COLONEL J. BRYAN GRIMES PASSED LAST NIGHT VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA; FUNERAL IN RALEIGH TOMORROW

Secretary of State Since 1900; Was Native of Pitt County and Interested in Many Leading Features of State's Upbuilding

Col. J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of the State of North Carolina since 1900, died last night at nine o'clock at his home in Raleigh, of pneumonia following influenza.

Mr. Grimes was the son of Major-General and Charlotte Emily Bryan Grimes, and was born in Raleigh, June 3rd, 1868. His father entered the Confederate army as a major of the Fourth N. C. Regiment and before the close of the war attained the rank of Major-General. Mr. Grimes was reared on the family estate at Grimesland, in this county. He studied at several of the State's leading preparatory schools and entered the State University. Later in order to prepare himself for a business career, he studied in the Bryan and Stratton's business college in Boston, Mass.

On the death of his father, Mr. Grimes and his brother the late, Alston Grimes, took charge of the family's property and devoted himself to farming. In 1893, Governor Elias Carr appointed him an aide de campe on his staff with the rank of Colonel. In 1900 he was elected secretary of State and held this office continuously until his death.

Mr. Grimes was a member of the Farmers Alliance, the Farmers Union, the State Grange, the State Board of Agriculture and the State Agricultural Society. He was a Mason, a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. He aided the organization of the State Library and Historical Society. He was a member of the State Historical Commission and had served as president of the State Chapter of the Sons of the Revolutionary War. He also was a member of the trustees of the State University.

As an author, Mr. Grimes wrote, "Notes on Colonial North Carolina" and "Abstracts of North Carolina Wills and Inventions." Besides these, he wrote a large number of papers and pamphlets and was an owner of a valuable library.

Colonel Grimes was twice married. In November 1894, he married Mary Octavia, daughter of Capt. J. J. Laughinghouse, of this city. This union was blessed with one child, Hellen Elsie, who survives her father. Mrs. Grimes died in December, 1899 and in 1904, Col Grimes married his sister Elizabeth F. Laughinghouse. Besides his wife and daughter the deceased is survived by three sons, J. Bryan Grimes, Jr., Charles O'Hagan Grimes, and Alston Grimes. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, from Christ Church, the interment taking place in Raleigh.

BLACK SHADOW OF BOLSHIEVISM OVER GERMANY TODAY

According to Warnings Sent Out Chancellor Cuno to German Diplomats

London, Jan. 12.—The black shadow of Bolshevism hangs over Germany today as a result of the French invasion, according to warnings sent out by Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno from Berlin. It is learned from authoritative sources that Chancellor Cuno's message was sent to all German diplomats in foreign countries and informed them that Germany will collect all moral power left in an effort to make the moral opposition of the French invasion of the Ruhr effective.

Chancellor Cuno, it is said, opposes radical measures but the people are weakening and if pressed much harder Bolshevism will be the real danger.

MOORE OF MARTIN TO OFFER ROAD BILL IN HOUSE TODAY

Will Offer the Administration Amendments to the Connor-Doughton-Bowie Measures

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—Representative Moore, of Martin, chairman of the House committee on public roads and turnpikes, will offer the administration amendments to the Connor-Doughton-Bowie road measure, passed in 1921, in the House this morning, carrying with it the provisions for an additional bond issue of $15,000,000 and an additional tax of two cents on the gallon of gasoline.

Other proposed changes in the existing highway laws of the State, including the power of the Highway Commission to compel the co-operation of railroads in eliminating grade crossings, and such changes as the sentiment of the General Assembly in regard to roads may suggest. It is not unlikely that the Moore bill will be gotten out of the way early in the session.

Amendments in the measure to be offered today are included in the words: "From the remainder of said taxes (that is, license and gasoline taxes) there shall be set aside annually the following, in the order named:

- (a) a sum sufficient to pay the interest upon the first fifty million dollar bonds issued under this act;
(b) a sum sufficient to pay the interest upon any bonds issued under this act in excess of fifty million dollars; and
(c) any interest or sinking fund payments now or hereafter directed to be made therefrom by the General Assembly. The remainder of such fund shall be used by the Highway Commission."

