

Just the other day the Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance requiring that railroads maintaining grade crossings within the city limits should have them protected with gates or watchmen.

So far as has been officially disclosed nothing has been heard in protest by the Atlantic Coast Line. It is presumed that the requirements of the law will be completed within the prescribed time by that carrier. It is maintained the protection sought and given elsewhere, should be permanently established in Greenville.

The Norfolk-Southern that holds a charter as a common carrier, exercises that privilege for everything but SERVICE.

Why should not the state commission make that railroad obey a few laws both as to grade crossings, equipment and a few other things that are hazards to life and property?

Recent reports show that the Norfolk-Southern is not a big losing utility.

If it is making money, in the name of humanity, why does it not improve the physical value of the property.

Patrons have been indulgent, but are tired with what can only be classed as vested imposition.

Norfolk-Southern officials gives us decent service. Get few new cars, protect grade crossings and FUMIGATE and MAKE SANITARY the intolerable conditions of TOILET ROOMS of your depots.

BRITAIN IS READY TO GIVE GERMANY FINAL ASSENT

Premier Tells Commons That Text of Position About Ready

LONDON, July 12.—Great Britain has informed Italy and France that she is ready to assume the responsibility of preparing the text of the reply to the German reparations question. The reply will be submitted to the allies with the least possible delay and it is hoped that all the allies will agree to the terms of the reply. Announcement to this effect was made by British Prime Minister Baldwin in a speech to the British House of Commons this morning on the British reparations policy.

The French ambassador, who it is said has never before attended a session of the House of Commons was in the front row today to hear Prime Minister Baldwin's statement on the reparations question. The Belgian, Italian and German ambassadors and the minister from Czeo Slavakia were also present.

May Issue Bonds For New Projects In Porto Rico

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—With prospects of a larger income from revenues than ever before for the next fiscal year, Governor Towner in his first message to the legislature, delivered yesterday, called attention to many necessary public undertakings, advocated the strictest economy, and explained that even with bond issues for the large undertakings, "we shall still be compelled to omit appropriations which all approve."

The estimated income for the coming year, the governor declared, would be between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 and he said he did not deem it wise to make drastic changes in the present revenue laws for providing increased revenue. Before such increases are proposed, he suggested the appointment of a tax commission and the employment of tax experts so that the revenue laws of the island might be co-ordinated and revised in conformity with recent tax legislation in the various states.

World's Speediest Train Averages 61 Miles An Hour

LONDON, July.—The fastest train in the world is now running between London and Swindon, a distance of 77.1 miles, which it covers in 75 minutes, travelling at the rate of 61.8 miles an hour.

This is one of five trains announced in the summer schedules of the English railroads, that will make better than a mile a minute on regular runs. The longest run is between London and Bath, 106.7.8 miles, which is made at the rate of 61.1 miles an hour.

John A. Mills Aged Capitalist Died Today

RALEIGH, July 12.—John A. Mills, aged 65, Raleigh capitalist, manufacturer and builder of the Raleigh and Southport railroad, now a branch of the Norfolk Southern railroad, died in a Baltimore hospital at 10:20 this morning. The body will be brought to Raleigh tomorrow and funeral arrangements then be made. Death was the result of a lingering illness and he had been confined in the Baltimore institution for several weeks for treatment. Members of his family were at the bedside when the end came.

DAWSON NAMED PARTY CHAIRMAN

RALEIGH, July 11.—With a woman presiding for the first time in the history of North Carolina, the Democratic State Executive committee tonight accepted the resignation of J. D. Norwood of Salisbury as chairman and elected John D. Dawson, of Kinston, speaker of the House of Representatives in the 1923 General Assembly as his successor.

At the same time, A. D. Watts, former commissioner of revenue, resigned as member of the committee and J. A. Hartness, of Statesville, was elected as his successor.

Miss Mary Henderson of Salisbury, vice-chairman of the executive committee, presided.

Plan to Establish Religious Schools At State Colleges

ANN ARBOR.—A school of religion supported by Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews, one of a number of similar institutions to be established at state universities where state laws do not permit religious instruction as part of the curriculum, will open at the University of Michigan next year.

This school was projected by the National Council of Schools of Religion and financed by volunteer contributions.

Alexis C. Angell of Detroit is temporary president of the Michigan school, whose executive committee in a statement covering the aims of the new institution says:

"The plan has the sympathy and support of Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews. The plan is the result of a growing belief that there is a serious gap in our modern educational system. Our forefathers, who identified religion with sectarianism, wishing to insure freedom of conscience, placed a constitutional bar, perhaps not wisely, in nearly all the states, on the teaching of religion in tax-supported schools, colleges and universities. As a result the study of religion and ethics has been too much neglected; education has become increasingly utilitarian and materialistic. The graduates of our tax-supported institutions are more and more becoming neither religious nor irreligious, but simply non-religious.

"It is proposed, through schools of religion, to give instruction in the history, literature and philosophy of religion and in the fundamental principles underlying all religion; for it has been and is bound to be an important factor in private and public life and cannot safely be ignored in any system of education which aims to develop character.

"No tax money will be used to support the schools of religion, and they are to be free from sectarianism and denominationalism.

