

To deny children the natural pleasures they crave and enjoy is unwise. However, to permit them to indulge those pleasures without first being surrounded by safeguards against accident and possible tragedy is also unwise. This suggestion is prompted by an incident that might have proved tragic at the swimming pool in the high school the other day, but for the presence of mind of Helen Parrish, 12 years old, who saved another child of about the same age.

Swimming is one of the finest and healthiest of all sports for both children and grown-ups. At the same time it is dangerous to permit youngsters of tender years who cannot swim to frequent pools, creeks or other places that afford the pleasure without being accompanied by parents or others to look after them. Too frequently, it has happened, that children have drowned when suddenly they go beyond their depth with an emergency rescue agency at hand.

It was certainly nothing less than God sent help that saved the little girl, when Helen Parrish acted so promptly and so bravely. It was an act of outstanding heroism of this child, not knowing how to swim to rush to save her playmate. But all through the ages since the days of Helen of Troy, the name of Helen has been associated in historical incidents with conspicuous deeds of valor and self sacrifice. And so, with Helen Parrish, it is no exception.

Terrific Wind Blows Child, 4 Years, Into Pool, Found Drowned

During the violent electrical and wind storm yesterday afternoon Richard Sutton, Jr., 4 years old, of the Sheldermine district was blown by the gale into a pool and drowned. Richard Sutton, father of the dead child together with other members of his family were plastering with clay crevices in a tobacco barn when the storm broke. They continued work until they were forced to seek shelter from the increasing fury of downpour in the structure. The absence of the child was not immediately discovered, as it was believed he had taken to the house. When the storm abated immediate search was instituted for the child. Finally the lifeless body of the tot was discovered in a pool of water which had gathered in a hole made by excavating the clay with which the barn was being plastered. The accepted theory is that the child not realizing the danger, delayed seeking shelter too long, and when he did attempt to regain the house he was gripped by the gale and hurled into the pool.

Norfolk-Southern Is Placing Warning Signs at Crossings

The Norfolk-Southern railroad started work today complying with the state law by placing warning signs at all public highways crossing the lines of the road in the territory it traverses in the state. It was explained that delay in earlier fulfillment of the law was due to failure on the part of steel mills to deliver the posts. More than 1000 metal posts will be erected at a cost of about $20,000.

Island Political Fight Continues To Rage, Wood Silent

MANILA, July 25.—Six appointive representatives and Senators of the Philippine Legislature resigned tonight as another move in the political strife which is being waged against Governor General Leonard Wood. The nominal reason given by those who resigned was that they wished to give the Governor General the opportunity to fill positions with men who would not embarrass him. Friends of Governor General Wood point out that it is generally recognized that Manuel Quezon, head of the New Collectivista party and other party leaders are forcing out all of the Wood appointees for political and partisan purposes, attempting to make it appear that the people are solidly behind the recent cabinet resignations.

JUDGE BRANDS PRISON SYSTEM CRIME SCHOOL

CHAPEL HILL, July 25.—I charge against the jail system of this state and of every other state in the Union that it is a school of crime, that it protects nothing, and that it costs at a tremendous rate. This indictment was brought by Judge James Hoge Ricks, judge of the juvenile court of Richmond, Va., speaking here at the special institutes of public welfare. Judge Ricks addressed the social workers assembled for the institutes and on the problem of juvenile court work and probation. "Statistics show that the jail is 60 per cent ineffective," he continued, "that is, two-thirds of the people who have been in jail go back again. The jail will give the youthful offender more training in crime in a week than he could have gotten outside in 12 months. While we have been protecting the community, as we say, against his depredations he has been learning to be a more skillful criminal than before." Judge Ricks declared that he is "absolutely opposed to capital punishment."

Merge Methodist Churches Planned At Ohio Meeting

CLEVELAND, OHIO, July 25.—A plan for the reunion of the northern and southern divisions of the Methodist Episcopal church was taken under consideration by the joint committee on unification last night after having been approved by members representing both branches at separate meetings. The plan, drafted by a joint committee of sixteen, was adopted unanimously by the Northern members at a meeting. At its meeting last night, the Southern members made a few changes in the wording of the plan, which was then submitted to the joint committee. The commission adjourned until today after a two hour meeting. Confidence that the differences in the wording of the plan would be ironed out and the breach which arose in 1845 over the question of slavery would be healed, was expressed by members of the joint commission as they went into session.

Jumped Leg Bail Two Years Ago, He Is Again in Toils

Irvin Jordan, colored, with a varied police record is in the toils again. Nearly two years ago Jordan was before the mayor's court charged with assaulting Annie Bray and carrying concealed weapons. He gave bail for his appearance in county court in each case of $200. However, he took himself to parts known only to himself and a few others. The lure of old Pitt was too strong and landed back here the other day, celebrating his return by beating and "carving" Alvin Campbell. Jordan did not appear to be disturbed this morning when he again was before Mayor Clark. The recognition between court and defendant was instantaneous. The mayor told Jordan to insure that he will be on hand when wanted in the county court fixed his bail at $50. Jesse Willard, charged with being drunk was fined $15 and cost. Bob Pater, for driving an automobile from Eighth street to Dickinson avenue without stopping at designated points as assessed the cost.

