REV. C. H. BASCOM DELIVERS PARTING MESSAGES SUNDAY

Large Congregations at St. Paul's Church Hears Concluding Messages

MINISTER ACCEPTS CALL OF CHURCH AT DECATUR, GEORGIA

Many Splendid Points Presented in Sermons Yesterday Morning and Last Night

Rev. C. H. Bascom, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church who recently accepted a call to Decatur, Ga., preached his farewell sermon to his congregation yesterday morning and last night. Both services were largely attended and the minister delivered two of the most powerful sermons in sometime.

Yesterday morning Mr. Bascom took his text from the 9:14 of St. John. "I must work the works of Him that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh, when no man can work." Last night he preached on the subject of "The Glories of the church Triumphant," taking his text from Revelations, 21:1. "I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away and there was no more sea."

The morning sermon contained many points of interest to those who have deferred the work of the Lord. It was urged that Christ be accepted when the call comes, as soon "night cometh when no man can work." It was a strong appeal to those who plod along day by day, making themselves satisfied with things of the flesh and urged immediate acceptance of the spiritual life. Last night's sermon followed the writings of St. John the Divine are strikingly expressive of his deep religious character and devout mind. Deep meditation and a firm grasp on the most profound truths, are characteristics of his writing. As he was the one among all the disciples with whom our Lord was most intimate, and particularly, "That disciple whom Jesus loved," so do his writings reveal that deeper knowledge of the Saviour's utterances. He seems to have possessed a greater degree of sympathy and personal insight into the thoughts and feelings of his Master than did the other disciples. He could understand in some degree the practical application of the Saviour's teaching to the wants of men.

To him, the truths which his Lord proclaimed were of infinite worth to the solution of the perplexing problems of life. To him the words which the Saviour spoke "were spirit and life." He dwelt upon them, and studied their import until the truths which they expressed became a real and living part of himself. St. John lived to a good old age. He survived all the other apostles and outlived many of the companions of his mature years. As one follows in his writings, the development of his thought and growth of his conceptions of the nature and purposes of the Saviour's work, and of the infinite love of the heavenly Father, he can not but feel that truly, he has been with Jesus. What is more comforting and soul refreshing than to sit for one brief hour or more, in the presence of an aged child of God whose past journey through life has been mixed with the storm and sunshine; who has known the bitterness of life's sorrows as well as the sweetness of its joys; who, though the joyful days of youth, trod lightly on the surface of its buoyant waves, but in the sober and practical days of its maturity has learned to fathom the depths of its realities? Whose very countenance reflect the scenes of many trials and sufferings, yet, in them and through them all is revealed the invariable light of God's eternal love shining in upon the soul and leading it on to Heaven. What is more beautiful than the faith of an aged soul thus standing at the very portals of the eternal home, awaiting an entrance to its inherited joys? It is a blessed privilege to sit in the light of such a life as its rays gradually sink beyond the horizon of its

POISON SLAYER GETS PRISON TERM

Mrs. Ruth McCaw

Mrs. Ruth McCaw, of Bristol, L. I., who confessed "the spirits told her to poison her two young step-children," has been sentenced to 12 years in prison for the attempted murder of her stepson, Luke, who recovered from the rat poison she administered.

ROAD SENTENCES FIGURE LARGELY IN COURT TODAY

Richmond Langley Draws 18 Months for Carrying Concealed Weapon

An unusually congested docket featured this morning's session of county court at it was long after the noon hour when work was completed. Road sentences were handed down in a number of cases, while others resulted in fines and transfer to superior court.

The longest road sentence of the morning fell upon the unhappy head of Richmond Langley, who drew exactly eighteen months on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He also appeared in another case—one of plain assault—with J. C. Pope, but prayer for judgment was continued for a period of two years and road sentences was again narrowly averted.

Assunder Forbes, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, drew six months on the county roads. James Edwards was given ninety days on the roads for gambling but filed notice of appeal to superior court under bond of $100.

