GREENVILLE AND AYDEN MERCHANTS AND EMPLOYEES WILL STAGE BANQUET HERE; MANY PROMINENT SPEAKERS BE INVITED

Local Merchants Association Banquet Last Night One of Best Since Organization

DISCUSS FASHION SHOW FOR THE CITY DURING FIRST OF NEXT MONTH

Mr. William Perlestein, of Raleigh, Was Principal Speaker of Last Evening's Event

Despite the small attendance at the annual banquet of the Greenville Merchants Association held at the Rotary Club last night the gathering proved to be one of the best ever held by the association and the talks and discussions of the evening were helpful and inspirational to those present.

The meeting was presided over by the vice-president, R. L. Crow, and thanks were offered by Mr. J. N. Hart. Following the delightful meal, the first speaker of the evening, Mr. William Perlestein, of Raleigh was introduced. Mr. Perlestein used as his subject the "Ten Commandments of Successful Business." In the beginning he pointed out the increase in the number of failures of business in this country and brought out some of the reasons to which these failures are attributed. The ten principal factors in business as set forth by Mr. Perlestein were (1) to be successful a business man must keep an accurate record of his employees at all times and know that they are 100 per cent efficient. (2) Take every precaution against overbuying. (3) Strive for new business. (4) Advertise in some form or other. (5) Spread sunshine in your business. (6) Keep an accurate record of all transactions in your business. (7) Do today what could possibly be put off until tomorrow. (8) Co-operate with your fellow merchants as co-operation rather than competition is the life of trade. (9) Do not attempt a $50,000 business with $10,000 or do not use $50,000 for a $10,000 business. (10) Learn new ways and methods and keep in touch with changes, conducting your business according to assured facts rather than traditions and customs. In dealing with these ten points. Mr. Perlestein dwelt briefly on each one and urged that business men give more attention to the principles of their business stating that no man who disregarded all of the above commandments could possibly make a success. Service, he said, should be the keynote of every business as the last impression customers get of one's establishment, is what either brings them back or keeps them away. The employer, said Mr. Perlestein, is dependent on the service that is rendered the public by his employees and urged that all employers make an effort to instill into the employees the responsibility which rests upon them.

Following the speech of Mr. Perlestein, Mr. J. R. Turnage, of Ayden, made a short talk in which he also urged the hearty co-operation of all the merchants for the betterment of conditions and the public at large. Mrs. Brooks, secretary of the Ayden association, was called on for a few remarks on what the association is accomplishing and her talk proved of great interest.

Following these talks there was a round table discussion of plans for the future and several vital points in merchandising were discussed. At the suggestion of Mr. J. R. Turnage it was decided that at an early date the Greenville and Ayden associations will hold a joint banquet in this city at which every member will have all his employees present. There will be several prominent speakers for the occasion and it should prove a great event.

The association also discussed the advisability of a fashion show for Greenville to take place during the second or third week in March. This event will be the first of its kind ever held in this city and should create no little amount of interest especially among the ladies of this section.

MRS MCADAMS TO HOLD SERVICES AT COTTON MILL

Preached Strong Sermon Last Night; Will Preach at Cotton Mill School Friday

The service last night was serious and one to put a fellow in soak that didn't have salvation. The Bible text "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." Jesus warns man of this same way in the 7th chapter of Matthew. He tells man how to get off the broad way and how to get on the narrow way that leads to life eternal. It seemed all right to Saul of Tarsus to put the saints to death and persecute all the true followers of Jesus, but God struck him down and showed him different and when he was converted he made mention of it in his preaching.

Tevedil has all kinds of enticing things on the broad way; and men and women will take chances on losing their souls to have a good time. But Jesus says, "Seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

REPORT OF TOBACCO RECEIPTS AS COMPARED WITH SAME PERIOD A YEAR AGO

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 21.—The independent warehouses operating in North Carolina this season have sold 196,184,933 pounds of producers tobacco at an average of $27.72 per hundred pounds, according to their reports. The co-operative association had received 56,771,154 pounds by January 1, which accounts for 251,956,387 pounds of the 1922 crop to date.

This announcement was made tonight by Frank Parker, statistician of the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture. "Last year, at this date, 228,596,000 pounds had been marketed in this State at $24.18 per hundred pounds he continued. "This amount was 91 per cent of the 1921 crop, and according to forecasts of the 1922 crop, the 251,000,000 pounds reported on are 82 per cent of that crop.

