DEMOCRATS OPEN FIGHT ON SUBSIDY IN LOWER HOUSE

Bill Attacked and Defended in Five Hour Debate Yesterday Afternoon

BANKHEAD SAYS BILL THAT IS SIMPLY A MONSTROSITY

Alabama Democrat Declares Measure is Naked Raid on the Treasury

Washington, Nov. 23.—Brought up in the House, the administration shipping bill was commended and condemned during the five hours of debate today in which leaders on both sides of the battle took part.

All told, five speeches—three for and two against the measure—were made. Two full days of debate remain before the bill will be laid before the House for amendment.

Chairman Greene, of the merchant marine commission, which framed it, and Representative Edmonds, Pennsylvania, made the principal arguments for the bill. Representative John M. Nelson, Republican, Wisconsin, was selected by the Democrats in charge of the opposition to first urge its defeat.

The good which he believed would come to the country through operation of an adequate merchant marine was emphasized by Chairman Greene in opening the fight. He contended it would give employment to thousands, retain in the United States $300,000,000 annually in freight payments, prevent the necessity of the country facing another war-time tonnage crisis and fight the injustice done the American Marine over a long period of years.

In giving a detailed explanation of the bill, inviting questions and meeting all attacks, Mr. Edmonds expressed belief that most shipping people wanted it passed, although he declared they had displayed slight interest in its framing and had not attempted to dominate or direct the committee.

American shipping, he declared had been cursed by legislation and patch-work navigation laws.

Declaring the government was proposing to rob Peter to pay Paul, Mr. Bankhead told the House the issues involved and the contemplated expenditures were so great that it was the duty of the bill's proponents to show there was no other remedy for present shipping conditions. He characterized it as a "monstrosity."

FRENCH TIGER IS CRITICISED DURING DEBATE IN SENATE

Hitchcock, Borah and Others Launch Vicious Attack on Frenchman

Washington, Nov. 23.—Former Premier Clemenceau, of France, and his mission to America, as well as the policies of the present French government, were subjected to a bi-partisan fire today in the Senate in a nearly two hours' frank discussion of Franco-American relations.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, Nebraska, former chairman of the foreign relations committee and leader of the Senate forces which sought ratification of the Versailles treaty, was joined by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, prominent treaty opponent, in the criticism. Both rejected the plea of M. Clemenceau for co-operation between America and France for peace as long as present French policies are pursued, but Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota who followed with a brief defense of M. Clemenceau, supported the French statesman's assertion that French fear of the German militarism was justified.

Senator Hitchcock flayed the French policies toward Germany, which he said were "harsh," naming particularly the reparations demands and use of black troops in Germany. France, he declared, might have had a more appropriate spokesman than M. Clemenceau and he called upon the former to justify in future speeches in this country the French policies which he attacked.

Senator Borah, charging France with being militaristic, also called upon M. Clemenceau for a statement as to the French position on disarmament and declared that the distinguished visitor was "audaciously obscure" in his proposals for a peace rapprochement between France and America.

"He comes to us with no message except that of punishment, of vengeance and of anticipated war," said Senator Borah. "There is not a note of harmony, not a suggestion of a constructive policy or promise of actual peace."

The American people, Mr. Borah predicted, would reject "in toto" the proposal of M. Clemenceau for a peace union between France and America.

Both Senators Hitchcock and Borah paid personal tributes to M. Clemenceau, but united in criticism of the visitor's New York addresses and of the present course of the French government, which, they declared, was likely to lead to war.

GOVERNMENT WILL SUE CONTRACTORS OF WAR BUILDINGS

Hopes to Recover $75,000,000 Representing Profiteering on Cantonnments

Washington, Nov. 24.—Orders went out today from the department of justice to federal district attorneys for institution of suits against contractors who built the country's war cantonnments under which Attorney General Daugherty hopes to recover the enormous sum of seventy-five million dollars.

This sum, according to officials, represents profiteering as closely as the war department has been able to calculate, although it is admitted the government was gouged for more.

Announcement of the order has created an unusual stir among those connected with building operations during the war and it is expected the suits will be stubbornly contested.

