

If there was a little more reciprocal home trading in Greenville and less outside buying a big stimulus would be given to business during the dull period. Virtually everything comprising the ordinary commodities and necessities of life, including luxuries can be had on the Greenville market. Prices are about as well balanced, quality considered, as will be found to rule in the metropolitan markets. The mail order sharks offer big values on paper—that's all.

A New York visitor commenting on the splendid goods handled by Greenville merchants, made this pertinent remark last night: "When I looked at the window trims of your stores, I was almost astounded. I was never in a place of equal and larger size that displayed all the standard lines of merchandise in such wide variety. I took occasion to ascertain prices. I found they were about even with those charged for the same lines in the large stores of New York and Philadelphia. Greenville merchants know how to attractively display goods. That is always a splendid reflection on business enterprise. They are entitled to all of the home trade. Other markets for the same merchandise are no cheaper."

LET THIS SINK INTO YOUR SYSTEM THE NEXT TIME YOU GET A MAIL ORDER CATALOG. DO YOUR TRADING AT HOME.

HOME ECONOMICS ART DEPARTMENT TO GIVE EXHIBIT

Will Be Held in High School Building On Thursday

Beginning tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the public is cordially invited to attend the exhibit of the home economics and art department of the Greenville schools. This exhibit will be held in the High School building, and will be on display in the halls and the library. There will be an exhibition of cooking that will show that the work in the Home Economics is of a very practical nature. There will also be an exhibit of hats that the girls have made, dresses that they have made, and all other articles of wear.

This department in the Greenville high school has always been a strong one, and has always been noted for its excellent work. Miss Mary Benton who has had charge of this work for two years has rendered the town of Greenville a very valuable service. The exhibit last year was a credit to the school and the town, and this year will be even better.

In the art department there will be an exhibit of drawing from the first grade clean up through the ninth. There will be pen and ink sketches, crayon sketches, charcoal and water colors. There will also be exhibits of luncheon sets, curtains and numbers of other articles, that have been decorated and made useful for the home. One of the big lessons that is being taught in this department is to take something very inexpensive apparently useless, and turn it into something useful and beautiful. This work has been under the supervision of Miss Harvey.

The Greenville school is about the only school in a town of this size that is doing of this sort. None of the neighboring towns do this work.

There will also be an exhibit of some of the work in the Commercial Department. The Commercial Department teaches book-keeping, typewriting and short hand. This department has made a very good record in its graduates that have been turned out in the three years of its existence.

The exhibit will be open at 4 o'clock and the public generally is invited to be present.

Two Irish Rebels Are Executed for Thefts

DUBLIN, May 30.—Michael Murphy and Joseph O'Rourke, were executed by the Free State authorities today in county Galway. They were convicted of participating in a bank robbery at Thieny, last week.

Mr. Leslie Smith, of Farmville, was a business visitor to Greenville today.

COLORED SCHOOLS TO CLOSE WITH SPLENDID PROGRAMS

The 20th annual closing commencement exercise of the Greenville colored public schools, beginning last night with the primary grades, in Odd Fellows hall, will continue tonight, Thursday and Friday evenings. The event also marks the 20th anniversary of the connection of Prof. C. M. Epps, with the school system of this city. An invitation has been extended to the white people by Prof. Epps, to attend the exercises which embrace a program of unusual interest.

This evening at 8:30, special class day exercises will be held in the Sycamore Hill Baptist church. The junior high school commencement is scheduled Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, in the court house. The address to the graduating class will be made by the Rev. Dr. J. E. Kirkland, pastor nights, White Rock Baptist church, Durham.

Motor Caravans Lead to Mount Mitchell, State's Wonder Park

Literally tens of thousands of tourists will this season be adventuring in western North Carolina on the new road: that are completed or in process of building to a number of heretofore difficult accessible points of natural beauty. Apart from the motor caravans to the State Park at Mount Mitchell, there are a number of localities at high altitudes which the new vacation of automobile touring will open up in all their beauty to an army to which they have been names in an unknown land.

To all such motorists the North Carolina geological and economic survey is sending out a word of warning as to what may be expected in the way of changed conditions in gasoline consumption and engine performance by reason of the altitudes in which they will be traveling. Once the road reaches an elevation of from 2,000 to 5,000 feet, there must be a revised estimate of the power the machine is capable of on roads in other sections.

SCOUTS START FOR CAMP SATURDAY

Everything is set for the annual encampment of Troop Two at Camp Leach from June 2-12. The boys plan to leave on the Cravenco on Saturday morning at 8:30. They will be accompanied down the river by a large party of high school boys and girls who will return to Greenville on the boat that afternoon.

Camp Leach is an especially desirable for a camping place. It is splendidly equipped. Besides comfortable barracks, there is a beach which offers fine facilities for swimming and water sports and is as the same time safe. Besides swimming the boys plan to spend the time fishing, and in various kinds of sports. A base ball league is to be organized by the boys in camp and volleyball will be introduced.

The people of Washington are to bring the boys into Sunday school in Washington on both Sundays the boys are in camp. On Sunday afternoon, Troop Two will be glad to welcome any of their parents and friends from Greenville who wish to visit the camp.

On Thursday night at the Rotary Club the troop will have its last meeting for this school year. Every scout is urged to be on time as the meeting will begin promptly at 7:30. The six patrols, the Beavers, Panthers, Wolves, Eagles and Wildcats will have competition in first aid work to see who gets the choice of things in camp. Besides, first aid work there will be the usual sport of high jumping and a boxing tournament. The troop is glad to welcome back Wyatt Brown who will act as assistant scout master for the summer.

TO REMODEL DAIL APARTMENT FOR HOSPITAL NEEDS

Temporary Building Is Required to Meet Ur- gent Local Demand

Announcement was made today that work of remodeling the Dail apartments on Fifth street into a modern hospital to meet urgent local demands, will be started without delay. It is understood that it is the intention of those interested in the hospital to use the contemplated structure only until details of a larger institution are worked out. Physicians who are furthering the project are anxious to give Greenville the benefit of hospital service as early as possible, and to this end it was determined convert the apartment building into use.