"The National Council is co-operating with local forces in Michigan in establishing at Ann Arbor, the seat of the University of Michigan, with its 10,000 or more students, the first fully equipped school of religion. It is expected that other similar schools will be developed at other great educational centers.

Alleged Floggers of Women Are Indicted

LUMBERTON, July 12.—True bills against Jule Brogden, Mike Lawson and John Hedgepeth for burglary and kidnapping were returned in Roberson county superior court today. The cases are the result of the flogging of two women by the defendants at Proctorville last April and will probably be called for hearing Tuesday.

UNABLE TO SOLVE MURDER MYSTERY

Dorothy Kauffman, INTL

One of the strangest murder mysteries of recent years was the stabbing to death of Dorothy Kauffman, a beautiful governess, in the home of Magruder Craighead, near Seaside, N. Y. Born in a Mennonite colony, in Maryland, and given a college education, the girl became principal of the Mennonite school at Shelton. But the restrictions of the Mennonite faith palled on her. She wanted pretty clothes like other girls. So she left home and went to work as a servant—and the first thing she bought was a pretty dress. Officials, unable to solve the slaying, declared the belief that she was killed by a fanatic Mennonite, who thought thus to save her soul.

ELKS TO BUILD HOME TO COST 3 MILLION IN CHICAGO, HUGE MEET ENDS NOVEL PAGEANT

ATLANTA, July 12.—The Elks of Pennsylvania and past grand exalted ruler of the Elks, made the report on the proposed memorial headquarters. It was pointed out that the increased cost of construction, both in labor and materials, had made it necessary to revise the plans and specifications for the memorial. This revision has been made, new bids received and the commission is preparing to close contracts with a large New York construction company, the lowest bidders, for the work. Substantial progress in the work of construction will be evident before the end of the present year, the report stated.

Another report of interest was made by the committee on social and community welfare, showing that more than $2,225,000 was spent in the past year by the Elks on charitable work alone. Need of an intensive campaign in Americanization was emphasized in the report, which also devoted special sections to education and the conservation of mother life and baby life.

Women of Turkey May Soon Cast Off Their Fetters

CONSTANTINOPLE.—Turkish women seem destined soon to enjoy the same freedom and privileges as women in the United States. Mustafa Kemal has promised them the vote and they are now beginning to shake off the fetters which have kept them to domestic bondage since time immemorial. A great women's political congress will be held here shortly, and a countrywide suffrage movement inaugurated. Women possessing diplomas of higher or secondary education may appoint delegates.

ORANGE, N. J., July 12.—Kenneth M. Eylan, a member of the New York Consolidated Stock Exchange, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head at the home of his sister here early today. His sister told the police that he had been despondent for some time over business troubles. Eylan's two children were asleep in the house at the time of the tragedy.

Prince of Wales Adds to Fame King Caractacus

BIRMINGHAM, England.—Perched on the arm of a chair and smoking a big cigar, the Prince of Wales recently joined vigorously with the Bishop of Birmingham, the lord mayor, and many young men in singing the chorus of "Caractacus" which ends thus: "The stick that stung the trousers of the boy who shouted 'Beaver' to the man who put the powder on the faces of the harem of the King Caractacus."

MR. BOWLING'S CONDITION IS REGARDED WORSE TODAY

The friends of Mr. J. G. Bowling will regret to learn that his condition this afternoon is considered very critical, and there is little hope entertained for his recovery.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 12.—Five were killed and 35 injured, seven seriously, when the shift train carrying the early morning shift to work in slope mine number 1 of the Sloss Sheffield Iron and Steel Company near Bessemer ran wild this morning.

Reports from hospitals and morgues say all of the dead and injured were negroes.

The train was 1,400 feet below the earth when a coupling broke releasing 12 cars which with their human cargo raced on to a depth of 800 feet below splintering timbers and buttresses as they went.

A number of the injured were able to be removed to their homes after first aid had been applied.

Word reached here early today stating that several miners had been killed. All of the available ambulances were called in the relief work.

The first report stated that a train of two cars ran wild into a crowd of miners, most of whom were negroes, with fatal results.

Thieves Carry Off Safe in High Point

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 12.—Thieves entered the office of the Standard Oil Company, on the outskirts of High Point, Saturday night, and made away with the safe containing about $150 in currency and $300 in currency. The safe, weighing about 400 pounds, was found several miles from the oil company's office Monday. The safe had been hammered open and the currency removed, but the checks and some valuable papers, had been left undisturbed.

Lion's Share of The Huge Rum Profits Goes to Syndicate

DETROIT.—Certain powerful interests control the available supply of beer and liquor on the Canadian side and the big money is made there, according to the rum runners who operate the tiny boats which chug across the river here with their cargoes of illicit beverages.

According to these operators, the "syndicate" or "system" as it is termed, still are being taken in the liquor smuggling traffic, but the business has progressed and been systematized until only those who control the traffic and crack the whip over the rum running fleets reap the golden harvests.

Thus, say these runners, the huge profits in the rum running business across the Detroit river are a thing of the past. Large profits, they maintain still are being taken in the liquor smuggling traffic, but the business has progressed and been systematized until only those who control the traffic and crack the whip over the rum running fleets reap the golden harvests.