FOREST FIRE SWEEPS OVER SOUTH MOUNTAIN

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 4.—A forest fire is sweeping over the South Mountain. Five hundred persons are battling the flames which seem impossible to extinguish.

EVANGELIST WARNS HER CONGREGATION OF MODERN EVILS

Mrs. McAdams Tells of Some of the Sins the Devil Has Put Out Today

Last night was a soaking service at the tent and not a move was made when the call came for men and women to accept Christ. But it was the deepest service yet. The message was a soul stirring one. The preacher warned folks of the false teachers that are flooding the country with false literature and pulling people off.

Mrs. McAdams said one of the greatest signs that Christ was coming again, and not far off, was the coldness of the churches and the indifference on part of the church to seek for the lost and try to bring them to Jesus.

The text was taken from Revelations 1:7: "Behold He cometh with the clouds and every eye shall see Him." Mrs. McAdams touched on some of the modern sins and said the devil had knocked all four corners of the old square dance and had 'em going around and around. She also spoke of the mixed drinks and how they were pulling folks. The crowd was not handled with gloves. The plain old gospel was presented without any polishing.

The subject tonight will be the Second Coming of Judas. The public is urged to come out and hear the gospel expounded in real true form.

CITY SCHOOLS TO DEVOTE SPECIAL PERIOD TO MILK

Important Lesson to be Presented to 800 Children in the Grammar Grades

(Auspices Pitt County Chamber of Commerce.)

As a further means of carrying the message of milk and its value as a food to the people of Greenville, Supt. J. H. Rose has enthusiastically agreed to have a special period devoted to this important subject during next few days. This special period will enable over 800 school children in the grammar grades of the Greenville schools to have an important lesson presented. Some thoughts from outstanding authorities will be discussed.

The material for this special occasion was furnished by the Pitt County Chamber of Commerce. The County Chamber is very active in the milk question at the moment and is doing everything possible to get a large number of family cows distributed over the county.

Supt. Rose welcomed the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce as to arranging for an early meeting at which time some authority would address the schools of the city together with the Parent-Teachers' Association and others interested. The Chamber of Commerce is now negotiating for this occasion and expects to have an early announcement.

Prof. J. E. Sawyer of Ayden has agreed to put a similar program on in his school. No doubt Farmville and others in the county will do likewise.

The management of White's Theatre announces that arrangements have been completed with John Golden for the appearance at the theatre Monday, December 4th of the record-breaking New York success, "The First Year." "The First Year" is in three acts, with its scenes laid in the small towns of Reading, Ill., and Joplin, Mo., and its story has to do with the little griefs and joys, the small triumphs and aspirations that are enacted every day on a million American hearths. Ransome, Fanny Rice, Ray L. Royce, Tom Cody, Edith Wright, Joseph Garry and Isabel DeArmond.

William Jennings Bryan Thinks Visit of Former Premier to America May Help Things

(By International News.) Miami, Nov. 24.—Charging France with imperialistic ambitions and declaring, therefore, that the United States has nothing to do in common with French policies, William Jennings Bryan asserted today to the International News that Georges Clemenceau, former French premier, who is now in the United States lecturing, may still be able to carry back a helping message to France.

Clemenceau, he said, will be able to warn France against relying upon support from this country in a war-inviting policy.

POSSE BELIEVED TO BE NEAR NEGRO MURDERER NOW

Oscar Melvin Thought to be Surrounded in Swamp Near Wilson Today

Wilson, Nov. 23.—An unknown negro, thought to be Oscar Melvin, who killed Patrolman Jack W. Sykes here on Monday, November 20, is surrounded in a swamp near Township Church, a few miles from this city, as a direct result of information obtained by the local police and county authorities yesterday from a colored citizen of the section where the negro is thought to be holed up by a large number of officers, and armed white men.

The negro, who furnished the information, stated that he heard from other colored people that a man who tallied with the description of Melvin, had been seen in his neighborhood and that it was thought the Melvin negro had been shelded in the Township Church section; after swimming a creek and trying to conceal himself. The Melvin negro is thought to have obtained clothing from this unnamed negro who aided him, and was keeping himself in hiding till the excitement should die down, when he could make his escape to parts unknown. In some way the story leaked out and investigation proved that the man had been seen near here.

