Lloyd George and Remainder of the Coalition Government of Great Britain Resign Today

RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED BY KING WITHOUT DELAY

Lloyd George Had Headed Government of Great Britain for Over Six Years.

SUCCEEDED ASQUITH IN 1916 DURING THE GREAT WORLD WAR

Succumbed to Enemies Unionist and Conservatives Who Criticised Activity

(By International News) LONDON, Oct. 19.—The last great war statesman went into an eclipse today when Premier Lloyd George resigned with the remainder of the coalition government.

The premier presented his resignation to the King and it was accepted. He had been premier six years lacking only a few weeks.

Lloyd George succeeded Herbert Asquith in 1916, immediately after the beginning of the world war.

He succumbed to enemies in unionist and conservative parties. The resignation followed a tory conference which decided to try to force a general election.

Word was sent to Bonar Law to hold himself in readiness for summons to the palace and cabinet would be formed. The belief prevailed that another resignation was received with grave concern in this country where the seriousness is fully realized.

HARDING URGED TO CALL CONGRESS AFTER ELECTIONS

Legislative Leaders Scared Up Over the Way Things Are Going These Days

(By International News.)

Washington, Oct. 19.—Legislative leaders are urging President Harding to summon congress as early as possible after the November elections.

A tentative program has been agreed to that the president should not call a session until November 20th so the country might have a long rest from congress next summer. This proved disquieting to leaders, who take the view that conditions will not permit the recess from March until December unless short sessions breaks the speed records.

STUDENTS ACCUSED OF IDLENESS ARE DEFENDED BY OHIO COLLEGE HEAD

Columbus, Oct.—"Much criticism is being aimed at colleges because so many students are taking courses for which they are not fitted," declared Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the Ohio State University.

"It is the duty of the secondary schools to discover the line of endeavor for which the student is best equipped.

"The charge has been made that colleges and universities are filled with drones, idlers, shrinkers and social climbers. Persons of this nature are found in all walks of life. For this reason such a charge cannot be adequately made against one special group of persons."

DOUBLE MURDER DIDN'T HAPPEN WHERE EXPECTED

Phillips Farm Now Abandoned by New Brunswick Detectives, It Is Stated

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 18.—Affidavits have been obtained from two men, whose identity the authorities refuse to divulge, county prosecutors said tonight, which set forth that the double murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills did not occur in the Somerset county orchard, where the bodies were found, but in a barn on the southern outskirts of New Brunswick.

Investigation which followed the filing of the affidavits, the authorities said, led to the discovery by the police of the two handkerchiefs, one a man's and the other a woman's—held to be important clues in the case. They were not found on the Phillips' farm as was reported at that time, but in the barn which stands on the opposite side of New Brunswick. Two dark brown combs also are said to have been found on the dirt floor of the barn. These combs Charlotte Mills is reported to have identified as having belonged to her mother.

The statement which the authorities allege they have obtained from the two men is said to declare that they were driving from Red Bank, N. J., about 12 o'clock on the night of September 14. Two miles out from New Brunswick, they said, they passed the barn, a deserted, dilapidated structure plastered with advertising posters, which stands in a field close to the highway.

TWO YEAR OLD BOY KILLED WHEN RUN OVER BY A WAGON

Son of Arden Boyd Run Over by Wagon Loaded With Corn; Dies From Injuries

The two year old son of Arden Boyd, farmer who resides several miles from Greenville, fell from a wagon and was instantly killed last Saturday afternoon while a load of corn was being hauled from the field to the storage house a short distance from the Boyd home. Funeral services were conducted from the home Sunday afternoon, interment being made in the family burying ground.

The child had been playing around the field where corn was being gathered. When a wagon was loaded and started off towards the barn the child asked to ride. He was placed on the wagon and got along nicely until the mule came to a bad place in the road and suddenly halted. The animal started off again as suddenly as he had halted, throwing the child forcibly to the ground, directly under the wagon. Before the mule could be stopped the back wheel passed over the child's body producing injuries from which he died about an hour later.

NO "RACE SUICIDE" AMONG HAWAIIANS

(By International News.)

Honolulu, Oct. 14.—There is no evidence of race suicide to be found in the twenty Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian families thus far selected for settlement on the island of Molokai in the effort being made to rehabilitate the Hawaiian race by placing it back upon the land that was once tilled by the fore-fathers of the present generation.

