

This is Confederate memorial day. It was observed in Greenville with the uniform reverence by Pitt County veterans, who placed flowers on the graves of their dead comrades and in other forms paid tribute to their memory. It is a noble custom and through the years Confederate veterans have never failed to observe the day. But with each recurring memorial day, the roll call always shows that the gray line is being depleted by death. In the natural course of events, gradually but inevitably there will be no survivors of the men who fought for their honest convictions. The duty of preserving their deeds of heroism and valor will be passed to the succeeding generations. It is a heritage that will never be neglected. The sacrifices that were made by the wearers of the gray will stand in the annals of the South as its greatest possession. Their memory will stand as long as time stands.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS WELL OBSERVED IN GREENVILLE TODAY

County and City Pay Homage to Soldiers of Confederacy

Memorial day was appropriately observed in Greenville today and both the city and county paid homage to the soldiers of the Confederacy. The program began at 10.30 o'clock with a meeting of the Bryan Grimes Camp and was brought to a conclusion by an elaborate dinner served in Forbes and Morton's warehouse by Daughters of the Confederacy.

The Veterans in automobiles were escorted from the court house to the cemetery by the boy and girl scouts and several of the students of the Greenville graded schools.

At the cemetery the graves of the dead were decorated with a beautiful floral tribute. After the singing of a song, taps sounded and the Marchers proceeded to the high school building where an appropriate program was rendered.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Leland Smith. Mr. D. M. Clark, mayor of Greenville, was introduced by Prof. June Rose and paid a glowing tribute to the heroism and intrepid spirit of the men in gray who fought so valiantly for a cause they thought to be right.

After the address the Daughters of the Confederacy presented a prize, five dollars in gold, to Miss Mary Wright for the best essay on Jefferson Davis. Miss Wright then read her essay.

The High School Glee Club delighted the large gathering with several songs. Dan Beach, Zack Vandyk and Ronald Palmer who were the successful contestants in the Clean-Up Campaign were presented their prizes.

After the singing of several songs the Veterans were invited to Forbes and Morton's warehouse where dinner was served.

The unconscious form of the girl was found April 27, last, on a lot within a few blocks of her home which she left early the evening before to attend a motion picture show. Enoch's trial is set for June 11.

The roof of a house occupied by a negro family was slightly damaged by fire this morning. The house was located on the banks of the Tar river and was saved from total destruction by the prompt action of the fire company.

MEDICAL HELP BY AIRPLANE

SYDNEY, N. S. W. — A movement is on foot here to supply medical aid to the remote sections of New South Wales in conjunction with the use of radio and airplanes. Radio would be used to summon help, and airplanes would carry the doctor to the patient, wherever the latter might be, from any one of ten strategically located medical bases.

Herr Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, husband of Bertha Krupp, owner of the immense Krupp steel works at Essen, has been sentenced to 15 years imprisonment by the French on charges that he inspired his workmen to attack French troops.

Woman's Clubs On Record Endorsing World Cou Plan

ATLANTA, May 10. — Endorsement by the General Federation of Women's Clubs of American participation in an international court of justice is asked in a resolution adopted by the resolutions committee for presentation to the mid-biennial council in session here. While not mentioning President Harding's proposal, adoption of the resolution would endorse "the working out of this principle along the lines proposed," for the acceptance by all nations.

Informally, it was pointed out that there is but one proposal before the country on this subject, that of President Harding. Another resolution asked that the federation approve a federal immigration policy which would provide for regulation of selected immigration of "law-abiding and assimilable aliens," quotas to be based on the census figures of 1890.

First Sail Boat Goes Thru Panama Canal

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone. An 18-foot canoe, flying a main sail and a jib enjoys the distinction of being the first sailing craft of any description to pass through the Panama canal under the power of her canvas.

The little vessel, manned by Lieutenant Miller, of the U. S. navy, and H. J. Grieser, a swimming instructor, who had previously rowed, paddled and piloted a motor boat through the canal, started at Cristobal, on the Atlantic side of the cut, at 6 a. m., and docked the same evening at Balboa, on the Pacific at 8.45.

Train Plunges Into River, 29 Dead, Said

BERLIN, May 10. — A telegram from Rhenish Prussia today says, that a train operated by the French plunged into the Rhine and that 29 bodies so far have been recovered from the water.

The report is based on statements of travelers arriving at St. Goar, who added that the French have cut off access to the scene of the accident.

"On With The Dance," Reply Of Young Folks To Passive Protest of Williamston Pastor

Young folks of Williamston gave a dance last night, with a number on the program that was not scheduled.