Judgment was suspended for a period of two years in the case of Byck Smith, charged with receiving and selling liquor. Warren Potemen drew eight months on the roads and Lena Hemby had judgment suspended for two years on a charge of fornication and adultery.

Dalton Jones was fined $50 and cost for carrying a concealed weapon. C. G. Garville and Arthur Ricks, charged with impersonating an officer had their case transferred to the next term of superior court.

Judgment was suspended upon payment of cost in the case of Leon Jones, charged with assault with deadly weapon. James Manning was fined $100 on a charge of assault with deadly weapon, but filed notice of appeal to superior court under $100 bond. Jordan Cox paid a fine of $25 and cost for selling wine.

COST OF LIVING

INCREASES TODAY

Washington, Nov. 20.—The cost of living is increasing again, the department of labor announced this morning. Food cost went up two percent during the month of October, Eggs, on Morton Mills. Jimmie Barber, who had not been very apt at describing the encounter, provoked quite a while featured increases. Beans, laugh in court at the conclusion of the trial by stating that he felt he ought to have further apology from Morton for the check bite. However

EIGHT CASES IN TODAY'S SESSION OF POLICE COURT

Morton and Luke Mills Draw Fine of $10 Each for Assaulting Jimmie Barber

Mayor's court convened this morning with eight cases for trial of considerable variety and with nothing of a serious nature.

Luby Waters, colored, charged with being drunk and down. Luby is one of Tucker and Clark's regular hands and is considered by them to be a good workman, in fact there is nothing much the matter with him except his insatiable desire to absorb within his system all of the monkey rum possible and in doing so generally succeeds in having his consciousness absorbed within the monk. The Mayor fined him $10 and cost.

Wm. Lilly, colored, charged with being drunk and disorderly. Wm. is the shoe shine boy for the Sanitary Barber shop and is considered to be regular and reliable. Upon his plea for mercy and promise to go adrift any more, the Mayor allowed him to pay a fine of $10 and cost.

Alfred Barnhill, colored, charged with riding bicycle on side walk on Green street between First and Second streets. Alfred is a well known character in Greenville being general cook for most all parties, functions, banquet etc., as well as cook for the Rotary Club. He promised the mayor to be good and not violate the law again, or set a bad example for his neighbors. So he was dismissed upon the payment of the cost.

Herman Cook, colored, charged with driving auto in a reckless and careless manner on Pitt street, causing damage to auto driven by T. T. Cook. Captas had to be issued for this party before he could be gotten to court and upon his showing no disposition to compensate for the damage he had caused the other car, the mayor fined him $30 and the cost, upon which he appealed to superior court.

Rufus Cook, colored, father of Herman Cook, charged with operating auto without having state license displayed thereon. The evidence was that this car had been operated some time with no license, so Mayor Clark imposed a fine of $10 and cost upon which defendant appealed to superior court.

T. T. Cox, white, charged with assaulting Rufus Cook. Evidence disclosed that Rufus provoked assault by insolent and insulting language, so defendant was dismissed upon payment of cost.

Morton Mills and Jimmie Barber, white, charged with mutually assaulting each other.

Luke Mills, white, these two cases were tried together. Charged with assaulting Jimmie Barber by striking him in the face while said Jimmie Barber was under arrest and in the custody of Police Officer Whichard. The evidence was overwhelmingly to the effect that Morton Mills after backing into the car driven by Jimmie Barber, provoked the quarrel and although Jimmie tried to avoid the difficulty and did nothing to provoke it, was forced to fight in self-defense when Morton struck him. In the mix up Morton left the print of his teeth in Jimmie's cheek. It was after the combatants had been separated and put under arrest with Officer Whichard between them holding one with each hand that Luke struck Jimmie in the face. Practically all witnesses testified to this statement of fact, but Luke said Jimmie called him a vile name which provoked him to strike him, which was denied by Jimmie and all witnesses even Morton Mills stating that there was no cursing that he heard from any one. The parties seemed to have resumed diplomatic relations and apologies having been made, which placed all on good terms the mayor found Jimmie Barber not guilty, and imposed a fine of $10 and cost on Luke Mills, and $10 and cost on Morton Mills. Jimmie Barber, who had not been very apt at describing the encounter, provoked quite a while featured increases. Beans, laugh in court at the conclusion of the trial by stating that he felt he ought to have further apology from Morton for the check bite. However