"Sales during the past season were reported as follows: August, 18,159,580 pounds; September, 45,246,946; October, 62,328,030; November, 36,140,132; December, 18,147,152; January, 9,263,919. Late reports not included in these amounted to $,899,000 pounds.

"Last year, the January auction sales showed 16,700,000 pounds compared with the 9,000,000 sold this year during January, when the co-operative association received its share."

FINAL GAME OF THE ELIMINATION RACE HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Basket Ball Teams of Greenville and Washington Will Determine Winners of Group

Basket ball enthusiasts of the city are looking forward to the game on the local court tomorrow night when the Greenville High School quint will meet the team of the Washington school to determine the winners in the elimination series of group one.

Coch Duncan states that the local lineup against the victors will be practically the same as that played against Belhaven on Tuesday night of this week, in which contest the Greenville five were winners by a close score. Both teams have won two games and Friday night will be the last leading up to the final contest to be staged between the winners of the seven groups of the eastern part of the State. Several of the groups have already completed their schedule and the winners announced. After Saturday night when the last of these games will be played, another meeting will be called of the representatives of the seven winning clubs to arrange a schedule to determine the winner of Eastern North Carolina.

While Greenville has been defeated by some of the strongest teams of the state, they have too administered defeat to some of the best. For this reason no quint of the east has a better showing for the championship honors than the locals, and with the proper support from the fans and families, Greenville may yet win out in the final elimination race, which will then put them in Chapel Hill to meet the winners of the western part of the State.

The game tomorrow night will be played at Forbes & Morton's warehouse, beginning at 8 o'clock. The price of admission will be 25 and 40 cents.

GREENVILLE CURB MARKET WILL OPEN SAT., MARCH 12TH

Will Open at 9 O'clock in the Morning at Forbes and Morton's Warehouse

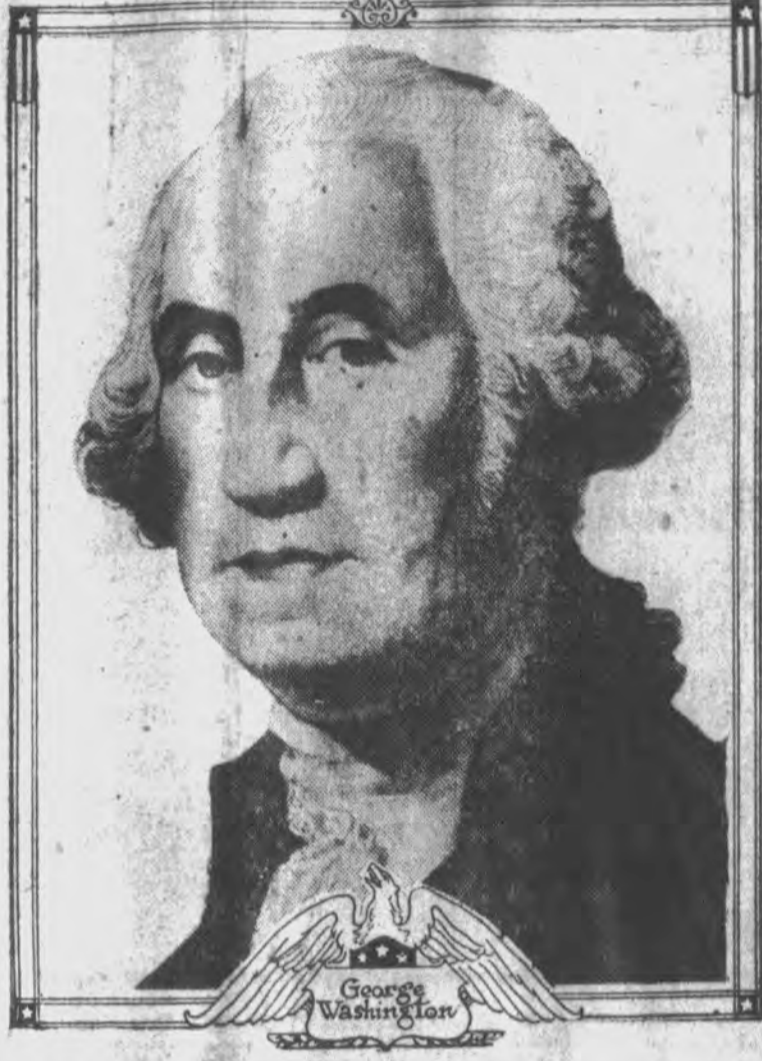

(Auspices Chamber of Commerce.) It was decided on yesterday afternoon that Saturday, May 12th, would be the opening date for Greenville's Curb Market, and that it would open at 9 o'clock in the morning at Forbes & Morton warehouse.