Just before the strains of the musical fox-trot and waltz beckoned the dancers, a member of the clergy reinforced with several of his flock, according to report, took up a position in front of the place in which the dance was held.

An important open-air revival was started. Dancers gave respectful and reverent attention to the words of caution uttered by the ministers and others. The protest had effect upon a few of the dancing party. They reflected and went home.

The majority failed to see any harm in the innocent gathering. "On With the Dance," was passed and it immediately proceeded and continued until an early hour this morning.

RECOUNTS VALUE OF CURB MARKET

R. G. FITZGERALD, President Greenville Kiwanis Club

It is entirely possible that some of us may feel some doubt as to the ultimate success of the curb market, which will open in the Forbes and Morton warehouse Saturday morning, May 12. I have so far found a few citizens, both in Greenville and the county who hesitate to say whether this is a good thing. The origin of this market was sponsored by the members of the Kiwanis Club. Before they voted to do this, they made thorough investigations of such markets in other places.

They found the sentiment overwhelmingly in favor of it. Knowing that the people of Greenville are just as progressive as those other places, they felt it would likewise be a good thing for the farmers and housewives of Pitt county. They still believe this. The initiation of any new enterprise must necessarily bring with it some mistakes. It is entirely possible that some of us may see fit to criticize the method of operation of this curb market, and yet it is a Pitt county enterprise.

It can, and will be made good. It seems to me that it is the duty of every person who will be affected by this market to boost it and help make it better. We must first have something to buy, and those who have such articles as we need must be encouraged and made to know that they will find a ready and fair market for the produce which they bring. On the other hand, it is the duty of every citizen in Greenville to patronize this market, and to make it worth while for the people to bring their produce to Greenville.

All of us together can make a good market. The membership is believing strong enough in the citizens of Greenville to believe that this market will be a success.

Good Eating Urged to Fight White Plague

WASHINGTON. — One million people in the United States continuously are sick with tuberculosis, it is announced by the United States Public Health Service in a study on the predisposing cause of tuberculosis.

Children, particularly under the age of five years, are said to be most susceptible to infection. Attention is called to the fact that tubercle bacilli are capable of remaining virulent in the human body for many years and that an apparently healthy person may lose immunity to them. The Public Health Service states that one of the commonest causes of the development of tuberculosis is poor nourishment, adding that "the well fed resist tuberculosis well; the underfed yield readily."

Crops Not Damaged By Recent Frost In This Section, Belief

According to advices received today from various sections of the county, no damage is reported to crops, as a result of the frost last night. Farmers were apprehensive of the effects of the continued cold weather, but examination of the fields indicates that no loss will be felt.

In some sections, however, it is stated that it will be necessary to replant cotton, because of failure to obtain a proper stand in a few fields. This condition is not general and only prevails in remote cases.

Official weather forecast is to the effect that the temperature will continue to rise, and normal conditions are expected to be maintained.

Farmville Man On College Paper Staff

CHAPEL HILL, May 10. — B. Colton, Boston, has been elected editor of "The Tar Heel," the University of North Carolina's student newspaper, for next year.

Colton is one of the most popular men in his class and has done a large amount of literary work and writing since entering here. He has served as an assistant editor on the "Carolina Magazine," "The Yackety Yack," the university annual, and "The Boll Weevil," Carolina's humorous magazine.

J. M. Saunders, Durham, defeated R. C. Maultsby, Rutherfordton, for managing editor in the same election and W. M. Saunders and F. M. Davis won out in the race for assistant editors. Saunders is from Roanoke Rapids and Davis' home is at Farmville.

Big Dam Earns Cost Construction in Year

KEOKUK, Ia. — Sixmillion tons of coal are saved annually by the operation of the Keokuk dam in the Mississippi river here, according to an estimate by the operators of the dam.

Power hidden under the surface of the Mississippi and harnessed by the dam is lighting stores and running street cars in St. Louis and a great many smaller towns in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. Miles upon miles of cables and conduits run out from the dam in almost every direction.

Accepting the average price of coal it can readily be seen that the saving in one year of this fuel would more than pay for the entire cost of the dam, which was placed at $29,000,000 in 1913 when it was completed.

Huge Oil Gusher Funeral Pyre, Score of Charred Bodies Taken From Pitt; Fear Big Death List

Big Crowds Expected to Attend the Legion Celebration Today

CHAPEL HILL. — Twelve thousand people are expected to participate in the American Legion Day celebration at Lumberton on May 10 according to the directors of the affair, one of the chief features of which will be the baseball game in the afternoon between the freshmen teams from the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State.