The word "three" is substituted for the word "one" in the clause providing a tax on gasoline. Section 4 of the measure substitutes the figure $65,000,000 for the $50,000,000 provided for the initial highway measure. Section 6 provides for the registration of all highway bonds in accordance with the provisions of the general law providing for the registration of State securities.

AMERICAN TROOPS MAY STAY ON THE RHINE

Despite the vote by the Senate, declaring its wish that American troops should be recalled from Germany in view of the French invasion of the Ruhr Valley, it is understood President Harding will allow the small force that holds the Coblenz bridgehead to remain there. These are views of the American troops in a practice march along the Rhine.

Robert L. Dade, Mayor of Mer Rouge Confesses His Participation In Raid

Shows No Fear of Threats on Life of Informants and Positively Identifies Four Fellow Members of Klan

Court House, Bastrop, La., Jan. 12.—The K. K. K. mask of fear was torn aside today when Robert L. Dade, mayor of Mer Rouge confessed on the witness stand that he participated in the raid made by the black hooded Klan, showing no fear of their reported death decree for informants. Dade stripped the cloak of secrecy of the night riding activities and recalled the names of his fellow raiders. He struck a sensational blow for the state in the prosecution of the hooded mob which shot Daniels and Richards last August. The confession came as a surprise to the crowded courtroom when Dade identified four members of the hooded mob, Captain Skipwith, McKen, Kelly, Harp and Ed Ives.

GRIMESLAND IS VISITED INTEREST POULTRY INDUSTRY

Four Day of Campaign Finds Interested Workers in Grimesland Section

Yesterday was the fourth day of poultry campaigning in Pitt County this week. The Chamber of Commerce has been co-operating with county agent, Pace in making this a banner week. Grimesland was the first place visited on yesterday morning. Between fifty and seventy-five listened to the addresses. The usual interest manifested itself in this gathering.

Mr. J. H. Brooks, cashier of the Bank of Grimesland, in speaking of the movement, said: "I know there is a great future to the poultry industry. I have a small incubator and cannot in any way supply the demand on me for baby chicks." In further speaking along this subject, Mr. Brooks said: "All of the inquiries I have for chicks that I can't supply, and the number will be large, I will refer them to your Hatchery."

Mr. L. E. Elks also spoke enthusiastically about the possibilities of poultry.

The afternoon meeting was held at Blackjacket, where fully seventy-five listened to the addresses made.

Mr. E. G. Wardin of the State College of Agriculture, county agent, W. B. Pace and Secretary Smith of the Pitt county Chamber of Commerce addressed the above meetings.

ROANOKE RAPIDS PROVED EASY FOR LOCAL HIGH QUINT

Greenville Takes Second Victory, Within a Week by Defeating Visitors 21 to 13

The Greenville High School basketball team added its second victory in as many games played when they defeated the strong quint of the Roanoke Rapids High School here last night by the score of 21 to 13.

Before the beginning of the contest many predicted a walk-over for the visitors because of their size and the showing they made during the practice period. Their average weight per man would exceed 150 pounds, while that of the local team will not average more than 135 pounds. But before the game had progressed very far it was soon observed that Roanoke Rapids were unable to cope with the speed and passing of the home boys.

Just one minute and ten seconds after play had begun, Greenville's feet footed forward, Claude Gaskins threw an easy goal after receiving the pass from Satterwhite from the center of the court. Drawing of first blood put real pep in the locals, and both Satterwhite and Brown were not long duplicating the feat of Gaskins. Several times during the contest the guards of the visiting team failed to cover their position, and when they did the Greenville forwards accepted the opening and easily made counts.

In the first half Greenville scored for six field goals while their opponents were only able to throw half that number. In the second, the locals made nine points while the visitors improved their scoring of the preceding half by one point. The goal throwing honors of the game belong to Gaskins, he having made ten of the twenty-one made with Brown a close second with seven. And Satterwhite for four. While neither Williams or Harvey were able to make a goal count, they played their respective positions in a manner that made their presence felt with the visitors. Capt. Williams played an exceptionally good game at blocking the opponents' passing, and this aided Greenville to a large degree in keeping the visitors scoring down. Mayo substituted for Gaskins near the close of the contest.

