ADDRESS OF WELCOME IS MADE BY THE PRESIDENT; RESPONSE BY MRS. BLOUNT

Short, Yet Interesting Talks Featured on the Evening's Program

The members of the Kiwanis club were hosts last night at one of the most delightful banquets ever given in Greenville when they entertained over a hundred guests at the Eastern Carolina Teachers College.

The dining room was artistically decorated with Kiwanis pennants, balloons, bearing the Kiwanis insignia and other suggestions of the Kiwanis evening. Upon arrival at the administration building the guests were given a most cordial welcome by several of the Kiwanians.

The address of welcome was delivered by President Bob Fitzgerald who spoke in a happy vein expressing the delight of the club at having the ladies and out of town visitors present.

Many stunts under the leadership of Victor Davis followed these addresses, such as ladies standing in a row passing a rose, and the men passing lemons. No one wanted to be left with the roses nor lemons as they were afraid that some terrible penalty would be imposed.

KINSTON GIRL IS STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES AS RESULT

Miss Bessie Hudson is Victim of Unavoidable Accident Early Last Night

Kinston, Jan. 12.—Miss Bessie Hudson, aged 18, and an employee of the Orion Knitting Mills in East Kinston, died last night at 9:30 at Parvott Memorial Hospital as a result of a fractured base of the skull, inflicted by a Ford car driven by O. T. Boney, member of the board of alderman, when the young girl stepped out in front of his car from the curb near the home of Plato Collins on Caswell street last night at about 6:30 and was knocked down.

The only other eye-witness to the accident, W. Carmar Sutton, stated last night that he was some distance from where it occurred. He helped Mr. Boney pick the girl up and accompanied them to the hospital.

The girl has not been living in Kinston long, having moved here with her parents, whose names could not be learned last night.

About one month ago, she and her mother were knocked down by a Ford driven by Rodolph Croom, sanitary inspector here, when they were said by him to have stepped in front of his car just the other side of the Caswell Street Bridge.

The two accidents, coming one on another places an unusual light on the matter. Both apparently were accidents, due to carelessness of the girl although such may not be the case, it is said by some.

TOBACCO SALES ON LOCAL FLOORS LIGHT THIS WEEK

Fraction Over Hundred Thousand Pounds Offered During the Five Sale Days

GREENVILLE MARKET HAS SOLD FOR SEASON OVER TWENTY MILLION POUNDS

The Total Receipts for the Entire State Has Already Reached 241,196,783

The tobacco sales on the local auction floors this week was the smallest of the entire season, there being only 112,268.00 pounds offered for the total sum of $24,817.62.

According to the records of the Secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade, the Greenville market sold for the season at the time of closing for the holidays, 20,579,224.00 at a price of $5,804,882.90 for an average of $28.64.

Local tobaccoists and warehousemen are very gratified with the remarkable showing made this season in the tobacco industry in view of the crop shortage.

Tobacco Sales in State

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—"The Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association has received up to and including December 20th, 1922, 56,771,454 pounds of tobacco in North Carolina."

If the government estimate of 306,000,000 pounds is correct for the crop production, the above amount is 78.6 per cent of the crop and leaves 65,703,000 pounds yet in the farmer's hands.

With 185,000,000 pounds of tobacco sold by the North Carolina auction warehouses, 57,000,000 by the Co-operative Association and 10,000,000 on Virginia and South Carolina Markets, in excess of imports there is 252,000,000 pounds sold to date or exactly last year's production.

Producers sales during December amounted to 18,147,000 pounds at an average of 28 cents per pound. This is 4.5c higher than in December, 1921 and 11c higher than the December, 1920, price.

Remarks from warehouse men follow: "Only a small percentage of the crop remains to be sold."

Saturday, January 13th, 1923

The Greenville public library announces a new list of books for children. Nothing benefits a child more than reading good literature and parents should encourage them while young, to read.

Recommendation that the government complete Muscle Shoals so as to evidence its value is all right but what the public would like to see would be to let some one take it who would make it a great service to the country.

