

According to an official of the Norfolk-Southern railroad, it has been finally decided to comply with law compelling steam carriers to maintain danger signs where public roads cross its tracks. Anticipating that law was to become effective July 1 other lines of the state erected the required warning boards. As usual the Norfolk-Southern did not. This is the reason for delay accredited to an official of the engineering department:

It was planned to erect steel warning posts, and the delay has been occasioned because of the failure of the mills to make deliveries. That explanation is reasonable. But such a wide departure in policy in purchasing the best of anything sounds almost incredible. It is believed that much of the adverse criticism to which the railroad has been subjected will be abated until more time is given to get the steel posts.

Now that this demand of the law will be obeyed, it would prove gratifying to know soon officials of the system will carry out the ordinance of the Aldermanic Board of Greenville, directing that gates or watchmen be maintained at specific grade crossings. The wish may be father to the thought, but some times the unexpected happens, and that the creeping thing called a railroad will come to life with generally improved service.

Maughan Loses Flight Against Odds of Oil Fumes; To Try Again

ROCK SPRINGS, WYO., July 20.—Battling unflinchingly against time in a second attempt to span the American continent by the light of a single day, Lieut. Russell L. Maughan lost again yesterday before the odds of mechanical weakness.

Winging his way westward over the perilous Wyoming mountains at the terrific speed of 170 miles per hour after covering two thirds of the fourth leg of his flight Lieut. Maughan was forced to land with oil pouring from the cooling tanks and nauseating fumes almost rendering him unconscious. After passing over Rock Springs and covering a part of the distance toward his next scheduled stop the pilot realized that to reach his destination would be impossible so he averted the plane and returned to Rock Springs where he landed at Air Mail Service field at 5:08 just 15 hours after starting from Mitchell Field, N. Y.

Finds Oil Leak.
The first two legs of the flight were made without trouble and not until he passed over North Platte, Neb., did Lieut. Maughan discover an oil leak. He continued his flight and when he arrived at Cheyenne, the end of the third leg of the flight, he almost fell from the cockpit in a semi-conscious state caused by the suffocating fumes of the escaping oil. He rested for about an hour while mechanics worked desperately to repair the leaks and then hopped off again determined to reach his goal which was less than a thousand miles away.

Lieut. Maughan expressed keen disappointment and was visibly discouraged at the outcome of his second attempt within 10 days to accomplish the "dawn-to-dusk" flight. He took heart however in his moral victory and the hope that he may yet be able to fulfill his one great ambition.

Further Attempts Deferred.
WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Army Air Service announced today that attempts to span the continent in a single day had been called off for the year. No explanation was made but it is understood that owing to the season and the shortening of available daylight during the period that would have to transpire products will be on sale tomorrow and while preparations for another attempt were being completed that it would be impossible to reach the destination before dark.

He Found Embalmed Rattler In Gallon of "Moonshine Dew"

STATESVILLE, July 20.—Somebody in Burke county put a skinned rattlesnake in a gallon of mountain liquor, and the theory is that the liquor was to be used by some one afflicted with tuberculosis, according to Prohibition officer T. M. Hallyburton, who, with a party of other officers made the discovery while hunting wildcat stills in the Burke mountains, says the Statesville Sentinel.

"We found the booze by the side of the road about fifteen miles southeast of Morganton," Mr. Hallyburton said while here Monday. "We found it by accident, but failed to find any one near it. The liquor was fine and clear. We were unable to tell exactly just why the snake had been placed in the booze, but we have been told that it is the popular belief by mountain people that liquor in which has been placed a skinned rattlesnake for several hours will cure tuberculosis."

W. J. Smith, who has been spending a few days at Morehead City, returned yesterday.

Man Arrested On Old Charge, Shoe Strings Among Loot

Jess Mills, a young white man of the Cox Mill section of the county, was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Whitehurst, Cox and Williams charged with entering several months ago the store of J. R. Worthington at Cox Mill and taking merchandise valued at about $100. The officers received inside information which led to the arrest of Mills.

After securing a search warrant the deputies went to the young man's home and there found a portion of the goods among them being more than 50 pairs of shoe strings which possible he was holding for an increase in price to dispose of in wholesale quantities.