For Roanoke Rapids, Anderson at left forward and Vincent at right guard lead their teammates in scoring as well as other work on the court.

Because of examinations, next week at the local school there will be no game played here during that period, but the home boys will go to New Bern for a game on Friday night. The school by the side of the Neuse have always put out a strong team, and one that has always made it interesting for Greenville either at home or abroad.

TOBACCO MARKET TO CLOSE SEASON FEBRUARY SECOND

Market Has Made Splendid Showing This Season

At a meeting of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade this morning it was decided to close the local tobacco market for this season after the sale of Friday, February 2nd. This leaves only three more weeks for the market to run and those farmers who still have a part of their crop unsold will do well to get some ready and bring it to market immediately.

Though there was a short crop this year the market has made a wonderful record and no doubt the total pounds will reach twenty-three million before closing day. The territory drawn from this year was the broadest in history and the market has made scores of new friends. The prices at this time are as strong as at any time this season and it is more than likely that when the final totals are made up that the average will be even more than was expected.

UNITED STATES NOT MAKING FURTHER PROTESTS AT TIME

Washington, Jan. 12.—While manifestly not in sympathy with the French seizure of the Ruhr there are no indications that the United States will make further protests this time other than the withdrawal of troops from the Rhine. Germany's protest against this seizure are on file and officials declined to state whether there would be any reply or other formal acknowledgment.

PITT COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING AND ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

First Meeting of Year Held at Way-Side Tea Room and Gift Shop, Known as Ladies' Night; Officers Elected for Ensuing Year

PREMIER POINCARE RECEIVES A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

France is in Ruhr and Government and People Ready to Talk to Germans in Essen

Paris, Jan. 11.—France is in the Ruhr tonight, and the government and people are ready to "talk to the Germans in Essen."

Premier Poincare won another of his big majorities in a nearly six to one vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today, and such enthusiasm accompanied the shrewdly enthusiastic reception in both Houses were seen before only when the war began and ended.

Fifty months ago today "peace" began with the armistice, and again France is determined to show Germany who won the war. The German Ambassador has once more left Paris, as he did a year ago when the French took the Ruhr ports, where they still remain, but this time the Ambassador has gone only as an implied protest.

The French in fact today began their conversations with the Germans in Essen when the language of the three occupying powers and their protecting military staff met to agree on just how Allied control could be best exercised.

There is no concealment by the government, the Parliament, the press or the public that France's separate action is a serious thing, but high confidence is expressed in the French method being right.

M. Poincare has again warned the country through the Chamber that it must not expect an immediate stream of gold. The Premier said it might take several months to get the Ruhr control working properly for German resistance, passive or otherwise, must be overcome. But he gave his expert estimate of what his action will yield as a billion gold marks a year, and intimated that if he did not get anything France would not be any worse off than now.

Confidence in the government was voted by the Chamber of Deputies this evening, 478 to 86, after Premier Poincare had made his statement regarding French action in the Ruhr.

When Premier Poincare started his explaining in the Chamber the government's action in the Ruhr valley, he was interrupted frequently by Marcel Cachin, Communist deputy. These interruptions brought cries of the Deputies of the right, and center: "Put the traitor out!"

RECOMMENDS THAT MUSCLE SHOALS BE COMPLETED QUICKLY

General Taylor Thinks Completion Would Enhance Value of Muscle Shoals

Washington, Jan. 12.—Recommendation that the Government complete Muscle Shoals in order to obtain the best terms possible should a sale be determined was made today to the House Appropriation Committee by General Taylor, in a recent testimony favoring an appropriation of six million nine hundred and ninety-eight thousand and eight hundred dollars and an authorization for an additional 10 and one half million. The record became public today.

The Pitt County Medical society held its regular monthly meeting in this city last night at the Wayside Tea Room and Gift Shop, it being "ladies night." The meeting was featured by splendid addresses, good music, and election of officers.