Now Bolshevism is the real danger in Germany we wonder what will happen to that country next? If they had a few more friends such as the Republican administration of America they would fare well.

That women can really accomplish what they undertake was evidenced by the outcome of the school bonds for Kinston. They were determined that their children should have the best to be had along educational lines and with that purpose in view they went, they saw and last but not least they conquered.

There is nothing that creates a more friendly feeling nor greater fellowship than get-together meetings such as recently held by the Pitt county doctors and the local Kiwanis. The banquets given this week by both organizations were largely attended and both were pre-ceeded by a great spirit of optimism.

Two penitentiary and one twelve month road sentence represents the work of Judge Henry A. Grady for his second day as Superior Court Judge. If such a record as this is maintained his influence will be a great help toward keeping down crime which has been on an increase in this state.

STRIKE ARBITRATION.

Seemingly many branches of industry are ready to adopt the rule of arbitration for the settlement of differences between capital and labor. Under the auspices of a cabinet officer the Patterson, N. J., silk industry has inaugurated a scheme of arbitration and four New Jersey civic organizations, under the direction of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, are meeting this month to draft legislation designed to set up a state board of arbitration.

Eventually, all the cards must come upon the table. The bituminous miners' delegates and operators, beginning their third effort to find a common ground on the question of the wage scale after next March 31, are warned by John Hays Hammons of the congressional fact finding commission, that if they fail to reach agreement the responsibility for the failure will be held by the commission. The anthracite coal operators, and the miners, have welcomed the advent of the fact finding commission. It will help clear the coal situation, both sides say. And this also

Below are shown the ruins of negro shanties burned near Rosewood by the whites after 20 negroes, heavily armed, had barricaded themselves in to fight off the attacking whites. helps tell which way the wind is blowing. Arbitration may be expected to present, at least, all the facts. And injustices cannot long survive the will of public sentiment.

THIS IS IMPORTANT.

With the Legion posts and Auxiliary units of every district in the state planning for their conferences during the month, it is imperative that those leaders who are assuming new duties should realize how essential it is for them to attend the rallies of their districts and get set for the most constructive program and the biggest responsibilities North Carolina Legionnaires have ever undertaken.

With two big objectives: service to members and needy veterans of the world war and service to the communities in which they have their roots, the pulling power of every group must be lined up without delay.

The report that memberships are already nearly double in number the total reached by this time last year is inspiring.

But members without singleness of purpose are of no avail. The local program of each separate post and unit is paramount.

But only as leaders of these posts and units thoroughly familiarize themselves with the broader aims of the Legion as a whole, as well as the many details of their respective offices, through these group meetings, will the potentialities of their bodies be wholly realized.

The greatest incentive to local activity is intimate contact with other local posts.

The quickest solution of your particular problems may come through rubbing elbows with somebody who has been up against the same issues.

That commanders, adjutants, and other executives may take hold of their work without delay, the district committeemen and women are marshaling their forces promptly. Cohesion between posts and units is indispensable.

This is possible only through personal contact. If you hold a Legion or Auxiliary office make it a point to attend.

There is but one way for us to pull in 1923. That way: together!—Oteen Echo.

WHY THE LAW SEEMS INADEQUATE.

Mer Rouge's lynchers, like lynchers everywhere, to themselves and to others try to justify their acts by calling them retributive or preventive of evil. Their real motive, when the evils exist is their discontent with the penalties provided by law and with the absence of legal penalties for what they think evils and the law does not recognize as such.

They want to inflict summary vengeance, with no better reason for it than their own beliefs or suspicions, or they want to punish with a ferocity which the law does not permit. They know that they cannot get on the statute book such penalties as burning alive covering with tar and feathers, or even "beating within an inch of their lives." In their more reasonable moments they would not vote to make such penalties legal, and they are well aware that no legislature would dare to ordain such a return to the Dark Ages.

In no part of the United States today is there any excuse for a secret society to replace or even to supplement the courts. The Vigilantes of California did have an excuse and more for what they did—if the better element at the mining camps did not take control the worse one would retain it. But the Vigilantes did not conceal themselves beneath hoods and their trials, like their occasional executions, were openly conducted, with full responsibility assumed by the self-appointed prosecutors and judges. And when the law did come to the Coast the Vigilantes stepped respectfully aside and subsided into the general mass of citizens, their work done. Probably it was not all good work, for some mistakes must have been made, but its motive and its logic were sound.—New York Times.

