

Berries and truck make but one of the possibilities of wealth awaiting the establishment of the small farm home on thousands of acres of reclaimed land in Pitt county. Drainage is going to make that a reality earlier than anticipated.

Here is what has been done in the limited Chadbourne strawberry and trucking district. Early returns from the rather short crop of the early berry season show the sale of 272,925 crates—for a return of $3,500,000, spot cash on delivery for loading. Strawberries are but a small part of the products grown in Chadbourne section.

The record is interesting on account of the district and the type of farmer who profits by the culture. In the sale of the crop, it is not unusual, for 40 carloads to be made up of shipments from 500 small growers, who contribute from five to 50 crates each to the shipment. It is not a far cry to make the prediction that once the reclaimed lands of this county are only partly under cultivation the Chadbourne record will be passed unnoticed. And it is not a REMOTE PROSPECT, but a rapidly approaching reality.

GREENSBORO, June 13.—The recommendation of the Guilford county board of public welfare that pajamas be given convicts to sleep in can hardly be carried out, county commissioners informed the welfare board because there are not sufficient guards.

KINSTON, June 13.—Fire which started apparently near the rear of the brick building, owned by C. A. The fire was discovered at a few minutes of seven o'clock, the first alarm going in from Box 32 at 6:50 and another alarm from No. 31 at 7 o'clock.

"Moonshine Men" Form To Fight Enforcement of Penna Ory Laws

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—The intensive campaign waged in the Pittsburgh district against bootleggers and recently extended to fashionable road houses, has resulted in a new terrorist organization being formed for reprisal purposes, according to county authorities, who yesterday learned of the existence of the "Moonshiners," said to be operating for the protection of bootleggers and moonshiners.

The first victims of the organization's activities, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Gardaski, of Imperial, a suburb, were dragged from their beds, by a band of "black hooded and robed men," tied to trees in a nearby woods and beaten with clubs, they told officers, because they had ignored a warning not to testify in liquor cases. Mrs. Gardaski is under the care of a physician suffering from shock. Three men were arrested last night in connection with the attack, Gardaski telling officers he recognized them as leaders of the hooded band.

Here is a striking picture of the $5,000,000 fire which destroyed the Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in the heart of Philadelphia, imperiling many passengers. WASHINGTON, June 13.—Informal negotiations have been initiated by the state department with various maritime powers contemplating the solution on a reciprocal basis of the ship liquor controversy and of the rum smuggling fleet problem through the treaty making powers of the government, it was learned today.

American officials see in this method an opportunity to eliminate inconveniences to foreign ships within the three mile limit due to prohibition enforcement regulations, while at the same time the hovering fleet of rum runners off the American coast may be broken up through the extension by treaty of an agreement of right of search for this specific purpose up to a 12-mile limit.

Boll Weevil Often Mistaken for Cowpea Insect, Expert Asserts

Thirty specimens believed to be boll weevil sent to Franklin Sherman, chief entomologist of the state by D. L. Turnage, Greenville, proved to be merely cowpea pod-weevil, according to advice, received by Turnage from Sherman today.

"This insect bears some resemblance to boll weevil," Sherman wrote, "and is often mistaken for it. It injures and even kills some young cotton plants, and this damage is then sometimes blamed on the boll weevil. Its injury begins in and for most part is confined to lands that were in peas the year before."

"Most of the insects which are commonly mistaken for boll-weevil are entirely harmless to cotton, but this one does do a slight injury to the crop."

Pointing out the difference between the insects, Prof. Sherman goes on to say: "As compared with boll weevil, this cowpea pod-weevil is more chunky-bodied, shorter legged, shorter bill, blacker, harder, lacks the yellow hour after which a public reception was held.

Million Dollar Joy Ride on Leviathan To Be Carried Out

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A. D. Lasker, chairman of the Shipping board, is going to pull off that "$1,000,000 joy ride" on the Leviathan, that great shipping board vessel, whether or no. President Harding is backing him up in this, and doing it in the face of his "economy" talk, from what is "economy" between friends? The big junketing "trip" of the Leviathan will cost the tax-payers somewhere between $600,000 and $1,000,000, but as neither President Harding nor Chairman Lasker pays the bills, why should they worry? Sufficient be for the taxpayers to know that Lasker wants to have the trip pulled off and that President Harding says that is all right for Chairman Lasker to have the junketing trip if he wants to have it.

Situation In China Worst Since Boxer Outbreak, Is Claim

SHANGHAI, June 13.—Conditions in China were termed "worst since boxer outbreak," says a statement in which the American Association of China and American Chamber of Commerce united. ## Cured Yams Are Good For Bank Collateral

ATLANTA, June 13.—Joseph A. McCord, chairman of the board of directors of the Atlanta Branch of the Federal Reserve System, has announced that the proper curing of the Georgia Yam potato converts it into a crop asset of sufficient stability to serve as collateral for commercial paper which the bank will accept for discount.

Until very recently the yam had no market except at home on account of its extremely perishable nature, but successful curing methods now enable it to be shipped great distances and kept indefinitely. Consequently, in the future, according to Mr. McCord, the Federal Reserve Bank will recognize properly cured yams as collateral on the same basis that cotton has long been recognized.