It is expected that the negro will be caught before day tomorrow and so intense is the feeling, his life will be worth little.

ROMEO AND JULIET TO BE PLAYED IN GREENVILLE SOON

Devereaux Players Will Present Shakespeare's Play Here Dec. 4th.

There is no writer of comedy today so adroit in the handling of words, so profoundly perfect in the development of scenes of humor as Shakespeare. There is no dramatist of today who can so succinctly say the salient things so cleverly cloaked with humor as Shakespeare.

In "Romeo and Juliet" which the Devereux Company will play at the High School on Dec. 4, at 3 o'clock p. m. the opportunity is presented of witnessing what is probably the best-known of all Shakespeare's plays, and the one which tells the most famous love story known to literature.

In the Devereux performances of his comedies it is notable that even children enjoyed and understand the plots and laugh over the sparkle of Shakespeare's wit and absorb the lines of his wisdom.

Any play of Shakespeare's unconsciously elevates the dullest minds and stimulates—without effort—the taste for better things.

Shakespeare was a dramatist who wrote for the human heart in all ages. He was not restricted by deference to contemporary fashions and the caprices of public taste. His works, therefore, did not pass away with his time. His plays are as real now as they were then.

Seats are now on sale at Key Brown's Drug Store. Price for admission to either the afternoon or night performance is $1. Tickets for both performances bought at the same time can be had for $1.50. All seats are reserved.

What the world needs is peace and plenty of it.

EIGHTY-FOUR MINERS PERISH AS RESULT OF COAL EXPLOSION

Safety Precautions of Alabama Company Prevented Appalling Disaster

SIXTY MEN HURT AND TWO MAY DIE RESULT OF INJURY

Twenty White Men and Sixty-four Negroes Were Among Those Killed

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 23.—Eighty-four bodies, twenty those of white men, and sixty-four those of negroes lay tonight in undertaking establishments here and in Bessemer, death toll of a coal dust explosion yesterday in Dolomite mine Number Three of the Woodward Iron Company near here. Eighty-two bodies were taken from the mine early today and of the sixty injured two remained in hospitals, those remaining in hospitals possibly all would recover.

The bodies of eleven white men and sixty-four negroes were in an undertaking establishment in Bessemer while a large crew of morticians prepared them for burial. Hundreds of persons congregated at the scene, anxiously seeking news relatives of friends. One white man and fifteen negroes had not positively identified early tonight. It was necessary to station police at entrance when only those seeking missing, or relatives of those who have lost their lives were admitted.

The explosion was declared mining experts to have been a free and so far as local records show only the third of its kind ever have occurred in this country. Dolomite Number Three is a slope mine opened in 1882 and operated continuously without a serious accident. At the bottom of the 300 foot shaft is the mine railroad yard, where dump cars loaded with coal are assembled and drawn by cable to surface and up to tipples. A string of these broke loose and tumbled dropped 800 feet to the yard, where great clouds of coal dust arose with the impact, and a high tension of electric cable, covered with the ignited dust.

The full force of the explosion and the accompanying flame went up the slope, the flash of flame projected beyond the tipples several hundred feet and firing wooden constructs at the top. The mine and slope were undamaged and it was said repairs to the tracks and hoister would be made in time to resume operations Monday.

It is believed about forty of men who lost their lives were at foot of the slope and were killed by the concussion.

Of these, six were foremen, blast wiping out all of the mine boss. The deadly after-damp formed immediately and accounted for the remainder of the victims.

V. Scoville, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, interment following in Cherry Hill cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended and the floral tribute expressed a mute way the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Mrs. Hearne was one of the city's oldest residents and her passing was received with keen regret by hundreds of friends and relatives. The pall bearers were: C. E. Roy (tree), C. B. Wheeler, F. J. Fort, W. L. Hall, D. M. Clark, Hugh Stout, B. S. Warren and R. E. Sellers.

S. AIRSHIPS TO USE HELIUM IN FUTURE

Washington, Nov. 24.—Secretary of War Weeks, is planning to make the balloons safe for balloons.

Although the Army Air Service has been working for many months upon the problem of producing helium gas in large quantities, the destruction of the Army dirigible C-2 at San Antonio has aroused the War Department to increased efforts in this direction, and it is hoped that within a year the Army will have sufficient quantity of the non-inflammable gas for all its needs.