The twenty families now selected for settlement on the lower lands of Kalamauia by the Hawaiian Homes Commission have a grand total of 163 persons—parents and children and the average number of children in each family is slightly more than six.

There are 123 children in the 20 families and as each applicant has a wife or husband living, this means that there will be forty adults in the initial settlement.

TOBACCO HOUSES WELL FILLED IN THIS CITY TODAY

Approximately 700,000 Pounds of Bright Leaf May Result in Block

GOOD TOBACCO IS STILL BRINGING SPLENDID PRICES

Farmers Highly Elated at Conditions Prevailing Here This Season

The change of weather brought about increased activity on the part of tobacco growers of this section and today the local market had the largest break of the season. It is estimated that there was approximately seven hundred thousand pounds of leaf on the floors of the six warehouses when sales started this morning, and indications pointed to a block despite the most strenuous effort on part of the three sets of buyers.

In case of the block it will be the first time during the season this has occurred. Sales have been heavy many days since the opening, but buyers have always been able to clear the floors before sundown. Today, however, the floors are more glutted than they have been at any other time this season and if sales should be completed by sundown it will be short of a miracle.

While prices for good tobacco continued to hold their own today, it was evident that poor grades were slightly off. This resulted from the large amount of common tobacco and inferior grading. Common tobacco is bad enough itself, but when it is offered for sale roughly graded it is worse than bad and can't be expected to demand prices in proportion to cost of production.

The price situation has been very favorable here this season and farmers who came from afar expressed great satisfaction at what they received for their offerings. Many growers from a distance were here today and were favorably impressed with the price situation, despite the prospect of congested floors. They said they could stand to wait on the sales one time during the whole season and didn't care what happened just so prices remained satisfactory.

Cool weather is expected to cause the farmers to market their crop rapidly now and by Thanksgiving Day it is believed a considerable part of the year's production will have been disposed of. This market has already established a favorable reputation in prices and when it closes there is every reason to believe it will take first or second place in amount of tobacco sold.

DENIES REPORT THAT HARDING REQUESTED FORBES TO RETURN

Washington, Oct. 19.—Official denial was made today at the White House that President Harding was responsible for Colonel Forbes abruptly leaving the legion convention. Specific denial was made that President Harding had a long distance telephone talk with Colonel Forbes prior to his departure. If Forbes is returning he is doing so entirely on his own volition, Secretary Christian said.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS NOW HOLDING INTEREST

Legionnaires Clear Way for Hardest Fought Election in History

NINE FAVORITES MAKE CLOSE RUN FOR COMMANDER

Colonel Forbes, Head of Veterans' Bureau Leaves Convention Suddenly

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—Having paraded with colors flying, in their annual review, voted to continue the fight for adjusted compensation, received an embossed message from the British Legion signed by the Prince of Wales, and an ivory gavel from Alaska Legionnaires, the election of officers was almost solely occupying the attention of delegates to the fourth annual convention of the American Legion in session here.

The election, due to be held Friday, promises to be one of the hardest fought in the history of the Legion's four years of existence. With nine states running favorite sons and each one claiming sufficient votes to give serious consideration to their candidates, delegates who have attended all of the national conventions admit they are at sea as to the final result.

It was definitely announced by the Texas delegation today that the name of Alvin M. Onsey, of their state and now chairman of the American Legion Commission, will be formally presented to the convention with the state endorsement.

Something of a surprise was thrown into convention circles late today when it became known that Colonel C. R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who came here upon the invitation of Hansford MacNider, National Commander of the American Legion and who was scheduled to address the convention tomorrow morning upon the work of his organization, had suddenly left New Orleans and returned to Washington. Colonel Forbes took with him his entire staff. He made no public statement as to the reasons for his departure, nor did he intimate whether the action was taken solely on his own responsibility.

It has been openly charged by William F. Deegan of New York, commander of the legion in his state and announced candidate for National commander, that Colonel Forbes had actually come to the convention by direction of President Harding in an effort to procure the selection of a man for National commander who would maintain a lukewarm attitude toward proposed National legislation for a soldier bonus.

Kennesaw M. Landis, supreme commissioner of baseball, was introduced by Commander MacNider, as the man, who in his opinion, more nearly typifies the Roosevelt tradition. A great outburst of applause greeted the veteran jurist and baseball commissioner.

