

On every hand one hears business men lamenting the absence of industrial plants in Greenville and Pitt County. Officials of the mill owners association at Fall River, Mass., recently confirmed the report that the textile industry of that section must be moved south, if it was to survive.

The coming of the New England mills to the Carolinas promises to be an industrial migration as thrilling and full of romance as that of the wagon trains that made the pioneer's epic in the winning of the west.

If Greenville wants one or more of these mills, no time should be lost in presenting its claims in the form of location, raw material, transportation, etc. Obviously, this is a matter well worth investigating, and naturally the Chamber of Commerce is the body to do it. Other cities and towns throughout the Carolinas with less advantages to offer are in the field—actively at work.

Here's a chance to test the metal of Greenville's business men, and definitely ascertain whether they are willing to work for more factories.

French Sentry Is Shot Down at Post of Duty; Rioting Grips Germany

RECKLINGA - HAUSEN. June 12.—A French sentry was killed near the railroad station at his post of duty today. The authorities immediately proclaimed martial law throughout the district. Great indignation is expressed as it is believed that the soldier was deliberately shot down without cause or reason.

It is feared that serious trouble may grow out of the shooting.

DUSSELDORF, June 12.—Six Germans were killed and three wounded by soldiers in Dortmund last night, says a French bulletin.

The statement declares that the civilians threatened the French patrol, and when they refused to disperse the soldiers fired, after the usual warnings.

Group Meeting Held By Eastern Carolina Chamber Commerce

The first of a series of group meetings to be held by the eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of arousing the people in Eastern Carolina to their responsibility to the community in which they live, was held at Williamston recently, with Dr. John D. Biggs, president, North Carolina Bankers association, as the host. Dr. Biggs had as his guests, the bankers, business men and county commissioners from Washington, Bertie, Martin counties, in all about 75 of Eastern Carolina's real progressive men who know that Eastern Carolina is the best place in the world and who are willing to aid in letting the other fellow know it.

The next group meeting will be held at Scotland Neck, June 21, with the Chamber of Commerce of Scotland Neck as host to these counties, Halifax, Edgecombe, Nash, Warren, and Northampton.

Defaulting Cashier Begins Prison Term

GREENSBORO, June 12.—With the yawning doors of the North Carolina State prison waiting for him, B. H. Hedgecock, once a respected cashier of the Home Savings Bank, of High Point, has started on a four to five years term, the last resources exhausted, all that can save him now being executive clemency, at some time or other.

Allegations against Hedgecock were that he by misappropriation of funds of the bank, false entry and conspiracy defrauded the institution out of $127,000. He drew one sentence in Guilford Superior court of three years, another of from one to two years. The other charges were not pressed.

TYPHON HITS PHILIPPINES, 13 LIVES LOST; 7 TOWNS RUINED

MANILA, June 12.—Thirteen lives were lost and a large area laid waste by a typhoon on the island of Hamar yesterday, according to telegrams from constabulary headquarters there.

The reports said that in seven towns 95 per cent. of the houses were blown down and that homeless thousands were threatened with famine. Relief measures have been undertaken here, it was declared.

Senator H. C. Bursum, Republican, who succeeded Senator Albert Fall as one of New Mexico's representatives in the Senate, has predicted the enactment by the next congress of the billion-dollar adjusted compensation bill. He has announced that the bonus fight in behalf of America's four million World War veterans will be waged from a new angle—that of legality. Bursum, chairman of the Senate pension committee, declared that America contracted a "legal obligation" by forcing its soldiers to pay their own insurance and in requiring forced allotments during the war and cited state compensation acts in support of his contention. President Harding will sign, he is certain.

Ship Liquor Ruling Is Being Enforced, French Denied Wine

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The treasury will stand pat in its determination to enforce rigidly the recent Supreme court decision barring beverage liquor from territorial waters of the United States, it so informed customs officers in new instructions issued an official declared, so that further misunderstandings with foreign governments may be avoided.

The French government, through its embassy here, had suggested to the treasury during the day that each member of the crew of the liner France in New York harbor should be allowed to have his wine ration of one half a liter a day as required by the French law, inasmuch as the ship had left her home port prior to June 10, the effective date of the regulations. Embassy officials took the position, treasury officials said, that after the liquor stores of vessels had been sealed by customs authorities, the former practice of opening the stores for issuance of the wine rations should be followed on this trip.

