WISHING SUCCESS FOR YOUR FAVORITE IS APPRECIATED, BUT A SUBSCRIPTION COUNTS MORE IN WINNING FIRST PRIZE

Special Cash Prize of $50 Makes Subscriptions More Valuable to Campaigners Right at This Time

REAL WORKERS TO BE WINNERS

This Campaign Arranged to Safeguard Interests of Those Who Do the Work and Turn in the Business

A citizen in this territory who has no favorite in The Daily Reflector's great subscription campaign would be hard to find today. In fact, it might be truthfully said that "there ain't no sich animal." Having a choice in the race and wishing that campaigner well is very nice and the sentiment is appreciated, we are sure. But well-wishing and sympathy secure no votes and votes win in this campaign. The thing for each one to do is to invest the small sum required to pay for a subscription—prove sympathy by deeds.

Cash Award Worth Working For.

With the $50 in cash as an added inducement the ambitious campaigners are working with added zest, for winning that special award not only means a goodly sum of money for a week's work, but will be an indication of the winner at the close. That's why the workers are trying extra hard to earn that cash prize. People who promised to help either of the candidates should delay no longer. Subscriptions now and help to land that money.

Campaign Strictly Fair.

There be those in Greenville and Pitt county who have told candidates that a subscription campaign is only a gamble and that, despite any amount of work they may do, they will meet defeat at the end; that the prizes are generally bought up during the closing days of the campaign. It is regrettable that some campaigns of this nature have been conducted, probably in this section. But this one is being run for the benefit of the real workers and everything possible has been arranged to safeguard their interests.

In the first place the declining schedule of votes is designed for the purpose of making a "gamble" or a buying of the prizes at the close too expensive to be attractive. Then during the last period of the drive all money and subscriptions are deposited in a box, with no person except the campaigner knowing the amounts—even the Campaign Managers are kept in the dark. The box will be opened at the close of the campaign and a committee of local bankers and business men will count the vote and award the prizes. Could anything be fairer?

Each candidate can, therefore, continue to work with full courage and confidence that this campaign is conducted fairly and squarely, with a liberal reward awaiting each for the work done and the business secured.

To Enforce Rules Rigidly.

The rule requiring candidates to report regularly aid to turn in as many as five subscriptions a week in order to remain in the campaign has not been enforced heretofore, but in the future it will be rigidly adhered to, and all campaigners who fail to observe it will be dropped from the list.

MISS HELEN JOYNER CROWNED QUEEN OF EASTERN CAROLINA

Coronation Exercises Proved Disappointing to Greenville People in Attendance

THE ROTARIANS AND MERCHANTS ASSO. TO BE HOSTS RECEPTION

Will Entertain at Rotary Building Next Thursday, Complimentary to Miss Greenville

Miss Helen Joyner, of this city, was crowned Queen of Eastern Carolina and Miss Huldah Blythe, of Wilson, was crowned Queen of Wilson, at the Queen's Coronation in Wilson, last night.

Immediately before going on the stage, Misses Joyner and Blythe were presented with handsome $500.00 diamond rings.

The Coronation exercises were indeed disappointing to the large number of Greenville people in attendance. They went expecting to witness a ceremony, such as was befitting the two queens, and only saw them pass in review.

Much interest and excitement prevailed throughout Eastern Carolina during the Queen's Contest and naturally it was expected that the Coronation would be the outstanding feature of the event.

Miss Joyner, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Joyner of this city. She is a beautiful young lady of the brunette type and possesses an attractive personality. News of her being the successful contestant was received with the greatest enthusiasm throughout Greenville and Pitt county and in a short while hundreds of friends left for Wilson to see Miss Greenville crowned queen of Eastern Carolina.

On next Thursday evening, in the Rotary building the Rotarians and the Merchants Association will be hosts at a public reception complimentary to Miss Greenville. On this occasion she will indeed be the queen and will be allowed to reign supreme. The hours of the reception will be announced later and the public is most cordially invited to attend. Big preparations are being made by the hosts and a pleasant evening is in store for every one.