BAPTIST CHURCH IS ORGANIZED AT STOKES SUNDAY

Ministers From Surrounding Towns Attend Exercises Featuring Organization

A council consisting of Rev. T. J. Crisp, Rev. J. P. Harris, Rev. S. W. Oldham, Rev. Leiland W. Smith, together with a number of deacons and other members from the Robersonville Baptist church, the Bethel Baptist church, the Memorial Baptist church of Greenville, met Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19th at Stokes, N. C., for the purpose of organizing a Baptist church at that place.

A scripture lesson was read by Rev. T. J. Crisp and prayer for Divine guidance was made by Rev. S. W. Oldham. The council was organized by the election of Rev. S. W. Oldham, moderator and Rev. L. W. Smith, clerk. The congregation sang "I love thy Kingdom Lord." Fourteen persons presented themselves with letters of dismission from their respective churches declaring their purpose of uniting with the new organization. With a proper motion, second and unanimous vote those proceeded to organize themselves into a church. A church covenant was presented by Rev. S. W. Oldham and articles of Faith by Rev. L. W. Smith. Both were unanimously adopted. The name selected for the new organization was the Stokes Baptist church. Brethren J. T. Page and L. R. Whichard were elected deacons. In the service following setting them apart to their official work the charge to the deacons was made by Rev. J. P. Harris and the ordaining prayer made by Rev. L. W. Smith. Mrs. Clyde Rodgers was elected clerk and treasurer. The congregation sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds." A few words of greeting and commendation were spoken by pastors Harris, Oldham and Smith. The Benediction was announced by Rev. T. J. Crisp.

The following from Greenville were in attendance upon the meeting: D. B. Carter, T. R. Moore, J. C. Tyson, H. L. Smith, Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Smith, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. R. L. Humber, Mrs. Mary Fleming and Mrs. Lottie N. Mattocks.

NEAR EAST LOOKS TO UNITED STATES FOR EARLY RELIEF

Fate of Stricken People Depends Upon Response of the American People

Washington, Nov. 20.—Upon the quick charity of America largely depends the fate of a million Christians driven from Asia Minor by Turkish military success, it is declared at National Headquarters of the American Red Cross. Greece either will be a sepulchre or a place of rebirth for these stricken people, whose desperate plight is further depicted in a cablegram received by the Red Cross from Vice Chairman A. Ross Hill who is directing relief work from Athens.

King George, of Greece, through Dr. Hill, sent thanks to the Red Cross for its aid and expressed the appreciation of his nation to the American people. The Red Cross is rapidly perfecting its organization in Greece, said Dr. Hill's message, which went on to state:

"Hundreds of thousands of refugees are filling the Greek cities and islands. These consist largely of mothers with children who, with old people, are sole remnants of once flourishing populations driven into sea by the Turks. These miserable women, cold, hungry, despairing, shelterless, walk the streets with babies clinging to their skirts. In many refugee centers women who lost sons and husbands gaze from leaden eyes, life over their little children are only hostages for the future of that element of Greek people who first established themselves in Asia Minor three thousand years ago.

"In many barracks children, and old people lie day and night, flies Homer Hunt, Sarah Elizabeth Reynolds, and Pauline Moxon.

"King George thanks the American Red Cross for its help and extends the appreciation of his nation to the American people.

"Smallpox is spreading from one concentration camp to another. Meanwhile Greece is awaiting new floods of refugees. The race is on between American Red Cross supplies and these fresh shiploads of people. The Greek government has telegraphed its representatives in all countries asking the utmost help from every nation immediately."

HAVE YOU ANSWERED THE ROLL CALL?