The committee also decided to have as the regular weekly market days, Tuesday and Saturday of each week, opening promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning and lasting probably to 11 o'clock.

Since all of the organizations of Greenville have voted 100 per cent to support this Curb Market, it is now up to the farmers of this section to plan, plant and prepare to bring a variety of vegetables, chickens, eggs, etc., so as to make it attractive to the would-be purchasers.

This action will make it possible for many farmers to pay all or a goodly portion of their running expenses with the proceeds of the sale from the Curb Market. Attending the meeting were: P. L. Clodfelter, S. T. White, J. E. Winslow, Dr. C. J. Ellen, County Agent W. B. Pace and Secretary Smith of the Chamber of Commerce.

FARMERS WARNED BY LOCAL BOARD TO FIGHT INSECTS

Tobacco Board of Trade Urges Farmers to Wage Campaign Against Tobacco Bugs

At a recent meeting of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, it was decided to exert their fullest efforts in the campaign that is being waged against the tobacco bug or beetle by the tobacco interests generally through out Eastern Carolina.

This beetle has become such an alarming pest to the tobacco industry that this, comparable to be boll weevil menace to cotton, in the damage they do, it is of mutual interest to the farmers, warehousemen and buyers to take immediate steps to combat the evil.

All factories and warehouses in Eastern Carolina are now conducting a thorough clean up campaign of their buildings and the farmers are also hereby requested to take similar action in cleaning up their barns, pack-houses, etc. These insects breed from accumulations of trash tobacco, dust, etc., in the corners, crevices and cracks of any place where tobacco has been handled but once they become active they will leave the common tobacco to feast on the very best grades available, as they seem to be good judges of quality.

As tobacco infested with bugs or borers, which is the worm stage of the insect, is greatly depreciated in value, therefore it is to the farmers interest to protect himself by helping to eliminate these pests, since they are present in greater numbers this year than has ever been known before.

GERMANS ADOPT PROTEST STRIKE TO SHOW INDIGNATION

French Resorting Almost Exclusively to Expulsion to Break Resistance

Duesseldorf, Feb. 21.—The conclusion of the sixth week of the Ruhr occupation finds the French resorting almost exclusively to expulsion in their efforts to impress upon the Germans that the orders of General DeGoutte are to be observed. The Germans, in turn, have adopted the protest strike as the most effective way of showing their indignation.

The expulsion of Burgomaster Kotten, of Ruesseldorf, following closely the removal from the Ruhr of Dr. Grutzner, caused a sensation and resulted in the walkout of most of the workers in this city. Only the street railway men and employes of power plants were on duty last evening.

At Mayence the arrest of the director of posts and telegraphs was followed promptly by a walkout on the part of the employes in this service, and troops took over the buildings. Several railway officials in the Mayence area have received jail sentences of from ten to sixty days for encouraging strikes and for disobeying the occupation authorities.

Advices from Essen assert that General Fournier intends to police the Ruhr with municipal forces, and has ordered the dissolution of the Schutz-polizei. The French have expelled the Mayor of Dortmund for refusing to carry out orders.

OFFICERS ON TRAIL OF THE STUPENDOUS BANK WRECKING RINGS

Chicago, Feb. 22.—With Frank Taylor, president of the First National Bank of Warren, Mass., arrested, authorities stated they were on the trail of one of the most stupendous bank wrecking rings ever operated in the United States. An active search has been started for Joseph Marchio, declared to be the second Ponzi who it is said figured in half dozen bank collapses last year.

CLARK SAYS THAT MCBAYER DREW THREE SALARIES

Mr. H. B. Bagwell Also Made Serious Charges Against Dr. McBrayer

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 21.—J. M. Clark, bookkeeper, at the State Sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis and H. B. Bagwell, Wake county farmer and former patient at the sanatorium, appeared today as witnesses in the legislative investigation of the institution and testified that Dr. L. B. McBrayer, superintendent of the sanatorium "mismanaged" financially affairs of the institution and employed its patients on privately owned orchards for "personal gain."