It is understood that the hospital will be ready for occupancy in early September. In addition to wards for patients, a limited number of private rooms will be provided. It will include a modern and thoroughly equipped operating room, and every other convenience for the care and comfort of patients that space will permit.

Several well situated sites for a much larger building are being considered. Doctors Wooten, Laughinghouse, Pace, Greenville; and Dr. Dickerson, Wilson, are interested in the enterprise.

Fear Kitchin Near Death, end Expected Any Minute, Report

WILSON, May 30.—According to word from a hospital here where Representative Claude Kitchin, is a patient, his death is momentarily expected.

Mr. Kitchin who has been suffering for several weeks with stomach disorder, began to sink late last night. He has failed to respond to treatment that physicians hoped would bring about a change for the better. His wife, daughter and son are at his bedside.

Dr. C. A. Woodard, personal physician to the former floor leader of the house representatives, is quoted as saying that he was "dangerously ill," and unless there was a decided change the end was not far away.

At 3:15 a message from Wilson stated that a slight change had, been observed in Mr. Kitchin's condition. His pulse appeared stronger and he was conscious for brief periods.

Fayetteville Mayor Caught in Speed Net

FAYETTEVILLE, May 30.—Mayor H. McD. Robinson, of this city, who is at present engaged in an intensive drive against violators of the traffic regulations, and Dr. G. B. Patterson, member of the local board of aldermen, will appear in the court of Magistrate Adolphus Cheek tomorrow to answer to a charge of violating the State automobile law.

The charge is contained in a warrant sworn out by Donald McQueen, who alleges that the offense was committed Monday night, when he claims to have seen Dr. Patterson operating an automobile on Hay street with no lights on the front or rear of the machine. Mr. McQueen alleges that Mayor Robinson was in the car with Dr. Patterson at the time.

Economic Body Want Ford For President

OMAHA, Neb., May 30.—The American Economic League organized to sponsor the thirty party political movement is going through with its plan to boost Henry Ford for the presidency, according to Roy Harrop, the league's president.

FRIEND OF HARDING SLAYS SELF IN DAUGHTERY'S HOME

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Jesse Smith, of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, prominent in republican affairs of that state shot himself to death today, in the apartment of Attorney General Daugherty, who is now a guest at the White House.

Friends of Smith are unable to assign any reason for his act. They declare that he had been in apparent good health and spirits for the last several days. He was a life long friend of Daugherty's with whom he played golf on last Saturday, and was a member of the party which accompanied the president on his recent trip to Florida.

BUSINESS NEEDS, PRESENT, FUTURE OF PITT COUNTY

By A. M. MOSELEY.
Insurance and Real Estate.

I have been much interested in the recent letters appearing in The Reflector touching on the need of improved live stock and encouraging poultry raising, etc. I am convinced that the Farmers of Pitt County cannot progress as they should unless these suggestions are carried out, however, in order that they may intelligently further these different lines, along with others, it is absolutely necessary that the farmers of Pitt county see that their farms function 12 months in the year rather than six. The farm as well as the business man, has no real chance to succeed unless he is in active operation each month in the year.

This can be done only through the use of winter cover crops, such as clover, vetch, oats, rye and wheat. These crops are grown during the months not in conflict with some of our summer crops and through their use the land is constantly being improved added humus and the fearful loss occasioned by winter rains and the washing away of fertilization stopped. These winter cover crops make it possible to provide these necessary dry foods and grain with which to feed our live stock and poultry and at a monetary cost which assures success.

FOUR CASES HEARD IN CITY COURT HERE

The following cases were given a hearing in police court this morning. Guy Baker white, charged with driving auto truck and not having sufficient lights displayed thereon. Allowed to pay cost.

Clara Mae Whitefield, Bill Whitefield, colored, charged with mutually assaulting each other. Allowed to pay one half the cost each.

Will Clark, white, charged with driving auto and not having sufficient lights displayed thereon. Paid the cost.

Durwood Tucker, white, charged with driving auto in excess of the speed limit on Dickinson Avenue in business section. Paid fine $10 and cost.

RELIGIOUS PARADE EXCITES INTEREST OF COLORED FOLKS

Considerable interest attaches to the religious parade to be held this evening led by Rev. C. P. Dixon, colored evangelist who is conducting a series of revival services here. The line will be composed of a large number of recent converts, in addition to those who have been regularly attending the meetings. Dixon said today that he believed several hundred would march. The column will form at Forbes and Morton's warehouse at 7 o'clock and will pass over several of the principal streets. Old fashioned hymns will be sung at some street intersections.

Dixon addressed a large gathering of white and colored last night on Need Varied Industries.

While the farmers of Pitt county are sorely in need these winter cover crops so is Greenville fearfully in need of added industries. Business conditions are generally good during our tobacco season, however, we have not a chance to grow and flourish as Greenville should until there is provided more industries, which, in themselves assure business activity during the entire year.

Too much can not be said or done to encourage our tobacco industries. It is generally conceded that this industry is very largely responsible for our growth to this date. Our Chamber of Commerce should lend a constant ear to this interest and at all times work with them for their further development.

A Chamber of Commerce is an absolute essential to any active growing town. No municipality can make any pronounced headway without such an organization.

I do think, however, that our Mayor, Board of Aldermen and chamber of commerce should join hands in an honest and continuous effort to bring to Greenville more industries. By so doing, provide a pay roll to enable our merchants to become and remain active throughout the year.

Policeman Shot to Death by Desperado

TORONTO, May 30.—Sergeant John Urquart, of the provincial police was shot to death at North Bay today, as he and a posse started to enter the home of the father of Leo Rogers, hunted desperado, after having seen the man enter the building. The man then broke through the posse and escaped.

Clarkson Takes Oath.

RALEIGH May 30.—Heriot Clarkson, of Charlotte, named by Governor Morrison, to succeed the late Associate Justice Platt D. Walker, was sworn in this morning at 10 o'clock when the Supreme Court convened. This will be the first time that a justice has taken the oath in open court since the tribunal has been sitting in its present quarters in the new State Library Building.