American Out-Door Games Played By Youths of China

NEW YORK.—Chinese schoolboys playing baseball on the lot, or lining up for football practice in the school yard, would probably make an unexpected picture with which to replace our American fancies of oriental children in always staid and decorative poses.

Czarist Money Scramble Dupes Russia Refugees

PRAGUE.—Russians in Prague and various other centers where the refugees from the Bolshevik regime are gathered in large numbers, have discovered that the Soviet government victimized them cleverly by loading them down with alleged czarist money, which really was printed by the Bolsheviks.

Russians outside of Russia, and many other persons not thoroughly informed about currency, believed for a long time that the Russian money of the old regime was much more valuable than Bolshevik paper money, and would some day be redeemed. Consequently there was considerable demand in European money exchanges for the old-time Russian money, and it brought better prices than red rubles.

BRITISH WRITER FEARS FUTURE OF JUGOSLAVIA

LONDON.—Jugoslavia is perilously near dissolution, says a correspondent of the Sunday Observer. He believes its condition may have widespread influence upon the unstable architecture of European peace. If Jugoslavia is to be saved, he says, it can be done only by an immediate and extensive application of the principles of non-interference and federalism.

Women of Yucatan Startle Their More Sedate Sisters, Said

MEXICO CITY.—Yucatan's delegation of woman to the recent convention of the Pan-American League of Women, in this city, created something of an uproar. Yucatan is so most stable and promising components of post-war Europe," the correspondent describes the act of union signed by the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes at Zagreb in 1918, assuring the principal racial elements local autonomy and local parliaments. "If," says he, "a constitution in deference to the cultural and political differences which would naturally exist between a nation whose whole history was interlocked with that of their state. Their arguments, however, failed to induce the convention to adopt other than the customary resolutions for the enfranchisement of women.

MAKING FARM PRICES STAND UP

Sharp contrasts between the decline in the price of farmers' products at the farm and the rapid rise in the cost of living, particularly in the large cities, continue to be impressive features of official reports and statistics issued by the department of the government. The most recent figures issued by the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Labor present striking disparities between the producer's returns for what he sells and the consumers' outlay for what he buys, particularly in the urban centers.

The Department of Labor reports the variation in the prices of certain kinds and cuts of meats between March 15 and April 15, this year, and discloses that practically all of these show an increase in cost to the consumer while live animals from which they were derived were growing less valuable in the hands of the farmer. Some of the meats and the difference in their prices on the dates given were: Sirloin steak 39.9 cents a pound in March 15; 40.4 cents a pound April 15; round steak, 38.1 cents March 15; 38.7 cents April 15; rib roast, 34.9 cents March 15; 35.1 cents April 15; pork chops, 31.3 cents March 15; 31.9 cents April 15; lamb, (leg) 34.8 cents March 15; 35 cents April 15.

It will be observed that three kinds of meats are represented in this list—beef, pork, and mutton. All three underwent appreciable increases in price. While these several varieties were advancing to the consumer, the animals which supplied them were decreasing in price at the farm. In other words meats were dearer for every one, except the farmer who was selling the hog, the steer, or the sheep.

The Department of Agriculture reports what was happening to the price of live stock in the hands of the farmer between March 15 and April 15. In that period of 30 days hogs declined 3 points, beef cattle 1 point; veal calves 3 points, sheep 5 points, and lambs 12 points. The prices of most of these animals at the farm continued to fall between April 15 and May 15. The Department of Agriculture puts the amount of this decrease at 1.8 per cent in the month ended May 15. "The price of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep, and chickens—to producers of the United States decreased 1.8 per cent from April 15, to May 15; in the past ten years prices increased in like period 0.4 per cent," says the Department of Agriculture's bulletin. "On May 15 the index figure of prices for these meat animals was about 10.9 per cent lower than a year ago, 3.7 per cent lower than two years ago, and 25.1 per cent lower than the average of the past 10 years on May 1."

HOME VACATION HINTS

Most people who are able to take a vacation at this or any other season of the year, do not think that they need anyone to tell them how to spend it. They count themselves fully able to make their own plans and to carry out their own ideas. The most important problem that they have to solve after they have found that they can spare the time, is to decide how much money they can afford to spend without emptying their pocket books or reducing their bank accounts to a very small figure. Given the time and the cash, the average American finds it pretty easy to decide how he shall spend his vacation days and, though he may sometimes come back disappointed, yet as a rule, he manages to have a good time and to enjoy himself to the full.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming of the United States Public Health Service seems, however, to think that vacationists will profit by a little advice and has recently given it to them. A vacation, he says, should mean different things to different classes of people. The clerk, for instance, who has for months been bending over a set of books should do something to make him use his muscles; while the iron-mill worker needs something to give his muscles a rest. In the same way a girl who has been typewriting or packing cigarettes or cooking, should use her vacation in outdoor sports, such as playing tennis or some thing like that. The tired wife and mother should rest, the Surgeon-General declares, by getting away from husband and children and soothe her nerves by chatting with other women.