Mr. Clark in the course of his testimony alleged that Dr. McBrayer has held three positions other than the superintendency of the sanatorium, which are secretary of the State Medical Society, at $600 per year; Postmaster at Sanatorium, N. C., formerly Montrose, at $1,900 per year and director of the Red Cross Christmas seal campaign. The remuneration connected with the latter position Mr. Clark was unable to name. The witness further testified that Dr. McBrayer would charge $10 and $15 for examination, some of which was "supposed to be free" of charge to the patients entering and that on x-ray examinations, on which the State fee is $3.00, Dr. McBrayer would charge in excess of that amount and keep what remained over the State's fee.

Mr. Bagwell alleged that Dr. McBrayer "worked" the inmates of the institution on his private peach orchard, sold the best peaches on the spot market and sold the culls to the Sanatorium at what Mr. Clark had previously testified were "high prices."

Ex-Judges Walter Neal, of Laurinburg, and Walter E. Brock, of Winston-Salem, attorneys for Dr. McBrayer, did not cross-examine the witnesses who were the only two heard today and further testimony will be taken tomorrow.

DISMISSED EMPLOYEES MAY SUE PRESIDENT

Washington, Feb. 22.—Senator Carraw, Democrat, Arkansas, said today that information had been given him that some of the 28 Bureau of Printing and Engraving employes dismissed about a year ago by order of President Harding had decided to bring suit against the President for defamation of character. The Senator declined to give names or to elaborate at length upon his statement. The average prisoner, when he has served his sentence, leaves jail with only the feeling that he owes society still another grudge.—Farm Life.

Some of the Germans are finding it easy to get by with the passive resistance idea—they are in jail and are compelled to be quiet.

Rural credit bills may be of some help to farmers, but what they need most is not more credit, but better prices for their investment and work.

From present indications, the Muscle Shoals question will not be voted on during this session of congress. There is always something to be thankful for, congress will soon be going and Muscle Shoals will remain. A better day will be coming soon.

If the legislature continues traveling on the roads of investigations, perhaps they will find something after awhile. "Seek and you shall find," seems to be their motto.

The breaking of rules causes trouble. Break rules in school, the child is punished; break rules in health, the body suffers; break rules in taxation and the state will suffer. The only way to leave to abide by the rules and not change them.

Good roads are one of our greatest assets. They make better school advantages, they help health conditions, and in fact it is impossible to sum up all the benefits to be derived from good roads. They have put the farmer in touch with his friends, made it easier for them to reach market and helped to make life happier. It county is adding daily to her road system and is finding that it pays in more ways than one.

Thomas Jefferson sounded a great truth when he said, "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none." Why shouldn't rich men who make North Carolina their home pay taxes on foreign securities. This state has always stood on the doctrine and principals of equal right—and should continue to stand for them today, tomorrow and forever.

The petition being circulated for paving additional streets in the town of Greenville should receive the attention of every citizen. It will help make traveling better and at the same time add to the beauty of our already splendid paved system. We have an up-to-date florist, establishment and the road leading to it should be paved. The plan as laid out in the petition will include some of the prettiest streets when completed and will help improve the section of the city near one of our greatest prides—the Eastern Carolina Teachers College. This movement on the part of Greenville citizens is a commendable one, and should be a success.

BASEBALL?

Baseball or no baseball, that is the question. Will Greenville have a baseball team this year? It is being asked from every section and no one is able to give a definite answer. If there is no baseball then we are facing a long, dull summer. It is the life of the city on long, hot afternoons to witness a good baseball game, and now that we have become accustomed to seeing and expecting baseball, we will certainly miss it if we don't have it. Our last season was a bad one and we not only lost our chance of winning the pennant in the championship games, but we lost money. Perhaps some plan can be devised whereby the sport can be put on a sound financial basis and give to the people of this section something to drive away the blues of a long, hot summer. If there is going to be baseball, then the ball should be started rolling, as it is time to get good players. We should not wait too late.

RESULT OF BROKEN PROMISES

Germany cannot say that France did not warn her of the present invasion of the Ruhr. She was warned and not taken unawares. Germany has never intended to carry out her obligations. She played for time by making excuse after excuse and promise after promise. Germany was warned in 1921, that unless she accepted the terms of the ultimatum, and promised to carry them out that the Allies would forth with occupy the valley of the Ruhr. At that time Lloyd George was with the Allies and accused Germany of making excuses merely for avoidance. Germany agreed to the terms of the ultimatum. Now, only yesterday, Lloyd George, the same man who was for France in 1921, stated that France should not have taken the step and expressed his horror at the issue, further stating that the United States would be needed in solving the solution. Whether France is right or wrong, whether Lloyd George is right in his stand, France is only trying to make Germany live up to her promises and obligations. Germany should stop and think of the suffering which she has already caused and try to pay her reparations. It is never too late to atone. Now, as a result of broken promises she is having her land invaded and her coal mines seized. She made no effort to pay when she could pay, and now must be forced into unpleasant situations in which she finds but little sympathy.