Women, Babes Hurlled To Death By Chinese Brigands, States Priest

Hammer Murderess Ready to Prove Her Innocence, She Says

NEW ORLEANS, May 30.—Clara Phillips, who escaped from jail in Los Angeles last December after her conviction for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, returned to this country last night from Honduras in the custody of California officers and tonight was resting in the Orleans Parish House of Detention preparatory to starting tomorrow on her long journey to the Pacific coast.

The former Waco, Texas, girl, who stepped from the liner Copan, was not the Clara Phillips Orleans people had expected to see. They had prepared for a woman desperate over her recapture after one of the most sensational escapes ever accomplished in this country. Instead she seemed to be in buoyant spirits and lost little time in telling newspapermen that she was returning home voluntarily to establish her innocence and that she was confident this end would be accomplished.

Chief Justice Taft Defends the Supreme Court Against Attack

CINCINNATI, O., May 30.—Attacks made by "radical Republicans" on the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in Civil War and reconstruction days were reviewed by Chief Justice Taft here today with the comment that the verdict of the country in retrospect had been in favor of the position maintained by the court and against the attitude assumed by its critics.

Speaking at the unveiling of a monument to Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, Justice Taft declared while the highest Court undoubtedly had made mistakes in Chase's time, and at other times, the effect of its record as a whole had been to reaffirm the sound foundations upon which it was built.

"The people now are glad" he said, "that the guarantees of personal liberty were maintained by the court against the partisan zeal of the then majority. The court survived the inevitable attacks upon its jurisdiction then, as it had survived them so many times before."

The Chief Justice made no direct reference of proposals recently made in congress to curb the power of the court, but he recalled that bills proposing to abolish the court's right to declare the law of congress unconstitutional were introduced just after the Civil War and were defeated.

Half Million Metal Strikers Go to Work

ESSEN, May 30.—More than a half million metal workers resumed work today. They were granted a 50 per cent wage increase, but were refused additional demands of bonus of 150,000 marks each.

KIWANIAN PLEADS FOR UNDER PRIVILEGED CHILD AT MEET

ATLANTA, Ga., May 30.—Underprivileged children, the crippled, the diseased, the "child who stands baffled and confused at the bar of the juvenile court," have found a staunch friend in Kiwanis International that organization was told by Dr. Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the child welfare committee, in an address at the national convention here.

The speaker told the Kiwanians their work in the past year, or since they have centered upon the single SHANGHAI, May 30.—The Rev. William Leners, aged German priest of Lincheng, who has gone several times to the mountain stronghold on errands of mercy for the foreigners held captives by Chinese desperadoes, has written a grim account of the reported execution of 80 Chinese prisoners, before the train hold up, May 6, near Suchow and the foreigners were captured. He also states that one woman with her babe in her arms was hurled to death over the mountain cliffs. It is believed that many others have met the same fate.

Father Leners explains that the bandits were short of food and rather than attempt to feed them the prisoners were killed. The information from Father Leners, declares that the prisoners' feet were bound and each was labelled with his name and identification before being hurled to death. One of the prisoners, a woman, was thrown over with her child in her arms.

Later the bandits notified the families of the massacred captives, and relatives were permitted to remove the bodies, identification being facilitated by the tags.

Victims Were Tagged.
"One Christian Chinese, who already had paid $1,800 for the release of his son, today took delivery of the corpse," Father Leners, wrote, adding:

"Many pallbearers still are climbing the mountain.

Enlist Bandits.
"The only way to maintain peace here is to enlist the bandits and keep them in this territory for years as a police force since they alone are familiar with the inaccessible mountain fastnesses and trails. If they are withdrawn, lesser bandits will band together and cause a similar situation in the future."

Troops Not in League.
Father Leners denies that troops were in league with the outlaws. He declares that the soldiers have been besieging the brigands for months near Paotzuku, resulting in an acute shortage of water and food at Paotzuku. The raid on the train at Suchow, the priest says, was in the nature of a diversion to force the troops to withdraw from Paotzuku.

Harding Says Nation Needs Rational Line of Thought, in Speech

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Harding, speaking at the Memorial Day exercises at Arlington national cemetery today, declared that the United States had proved there could be "less armament," and should now strive for assurance there shall be "less of war."

"We must do things which rational thinking leads us to believe will tend to render war less likely. If we ever have the insanity to make conflict among ourselves, we shall deserve to sacrifice, but that must never be," he said.

approached activity of "service for the underprivileged children," has helped to make the work of the child labor committee easy.

Aside from the general session of the afternoon, at which sports were received from several standing committees and addresses made the activities of the delegates today were centered in a score or more of conferences. Every phase of Kiwanis work was discussed in three smaller gatherings.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Mooresboro has a creamery?

Are you satisfied for Pitt not to have one?

Some shark on mathematics has figured out that a man of 60 has spent three years tying his tie. Even so, it is better than wearing a bunch of microbe breeding whiskers.

Chicago packing house employes have received a raise in wages. Greenville housewives reflect upon the probable trend of meat prices, when you pound into tenderness your next 40 cent cut of round steak.

The boy taking agriculture at his high school makes 52 bushels of corn per acre. His dad makes 17.7 bushels; he makes 512 pounds of cotton, his dad 278 pounds; he makes 814.8 of tobacco, his dad 610.4, and he makes 178 bushels of sweet potatoes, his dad 106.6. Does vocational agriculture pay. Figure it out for yourself.

ARE PITT COUNTIANS TOO CONCEITED?

In order to ascertain the principal obstacles to overcome to give increased impetus to the development of Pitt County, The Reflector during the last weeks has been publishing at intervals a series of signed articles by citizens representing various lines of business. It is notable that all the suggestions offer original and practical ideas, any of which undertaken would provide tremendous revenue to the county. While the articles differ in the things to do, but in the last analysis, it is agreed that nothing can, or will be DONE without unstinted WORK and COOPERATION.