Some of these suggestions appear to be good enough in their way, but they cannot pretend to cover the whole field or to solve all the vacation problems. The automobile has now taken a very important and a very good part in the scheme of the American vacation. It involves no separation of husband and wife or of the children, unless there be too many of them, and thousands of families can now be found touring over the country, seeing new sights and getting better acquainted with the land in which they live.

If no automobile can be had, there are many other ways by which the vacation can be made enjoyable. Already many camps for the young people have been opened all thru this section of the state, and their large patronage is proof of their great popularity. Perhaps the best of all possible advice to the vacationist is to spend a lot of time in the open air, eat wholesome food and take care to run no risk of any impairment of health.

ling asylum that receives its small inmates through a sort of revolving door which is so built in a wall that the person operating it from the outside cannot see inside the building nor be seen by persons within. The purpose of this mysterious door is to enable unfortunate mothers to place their offspring in safe keeping without revealing their identity or whatever secrets may have been connected with their existence. Most of the foundlings, the asylum officials say, are put within the revolving door at night when there is little or no traffic on the street outside. With the turning of the door a bell rings, which announces to the attendance that a new guest has arrived. If a note giving the child's name or other information is pinned to its clothes, it is baptized with that name, but once a baby is placed within the door by the despairing mother, it is never returned, no matter what change in fortune may come to the mother or what claims she may advance to support her repentance. The inmates of the "Casa dos Expostos" are raised like orphans and within the ability of the gentle nursing mother there is little who manage the institution. Many of the children are adopted by childless couples. Founded in 1738, the institution in the two centuries of its existence has furnished more than 45,000 citizens to this city, some of whom achieved renown and high position—and their introduction to the world was a revolving door.

"MASTERS OF MEN" BIG SEA STORY ON BILL AT STRAND THEATER TODAY

"Masters of Men," a great story of the sea written by Morgan Robertson, will be shown at the Strand theater today and Friday. It is a vivid, stirring drama of the sea, about real men whose veins run hot with red fighting blood, shifty footed men with a ready right and left punch in defense of honor!

A story of a boy battling to master the primordial instincts of the young male to win a mans estate in the most brutal school on earth—the hell-hole forward on board a four master sailing the Spanish Main.

A love story of youth that wrings the heart. Earl Williams, Alice Calhoun, Cullen Landis and Wanda Hawley, play the leading parts in this fine screen picture.

DR. HARTLEY PRE-EMINENTLY A PULPIT ORATOR

The Gospel mission which begins in St. Paul's Episcopal church next Sunday at 11 a. m. will afford the people in Greenville the privilege of hearing a preacher of nation-wide fame.

Dr. Hartley has held various large pastorates throughout the country and was formerly dean of the Cathedral at Little Rock, Ark. While doing parish work, he became so renowned as a successful preacher and speaker that he was called upon to do general mission work in the church. His undisputed success lies in his masterful delivery, scholarly and rational interpretation of the scriptures and his deeply spiritual life. He is a master of illustrations, humor, parables and tragedy.

While conducting a mission at the University of North Carolina it was said that the Chapel of the Cross was crowded to its almost capacity on the hottest mornings and hundreds of students gathered for evening service on the campus.

His methods and messages are profoundly impressive, and large congregations are expected to hear him. An opinion is expressed, now and then, that St. Paul's church will not accommodate the crowds that will come to hear Dr. Hartley, but those in charge give assurance that, if humanly possible, every one will be accommodated.

This year's meet of the educators included the presence of some of the world's best authority on questions of health as well as matters appertaining to educational problems. According to a statement of the local men there were 10,000 delegates in attendance, and these represented approximately every nation of the world.

GERMANY LOST 187 SUBMARINES IN WORLD WAR

WASHINGTON.—One hundred and seventy-eight German submarines were "lost in action" during the war, according to an official report just received by the Navy Department. The loss in personnel is given as 5,364, of whom 515 were officers. These figures are believed by officials here to be the first authentic information on this subject to be obtained. Four years were consumed, the author of the report asserts, in checking official records and interviewing members of the German admiralty who had charge of under-sea craft. Depth charges accounted for 37 submarines, fixed mines for 36, fights with enemy submarines 20, engine and other trouble 14, torpedo boats, destroyers and subchasers 13, accidental ramming eight, armed fishing craft six, airplane (bombing) six, and submarine nets six. Twenty-one submarines were demolished or otherwise disposed of to prevent their capture by the enemy. Three were sunk by regular patrol vessels of the enemy three by armed auxiliaries, two by cruisers and two by artillery fire from the shore. One was sunk by a line at the entrance to the British main base of Scapa Flow, the famous U 29 under Capt. Weddigen.

A chart accompanying the report shows that 56 of the under-sea boats were lost in the English channel, 24 in the North Sea, 16 in the Mediterranean, 16 on the East Coast of England, 12 off the Dutch Coast, three near Heligoland, two in Scapa Flow and the remainder in far-separated spots in the world's oceans.

Of the boats interned before the German fleet was delivered to the allies, the report says, five were sold to Spain and two to Holland while 14 were demolished.

Inspection of the boats of shipbuilding firms holding contracts showed that 281 submarines had been ordered and 197 were under construction when the armistice was signed.

