

People of smaller communities look to their local newspapers for news of essentially local color. For the news of the world they read the metropolitan publications. The service of small daily paper can be just as good and effective as the public are inclined to make it by cooperation.

The many little community happenings, events, and items of personal interest are passed unnoticed for the reason, individuals fail to furnish a "tip" which developed, would prove of concern to a great many people. Pitt Countians are all interested in each other, they want to know what is going on among the people with whom they are familiar. Rural residents want to know what is going on in the towns of the county just as much as the people of the towns want to know what our rural neighbors are doing.

It is the purpose of The Reflector to extend its best efforts to realize that end. BUT IT CANNOT BE DONE SINGLE HANDED. Before you pass out criticism give us a helping hand. What the average person regards of no news value, IS NEWS VALUE TO SOMEBODY. REMEMBER THAT the next time you observe or hear of some little incident, phone us, we'll do the rest.

The Reflector in its determination to keep just a length in advance of our spirit of progress will be glad to have meetings or other affairs, events, etc., covered by a staff representative. It's up to you, citizens of Pitt County, to aid us in giving the best value in local newspaper product in Eastern Carolina. Bear in mind there is hardly a thing so unimportant that does not hold interest for some class of persons.

A newspaper should function in constructive informative leadership. WE WANT TO LEAD IN THAT SPHERE OF SERVICE.

NURSE STRANGLED BY FILIPINO; SHE REJECTS HIS LOVE

Attempting to Dump the Body Into River When He Was Arrested

NEW YORK, June 9.—Eluigo Lozade, Filipino butler for Dr. G. W. McAuliffe, confessed here today police say, that he strangled his fiancée, Miss Blossom Seeley Martin, who was employed by the doctor as nurse.

He admitted, according to police, he had taken the body, wrapped in green portieres to Elizabethport, Staten Island, 18 miles from here where he was attempting to dump it from a ferry boat at the harbor, when a police arrested him.

Although Lozade, declines to state the reason that prompted him to kill Miss Martin, it is believed the murder was caused when the nurse broke her engagement with him.

Jackie Coogan Gives Marvelous Portrayal of Noted Oliver Twist

The world's acknowledged dramatic and screen critics all agree that the production of Dickens' immortal story Oliver Twist was never given such interpretation as Jackie Coogan, the child wonder artist does. In the character of Oliver he will make you roar with mirth one second only to turn one into tears the next. It is a masterpiece production. Lon Chaney, premier character actor, is cast in the part of Fagin, the educator of thieves.

Oliver Twist will be shown at the Strand theater for two days beginning next Monday, including the usual matinees.

Manager Charles Adams, of the Strand, announced today that the theater starting tonight would be operated on a standard scale of admission, charges of 10 and 25 cents. There will be no deviation of the new prices, regardless of the supremacy of the program, he declared.

Mrs. Danner accompanied the officers and her husband has been lodged in jail, pending further investigation.

Sweeden's Paper Money Is Worth More Than Gold

STOCKHOLM.—When the dollar began to rise in London recently, the Swedish State Bank continued to sell dollars in order to keep the Swedish crown on par with the American currency, but the dollar went up to 3.755 from 3.74. The State Bank at the beginning of this year had a portfolio of foreign currency amounting to 160 million crowns but this has now been reduced to 63 million.

Near East Relief Makes Appeal For Cast-off Garments

Clothing for Near East Relief will be received in the state warehouse at Raleigh up to June 15 and those that have discarded garments for this cause are asked to make shipment direct to Raleigh or send to the local committee, in a statement just issued by W. H. Woolard, chairman for Pitt county.

Woolard pointed out that when the regular campaign was held the weather was abnormally cool and very few had discarded their winter garments for this year. As warm weather has settled on us, Mr. Woolard asks that all discarded winter garments be sent to this Christian relief work.

The unfortunate sufferers in the Bible lands, he declared, have nothing but burlap bags and sacks, aside from what America sends them, so thorough is the work of destruction by the Turks, wrought by a religious hatred for all things Christian and a German training of "Schrecklichkeit." These articles will cover the nakedness in summer but are entirely inadequate for an Armenian winter, which closely approximates that of our own New England states.

This clothing can be shipped by parcel post to the Near East Relief clothing warehouse at Raleigh or turned over to Mr. Woolard. From Raleigh it is sent to the overseas warehouse at New York and from there shipped abroad after being disinfected, cleaned and sorted. The clothing which North Carolinians send now will be used next winter to save human lives.