Mills denied the allegation, just as he did on several previous occasions when he has been arrested for larceny of some degree. At the last term of Pitt superior court, Mills was convicted of the theft of a horse, and because of his misfortune of possessing only one arm the presiding judge made his punishment very light.

Legion Will Discuss Important Subjects At State Meeting

ROCKY MOUNT, July 20.—In addition to the regular program of reports and addresses the Grist bill, the Gilles bill, the veterans bureau, the care orphans and plans to make the Legion take a more prominent part in community life will come before the annual convention of the North Carolina department of the American Legion here Sept. 2 and 13 for consideration and action, R. E. Denny, department adjutant, of Greensboro, declared at a dinner conference and attended by the executive committee of the Coleman-Pitt post and representatives of various civic organizations.

Mrs. Watson Testifies Mike Lawson Swung Strap and Beat Her

LUMBERTON, July 20.—Mrs. Mary Watson, testifying today in the case against three men for the flogging of herself and Mrs. Hattie Purvis, positively identified Mike Lawson as the man who swung the strap. She also declared that P. Smith a railroad worker was the tall hooded figure in the mob who acted as spokesman and "judge."

WOMEN'S PARTY IN SESSION

Above—Alice Paul, Miss Anita Pollitzer, and Mrs. Clarence M. Smith. Below—Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, Susan B. Anthony, and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

The memory of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, leaders in the fight for women's suffrage, was honored at Seneca Falls and Rochester, N. Y., meetings of the Conference of the Women's Party July 20-2. Mrs. O. H. Belmont, President of the Women's Party, presided. Miss Anita Pollitzer, of Charleston, S. C., was National Secretary and Mrs. Clarence M. Smith was Acting State Chairman for New York State. Miss Alice Paul led the fight for the adoption of a resolution demanding a Federal Constitutional amendment declaring for equal rights for women.

INFLUENCE "HOME, SWEET HOME" WAS BROUGHT OUT IN SPLENDID SERMON BY REV. JOHN HARTLEY

This sermon "Home, Sweet Home," was delivered by the Rev. Dr. John Hartley, at St. Paul's Episcopal church. It will be published in The Reflector in daily installments.—Ed. note.

BY REV. JOHN HARTLEY.

There is something about the word home that awakens the kindest feelings of the heart. It is not the friends and kindred merely that render that place so dear, but the very hills, rocks and rivulets throw a charm around the place of one's nativity, and it is little wonder that the loftiest, sweetest harps have been tuned to sing of "Home, Sweet Home."

The rose that bloomed in the garden where we wandered in early years was lovely in its bloom and lovelier in its decay. No songs so sweet as those we heard among the boughs that shaded our parents' dwelling, when the morning or evening found us gay as the birds that warbled over us. No matter so bright and clear, no streams so silvery as those that wind among the flower decked knolls where in childhood we often strayed to pluck the violet or the lily, or to twine a garland for some loved, schoolmate.

Old Familiar Haunts.

We may wander among and mingle in the "world's fierce strife, form new associations and friendships, and fancy we have forgotten the land of our birth, but at some evening hour as we listen perchance to the autumn winds, the remembrance of other days will come stealing over us, and fancy bears us back to childhood's scenes, and we roam again the old familiar haunts and press the hands of companions long since cold in the grave, and listen for voices we shall hear no more on earth. Then a feeling of melancholy comes over us, which, like Osian's music, is pleasant though mournful to the soul.

The African, torn from his willow braided hut and borne away to the land of charters and chains weeps as he thinks of home and sighs and pines for the coca land beyond the sea. Years may have passed over him, stripes and toils may have crushed his spirit, all his friends may have found graves upon the corals of the ocean; yet, were he free, how soon would he seek the shores and skies of his boyhood dreams!

Long for Other Days.

The American mariner, amid the icebergs of the northern seas, or breathing the spicy gales of the evergreen isles, or coasting along the shores of the Pacific; though the hand of time may have bleached his raven locks, and care may have ploughed deep furrows on his brow, and his heart may have been chilled by storms of ocean, till the fountains of his love have almost ceased to gush with the heavenly current; yet, upon some summer's evening, as he looks upon the sun sinking behind the western wave, he will think of home, and his heart will yearn for the loved of other days and his tears will fall like summer rain.