The volunteers that have made the drive for memberships in the American Red Cross have done splendid work in Greenville and the roster of members for 1922 is indeed creditable, but in checking over the list we find a large number of names missing from this year's roll call that heretofore have been enrolled. It is not our purpose to make another canvass, but we want to give those who have not been called upon an opportunity to enroll their names. In the hurry to cover their districts a great many people were not seen by the committees, as some were away at the time.

Membership cards are available at the following places for the use of those who want to join in this most worthy cause:

Warren Drug Store; Brown's Drug Store; Horne's Drug Store; Moseley Bros.' Ins. Office; H. A. White's Ins. Office; Bruce Warren's Ins. Office. Read Dr. Hill's description of conditions in Greece in today's paper, and I am sure that those miserable women, cold, hungry, despairing, shelterless, who are walking the streets with babies clinging to their skirts will prompt you to answer the roll call quickly. Remember the cost for membership is only $1.00. You can contribute more if you desire to do so.

Yours very truly
H. A. WHITE, Chairman

FARMVILLE ALSO FAVORS THE CURB MARKET PROPOSAL

Chamber of Commerce Pledged Support in Movement Now On

(Auspices Pitt County Chamber of Commerce.)

That the curb market idea for the assembling of country produce of all kinds is fast taking hold of the attention of Pitt county folk is evidenced by Farmville coming into the Farmville Rotary Club, after the matter had been presented by Jno. T. Thorne, 100 per cent co-operation and support was pledged the Pitt County Chamber of Commerce as they put into operation a curb market for Farmville.

It was stated at this meeting that the Chamber of Commerce and county agent would make this project a reality the earliest possible date. While the project will be pushed to a conclusion as soon as possible, it must be borne in mind that some time will be required to get all the details worked out. It would be very unwise to set an opening date until everything was in readiness.

People came from far and near Sunday to attend the revival now in progress under the tent at the corner of Third and Cotanch street and heard two of the most powerful sermons of the entire series. Several cars came from as far as Mount Olive and Kinston where the evangelists have held before. Cars also came from Washington and a number of other places nearby. Miss Franklin and Mrs. Mead of Washington also came over yesterday and will be with the party several days. Both ladies are splendid workers and have traveled with Mr. and Mrs. McAdams in the past.

Mr. McAdams brought a wonderful message on the subject of the "Closed Door," in the afternoon. It was a soul stirring message and his hearers could tell he had long ago left the Cow Boy ranches and was now a fisher of men. At night the tent was also filled and much interest was manifested in the services. The evangelists are highly gratified at the splendid progress of the meeting.

Mrs. McAdams preached last night on the subject of "The Child Sneezed Seven Times After It Was Dead" and proved to her hearers that it would take the same power of God to raise sinners from their dead state as it did when Elisha raised the child from the dead.

Mrs. McAdams will preach tonight on the "Devil's Ritefork." Everyone is urged to come out and hear this subject fully expounded.

CONGRESS BEGINS FINAL SESSION EARLY TODAY

Washington, Nov. 20.—The opening today of the final session of the sixty-seventh congress marks the beginning of months of political shipping. Fighting will be carried into the campaign of 1924. Democrats have returned to the capital with ships on their shoulders and will lead no time in going after the Republican administration. Organized assault will be made upon the ship subsidy. Opinion prevails that the president will have to exert his leadership to the utmost if the bill is not to succumb to the opposition.

SPLENDID PROGRAM PRESENTED SUNDAY AT LOCAL COLLEGE

Many New Members Welcomed by Students Services in Annual Recognition

The annual recognition service of the Y. W. C. A. was held Sunday night in which all the new members were welcomed into the organization and recognized as members of the association.

The choir sang, "Follow the Gleam," while the new girls marched in, passed across the stage and lighted their candles from three which were burning and held by the vice-president, secretary and treasurer. This was a very beautiful part of the program as the lights were off and the candles afforded the light.

After all the girls had lighted their candles and marched in the middle aisle they were told to blow the candle light out after which the lights were turned on. The vice president who had charge of the meeting told the girls the symbol of the lighting of the candles. Then she led them in repeating together the purpose of the association.

A special selection was sung by the choir then an address of welcome was given by the vice president, Clara Dowdy led in a few words of prayer.