Being crowned queen isn't only an honor for Miss Joyner, but an honor to her home town and Greenville people appreciate the fact.

LEGAL STATUS OF PETER COOPER'S GRANDDAUGHTER IS QUESTIONED IN COURT

New York, Mar. 24.—(By Associated Press.)—The question whether Ann Cooper Hewitt, the eight-year-old daughter of Peter Cooper Hewitt, is the legal heir and only surviving issue of her father and as such entitled under his will to receive the father's share of the trust fund established by Peter Cooper, will be thrashed out in the state supreme court as a result of an order of the appellate division yesterday.

Other heirs of Peter Cooper contend that the child's father died without issue. The plaintiffs contend Ann Cooper Hewitt was born in 1915 and that her father and mother, Marion Andrews, of Virginia, were married three years later, after Hewitt and his first wife were divorced. Hewitt died in 1921 and his widow married Baron Robert Derlanger in Paris last year.

WOUNDS GIRL AND KILLS HIMSELF IN QUARREL OVER BREAKING OF ENGAGEMENT

Lakehurst, N. J., March 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Jack Boyd is dead and Ethel Richmond, 19, is in a hospital with a punctured lung as a result of a quarrel growing out of the breaking of their marriage engagement. According to the girl's mother Boyd attempted to kill his sweetheart and then fired three bullets into his own breast, after shouting "If I can't have you, no one else will!"

Last year more than 1,200,000 persons visited the 15 national parks of the United States.

Wants $50,000 for Failure to Re-Marry Her

George D. Uebele, Jr. wealthy Chicago merchant, son of a millionaire real estate man, is defendant in a $50,000 suit filed there by his wife of 13 years standing. The couple were married November 11, 1900, less than three weeks after Mrs. Uebele's divorce from William N. Brandt. Until November 11, 1921, Uebele, it is charged, periodically promised to re-marry his "wife" in order to legalize the first ceremony in Illinois. Instead, she alleged, he filed suit to annul the marriage. According to Mrs. Uebele, her husband's refusal to re-marry her is due to his infatuation for Miss Stella Kraus, a clerk in a Chicago bank.

HEAVY FLOODS NOW THREATEN DISASTER IN IOWA LOWLANDS

Ice Jams Blocks Spring Freshets and Flood Menaces Large Area

Omaha, Mar. 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Unprecedented mammoth ice gorges in the Missouri River and tributary streams near Vermillion, South Dakota; Sioux City and Omaha, Iowa; and Dakota City, Nebraska having precipitated a condition which presents a flood menace for all the lowlands between Vermillion and Omaha, the flooding of thousands of acres of rich farm lands in three states and the destruction of hundreds of farm houses and at least the partial inundation of Sioux City and several lesser cities.

More than four hundred homes in the bottom lands of Sioux City are untenable and a two-foot rise would, according to authorities, inundate an additional forty blocks in the residential section of that city.

Sioux City, Iowa, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four hundred homes in the Sioux City "bottoms" were menaced as the result of the overflow tonight of the Floyd river. Residents were abandoning their homes at midnight and fleeing to the high ground. The Floyd river, filled with backwater from the Missouri river as the result of the ice gorge at Sergeant Bluffs, Ia., rose three feet in six hours. Lower floors of six buildings in the district were under water.

With a steadily rising river, Sioux City tonight was facing a serious outlook, as the struggle proceeded south of here between an almost immovable mass of solid ice, ten miles long, and an apparently irresistible dash of spring flood waters.

Tonight the huge ice piles continued their choking grip on the river's channel and the tireless waters, fresh from their feast of recent snows, were spreading over the lowlands and carrying with them a threat of impending disaster.

Late this afternoon the straining waters scored a brief advantage. They broke a newly formed gorge above the first gorge, and swept a titanic mass in a grand assault on the first gorge. There was a clashing of colossal forces, and rumblings and crackings.