Crocker Heirs Contest Will of Former Boss

DUBLIN, June 12.—Richard Davies, Northampton, Mass., testifying in the Crocker will case here today, declared that the woman pointed out to him in court as Mrs. Bula Crocker, widow of Richard Crocker, former New York political boss, was known to him in Northampton as the wife of Guy Marone. The Marones lived at his house, he said.

WIFE OF SLAIN N. C. PASTOR TELLS VIVID STORY OF KILLING

RICHMOND, Va., June 12.—Re-the two Garretts came to her home covered sufficiently from shock and grief to make a statement, Mrs. E. S. Pierce, wife of the Cumberland Baptist clergyman and former North Carolinian who was killed in a pistol duel June 5 with Robert O. Garrett and Larkin C. Garrett, prominent officeholders and politicians of Cumberland county, gave her version of the affair, which she witnessed with her infant daughter in her arms.

Displaying a dress of the child spattered with the blood of its father she said that the garment was thus soiled when Larkin Garrett pushed her from her husband's prostrate body on the lawn in front of her home during the first fight that preceded the shooting. According to her story, which the prosecution will use as the foundation for its case

Yep, Everybody Is Happy, Even Golf Course, It Rained

Everybody in Pitt county is happy today, or at least in those spots where it rained yesterday and today. It is hoped that it has been general throughout the county, as it came just in the nick of time, when badly needed.

While it may not be a million dollar rain, still it is worth that much and more to see the spirit of encouragement and hope that it has inspired among long faced farmers and merchants.

The weather sharps predict gentle showers today and Wednesday. If that is realized it will greatly aid growing crops, particularly garden truck.

The grass on the court house lawn is beginning to show better, and is losing its pallor of dried straw, while the seed on the golf course of the Country Club has been waiting just such a blessing to show its head above ground. If nature is considerate, the course, in a short time, will in verity be a green.

Postoffice Robber Gets 3 Year Term

RALEIGH, June 12.—John O'Brien alias "Hostile Johnny" sentenced by United States Judge Henry G. Connor to serve three years in the United States prison at Atlanta, Ga., for participation in the robbery of the post office at Oxford on March 8, 1920. A new trial will be had November for the co-defendants, William Dates, alias "California Bill," and John Murray, alias "Michigan Shorty."

"Hostile Johnny," who has a cancer, threw up his hands at the trial last week while the government though offering a mass of circumstantial evidence through a total of 89 witnesses was unable to convict the other defendants two of the twelve jurors holding out for over 48 hours. The robbers of the post office extracted $33,000, none of which has ever been recovered and that fact alone puts the affair in the record class.

The polar currents are said to contain less salt than those from the Equator.

Hobart Student Out For Hazing Riots

Two members of the senior class at Hobart College, Geneva, New York, were expelled by President Murray Bartlett and Dean W. P. Durfee at the beginning of commencement exercises there. Degrees were withheld from three others for a period of three months. The students are alleged to have been implicated in the hazing and rioting which turned Geneva into a bedlam early this month. Lloyd Hye, of New York City, a victim of the hazing, was severely beaten and hurled down a fifty-foot embankment into the Seneca Lake. Lawrence H. Loughrey and Theodore G. Knowles, football star, both of New York, were those expelled.

Be Awarded June 27

RALEIGH, June 12.—After a lapse of nearly three months the State Highway Commission will resume the letting of new contracts for road construction on June 27 when bids will be opened on more than a score of projects aggregating a mileage of approximately 125 miles. The tentative list of projects gives 71.18 miles of gravel road and 55.22 miles of hard surface.

Further letting of contracts was suspended indefinitely several months ago on account of the shortage of materials, the shortage of labor, and the congestion of transportation. Contractors found they were unable to keep the work going and the commission determined to call a halt temporarily until the situation clarified.

Crest of Flood Is Reached, Southwest Suffers Big Loss

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—The crest of flood waters which for four days have covered the eastern half of Kansas and northern Oklahoma virtually had passed today, leaving a toll of seven known dead, many missing and property damage aggregating several million dollars.