At the present time the Army has about 1,000,000 cubic feet of helium, an amount considerably less than that of the Army dirigible Roma, which was burned at Norfolk more than a year ago with terrible loss of life.

A report of the board of officers which investigated the Roma catastrophe declared the loss of life would have been much less if the Roma's envelope had been filled with hydrogen, but since the Army does not have the helium the accident could not have been avoided.

Fortunately there was no loss of life when the C-2 burned at San Antonio. And since the envelope of the Roma was made of the same material as the most of the other dirigibles in existence, it is perhaps just as probable that she burned under those circumstances before there had been such catastrophe as that of the Roma to the record of the Air Service.

The joint Army and Navy helium plant at Fort Worth, Texas, is now in operation. It is from this plant that the Army and Navy expect to obtain their future supplies of non-inflammable gas. It is estimated that by the end of next year the plant will have produced from 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 cubic feet of helium which is expected to be sufficient for the immediate needs of the two branches of the service.

Not only does helium require a different material in the dirigible envelope, but it also requires a bigger envelope proportionately than that necessary for airships floated by hydrogen. The proportion between the weight of helium and that of hydrogen is about as 12 to 100, according to the Air Service experts. This means that the envelope of the Roma would have had to be made of a material that would have permitted the escape of approximately 4,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas a day, while with the specially adapted bags the loss is reduced to almost nothing.

These four new dirigibles now being built for the Army Air Service all will be equipped with envelopes made of a different sort of material used in the construction of the bags. It has been estimated that an airship of the dimensions of the C-2 equipped with the same sort of envelope would have permitted the escape of approximately 4,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas a day, while with the specially adapted bags the loss is reduced to almost nothing.

While there is a difference of opinion among Air Service experts as to the practical military value of the dirigible, the Department has no intention of abandoning this type of aircraft. If the ill-fated Roma had continued in service it had been intended to try the experiment of using her as an "airplane carrier" from which airplanes might be launched during flight of the airship. This line of experiment probably will be continued in the future.

square, in which was installed a sixty-gallon still from which a big run had just been made. Six hundred gallons of beer, fermenting and in preparation for another run, also was there.

A pipe from the still was extended underground to a flat under the farm house, where it was connected with the chimney, letting the smoke out of this orderly passage.

The discovery of the underground distillery was accomplished by the arrest of W. C. Whitner, owner of the farm, and C. J. Camp, said to be an employe of Whitner.

"STILL" UNEARTHED 50 FT. UNDERGROUND

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 24.—The "unearthing" of a giant whiskey distillery, fifty feet below the surface of the ground, accessible only through a well by a rope ladder, on a farm near here broke all records for the unusual in the annals of the whiskey squad of the county police.

The discovery was brought about when the owner of the farm repaired the top of the old well shaft. Police thought it strange that the old well was so carefully attended and began an investigation. They lowered themselves by the rope ladder and discovered a tunnel in the side of the well about fifty feet below the surface. Through this they went and suddenly dropped into the underground room. The room was about fourteen feet

THREE IN FAMILY BROUGHT BACK TO HEALTH

"My wife, myself and my son all got good results from Tanlac and I am always glad to recommend it," was the recent statement of R. M. Stephenson, 778 Adams street, Gary, Ind. Mr. Stephenson has been a valued employe of the American Bridge Co., of Gary for four years, but previously had been farming at Knox, Ind. "It was while on the farm that my health began to sag," he said. "My liver was sluggish, I had pains from head to foot, and no matter what I could force myself to eat it soured in my stomach and gas bloated me until I could hardly breathe. "I took six bottles of Tanlac and have gained fifteen pounds. I never have stomach trouble nor an ache or pain, and can put in a big day's work without tiring. Tanlac is a great medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

"English farmers see hard times ahead" —headline. That's nothing. Pitt county farmers have seen it for some months, therefore, England can't have it on us very much that way.

The ship subsidy may suit President Harding and a few of his followers, but not many others think it is what the country needs at this time. The chief executive claims the subsidy would help the nation get out of debt, but he doesn't know it will do so. He champions the issue simply because it is purely republican. That's about the extent of his support.