The first gorge held. The grand

SPECIAL SERVICES IN LOCAL CHURCH DURING NEXT WEEK

Christian Congregation in Furthering Evangelistic Program Will Conduct Services

In their efforts to secure an additional one million members for the year 1923, the Disciple Churches throughout the United States, Canada and Australia are observing the first three months of the year in a special evangelistic campaign which closes with Easter Sunday. During the three months period each time of worship has been featured by services of an evangelistic nature and from the last week beginning on tomorrow and continuing for next week, the local Christian Church with its pastor, Dr. W. P. Shambart preaching, will conduct services bringing to a close what has promise of being one of successful membership campaign ever before undertaken by this religious body.

The local pastor has all during the year delivered soul-stirring sermons, in furthering the evangelistic program as planned and his messages next week should attract large congregations each evening.

OLD POSEY, HEADER OF RENEGADE INDIANS, IS MAKING LAST STAND

Salt Lake City, March 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Old Posey, leader of the renegade Indians, has taken what probably will be his last stand in a drywash twenty miles from Blanding, the storm center during the past week of Indian troubles in southeastern Utah. With the old veteran of half a dozen armed clashes with the white settlers are less than a score of his troublemakers and in the surrounding fastnesses of the rocky region are posing under orders of United States Marshal Ray Ward. How long it will take to force the old chief to surrender or to rout him remains to be seen, but the issue will be decided. Settlers say if the government does not control the Plutes, they will.

MR. O. J. BRYSON TO LEAD COMMUNITY SING TOMORROW

He is One of Foremost Sing Leaders of Community Service, Inc.

SING TO BE HELD IN FARMVILLE SCHOOL AUDITORIUM 3 O'CLOCK

Greenville Orchestra Will Give Two Numbers at Beginning of the Sing

Community singing in many places has become so established and its value so recognized that the city or town will hire a professional sing leader to take charge of this week for them. Large factories often arrange a regular hour for their workmen to stop and assemble for ten or fifteen minutes of group singing. It helps the men and rests them. This few minutes given for singing makes them more companionable and sets up a feeling of good fellowship.

Mass singing is unique in its purpose. It gives an opportunity for the expression of fellowship and good will. A singing community is a happy community, and it is different from any other phases of music. It is an outlet for feeling and an opportunity for every person to sing whether or not they can stick to the tune. The spirit, rather than the musical effect is the aim of a Community Sing.

Mr. Oliver J. Bryson, one of the foremost Sing Leaders of Community Service, Inc. from Washington, D. C. will lead our Pitt county sing to be held in Farmville at 3 p. m. tomorrow. The Greenville orchestra will give two numbers at the beginning of the sing. Mr. Fredrick Bauer, whose father taught violin in Leipzig University will give a special number, and the Ayden quartet, composed of Rev. R. F. Pittman, G. W. Prescott, Roy Turnage, and L. E. Turnage, have been especially requested to give a number. Mrs. J. M. Hobgood will accompany songs.

The Boy Scouts will distribute song sheets and the following men are on the "Host Committee." Dr. Paul Jones, J. W. Holmes, T. C. Turnage, Mac. D. Horton, J. T. Thorn, J. Y. Monk, G. W. Wheeler, C. R. Townsend, O. E. Fox, J. W. Raspberry, Rev. Mr. Noe, Rev. Mr. Padgett and G. A. Rouse.

OFFICERS LOCATE STILL 60 GALLON SIZE NEAR CITY

Illicit Container is Located on the Farm of Levy Evans, Colored, on Winterville Road

Illicit liquor stills are one fewer today than they were at an early hour this morning. Recieving a little "inside" information as to the location of one of these undesirable manufacturing establishments, Sheriff Jackson, together with deputies Williams and Whitehurst, went out about ten o'clock to make the round up. They followed the trail which brought them to the home of one, Levy Evans, colored, who resides about three miles from Greenville on the road leading to Winterville. There in an old house just at the edge of the yard they found a still of the sixty gallon capacity fully equipped for operation.

Evans not being at home the officers had to be content in returning with the mill and its equipment. Just what steps will be taken in placing the blame on Evans is not known at this time.