Thousands of persons made homeless when the flood swept their homes away are being cared for in public buildings and in private homes.

Dirt Soon to Fly On Pitt Drainage Canal, to Reclaim Rich Area

Pitt County is going to have its own miniature Panama Canal. Relatively speaking the opening of the ditch is going to mean just as much to the people of this county as the inter-oceanic waterway means to the world.

Within the next 10 days or two weeks the dirt will begin to fly and another long and cherished dream will be on its way to realization when the huge steam shovel will begin to eat its way from the upper end of Grindle creek, near Whitehurst station.

Last of Captives Taken by Chinese Bandits Released

THAO-CHAWANG, June 12.—Eight captives, the last of the foreigners kidnapped by Chinese brigands who held up the Shanghai-Peking express train near Suchow, May 6, and held at the Paofzuka mountain headquarters of the outlaws since that time, were released today.

The conditions of their release has not been determined, and just what entered into turning the prisoners loose has not been made known.

Georgia Lawmaker to Move Repeal of Dry Law, He Says

ATLANTA, Ga., June 12.—A bill to repeal the Georgia "bone dry" prohibition law approved in 1916, will be introduced in the next legislature by Representative Craig R. Arnold, of Lumpkin county according to an announcement made by Arnold here.

"I believe that a number of states will repeal the 'bone dry' law this year," said Arnold. "As far as Georgia is concerned, it not only is superfluous that the state statute and Volstead federal act should be enforced, but the existence of the two makes for a conflict of authority and entails an unnecessary expense upon the state, since the federal government has assumed the burden of prohibition enforcement."

"There are a good many features of the Georgia law," the representative added, "which, personally, I believe to be iniquitous, but wholly aside from that view, when it is repealed, as I believe it will be, we will still have with us the federal Volstead law, which gives the United States enforcement department full and complete authority to enforce federal prohibition."

Will Name Kitchin's Son As Successor

ROCKY MOUNT, June 12.—All uncertainty as to the manner of the selection of a successor to Claude Kitchin in congress is expected to be cleared away when the Democratic executive committee for the second congressional district meets here tonight at the call of Chairman T. B. Ward, of Wilson; "to take up such business as may properly come before the committee."

Immediately after Mr. Kitchin's death, a movement was started to pay a final tribute to the congressman by naming his son, Luther Mills Kitchin, a practicing attorney of Washington, D. C., and Scotland Neck, to fill the unexpired term.

According to recognized political leaders in the district, the plan has gained almost universal support, both because of a desire to honor the Kitchin family and a general preference that a contest be deferred until the regular primary. It is understood that if named Mr. Kitchin will not offer for re-election next June.

An injury to the tongue is repaired by nature with more rapidity than is the case with any other part of the system.

An immense steel barge 80 by 22 feet equipped with every modern device to cut the ditch is about ready to begin operations. With the assembling of minor parts of the equipment the first drainage project in Pitt will be under way. The canal will extend from Grindle creek where it passes under the viaduct of the Atlantic Coast Line to Pactolus an approximate distance of 20 miles. In width it will vary from 26 to 46 feet, with an average depth of eight feet and a natural fall of around two feet per mile.

Reclaims 46,000 Acres.

This project will reclaim around 46,000 acres, of what is believed to be the most productive land in the state, or nation. It will open up to diversified cultivation more than 400 farms, and altogether it is the biggest forward stride in doing a big project in a big way in the history of the county, those familiar with the undertaking declare.

The potentialities to the lay mind are staggering. No reasonable estimate can be made of the tremendous wealth that remains to be developed. It means complete revolution in agricultural production, while its actual returns in dollars and cents to the entire county cannot be predicated upon any sort of basis.

Means Big Returns.

Ten years ago countless thousands of acres of worthless swamp stood in southeast Missouri. Some progressive, far visioned man was called a crank when he advanced the idea of reclamation by a system of drainage canals. However, his suggestion finally prevailed. Today those lands are the most productive in the entire southwest and cannot be bought except at exceedingly high figures. Taxpayers who resisted the improvement are now gloating in the revelation that has been brought about. They are wealthy landowners and piling up additional wealth each year by all season farming.