FOREST FIRES COST PITT OVER $10,000

Report on forest fires in North Carolina for 1922, in most counties based chiefly on information from voluntary correspondents, has recently been made public by the geological and economic survey. The nature of the report, sent in precludes the possibility of any great accuracy, but the results are at least conservative. They show a total for the state of 1227 fires which burned 190,737 acres and caused a damage of $642,442.80.

Reports from Pitt county show that in 1922 this county had 11 forest fires which burned over 1700 acres and caused an estimated damage of $10,650. Usually only the larger fires are noticed, and it is more than likely that the numerous small fires in the county did as much damage as the fires mentioned in this report. Only seven of the 13 townships in Pitt reported on forest fires during 1922. Farmville township eight fires, Chicod two fires, and Bethel one fire. Five of the fires resulted from careless brush burning. Pitt county has taken no steps towards preventing the great annual loss from forest fires. It is believed that before long it will be co-operating in this work with the State geological and economic survey.

Almost unbelievable is the story of the rise to success of Mrs. Mary Ranty Schwab, of San Francisco. Once a tiny, ragged news girl, helping a large family to eke out an uncertain living, she has progressed to the position of Assistant Attorney in the Coast municipality. All during the years she labored—as a news-girl, sales-girl, factory-hand and stenographer—she studied, educating herself finally to the point at which she won admittance to the bar. Her success since then has occasioned admiring comment.

KIMBALL BROS. WIN SUIT AGAINST CO-OP

Warrenton, N. C. June 9.—The closing days of the Warren County Superior Court were taken up with the case of W. W. and J. A. Kimball against the Tobacco Cooperative Marketing Association.

It was claimed by Messrs. Kimball that their contract with the association only embraced their individual crops, and not the share in the crops of their tenants.

The contract was in evidence, but it was alleged by Messrs. Kimball that the written clause exempting their share in their tenants crop was not the clause as presented to them for signature at the time of the agreement, and that the clause as signed had been changed. This was denied by Morrell and Mr. Hecht of Norlina, who were present at the agreement and the signature. Both stated that it was the original and identical writing signed by Jake Kimball in the field and signed later by Bill Kimball at home.

The jury after an hour deliberation said it was not the agreement.

Under the judgment assigned the contract must be surrendered in the court and cancelled. To this judgment the Association, through Majoy Joyner of Raleigh and B. B. Williams of Warrenton, its counsel, took an appeal to the Supreme court.

Polk and Polk of Warrenton and T. T. Hicks of Henderson were counsel for Messrs. Kimball.

Under the request of counsel for Kimball a special venire of citizens who were not affiliated with the cooperative association was ordered, and the jury was composed exclusively of citizens who were not members of the association.

Curb Market Made Record Sales Today

Today was the biggest day that the curb market has had since establishment a few weeks ago. There was a plentiful supply of varied country produce and everything was quickly sold. Milk fed chickens appeared to have a lively call, while eggs packed in attractive cartons were in demand. In fact everything went well, and buyers were out early in force.

NEW METHODS TO FIGHT BOLL WEEVIL

RALEIGH, June 9.—Bringing its recommendations right up to the present and including letters from farmers about their experiences with the boll weevil as well as the results of last year's work in dusting cotton with calcium arsenate, the agricultural extension service of the state college and state department of agriculture has just released a circular by Franklin Sherman. This circular comprises 22 pages of practical and scientific information written in every day language and easily understood. It gives the advantages and disadvantages of dusting, explains the method and describes the machinery to use.

In presenting the circular to the farmers of North Carolina, it is believed that it has fully covered most of those points that should receive attention in the control of the weevil. The circular is written from the viewpoint of the insect alone and does not combine the recommendations about livestock and other crops. Neither does it take in cultural methods, fertilization and other factors involved in producing a good crop of cotton. It only covers the "protection" of such cotton as is produced.

The circular has now been received from the printer in an edition of 15,000 and will be sent to farmers on request as long as the supply lasts. County agents will also be supplied with copies.

Necessity of organized effort to combat the invasion of the boll weevil, and determination to promote the livestock industry, and diversified farming in general was voiced by members of the Pitt County Bankers' association which met last night in the Wayside Tea Room, not only to enjoy a sumptuous banquet but to discuss the problems that confront the farmer, business man and banker today.

Representatives from Winterville, Ayden, Grifton, Farmville, Bethel and Greenville comprised the gathering. In formal talks were made and suggestions offered by practically every member covering some of the more economic questions that demand immediate action.