OLIVER J. SANDS ADDRESSES CROWD OF FARMERS HERE

Richmond Banker Tells of Agricultural Development in Address at Court House

Oliver J. Sands, of Richmond, Va., executive manager of the Co-operative Marketing association, spoke before a fairly large gathering of farmers at the court house this morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Sands is one of the leading bankers and business men of the south and his address was filled with a number of facts regarding the agricultural development of the south. He told of the plans of the Co-operative Marketing association and what it is doing to help the farmer market their crops in a more orderly manner.

His address covered the growth and development of the co-operative movement in the south, especially in connection with the cotton and tobacco crops. He said the future is very bright for greater development of agriculture and urged his hearers to do everything possible to foster their own interests.

A number of farmers, mostly members of the association, from different parts of the county were numbered among the crowd that greeted Mr. Sands. Much interest was manifested in the many points presented for their consideration.

STATE KIWANIAN ELECT BERT JAMES LIEUT-GOVERNOR

Local Man Elected to High Post Along With H. Grady Rankin of Gastonia

NEXT SESSION TO BE HELD IN THE CITY OF WILMINGTON

Alva Lumpkin, of Columbia, Elected to Succeed W. B. Merrimon, of Greensboro

Greenville and Pitt county people will be interested to learn that J. B. James, president of the Greenville Kiwanis club was elected lieutenant governor of North Carolina at the district convention of Kiwanis clubs held at Asheville this week. H. Grady Rankin, of Gastonia, was also elected a lieutenant governor along with Mr. James. The convention ended yesterday and will meet next year in Wilmington.

Alva Lumpkin, of Columbia, was elected to succeed W. B. Merrimon, of Greensboro as governor, and B. H. McDonald, of Columbia, was elected district secretary and treasurer.

Heretofore the conventions have been held semi-annually, but it was decided to hold only one session each year and that will probably be during the month of August.

The election of Mr. James will be received with general interest in this section where he is well known and one of the most active members of the local club. He was one of the first to join when the club was formed here about two years ago, and since that time has done everything possible to extend its activities.

J. B. Turner was the first president of the local club. After his departure Mr. James was elected to fill his place. That he has done so with credit to the club and himself is evidenced by recognition accorded him at the state convention.

There were four delegates appointed to attend the sessions from Greenville, but on account of unforeseen difficulties only two could attend. The two were Mr. James and R. G. Fitzgerald. They will probably return home sometime today.

North Carolina is spending six or seven billion dollars in carrying forward a program of college and university extension. This is the best argument in the world that prosperity is more general than it has been in years.

Tarboro has a municipally owned pasteurization plant and its people are deriving great good from it. Money spent in this direction is spent wisely. It goes to protect the health of the public by giving pure milk. Every town should have a plant of the kind.

All the time the newspapers were giving the former German Kaiser credit for chopping wood the "son-of-a-gun" was making love to the lady who is to become his bride in the near future. The old boy seems to be skilled in both war and love, although he wasn't quite so successful in the former.

Over forty-two million dollars was voted for education in North Carolina in 1921. This doesn't indicate times are hard or we are going to the bow-wows as fast as we can. The fact is, North Carolina is awakening to the greatness of education and means to take first rank in the course of a few years. We should double this amount the next year or so.

Ayden has a community fair and its business men are offering splendid premiums to the best products of the farm brought in by their farmer friends. That's the kind of spirit necessary to a thriving and progressive community such as Ayden has become, and if it is continued things will be even more favorable in the days to come. There is nothing that produces a closer spirit of co-operation among the town and country people than a fair. They mix together in one great cause and eventually feel as if they really got something out of the experience. Other communities should follow the path-way blazed by Ayden and plan the biggest fair it is possible for them to have.

Grifton will come in for its part of public health tonight when lecturers of the Pitt county Medical Society and the county agricultural department will tell them of the things necessary to a healthy, thriving community. The lecturers will discuss the best way to prevent diseases. They have been passed on by the state board of health and members of the Pitt county Medical society and contain good sound information for those not acquainted with the best way to fight diseases. Another lecture will be delivered by W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent of Pitt county. This will deal with the necessity of milk and cows on the farm. Grifton people should derive great benefit from these lectures.