COTTON STANDARDS FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE AGREED UPON

Washington Conference Reaches Solution of Problem, Report

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The international cotton conference has reached an agreement for the adoption of the United States official cotton standards as the basis for the world cotton trade. Signature of the agreement was withheld pending confirmation by cable from the various foreign cotton exchanges.

The conference adjourned until June 18 to await replies to the recommendations of the foreign delegates that the United States standards and other questions agreed upon be adopted and their signatures placed on the documents.

The members of the conference agreed upon the issuance of the following statement of its proceedings:

"The international cotton conference, composed of representatives of Liverpool, Havre and other continental cotton exchange, together with representatives of the American cotton trade and the Department of Agriculture, has adjourned until Monday, June 18, after two days deliberation on the United Cotton Standards Act, which goes into effect August 1.

"It is hoped by all that a satisfactory solution of the difficulties considered has been attained. The main question under discussion was the adoption of universal standards, which standards the European delegates have agreed to recommend for adoption by the various foreign exchanges.

TWO CLASSES OF FARM TENANTS

Farm tenancy is uncommon in the north and in the west, but it is very different in its character from that of the south.

The western tenant is usually a man of capital, who hires a farm and operates it purely as a commercial transaction. He is, in a certain sense, a business man; one fifth the tenants of Chester county, Pa., possess capital ranging from $3,000 to $9,000 each, and 100 tenants recently discovered in Iowa were operating with capital ranging from $20,000 to $60,000 each. Nothing like this is found among the farm tenants of the south.

"Tenancy in the south is not a matter of farmers with operating capital; it is a sad necessity on the part of moneyless men. . . It is a social estate," writes an investigator. . .

It is necessary first of all to revise current terminology. Tenants are divided into two classes, renters and croppers. The renters have a certain resemblance to the capitalistic tenants of the north and east in that they possess something in the shape of stock in trade. They own their own farm tools, their cattle, their household goods; they can "run themselves," as the phrase goes. They are themselves separated into two classes, kinsmen—renters—sons, sons-in-law, nephews, and the like who have been established on their farms by proprietor-relatives; and self-help renters, who have only themselves to depend upon.

These two classes form the economic and social cream of southern farm tenants, though their condition in life is not especially rosy.

The cropper type, says The World's Work, is the "tenant that gives especial cause for anxiety—that is found only in the south. Though the cropper has been a feature of southern life since 1865, and though there are now about 225,000 in the southern states, the word describing him has only recently found lodgment in the dictionary. The difference between a renter and a cropper, lies in the fact that, whereas the first runs himself, the latter is run by his landlord.

He possesses no property and has no permanent habitation. He is constantly on the move from farm to farm. "It ain't no trouble for me to move," says the cropper. "I ain't got nothing but er soap gourd and er string er red peppers. All I have ter do is call up Tige, spit in the fireplace and start down ther road." The cropper is as restless and as itinerant as the Wandering Jew; with his bedraggled family he goes from place to place, cultivating one farm after another on halves.

"He supplies nothing except his labor and that of his wife and children; the landlord furnishes everything else—land, dwelling, firewood, work stock, implements, pantry supplies, and even small advances of money. When the crop is gathered he gets half, and with deductions made for these advances, the landlord gets the rest. This is certainly a strange way to pick up a living, yet the most discouraging fact is that the cropper himself, though an object of anxiety to college professors and social reformers, is entirely satisfied with his own lot and manages to extract a considerable amount of pleasure from it.

"The cropper's self-satisfaction, however, is purely a manifestation of a sunny temperament; it has no real relation to circumstances, for the external conditions of his life are about as hard as can be found anywhere in this country."

Here's a tip to those who are gifted with telling fish yarns—Size up your listener before you begin. If he looks easy add five pounds; extra easy, 10 pounds. Never bring fish home. They shrink in transit.

National Ass'n. Issues Warning to Drivers

NEW YORK.—Aware that the summer season brings the peak of automobile travel and increased highway hazards, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has issued a warning to twelve million motorists: The cautions tota leseven.

1. Would you willingly injure a child?
2. Drive reasonably.
3. Put your city on the Safety Roll.
4. Remember you are at times a pedestrian.
5. "After you" is courtesy on the road, as well as in the doorway.
6. Keep the brakes in perfect condition.
7. Hasté makes havoc.

A small percentage of the motorist public causes the thousands of motor accidents and fatalities which occur every season. It is the aim of the automobile world in 1923 to stimulate this havoc-making minority to eligibility in the Sane Drivers' Club.

Polish Papers Will Expand Sport Pages

WARSAW.—Polish newspapers were requested to give more space to sporting events, both domestic and international, by the 700 delegates who attended the first Polish Sporting Congress here during April. Sports, in connection with the improvement of military training for soldiers, were placed first in the agenda of the congress. Establishment of military sporting clubs, and the co-operation of military sporting organizations with the civilian, were recommended in guiding the physical education of the Polish nation.