The two nines have met twice before this season, both games going to the West Raleigh boys by close scores and the Carolina freshmen will be working hard for revenge. The first year football team from the University lost to State's freshman last fall but won in basketball. Baseball has given the Techs a lead and the whole Carolina student body is hoping that their reserve team can win this game.

CORSICANA, TEX., May 10.

Thirteen identified bodies, three smouldering skeletons in the well pit and possibly a score of others to be uncovered marked the tally of death wrought late yesterday by the explosion of the giant gusher of the J. K. Hughes Development company.

Three hundred feet of flame ominously signalled the fire for 50 miles around and great billows of black smoke clouds continue their advance to Corsicana, 11 miles from the belching monster.

This morning the huge producer which came in late Tuesday flowing 15,000 barrels of pipe line oil is a veritable funeral pyre.

The charred, twisted mangled bodies remain in the well while the flames consuming the complete flow of oil and 2,000,000 feet of gas.

Peking Orders Attack On Outlaws Halted, Urge Pacific Means

WASHINGTON, May 10. — An attack by Chinese troops on bandits who captured Americans and other foreigners in Shantung last Sunday, has been ordered stopped by the Peking government, the state department has been advised.

It is understood that the Peking authorities had ordered Chinese troops "to desist from measures against bandits," and "adopt pacific means," which would insure liberation of prisoners without injury.

Union Rail Shopmen Demand Wage Boost

NEW YORK, May 10. — Wage increase demands by union shopmen aggregating about $50,000,000 annually have been presented to three big railroads through the American Federation of Labor, preparatory to taking the case before the Federal Railroad board, it was announced here today.

Bernhardt Memorial Proposed by Paper

PARIS. — Paris daily newspaper Comedie, which devotes its columns exclusively to matters theatrical, has started a public subscription for the erection of a monument to Sarah Bernhardt.

This is added another tribute to the memory of the great dramatic artist, others including a project to rename the Place Chatelet in her honor. Comedie is also distributing a drawing in color by Veters, showing the great artist reposing on her death bed.

Will Defer Action On Liquor Ruling

WASHINGTON, May 10. — On the assumption that the decision of Federal Judge Knox, in New York declaring void the limitation imposed on physicians' prescriptions of liquor will not become effective until after it is reviewed by the supreme court, prohibition headquarters announced here today. No chances would be put into effect until the highest court has acted.

France Has Many Sexagenarians.

PARIS. — More than 10 percent of the population of France has reached the age of 60. In other words, the republic has nearly 5,000,000 men and women traveling toward three score years and ten. Germany, according to the same statistics, with a population one-third greater than France counts only 5,113,000 person, or eight percent, in this same age category.

STATE FARM CENSUS PRODUCES RESULTS

The outstanding new addition to North Carolina's agricultural progress is the annual farm census. Although begun on a voluntary basis only two years ago, it afforded a 70 per cent degree of completeness results last year and better is expected this year.

The skepticism at first, by farmers and others interested, has given way to strong endorsement by county commissioners, Co-operative Marketing, Farm Bureaus, Extension Service, bankers and progressive farmers. The voluntary overwhelming results was responsible for the law being passed requiring this through the tax listers.

Those in charge of this, both locally and in the department of agriculture, claim that the present difficulty is on the part of the farmers themselves. Although we own one or more farms, the tax listers find that our confidential knowledge of this non-taxable farm work is sadly lacking.

It is definitely proven in all commercial industries that failure would be certain if planned as the farmers do their plantings. Only an inventory or audit can show what we are doing. The best sellers and losses may be found, especially if records of sales and purchases are maintained.

N. W. Jackson county tax supervisor, requests that each farm owner make a list of his own and his tenants crop acreages, etc, and carry with him when he lists his taxes. This will be for the separate Farm Census list which has nothing to do with taxes.

BRITAIN WILL NOT STAND SOVIET SEA INTERFERENCE

LONDON, May 10. — The British warship Harebell has been ordered to the Murman coast to prevent further Soviet interference with British vessels outside the three mile limit and to use force, if necessary, the house of commons was told today by Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, McNeil.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Pitt County has the opportunity of becoming the greatest poultry center in the United States?

A garden will grow in most any spot where weeds will. Reduced food costs and better health are the results of growing home vegetables.

Reports show that Tarheel farmers are beginning to realize the value of lime in improved agriculture and will continue to use more of it.