Mr. Closs Hearne, handles the problem in real "heavy weight" fashion, and probably he has handed out the solar plexus blow that will knock the spirit of lethargy or inertia from out of us, when he says:

It is true that we need a lot of things in Greenville; almost too numerous to mention. When we get SO CONCEITED that we FEEL a SELF-SUFFICIENCY we should build a wall around US and ROT as other places, ALL of which will NOT be FOUND in China.

There may be well founded reason for Mr. Hearne's bald declaration. He is a student of local conditions, and therefore, should be well qualified to arrive at decision of some of the drawbacks to the intensive development of our resources. However, it cannot be challenged with any reasonable ground for dispute that when a people become over-sold on themselves they are very apt to stand still. They have been "scratched" in the race of progress.

Such an attitude is like the man who feels that when he is indispensable to a business or any form of organization. When he reaches that point, it can be put down, that he has outlived his usefulness in cycle of endeavor. He has lost out simply because of his own inordinate vanity and unjustified conceit.

It would be idle and preposterous to assume that we are ready to build a mythical wall around us and calmly resign ourselves to dissolution. If we are "conceited" as Mr. Hearne asks, it is a good time to shake it off. It is a burden that does not mix with civic pride and development until we attain the heights of achievement when we can well afford to swell up and get "chesty."

Just now there is no reason for any such presumption.

Mr. Hearne also realizes the need of "new blood to join us in our land of promise." That is a pressing requirement. It would be puerile to think that we know everything about agricultural development. We do not, for the patent reason, our people have not given proper attention to the possibilities of the poultry and live stock industries and general diversified farming. There is reasonable excuse for this, they have been too busy raising two staple crops. They need education and demonstration of what can be attained along scientific lines at small investment, no additional work, but with a year-round money turnover.

In the hope that something definite will come out of the expressions of opinion and desire to start and do something of county wide good, the suggestion is offered that the men who are deeply interested will get together, take up any one of the projects proposed and force it through to culmination.

Pitt County will then have started its belated chance as a leading center of production upon a solid foundation of permanence.

CLEAN NEWSPAPERS

A prominent newspaper publisher of the middle west, addressing an editorial meeting the other day said:

"I believe there is a growing tendency towards cleaner newspapers. There has been a vast improvement in the advertising columns of most papers. Extravagant and untruthful statements are giving place to intelligent and honest methods for the securing of buyers, whether of advertising space or copies of newspapers themselves."

There is not the slightest question but that advertisers are becoming more keen about the company they keep and insist that the value of their advertising shall not be lessened because of proximity to unclean and untruthful reading matter.

The day of yellow sensational journalism is rapidly passing, and every day its readers become fewer. All business institutions are adopting better methods of doing business, and the newspaper is no exception to the rule.

NEW SCHOOL PLAN OF EDUCATOR

Will boys and girls in the near future go to school seven hours a day, 52 weeks in the year?

Some educators have advanced the idea that such a plan will be required if the present pressure existing in some places of out-of-school activities continues to increase.

In this connection says a member of the board of education of the national capital: "The social activities engaged in by the high school pupils, while a source of interference to their studies, are a part of the present day order of things. The pupils of today have distractions unknown to a generation ago."

"The condition must be met by having the schools readjust themselves to meet the situation. Our junior high schools in the immediate future will have extra hour days when the pupils will have supervised study hours. This will permit them to do their home work before they leave the school—before they are distracted."

If the prophesy of this educator comes true, within a decade or so the schools will be operating on a year-round basis. In this way they will be divided into four quarters. A pupil missing the second or third quarter because of illness can take that quarter in the fourth. Under the plan a pupil at that time will be permitted to select any three quarters in which to pursue the desired course. In this way, it is declared, the pupil taking all four quarters will finish more quickly.

It is admitted that the system of education has undergone a complete revolution in the last 10 years. In the circumstances, it is possible, that the application of the suggested revision in instruction may be necessary to meet the exigencies of a constantly changing situation.

WOMEN WORK WITH MEN FOR GOOD

While women may well be proud of their accomplishment, at the same time they realize the advantages of contact with the man's point of view. Broad-minded men have freely and generously acknowledged their debt to woman's distinctive perceptions. In virtually every instance, women feel the desirability of looking at a subject from all sides, and this can only be done when the essentially masculine standpoint is presented on an equal footing with feminine, so far as public affairs go.

Neither need fear the dominance of the other. Men and women should come together for discussion of those things that mean community good on an equal plane. The benefit comes from contact, from exchange of views, from the united will of men and women to gain information and to improve conditions.

Even now, women have not fully awakened as a class to the realization that, as citizens, they owe exactly as much to their country, to their community as men do. The old, shirking question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" is still applied by many to their surroundings outside the home.

Women will soon come to know that there is no escaping the wider responsibility, and there is no escaping the reward of duty fulfilled.

ROMANTIC AND NOVEL IS FILM "DRUMS OF FATE"

Mary Miles Minter Featured in Big Story of Great African Jungle
Something refreshing and novel in the way of romance is promised in "Drums of Fate," Paramount's new offering, featuring Mary Miles Minter, supported by George Fawcett, Robert Cain, Bertram Grassby and Maurice Fyfe, which will be the feature at White's theatre Wednesday night.

The situation concerns a girl and a man, who fall in love with each other's photograph two years prior to their meeting and during those two years this psychic romance grows until they are introduced when the culmination of their romance in marriage is a natural result.

The story continues with the romance and adventures of Teck, the explorer and Carol, the girl. Teck, after the marriage, is called away to Africa and soon afterwards the girl receives a cablegram that he has been killed. Stunned with grief, she tours Europe to forget and finally, at the insistence of her guardian, Brantome, returns home and sacrifices her future to marry David Verne, a crippled young composer and protégé of her guardian.

Teck, who has not been killed, finally escapes from his jungle prison and returns, finds Carol married to Verne and after a short interview thinking her faithless returns to Africa. Hamoud, Teck's servant, reveals to David the facts of Teck's return and David soon dies.