Dr. G. G. Dixon, of Ayden, president of the society presided and after calling the meeting to order, Dr. W. H. Dixon, of Ayden, returned thanks. The address of welcome was delivered by the president, who in his usual graceful and attractive manner, made every one feel that they were indeed welcome to this the first meeting of the Pitt county medical society for 1923. Mrs. L. C. Skinner one of Greenville's most attractive lady speakers responded to the address with a splendid tribute to the doctor's services.

Prior to an address by Dr. J. C. Greene, the society rendered their Society Song. Dr. Greene's talk was short and spicy containing many interesting facts. It was greatly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Knott Procter delighted the members and visitors with two local selections.

Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse read a splendid paper on "The Doctor's Wife." This was thoroughly enjoyed by the ladies. One of the outstanding features of the program was the negro dialect readings from John Charles McNeil, by Dr. Mark G. Frizzelle, of Ayden. Dr. Frizzelle did full justice to his subject and throughout his readings held the attention of his audience in a wonderful manner. He is an able speaker and everyone knows that his name on a program means something worthwhile.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Mark T. Frizzelle, of Ayden; vice president, Dr. Paul Jones, of Farmville; secretary and treasurer, Dr. A. M. Schultz.

The hosts last night were Dr. W. I. Wooten, C. O'H. Laughinghouse, L. C. Skinner, and Paul Fitzgerald. The entertainment committee consisted of Dr. K. B. Pace, C. J. Ellen, and Paul Jones, of Farmville. The hosts for the next meeting which will be held in February will be Dr. G. J. Ellen and Dr. J. C. Greene. The program will consist of two scientific papers by Dr. C. J. Ellen and Dr. K. B. Pace.

The medical society, during the past year, accomplished great things, the greatest perhaps being the public health lectures which were given each month by members of the society. It is a great organization and surely deserves the support of the public. Their program for 1923 is far reaching and great results are expected.

The following enjoyed the hospitality of the society:

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzgerald; Dr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Dr. William Cobb Whitfield, of Grifton; Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Ellen, Dr. Grady Dixon and Miss Johnson, of Ayden; Dr. W. H. Dixon, of Ayden; Dr. J. C. Greene and Miss Eva Hodges; Dr. A. M. Schultz and Mrs. S. M. Schultz; Dr. W. I. Wooten and Miss Pattie Wooten, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, of Farmville; Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Beasley, of Fountain; Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse and Mrs. John Hassell, Dr. Mark T. Frizzelle, of Ayden; Mr. and Mrs. Knott Procter, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Nobles.

The Way-Side Tea Room and Gift Shop was attractively decorated with ivy, evergreens and pink roses, the color scheme being pink.

Louisiana's best citizens identified as mob members.—Headline. If Louisiana's best are guilty of the outrages that the state is now trying to prove, we think that a fund
should be started to send missionaries to Louisiana.

According to Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, President Harding's next withdrawal order should be for Howland W. Bowden, unofficial observer for the United States on the reparations commission. In making this statement in the Senate the Senator referred to Bowden as "an unofficial meddler."

Let us suggest that some of our civic organizations inaugurate a campaign against the rats as one of the features of their public affairs programs. That such a campaign is needed cannot be denied and to rid our city of rats would be the removal of a great menace to our health and safety.

Though attacking the plan of watchful waiting seemed to be one of the greatest sports of the Republicans during the Wilson administration, we note that President Harding has done little but watch and wait for the past twenty two months and now according to the headlines, Washington is sitting back watching the drama that is unfolding in the Rhur district and waiting to see what the finale will be.

According to statistics made public by Bradstreet's the nation broke all building records last year, the expenditures showing a gain of 54.8 per cent over 1921 which was the largest in history. This alone should convince those long faced pessimists who claim that there is no money and that the country has gone to the dogs,
that they are all wrong.

In speaking of the present crisis in Europe Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, shows courage which the other Republicans would do well to use as an example. "I am satisfied in my own mind," said the senator, "though I may be called a heretic, that if we had entered into the League of Nations and accepted the treaty of Versailles, instead of trying to sneak under it by piecemeal as some of us have been doing lately, conditions would have been far better in Europe today. There were some features of the League of Nations of which I did not approve, but we could have eliminated them. It would have stabilized conditions there and the economic difficulty under which Europe is suffering today would have been far less than it is now."