J. L. Little, president of the organization presided. He made a happy talk in which he compared the methods of banking 30 years ago and the present. He told numerous incidents of the business of former times that provoked laughter among the younger bankers. Mr. Little, sounded a high light of optimism when he expected to see next fall a good acreage of land devoted to pasture, which he pointed out, was the key-stone to the development of better livestock, and the bankers were going to help.

One of the strongest, most forcible and convincing talks was made by F. J. Forbes. He struck a popular chord of response when he brought out by facts and figures the great permanent and growing benefits that other communities were receiving thru the direct channel of scientific farming. The necessity for farmers and bankers to co-operate in bringing out similar results in Pitt county was stressed. His address made a deep impress upon the gathering and showed research and study. (The text of Mr. Forbes' address will be run in installments in The Reflector.)

Light Weevil, He Urged.
J. R. Turnage, Ayden, told the bankers, that since the boll weevil was here it was high time that active measures be undertaken to halt its invasion. Speaking along the same lines W. R. Willis, Farmville, agreed with Mr. Turnage, with the result that bankers and business men of the county will ask their customers to use some standard brand of poison on cotton wherever the weevil makes its appearance. In this way, it was suggested, a spirit of co-operation would be welded which might at least hold down the inroads of the pests, if not altogether exterminate it.

Dr. Dawson Doesn't Care
Prolonged mirth followed the remarks of Dr. W. W. Dawson, Grifton, when he said he had a few acres planted in cotton, and he would not worry if the weevil ate it all. He was going into the business of raising foodstuffs that the pest had no special appetite for.

That thinking persons are looking to the future was expressed by G. W. Prescott, Ayden, who came out in a flat declaration for diversified farming and to do it now. He fully agreed that the weevil should be fought, but the crop was in the ground, but the potential and great success of Pitt county was to be found in feeding ourselves first, then the weevil.

N. G. Bartlett, secretary East Carolina Chamber of Commerce, reviewed at length some of the trials the people of Georgia had overcome in fighting the ravages of the weevil. One of the best remedies, he said, was the reduction of acreage. He gave the ex-

AN UNNECESSARY HARDSHIP

A phase of our immigration problem which merits more attention than it gets is the hardship worked upon hopeful men and women who leave their foreign homes and come to America, hoping for the blessings of freedom and franchise, only to be turned back at the port of entry because of quota restrictions or inability to pass the mental, moral, and physical tests which our wise laws impose.

Various plans have been proposed to mitigate the troubles of such unfortunates. One such plan proposes American inspectors at ports of embarkation, who would examine all would-be immigrants and admit or reject abroad rather than here. The plan is open to several objections, such as the animosity of foreign governments to a selective process on their own shores which would keep at home undesirable and send to us only desirable citizens; also the difficulty of maintaining an intelligent and high moral force of inspectors abroad at any rates of pay which the immigration service could expect to obtain from Congress.

Another plan is the proposal to make the steamship companies responsible and fine every ship a thousand dollars for every immigrant brought over who has to be turned back. The plan looks attractive, but seems somewhat on a par with fining a railroad company if it transports a criminal from one town to another, and has so many legal difficulties that it hardly seems possible it will be attempted.

Whatever the answer, it obviously cannot be that of the sentimentalist who craves the admission of any given "pitiful case" in spite of the law. Our first duty is to our own country, not the unfortunate victim of a dreaded disease who has a human desire to join his family, regardless of the health of others.

But it would seem that with all the ingenuity for which Americans are famous, some plan might be devised which would greatly reduce, if it did not completely eliminate, the number of aliens who make the passage over here only to be told for one or another perfectly valid reason that they must go back again.

As soon as some fellows get a private office where they can loaf without being seen they begin to rave about the man whom they say is limiting production.

CAKLE OF AMERICAN HEN

The cackle of the American hen reverberates throughout the entire world and with constantly increasing intensity. The total number of eggs sent out of continental United States in the fiscal year which ends with June, 1923, will approximate a half billion with a value of approximately $12,000,000, and will show a larger total than in any preceding year with the possible exception of one of the war years, when demands from Europe were exceptionally heavy and especially for the class of foods convenient for use in camps and on the battlefields. The present high record of exports, however, is in response to normal calls from all parts of the world.