TRADE RECORD.

The cotton goods manufacturers of the United States are showing a marked success in their fight to retain the hold upon world markets which they gained during the war period. Of the dozen great manufacturing industries which are seeking world markets, that pertaining to cotton goods shows a larger percentage of gain in the exports of 1922 than any other. The total value of cotton manufactures dollars against $9,000,000. In a limited number of manufactures including India rubber products, lumber and other manufactures of wood, and automobiles, there is a slight increase but the percentage of gain is in most cases below that of cotton goods which seem likely to show a grand total of approximately $150,000,000 in the calendar year 1922 compared with $117,000,000 in 1921 and only $56,000,000 in 1913.

This increase in the cotton goods exports occurs in nearly all of the important classes. Cotton cloths alone amount to $71,000,000 in value for the 10 months of 1922 compared with $60,000,000 in the like period of last year, and the number of yards exported is 500,464,000 against 458,261,000 in the 10 months period of 1921. Cotton wearing apparel shows a total of approximately $20,000,000 against 16 1-2 millions in the same months of last year; hosiery 7 1-2 million dollars against 5 1-2 millions.

ed cottons showing a total of 86,000,000 yards against 68,000,000; printed goods 21,000,000 against 16,000,000; bleached cottons 12 1-2 million dollars against 8 1-2 million dollars; piece dyed goods $15,000,000 against $9,800,000 in the same months of last year, while most of the other manufacturing industries show declines in the value of 1922 exports as compared with those of 1921. Iron and steel manufactures, exclusive of machinery, show a total in the 10 months of 1922 of only $158,000,000 against $295,000,000 in the same months of last year; machinery and vehicle; $297,000,000 against $481,000,000; refined mineral oils $264,000,000 against $310,000,000; electrical machinery $43,000,000 against $80,000,000; chemicals $43,000,000 against $45,000,000; and wool manufactures 5 1-2 million 000 against 13 1-4 millions; and yarn or stock dyed $512,000,000 against $ 1-2 millions, though it is proper to add that the unbleached cottons exported show a slight decline in value. The increases in the higher grades of cotton cloths occur in quantities as well as manufactures, the bleach-

Our chief rival in the cotton manufacturing industry. The quantity of unbleached cottons going to South America in the 10 months ending with October is 43,000,000 yards against 27,000,000 in the same months of last year; bleached cottons to South America 7,000,000 yards against 6,000,000 in the same period last year; printed goods 21,000,000 yards against 8,000,000, while the other grades to South America also show increases. The Philippine Islands took in the 10 months of 1922 9,000,000 yards of unbleached cottons against 3,000,000 in the same months of last year; 33,000,000 yards of bleached cottons against 12,000,000; 20,000,000 yards of printed goods against 13,000,000, and in the other groups corresponding increases. To British territory the exports show increases despite the activities of cotton manufacturers of the mother country; the quantity of unbleached cottons to Canada in the 10 months of the current year is nearly 7,000,000 yards against 4,000,000 one year earlier; to Australia 2 1-2 million yards against one-half million; to Egypt nearly 4,000,000 yards against less than 2,000,000 a year ago; and of the finer grades Canada took 8 1-2 million yards of bleached cottons against less than 5,000,000 a year earlier, and British South Africa over 3 million yards against less than one million in 1921.

SEVERAL CASES ARE GIVEN HEARING IN CITY COURT TODAY

Mayor Calls Attention to Fact That Laws Regarding Auto Lights be Enforced

Geo. Jennings, col. Charged with speeding. Defendant was reported by Mr. J. D. Rogers and Mr. Ficklin Arthur, who testified in court to his speed and recklessness. The defendant was fined $10.00 and cost, and warned that the second offense would draw a fine of $25.00 and cost. The mayor also took occasion to thank Messrs. Rogers and Ficklin for bringing the case to the attention of officials, stating that if the public generally would co-operate in such manner, citizenship would be far better protected from speed and liquor crazed demons.