That is exactly what will be realized by the Pitt drainage project.

Part of Capt. Leach.

The proposal to drain those lands was first agitated in 1916 and 1917. One of the most ardent promoters and enthusiasts in the movement was the late Capt. G. T. Leach, president of the Eureka Lumber company, Washington, N. C. He was completely "sold" on the proposition and his efforts are largely responsible for its early fruition.

Work of digging the canal is being done under the direction of Pitt County Drainage District No. 2. R. D. Whitehurst, Bethel, is chairman, J. G. Taylor, Greenville, and T. E. Hodges, Washington, N. C. are members of the commission.

Judge F. M. Wooten, Greenville, is attorney for the commission. He has given largely of his time and effort in working out the details for putting the project through, and at times has surmounted obstacles that to some men have appeared not even worth undertaking.

Carr and More, Fort Wayne, Ind., are the contractors.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

—Every community has two classes of people, the men who do things to build up the place in which they live and the men who DO NOT? BE A BUILDER.

A CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY WITH A SOUL

The soulless corporation is a common expression. In a broad sense it might be applied just as appropriately to a corporate body as the individual.

Possibly the reference is more frequently directed against corporations because the broadside of aspersion is intended to strike at every executive connected with it and it is easier than singling out individuals.

Underlying it all is the fact that the supreme interest of today is business!

We live in a material age, where money-making, money-accumulating and business experience are predominate. It is the struggle for pecuniary reward that breeds envy and class hatred, discontent and foments labor strife promoted by labor agitators who, refusing to work themselves, prey upon the emotions of real workers, instilling into them fanciful idealisms in the hope of satisfying their own insatiable greed and grasping cupidity.

For the good of all the people to end the subtle and insidious influences there is now appearing over the horizon of advanced civilization a factor that promises to do more to bring labor and capital together on a common meeting ground that will weld understanding between employer and employee than all the false doctrines preached by radical and ignorant self-styled labor leaders.

The psychology of relationship between capital and labor appears to be one of the last things that wise men have been able to learn.

It has been a slow process, but it has arrived. Briefly, it is, the SOCIAL AND WELFARE promotion work that is rapidly becoming a part of every well organized commercial or industrial enterprise, regardless of size.

Because of his extreme modesty and dodging publicity, no one man in the industrial world has had more to do with bringing the benefits of social and welfare relationship into practical use than Carroll Burton, president Lorain Steel company, Johnstown, Pa. Burton, among his intimates is best known as the friend of the workingman rather than the directing force behind a great industry employing thousands of workers.

He is INTENSELY HUMAN, that makes him popular.

He does not expect more than he is willing to give, that shows CHARITY of THOUGHT and BIGNESS of HEART. Once an employee of the Lorain company, is to remain for the reason, Burton takes an active interest in the social side of the life of every worker from his chief assistant down to the ordinary laborer. He knows there is good in every man and knows how to develop it.

Burton does not follow the idea of giving employees a picnic or a big Christmas tree celebration, and being satisfied with paying the bills. He wades into the program with all the enthusiasm of a boy anticipating a fishing trip. Not only are the pleasures of the men studied, but he sees that the women and children of the workers are provided ed for and every seasonal pleasure is anticipated. When these various outings and celebrations are given Burton gets out among his fellow workers, mingles with them, rubs shoulders with them, and is especially polite to the ladies and kind to the babies.

Labor pirates have attempted to break down his organization, but never with success, because employees of the Lorain company realize as long as steel is manufactured they will have employment, together with a well balanced wage scale and in case of sickness, infirmities, old age their future is assured. Burton unconsciously is the man who has made social and welfare work stand out.

As a captain of industry Burton is a commanding figure. That is true by reason of his ability. He is not particularly proud of his business success. His proudest possession is the knowledge that he is paving the way for men to help themselves by constantly diffusing an altogether different atmosphere of morale and cooperation.

If there were more Burtons in the world, there would be less labor unrest and labor bosses would be without jobs. Social and welfare promotion work is the medium that will eventually do it. The system is rapidly gaining impetus throughout industry.