Georges Clemenceau has not been disturbed by receipt of a letter threatening his life, and it is hardly probable he will be. He knows he is safe so long as he remains in America, as his enemies over here are few compared with those at home. The unknown enemy writing the letter was not an American that's a safe bet, and if he should be apprehended the "liver" will have this doubt removed from his mind.

The high school promises to put out an exceptionally fine basketball team this year and it is the duty of the public to support the students in every way possible. Such athletics are necessary to the welfare and development of the children and should be encouraged in every way this becomes possible. Football season closed with the club financially embarrassed. This was because the public gave poor support by not attending the games. It is to be hoped basketball season will witness better support for in this way alone can the players receive proper encouragement.

The health campaign being conducted by the Pitt county Medical Society should receive favorable consideration from people in all parts of the county. The lecturers of the society will visit each section while the campaign is in progress and will present many facts virtually affecting public health. Those who take advantage of this information will be among the prosperous and happy and those who fail to will be the ones to suffer from disease and ignorance. This is the first time a public health drive of the kind has ever been started here and it is up to the intelligent class of people to support it in every way possible.

Conditions in this county aren't as blue as some people attempt to picture them, and those who make it a point to plead hard times won't find much sympathy. It is true some sections have suffered from crop shortages, but as a rule the farmers are in good circumstances and will be able to start the new year in good shape. Pitt county farmers have been exceptionally fortunate the last several years and it is certain they can pass over one bad year without suffering to any great extent. Hard times are more in the imagination than anywhere else and it would be advisable for the man or woman suffering that way to consult a brain specialist.

Increase appropriations and extension of service is reported by state libraries. This information will be received with pleasure by those interested in development of this kind as it means great things for the future of the state. Every town of any size should have a library. There is no use saying they can't have one because they can. There are many ways of creating a library. About the best way is through public subscriptions and aid of civic organizations. Most anyone of average intelligence would be glad to contribute liberally to the support of such an undertaking and very little time would be required to get together several hundred volumes. The public library is next in importance to our public schools and if one is neglected the other can't possibly make the progress it should. We are glad to see the growth reported by various cities and hope it will continue.

With the general increase in number of automobiles unprotected railway crossings become a greater menace than ever before. There are numbers of such places in Pitt county, in fact, around Greenville, and some thing must be done to improve the situation. Overhead and underground passages should be provided. Whether this is the duty of the railroads, town or county officials can not be said, but the menace is there and must be remedied. No great sum of money would be necessary to make these improvements. In fact, one accident might cost the railroads three or four times the sum required to provide several passages. Something must be done to better conditions and the sooner it is the better everyone will feel about it.

The public playground recently proposed is something the city has been greatly in need of in past years and now it is up for discussion we trust favorable action will be taken. A considerable sum of money of course will be required to provide necessary features for the playground, but this could be raised in a short time through public subscriptions and funds from civic organizations. There are hundreds of children who need some place to go every afternoon after school. They would find plenty of wholesome diversion at the playground and would not be subjected to the many dangers of the streets where they are forced to play now. We trust something will be done now the matter is being discussed and the sooner the better.

Other cities have given the curb market a trial and report splendid results. In this case it is easily that a market would prove as advantageous to Greenville. The matter has been under consideration something now and it's about time some decision was reached. The more it is delayed the longer it will be in materializing, therefore, there is only one thing to do and that is to make it an actuality. We trust the organizations having the matter under consideration will get busy and see what can be done. The market should be established by next spring by all means and unless some definite action is taken during the winter months this cannot be accomplished. There is only one direct way to success. That has been pointed out repeatedly and to discuss it further would be futile. We know the thing is necessary and there is only one thing to do and that is to get it established.

"THE FIRST YEAR," COMIC TRAGEDY, IS HUMAN PLAY

"The First Year," which opened at the Academy last night for a week's run, is the funniest, most human, likeable play Richmond has seen in several seasons. It treats a very human situation, or rather situations, the first year of married life, in a most natural and delicate humorous manner. Every line, every gesture, is exuberantly funny, and yet it has an underlying seriousness which makes of it not a comedy, but a comedy-tragedy. The whole thing is very true to life, which is part of its attraction and humor.