Gilbert Turner, colored. Charged with allowing dog to run at large. Paid the cost.

Will Clark, colored. Charged with allowing boy under 16 years of age to drive auto. The mayor allowed defendant to pay the cost, but warned him that such action if repeated would draw a heavy fine. At this point, Mayor Clark took occasion to state that the law was plainly written that no person under 16 years of age should be allowed to drive a car under any circumstances, and that no matter who was with the child, or how close to him in a car a grown person might be, it mattered not, and that in addition to the criminal feature there was also a civil liability for damages, committed under any circumstances by an automobile driven by a child under 16 years of age. He also stated that any parent who aided and abetted a child in violating this law by over stating its age could not blame the child if in later life it developed criminal tendencies and lost its respect not only for law and order, but for the parents themselves. These statements, however, had no reference to the case in court, as the defendant was a colored driver and the child, the son of Mr. Bilbro, and all parties pleading guilty and promising not to do so again.

Jas. Moore, colored. Charged with parking auto truck on pavement overnight. Paid cost.

Reuben Vines colored. Juvenile scrapper and tosser of bricks. Bound over to Judge Frank Harrington, of Juvenile court for a lecture by Welfare officer, Futrell, etc.

Chas. Murphy, colored. Charged with the larceny of a woman's coat. Bound over to county court under $500.00 bond.

Before adjourning court the mayor called the officers' attention to so much violation of the law, requiring lights on automobiles, and ordered that every person caught driving a car at night and not having two front lights and one rear light, to be ordered before him and that if there were any excuses or extenuating circumstances, he would hear them and be governed accordingly, but that the police had no right to hear nor accept excuses or explanations. He also stated that the bright light law must be enforced and that drivers using glaring lights with none of the restrictions required by law must be arrested and brought to court for trial. That the unlawful bright light was almost as much of a menace as speeding and even more of a menace than driving with one light.

The buying power of the automobile dollar has been greatly magnified in the 1923 BUICK

With important changes and far-reaching improvements, the BUICK now offers a car superior in performance, speed, power and flexibility, thus giving more real automobile value than ever before.

HEIRESSSES TO $750,000 UNCONCERNED OVER UNEQUAL SPLIT

By MARGERY REX

(Written for International News) New York, Jan. 13.—Because Celestina is the first grandchild to reach the age of twenty-one, she will inherit nearly all of a $750,000 fortune that is increasing practically day by day.

Because she is the first grandchild to be named after her grandmother, who made a strange will 50 years ago, Maria will get but one-fifteenth of the wealth left by Mrs. Maria B. Fasola, a romantically inclined gentlewoman, who died in Italy in 1876.

Celestina and Maria are the daughters of Ferdinand Fasola, importer of Weehawken, New Jersey. They live in a big old-fashioned, rambling house perched on the very edge of the Palisades, commanding a view that must compare favorably with the vistas seen across Italian lakes. Accustomed to plenty, the increase in their fortunes has not disturbed the young heiresses. So far they have no very definite notions of just what they will do with it.

"We've known about the money for some time," Celestina, the chief legatee, says calmly. She is slim, dark, with smooth, wavy hair, slender features and a flashing smile. She is proud that the Italian silk factories, in which her fortune has been made, are busy manufacturing something beautiful—"Spanish" shawls.

"I never thought much about money," she says. "I'm glad now that I will have a lot, for I want to give some to charity, for tuberculosis and I have had an interest in that since I visited Lake Sarance."

"Perhaps I ought to say I will travel all over. Yes, I think I'd like to do that. But so far as money is concerned, I have not thought about it for weeks. I might go abroad to school for a while."

Celestina Fasola graduated from the Sacred Heart convent and is interested in dress designing, though she doesn't intend to make any professional use of her talent. Maria, who is 16, plump and blonde, prefers snowshoes and skidding to the sled.

"I would like to spend the winter up at Lake Placid. I love to see the winters are gorgeous. Skating is the best fun of all. I love to jump off a high jump. Once I nearly broke my neck!" She laughed breathlessly.