Figures indicate that the growth in the exportation of this factor of our food supply has been exceptionally rapid in recent years. In the year preceding the war, the total exports of eggs were 17 1-2 million dozen with a value of $3,308,000, while that of the fiscal year 1923 will be approximately 39,000,000 dozen, and if we include those sent to our own colonies but not included as "exports" the number will exceed 40 million dozen, or 480 million eggs passing out of continental United States in the natural form. Add to this $100,000 worth going under the classification "eggs and yokes frozen, dried or canned" and it is quite apparent that the total distribution from our ports in the year which ends June, 1923, will be fully a half billion in number with a value of fully $12,000,000. The value of the eggs sent out of the United States in the last decade is nearly $100,000,000 as against about $20,000,000 in the decade preceding the war.

PROMOTING RURAL EDUCATION

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has just issued its sixth pamphlet in connection with its education service, entitled "The Rural School and the Chamber of Commerce."

The publication of the monograph is in line with the purpose of the Education Service which is "to help in securing for all children in America a common school education at least, under competent teachers and in a wholesome environment, so that youth may receive not only mental training, but guidance in character building and instruction as to the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizens."

Suggestion to Chamber of Commerce—Say it with action, IF YOU CAN.

Oh, what is so rare as a full day's work in June?

Our idea of a hard-boiled gent is an eligible bachelor who can successfully resist the sales efforts of a hundred attractive women.

At bottom, every man feels that he belongs on a farm—that he is just enjoying a leave of absence.

What's to be done with the ginks who have been waiting for the first warm days, to spring the age-old question, "Is it hot enough for you?"

There is one thing to be said in favor of long skirts, they cover a multitude of shins.

Heard at the opening of the Country Club: Wife—What would you think if I bought a new hat? Husband—The same as you would if I bought a new golf club.

SECRETARY WEEKS TESTS NEW SOUND-PROJECTOR

The U. S. transport "Grant," which is carrying Secretary Weeks and his party of Senators and Representatives to the far Pacific Coast, is the first transport to be equipped with a Western Electric system of voice amplifiers, in addition to its radio equipment. During the evenings, all on board may listen in to the broadcast concerts, through loud-speaking sound projectors located in all parts of the ship, even in the staterooms. By throwing a switch, the concerts of the ship's own orchestra may be heard not only by the cabin passengers, but by the thousand and more soldiers on board. At other times, the system may be used to page the ship's personnel or the passengers. The amplifying apparatus installed on the transport also serves in another way. Should, for instance, Secretary Weeks, aboard the Grant, wish to speak to an assemblage on the pier, at the ports where the transport pulls in, he can do so easily without raising his voice above a conversational tone. This can be easily accomplished by placing a microphone in a convenient position on deck and connecting it to the vacuum-tube amplifier whence through a sound projector suspended over the fall the Secretary's voice can be distributed uniformly over the area it is desired to cover. It is quite probable that similar public address systems will be installed on all transports.

Champions Live Stock.
Purebred livestock found another able champion in G. T. Gardner, Grifton. He has a foundation herd of registered Hampshire hogs, and is well satisfied that Pitt county offers a profitable field for better swine breeding.

W. H. Woolard, offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted praising the work of the County Commissioners and the members of Highway Commission, under whose constructive administration great and permanent throughout the county was being done.

Trained Employees Urged.
It was suggested by J. H. Waldrop, that it might be wise and profitable move if the officers and employees of all the banks of this county form a chapter to take the course in banking offered by the American Institute of Banking. The matter was referred to a committee of investigation and report.

Those in attendance included: J. L. Little, J. H. Waldrop, W. H. Woolard, F. J. Forbes, Secretary H. L. Smith, all of Greenville; J. A. Staton, Bethel; Dr. W. W. Dawson, Grifton; G. W. Prescott, Ayden; S. C. Ives, Bethel; D. E. Oglesby, Farmville; Dr. C. M. Jones, Grimesland; Fred Jones, Grimesland; G. T. Gardner, Grifton; J. L. Rollins, Winterville; W. R. Willis, Farmville; N. G. Bartlett, Kinston.

Relations Between Farmer and Banker

My talk on the work of the bank would not be complete unless it included the Relationship of Farmer and Banker. Yet no one would claim that all banks and all farmers are actively linked together. City banks, though lacking personal contact with the farmer, are giving much thought and attention to the work of developing our farm resources.

Farmers are realizing more and more this genuine interests in their welfare. One of the most important commissions of the American Bankers Association is the Agricultural Commission. Much good must come from the co-operation of the bankers who take a real interest in rural welfare movements and of farmers who likewise are interested in all projects for the betterment of farm life.