SHE DESERVES A GOLD DISHPAN

Miss Susie Hetnock, a Pennsylvania girl, deserves a gold dishpan with handles studded with diamonds if she accomplished her record feat of dishwashing in the spirit which news dispatches accredited her. Thirty-one hours at the sink is her accomplishment—one which may be commended unreservedly to the attention of every flapper who possesses a competitive nature.

Contests in this sport, of course, would have to be on a handicap basis. There are girls who would create more surprise if they washed dishes for 30 minutes than did Miss Hetnock with her hours of performance. But in her case her purpose was more significant than her deed.

As she expressed it, she has attained the satisfaction of knowing that she has "knocked Gehenna out of them cheap marathon dancers,"—but, possibly for the sake of force, she used the Anglo-Saxon word instead of the Hebrew one.

So far as that knocking is concerned, it is to be hoped that she has. With all the dishwashing and dusting and picking and shoveling still to be done in the world, there is every reason to turn the thoughts of youth to channels where competition is really needed.

WHEAT AS CURRENCY

That the money of central Europe, scarcely worth the paper it is printed on, must soon be repudiated, is every day becoming more apparent. Of course, something will have to take its place, and what to base it on is a topic widely discussed in Germany and other countries. In some of the nations wheat is used as basis of currency, and the system appears to be making some headway.

The fact is the United States is issuing today Federal Reserve bank certificates, as money, based on commodities instead of gold or silver, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, recently asserted that there is not a dollar of circulation against our huge stock of gold.

Conditions compel changes in almost every line of human endeavor.

CONDITION OF THE RAILROADS

A particularly timely and comprehensive survey of the railroads recently made public, demand more than passing consideration. The results are not reassuring. Judge G. W. Anderson, of the federal court of appeals, who made the study warns of the possibility that many of the outstanding securities of the railway systems may become permanently non-income producing. He shows that the carriers have not prospered since their control was restored to private management. On the contrary, however, operating expenses have been tremendously increased.

The showing made, if conclusions reached are accepted as fair will tend to discourage the voluntary investment of private capital in railroad securities. He charges bad faith on the part of the carriers because of their refusal to accept, as a unit, the provisions of the transportation law of 1920. Present confused conditions are easily traceable to the destructive railroad labor last year, but it is shown that up until July all the labor organizations had obeyed the rulings of the Railroad Labor Board, while from 50 to 100 railroad companies had disregarded them.

While the conclusion is reached that there can never be uninterrupted service until railroad strikes are made illegal, it is conceded that they cannot be made illegal until there is a "radical change in railroad organization and management."

Although the processes to be followed are not indicated, it is apparent the imperative need now is reorganizing the management. Judge Anderson, by inference, makes it appear that railroad strikes can be made illegal where those who serve owe a continuing allegiance to the public—the people as a whole—rather than a corporate body whose managers and directors themselves ignore the law at their pleasure.

So long as the element of bad faith enters, the problem will remain insoluble.

KATHERINE MACDONALD IN "HEROES AND HUSBANDS"

A love tangle in literary circles forms the basis of the story of "Heroes and Husbands," Katherine MacDonald's latest production for First National release, which is coming to Strand theatre on Friday for matinee and night.

Miss MacDonald is cast as Suzanne Danbury, a popular young novelist. Other figures in this comedy drama are Walt Gaylord, illustrator of her books; Hugh Bemis, her publisher; Agatha Bemis, his wife, and Martin Tanager, Suzanne's legal adviser.

It was not until she met Gaylord that Suzanne ever fell in love, and then she found that all was not serene. She discovered that he was the recipient of significant attentions from Mrs. Bemis, despite the fact that the latter was married.

It was a situation that, in a work of fiction, would have presented no difficulties to Suzanne, but she found literature and actual life entirely different and she neglected her work in order to devote her time to solving the problem.

Her feminine ingenuity came to her rescue with a clever method to thwart her philandering rival. The rest of the story is devoted to the solving of the intricate romantic problem, with a big melodramatic smash toward the end, which for a moment threaten-

"THE WHITE FLOWER"

This is really the best picture Miss Compson has made. She does a much better dance in this than she did in "The Green Temptation."

Mary Carr, the wonder actress in
"Over the Hill"

More people have seen "OVER THE HILL" than any other picture made with the exception of Douglas Fairbanks' "Robin Hood."

In Richmond, Va., a crowd waited in line for two whole hours to get a chance to see this wonderful picture.

One of the leading ministers in New York City based his Mother's Day sermon on "Over the Hill."

This is not a lavish production, there are no midnight parties, no wonderful gowns, no horse racing, yet it is the most wonderful picture you ever saw.