The cast of "The First Year" is a decidedly excellent one. John W. Ransone, who is remembered for his splendid performance in "Three Wire Pools" last year, quite surpasses himself in the role of Mr. Livingston. His deafness is so well simulated, and so perfectly done, as every real deaf person does, it, that one is fairly convinced with his naturalness. Ruth Godon and Gregory Kelly, who attained such success in "Seventeen," give superb interpretations of the victims in the comic-tragedy of the first year. The scene of the preparation for the fateful dinner party, when the waitress fails to show up on account of the "misery," is made a classic in comedy by the art of these two young actors. Hattie, who "washes best," is most convincingly portrayed by Edith Wright. Fanny Rice, as Mrs. Livingston, is unusually fine.

The settings used for this play are very good. The one of the small-town home is made most realistic with a country phone, the awful wall paper the prints, and the inevitable "family portraits." The setting of the apartment of the newly married pair is also natural, down to the wedding silver and phonograph. The girl seems to be made up a little too young and demure for a 23-year-old girl of these wild times, even for a country town.

If you have never laughed, you will genuinely do so for the first time, when you see "The First Year."

King's Daughters Meeting Monday Evening.

The Patient Circle of the King's Daughters will hold a meeting Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. J. Cobb. This will be a very important meeting and all members are urged to be present. There will not be a meeting Friday evening as announced in Monday's paper.

Attention, Methodists.
In the Providence of God, we trust, I have been returned to serve as your pastor for another year. This pleases me, and is, I hope, pleasing to you also. I am praying that we may be entering upon what shall prove to be a most fruitful year in the history of Jarvis Memorial church. In order that it may be so, I must have your hearty co-operation in all the work of the church. That you will prove yourselves loyal I have not the slightest doubt.

The particular object in making this announcement is to call your attention to the fact that Sunday morning at 11 o'clock we will have the installation service for our newly elected board of stewards. These men fill a most important place in the church, and I urge upon every member to be present that they may be assured of your appreciation and co-operation in the work that is committed to them.

At the evening hour the Juvenile Missionary society will have charge of the service and will render a pleasing program which all will enjoy.

Owing to the condition of our building while the Sunday school rooms are in course of construction, the Sunday school, beginning Sunday, will meet in the High School auditorium until further notice. All preaching services will continue, of course, in the church building.

Cordially your pastor,
V. P. SCOVILLE.

AMERICAN GIRL IN U. S. CHINA TRADE POST

Shanghai, Nov.—Miss Viola Smith, a young woman from California, who has served as clerk to the United States Trade Commissioner in China for the past two years, has been appointed assistant trade commissioner in the United States department of commerce, thereby winning the distinction of being the first American woman to hold this office.

When Miss Smith, backed by the United States Trade Commissioner and the United States Commercial Attache in Shanghai, applied for permission to take the examinations for the office she bumped into a stone wall of opposition. No woman had ever held the post of United States assistant trade commissioner! However, Miss Smith was undaunted and made a second application for permission to take the examinations, which, if she passed, would secure her appointment. Because of her splendid work in the government service and the recommendations of her chiefs in Shanghai the questions were forwarded here from Washington.

Miss Smith came through with colors flying, and her appointment as the first woman assistant trade commissioner was cabled to the office of the commercial attache at Shanghai. The young woman is well qualified to fill this office, as she has made a careful study of exports and imports during the last seven years. Part of this time she spent in universities in study and part in practical work in large import and export firms in America.

Miss Smith, who comes from California, is a graduate of the Washington College of Law. Following her college work she was employed by the United States department of labor at Washington, D. C. After three years of war work in this department she was appointed confidential clerk to the assistant secretary of labor and in 1918 as assistant to the chief of Woman's division United States employment service.

Two years ago Miss Smith came to China in the United States department of commerce, and during this time she has made a study of trade promotion work in all its ramifications. She has found her work fascinating and reveled in the trade problems which the average woman would find of little interest and which stump many men.

UNIQUE SHOW AT WHITE'S THEATRE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

When Manager White booked Mr. Kuhns Tiny Toddlers he will give his patrons an opportunity of seeing probably the best "Kid Act" in vaudeville. There is no question, these children ranging in age from three to fourteen years are capable of entertaining any audience anywhere any time, furthermore they are in no sense dependent on the sympathetic stuff, for their many encores.