Russian Homes For Children Show Marked Improvement As Americans Raise Standards

The American Relief Administration is leaving Russia, but it is leaving behind food enough to care for its several million of rescued children for the hungry months between the time of its departure, and the harvesting of the great grain crops that are sure to yield Russia food enough to feed its entire population and probably leave a surplus for export.

Incidentally the American Relief Administration is leaving in every Russian city for the wife and orphan, in a far better condition than it found them. There are sheets and blankets on the beds, supplied by the A. R. A., there are medicines in the medicine closets, and there is soap. It is wonderful what a difference a few tons of soap will make in a children's home, even a Russian children's home, particularly if an inspector drops in occasionally to report on whether or not the soap is being effectively used.

The home where the above pictures were taken is known as the "Second Child City" at Odessa. One picture shows a few of the 1600 children which the American Relief Administration has been feeding in this particular institution, and the other shows some of the girls at the home busily fashioning garments from material contributed by the American Relief Administration through the A. R. A. In addition to its feeding, the A. R. A. has supplied this particular home with 900 blankets, 650 sheets, 800 pillow cases, 600 children's gowns, 500 yards of muslin, 880 towels, 600 pounds of cod liver oil, 2,614 pounds of soap, 1,000 pounds of calcium chlorinate, to say nothing of other disinfectants, first-aid equipment, bandages, and medicines. And this is only one of some 15,000 institutions, including hospitals, that the A. R. A. has equipped and supplied with such necessities. Had it not been for the aid extended many of them would have been forced to close their doors. But perhaps even more important than these tangible gifts of supplies and of food, is the better management that the A. R. A. has brought about, through its careful and frequent inspections and its grading of various institutions by which higher standards of sanitation have been set and better care secured for the patients and inmates.

Pershing's Personal Physician Prescribed For Russia's Ills; Medical Aid Saved Millions

"How's the patient this morning, Doc?"
"Better, thank you. I've given her 30,000 pounds of quinine and 700,000 pounds of cod liver oil, and it begins to look as if she would pull through."
"Heroic treatment? Yes, but it was a very sick patient—the Russian bear. Henry Beeuwkes, M.D., of the United States Army, was the doctor in charge of the case, the same doctor who prescribed for General Pershing of the A. E. F., and Russia was the harder patient of the two."
"It is almost two years now that Dr. Beeuwkes has been sitting at her bedside, ministering to her wants and studying her many diseases. As chief of the Medical Division of the American Relief Administration, Dr. Beeuwkes has piled on Russia's bed 470,000 blankets, 570,000 sheets, 155,000 pillow and mattress covers, most of them plainly marked United States Army or American Red Cross. He has used 890,000 towels and 90,000 pairs of slippers for Russia while her recovery was in doubt, and 86,000 times he has completely outfitted one of her newborn sons or daughters from safety pin to socks."
"He has bathed her with two and a half million pounds of soap. He has fumigated her with 800,000 pounds of sulphur, he has bandaged her with 8,000,000 gauze bandages, and dosed her with 377 different kinds of medicine. His was no homeopathic treatment; it took forty tons of chloroform and ether, 57 tons of castor oil, fifteen tons of aspirin and thirty-one tons of boric acid. When her worst ailment was recurrent at harvest time,

Motors cost more than paint — but cost less to protect

Say you run your car 500 miles a month and pay as low as $10.00 for storage—2¢ per mile. Suppose you use eight quarts of good oil, draining your crank case every 500 miles—that's still well under a half cent per mile.

You can see what weather does to your paint. You can't so easily see what inferior oil does to your motor, but the car-wise driver takes no chances. He knows his motor costs more than his paint and takes less to protect. Polarine, the high quality oil, sells for little more than the cheapest and more than saves its entire cost through lower friction and added motor life.

The Polarine Chart recommends a certain consistency of Polarine for your motor. Consult it at your dealer's.

NOBODY CARES.
 Your way through this world you must make
 So gird your loins the path to break,
 Your back alone the burden bears.
 Remember this—nobody cares.

 Working hard success to make,
 Should you face failure unawares.
 Remember this—nobody cares.

Friendship is a gaudy bubble,
 Disappears when you're in trouble,
 Few interest take in your affairs
 Remember this—nobody cares.

'Tis so through life in every walk,
 When friends? Could help you, then

 That's when their curse from you

 Though for principle you have fought
 Your neighbor clear of you steers,

Shower for Bride-Elect.
 Falkland, July 12.—One of the most enjoyable occasions of the season took place at the home of Mrs. J. F. Parker Tuesday evening, when the friends of Miss Lillian Crisp whose marriage to Rev. C. A. Lawrence will take place July 31, gave her a linen shower.

The porch was beautifully and artistically decorated with ferns and flowers.

The guests were entertained with music and several interesting contests were enjoyed. Prizes were awarded by Mrs. Gorham Cates.

After much merriment Little Edward Mayo attired as bride-groom and little Elaine Pierce as bride, with their attendants came up the walk rolling a wagon loaded with presents to the bride-elect. The nice display attested to the popularity of Miss Crisp.

Delicious refreshments were then served by Misses Annie Mayo, Ruth Pittman, Brown Mayo and David McNeill.

At a late hour all repaired to their homes after expressing themselves as having had a delightful evening.