CHILDREN OF CITY ENJOY AN EVENING WITH KIWANIANS

About Fifty in Number Were Guests of the Local Organization at Last Night's Session

DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN ATLANTA IN MAY

Local Members Will Probably Attend International Session in Southern City in Numbers

One of the most enjoyable meetings for some months for the members of the Kiwanis Club was that of last night which was observed as "Child's Night" with about fifty children of the town, a majority of whom were young Kiwanians present. The opening of the session was presided over by President Fitzgerald and the usual introductory part of the program was dispensed with to devote the evening to the amusement and pleasure of the little folks.

Kiwanian Fred Forbes was in charge of the stunts and other features connected with the program, and each number received the hearty approval of the little guests as was demonstrated throughout. Chairman Forbes in a few well chosen expressions told the little visitors of the great pleasure and delight it afforded the members of the Kiwanis Club to have them present.

Little Miss Jane Hadley who had been selected to make the response was then introduced to the club, and in the following words expressed the true sentiments of the other little folks:

President Bob, Chairman Fred and Kiwanian fathers, we are so happy to be your honored guests this evening. We know from those gracious words of welcome that you wanted us. We had hoped that our time would come and now we already see that it is to be the best time of all. You can count on us to eat and fully enjoy everything and everybody here. This is not the first time you have thought of us for already that long dreamed playground is to be the work of our Kiwanian dads. Dads, we'll enjoy it, and we thank you for it more than once. We are also glad that you love other children whose fathers are not Kiwanians; for you are building for the unprivileged child as well. We know that we are wonderfully blessed for you Kiwanians are our own fathers.

Then here's to our dads, Just grown up lads, And we loved them true, As our mothers loved them too. We are the stuff We never get enough, We'll depend on you for more Eats and treats and joys galore.

The real fun was next in order, and it came in showers. Each child in roll call was asked to give their full name and their school grade. This was followed by the drawing for a young baby, a real live one, which fell to Joseph Dixon, Jr. Before the baby was presented, just what kind and color it would prove to be, caused much anxiety, and when Kiwanian Victor Davis brought in a young pig pulling on the busy end of a nursing bottle the outburst of laughter could have been heard for many blocks. Not having a suitable place for the little stranger, Joe accepted a baseball bat instead, and the pig is yet without a permanent home. All of the young people participated in the drawing for prizes given by different members of the club, there being about twenty of these. A pound box of candy was presented each child present in addition to other prizes drawn by the lucky ones.

At the conclusion of the child's part, the chair was again turned over to the president and some business matters were given consideration. The principal of these was the selection of delegates to the Atlanta Convention, Messrs. J. B. James and Paul Fitzgerald were named and elected.

If the present plans of the club directors are carried out, the local club will probably be represented by not less than thirty in Atlanta.

We are satisfied that the Republican leaders who are advocating the candidacy of Mr. Harding, as well as Mr. Harding himself will not raise the slightest objection to his renomination.

Greenville came into her own yesterday. We brow "em" beautiful down here on the banks of the Tar, and if any one is from "Missouri," we extend them a cordial invitation to come and see.

The possibility of peace between Germany and France sounds rather attractive but we rather see it take place than hear so much about it.

Settlement of the Ruhr controversy seems very remote. France is determined to remain in the valley until some satisfactory terms are reached and Germany does not seem to be yielding very fast. If Germany is as wise as she thinks she is—then a truce should be sufficient.

President Harding, it is said, is reading of His Candidacy, with smiles. The best of us relish a good joke and why should he be an exception?

THE RICH IN CAROLINA

In the class of residents worth $50,000 and more in cities, Georgia is first, Virginia is second, and North Carolina third. Georgia also leads in people whose worth is between $5,000 and $50,000. In residents whose wealth is between $50,000 and $100,000, Georgia still leads. Always these figures apply only to residents of cities of 20,000 people and upwards. When we come to big investors worth over $100,000 and $250,000, Georgia also leads.

But when we read of wealthy residents worth not less than $250,000 and not more than $500,000, North Carolina takes the lead. Georgia is credited with 267 of such residents, Virginia with 396, and North Carolina with 553. In the class of those whose wealth amounts to more than $500,000, Georgia has 215, Virginia 177, and North Carolina 231. The listing stops there.