Carol sets out for Africa to find Teck, and equipping a safari, plunges into the vast African jungles, braving the dangers of the savage Mambava tribes. The Mambava attack the safari, put the natives to rout, kill Hamoud and capture Carol. Teck is friendly with the Mambava king and with him is Cornelius Rysbroek, a suitor of Carol's who has grown to hate Teck since his marriage to Carol. Teck and Rysbroek quarrel and Rysbroek decides to kill Teck. When Carol is led into the jungle clearing she sees the body of a dead man covered with a tarpaulin and in accordance with a prophecy of the mystic Hamoud that she would find one who loved her dead in the clearing, she thinks the body that of Teck.

The surprise comes when she uncovers the body and finds it is that of Rysbroek. A native explains to the chieftain that he had seen Rysbroek about to murder Teck and had killed Rysbroek. Thus, at last, the lovers are reunited and their vicissitudes at an end.

Beautiful Star Has Delightful Role in Latest Picture "Adam and Eva."

Said to be one of the most delightful pictures in which Marion Davies, beautiful Cosmopolitan star in Paramount pictures, has ever appeared is "Adam and Eva," which comes to the White theatre next Thursday. Its scenes range from the fashionable home of a capitalist, to a farm where much of the action finally develops. "Adam and Eva," adapted for the screen from the famous stage comedy by Guy Bolton and George Middleton was directed by Robert G. Vignola, creator of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," also starring Miss Davies. In support of Miss Davies is an excellent cast, including such well-known players as T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, William Morris, Percy Ames, Leon Gordon, Luella Gear, William Davidson, and Edward Douglas.

One of the most striking and beautiful scenes ever filmed is the Venetian carnival scene in "Adam and Eva." This scene brings into play all the atmosphere of Venice, including a festival barge, a fleet of six gondolas and a Venetian canal. The carnival scene was taken at the beautiful Laddin's Rock Farm, near Stamford, Conn., where the opening scenes of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" were filmed. Its construction cost more than $40,000. During the "shooting" of this scene, Miss Davies and her supporting players worked four "days" from sunset to sunrise, this particular action of the picture calling for nothing but night scenes.

FLEET BURTON'S RHEUMATISM IS GONE

West Virginian Ascribes His Recovery to Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup

When a man has suffered such agonies from rheumatism that he was hardly able to get about and, after many disappointments, at last finds a remedy that puts him on his feet sound and well, it is only natural that he should want to tell other sufferers about his good fortune.

This is the way Mr. Fleet Burton, who lives in Bowles, W. Va., felt as he made the following statement:

"I was about down with rheumatism, and had been for over a year; was under treatment but got no better and decided to go away to see a specialist, when my friends here got me to try Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup before going to the expense of a trip.

"I did so with wonderful results. My improvement began at once and I soon saw it would be unnecessary for me to take the trip, as I was getting along fine. This preparation just knocked the rheumatism out of my system and put me on my feet well and sound and I am now able to work every day.

To those who may be afflicted with that awful and painful affliction I would say, try Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, for I believe it will do the work."

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by leading druggists in

BAPTISTS DEFEAT METHODISTS 4-3, IN SNAPPY GAME

Finish in Proposed City League Series Proves Great Surprise

The first baseball game to be played in the proposed City League was staged yesterday at the Fair Grounds park between the teams of the Methodist and Memorial Baptist churches in which the latter were winners 4 to 3.

Probably some had predicted a ragged and uninteresting contest, but the usual mid-air stunts in which amateurs do summersault acts, and other like comical feats were absent, but a fast, interesting honest-to-goodness nine innings was the result. Possibly the most serious mishap of the day was when Charlie Smith in his efforts to give a Ty Cobb slide at second tore his trousers to the extent that it was necessary for him to retire from the game.

There were several unexpected features connected with the game. For instance June Rose batted a thousand out of four trips to the plate, but because of his over anxious desire to score he was caught between the paths when he attempted to steal a base or two.

Four innings were played before even a single was made off of the deliveries of Foley for the Methodist of Rawl or for the Baptist and it was not until the sixth frame that a runner was shoved across the rubber. The winners drew first blood when with three hits and a rotten error they scored their four and only counts. The losers reciprocated in the scoring by tallying twice in their half of the same inning, and then later in the contest they gained another and ended the run getting although the Methodist made desperate effort to tie the count in the pinch.

The Methodist more than doubled the number of hits secured by their opponents, but a majority of these came with no one on the paths.

Here is the result in detail:

PENDER COUNTY JAIL UNFIT FOR YELLOW DOG, JUDGE ASSERTS

Grand Jury Scores Jail As Menace, Prisoners Transferred

Results which are being obtained by investigation of the penal system of the State are shown in extracts from the report of the grand jury of Pender county at the May term of Superior court. Judge N. A. Sinclair presiding. Judge Sinclair is reported to have said that he did not consider the jail fit for a "yaller dog," and then to have amplified his statement by declaring the jail unfit for a "yaller suck-egg."

Extracts from the report of the grand jury follows:
"An examination of the jail at this term of court by the grand jury who examined it in abody and unanimously concur herein, find the jail to be structurally unsafe and dangerous; for the walls on the north and south ends and the east side are badly cracked in some instances, from the bottom to the top, and the walls both inside and outside show many signs of serious and effectual decay."

The jail on the interior is so badly decayed as to be a menace to the health of human beings; that neither of the three apartments are provided with any furniture whatever, the prisoners spending all of their time within a cage made of steel about ten or 12 feet square, the bottom of which is so badly decayed that in many places the bottom is entirely separated from the side; that the prisoners are sleeping upon the floor or bottom of the steel cage, with nothing to separate them from the cold iron of which the bottom is made except a dirty unsanitary common comfort.

There are not any water-works or sewerage connection with or in the jail; the prisoners being provided with buckets or tin cans for their use in answering a call of nature, and only removed from the cage once a day of 24 hours, all of which we find as a fact and declare that the jail is structurally dangerous and unsafe for habitation by any person who does not desire to commit suicide and is in such an unsanitary condition as to be a menace to any and all inmates.