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use. Ask your neighbor! Mrs. Jacob Wilson, 1112 Evans St., Greenville, says: "I had trouble with my back. During the day I noticed such a heavy bearing-down feeling in my kidneys that I had to rest occasionally. When I stooped over a severe stab of pain shot through my kidneys. Many times I got dizzy and spots and specks floated before my eyes. My kidneys were annoying also as they didn't act as they should. I sent to the Greenville Drug Co., and got Doan's Kidney Pills. One and a half boxes of this medicine soon relieved me of the complaint." Get Doan's Kidney Pills. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wilson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

L. C. ARTHUR LOUIS W. GAYLORD ATTORNEY AT LAW Second Story Reflector Bldg.

I've Got A New, Sure-Death For The Boll Weevil

My name is L. D. Hill. My father was Dr. J. C. Hill, of Drone, Ga. The Hill family have been living in Georgia for 71 years, and I have been raising cotton, corn and hogs, since I was old enough to hold the plow handles. During the last 25 years, I have run my 14 plantations at Cough in Burke County, Georgia, near Augusta, and in 1922 raised 604 bales of cotton on 812 acres planted in cotton.

By close observation, unceasing effort and practical experience, I have perfected a boll weevil poison that is revolutionary, in that THE WEEVIL SEEKS IT!

Go Ahead And Plant Your Cotton And Leave The Boll-Weevils To Me and you'll be raising more cotton to carry to the gin than you ever dared hope to raise since the Mexican boll weevil moved into the Southern States. You can kill off the weevils on a year's crop of cotton at a minimum cost per acre, and the only machinery you'll have to have will be an old tin can or bucket, and a mop made of a stick and a rag.

Now Let's Get Right Down To Business!

The real money crop of the South is cotton, and the way to make money in the South is to raise cotton. But—how are you going to raise cotton with the boll weevil, is what every farmer in the South wants to know. Many methods of controlling the weevil have been tried, with varying success. Thousands of farmers have invested their money in machinery which did not work, and their time and cotton in methods which were experiments, and did not protect their cotton. But I have proved on my own 812 acre farm, and on the farms of scores of my neighbors in Burke County, that you can beat the boll weevil by a sure, cheap method, and that is by the application of

HILL'S THE BOLL WEEVIL EXTERMINATOR MIXTURE

It's sure death to boll weevils! It draws them like a leak in a gyp barrel draws flies. It kills them as dead as a hog that's made into boiling bacon. And, it don't kill just a few of them—it kills them all! Hill's Mixture is in liquid form, with calcium arsenate as a base, and molasses as a binder, to hold it on the plant. But the feature that makes it a success, is the secret ingredient which attracts the weevil from the bottom of the stalk to the one part of the plant that you have touched. You can put Hill's Mixture on in the daytime, without machinery, with inexperienced labor. One colored boy or girl can cover six acres a day. A rain of under one-half inch has no effect on it, and it costs from one-half to one-fifth of the dusting method.

Hill's Mixture Has Never Had A Failure!

ON 1% OF THE ACREAGE I RAISED 4% OF THE COTTON IN BURKE COUNTY IN 1922 My neighbors first used it in small quantities, but the news of its success spread so fast that hundreds of farmers used it last year, and thousands of acres in Burke County were protected from

LET ME SHOW YOU THE PROOF!

If you want proof of Hill's Mixture before you buy, my agent will show you copies of wonderful letters of recommendation, from some of the oldest and ablest farmers in this section of the State.

The price of Hill's Mixture is 77c per gallon, delivered in North Carolina, in 30-gallon barrels, plus small cost for container, which cost will be refunded to you when the barrel is returned. Small freight charge other states. L. D. HILL.

WHAT WILL AFFECT FUTURE BUSINESS

By Alfred E. Ames, Toronto, Ontario, Canada

There is, probably, a reasonable basis for the contention that the mental faculties and traits of character are shown on the surface of the head, or skull, in plain language, but is there anyone who really knows the language?