Perishing visited Raleigh and North Carolina people honored him as he has never been honored before. Although the day was not very favorable for the visit of such a distinguished guest people turned out in large numbers and did their best to entertain the leader of two million American soldiers during the war. He spoke and every word he said seemed to fit the occasion as if it had been previously prepared for it. Perishing is truly one of the greatest men in the country today, and wherever he goes he will receive the same degree of honor on the part of the public.

The situation in the Near East hasn't shown any decided improvement in the last several days. Refugees continue to flee from the zone of warfare to other sections where they may escape the ruthless hand of the Turk. It's a pity Christians aren't permitted to go their way unmolested. But they can't do so as long as the Turks are allowed to do as they want to. America has been asked to give liberally to the support of these people and it is hoped they will do so before it is too late.

The Salvation Army drive will be under way in the next few days and Greenville and Pitt county people will be asked to contribute as freely as possible. The workers of this organization go down to the very depth of civilization to accomplish their work. They rescue those who otherwise might go to their graves in shame, thereby performing a mission the world should be proud of. Indeed Greenville has been blessed with great prosperity the last few years, and its people are able to give liberally to this great cause.

taxes, and has proposed that reports be published. That the suggestion is a good one cannot be doubted. There are hundreds of large industries in this country that pay only a third or half of what they should, and if they were checked up the government would make a much better showing at the end of the year. Unscrupulous business men would gladly take advantage of the government in other ways if it were possible and it isn't surprising they do so in tax payments.

Washington is planning to hold an election to vote bonds for school improvement and The Daily News has been appealing to the people to support the measure. It is said the need of better accommodations is very pronounced at this time, and if it is so there is nothing to do but put the election over. That the best element of the town will vote solidly in favor of the bonds cannot be doubted, but there are others of the extremely conservative class who will vote against it. Others fear the future will not be as rosy as it should and that things will go to the bow-wows. That this is the wrong attitude is not to be questioned. The world is going to move along just the same, and we might as well have what we want while we are moving.

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS

(From the Monthly Bulletin for October Issued by The National City Bank of New York)

THERE is considerable discussion and difference of opinion as to whether another period of credit inflation and rising prices is in sight. The prices of many commodities are tending upward, wage advances signify higher industrial costs and the volume of bank loans is now increasing. What is the difference between legitimate and wholesome expansion and the unhealthy state which is called inflation?

If comparison is made with the situation before the war, conditions are now inflated, but this is not chargeable to the slight expansion which has taken place in the last few weeks. Prices have had a very considerable fall from the top, and a slight recovery from that fall, but this gain cannot be called secondary inflation. It looks like the recovery that always comes when the old stocks are exhausted and industry gets fairly under way again. The fall of prices was uneven and in some cases too precipitate, and the curtailment of industry was too great to permit of supplying the necessary demands. Although the war-time was anything but a period of depression, some of the effects were similar to those resulting from a period of depression. Industry in some lines fell behind the normal growth of the country, creating a deficit of supply, or accumulation of demand. This is true in housebuilding, in the construction of railway equipment, and in some other lines, and a revival has occurred in those lines. It is due to imperative needs, rather than to a belief that the bottom has been finally reached in construction costs, although the feeling doubtless prevails that prices are not likely to go lower until the existing shortage is in large part made up. The advance of wages is due in part to the revival of industry, but in large part to the immigration act.

It is quite evident that abnormal conditions in some of the industries are directly influencing prices at this time. The rise of iron and steel is mainly due to the coal strike, which has affected all industrial costs. There is nothing about the attitude of buyers of general merchandise that indicates a desire to anticipate future wants. They are buying cautiously, for immediate needs only, and fighting advances, which is just the opposite of the common attitude when inflation is under way.

Conditions Favorable to Inflation It is true that conditions are very favorable to an inflation of credit. We have a great number of independent banking institutions, actively competing with each other for customers, and the most effective way that has ever been found for winning customers is by liberality in granting credit. These banks have liquidated a great amount of credit in the last two years, and while they have shifted a large part of it into securities, they will be glad to sell the securities as fast as the market will take them, if they can employ the funds in the service of their banking customers and to bring new customers.

Furthermore, the Federal Reserve banks are now liquidated down to very small holdings, with their gold reserves at the highest point in their history, and have the capacity to grant more credit than ever before. And, finally, gold is steadily flowing to this country from the new production of the world, and will continue to do so as long as exchange rates are in our favor as now.

