevil has charge in this part of the country, and the farmer that fails to do something of the kind will find himself in an uncomfortable position. Figures show that raisers of poultry and cattle in western states are more prosperous than the cotton producing sections even under favorable conditions. If this is true, as we have no right to doubt, it seems the cotton grower might find it to his advantage to try the experiment for a while at least. The best time to do this is while the boll weevil is doing his worst. It will give the pest less cotton to destroy and at the same time place the farmer in an independent position.

TRAINED CANARY MAKES HIT IN FILMS

Alice Calhoun Teaches Bird to Obey Slightest Command.

A trained canary bird is a delightful feature of "The Angel of Crooked Street," the Alice Calhoun production which will be shown at White's Theater on Tuesday. It was made under the direction of David Smith at Vitagraph's west coast studios.

In one sequence Alice takes the bird from the cage and fondles it and talks to it, while her mother watches her. This occurs during the girl's visit to her home from her position as maid of a rich woman.

The bird perches itself on Miss Calhoun's shoulder and as the girl turns her mouth to it the bird kisses her. It is as pretty a bit of action as has ever been used in a picture.

Miss Calhoun is particularly fond of animals and birds and in a few days had trained this canary to do the thing expected of it. However, at the studio, when one asks who trained the bird, Director David Smith claims Miss Calhoun trained the bird herself, and Miss Calhoun affirms that the director was responsible.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS IN BAD WHEN EDITORS ARE FLOODED WITH LETTERS

By David M. Church, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Newspaper editors in London are saying uncomplimentary things about the friends of the League of Nations these days. Lord Robert Cecil and some of his associates started a movement among League supporters of writing personal letters to editors asking them why they didn't print more news about the League. The movement grew into proportions alarming for the editors. One editor received 200,000 letters of this character and printed a reply in his newspaper stating: "The reason we don't print more news about the League of Nations is that there isn't any more news about the League of Nations to print."

Ex-Governor Cox, of Ohio, has created somewhat of a stir in staid old London. People just can't imagine a young man of his aggressive type having the courage to run for President of the United States.

England is about ready to shelve its cricket bats and take up football. In preparation for the cup-final, which corresponds to the American baseball world's series, a new stadium is being built at Wembley, which will hold 120,000 people. Rather a neat little crowd but England takes its football seriously, and every Saturday afternoon throughout the Fall and Winter thousands stand in the wet and cold and watch professional "footers" at work.

The British sporting world is considerably aroused by a recent outbreak of racing feuds. Young "roughs" of rival gangs following the races have declared open warfare and the result has been anything but pleasant for the orderly devotees of racing. The feuds break out at the fashionable race-course and the reefer-alls which follow are unpleasant, to say the least. There have been several stabbings in London's Soho district which have been attributed to these race-gang feuds. The stewards of the various courses and the police are using every effort to clean up the situation.

Her Figure Has Grown Less Mature Than That of Any Other Woman of Her Age That I Know

She hasn't let the contour of her figure slump. She sits erect—and stands erect—but with a grace that is charming.

Some one is going to say that she is in her forties—but who is going to believe it?

A Modart Corset will do this for any woman if she places herself in the hands of a trustworthy corsetiere.

Our corsetieres are of that calibre.

Corset Department

The Modart Corset seldom, if ever, requires any alteration. That is because it is designed to fit every type of figure.