Carroll Burton has PROVED it will work out in a multiplicity of advantages to labor and capital.

In order to make the welfare system a success something more than experts must be employed, executives must get actively behind it, too. To get workers interested and hold that interest, it is necessary to keep an absorbing program of activities moving, which must be topped off by contact and personal touch that officials alone can give to convince employees that they are just as much concerned in their interest as they are themselves.

LaFOLLETTE'S POLITICAL GAME

Headed by the Association of Commerce the business men of Chicago have issued a statement which fairly characterizes the gathering of the LaFollette bloc and its purposes. It brands the conference as "a menace to all of the people" and minces no words in charging it with purposing to prejudice the public against the railroads to promote the political advantage of the so-called progressive bloc.

Less harm will come from this radical gathering if the public starts with a correct understanding of what it is and why it is summoned. However it may be labeled and whatever purpose may be claimed for it, it is the first move to promote the presidential candidacy for LaFollette.

The ambitious Wisconsin senator will not hesitate to take the valuation system, which he himself proposed and carried thru Congress, and cuss it in operation if he can turn it to his political advantage.

Neither LaFollette nor anyone else can give the public something for nothing. The visionaries would burden the government with an enormous debt, to buy the roads, then cut freight and passenger rates below cost and let the taxpayers, instead of those who get the service, pay the bill with all the waste and extravagance governmental operation would entail.

The public should not be deceived by specious arguments of ranters and railway-baiting politicians who have been shown up by their own demand for a physical valuation.

News reports say that railroads of the nation are placing into service thousands of new passenger and freight cars and hundreds of new locomotives. The Norfolk-Southern is not listed. It might get in on the discard distribution of other lines. That would help some.

More than a hundred week-enders had to park themselves in their cars to sleep at Pamlico Beach Saturday night. We told you something of its beauties. Better make reservations or take along a sleeping bag.

It is a serious thing to break old friendship, for, like China it can never made quite whole again. Broken friendships may be soldered, but they will always show the crack.

Now that we are back to normalcy, will someone please tell us which way we are headed?

RELATION BETWEEN FARMER, BANKER

By F. J. FORBES
Cashier National Bank

Value of Personal Contact.

In farming sections the banker and the farmer are in close personal contact. They believe in each other and are perfectly frank about their desire to work together. It pays the farmer to talk over his business affairs with his banker, and it pays the banker to be in the confidence of his customer.

One difficulty is that many farmers do not like to borrow money. They shrink from the idea of contracting a debt of any kind. There are times, however, when greater profits are made possible through the use of borrowed money. Those who are putting business management into their farming go directly to their banker for his help in determining the solution of money questions. The plan of "borrowing for profits" prevails in all commercial lines, and many farmers mark the beginning of their larger success from the time when they were first willing to incur a debt. It pays the banker to help make the farmer more prosperous, and both can work to greater advantage under election of perfect frankness and mutual friendliness. The usual way to start such a relationship is by means of a savings or checking account. Every banker wants to know his depositors personally in order to respond to their business needs more efficiently. Personal contact always counts.

Banking Along Broader Lines.

There is a time-honored idea that the typical banker is a man dealing in dollars who has no human interests, although he may, now and then, be persuaded to grant a small loan. In the olden days there were, it is true, some bankers who felt that the only satisfactory way to conduct the banking business was to have all borrowers make their approach with fear and trembling. Perhaps such a banker could be discovered somewhere today, if a long enough search were made. The modern bank is everywhere operated on the principle that it helps itself only when it helps others. The bank customer worthy of the name need never contend with any coldness, or holding at arm's length, on the part of the banker. The bank that renders the same financial service to each patron gets the business.

In hundreds of rural sections, banks have started in business where conditions at first held out very little promise of prosperity. The men at the head of such banks have been leaders in their communities in bringing the farmer to see the great advantage of good farm stock, good farm buildings, crop rotation, and comfortable home surroundings. In the state of Pennsylvania, before the days of farm bureaus, one entire county was made prosperous by a splendid dairying enterprise, developed under the direction of a progressive bank.

Practicing Co-operation.