Sung Everywhere.

How does the heart of the wanderer, after long years of absence, beat, and his eye fill, as he catches a glimpse of the hills of his nativity? And when he has pressed the lip of a mother or sister, how quickly does he go to see if the garden, orchard, stream and the old mill look as in the days gone by? We may find chimes as beautiful, skies as bright, and friends as devoted; but these will not usurp the place of home.

"Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home."

The song of John Howard Payne has touched the heart of mankind at large. "Home, Sweet Home" has become the National Anthem of the English speaking race. They sing it with equal pathos on the prairies of America, the backwoods of Canada, the Australian bush, the plains of "marrie England," on the heathery hills of "bonnie Scotland," the bare-faced boys of "Auld Ireland," and the cloud-capped mountains of "wild Wales."

Voiced by Rival Armies.

I have read that the rival armies of the north and south were encamped at night on either shore of the Potomac. Each side took up the strain of its favorite song, and the north tried to drown the music of the south, and the south to outchant the north. At last some genius in one of the camps started "Home, Sweet Home!" Then all at once the rivalry ceased; the enemies sang together, and the river flowed along the valley.

VILLA BANDIT SHOT TO DEATH AT HIS RANCH

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico. General Francisco (Pancho) Villa, commander of the rebels in northern Mexico for the past 10 years was shot and instantly killed at 6:30 o'clock today on his big ranch at Canutillo Durango by his secretary, Miguel Trillo. The latter is said to have become incensed with the former bandit chief and fired suddenly, the bullet taking effect and Villa died almost instantly. A battle followed in which Trillo was killed by some of the men loyal to their dead chief. According to the latest advices received the fighting is still in progress.

Barrett & Company Failure Is Surprise New York 'Change

NEW YORK, July 20.—Barrett and company, cotton brokers, notified the exchange today that they were unable to meet their obligations and to sell their seat on the cotton exchange. The failure came as a big surprise as the concern was regarded as one of the most conservative traders on the market. The failure will be felt to some extent in the cotton belt.

Seek to Restrain Collection of $ 500 Tax On Automobiles

CHARLOTTE, July 20.—A writ enjoining the state revenue collector from collecting the $500 annual sales tax imposed on dealers for every make of automobile handled was granted today by Judge W. F. Harding.

Fertilizer Use Is Showing Increase, Says U. S. Report

WASHINGTON, July 20.—There has been an increase in the amount of fertilizer used on the cotton acreage this year as compared with last year, according to announcement of the United States Department of Agriculture. More than 37 percent of the acreage has been fertilized as compared with 32 percent last year. A number of individual states show larger gains, the announcement stated.

"In Georgia 93 percent of the total cotton acreage received fertilizer this year," the department announcement said, "or 10 percent more than last year acreage. Florida shows 88 percent of the cotton acreage fertilized or eight percent more than in 1922; Alabama 88 percent, an increase of 10 percent; Mississippi 44 percent, an increase of 14 percent; Louisiana 38 percent or an increase of 18 percent, and Arkansas 31 percent. The remaining cotton states are below the average gain for the belt as a whole."

Attorney Louis W. Gaylord is out of the city for several days on a business trip.

Helen Parrish, 12-years-old, is heroine of the first type, but possibly she does not know it. Nevertheless, her presence of mind and prompt action saved the life of Sarah Johnson, 12, after she had gone down twice in the swimming pool at the high school.

It is common practice of children, in some cases, accompanied by parents, or others old enough to look out for them to take a splash in the pool each day. Frequently it happens that children are unaccompanied. That fact is what narrowly averted a tragedy.

Sarah Johnson and Helen Parrish with the exception of a few younger children were left alone at the pool. Sarah can swim, Helen cannot. The former was enjoying the sport when Helen noticed that something was wrong when she failed to make the usual strokes. She went down and came up strangling. Grasping the side of the concrete coping of the pool Helen caught her by the hair and brought her to safety.

This sort of heroism is rare. Helen did not wait to make an outcry, she realized it might mean loss of time. Prompt action was required. She acted without regard to her own safety to save the life of another, and she did.

When Carnegie medals are passed out for bravery and heroism Helen Parrish should be on the list.