"We recommend the immediate erection of a jail for the county and that no prisoners be placed in the building now being used as a jail and most respectfully demand that this part of our report receive immediate attention."

NEW YORK TENNIS CLUB ERECTS BIG CEMENT STADIUM

NEW YORK.—Out at Forest Hills, a suburb of New York, a monument to American progress, a tennis stadium is being erected. A massive concrete horseshoe stadium with a seating capacity of 13,000, permitting of enlargement to seats for 21,000, is taking form on the grounds of the West Side Tennis Club where some of the greatest of tennis battles have occurred.

On the turf courts within the rim of this horseshoe many of the tennis classics of the world will be held. As a result of its undertaking in erecting the stadium, the West Side Tennis Club has been granted the Davis Cup Challenge round this year, the Men's National Singles Championships from 1924 to 1928 and the Davis Cup Challenge Rounds or the Men's Doubles Championships from 1928 to 1932. This covers a 10-year period.

The National Women's Championship this fall will be the first important event in the stadium.

To the tennis idealist the stadium is an evolution, moving from the old wooden stands and clubhouse in another part of the grounds where thousands saw Maurice E. McLaughlin and Norman Brookes in their memorable Davis Cup match of 1914; saw the magnificent struggle between R. Norris Williams and William M. Johnston in 1916; and the dramatic five-set match between William T. Tilden and Johnston in 1920.

Throughout the length and breadth of the land tennis is the sport of sports; played by youngster and old folks, boys and girls, men and women. Its devotees are hundreds of thousands. Crowds at championship tournaments grow with the seasons. Open bleachers of small seating capacity no longer are adequate. Thus the West Side Stadium is keeping pace with tennis progress.

SAYS CHURCH NEEDS VARIETY OF TALENT

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—Dr. W. O. Thompson president of Ohio State University, Columbus, today reported to the Presbyterian General Assembly as chairman of the special committee to visit theological seminaries. His report read in part as follows:

"The church of the future will require a variety of service. To meet this variety of service a variety of talent will be in demand. Recognizing the differing tastes among both men and women and recognizing also the laudable desire to reach a definite status in one's life service, there is a sound basis for belief that talented men and women would be attracted to the service of the church provided a suitable provision is made for a satisfactory status, and an adequate provision for their maintenance in the service.

"The church in her modern situation faces an obligation of far-reaching importance in the fields of religious education and of social service. There is cumulative evidence that the responsible leadership of the church is fully conscious of this fact and of the need for wise action in formulating and carrying into effect a program which shall provide for the training of lay workers in a more adequate way than any hitherto attempted.

PRAISES FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW

WASHINGTON, May 22.—"After 50 years of social work, all our labors and statistics have not as yet secured for us even so obvious and elementary a protection as a Federal child labor law," said Miss Viola I. Paradise, formerly with the children's bureau Washington, in an address here today at the National Conference of Social Work on "Industry and the Home."

"The census shows that there are 1,060,858 child laborers in the United States, but, unfortunately quoting a figure seems to satisfy the nation for we do nothing about it," continued Miss Paradise. "To show in detail what lies behind a millionth part of that figure would require nearly a whole novel."

"It takes something hair-raising and shuddering to stir our sluggishness. What is more terrible than the slow grinding torture of poverty, the crushing of the spirit of childhood by child labor of which the figure 1,060,858 is the coefficient? But, that is just a statistic. No one says 'Why, look here what about this national superstition that the home and the family are sacred in America?'

BY DR. KILGORE OPERATION FOR DISCUSSED M CREDITS

By B. W. Kilgore.

There has lately been a great deal of beneficial discussion of farm credit, and Federal legislation has been enacted providing a larger volume of credit for the production and marketing of crops as well as the conditions for obtaining this credit. In considering the matter of farm credit the cost of this credit must not be lost sight of as it has been this "cost" as much, or more than the lack of volume of credit which has made it difficult for the farmer to make enough from his farming operations to make a living, and something additional for the purchase of a farm.

A survey made in 1921 of 800 farms in North Carolina by the State division of markets and the federal bureau of agricultural economics, representing the state and federal departments of agriculture and the State College of agriculture by F. R. Yoder, H. S. Beardsley and A. J. Honeycutt of these institutions, established the following facts regarding credit conditions on these farms and these may reasonably be taken to represent average conditions for farm credit in the state.

Summary of Facts.

More than half of all credit obtained for current expenses was advanced by stores and less than one-sixth by banks. Advances from landlords or tenants was almost equal to all short-term bank advances to farmers.

2. More than half of all credit obtained for long term purposes on land mortgage security came from individuals. Commercial banks furnished not quite one-fifth.

3. The average rate of interest charged for short term advances from banks was 6 per cent as compared with 26.6 per cent from stores. For mortgage loans the rate from banks was 6 per cent even as compared with 6.1 percent charged by individuals.

4. Collateral Required. Collateral was required for less than 5 per cent of the short term advances made by banks, whereas more than 4 per cent of the advances from stores were fully secured.

5. From the foregoing it is evident that farmers would profit by getting more of their credit from banks and paying their store bills with cash, if possible. Two means will be useful toward accomplishing this end:

(a) Farmers may form credit unions and get funds by co-operative effort as explained briefly in a bulletin prepared for this purpose.

(b) Both bankers and farmers can work toward a better contact. In this way bankers obtain a first hand knowledge of prospective borrowers which they often prefer to collateral security for loans, and which enables them better to know and to meet the farmer's needs.

6. More legumes and live-stock on the farm and the growing of food and feed crops will help in reducing the need for the more expensive merchant credit.

RALPH DUNBAR'S BELL RINGERS

It is doubtful if any musical feature has ever been presented to the American public which has won greater favor or obtained a wider following than that of musical bell-ringing.