The message that needs to find its way into the home of every farmer in America is that the banks of America are learning how to co-operate with the farmer. There still remains much to be accomplished, but through co-operation we are making headway towards greater achievements in farming, achievements which will eventually reveal the "Acres of Diamonds" which surround us on every hand.

I would not feel justified in closing this talk without uttering a word of caution regarding the purchase by the farmer of stocks and bonds. Do not purchase stocks or bonds with which you are not entirely familiar, or without consulting your banker. In other words, Before you invest, investigate.

Trainers Gather For North Randall Meet

CLEVELAND. — Although the Grand Circuit harness horse racing season does not open until July 2, stables are fast filling at North Randall, where trainers are working their charges. While most of the horsemen will await the Grand Circuit's inaugural, some will try their luck on the half mile tracks. The harness horse racing season opened June 4 with a week's meeting at the new Brooklyn track near here.

Among the first arrivals at North Randall was "Pop" Geers, the "father of the drivers." "Pop" arrived with his string of trotters and pacers two weeks earlier than is his custom.

WORLDS SMALLEST STATE UNITES WITH SWITZERLAND

GENEVA—Situated between Switzerland and Austria is the little Principality of Liechtenstein, which enjoys an idyllic existence and is the smallest state in the world. With its 11,000 inhabitants, this tiny territory and the little Austrian province of Vorarlberg have now entered into a customs union with the Swiss Republic.

Prior to the war Liechtenstein, in spite of the strong antipathy of its people toward the Hapsburgs, was united with the Austrian monarchy by union of customs, post and currency.

The entire lower floor was beautifully decorated with potted plants and yellow cut flowers.

The guests were welcomed by the hostesses and honorees. Miss Virginia Arthur showed them into the par hall where lemonade was poured by Mesdames W. B. Brown and Richard Williams, assisted by Misses Eva Hodges, Mary Blanche Patrick and Ellen Joyner. After several interesting progressions an ice course carrying out the yellow color scheme as served. Miss Pearl Wright making the top score was awarded a lovely bead bracelet. The honorees were presented with dainty pieces of embroidered linen.

Many Countries Frame Laws To Uplift Boyhood

PORTSCHACH.—Though the war stopped the progress of the world in any directions, it has nevertheless resulted in an awakened conscience and progressive legislation for the protection of boyhood. Such is the section of a legal commission reporting on the protection and reformation of boyhood to the Second World Conference of Y. M. C. A. workers at boys, to be published June 3. The report is based on a study of conditions in 35 countries.

"The newer countries of the world," according to H. Wallace Soutter of South Africa, chairman of the commission, "are legislating in accordance with the new spirit of unselfishness and the conclusions of psychological research, and are striving to event the growth in their midst of the horrors of the older countries. Approximately 70 per cent of the boys in the United States, according to the commission, live under laws which compel school attendance between the ages of 8 and 16. America's experience is frequently quoted, and the tendency to project free education forward into the college grade marked as noteworthy.

STRONG AMERICAN GOLF OCTET SEEKS LAURELS AT TROON

TRON, Scotland. — America, among whose trophies of the links the British open championship cup has had a prominent place for two successive years, is sending an octet of her strongest professionals to compete for honors in the 1923 open event to be played here next week. Walter Hagen, of New York, winner of the championship last year, with a medal of 300 over the Sandwich course, heads the Yankee invasion. Hagen was the "dark horse" in last year's play. He had finished 55th in the 1920 play at Deal and tied with Barnes and several others for sixth place in 1921. After his poor showing at Deal in 1920 Hagen went to France and won the open championship from a great field. He held the American open title in 1924 and 1919, was American professional champion in 1921 and has won at various times all of the other major professional tournaments in this country.

Jack Hutchinson, of Chicago, winner of the British open in 1921 at St. Andrews, is not among the invaders this year, but Hagen's comrades make up one of the strongest parties that has ever come from America for the oldest of golf tournaments.

"Long Jim" Barnes, of Pelham Manor, New York, winner of the American open championship in 1921, has been near the top in the British open play for the last three years. He finished fifth in 1920 at Deal. At St. Andrews in 1921 he finished in a tie for sixth place with Hagen and three Britishers and in 1922 tied with George Duncan for second place, a stroke behind Hagen.