LOCAL DISCONTENT LESSENS STEADILY IN SOVIET RUSSIA

MOSCOW.—Few and perhaps unimportant as they are just enough counter-revolutionary acts and plots have been revealed in Soviet Russia in the last few months to indicate that, on the one hand, all opposition to the Bolshevik regime has not died down and, on the other, that the communist government may be justified, from its standpoint, in maintaining semi-martial law in some districts.

Americans and other foreigners who spend a few weeks or months in Russia and find everything moving forward apparently smoothly under the communist dictatorship, sometimes go home and report that everybody is contented with the present state of affairs. This seems true in Moscow and other central Russian cities, but a careful day-by-day perusal of the official newspapers shows that every now and then a plot pops up, and that an undercurrent of opposition, weak but persistent, is running beneath the surface in many provinces.

One reads laconic announcements that two persons have been shot here, another there, some more in another place, for counter-revolutionary activity or participation in "banditry." This in the Ukraine and Cossack regions is just another name for roving armed opposition to the red army.

Once in a great while come announcements of more important plots, such as the one recently discovered in Georgia. This resulted in the execution of 15 persons, and had as its aim the separation of the entire Caucasus from Soviet Russia.

These counter-revolutionary activities are nothing like as widespread as a year or two ago, but they are sufficiently important to keep the secret police and red army constantly on the watch.

Kilbane, With $250,000 To Plow Business Field
 CLEVELAND.—After nearly a month's rest on his farm near Vermilion, Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight boxing champion until he met Eugene Criqui in New York, is ready to settle down to the life of a business man. His friends have estimated his financial assets at a quarter of a million dollars.

Johnny will become a business man without any regrets at having lost the title, although, as he says now, he felt regret when he staggered to his feet immediately following his knock-out.

"No more fighting for me," Johnny has said. "I can't fight any more, anyway. The old pep was gone in the Criqui fight, my hands were bad, I had nothing. And to meet a little fighter of Criqui's type you needed everything."

"I have appreciated the way my friends rallied about me after I had been beaten. When I returned to Cleveland 11 years ago after beating Abe Attell for the championship, 100,000 people met me at the depot. A few hundred of my friends met me when I returned from the Criqui fight. They were downcast, but I want them to know that I am not at all blue; that I'm glad I'm no longer champion."

Johnny says his only interest in boxing in the future will be centered in Al Ziemer, his sparring partner for years, whom he wants to send after Criqui.

panion is that of fuel supply. In 1922, according to official figures published here, Brazil spent approximately $27,000,000 on imported fuels.

The principal difficulty in the way of developing known sources of fuel in Brazil at present is the lack of transportation facilities. Coal mined in Brazil now costs more on this market than that imported from England or the United States.

More Bananas from Mexico.
 MEXICO CITY.—The dredging of the port of Frontera, to permit the entry of large steamers, is completed, and a boom in the export of bananas is expected as a result.

Frontera assembled over 4,000,000 bunches of bananas last year, but less than half could be moved because of the lack of harbor facilities. New oil wells at Tabasco also are expected to add to the maximum activity of Frontera.

A. R. A. Withdrawing, Leaves Food For Russian Children Weakened By Hard Years of the Famine

Although the American Relief Administration is rapidly withdrawing its personnel and planning to end its work in Russia, Russian children from Petrograd to Odessa, in thousands of schools and children's homes, are still sitting down happily to their daily meal of A. R. A. food.

Colonel William N. Haskell, when he agreed to feed up to 3,000,000 Russian children to the coming harvest, requisitioned sufficient food supplies to enable him to carry out that program. As the Relief Administration withdraws from the districts, supplies are left behind in the hands of the various committees organized to carry on the work in quantities sufficient to meet the estimated need until the new harvest is gathered. The photograph shows one of the smaller feeding centers in Moscow. It is maintained for the children who are pupils in the school pictured, but it is typical of what the A. R. A. is doing all over Russia. The faces of the children are the best index of the success which the American Relief Administration has attained in counteracting the ravages of famine and undernourishment. They tell, better even than the letters which the children write to their American benefactors, how much the nourishing corn, the corn grits and the fats, the good wheat flour and American milk have meant to the millions of half-starved orphans, many of them orphans, many of them merely lost or abandoned, who have found their way into the Russian institutions—institutions so destitute of funds as to be unable to provide the bare necessities for healthful living. The prospects are that the coming harvest will bring to Russia food enough to care for her teeming millions and leave a goodly surplus to be exported. Because it is purely an emergency organization for the relief of famine, the American Relief Administration believes that the harvest time should see the end of its Russian program. The task of relieving the general poverty that exists because of the breakdown of the industrial life of the country and the disorganization of the social and economic structures and the slow work of reconstruction and rehabilitation is left to other agencies.

But whatever may be done for them in the future, there are millions of children in Russia who will cherish the memory of the "A. R. A." kitchens, where they ate strange but hunger-quenching foods in the years of the great famine.

ALASKA

The story of its development. Its output since its purchase for $7,200,000 aggregates approximately a billion dollars.