Celestina is to have controlling interest in nine silk factories. She will come into her fortune when she is twenty-five, meanwhile receiving the interest, amounting to $28,000 yearly. Maria's annual income is $2,000, or one-fifteenth of the estate.

Fifty years ago the estate was worth only $50,000. The accumulating profits being untouched have grown to 15,000,000 lire, at the present rate of exchange about $750,000.

"Isn't it wonderful?" Celestina asks. "They tell me I will be worth $5,000,000 yet if the rate of exchange keeps going up."

"No; both my parents are not Italian. Mother is half French, half German, and dad is Italian. They both came from Europe, but we were born here. The 'Doctor' in my father's name means doctor of philosophy, not M. D."

Through arrangements made by Dr. Fasola his daughter Celestina holds a first mortgage on the silk factories now operated under the names of Fasola, Bianchini & Bernasconi. It will be payable in four years.

The unequal division of the fortune does not seem to bother either of Dr. Fasola's daughters, whose chief concerns are charity and skiing.

Advertised Goods Reach You Without Lost Motion

A big part of the cost of living today may be charged to lost motion, slow, slipshod distribution of goods, and to old-style, wasteful selling methods.

For example, every year tons of fruit and vegetables rot on the ground, because it doesn't pay to pick them. Discouraged growers plant less the next season, and the supply of food is reduced. Meanwhile, consumers in the cities near by grumble over high prices. Demand and supply are not brought together.

Contrast this with the handling of oranges. $1,000,000 a year is spent for advertising by the co-operative association of the California Fruit Growers. A large sum; yet it is only about one-fifth of a cent per dozen—one-sixtieth of a cent for each orange sold.

And this advertising has kept down the cost of oranges. To quote an official of the Exchange:

"The cost of selling oranges and lemons through the California Fruit Growers' Exchange is lower today than it was ten years ago.

"In the twelve years since the first campaign was launched the consumption of California oranges has doubled. The American consumer has been taught by co-operative advertising to eat nearly twice as many oranges as before.

"Had the orange industry remained on the old basis, there would have been no profit in growing oranges. New acreage would not have been planted. Old orchards would most surely have been uprooted and other crops planted."

Advertising, properly done, saves money for the consumer and makes money for the producer by driving out wasteful methods; increasing volume and cutting down the costs of selling and distribution.

ORIENTAL MAIDS QUICK TO MIMIC U. S. FLAPPERS

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Wing Fu's daughter, hiding her blushes behind a fairy fan within the mysterious Forbidden City, may not be doing all those things in fact, she's not the demure, shy young thing she is painted in story books. Flapperism has flitted over the great walls and young Miss China has taken to it "instinctively." She may not have quite as much to say about who her beau shall be as the American flapper, but she's getting there.

Take this from the Misses F. Jacob and Rosalyn Rosenbloom, of Chicago, who recently returned from a twenty-two month's trip around the world. The two Chinese girls have this to say about their little sisters of the Orient:

"Chinese girls are becoming flappers, with short skirts, rouge, the shy side glance, and most everything else.

"We were much surprised to find that in the modern cities of China one finds a great deal of evidence of the influence of the United States. It is particularly noticeable in the dress of the women. In the Orient, at least America is fast supplanting Paris as the arbiter of women's modes."

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL IS MAKING SPLENDID PROGRESS

Expects to Go Back to its Regular Home During the Month of May

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Sunday School will meet tomorrow morning at 9:45 at the high school building. The attendance last Sunday was around 50, and the exercises were the most enthusiastic the school has had in a long time. There were four classes of all members present and all members on time, and five classes that had only one member absent.

The Baraca class, taught by Mr. Wright continues to be one of the best classes in Eastern Carolina. There were 72 present in this class last Sunday. Mr. Wright is now delivering a series of talks to the class, which are very unusual and very worth while. The other class of men taught by Mr. J. B. James had a goodly number present.

Philathen class No. 1, taught by Mrs. Herring had about 47 present; Philathen class No. 2, taught by Mr. Fitzgerald had 47 out of 50 present; Philathen class No. 3, taught by Mrs. Rivers had 22 present.