We wonder just how long it will take others to realize their mistake in turning down the League of Nations.
Though it is better late than never for such a realization it is to be hoped that they will remember that for two years already the whole world including ourselves has suffered the consequences of that mistake.

HE WAS THE SOUL OF HONOR.

If any one had been asked yesterday to name the five most useful and patriotic men in North Carolina,
the name of Col. J. Bryan Grimes, long Secretary of State, would have been included by every well informed man and woman in the State. The news of his death will shock the people, who will mourn the loss of a faithful and able public servant. He was a model public officer, capable, diligent, resourceful and efficient to a degree not surpassed by any of his distinguished predecessors. In the past fifty years big men have been named for that office—Joseph A.

Engelhard, William L. Saunders,
Octavius Coke, Charles M. Cooke,
Cyrus Thompson and J. Bryan Grimes—all men of ability. The greatest of them all was Saunders who to the duties of the office added historical research. Col. Grimes was quite as deeply interested in North Carolina history and rendered most useful service on the State Historical Commission.

The proof of his hold on the confidence of the people of the State is found in the fact that he was invincible when a candidate. He had held office long, but never sacrificed his convictions for political support.

Corey and Worthington Attorneys

He was very young when chosen and owed his first election chiefly to his courageous leadership in agricultural progress and freedom. Born on the farm, he was always deeply interested in all that promoted the prosperity of the men who till the soil. His recent most important service was as chairman of the Building commission which is completing half a dozen magnificent buildings at the University of North Carolina. He loved everything that touched the life of that institution and gave it his time and loving thought. His loss will be felt keenly.

Sincerely, genuineness, frankness,
cleanness of life, uprightness, sterling
integrity and courage of a high order marked the man. He never lowered his standards. He loved his friends and was beloved by them. He loved his State and public service was a passion. He leaves no memory except of devotion to duty and the incarnating of his noble convictions.

COAL MINING

Washington, Jan. 12.—Continuation of the present policy of requiring the mining of a minimum amount of coal at each operation on leased Government lands in twelve Western states, taken into account with the production of mines now operating on private lands, promises to result in a total annual coal mine capacity in that region of 80,000,000 tons within two years, declares Director H. Flister Bain, of the United States Bureau of Mines in a memorandum submitted to the United Coal Commission. As the maximum war-time market for coal from these states was 40,000,000 tons per year, the large production indicated seems certain to bring about the same unhealthy condition, the same loss of capital, and the same distress among miners in the Western coal mining industry that was so marked a feature of 1921 in the coal industry of the East and Middle West.

"The general leasing law of February 25, 1921, is mandatory so far as requiring the Secretary of the Interior to divide the land into leasing blocks is concerned, but it apparently permits his discretion as to when and by what general method leases shall be granted," stated Director Bain.

"In practice, coal leases thus far have been given to any qualified applicant who took the necessary steps and gave the required guarantees, and that, doubtless, is what public opinion has expected. The department can not, however, without violation of the plain intent of the law, grant the leases without setting up requirements as to minimum production per annum. It was clearly not the intent of Congress that leases should be granted to tie up land for long periods for speculative purposes. So each lease granted must require the mining of a minimum amount of coal per year and the giving of effective bond for performance. The results that flow from this seem to have been overlooked by the lessees and others. If the department should refuse to grant any more coal leases in the region indicated until demand was within some reasonable percentage of proposed output, there would doubtless be severe criticism. The public must soon in its own interest take more thought as to such conditions and be prepared to sustain remedial legislation. There is need and room here for real conservation."

The states affected by the coal leasing program are California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Coal is also being produced to a limited extent in Alaska, but under the provisions of separate legislation.

E. V. McCOLLUM SPEAKS AT TRINITY

Professor of Biochemistry at Johns Hopkins University Gives Fine Lecture

(By Henry Belk)

Durham, Jan. 12.—The word vitamins now means something to Trinity college students and to a number of citizens of Durham. Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of biochemistry at Johns Hopkins University told them all about it in the annual meeting of the Crowell Scientific society in Craven Memorial hall Friday evening. He must have known what he was talking about for he discovered the subject.