President Harding's midsummer visit to "Seward's Icebox," as Alaska was designated after its purchase under the recommendation of Secretary Seward, calls attention to the remarkable development of that area since its purchase from Russia by the United States in 1867. There were "knockers" in those days as well as now and those who recall from their personal remembrance or reading the fierce criticism of an appropriation of $7,200,000 in full payment for this enormous area, practically double the size of the original thirteen states, will be interested to note some figures appearing in the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York as to Alaska's development and especially in wealth production in the 56 years since its purchase.

The mere area, 591,000 square miles, says the Trade Record, is nearly twice that of the thirteen original states (325,000 square miles) and its contributions to our wealth especially in recent years are startling when compared with the small sum paid for it. Its gold production alone in the 20 years for which we have an official record is in round terms $250, 000,000, or 35 times as much as the entire sum paid to Russia for it. The copper sent us from Alaska alone has aggregated $125,000,000 since the establishment of a governmental record 20 years ago, and in the single year 1922 was approximately $10,000,000 or more than the entire cost. Its minerals and metals include not merely gold, silver and copper, but also platinum, antimony, lead, tin, graphite, gypsum, barytes, sulphur, coal and mineral oil. The Alaska Bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, which has special facilities for keeping close tab on conditions in Alaska, since Seattle is the chief port through which Alaskan products enter, estimates the total output of minerals and metals in Alaska since its purchase at $460,000,000 down to 1920, which would bring the grand aggregate at the present time to about $500,000,000. Figures of the United States Government show gold receipts from Alaska for the last three years at over $20,000,000, and copper at over $30,000,000.

But it is not in minerals and metals alone that Alaska has made great contributions to the wealth and domestic requirements of the country. The output of the fisheries since its purchase is stated at over $400,000,000, and the official statistics of the Department of Commerce show that the fish products shipped from Alaska to other parts of the country in the past three years aggregated nearly $100,000,000, or to be more exact $95,348,553. The fur products which were extremely valuable during the period in which no limitations were placed upon the taking of the fur seal have totaled since its purchase nearly $100,000,000, but are now running at the rate of 3 1/2 million dollars a year, of which seal skins form about one-third. Of the $51,000,000 worth of merchandise shipped from Alaska to the various ports of the United States in the calendar year 1922, canned salmon amounted to $29,487,000, fish products as a whole $34,271,000, furs $3,501,000, copper $9,833,000, domestic gold $7,630,000, and silver $770,000.

Other interesting statistics presented in the Trade Record put the length of railways in Alaska at 700 miles; the capital invested in the various industries runs into the hundreds of millions; that of the fisheries alone $75,000,000; the number of reindeer (which were introduced by the United States Government in 1892) is now estimated at 225,000, while the available coal "reserve" is estimated by the United States Geological Survey at a minimum of 150,000,000 tons, and may be many times that amount. In agriculture the developments are equally surprising, and grains, vegetables, and live stock are among the successful industries, especially in the southern and southeastern section.

New Sweaters Blend Colors As Never Before. The Secret? It's All In the Yarn.

by Mabel Drouet

THE charming possibilities of colors blended in lovely designs were first expressed in the popular batika. Women who had found one bright color trying, discovered that a blend of many colors could be most becoming, lending a soft, warm glow to the skin.

But batikas were only for those of talent in this complicated dyeing—or those disposed to pay for another's talent—and soon the simpler tie-dyeing became the vogue. There is no gainsaying that these gay kerchiefs of Danaville effect brought a riot of color into our lives and made a drab, trying winter more easily endured!

And yet sweaters—in which color plays so important a role—had been confined to the few shades one might blend oneself in the process of knitting. A tedious procedure and none but the most conventional of patterns could be worked out in this way—none of the charming easiness found in the dyed silks was present.

Perhaps that is why the new yarn just appearing has created such a sensation! Magicfloss, it is called. It's quite the most mysterious and fascinating blend of colors. Cornflower blue, spring rose, white and gold might be one of these color combinations. Mauve, white, tangerine and jade might be another. They're not distinctly these colors—it's difficult to say where one begins and the other ceases, but you have the charm of all in one soft, glowing blend.

But the real thrill comes in the knitting. No picture puzzle holds more tantalizing allurements than the development of the design which these colors will effect. You've no idea what the design will be—and no two sweaters will be the same. The colors fly together here—spring apart there, and all-in-all, when finished, you've the most interesting and smartest of sweaters imaginable.

The newest models in sweaters, by the way, are partial to the blouse lines. The long surplice front, the Jacquette idea, really, are a boon to the woman of full figure. Many of these models have the side effect in closing and these lines combined with the bewitching coloring of the new Magicfloss give the Tutanhamen air which the new and better overblouse effect.

One looks for a colorful veranda summer.

Asteroid "Aurora" Lost Twelve Years Through An Error

BERKELEY, Calif.—Dr. A. O. Leuschner, professor of astronomy at the University of California here, Dr. H. Thiele, an assistant astronomer of Lick Observatory, and a number of advanced students, have started a computation on the tiny asteroid "Aurora" which was lost to the scientific world for 12 years. An effort is being made by the University of California to solve the motion of Aurora.

The little body, one of the several hundred minor planets which revolve about the sun between Mars and Jupiter, has given astronomers much trouble since its discovery a quarter-century ago. Although a considerable amount of computing has been done on the asteroid's orbit, errors were made many years ago which resulted in the asteroid's becoming "lost" for 12 years.