Awaking to Our Opportunities.
Only within the last few decades has the truth been brought home to bankers, to farmers, and to people in general that the nation's greatest single business opportunity is the improvement of our farm methods and resources. Agricultural schools in the important agricultural states have done much to show how larger returns are to be had from soil cultivation—facts, which once demonstrated and understood, are bringing great profit to the farmer. So many fine results have followed the use of new methods on the farm, that no one longer doubts their value.

We all realize that even our best farming sections can be made to yield greater profits through more scientific knowledge and handling. Bankers everywhere are striving to do what they can to help farmers in their localities. They are trying to loan them money they require, and what is even more important they are studying the farmers' problems, and are taking an active part in all movements for the benefit of the farming community.

Banks, Chamber of Commerce.
Out of the greater interest that has been developed in rural life in many farming sections, Chambers of Commerce have been the instruments in making possible the county farm agent. Banks have been willing to help, and a great many of them contribute to the support of the county farm agent. Bankers are working hand in hand with the Chamber of Commerce and county agent for the good of the entire community, and are helping to direct the farmer and his family, from the more or less narrow habits of former days, into the broader, more scientific, and more satisfactory methods prevailing at the present time. The banker may justly claim that he has with great effectiveness favored and supported the work of the Chamber of Commerce and county agent.

This other equipment will be moved from here to Burlington where another tent will be set up on Monday.

The superintendent this year will be Mr. Willoughby. The Junior leader will be Miss Mar Kate Boyd. She will be assisted by Miss Gladys Roberts. These members of the staff are expected to arrive some time today.

FIELD DAY AT SAMARCAND MANOR ON JUNE 14TH

The following letter has been received by the Supt. Public Welfare from Miss Agnes B. MacNaughton, Supt. Samarcand Manor: "The Third Annual Field Day is to be June 14th. We would be pleased to have you come and bring your friends. Please ask mayor, judges, lawyers and club women—no children."

As many people know this is the state school for delinquent white girls and this Field Day is one of the greatest occasions of the year. It will be an inspiration to public officials to visit this place at this time. Pitt county has a number of girls there who are getting along splendidly and reports show they are making good. From those who have visited this school we hear a remark like this: "The state is making an investment in its human wreckage."

MISS EDITH FORNES WINS BEAUTIFUL DOLL

Miss Edith Fornes, aged 10 years, was given the beautiful doll in Blount Harvey's window for making the best doll dress. The above named firm made the offer several days ago stating that the doll would be given to the little girl making the best doll dress. Edith's dress was beautifully made with all the seams felled and with the other finishing touches which go to make a garment look well made. Several other dresses showed careful work and the judges found it rather hard to decide which was the best. The age of the child was also taken into consideration which resulted in Miss Edith being awarded the doll.

Shanghai Building Slump In Evidence

SHANGHAI.—That Shanghai, despite hard times, continues to grow is to be gathered from the report that in 1922 new buildings to a value of 15,926,000 taels were erected. This marks a falling off, however, from the total of the preceding year of approximately five million taels. The report, issued by the Commissioner of Public Works, says 5,487 new structures were erected, of which 4,267 were Chinese houses and 84 were buildings for foreigners.

"It Pays to Swim with the Current"

This is about two spark plugs. At the moment they are lying on the sales manager's desk in the establishment of a large middle-western hardware jobber.

One spark plug bears a name known wherever automobiles are used, the other a name seldom heard.

Both, says the sales manager, are good plugs. On the score of quality they run neck and neck.

"But," he adds, "we are discontinuing this line"—and he holds up the plug of unfamiliar name. "Yes, and our discount on it is larger, too."

"What's wrong with it? Not a thing. It's a good plug—mighty good plug, but—no one knows about it. It isn't advertised—the other one is. The demand is for the advertised make. And we've learned it pays to swim with the current, not against it."

More and more jobbers in every line of business are learning every day that it pays to swim with the current of popular demand.

"Our job," said one jobber "is to supply markets, not create them. Let the manufacturer make a market for his goods and we will handle it."

Said another—"Our salesmen carry a catalog with thousands of items in it. They haven't the time to push unadvertised goods. Their work is principally taking orders."

If you go among these wholesalers today to introduce a new product in competition with merchandise nationally advertised, unless the article is exceptional, you will be met everywhere by the injunction: "First go out and get a reputation for your goods through advertising."

The wholesaler knows by actual contact with dealers how they value speed of turning over, goods which move with a minimum of effort, goods people know about and ask for.