The officials of the Scientific society had announced that the scientist would speak on "The Relation of Diet to Physical Development" and the prize fat man went out expecting to be told how to get lean, while the 87-pound student went around to learn how to get fat. They did get an exhibition of a great mind in action and a broadside of facts that kept them straining to keep abreast of the speaker in his rapid-fire thought. Without a note or a scrap of paper to give confidence Dr. McCollum plunged into his subject, omitting the preliminaries. Ancient Egypt, the Orient, the pastoral life of our forefathers, Biblical characters, Laplanders, Eskimos, Chinamen, and doctors from Rome all went into the lecture to mould the theory and to convince the skeptical.

In the end everything centered around the fact that the great increase in the consumption of grain foods, made possible through modern inventions, coupled with the enormous consumption of canned peas, vegetables and the like with too little of milk, cheese, butter fats, raw fruits and leafy vegetables had brought many defects in physical make-up which only proper diet, beginning with the pregnant mother found remedy.

"Eat more leafy vegetables," advised the vitamins expert as he outlined what he termed the three possible diets under which mankind had developed and would envelop to full physical capacity.

"For years it was found, or thought, impossible to raise a young lion in captivity, simply because the flesh fed to him was not as he had sought it in the jungles. All carnivorous animals in devouring their prey first eat the blood, then the glands (as the liver and kidneys) the bone, and finally the muscle parts. When zoo keepers found this out they were able to raise as healthy lions as could be caught in the jungles." This was spoken of the first type of diet.

The Orient supplied the second diet declared among the best by Dr. McCollum. The Orient diet was the name given by Dr. McCollum to this approved combination. "It is much like our own, but importantly different in the amount of leafy vegetables consumed. They eat from 1 to 20 times more leafy vegetables substance than we do," he said.

The animal kingdom was then turned to prove that leafy vegetables were most efficacious. "No animal eats plants alone," said the professor. The pastoral life of the middle ages supplied the third and last diet and was termed the pastoral diet. It consisted chiefly of milk, sweet and maximum of meat and cheese.

Dr. McCollum advised his hearers to combine high quality proteins with the best elements of the Oriental diet—the excess of leafy vegetables—for the diet which would bring the best development.

But the statements as to what was the best was not based upon statement alone. Dr. McCollum had started in the beginning and completely reviewed the progress in the science of nutrition from the time that it was hardly known until it came into general acknowledgement in recent years. The rapidity which the new science has made its way in a little more than fifty years was commented upon.

"Why only a few years ago every man who pretended to have knowledge upon the subject agreed that food value was entirely measured by the amount of proteins, sugar and starches, and fats that it contained." Experiments conducted by Dr. McCollum, first upon cattle at the University of Wisconsin and later upon rats in thousands of combinations showed the fallacy of this supposition and led to his formulation of the theory of the biological analysis of food values.

In plain language Dr. McCollum gave the audience the benefits of his years of work on the subject. He said that food value was best determined by actual experimentation. Foods known to contain proteins of certain sugars, starches or fats, would be combined with singles in other elements and the combine fed to rats kept for experiment purposes until the best combination was found.

The audience was given the story of how he first became interested in the subject. On becoming connected with the University of Wisconsin in 1906 he found that cattle for experimentation purposes had been rationed on food according to the old analysis standard. One group was given the food from one plant source, say wheat; another from oats; and another from corn. Using the analysis system, care was taken to give amounts of each grain which would equal in food value. Although the food values were supposed to be equal, a year's time found the subjects of the experiments which had been fed on food derived from corn much more advanced in development and sleeker and healthier in appearance than the subject which had been fed on a wheat food.

"Find out why this is so," was the command given to Dr. McCollum. In his search for the reason he advocated attempting experiments which would entirely depart from the old analysis standard and his recommendations were not at first accepted by the director of the University. Then, without the knowledge of his superior officer, he for a space of five years, conducted experiments upon rats fed upon combinations of foods of various kinds. The biological standard of food value was the result.