These are the conditions that make for easy money, and we have never yet had easy money in this country that inflation did not come out of it. There is no such central control over bank credit in this country as in countries where the banking business is handled by a comparatively few corporations operating numerous branches. The Federal Reserve banks have no control over the member banks until the latter begin to rediscount, and then only by means of the discount rate, and popular pressure is always strong for a low rate.

There seems to be nothing in sight to save us from inflation but an indisposition of the public to borrow. The mere presence of ample gold reserves in the vaults of the Federal Reserve banks will not cause inflation. It only serves as the possible basis. Somebody must borrow the available credit, and use it in buying things to such an extent as will produce the conditions that characterize inflation.

Reasons for Caution One reason for doubting that the country will swing readily into another inflationary jamboree is that so little time has elapsed since the last one. There would seem to be reason to believe that most of the business men who passed through the experiences of 1920 and 1921 will want to make a very careful study of probabilities before they commit themselves to extensive obligations on a level of prices much above the present one.

As an answer to the argument that the importations of gold make for inflation, it is to be said that it would be most unwise to build a great fabric of credit on a temporary foundation. If this influx of gold should put prices up, by the same logic an efflux of it would put them down. Nothing can be more certain than that the present situation, in which gold came to the United States last month from 31 countries, is abnormal and cannot be permanent.

Prices Over the Long Run It is affirmed very positively in some quarters that the pre-war price-level has gone forever, and it may be readily agreed that there is no prospect of an early return to it. The fluctuating prices that we have had since the war, however, run.

There have been the product of abnormal conditions, while the price-level of pre-war times was the natural result of the free-play of all economic forces over a prolonged period, and nothing is more certain than that, given similar conditions permanently, economic laws will tend to repeat similar results.

Wages and Prices After Civil War One reason given for holding that the old price-level never will return is that labor has become highly organized and never will consent to lower its standard of living. It is also pointed out that wages were not reduced to the pre-war level after the Civil War. It is pertinent to say as to the last argument, that prices were reduced. Wages depend at last upon production, and if production can be increased in the coming years as it was after the Civil War, so that goods are cheapened, consumption increased, and the demand for labor thus increased, not only will there be no occasion to reduce wages, but it would be impossible to do so even if labor was unorganized.

Wages and Living Standard On the other hand, unless production is cheapened, the standard of living is not raised for the wage-earning class by pushing up wages, because the cost of living rises with them. It is perfectly futile—foolishly so—to look for any general improvement of social conditions by merely raising wages in terms of money. To talk about it is nothing but a habit of mind. There are no gains from raising money-wages, except as there are inequalities in the advances, some groups of workers getting their compensation raised at the expense of others. Such benefits are their general nor permanent, for in the long run the economic law will find a way of equalizing conditions.

A Sound Basis for Prosperity If we accept the very substantial revival which has taken place this year as a natural recovery from an excessive curtailment of industry in 1921, and a natural result of progress made in restoring the equilibrium between the several branches of industry, by reductions in some quarters and advances in others; and if we endeavor in a spirit of harmony and co-operation to restore the equilibrium more completely, in order to obtain such a free and full interchange of goods and services that everybody shall be employed and production shall be to the limit of capacity, we may hope to have a better year in 1923 than in 1922. That is the method by which prosperity is achieved.

On the other hand, if the public generally becomes possessed of the idea that a boom is coming, and is willing to borrow and spend upon that belief, it is possible that a short course of inflation may be run.

WHAT NEXT IN CAROLINA.

Four great steps forward have already been taken in commonwealth progress—definitely and courageously.

They are public education, public highways, public health, and public welfare.

No other state in the South is anywhere near North Carolina in generous public expenditures upon these foundational means of commonwealth building.

The mass mind is made up on these matters. They are not longer debatable in North Carolina.

What is the next step forward? What is the answer of this center of college culture?

Is it an essential step? Is the state ready for it?

It may be ideally desirable, but is it actually possible in North Carolina at present?

INDIAN NEWSPAPER MAN URGES AMERICA TO BAN OPIUM TRAFFIC IN U. S.

Defiance, O., Oct.—Severely criticizing the action of England in forcing intoxicants on the Indians, when the native Hindu religion demanded total abstinence, Tarina Prasas Sinha, native Indian newspaper man, addressing members of the Defiance Rotary Club, voiced a plea for aid from Americans in an endeavor to stamp out the opium traffic, which, he declared, holds a positive menace for this country.