A more talented or good looking group of children would be nearly impossible to find or gather together and the pep they manage to put into their lines might be a good pace-maker for some of the older Theatres. The word Genius should be used sparingly, but these small players, age considered are entitled to it.

Parents will do well to make it a point to have their children see this show at the special matinee on Friday, Nov. 24, 4 p. m. as the act is on its way to join a vaudeville circuit and is unlikely to play here again. Incidentally grown folks who still claim to be human will get as much pleasure from it as anything they have seen for many a day.

MAD BARON WHO WAS EXECUTED "COMES BACK"

Peking, Nov. 24.—"Mad" Baron Ungern is again operating in Siberia, according to reports from frightened refugees who have escaped from the region of hostilities. Others claim that his spirit has been resurrected and is back on earth to carry out its vow for the death of all Bolsheviks. Superstitious villagers in Siberia ascribe to him strange powers before which the red forces are helpless. One man even goes so far as to swear he saw the "Mad" Baron executed and has now seen him this second time alive.

About the execution stories differ. Some say he escaped, but his family who came recently to investigate, reached the sad conclusion that he had been killed.

White soldiers also shrink at the mention of his name. His discipline was fearful, and he meted out punishments without mercy even to the slightest offenders.

One of his favorite methods was to compel the soldier to remove his breeches and sit upon a cake of ice for hours at a time, depending upon the seriousness of his alleged crime. Another was to put a number of men on the roof of his house during a severe storm and to force them to remain there a given time. If they tried to come down they were shot. Those who died from exposure had their own weakness to thank. So read the court-martial reports. He was not loved. Friends say that bullet wounds received in the European war had unbalanced his mind.

Soft Water Saves Soap

Red Seal Lye is an excellent water softener and a wonderful cleanser.

Washing clothes in hard water is a waste of time and soap. Clothes cannot be thoroughly cleansed in hard water. The water must first be softened. If you would have your clothes snowy white, clean and sweet smelling, add one teaspoonful of Red Seal Lye to every three gallons of washing water. This is true soap economy.

Another great saving may be realized by making your own soap with Red Seal Lye. One large can of Red Seal Lye will make twenty cakes of pure soap, at a cost of less than one cent per cake. Mix according to the directions in the can. If you prefer washing fluid, one can of Red Seal Lye will make enough fluid for thirty-two wash boilers of clothes. This goes further than anything else for washing purposes.

Many other uses of Red Seal Lye are mentioned on the direction sheet in the can. If the drain runs slowly, sprinkle a little Red Seal Lye down it and watch how quickly it frees the pipes. Red Seal Lye is a powerful disinfectant. It kills germs and does away with unpleasant odors. The Red Seal Booklet explains many household uses with recipes. Be sure and ask your dealer for the old reliable granulated Red Seal Lye, and take no substitute. Send us a postal and we will mail you the Red Seal Booklet free of charge. Write today.

FRENCH PHONE SERVICE POOR

Paris, Nov. 24.—Wrong numbers, long minutes of waiting for "Central" to answer, "cut-offs" and bad connections—in a word, very bad telephone service in general—are causing Parisians to turn their wrath against the "Allo" girls.

"France has undoubtedly the poorest telephone service in all Europe," says l'Oeuvre. "The slowness of our long-distance communications is proverbial. In all of France there are about 375,000 telephone stations, less than one-half the number one finds in the city of New York alone—a figure almost decisive for a country so important commercially."

Americans arriving in Paris have few words of praise for the French telephonists. For the most part they are insolent and extremely slow. They seem to be busy powdering their little noses or roughing their lips, for very often one waits all of five minutes for "J'ecoute?" which is the French girl's way of saying "Number, please."

To receive two wrong numbers is an ordinary circumstance, and as many cut-offs, which are even more annoying; for no matter how one pleads the telephonist will not re-establish the broken-off connection. She simply closes her key and leaves one hanging on the line. In the end it is really much quicker to walk and most Parisians do it.