Mother Klan Breaks From Other Bodies

ATLANTA, Ga., July 20.—Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan No. 1, of Atlanta, known as "the Mother Klan of the World" adopted a resolution last night "to at no time in the future recognize, contribute to or in any manner affiliate with the national organization of the first Order of the Ku Klux Klan, until such time as the national organization has been purged and different officials placed in control."

The resolution also declared the Nathan Bedford Forest Klan would return to the national organization when officials are placed in control "who have the interest of the organization only in mind and at heart." In the meantime they will "continue our work as Klansmen, but separate and apart from the national organization."

Messrs. G. V. Smith and W. Z. Morton went to Pamlico Beach yesterday to spend the week-end.

OLD TESTAMENT COLLECTION OF WRITINGS, DIRECTED BY GOD NOT TENABLE, HE SAYS

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C., July 20.—The older view that the Old Testament is a collection of writings dictated by God is no longer tenable, declared Dr. S. G. Bland, of Toronto, Canada, in his fourth lecture in a series on biblical criticism under the direction of the Leadership schools of the Sunday School board of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, here. Dr. Bland was discussing the general topic, "The Origin, Significance and Abiding Worth of the Old Testament Scriptures," and the subject of his lecture today was "The Greatness of the New Brew People."

"We do not find the Old Testament books all on the same moral level. We do not find them free from some admixture of the limitations and immaturities of this time.

"Jesus and St. Paul and the letters to the Hebrews have instructed us to set aside earlier teachings where it conflicts with later and purer."

"In short the Old Testament is the record of a progressive revolution beginning on comparatively low moral and religious levels and gradually climbing to the loftiest Heights reached by the revelation of God in Jesus Christ."

COOPERATIVE GETS JOLT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Opening of the Cooperative tobacco market in South Carolina last Wednesday proved a disappointing surprise to the Cooperative Tobacco association, according to reports received from various places in that state.

What was looked forward to as an auspicious opening day turned out to be a stunning blow to advocates of the cooperative selling system. It is declared that officials and supporters of the association are at a loss to explain the sudden change among its membership in the Palmetto state.

The Wilson Mirror made a careful survey of the South Carolina situation. A dispatch to that paper from Manning, S. C., says:

"Co-Ops opened here yesterday. Business managers were on hand looking for their victims. FARMERS DID NOT BRING A SINGLE LOAD OF TOBACCO. THE ANNAPIAS CLUB AT RALEIGH, N. C. CAN NOW CORRECT THEIR ADVANCE PADDED REPORTS. THE FARMERS ARE WISE AND WAITING UNTIL THE REAL MARKET OPENS."

From Dillon, S. C., this word was received:

"Today is the day for the Co-Ops to begin receiving tobacco. I have watched the warehouse all day and they have not received one single load, pound or ounce."

Reports from Lakeview, Latta, Kingstree, Conway, said that no tobacco had been received at those points. So far as can be ascertained the only "break" occurred at Mullins, where 200 pounds was received.

Those who are familiar with conditions in South Carolina and in close touch with growers who have supported the association do not hesitate to declare that there exists a determination among farmers to sell their product under the auction system. Farmers are holding back, and it is confidently believed, that a new record will be established for business when auction warehouses open Aug. 1.

Any attempt on the part of officials of the association to deny the growing dissension among members is futile and ridiculous. Propaganda, spellbinding speeches, and the work of paid hirelings cannot save the crumbling association from a disastrous season. This will soon become apparent as the year advances. Instead of gaining strength as a few exponents of the cooperative would have growers to believe, the truth is quite the contrary. Evidence of that fact is already a matter of record in the superior courts of Pitt and Martin counties.

While the association made a small showing on this market last year, even that, it is safe to assume will not be repeated. Farmers deserve every penny they can get for their product in ready cash. The DEFERRED and UNCERTAIN PAYMENT plan has NOT WORKED OUT. Just how far they will act for themselves will be better understood after Aug. 21, when the Greenville market opens.

With the best crop in sight for several years and superior facilities for handling it in Greenville, both growers and warehousemen look forward to a season of common progress and benefit.

EVERYTHING REVOLVING

One out of every eleven families in the entire population of America has bought a new automobile within the last six months. In addition a few families already had one or more.