Sinha was a member of "Pussy-foot" Johnson's party of prohibitionists which toured India and the Orient.

RUSSIA PLANS GREAT FARMING EXPOSITION

Moscow, Oct.—An All-Russian Agricultural Exposition for next year was launched here recently. Speeches were made by leaders in the departments interested, including one by Jacobovene, the peasant, who is head of the Department of Agriculture. America was mentioned, with "her idle tractors, which should be brought to Russia's uncultivated fields." The opening date is August 15, 1923.

FLANAGAN-JOYNER

Beautiful Wedding Solemnized in Memorial Baptist Church.

The Memorial Baptist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding on yesterday evening at 6:30 o'clock, when Miss Lillian Joyner became the bride of Mr. Edward Graham Flanagan.

The church was beautifully and artistically decorated with ferns and waxen tapers, with a white background, carrying out the green and white color scheme.

While the friends were gathering to witness the ceremony, Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., wearing a beautiful gown of white velvet and silver cloth, rendered a musical program which consisted of "Humoresque" and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms." For the processional she played Lohengrin's wedding march and for the recessional, Mendelssohn's wedding march. During the ceremony, "To a Wild Rose," was softly rendered.

Prior to the entrance of the bridal party Miss Jessie Moye, gowned in rose orchid velvet and carrying yellow chrysanthemums, sweetly sang, D'Hardelot's, "Because," and Sanderson's "Until."

The bridal party entered in the following order: The ushers, Messrs. W. B. Warren, Frank Patrick, Curtis Perkins and Francis Bowen. They were followed by Miss Helen Joyner, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. She wore a handsome gown of rose velvet and silver cloth, with silver slippers and carried white chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her brother, Mr. O. L. Joyner, Jr. She wore a beautiful wedding gown of embossed velvet trimmed with pearls with a court train of silver cloth and satin. A net work of orange blossoms and ribbons encircled the train. Her veil was arranged in cap shape and held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and valley lilies.

They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man and brother, Mr. John Flanagan. Rev. Leland W. Smith, the bride's pastor, performed the impressive ring ceremony.

Mrs. Flanagan is the charming and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Joyner. She is one of Greenville's most popular young ladies and has a host of friends not only in Greenville but throughout the state. Mr. Flanagan is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan. He is a young man of sterling character and is very popular in both the business and social circles of the city. He is connected with his father in the John Flanagan Buggy Company, which is known throughout this and adjoining states.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan left for an extended bridal tour of northern cities. They received one of the largest and most beautiful array of bridal presents ever received in this city.

MRS. BENTLY HARRISS PRESENTS REFLECTOR WITH FINE DAHLIAS

Mrs. H. Bently Harriss today presented The Reflector with some of the largest and prettiest dahlias we have ever seen. There were three extra large flowers, with a combination of colors, on one stem. There were two on another stem of entirely different colors. They were placed in a vase in the business office and attracted considerable attention among visitors entering the office during the day.

Born—On Monday Oct. 16th to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Averett, of Oak City, a son.

Christ'an Endeavor F. W. B. Church. We all have some little enemies. They call themselves "The Blues" and like all other kind of foes they're splendid things to lose. So when you know they're planning to come and spend the day just run over to the C. E.

For we'll send the "little smiles" out and drive them all away. The leader this coming Thursday night Oct. 19th at 8 o'clock is Estie Marie Potter. Topic—Reverence and worship.

We were glad to see to many out last Thursday, and we extend a hearty invitation to one and all, Especially to the young people that do not attend elsewhere. Be not afraid to let the sunniest that is in you shine out.

Junior Aid Entertains. The Junior Aid Society of Simpson entertained the Ladies' Aid Society Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church.

Beautiful dahlias and other cut flowers decorated the room. An interesting program was given after which delicious refreshments were served. It was a great surprise and very much enjoyed by all. Miss Ella Biddard has charge of these young people and is doing splendid work.

THAT MORNING LAMENESS

If you are lame every morning, and suffer urinary ailments, there must be a cause. Often it is weak kidneys and strengthen the weakened kidneys and avert more serious troubles, use Doan's Kidney Pills. You can rely on this Greenville testimony.