While Germany is busy laying on a line of underground cables, which will have a strategic commercial importance, France realizes that she has not a single cable of great distance. Outside of public telephone stations in small hamlets, the telephone is almost unknown in the outlying country districts. The Mayor and public officials are often the only ones who have ever made use of a telephone in small towns. The cost is prohibitive for all but the comfortably rich.

SHAW SPONSORS POST WAR CLAIMS

London, Nov. 24.—Great Britain must clean up her domestic post-war problems immediately if she is to continue as a world power according to George Bernard Shaw.

Shaw believes there are only two possible remedies for the post-war difficulties in England, and drastic as they are he urges that one or the other be adopted. Shaw's proposed remedies are:

A levy upon capital.

Organization of unemployed so that their labor may become productive.

"The war debts is a complicated business," says Shaw. "The war has already been paid for; wars cannot be fought on credit."

"We commandeered the lives and limbs, the eyes and legs and arms and all the rest of the billets found by the German bullets. We commandeered something more. Young men had to sacrifice their education; and older men who had built up businesses and professional practices had to throw them into the witch's cauldron of the war. They were commandeered without compensation or apology."

"With the ready money it was different. Take my own case. I did not give my professional practice. I did not give an eye, or an arm, or a leg; much less both eyes, both arms, both legs. I did not give my life. I did not give my nerve; I am not shell-shocked; I invested it at 5 per cent. I would have invested it at 4, but the Government offered me 1 per cent extra for the sake of my beautiful eyes; and I accepted it."

"But I did not quite get it. The Government stopped about a third of it for income tax and then had the audacity to supertax me on the money they had not paid me."

"Why do I get so little sympathy for these intolerable wrongs?"

"It is simply because the others are being treated worse. Those who invested their lives have cheap graves in Gallipoli or Flanders, except when they have been so thoroughly blown to smithereens that there is nothing left to bury."

"Those who gave their businesses and practices are begging for any sort of job that will keep the bodies and souls of their families together."

"But it must not go on unless two things are done. One is to do what should have been done from the first—that is to put the money creditors on the same footing as the limb creditors."

"They must sacrifice part of their incomes as the others have sacrificed part of their bodies, and part of their means of earning an income. And as it would be unfair to confine this sacrifice to those who at least lent their money to the country instead of profiteering with it the levy must fall equally on all capitalists."

"The only remedy is to take all the unemployed and organize their labor productively, so that they may be a source of income to the country instead of an expense to it."

PREACHER IS FINED FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

Beeville, Texas, Nov. 23.—A jury in the county court at George West, Live Oak county, yesterday found W. J. Bugg, itinerant preacher, guilty of criminal libel and fined him $1,000 criminal libel and fined him $1,000 in connection with reading an alleged bogus oath of the Knights of Columbus to a congregation last Easter Sunday.

Bugg was conducting at tent revival near George West at the time. The case was tried once before but the jury was unable to agree.

Farmville Man Paralized

First things come first. First in the correction of any trouble is to remove the cause. Spinal adjusting removes the cause of disease.

The nervous balance of the body depends upon the alignment of every joint of the backbone. An equal supply of the nervous force to all parts of the body means health.

Only a little more can be lifted overhead with two hands than one, thus proving that it isn't muscle, but nerve energy that is the source of strength. Spinal adjusting restores nerve energy. This is not only true of constipation, kidney troubles, rheumatism and scores of other diseases and ailments but is true in cases of paralysis. Note the case below where this man's health has been restored to normal by taking chiropractic spinal adjustments.

PARALYSIS GONE

To Whom it May Concern:

On the 12th of January, 1922, I was severely injured by a run-away mule. The cart in which I was riding was completely destroyed and I was rendered unconscious for 24 hours, though I seemed to be in a dazed condition for several days after the accident.

The muscles on the right side of my face were completely paralyzed, leaving me with no expression on the affected side.

Our family physician rendered first aid and continued to attend me until I found that the right side of my face remained paralyzed. Naturally I was much distressed over my condition.

I decided to see if chiropractic would reach my trouble, so, I went over to Greenville to see Dr. Ball, the Chiropractor, on March 14th, 1922, and after taking 13 adjustments I was entirely well.

Chiropractic has been a wonderful blessing to me and I want other sufferers to know what it can do for them.