The closing number of the program was a hymn by all present. We were dismissed by repeating the association motto.

PITT COUNTY BOYS AT STATE COLLEGE ORGANIZE CLUB

All of the boys from Pitt county, attending school at State college, met and organized a county club there being twelve charter members and two more boys having entered college since the club was organized, making a total membership of fourteen.

Heretofore there has not been a Pitt county club at State college, but as Pitt county has such a large representation at State this year, we hope to make the club amount to something worth while. This club has two main objects in view, first, to give banquets and to bring the boys from Pitt county who are in school now, together in a social way, thus creating a friendly spirit, and emphasizing the importance of co-operation; second, to put before the boys of our county, who are interested in a technical education, the advantages they will have at "Great Old State College."

No doubt there are a large number of boys in Pitt county who are already making plans to enter here next fall, and it is to these boys we offer our help, as well as to those who have not yet fully decided where they shall go. If you have decided, or if you have not yet decided to come here, and wish any information which you feel is not of great enough importance to be taken up with the registrar, or if you prefer corresponding with a member of the student body, do not hesitate to write to any member of our club, for they will be glad to give you, in detail, any information you wish.

Another important object of our club is to get in touch with the boys from our county who are to enter college here next fall, and help them in every way we can when they arrive on the campus. We feel that this will be one of the greatest things our club can do to show our friendship, for we have already experienced the feeling of being a stranger in a strange place, and realize how much a little personal help and encouragement is appreciated.

The purpose of our first meeting was to elect officers, and the following were elected. Lewis Crisp, president; Ray Smith, vice president; Mac Brown, secretary and treasurer; Bruce Mewborn, reporter.

The members are as follows: Robt. Hines, Ayden; Lyman Worthington, Winterville; Lewis Crisp, Falkland; Mac Brown, Greenville; C. L. Smith, Greenville; W. J. Smith, Greenville; Ben Lang, Farmville; James Lang, Farmville; Ray Smith, Farmville; Robert Burroughs, Bethel; Sam Ispock, Grifton; Bruce Mewborn, Grifton.

We would be glad to hear from any prospective student, or would appreciate any suggestions from the citizens of our county as to any other good our club may accomplish.

CONFERENCE TO LAY PLANS FOR FIGHTING BOLL WEEVIL

An effort to unify the various recommendations being made by the different states and Federal Government towards assisting cotton growers in combatting arising out of the boll weevil menace will be made at a conference to be held in connection with the meetings of the Land Grant College Association at Washington, D. C., November 23. Extension directors and college presidents and deans of various cotton states, as well as prominent officials of the United States Department of Agriculture, will attend.

Among the important questions to be discussed will be that of encouraging the growth of uniform varieties of cotton in communities. Uniform time of planting is another big factor in boll weevil control that will come up. The opinion is expressed that if agreement could be reached by the various interest on uniform varieties and time of planting and the recommendations followed by the growers one-third of the boll weevil problem would be solved.

Cotton, it is pointed out, is a plant that readily adapts itself to change in soil or climate. One variety, therefore, may prove valuable through a wide range. One of the big difficulties is the long time that would be required to effect a complete change of variety. Pure seed is hard to get, as mixed varieties are so generally grown. Some years would be required to produce enough pure seed of any one variety to bring about any big change.

The conference will also go into the various methods now recommended for controlling boll weevils under different conditions. No attempt will be made to dispose finally of the various problems of fighting the boll weevil at this conference. Its work is intended to pave the way for another meeting later in which all interests involved will be represented.

The plan of calling the conference originated with Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, who made three trips through the South for the Government studying boll weevil conditions. Dr. Morgan believes that unity in the methods recommended by the States and the Federal Government for combatting the pest is one of the most important steps toward that end. Practically all officials of the United States Department of Agriculture concerned in boll weevil work will attend the meeting.