Gene Sarazen, of Briarcliff Lodge, youngest of all the title-holding American professionals, winner of both the open and professional championships of the United States in 1922, is considered one of the most dangerous of this year's competitors. Sarazen's golf in practice for the open has been excellent and he appears to be at the top of his game.

Titles Rouse Wrath of Canadian Grain Man

MOOSE JAW, Sask. — Charged with making a seditious speech at a meeting of grain growers, last January, Fred McIntyre, a farmer of the Royal George School district, south of Carleton Place, was recently committed for trial here. He was released on bail.

McIntyre is alleged to have made the seditious remarks during a discussion on titles and is charged with having said:

"I count myself as good a man as King George. I would not be scared to challenge him to a foot race, to wrestle, or to fight, although he is fed up on a box stall on choice food. If I had my way, I would take a club and stand at the border and knock the brains out of everyone that came into the country with a title. I would make no mistake about it, as I know where to hit them."

PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE SIGNS CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND.—Cleveland is back on the professional football map. A franchise in the National Association of Professional Football clubs, an organization including 17 cities, has been obtained by Samuel H. Deutsch, who during the war was one of the founders of the Cleveland Naval Reserve eleven. Plans are under way to play the games at Dunn Field, the home of the Cleveland American League baseball club.

London Banishes Old Custom.

LONDON.—In view of the terms of the Sex Disqualification Removals Act the staid City of London Corporation has departed from its old time custom of refusing the honor of the Freedom of the City of London to married women.

The first married woman to receive this honor is Mrs. F. G. Bristow, the wife of a barrister-at-law, who was admitted to the freedom of the city at a recent meeting of the corporation.

To Restore Polish Youth.

WARSAW.—Poland's greatest loss of recent years has been, not in devastated regions, but in young men. Therefore physical education was stressed at a recent meeting of school masters in this city, and the government was urged to allot more money for the building of playgrounds, and otherwise to assist in the building up of Polish youths.

To Alter Secular Calendar.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—An Orthodox congress to examine the proposal to alter the ecclesiastical calendar so as to bring it in harmony with the western calendar is in session here.

PUPILS OF READING CIRCLE PITT COUNTY GIVEN CERTIFICATES

Pupils Reading Circle work has been offered in the Pitt County public schools for the last three years. A four years course has been outlined and no pupil is eligible to the third year who has not satisfactorily completed the reading of the two previous years. Each year's work consists in reading and making reports on at least six books from the accredited list.

According to the county board of education, the purpose of this supplementary reading course is to arouse an interest in reading good literature, and to give sufficient practice to leave the pupils with a taste for the best kind of reading.

The service that it has rendered cannot be overestimated, it is declared. Hon. P. P. Claxton said he was not so much concerned with the number of people who can read, as with the number of people who do read. Through the certificate system there becomes a further use of libraries, it was pointed out, and it creates a demand for adequate ones.

Board Asks Co-operation.

It is hoped by the board of education that parents will realize the benefits to be derived from the companionship of good books and assist the board in making it possible for children to obtain the required volumes to complete the four year course.

Next year the Reading Circle diplomas will be offered to the pupils who have satisfactorily completed the work for the four years. In that event, it means, that they will have read 25 of the best literary productions in addition to their regular school work.

A RETURN ENGAGEMENT OF

"When Knighthood Was In Flower"

BY POPULAR REQUEST

This is truly the most beautiful picture ever shown in Greenville. Marion Davies is simply wonderful. No one dreamed she was such a gifted actress until they saw her as the beautiful, lovable queen.

If you did not see this picture, whatever you do, don't miss seeing it this time. Lots of people said they wanted to see it all over again. So you know it was good.

The show will start at 8:00. Only one show given. The comedy will be shown first, giving everyone a chance to get in and seated before the feature starts. Adm. 25 and 50c.

Camp Leach, June 12.—Friday afternoon two teams of Washington boys came to "clean up" our team. The games were both extra good. The last large boys, going into 10 innings after the agreement to play only seven.