It is, perhaps, true that the story of a man's experience and character is written on his face. Yet no observer can fully read that story. So, also, even in one's walk there are, no doubt, evidences of one's mental make-up, but the full interpretation of them is not available. The foregoing is not to say that symptoms and characteristics may not be seen and taken advantage of in part.

The present face and form of business in Canada have, of course, been directly influenced by what may be called our normal operations plus the stimulating and depressing influences of the war during both its conduct and its aftermath. Inherently these influences are all traceable in their effect upon the present position, but although we have had many important deliveries by accomplished diagnosticians, no one seems yet to have heard who has spoken with authority and completeness. The nose specialist has indicated that the breath of life still ebbs and flows through the nostrils; the brain specialist is willing that a large percentage of us shall remain at large, but the general practitioner, while admitting that much headway has been made, says the tongue of business still indicates weak digestion, that the pulse is still alternately slow and rapid, and that the temperature still runs from subnormal to feverish.

In the light of what has just been written the writer is very humble in seeking to fulfill the request for views on present conditions and prospects. He will not attempt an exhaustive survey. He will simply make a few observations which occur to him as, perhaps, appropriate.

A Basis for Hope.

One of the most hopeful conditions which affects present business as compared with that of a decade ago and which is bound to be very influential upon the future, is the immeasurably greater friendly and broad-minded co-operation amongst members of different organizations. Conspicuous amongst these is the Kiwanis Club, with its constitution founded upon the Golden Rule; but it is only one of many groups more or less of the same general character. The age also, amongst the various trades and business as a great number of associations which were, perhaps, primarily intended for the selfish betterment of the members, but which have had a great deal to do with lessening the irresponsible and ill-natured attitude which was not uncommon amongst competitors. The atmosphere becomes more wholesome when business men get acquainted, and it is unlikely that their doing so results, over a period of years, in unreasonable prices for their products. Many of these organizations operate on a high plane, the most notable concrete tendency, perhaps, being toward steadiness. This brings us to the point of realizing that there is no quality more needed during the present period than steadiness. Fortunately, the circumstances of the present period seem rather naturally to lead to steadiness and although business is convalescent rather than well, it seems as if its conduct were being more locally analyzed and as if considered judgment were being given before projects are undertaken. It seems as if for the time courage has defeated pessimism and common sense has discounted over optimism—in other words, as if we were entering a period, neither of stagnation nor of rush, but of steadiness.

Annexation.

It is very gratifying that the spirit of neighborliness between the peoples of the United States and Canada has been on the increase during the last few years. This arises from a better knowledge and understanding on both sides. Canadians realize that the people of the United States have problems to deal with which, by reason of their great population, have often to be handled in a somewhat different way from what is possible in a country with a smaller population. Yet, at the same time Canada, with her equally extensive domains, is in some respects in the same position and is likewise confronted with the problem of assembling the thought of the country promptly. The writer was much struck, when spending some months in England a few years ago, with the difference in this respect. The direct force of public opinion in Great Britain may be marshalled within 24 hours for or against any contemplated action of national importance, because newspapers reach every hole and corner of the country within that time. It was almost startling in one or two instances to witness the force of public opinion thus brought on the table hot from the oven. There are, no doubt, advantages in both situations.

Canadians realize that the people of the United States have made wonderful progress in working out their democratic institutions, which they have had largely to do as the pioneers, and some think they have witnessed during the last few years, a growing tendency toward greater respect for precedent and a lessened worship of the new. People of the United States, on the other hand, realize that Canadians are cautiously and yet courageously working out their destiny. On both sides annexation is a bogey of the past. It is recognized that Canada is, so far as can be foreseen a fixture as an independent nation, freely bound, with her own concurrence, in an indissoluble bond with her other partners in what is called the British Empire.

Canada.