Americans on wheels revolve around their homes; the world turns on its axis and whirls around the sun, and the sun, with its eight revolving planets, goes whirling around space.

Are we any more than rotifera, whirling—whirling—whirling and not knowing what we are whirling for? Take a powerful microscope and look into a drop of sea water and the tireless whirling of the rotifera which magnified a thousand times, look quite "some pumpkins" could not be more dizzying if they had a rotifera-sized "Lizzie" to whirl in.

Maybe they are just as important in their "best society" as some of the drivers of "gas-buggies" are in ours. And when they die, they will be missed as much, but they travel too fast in their dizzy whirl for us to catch the haughty expression on their faces.

GOLF COURSES IN DANGER

The chemical warfare service of the army may find a field of great usefulness if it is ordered into action against a Japanese invasion which threatens serious damage. It is not a human invasion, but one of Japanese beetles, which are said to have entered in the roots of azalias in 1916. The beetles have gotten a foothold in New Jersey, not far from Philadelphia, and are spreading with frightful rapidity over many square miles. They devour almost every kind of foliage and other vegetation, and no spray has yet shown any effect upon them. Gas has not been tried.

Scientists are seeking through Japan, Korea, Hawaii and Russia for some parasite which will attack and destroy the beetle, for every insect has its enemy, capable of destroying it.

In the meantime here is a chance open for the chemical warfare experts to devise a gas which will asphyxiate the beetle, but will not harm the earthworm. The beetles are destroying golf courses, as well as orchards and fields.

LEGIONNAIRES REJOICE

American legionnaires are rejoicing over the decision of a federal judge to the effect that "total disability" under war insurance law is not limited to the cases that come under the arbitrary rules laid down by the Veterans' Bureau. It is a question of fact, to be decided in each case on its merits, as to whether a veteran is so disabled that he cannot earn a living, and as to whether that disability is of a permanent nature.

WILL NOT HURT US

Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, promises to begin reducing the working hours of the steel workers to eight hours "in about six weeks." That will mean early September. He says it will require an additional number of 60,000 men to operate on an eight-hour instead of a 12-hour schedule.

While the drawing of 60,000 laborers away from other vocations ordinarily would not be very serious, the farmers will be right in the height of thrashing, from September to frost, and the loss of help at that time may prove serious, in view of the present shortage on the farms.

This applies naturally to the northern farms more than to the southern planters.

To keep a discontended young man on a farm Henry Ford has given a young man a tractor. If John D. hears about it, he may possibly send him one of his famous new dimes.

That storm on the Gulf of Alaska did not ruffle President Harding, fails to astonish; his experiences in the senate must have long ago inured him to rough going.

Lady Astor in a Parliamentary dispute told Sir Frederick Banbury, that he had "arrived at a time of life when in order to learn anything he would have to be born again." We'll bet that made Banbury cross.

France is learning to be righteous is to be lonely.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO GIVE PICNIC FOR MEMBERS OF COTTON MILL SUNDAY SCHOOL

Do you want to help make some one happy? If so a small donation towards defraying the expenses of a picnic for the cotton mill Sunday school will not only make someone happy, but will also help the King's Daughters.

The picnic will be given tomorrow on the Joyner farm and in order to make it the great success which it should be, the King's Daughters find that small donations will be necessary to serve a good dinner and make the day enjoyable.

Contributions large or small will be appreciated. They can be given to any of the King's Daughters or brought to this office.

Lawn Party for Mr. and Mrs. James Westery. The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom D. Brabson, was the scene last evening of a delightful social affair arranged in special compliment to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, of Greenville, N. C., popular visitors in the city at the time. The guests arrived at six o'clock and were taken to the side lawn under the ancient oaks with the flower garden of the hostess in full bloom in the background. This lawn commands a full view of the mountains with the rolling valley and foothills. In this ideal spot tables were arranged and a delicious supper was served buffet style. Mrs. Frank Brown serving ham, Mrs. W. A. Susong, crystallized apples, Mrs. Charlie Brown, salad and Mrs. Lyle Wilk's, iced tea. Following the serving outdoor games were enjoyed until the fall of darkness, when the party adjourned to the house where they danced and played auction bridge until a late hour. The guest list was confined to the young married crowd.—Greenville, Tenn., Democrat.