In the small town residents worth between $5,000 and $50,000, Georgia and North Carolina are about the same. The Asheville Citizen concludes that North Carolina wealth is not confined to the cities.

It would seem that Georgia and North Carolina are making the most progress of any South Atlantic States. Both have gone ahead of Virginia. North Carolina has some big investors around Asheville, the Vanderbilts and others, but in the well-to-do people indicating a homogeneous distribution of wealth, our own state makes a more satisfactory showing.

North Carolina has an income tax law. The subject is being agitated in Georgia. It is very probable that such a law would mean more money in Georgia than it does in North Carolina, and yet it yields enough in the latter state to enable the authorities to do away with all state taxes—Savannah Press.

OPEN PUBLIC FORUM

COUE IN REVERSE.

I met a man a casual acquaintance on the street corner this morning, and by way of being pleasant to him I asked "How are you?" intending this as a greeting and continued walking past him. As I got off against him he touched me on my arm, stopped me and poured a barrel of physical complaint out to me, taking about fifteen minutes of my time in so doing. He looked the picture of health, but not a single word betrayed the fact that he was not a fit subject for a hospital; in fact he told me nothing that should be told to anyone except his doctor if he thought what he said was true, and I could not help but think how nice it would have been if I had met this man some time when he was really feeling good and he had taken quite as much time in telling about it. This man had the Coue Method in reverse gear, as seems to be epidemic just at this time. How nice it would be if everyone, instead of telling their physical complaints, when their friends inquired after them, would at least give thanks that they are able to walk on crutches, if they haven't two legs, and tell only the best in their lives, saving their complaints for their doctor's ears! Try it, and your health morals will rise 88 to 100 per cent. But if you enjoy being sick tell everyone your imaginary ills and keep repeating:

them to yourself, you will see what you look for and surely have cause for a good time.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT FOR MISSIONARY WORK IN ALASKA

New York, March 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Three volunteers have been called to serve in lonely Presbyterian missions in Alaska by the Reverend Fred Eastman, director of educational work for the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. A doctor, a nurse and a housekeeper are required, each for a different station. The only attractions offered are plenty of snow, ice and scenery, loneliness and hard work, and an opportunity to do missionary work among the Eskimos and Indians up above the Arctic Circle in Alaska.

The doctor, who should be married, Mr. Eastman said, is urgently needed at Cape Prince of Wales where there are opportunities to develop a medical mission similar to that of Dr. Grenfell in Labrador. The point Barrow hospital which is the farthest north of any hospital in the world, requires the housekeeper. The mission board promises no lack of ice there for household purposes. The only source of drinking water for nine months of the year is ice melted over a fire of native Alaskan coal brought in by the Eskimos. The nurse would be sent to Wainwright, Mr. Eastman said, and should be prepared to undergo privations while serving there.

A tour of the Presbyterian missions in Alaska has been planned, it was announced, to start from Los Angeles about June 22. It will take 21 days and extend as far north as Skagway by boat and thence overland to Lake Bennett. Persons interested in Presbyterian Alaska missions have been invited to join the tour at cost. Arrangements are being made by the Rev. Paul G. Stevens 313 West Third St., Los Angeles, Cal.

DAMP FLOORS MENACE WELL-BEING OF HENS

Insubstantial Ones Invite Inroads of Rodents Bore Disease.

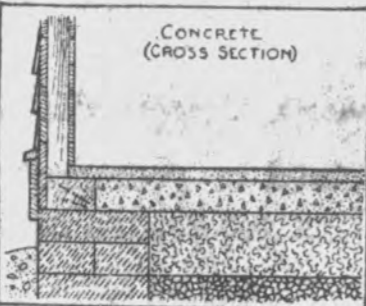

By SETH W. SHOEMAKER, Director, the School of Agriculture, International Correspondence, Scranton, Pa.

The construction of the poultry house floor has a real effect upon the health of fowls. Dampness, particularly, inside of a building is one of the greatest enemies of health.

Almost every poultry house will be damp unless special precautions are taken. The conditions surrounding the possible location of the house should be carefully looked into before the house is erected.