The small boys' game was very good considering the size of the teams boys on the teams. Cotton, the Washington pitcher, had only one bad inning, the second in which Greenville scored 5 of its 6 runs. Jim Edwards led in hitting for getting three hit, out of four times up. Both teams played creditable ball. The final score was 6 to 3 in favor of Greenville.

The large boys' game was won by the visitors 1 to 0. From the first man up, it was seen that the game would be a pitchers duel between Curry for Greenville and Genking for the visitors. Curry pitched a good game, allowing only one hit, which was gotten by a second team player. There were no extra base hits because the diamond was slow and sandy.

FORMER GERMAN PRINCE

STIR IRE OF SOCIALISTS

BERLIN.—Prince Eitel Friedrich, the second son of ex-Emperor Wilhelm II of Germany, has recently created a number of new Knights of Honor in the Order of St. John, of which he is supreme commander for Brandenburg province, and has there by created as well the usual annual uproar among the socialists.

There are several angles about this yearly action of the prince that the German radicals do not like, although they do not express any fundamental objections to the original organization itself, which dates back to the sixteenth-century days of Gregory the Great in Jerusalem.

PRINCE DOES NOT PINE

TO BE CALLED ROYAL

LONDON.—Lady Astor likes to bring people together at her dinners.

At one of her recent entertainments

she had among her guests the Prince of Wales and Will Thorne, the socialist labor leader and member of Parliament. Thorne now tells this story:

"I said to the prince I would doubtless be unpleasantly criticized by some of my constituents for putting my feet under the table with royalty.

"The prince smilingly replied: 'I storm and fog during the autumn and object to royalty, Mr. Thorne, but winter months, the 75 lonely inhabi-

I don't mind being called the Prince of Wales"

HEIRS SEEKING HIDDEN CASH

PLOW UP FARM FOR YEARS

REGINA, Sask., Ten years ago a farmer, Norman Curtis, arrived from Iowa, and settled with his family on a farm near Langbank Sask. He brought $5,000 cash with him, paid $1,500 down on his farm, and being a non-believer in banks, buried the remaining $3,500 in a field, telling no one, not even members of the family, where it was concealed. During the winter of 1913 he was frozen to death and with him died the secret of the hiding place of the money.

BAGDAD RAILROAD REPAIRS

WILL EXCEED $25,000,000

LONDON.—The recent sale to British financiers of the Anatolian section of the Bagdad Railway and its branches to Angora and Konia is one of the biggest commercial deals in recent years.

The syndicate headed by Baron Rothchild, Baron Schroder, Baring and Company and Lloyds Bank which purchased the holdings from the Bank des Chemins des Lignes Orientaux, will immediately advance $25,000,000 to start the rebuilding of the lines.

POWER INDUSTRY FACES

YEAR OF GREAT PROGRESS

CHICAGO.—The sum of $602,143,000 represents the total of new generating plants, additions to existing plants, and extension of transmission and distribution systems of the electric light and power industry of this country to be built this year, according to a survey just completed and announced by the Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information.

The expansion of the industry in the Middle West is expected far to exceed that of any other section of the United States, as building programs in the Central West call for expenditures aggregating more than one-third of the total for the entire country.

GERMAN POLICE LIFT BAN

ON OPEN AIR GATHERINGS

BERLIN.—Once more, after a ban of nearly six months, the Germans are permitted to hold open air demonstrations in Berlin without special permission.

The chief of police issued an order early this month lifting the prohibition he instituted late last November. It was then decided to forbid outdoor meetings and processions because plundering of shops was regarded as a likely result of the hard times facing the populace during the winter.

REALTOR'S TO DISCUSS

MODERN FINANCING

CHICAGO.—Six thousand real estate men from 475 cities are making plans to cruise, motor or go by special train to Cleveland for the sixteenth annual convention of the National association of real estate boards June 27-30. Governmental, legislative, financial, architectural and other questions of importance in real estate development, and especially fullest utilization of modern financing possibilities to meet the present business acceleration in real estate, are to be discussed.

What is known as the "Indiana plan" of checking extravagance and preventing possible graft in official expenditures will be explained by Judge William A. Hough, chairman of the Indiana state board of tax commissioners, which has been given power to review all tax levies and bond issues in Indiana upon complaint of ten taxpayers.