The art was brought to America first in the forties, by the late P. T. Barnum. While touring England, he heard a group of a dozen church bell-ringers practicing upon hand bells and he conceived the idea of using a larger peal of bells and playing more elaborate music. These bells were made in England, as the world's best bells always have been; but in conformity with his unflinching originality as an advertiser he dressed the players, both men and women, in the costumes of Swiss peasants and called the company "The Swiss Bell Ringers." For many years this company toured the United States in wagons before railroads were at all general. The art at that time was so successful that our grandfathers recall most vividly the visit of "The Swiss Bell Ringers" to their native towns.

It seems that thereafter the art fell into disuse, and it was not really perfected or revived in any way until 1898, when Ralph Dunbar and his brother founded the famous Dunbar Bell Ringers, at St. Joseph, Mo. These brothers went to Europe, and, seeing the really artistic possibilities, they went to England and had made, under their personal supervision, a peal of 200 bells, which are undoubtedly the most complete and most perfect set of bells which were ever cast. These bells were made under their own personal supervision by the same bell founders that cast the great bells of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, as well as practically all of the well-known church bells of the world. The peal embraces more than five octaves chromatic, and through the middle register there are as many as six bells of the same note. The vogue of the Dunbar Bell Ringers is the most notable of any similar company which has appeared on the American concert platform. They gave more than 2800 concerts up to 1912, when both Harry and Ralph Dunbar resigned their places in the quartet to others. The company, up to then, had traveled 490,000 miles in America and Europe. The Dunbar brothers have collected hundreds of pages of newspaper material published regarding their tours, but the patrons of this Chautauqua system are sufficiently familiar with this widely known concert company to recall the marvelous musical effects which this quartet of players obtains from this splendid peal of bells.

It may be interesting to know that the largest of these bells weighs twenty-five pounds and measures sixteen inches in diameter. The size of those proceeding upward in the scale, diminishing until the tiny bells of the upper registers are reached. In selecting the repertoire due attention is paid to the selection of music which is really appropriate for bells. There is none of us but what has thought of the important place which bells play in our mental activities due to their association with so many epoch-making events in our lives. Perhaps no contributor to our literature has so vividly brought out this fanciful use of bells as has Edgar Allan Poe in his poem entitled "The Bells."

The feature which characterizes the programs of the Dunbar Quartet is the absolute blending of these programs into the complete whole. There is a consistency in these programs which have distinguished them among all Chautauqua attractions of the last double decade. No feature will be remembered longer than the beautiful chimes and harmonies which are introduced in their sacred selections.

Publicity for Philippines.

MANILA.—Jaime C. de Veyra, former resident Philippine commissioner at Washington, recommends an intensive publicity campaign in the United States in favor of Philippine independence. Advertised Coods Reach You Withot Lost Motion

A big part of the cost of living today may be charged to lost motion, slow, slipshod distribution of goods, and to old-style, wasteful selling methods.

For example, every year tons of fruit and vegetables rot on the ground, because it doesn't pay pick them. Discouraged growers plant less the next season, and the supply of food reduced. Meanwhile, consumers in the cities near by grumble over high prices. Demand and supply are not brought together.

Contrast this with the handling of oranges. $1,-000,000 a year is spent for advertising by the co-operative association of the California Fruit Growers. A large sum; yet it is only about one-fifth of a cent per dozen—one-sixtieth of a cent for each orange sold.

And this advertising has kept down the cost of oranges. To quote an official of the Exchange: "The cost of selling oranges and lemons through the California Fruit Growers' Exchange is lower today than it was ten years ago.

"In the twelve years since the first campaign was launched the consumption of California oranges has doubled. The American consumer has been taught by co-operative advertising to eat nearly twice as many oranges as before.

"Had the orange industry remained on the old basis, there would have been no profit in growing oranges. New acreage would not have been planted. Old orchards would most surely have been uprooted and other crops planted."

Advertising, properly done, saves money for the consumer and makes money for the producer by driving out wasteful methods; increasing volume and cutting down the cost of selling and distribution.

NEW YORK LETTER

By LUCY JEANNE PRICE

NEW YORK.—When Judge Harold I. Smith, a New York ship news reporter, sailed for Europe the other day, it was his first trip, although he had traveled 60,000 miles on the Atlantic ocean. These 60,000 miles had been taken up entirely by his trips out to Ambrose light, where the newspaper men meet the incoming liners, an back again to the pier. So accustomed was Judge Smith to rushing off the ship at the cry of "All ashore," that he joined his fellow workers and started down the gangplank as his ship was about to start the other day. Suddenly he recalled that his wife and baggage were aboard the steamer and he got back just in time.

The spotlight has been turned upon youth and childhood in this past year and reams are being written and spoken for and against all sorts of new ideas in education and discipline. Of course it is a good thing, but sometimes I have wondered if grown-ups were taking their own obligations to those children quite as seriously as they were worrying about youth's obligation to life. I have been impressed with a creed hanging on the walls of the home of the John Martin Book for children, which speaks for those grown-ups in behalf of the children. It says: "To be pure but merry, wise but not priggish. To be happy and to diffuse happiness; to teach without preaching and guide without coercion. To credit the children with the qualities of humor, imagination and divination. To provide the best that the heart and mind can give without affection or patronizing sentimentality. To be to the child a perfectly natural friend who loves and understands him. To work blithely and to play joyously, to live hopefully and helpfully; and to love all childhood in spirit and sincerity. Finally, never to lose sight of its aim to influence the formation of the manners, tastes, and ideals of our future Men and Women."

Mrs. Emanuel Van Demoot believes in giving one's heart and service to the poor as well as contributions of money. Therefore she has become a trained lawyer and has just been admitted to the bar; for the sole purpose of giving legal services to the needy. Her husband is a prominent attorney here, and she has gone into partnership with him.

No one is much closer to the sentimental events of life than is the florist. But I never realized until recently how valuable a place they really had in those events. It seems that the florists of New York, and maybe elsewhere, keep elaborate date books, in which are recorded the birthday and wedding anniversaries of the wives and sweethearts of all of their men customers, so far as they can discover them. And that is fairly easy because most men are so proud of remembering such an occasion that when they go in to buy flowers for it they tell the florist all about it. He jots it down and the next year a few days ahead of time, writes the customer a note reminding him of the approach of the day. That's service! And it pays mighty well.