Mrs. J. C. Savage, 1018, Evans st. Greenville, says: "I had a dull ache in my back and could not rest well at night. Mornings I was sore and stiff. I had dizzy spells and when I stooped and then straightened up my head would swim with dizziness and I was blinded for a moment or two. My kidneys were irregular in action and caused me annoyance. I used four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved all the symptoms."

SEVEN YEARS LATER Mrs. Savage said: "I think Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid medicine although I haven't had any need of them for a year. I gladly confirm my former statement."

An Appreciation.

Tributes to Mrs. Mark Quinerly read at a recent meeting of the End of the Century club:

In loving remembrance of our friend and fellow-member, Rosa Forbes Quinerly, we, your committee, present these few words of appreciation:

Her going has broken long and happy associations and created a sad vacancy in our club. In the home and in the social circle, she was always easily the center of the group, for she possessed a personal charm, a strength of mind and an independence of spirit, that never fails to attract. She was a true friend and a loyal, faithful member of the End of the Century Club, who never shirked a responsibility.

She was blessed with a personality that radiated cheer and, even in her suffering and feebleness, thought and cared for others. Her brave-Christian spirit and abiding faith in her Saviour, will ever be an inspiration to those who knew her.

May the memory of her life serve as an incentive to the high ideals and lofty aspirations which she ever kept in view, for:

"We can not say and we will not say That she is dead. She is just away. With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand She has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there.

Think of her as faring on, as dear In the love of There as the love of Here;

The touches of her hands have strayed

As reverently as her lips have prayed. Think of her still as the same, we say She is not dead—she is just away.

MRS. RICHARD WILLIAMS,
MRS. C. O'H. LAUGHINGHOUSE,
MRS. W. A. BOWEN.

In Memoriam Rosa Forbes Quinerly.

The poet spoke truly when he said "Death loves a shining mark." The End of the Century Club has realized the truth of this in the death of its much loved member, Rosa Forbes Quinerly, who so recently passed from our midst. The loss is great, to our club, and to the Town of Greenville. She was a loyal, devoted club woman and a splendid citizen, whose future usefulness has been denied us. We can not understand why such a useful life was so early ended, but we can not forget her, nor cease to regret our loss. No detail of any duty-public or private, was too small for her faithful attention, and it was that fidelity to detail which brought her success.

As president of the End of the Century Club she endeared herself to us by her justice, her devotion to the club and its activities, her sweetness of temperament and her broad outlook on life.

Her experience prepared her for wider field of activity, and she was elected chairman of the department of health in the North Carolina Federation of clubs, in which capacity she served two years, winning the universal approval and friendship from all associated with her in that State work. The failure of her husband's health prevented her from accepting other important work in the state federation, where she was minutely fitted to serve with honor and distinction.

When the Greenville Woman's club was organized she was unanimously chosen its President, and for two busy, formative years she labored to build that organization on a sound foundation and to increase its strength and usefulness. The continued ill health of her husband necessitated her retirement from this leadership, but she never lost interest in the club, and never failed to render such help as was possible.

the Council of National Defense was formed, she was chosen its president and used her energies to help Pitt county do its duty in the trying years of the World War. No thrilling experiences came to that Pitt county chapter, yet the experience proved her patriotism, strengthened her desire to serve others, broadened her views, and brought her new friends who found in her a woman sweet, brave and true.

Patient and strong under suffering, faithful to all duties public and private, kind and human in her sympathy, a Christian in her thought for others, she has become a shining example for us to emulate. She is gone from us, but we have the privilege of following her example. Let us then strive to be as loyal and as useful in our club work and our public duty as she was, so that her efforts may continue to live through us.

SMYRNA RESCUE SHIP REACHES NEW YORK

Crew of Winona.

U.S. Shipping Board steamer Winona.

Bringing stories of terrible privation, the U. S. Shipping Board steamer Winona, commanded by Captain Jack W. Walters, has arrived in New York from Smyrna, where it saved 1,300 refugees before the officers were forced to cut her mooring ropes to keep her from being swamped. The pathetic sight moved the Captain to tears when he told them. J. J. Malone had his hands full feeding the refugees on the way to Piræus, and the Winona's crew sacrificed all they had. The only thing they brought from Smyrna was their mascot, Smyrna, which is owned by E. G. Oliver.