Several years ago it was rediscovered at some distance from the point where calculations predicted it should be. Working with data resulting from observations of Aurora since her rediscovery, University of California astronomers have been able to detect important errors made by German astronomers years ago.

The problem, local astronomers state, is one of considerable difficulty because of the nearness of the asteroid to Jupiter and Saturn, two mighty bodies which are continually pulling Aurora out of the path laid down for it by the sun. It is to the calculations of the effect of these disturbers that the work is now being directed by Professor Leuschner, and months of mathematical work will be required before the problem of Aurora's motion is solved, the professor states.

Pershing and Gouraud To Lead Noted Division

INDIANAPOLIS.—Soldiers who in many instances have not met since their last engagement on the battle front in Europe are expected to attend the fifth annual convention of the Rainbow Division Veterans' Association here July 13, 14 and 15. General John J. Pershing, chief of staff, United States army, and General Henri Gouraud, of the French army, will be special guests of honor.

The reunion is expected to attract between eight and ten thousand former service men. Local persons in charge of arrangements state that almost all the states will be represented.

The convention will also commemorate the fifth anniversary of the Champagne defense of July, 1918, in which the Rainbow division fought with the Fourth French army under General Gouraud. It was in this battle that the German advance east of Rheims, was checked.

One of the feature events of the convention program will be the street parade headed by General Pershing and General Boursaud. This will take place July 14.

BABY FARM CARVAN? MYSTERY TRAGEDY

Mrs. Anna Stewers and Ward's wife

Above is shown Mrs. Anna Stewers, of Brooklyn, New York, with fifteen of the seventeen babes she took to Schenectady, New York, in one automobile to establish a "baby farm." She had been boarding the children in her home in Brooklyn, but her neighbors objected and she bundled them all in a taxicab and took the long journey northward, in an effort to buy a farm where she could care for the infants. During the long automobile trip up the state two of the children became seriously ill, while a third died. Mrs. Stewers was lodged in the county almshouse with her wards, and their parents were notified to come after them.

PERSPECTIVE OF THE GRAHAM MEMORIAL BUILDING

To be erected at the University of North Carolina as a Student's Activities building and social center for the student body. The building is to be located on the old University Inn site, will face west towards the Hattie Vance Pettigrew dormitories, with appropriate entrance towards Franklin street and the Alumni building, and is to cost $400,000. Subscriptions for which are now being raised by students of the alumni. The plans for the building, which will be of the late Georgian style of architecture, brick with limestone trimmings, have been drawn by Messrs. Kendall, McKim, Mead, and White, and Nash, of the T. O. Atwood organization. Construction of the central unit will be begun in 1923-24.

D. H. Otis, Madison, To Address Confab For Good Work Now

RALEIGH, July 12.—Officers of state agricultural colleges and members of agricultural committees of state bankers' associations in the Fifth federal reserve district will hold a conference in Raleigh July 17, the session to be held at State College of Agriculture and Engineering. The conference was called by J. Elwood Cox, High Point, and will probably last for two days.

D. H. Otis, Madison, Wis., director of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers' Association, will be present and address the conference. J. H. Puelicher, of Milwaukee, president of the American Bankers' Association, also is expected to attend.

As the meeting will bring together leading agricultural and banking men of the Southern states, it will be of more than passing interest. The principal object is to discuss methods of bettering conditions in the farming industry.

A feature of the conference will be the presentation of rural credits program by Miss Harriett M. Berry, whose efforts in behalf of good roads in the state figured considerably in the present $50,000,000 program. Besides the State College of Agriculture and Engineering other institutions in the fifth federal reserve district to be represented are Georgia Institute of Technology, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

M. L. Shipman Praised For Good Work Now

RALEIGH, July 12.—M. L. Shipman, Commissioner of Labor and Printing, is receiving congratulatory letters from various parts of the county on the 1921-22 report recently issued by his department. In asking for more copies for the students, S. H. Hobbs, Jr., of the University of North Carolina, said in his opinion "it is by far the best report ever issued by the Department."

"It contains more information, in a form easily gotten at, than anything we have seen," wrote a widely-known Boston manufacturer.

Copies of the report were mailed to all newspapers in the state, manufacturers, all state libraries in the United States and Canada, summer schools, all Chambers of Commerce in the state and a few foreign countries. It was also sent to the various departments at Washington.

Spanish War Veterans To Meet in Tennessee

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—The 25th national encampment of the United Spanish War veterans will be held in Chattanooga Sept. 16-20. Veterans of the Spanish war from all parts of the country, accompanied by relatives and members of the women's auxiliaries will mingle with men of the Civil and World wars as honored guests of the city. Twenty-five thousand persons are expected.

The national convention committee has invited Major Andrew S. Rowan as one of the distinguished guests of the encampment. Major Rowan as a young officer carried the "Message to Garcia" and was recently decorated for that service by congress receiving the Distinguished Service Cross.

An old time southern barbecue on the battlefield at Chicamauga Park, where so many troops were mobilized during the Spanish War, is one of the entertainment features that has been definitely decided upon for one day during the encampment.