Chapel Hill to Get Noted Music Teacher

CHAPEL HILL, May 30. — Miss Hazel Gertrude Kinsella, one of the greatest music teachers in the United States, is coming to the University summer school next month to demonstrate her piano teaching methods. She will be here two weeks, from June 18 to June 30.

Paul John Weaver, head of the department of music in the University, has been negotiating several months with Miss Kinsella in the effort to bring her here. Her busy schedule made the matter difficult. Other engagements she has for this summer are at the University of Michigan and at Cornell.

"This is great opportunity for the music teachers of the South," Mr. Mr. Weaver said today. "The registration for the course already includes many piano instructors from other states; some are coming from as far away as Alabama—and perhaps from still more distant places when the news of the engagement is more generally known."

Scientists to Meet

SYDNEY, N. S. W. — The Pan-Pacific Science Congress to be held at Melbourne and Sydney next August will be attended by many eminent scientists from all parts of the world. Dr. Merriam of the Carnegie Institute, Dr. Vaughan, the geologist, Dr. Evermann, the fisheries expert, Professor Stakman, the world authority on wheat breeding, and Professor Gregory, president of the first Pan-Pacific congress, will be present.

Farm Labor for France. PRAGUE. — Czech-Slovakia will send this summer 15,000 field laborers to work on French farms.

WAREHOUSEMEN TO FLOOD PROTECTION REVISE OLD SYSTEM FOR OHIO FINISHED

HENDERSON, May 30.—Although no Henderson tobaccoist attended the meeting in Wilson last week of the tobacco warehousemen, it is learned here that a movement is on foot for the reorganization of the Virginia Carolina Warehousemen's Association, embracing towns of North Carolina and Virginia, which was allowed to die several years ago. Local warehousemen are in receipt of letters from former officers suggesting a meeting in Durham early in the summer for the purpose of reviving the old organization.

The feeling is that it is to the advantage of the warehousemen to keep in touch with each other, and to know and discuss one another's problems in the trade, and for that reason the desire has arisen for a revival and a continuation of the old organization. No date for the proposed meeting in Durham has been fixed, but it is expected to be in the near future.

REACH AGREEMENT ON COTTON EXPORT

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Agreement has been reached between a group of leading cotton exporters and the Secretary of Agriculture on an arrangement for conducting the cotton export trade under the new cotton standards act which becomes effective Aug. 1, requiring use of the official of cotton standards of the United States in all transactions based on standards in interstate and foreign commerce.

The exporters representing the larger cotton exchanges of the country, unanimously approved the desirability of world-wide agreement upon uniform cotton standards and endorsed the present official standards as satisfactory to the American cotton trade.

The cotton exporters have felt some uneasiness over the requirements of the new act and Secretary Wallace invited them to Washington in an endeavor to smooth out any difficulties before regulations for its enforcement were put into effect. American exporters, therefore, felt it was necessary during the coming crop season and after the new act becomes effective to define the United States standards in terms of their equivalents in Liverpool and other recognized foreign standards, and Secretary Wallace agreed to the practice for a reasonable period of transition, not beyond the coming crop year, in order to facilitate compliance with the new law, assuming that the Liverpool and other foreign associations would promptly agree upon universal standards.

Secretary Davis Sees Great Prosperity Era

SHARON, Pa., May 30.—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, in address to high school graduates here today, sees a great era of prosperity ahead for the United States and that the opportunities for young men in every line of endeavor were never so promising.

He said in part: "There are greater opportunities in America today than ever before in the nation's history. The great business of America are looking for young people who can do things and assume responsibility. Don't blame the world if you are unable to make the grade the first time. Examine yourself on a friendly way—find your weak spots—make the necessary repairs—reinforce your strength—then start out again determined to make it. From experience I know that toil and struggle are sweet and that life well lived is victory, that real happiness is work and plenty of it."

DAYTON.—During March, 1913, the Miami river and its tributaries, which form a network of placid streams during normal times, overflowed their banks because of heavy, continuous rains, and before they receded had taken a toll of more than 400 lives and caused property damage in excess of $100,000,000 throughout the valley.

With the picture of the community's greatest disaster still before them, citizens of Dayton, the largest city of the valley, started a movement to make its recurrence impossible, and today, ten years later, the work has just been completed and there stretches up and down the valley for a distance of more than 80 miles, what is declared to be the greatest flood prevention system in the world.

Apparently unsurmountable difficulties meant nothing to those who saw visions of a valley free from the scourge of another flood. Trunk line railroads, highways established a century ago, productive agricultural lands and even a village, all were swept from the path of the project which has cost $32,000,000.

In all, 56 miles of railroad track-ages were moved to higher ground. miles of highways re-located, thousands of acres of farm lands purchased, and the village of Osborn, with almost all of its houses and its 1,100 citizens, was snatched up bodily and transported a mile and a half to a new site.

All of these gave way before the system of mammoth dams retaining walls and new channels for the streams, a project which natives of the community like to compare with the Panama Canal in importance as an engineering feat.

Two phases make up the project—one of these is the increasing of the capacity of the streams to the utmost to handle the flood waters, and the other provides for the retaining of the surplus which cannot be carried by the watercourses until they again approach normal levels.

French Pilots Experts In Navigating Rhine

BINGEN-ON-THE-RHINE.—Prospective pilots in blue from the Seine have taken the romance out of certain German fairy stories of the middle ages, and shattered legends of the Rhine which have stood for many centuries. The mysterious currents of the Lorelei, famed in song and story, and in Germany as well known almost as Old Father Rhine himself, have been conquered by the French without a struggle.

When the French and Belgian occupation of the Ruhr began scores of grizzled German boatmen who steered powerful tugs and trailing barges through the treacherous channels which swirl about the great rock Lorelei, quit their jobs at once as part of Berlin's passive resistance.