As to the position of Canada—perhaps, it is the spirit of the Kiwanis Club which has kindled my imagination. Under its influence I suggest that, at a time when some nations are reorganizing and others, perhaps, disorganizing their affairs, we consider for a moment the affairs of Canada as one entity. It would be foolish to force the suggestion too much, but it may be helpful as an illustration. Let us, therefore, conceive of all the public and private wealth of Canada as having been owned by all her people. For this purpose let us regard the Premier of Canada as the chief executive officer, with his cabinet as the general board of directors. We may consider the Premier of each province as the assistant resident general manager for his province, with the members of his cabinet the local board. This sort of thing has already been done to a lesser extent by some important financial institutions. As with a very large business, heads of departments and of territory have to have considerable authority and in the very biggest businesses it is inevitable that there will be difficulty from time to time in deciding just where real authority resides. However, that need not interfere with the play of our fancy in this respect. If all the business of Canada were included in one huge entity, would it be wise to administer it very differently from the way in which it is done now? That is to say, would it not be reasonable to take large individual businesses and arrange with certain people particularly adapted to conduct them that they would have some special, personal stake in the success of the business? Further, in order that enterprises might be wisely conducted, would it not be well that, one by one, these businesses would have surrounding the general manager of the company a group of advisers, or directors, and not only that, but a group of others who, would be allowed, because of the interest they feel in the industry concerned, to invest as they could in securities specially relating to it, so that they might look for some personal advantage if the industry they had selected should proper? If this course were wise with large businesses, smaller businesses would naturally be dealt with on the same lines. There would be plenty of room for argument as to continued public ownership of all business and as to public or private operation, but contented people might be willing to have, as now, partly one and partly the other, realizing that good administration is what is needed and that personnel and proper standards rather than fine spun theories are what procures it.

Now, in any large number of people there must be great disparity in ability, in tastes and, also, in desires, and so it would inevitably come about that there would grow unreasonable inequalities in the rewards and position of those having interests in the wealth of the state. Certain modern cures, which we are taking with very faith, but the efficacy of which, in normal doses, is admitted would need to be employed. These include succession duties and graded income taxes. These are constantly redistributing wealth and are now generally accepted, as wholesome influences upon society at large. They should not, however, be used or continued to be used to an extent where the harm to individual initiative would outweigh these benefits.

If the foregoing fanciful sketch is at all faithful in its outlines or suggestions, would not the outcome of our essay into communism be that we would, perhaps, by this time have come, through trying and often cruel experience, to decisions to operate our business on much the same basis as at present? If that is the case, does it not therefore follow that the present actual body of business operation in Canada, as in the United States, is sound in heart, wind and limb, though there are some birthmarks and blemishes upon it? We seem, accordingly, to be upon a stable and proven basis instead of being tossed about by every wind of business doctrine.

Assets and Liabilities.

It would, perhaps, not serve any useful purpose in this article to attempt to assemble figures. So it is left to the imagination of the reader to conceive for himself the character of the consolidated balance sheet which would be presented if all the assets and liabilities of Canada (including those now associated separately with the Dominion itself, with the provinces, with the municipalities and with institutions, firms and individuals) were set out. Such a balance sheet, if properly made, would show the values of our agriculture, fisheries, cattle, minerals, timber, railroads, factories, warehouses, stores, houses, water powers, telegraph, telephone and power distribution plants, gold, silver, merchandise, raw materials on hand, etc. It may be too much to say that a fair appraisal would, also, put down a very substantial valuation for good will.

On the side of liabilities there would be a big enough list of debts now against these assets, but this article should not end on a doleful key and there is, perhaps, no need to mention them in detail. It is, probably, enough to say that every healthy Canadian believes that the surplus over all liabilities, fortified as it is by the perennial yield of a generous soil, is big enough to promise a reasonably comfortable existence to the whole of our population, if the assets are administered with industry and wisdom and the actual earning powers properly developed.

ATTENTION

Tobacco Farmers!

At a recent meeting of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, it was decided to exert their fullest efforts in the campaign that is being waged against the tobacco bug or beetle by the tobacco interests generally throughout Eastern Carolina.

This beetle has become such an alarming pest to the tobacco industry that this, comparable to the boll weevil menace to cotton, in the damage they do, it is of mutual interest to the farmers, warehousemen and buyers to take immediate steps to combat the evil.

All factories and warehouses in Eastern Carolina are now conducting a thorough clean-up campaign of their buildings and the farmers are also hereby requested to take similar action in cleaning up their barns, pack-houses, etc. These insects breed from accumulations of trash tobacco, dust, etc., in the corners, crevices and cracks of any place where tobacco has been handled, but once they become active they will leave the common tobacco to feast on the very best grades available, as they seem to be good judges of quality.

As tobacco infested with bugs or borers, which is the worm stage of the insect, is greatly depreciated in value, therefore it is to the farmer's interest to protect himself by helping to eliminate these pests, since they are present in greater numbers this year than has ever been known before.