Thousands are travelling from all parts of the Moslem world to be present on the day of sacrifice, July 24. Egyptian Mohammedans have dispatched the sacred carpet to Mecca, with elaborate ceremonial and prayer.

Since the burial of the Prophet Mohammed, more than a thousand years ago, Christians have been forbidden to enter the Holy City, which is surrounded with great mystery and veneration. But in spite of this interdiction, sixteen Christians are known to have entered the city in disguise. Death would have been their fate if they had been detected. Thus far no American has set foot within its sacred walls. The foreigners who have penetrated the city have been mostly Englishmen who spoke Arabic and disguised themselves as priests or peasants.

On arrival within a short distance of Mecca the pilgrim discards his ordinary clothing and assumes the garb of a "Hajee" a garment consisting of a white apron with a piece of cloth thrown over the shoulder. Sandals may be worn, but the head must be kept uncovered.

In the city itself certain ablutions are performed, after which the "Black Stone" is kissed, and the pilgrim runs seven times round the mosque. After special prayers and genuflections he then drinks from the Holy Well, and once more kisses the stone.

INFLUENCE HOME, SWEET HOME! BROUGHT OUT IN SPLENDID SERMON BY REV. JOHN HARTLEY

bearing the echoes of their united song.

The wildest and roughest of men for a moment bend their heads when they hear that song. How is it? Is it not because there is an ideal somewhere to which all hearts respond and to which they cling? What that ideal is may be gathered from the author of the song—John Howard Payne, who, himself was homeless.

Written by Wanderer.

Knocking about the world, sometimes in one hemisphere, sometimes in the other, his friends could never be sure where a letter would find him. Sheltering himself one night from a pitiless pelt of rain, in the lee of a house in Mayfair, London, supperless, penniless and friendless, he heard through the open and gaily-lit windows a sweet voice singing his own song, "Home, Sweet Home." Yet, at that moment, the author knew not where to lay his weary head? What could have inspired such a man to compose such an anthem? Simply this: The fragrant, hallowed memory of the old nest in which he was reared.

What Makes Home?

What, then, makes home? Certainly not four walls, furniture and fire place. The hotel can furnish these, but it is not a home. The fact is, the larger half of American families are homeless, in the dear, heart-touching sense of the term. They are pleasure loving rather than home loving. They are over clubbed and over organized; a stay-at-home club ought to be organized. They may have a house, may have a wife or husband and eight or ten children, more or less, but it takes more than living figures, dignified with home names, to make a home.

Talks on Osteopathy

By DR. F. FITTS

THE MACHINE WE CALL "THE BODY"

The body is like a wonderful intricate machine. Each part is delicately adjusted in a correct relationship to the other.

No part of the machine can be thrown out of adjustment, not even slightly, without disturbing the manner in which the whole mechanism will work.

When this has happened, correct adjustment must be restored before correct processes can go on again.

Because he knows when structures are out of line and because he understands how to correct them by adjusting, the Osteopathic Physician is sometimes called "The Mechanic of the Body."

The adjustments which he makes are intelligent. The health restoring processes of Nature, which follow, are certain.

Remember that the foundation of health lies in perfect adjustment of the mechanism of the body and that Osteopathy is the science of proper adjustment.

ORANGE CRUSH BOTTLING PLANT IS WORKING AT FULL CAPACITY SUPPLY DEMAND

The local plant of the Orange Crush Bottling Company, which institution opened here during the early spring is enjoying daily the largest increase of business ever before realized in Greenville by a beverage establishment of this kind. Just now the plant's forces are compelled to work all day and to a late hour in the night to supply the demand.

The drink is not only popular with the general public, but it has become a favorite in the homes, and where some families have been keeping some other drink in the ice box, have now substituted Orange Crush because of the contents of the beverage which are pure oils and crushes, making it the best the market affords especially for the children.

Adults Enlisted In Illiteracy Fight

COLUMBIA, S. C.—The summer school idea, in a modified form, is being used by South Carolina in this states fight to wipe out illiteracy.