It is a MOTHER'S DAY PICTURE.

All elderly people who are 60 years and over will be admitted free to either the afternoon or evening performance, and we sincerely hope you will come and be our guests. Special matinee 3:30; Adm. 25 and 35c.

REHEARSALS FOR KATCH-KOO ARE MAKING SPLENDID PROGRESS

Rehearsals for Katcha-Koo, the oriental-fantastique which will be presented in White's theatre next Tuesday evening, May 15, are progressing rapidly and all the members of the groups and dances are most enthusiastic. Tickets will be on sale Saturday morning at Horne-Staton Drug Co., Warren Drug Co.

Katcha-Koo promises to be one of the best plays presented on the local stage by local talent. It starts in the Orient but the final scene takes place in America—the contrast in settings providing abundant variety in scenery and costuming features which are being made the most of by the local committee in charge.

Final rehearsals are going with a bang under the capable leadership of Mr. Sargeant, an expert professional director supplied by John B. Rogers Producing Co. In fact, everything seems to be in readiness and on the surface it looks as though the play could be given tomorrow night if necessary. However, there are many little finishing touches that must be given a big production like this even after players know their parts. All awkward movements must be eliminated, groups must move about quickly and quietly—and delicate adjustments of dress count for much. This is all included in what Mr. Sargeant the director calls "professional finish" and is what goes far to distinguish Katcha-Koo from other amateur productions and put it on the "real professional" class.

AN EDITOR'S OPINION OF "OVER THE HILL"

By William A. Allen.

Witnessing the screen version of Will Carleton's "Over the Hill," one can understand why it played one solid year in New York city, and was there seen by more than 1,000,000 people. It pictures the universal family, and, best of all, the universal mother.

Sedate men, austere men, old and young men last night felt the tremendous urge of its emotion and its sparkling shafts of humor as a harp responds to the musician who plays it, and tears—real, watery tears—rolled down many a cheek which had not been so affected since childhood.

The picture is a ten-reel affair, wholesome, clean, inspiring. It is not a great spectacular extravaganza calling for massive settings, gilded scenes or an expensive cast; yet with its homely story, a little old-fashioned mother, an affectionate but weak-willed husband, six kids, a dog and a humble home, it has an appeal which sets the other and more pretentious showings in the shade.

There is a Mother's Day feature to it, too, which appeals to welfare workers everywhere; for one is wafled, as it were, on a magic carpet into one's own home, and in the warp and woof of the carpet is woven the silver threads of a mother's great sacrificial, unselfish affection for the "bone of her home and the flesh of her flesh," and through it all there is a song of home that leaves an ache in the heart and a glow in the soul.

It brings out the meanness, the pettiness, the cowardice of us; but, thank God, it also shows our fineness, our generosity and our nobility. One cannot help thinking, after seeing the play, that a man whose Christian mother stands up for him at the Gate will be able to carry on a very good argument with St. Peter.

No one should miss "Over the Hill," which comes to White's Theatre Friday matinee and night it was cast without a star, Mary Carr, who assumed the role of Ma Benton, the mistreated mother, has gained international fame as an actress, and Johnnie Walker, the "black-sheep" of the story, has been named a star by William Fox.

According to statistics and expert estimates which have come to the New York offices of Mr. Fox, more than 80,000,000 people will have seen the film. Agencies throughout the world have clamored for the privilege of distributing it outside of the countries in which Mr. Fox maintains his own organizations. Only recently the Middle East Films, Ltd., closed negotiations for distributing "Over the Hill" in the Orient. England, Japan, China, France, Spain and even Russia either have seen the picture or will see it in the near future.

New Delivery Conveyances.

The furniture firm of Quinn-Miller company added yesterday two more delivery conveyances which they found necessary in order to give the public the prompt delivery service, in which capacity they have been handicapped for sometime because of a shortage in force. The new conveyances consist of a small truck and a wagon. This makes a total of five trucks and wagons that the firm now has in operation.

His health is measured by hours

PURE milk is largely a matter of speed of delivery. Bacteria may multiply at the rate of 15,000 per minute. In the old days of the farmer's wagon, your child's milk was hours farther away than it is now in the age of gasoline. All about us, gasoline has brought more safety, convenience and comfort.

The American family finds gasoline a necessity of life. This stored-up power must be obtainable right at hand, like water or milk or medicines. The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) long ago faced this definition of real gasoline service, and today—everywhere—you can find a "Standard" Motor Gasoline pump; you don't need to hunt for "Standard." Same high quality everywhere.