LITTLE BOY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH WHEN HIT BY CAR

The little son of Mr. Noah Williams had a narrow escape from death or serious injury shortly after the noon hour today when run down by a Willys-Knight automobile driven by Billy Porter. While two heels of the car ran over the child's legs no bones were broken and he was reported doing nicely shortly after examination by Dr. Joseph Smith.

Mr. Porter was driving along at a medium rate of speed when the child, who had just been dismissed from Evans street school with a number of others, darted across the street. Before Mr. Porter could apply his brakes and stop, the car hit the child and passed over his leg.

The accident was witnessed by a number of persons who were considerably frightened by the narrow escape.

STREET SWEEPER TEARS DOWN FORD TOURING CAR

A Ford touring car belonging to Henry Nobles collided with the street sweeper or the street sweeper collided with the Ford, we aren't able to say as it occurred too early Sunday morning, and the car is today standing in front of the Western Union Telegraph Company on Evans street, minus one front wheel. Judging by appearance of the car the sweeper might easily be used for a war tank if needed for destructive purposes. The car was an object of much curiosity yesterday and speculation as to "how come" and "why" was rife all day long.

"After I got a good start on Tanlac my stomach trouble, head aches, nervousness and backaches which I had suffered from for a year or more pulled right out and left me. Up to this time I always got up mornings tired and worn out and it was all I could do to keep going through the day.

"One of my neighbors told me there was nothing like Tanlac for building a man up to good health and I soon found out he was right for three bottles of the medicine has put me in as good condition as I could ask to be."

earthly hope into perfect peace and calm beyond the material world. Such privileges are not common, but I presume that most of us have sometime in life, sat by the side of some aged person whose life has been ebbing toward the infinite beyond and who could look with hopeful resignation upon the world and all its perishing charms, and, with clear and certain vision, behold the glories of the souls eternal rest. At such moments and under such circumstances, one can get glimpses and impressions of heaven which will never fade from memory.

Such would be our experience if we could sit with the aged St. John, while he told us of the marvelous beauty and grandeur of the eternal things in the Heaven to which the text refers. "I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea."

St. John had spent the active days of his life in zealous labor for the spread of Christ's kingdom in world. He had lived to see the younger apostles one by one lay down their life as victims to the violent passions and hatred of wicked men who saw in their teachings and the object of their faith nothing but vain venture and foolish weakness. He had been spared to witness the growth of the church through all these vicissitudes and in spite of the tremendous opposition of the world powers.

From Antioch, the centre of the missionary operations in Asia Minor; and from Jerusalem the capital of the churches kingdom in its conquest of Judaism, throughout the whole known world, he had followed its growth and development through the long and busy years of his life.

In the active missionary work of the church he was not so prominent as the other apostles but he was in constant touch with its workings and in the closest sympathy with all its trials. St. John was more devoted to the inner life and strength of the church than to its outward advancement. He was not possessed of that disposition and temperament especially suited for work in new fields among a new people in the advancement of the kingdom. Such as St. Peter, or St. Paul were men specially fitted for such work and it is in this branch of the work that they put forth their greater efforts. It is interesting indeed to notice the difference in character and disposition of the different Apostles and the consequent effect of this on the work which each performed. St. Peter bold, ardent, impulsive and earnest and passionate and at times, almost erratic in his oft misused zeal for the truth he loved so dearly, as ever among the foremost heralds of the good news. St. James zealous in the faith yet conscious of the inefficiency of faith alone, without the outward evidence in good works is the chief advocate of practical Christianity.

St. Paul is not only the Christian philosopher, but the Christian teacher and preacher His intense zeal finds its most effective expression in the missionary enterprise, the church, and St. John, the deep and spiritual soul, dwelling on the hidden and eternal truths of the Gospel, and searching for the efficacy of its power in the living actions of men dwelt on the power of the spirit and efficacy of the faith in its practical and spiritual application to the personal soul in elevating and strengthening it for the life beyond.