A VICTORY FOR AMERICAN MOTORISTS

The Crude Rubber Monopoly weakened when it came in contact with public sentiment. The press of the country today reflects the determination of the American motorist that tire prices shall stay at a reasonable level—and that America must produce its own rubber.

Firestone CUTS TIRE PRICES 10%

We announce a 10% reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of large volume, and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousands of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best Firestone ever produced, and we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis sweepstakes, May 13, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standards in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194% in the past six months. We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We now have 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN OSTEOPATHY AND MEDICINE

In purpose there is little distinction. Both seek a result that means health and happiness to those who suffer.

In method the difference is radical. Osteopathy uses no drugs for curative purposes—Adjustment of structure is utilized in their stead.

From the Osteopathic viewpoint drugs are largely temporary in effect. They stimulate or quiet—but make little contribution to the actual repair of the physical machinery that has weakened.

By Osteopathic adjustment, natural mechanism can be maintained or restored so that natural processes can go on without interruption. Health follows as a logical consequence, and results are more permanent.

For a quarter of a century the value of Osteopathic viewpoint has been successfully demonstrated.

Washington Man Says Local Scouts Fine Boys' Troop

KINSTON, June 13.—R. A. Zoeller, in a communication to the Washington Daily News, pays splendid tribute to the Boy Scouts troops of Greenville. He met the boys at Camp Leach. He says:

"It has been the writer's good fortune to be thrown with the leaders and boys of this troop for a week and for the encouragement and gratification of parents and friends of these boys. I wish to say it is the cleanest lot of boys I ever came in contact with. They are clean in speech and manners and considerate of others. I did not hear a single vulgar or profane word or any argument of any consequence from any of these boys or leaders. I wish to say right here that I observed these boys outside of the immediate influence of Mr. Davis.

"Good people this is a record you may be proud of and I implore the fathers of these boys to live close to them and take them for their chums and realize that if they are your sons in reality that you are their ideal and whatever Daddy does is perfectly correct for them to do and it is.

Right here I wish to say that for the past ten years the writer has in addition to earning a livelihood, made a study of boy training by application of principles laid down by the great boy trainers.

"In conclusion I will state Mr. Davis is not entitled to all the credit for the present state of these boys, but to the parents and teachers of these boys who have conscientiously and unconsciously used good psychology in training their minds. I was also gratified to know that a number of these boys are sons of my Greenville friends."

The King's castle in "Robin Hood" alone covers two and one-half acres and is three hundred and ten feet in height. The exterior is six hundred and twenty feet long.

COUNTRY'S PAYROLL SHOW HEAVY LOSS CONTRASTED 1920

NEW YORK.—Collapse of the last boom reduced the total pay of the wage and salary earners of the United States $7,292,000,000, according to figures made public today by the national bureau of economic research, inc. of this city.

From the year of prosperity to the year of depression, annual payrolls shrank from $39,888,000,000 to $32,596,000,000.

These figures are taken from the advance sheet of a report entitled "Employment hours and earnings in 1920," published by the bureau in dd., J. H. C. mfwyp vbgkj j j j j prosperity and depression." In this report the bureau embodies the detailed facts discovered in its study of "Business Cycles and Unemployment" recently completed for President Harding's conference on unemployment.

The figures covering payments for wages and salaries in each industry have been compiled by the bureau for each quarter, thus permitting an examination of the progress of the boom, its culmination, collapse, and the beginning of recovery. They show that total payments for wages and salaries to all employees by all enterprises of whatever size, dropped from $10,472,000,000 in the third quarter of 1920 (peak of boom), to $7,743,000,000 in the first quarter of 1922 (trough of depression), or a maximum cyclical decline of 23.16 percent.

Courts Will Settle Title Romantic Isle

BELGRADE. — Lacerona Island, where Richard Coeur de Lion was shipwrecked when he was sailing up the Dalmatian coast from the Holy Land, figures in a lawsuit recently heard in the Jugo-Slav courts.

The little island, which lies about half a mile from the shore of Ragusa, has had a romantic history. Richard Coeur de Lion built a monastery on it in gratitude for being saved from the sea. More recently it has had two unhappy royal owners, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico and the ill-fated Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria.

Prince Rudolf's daughter Elizabeth, received the island as a part of her dowry when she married Otto Windschgratz who is concerned in the recent legal proceedings. The town of Ragusa attempted to have the island transferred to the state according to the Treaty of St. Germain. But Princess Elizabeth, the owner, who is living divorced from her husband at Baden, asserts that she is no longer a member of the Hapsburg family, as she renounced her rights on the occasion of her marriage.

Chinese Rug Industry Suffers Heavy Losses

TIENTSIN. — The unprecedented boom in the rug-making industry in China, which followed interruption of the Turkish and Persian trade during the war, has suffered a severe check.

Out of 500 factories which were built in Tiensin during the first years of the war, developing a daily output of more than 10,000 square inches, fewer than 300 have survived a renewal of competition. During the heyday of the industry prices soared from $1.60 and $1.80 per square foot to $3.00 and $4.00. About one-fourth of the output was consumed domestically and of the rest America took the bulk.