Vacation boarding schools for men and women who have lacked educational opportunities have been arranged for this summer by the state department of education, in co-operation with the authorities of Lander College for Women, at Greenwood, and Erskine College for men at Due West. A full month's course in elementary subjects is offered at each institution at a cost of $12.50 to the student, which includes all expenses except transportation and laundry.

Pupils whose education has equalled that of an average sixth grade pupil are not accepted for enrollment, nor are boys and girls under 14 years old.

The pupils live in the college dormitories and eat in the college dining halls, and in fact, according to Miss Will Lou Gray, state supervisor of adult school work, lead the same lives that are led by the college students during the regular terms.

Dightly-nine girls and women attended the first "opportunity" summer school, which was conducted at Lander College last summer. The course offered this summer at Erskine is the first made available to men and boys. The ages of the Lander students ranged from 14 to 54 last year, the average age being 18 years. Many of the women came from the cotton mill villages, and not a few of these had their expenses paid by the management of the mills in which they worked for the remainder of the year.

'WOBBLES' MOVE FROM EVERY DIRECTION BY FOOT, BOX CARS AND SEA TO "PROTECT" I. W. W.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Firmly believing in the efficacy of "direct action," hundreds of members of the I. W. W. are leaving here today on a crusade to Port Arthur, Texas, the object of which is the "protection of the I. W. W. constitution," and the rights of three members said to have been kidnapped and severely beaten there.

"I don't believe in doing things by official delegation. When there is a job to be done by the I. W. W. the rank and file go to it without bothering about their officials," is the word on the exodus given by local headquarters of the marine transport workers' branch of the organization.

How the men will cover the 2,800 miles to Port Arthur is regarded at headquarters as a minor detail. More than 20,000 of them are on the move from all parts of the country on foot, by freight train and by sea, according to John Shuskie, the secretary-treasurer.

Coincidentally with the I. W. W. exodus came a pledge from the Civil Liberties Union to the general defense committee of the I. W. W. in California to help in the fight against the recent injunction which renders membership in the I. W. W. in that state contempt of court, punishable by a prison term of six months.

The injunction which followed the declaration of a general I. W. W. strike in California comes as a result of the "pressure of corporations" asserts the Civil Liberties Union, and is unconstitutional.

Hopkins Professor Says Insulin Only Relieves Diabetes

BALTIMORE.—Insulin, the new remedy for diabetes, is not to be considered in any sense as a cure for that disease, and it is not of such nature as to obviate the necessity of careful diet for all persons undergoing the so-called insulin treatment. These statements are made by Dr. William S. McCann, associate professor in Johns Hopkins Medical School and associate physician of Johns Hopkins Hospital, under whose care severe cases of diabetes are being given the insulin treatment at the hospital.

Dr. McCann says: "Insulin is not a cure. It is, however, in our experience a specific remedy for diabetes, which has already saved many lives and has alleviated much suffering from the disease. Its effect are only temporary leaving the fundamental condition of the disease unchanged. The discoverer of insulin, Dr. Banting, has always been very careful not to make the claim that insulin cures diabetes. The manufacturers, Eli Lilly and Co., in the advertising matter on insulin, are likewise careful not to make this extravagant claim. Never before has a great medical discovery been given to the world with more unselfishness on the part of its author, or by more ethical manufacturers. The most that can be said for insulin is that it is a specific remedy for diabetes which restores the metabolism to normal as long as the treatment is continued. In some cases the beneficial effects may continue for a short period after discontinuing the treatment. Sooner or later the patients always return to the condition preceding the treatment unless it is resumed.

You Need More than Good Fitting

"Good Fitting" is a mere phrase unless you buy shoes that are basically right in design and construction to afford the correct natural foot support. It's the ordinary shoe with its sagging arch that causes foot aches and pains. Arch Preserver Shoes, with the built-in arch bridge, give real comfort, because they eliminate all strain. They are in good style, too, always having a smart, clean-cut appearance. Why don't you find out about real foot happiness?

The style shown here is a new dress strap in black satin trimmed with black suede. It has a covered Cuban heel. This shoe is without an exception the prettiest dress style that we have shown for late summer and early fall in the Arch Preserver make. If you are troubled with tired feet you owe it to yourself to see a pair of these shoes, because WE KNOW they will relieve any arch trouble that you may have.