England Has Big Quota Motorcycle Speeders

LONDON.—A new type of man has become somewhat common in England recently. He is the motorcycle "speed merchant" of which there are some 380,000 in the country, and who, attired in leather jackets and crash helmets, fly around the roads at high speed. Their craze for pace may be romped by the fact that statistics go to show there are fewer accidents, when riding at high speed. At Brooklands race track a spill at 45 to 50 miles an hour means serious injury and the hospital, but at 60 miles an hour only a few grazes are received, and at 90 the tumbler does not even hurt himself. These are the statements of Doctor Cardiner, who has had racing experience there since 1911, and although records for motor cycling on this track mount higher and higher, fewer riders are injured.

Greenville Tobacco Market

WILL OPEN

Tuesday August 14th

For the Sale of Leaf Tobacco at Auction

Six large warehouses with floor space equal to that of any other East Carolina Market. Practically the same system will be in force this season as last year. There will be three sets of buyers representing all the large tobacco industries together with quite a number of independent buyers.

The market will be in better position to serve the growers this year than they have ever been in the history of auction houses in Greenville. The various big concerns have made additions and improvements to their plants, which will enable them to take care of the crop without working conditions becoming congested.

Everybody is optimistic over the outlook for a great year in the tobacco industry, and as in previous seasons, the Greenville Market will take the lead in high prices on opening day and retain it throughout the year.

AMERICAN CANNED GOODS ABROAD

Exports of canned foodstuffs in post-war years average 5 times as much in value as pre-war years.

The acquaintance which the foreign world made with American canned foodstuffs during the war has developed a permanent post-war demand for this product of our industries. Figures compiled by the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York show that the exports of canned foodstuffs in the post-war years average five times as much in value as in the years preceding the war and that the canned foods exported from the United States since the beginning of the war aggregate a billion dollars in value. Prior to the war the exports of canned goods aggregated about 15 million dollars a year; now they are running at about 75 millions a year.

This permanent evidence of a big export trade in this line, says the Trade Record, is the result of a century of experimental work by the food and agricultural experts of the country. It was in 1820 that the first serious attempts were made in the United States in this line by the establishment in Boston of a factory for the "preservation of perishable foods in hermetically sealed cans" and a century later the census of the country showed an outturn of 628 million dollars value of the canning and preserving industry against 50 million dollars in 1890, the first year in which the industry was included in census records. That the financial and business interests of the country recognized the value of this new industry is apparent from the fact that the capital invested in the canning and preserving industry is officially reported at 21 million dollars in the census of 1890 and 378 millions in the census of 1920. The sums paid for the materials used in the canning and preserving establishments advanced from 30 million dollars in 1889 to 412 million dollars in 1919. Even these enormous totals do not include the meats and soups canned by the great meat packing establishments or the condensed and evaporated milk which have become such an important factor in both the domestic and export trade, though the value of the canned goods exported does include all canned meats, and condensed and evaporated milk. All the world asks for our canned goods. They go to every country and continent, but the growth has been most striking in the countries which made their acquaintance during the war. California, New York and Maryland are, in the order named, the biggest producers of canned goods, but the industry now extends to practically every state.

RADIO BROADCASTING STATIONS

YOU HAVE HEARD WOO

This is Station WOO—The Wanamaker Shoe Store, Philadelphia. Above—a glimpse of the studio. Below—controlling the voice-frequency energy fed to the radio transmitter. Insert—Dr. Russell H. Conwell, famous orator and pastor of Grace Temple, Philadelphia, is a well-known speaker in WOO.

When Marshal Dupre, the noted French organist, gave a recital at station WOO at John Wanamaker's, Philadelphia, it was heard in Paris, according to a letter received from Andre A. Maitre. The modulation of clearness was the best yet received. Monsieur Maitre said. The receiving set used had two stages of radio frequency, a detector, and two stages of audio frequency. He used one turn of wire on a nine-foot loop antenna, upon a new principle. Organ music has for years almost completely baffled reproduction. Most radio engineers said that broadcasting the pipe organ "couldn't be done." It had been tried in a number of churches with very indifferent success, and the Wanamaker organ, on account of the immense variety and incomparable scope of its tones was regarded as particularly difficult. However, the engineers of the Western Electric Company undertook the task, and after a long series of experiments in their laboratories they finally developed a microphone and an amplifying device constructed upon a new principle. The advent of the organ brought broadcasting up to a new and higher plane. Now, if you live within a reasonable distance of Philadelphia—say 1,000 miles—it is easy enough to tune your receiving set to pick up WOO. Then the family can enjoy an evening of music of the world's greatest musical instrument magnificently played. Organ recitals are played daily and Monday and Thursday evenings.