The best records were made in classes taught by Mr. Bridgers, Mr. Marvin Blount, Mr. Judson Blount, and Mrs. Zahlsler. These were the four star classes, had every member present, and every member on time. Mr. Futrell is a teacher of a class of 14 just below the young men's class, and has a very excellent class, and on last Sunday had nearly every one present.

The collection in Sunday School was something over $25.00. The singing was better than usual.

It looks now as if the Sunday School will go back to its regular home some time in May. Every member is now working hard to get new members so that when the Sunday School moves back to its permanent home to fill every square inch of space in the new plant.

The new plant will be one of the most complete in the state, and will provide facilities for enlarging the work of the school in every department.

Sunday School begins tomorrow at 9:45 in the high school building, will be over at 10:45.

The orchestra had a practice Thursday night, and will be on hand tomorrow with some extra good music.

KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN LADIES AND OTHER GUESTS LAST NIGHT

(Continued from page one) the drinks of the evening, which happened to be lemonade. The contest was for the two rows to pick up the glasses and as one put down his glass the other was to pick his up. Quite a good bit of merriment ensued while the contest was going on. The little girls who were charter members of the Kiwanis club were then called to the front. They were Florence Smith, Susie Hodges, Lena Forbes, Nell Moseley, Blanche Forbes, and Ruth Blount. With hands outstretched, there they stood, while Bert James, the Kiwanis lawyer, in most eloquent terms congratulated them upon their past endeavors and pointed them to greater fields of usefulness. When the children had grown tired of holding out their hands after having had them put up time after time, Attorney Bert announced that he would postpone his ceremonies until next meeting. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Kiwanian Lee McBride White, of Kinston, who spoke on the "Kiwanis and the Under Privileged Child." Mr. White stated that the Kiwanis International had searched the best literature and in making their selections for aiding the most needy thing they decided on the Under Privileged Child. He spoke of what the smile of a child had meant to him and how a little child appealed to him. He summarized the things which the Kiwanians are doing for the under privileged child the most important of these being the giving of scholarships thus enabling young ladies and young men to go through college. He further stated that no organization could do a greater thing than educate the boys and girls. The local club, several months ago established two scholarships at the Eastern Carolina Teachers College in memoriam to the late Claude W. Wilson, who was a Kiwanian and a member of the faculty of the Teachers College.

The next thing on the program was a specialty rendered by the Kiwanis Harmony Murderers, Bert James, Ed Williams, Charles Heber Forbes and Clinton Rowlett. Their selections were spiky and really murdered every one except themselves. They brought forth a number of hearty laughs with their parodies and hard knocks which they gave their fellow club men. Bob Wright, president of the Eastern Carolina Teachers College, was called upon for a few minutes talk. He spoke most interestingly of the work which the college is accomplishing and told of the needs of the school. He also stated that a committee from the trustees of the school had drawn up a petition to present to the legislature for $1,900,000, with which to enlarge the school, and that he was very optimistic over the final outcome of the petition. He also stated that there are only seventy-two teachers colleges in the United States and that North Carolina had one of them the Eastern Carolina Teachers College. Its needs are great and as there are only twenty per cent of the teachers, needed in the state available, the school must have money to meet the needs of the day. President Felix Harvey, Jr., of the Kinston Kiwanis club brought greetings from his club and expressed his delight at being present on such a delightful occasion. One of the most interesting features of the evening, especially to the ladies, was the presentation of presents. Each lady was given a balloon with the privilege of bursting it. Ed Williams, chairman of the program committee for 1922 presided over this feature of the program awarding the prizes. As the numbers were called, upon bursting their balloons, the ladies found their numbers. The first prize, a beautiful basket of fruit, went to Mrs. Graham Flanagan. All the prizes were handsome ones and the winners were indeed lucky. In appreciation for Mrs. Jeter's efforts, in preparing the menu she was presented a useful present. The young ladies who assisted in serving, were also given appropriate gifts. The program of the evening was brought to a close with the "Kiwanis song."