The visions recorded in the book of Revelation are, strange to the one who tries for the first time to understand their import. The whole book is prophecy. The visions portray the history of the church and the world. The figures are used to represent living characters. St. John was placed in exile on the Island of Patmos during the bitter persecution of the Christians in Rome and other cities during the reign of Nero and Domitian. While in exile on this lonely island, he received the visions from God which portrayed the present and future events in the history of the church. After tracing the history from one vision to another, and recounting the sad experiences of the church and her children, he closes his prophecy by revealing the glories and blessings of the church in her triumphant reign in the eternal heavens.

Turning from the scenes of conflict and war, tumult and battle in the struggling church militant, he sees the church triumphant crowned in the calm of eternal peace beyond the clouds. "I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea."

If we could anticipate nothing beyond what the limited powers of the human mind could reveal to us of the Heaven for which the church in this world is struggling, there would be little incentive to religious fervor or for effort to attain any degree of spirituality in the present life. If the possibilities and happiness, and peace, and love, in the church in heaven were limited or determined by the imperfection and wrongs; the strife and divisions, the quarrels and contentions of the church on earth, there would be little use of our laying our plans for anything beyond the reach of this mortal life. But, thanks be to God whose children we all are, this is not so—for those who enter that heaven, the apostles say: "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrows, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away." There shall be no night there, and they need no candle neither light of the sun for the Lord God giveth them night; and they shall reign for ever and ever. (Rev. 22-5.)

Through this vision of the aged Saint, we catch a glimpse of the world above. As the poor blind man sits while the little child describes the beautiful color of the flower, or the gorgeous tints of the sun-set, or rainbow, so we listen to the celestial music of his saintly words as they describe the scenes of heaven. O, what a blessed privilege it would be could we but hear him speak and have him tell us even now what glorious scenes are being enacted in that celestial sphere. He might tell us of our loved ones whom we know are there. A new heaven, and a new earth.

Ah, yes, and yet, it is not new, save that as the old being purified and glorified, is now. The same bright rays of sunlight which tonight shall fade beneath the western horizon, will return on the morrow to bring another day. This eternal ball of light is the same from day to day its properties are unchangeable, and its laws perpetual. So, too the principle which tends to build up and strengthen the life of the soul; which purify and enable the affections and elevate the thoughts all that is good and true—just and pure. These are the principles that make for righteousness. These are the fruits of the spirit which shall spring into new life and grow through all eternity. These are the graces which make up the new heaven of which the Apostle speaks. All therefore in the church militant which is based on these principles: love, joy and peace long suffering gentleness, goodness, meekness temperance. These shall remain for the glories of the church triumphant. The tares may grow with the wheat, but when the harvest comes, the wheat shall be gardened, and the tares shall be burned. The heaven that is here shall be heaven hereafter. The church which is God's kingdom on earth shall be purged and purified and the good shall enter the joyous kingdom above, while the wicked shall be made to suffer. The progress of the soul toward the joys of its eternal home is continued and unbroken. There is no break in the journey. Heaven is not a place but it is a state of being. The "new heaven" revealed to St. John is not a sphere necessarily separated from this life and its sphere of action. He saw it while he was yet upon earth. It is a change in the manner and principles of living. It is being something rather than going somewhere. If we bring the principles of our highest faith into the practice of our daily lives, we shall soon be changing this earth into heaven and living in our town lives the principles that shall bear us on through all ages of eternity.

Let us realize as far as possible the true meaning of this vision of the aged apostle of old. Let us not wait for the glories of this eternal kingdom to manifest themselves to us in an indefinite hereafter, but let us strive to realize its blessings and make this world itself a heaven, by bringing into it all we can, that is beautiful and good, and by doing all we can to drive out the evil. Pure lives, pure thoughts, holy deeds, kinder thoughts of others, patience, perseverance and prayer these will accomplish much to brighten our own lives and make happy those about us. May our lives breathe out these sweet influences in the world around us thus making the world pure and better for our having lived in it so that when our Lord shall come again, to lead His wandering sheep back to the fold, He may find us ready and willing to follow. His coming may be suddenly but if we live each day in the consciousness that we are doing our duty, and that our hearts are pure from the stain of worldliness, we shall welcome His advent with joy and not with fear, for ours shall be the blessings of eternity.