And in the experiments he became convinced of the existence of an element which had previously been left out of the scientists' calculations—vitamines. Experiment after experiment showed deplorable effects upon the rats when foods which did not contain the vitamins were given them. But when the vitamins were given them they would bring quick recovery. Butter fats and natural oils, as cod liver oil, were declared to furnish the most vitamins, which he designated as A, B, C, (and more recently discovered D) "I think that all have been discovered," he declared.

Dr. McCollum was introduced by Dr. W. H. Pegram, connected with the science department at Trinity for the past 25 years, in a few well chosen words.

Advertised Goods Reach You Without Lost Motion

A big part of the cost of living today may be charged to lost motion, slow, slipshod distribution of goods, and to old-style, wasteful selling methods.

For example, every year tons of fruit and vegetables rot on the ground, because it doesn't pay to pick them. Discouraged growers plant less the next season, and the supply of food is reduced. Meanwhile, consumers in the cities near by grumble over high prices. Demand and supply are not brought together.

Contrast this with the handling of oranges. $1,000,000 a year is spent for advertising by the co-operative association of the California Fruit Growers. A large sum; yet it is only about one-fifth of a cent per dozen—one-sixtieth of a cent for each orange sold.

And this advertising has kept down the cost of oranges. To quote an official of the Exchange:

"The cost of selling oranges and lemons through the California Fruit Growers' Exchange is lower today than it was ten years ago.

"In the twelve years since the first campaign was launched the consumption of California oranges has doubled. The American consumer has been taught by co-operative advertising to eat nearly twice as many oranges as before.

"Had the orange industry remained on the old basis, there would have been no profit in growing oranges. New acreage would not have been planted. Old orchards would most surely have been uprooted and other crops planted."

Advertising, properly done, saves money for the consumer and makes money for the producer by driving out wasteful methods; increasing volume and cutting down the costs of selling and distribution.

CHINESE COOLIE INVADES TAHITI

Los Angeles, Jan. 10.—Wonder Isle of French Polynesia! That is the island of Tahiti, which, according to Herbert Moesbury writer and artist, is destined to become a Chinese coolie steeltment. Moesbury has just returned to Los Angeles to take up his residence after a year in nothing but a lion skin on a small plantation in the interior of Tahiti.

The Tahitian, being too lazy to compete effectively with the coolie in the copra business, according to Moesbury, has elected to doze beneath his banian tree (while the Chinaman works and lives) and in this blissful state is dying gradually as a race. Moesbury declares that the French Colonial Office is indifferent about the Tahitian and would just as soon see him superseded by the Chinese.

Spanish influenza took in its "death sweep" about 6,000 natives when it raged in the South Seas, according to Moesbury, who pointed out that the Tahitians generally are a superb race physically. During the same period but two Chinese are said to have died of the same disease.

The Tahitians rank among the best "movie" critics in the world, Moesbury says. For the pittance of three francs they can see pictures which were forgotten by the American makers 10 years ago. But the Tahitian is "wise" and calls them "old man" pictures.

The blood and thunder movie stuff is said to have made a great hit with the natives on the island of Tahiti, and comedy pictures almost set them crazy with joy, Moesbury says.

Until the tricolor came to the island the only city of any importance on the island is said to have been Tahiti, and the natives openly worshipped one god, Oro, a mystic deity, whose face they did not know, but in whose honor they erected images.

STRONG MESSAGE HAS "NICE PEOPLE" HERE FOR NEXT MONDAY

Cocktail drinking, promiscuous flirting, "crap shooting," and the wearing of daring feminine clothes, used to mark the doers as "fast." But not in this day of "jazz." Nowadays really "nice people" do all these things without censure.

The danger of this attitude, with particular reference to young girls, forms the theme of "Nice People," William de Mille's latest Paramount Picture which comes to White's theatre, Monday, matinee and night.

"Nice People" isn't a sermon. It's a particularly entertaining story with a fascinating romance and real dramatic power. But with these it carries a powerful theme directed against the attitude of a large portion of modern society.

An all-star cast headed by Wallace Reid, Bebe Daniels, Conrad Nage and Julia Faye portrays this story which was adapted by Clara Berange from Rachel Crothers' play of the same name.

Some women hate men so much that they marry them out of sheer revenge.