An earth floor is satisfactory when the poultry building is so located that the floor will naturally keep dry and sanitary. This condition can be secured only when the house is located on a dry, well drained spot.

Board floors are frequently used in poultry houses and when properly laid make a sanitary floor at a reasonable cost.

The best floor, although the most expensive, is a concrete one. When properly laid it insures perfect dryness and keeps rodents from digging through; it also can be kept in sanitary condition with little care.

The concrete floor should be about six inches higher than the ground level outside. The same is true if a floor is made of stone or brick.

How to Construct. A cement floor may be constructed as follows: The foundation should be laid at least eighteen inches below the ground level, preferably deeper, and should extend at least six inches above the ground.

The space enclosed in this area should be filled in with dry sand or ashes, solidly packed down to within six or eight inches of the top. On top of this the layer of concrete should be played. The upper two inches of this should be faced with a coating of concrete made of two parts sand and one part cement, trowled down very smoothly and worked until the moisture comes to the top.

In case the poultryman desires to lay a board floor upon the concrete the upper surface need not be worked smooth as just described. Joists two by four inches should be sunk in the concrete while it is fresh until they are level with the top.

NEW ENGLAND RICH IN OLD ENGLISH BIBLES

Boston, March 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Bibles that date back three hundred years are not uncommon in New England, where families have treasured the volumes for many generations.

Another bible owned by Fred H. Harris, of Norfolk Downs, and published in London by "Robert Barker, printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty," in 1614, has been in the Harris family since 1630.

DEPUTY SHERIFF HOBGOOD AND PARTY CAPTURE TWO STILL IN SAME SPOT

Deputy Sheriff J. L. Hobgood of the Winterville section, accompanied by two other parties had quite an interesting time last Thursday evening when they captured two stills in the same spot, and scared seven negroes out of several years growth.

About two months ago Officer Hobgood discovered a barrel of beer in the woods about five miles from Winterville and decided that he would leave it to see if some one wasn't preparing to start a still. On Thursday evening, after having heard from unknown sources, that something was going on, he and his party left for the scene of trouble. Upon reaching the spot, the seven negroes, not seeing the officer approached were having a jolly good time. This however was interrupted by a command "hands up." The negroes evidently didn't hear the order as they took to the woods and fields, two landing in a marsh hole. The still was destroyed and the searching party returned home. Early next morning Mr. Hobgood went back for the purpose of bringing in the still which he had left in a ditch, over night, and upon arrival he was welcomed by another still, just as good if not better than the first. The negroes, however, had supplied their wants and had left for parts unknown.

HEAVY FLOOD NOW THREATENS DISASTER IN IOWA LOWLANDS

battering ram became a reinforcement. Tonight a cold wave was cementing the two masses into one huge iceberg ten miles long. The checked waters were spilling their fury over the lowlands, far and wide, while inhabitants were fleeing to higher ground, many in their haste abandoning their property.

Back water from the Floyd river, which late this afternoon overflowed its banks, now covers several residential blocks in Sioux City to the depth of one foot. Police were warning all residents near that river to be prepared to move.

It is impossible to estimate the territory menaced by the great gorge. If the gorge breaks suddenly, and a great wall of water is loosed, it will flood all the lowlands for more than fifty miles south of Sioux City, it was said here.

The water stage of the river at Sioux City at 7 o'clock tonight was 16.4 and at 8 o'clock it was three inches reaching 16.7.

also has a record for Civic progress and development in keeping with the policy of economy and conservatism in the expenditure of public funds, and on that record I rest my case with those who pay the taxes.

To an able, efficient, public spirited Board of Aldermen is due the credit for what has been accomplished by this administration, and my record to which I refer and to which I invite your attention, is only that of an assistant and adviser to the Board, in the performance of which, I have sought without fear or favor, to subject individual and personal interest to public welfare.

In asking your support for re-election to the office of mayor, I invite your attention to a careful scrutiny of my record, for on this record I make my only pledge, to-wit: a continuation of same for the next two years.

Your support will be appreciated. Respectfully,