Deaf Mute Holds Good Position With Tobacco Concern

RALEIGH, N. C., July 25.—"We are running across some very interesting deaf persons in our employment work," said J. M. Robertson, head of the bureau for the deaf of the department of labor and painting. "One of the most unusual of these is that of a deaf mute employed as billing clerk and stenographer for a tobacco concern at Danville, Va. "This man attended the North Carolina school for the deaf at Morganton, almost a helpless boy with a big hump on his back. The older he got, the bigger the hump became. He bent down, his hands almost touching his feet. This deformity together with his deafness was a great handicap. "He was determined not to allow himself to be dependent upon charity. He searched many months for work and at last found employment with a tobacco manufacturer at Danville. He has worked hard and has made good."

Employment Service Finds Jobs For 116

RALEIGH, N. C., July 25.—Four hundred and ninety persons were placed in positions during the week ending July 21 by the employment bureau of the department of labor and printing, Commissioner M. L. Shipman announced today. Wilmington led with 122 placements followed by Charlotte with 116.

Self-Styled Klan Leuth Still Held

LUMBERTON, July 24.—H. L. Tallaferrro, confessed Ku Klux detective who pleaded to the Supreme court Saturday when Judge Neil A. Sinclair found him guilty of contempt of court intimidating State's witnesses in a recent hogging case, is still in Rowan county's jail in default of a $1,000 justified bond and a $50 appeal bond.

Strong Guard To Insure Order at the Trial of Garretts

PETERSBURG, VA., July 25.—Five picked men of the local police force have been sent to Cumberland courthouse to serve as a part of a contingent as a special guard of officers at the murder trials of R. O. and Larkin Garrett. The men were sent at the request of the state director of public safety, in compliance with the orders of Governor Trinkle. CUMBERLAND COURTHOUSE, Va., July 25.—Announcement from the office of Governor Trinkle in Richmond today that a number of special officers would be sent here to insure order during the trial of Robert O. and Larkin C. Garrett, charged with the killing of the Rev. Edward Sylvester Pierce, Baptist minister, was received here tonight with a general feeling of relief. While few residents have openly expressed a fear of violence all were agreed that the presence of the special officers would create an atmosphere of security for all and assure peace both in the court and outside. It was understood tonight that the officers would be sworn in as special deputy sheriffs with full power to act as such in this county. The case of "the Commonwealth versus Garrett," docketed for trial in the circuit court here Thursday, though without an element of mystery of a love triangle such as has marked most of Virginia's noted murder cases, is expected to be one of the most bitterly contested court actions in the criminal annals of the old dominion.

ASHEVILLE, July 25.—With exception of minor losses to the city library and the legal building the fire was confined to the department store. Early this afternoon the flames were under control. The two clerks reported missing in earlier dispatches were later located. The loss is estimated at $250,000, only partially covered by insurance.

ASHEVILLE, July 25.—Fire of undetermined origin completely enveloped the Eporium, a department store, on South Pack Square at noon today and threatened the city library, the legal building, the Platt theatre and other structures in the heart of the business district. Two clerks, Mrs. Alice White and Miss Velma Opperman, are missing and it is feared that they perished in the flames. O. P. McCarty, floor walker of the establishment was severely burned and received a fractured leg in a jump from the second story window. Mrs. Edna Williams, clerk with face and arms badly burned was caught in a life net when she jumped from the third floor.

The two missing clerks are believed to have been caught in the flames. Mrs. White was seen to come to the window on the second floor and withdraw as the flames filled the area. Firemen had not been able to penetrate the building up until noon. At 12 o'clock preparations were being made to dynamite the public library and the lobby of the theatre in an effort to check the fire. This is the most disastrous fire that the city has suffered in 25 years. The entire stock of the Eporium, valued at $150,000, is a total loss and the $100,000 building is completely wrecked. Other buildings threatened by the blaze are valued at more than $1,000,000.

Deluge Leaves Big Path Of Damage In Wyoming Railroads Heavy Losers

CASPER, Wyo., July 25.—With Water river has opened several new unofficial estimates of the damage channels, causing great havoc. A placed at $1,500,000 the region west and northwest of here extending to Thermopolis is trigging today to get its head above the flood waters of yesterday's deluge. Most of the damage is on the Burlington railroad between Armington and Thermopolis a stretch of 80 miles, which is estimated at $750,000. Because wires are down most of the way between the points mentioned, 35 miles northwest of here, it is difficult to ascertain the exact amount of damage. No loss of life has yet been reported. Burlington officials report the loss of three steel bridges, a few small bridges and a large amount of roadbed washed out. Alkax creek, Bad Water and Wye rivers are all running bankful. Bad

C. M. SCHWAB, SA YS RELATIVES ARE "NO GOOD IN BUSINESS"

WASHINGTON, July 25.—One of him. "I told Charles W. Morse," said the witness, describing his efforts while head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, to speed up shipbuilding, "that relatives were no good in business." "Most rich mens sons," said Mr. Schwab, "won't work like I want people to work for me." The witness said the Morse shipyards never had intentionally delayed work on government ships; that the plants were in excellent condition and that he at one time had urged the government loan of $75,000 to Morse. No risk, he said, should have stood in the way of getting ships when they were vitally needed.

Mr. Schwab, describing himself as a manufacturer and an "engineer in human endeavor," was a jovial witness, and more than once during his testimony the strict decorum of the court room was broken by laughter at some of his expressions. This was particularly true when he pointed some good natured quips in the direction of the three sons of Mr. Morse, who are on trial with

EVERYBODY GET TOGETHER AND MAKE GREENVILLE LEADING TOBACCOMARKET IN STATE

Greenville as a tobacco market has cardinal advantages—It is situated in the heart of Pitt county, the largest tobacco producing county in the WORLD; its facilities for handling the product are unequalled, and it pays the HIGHEST PRICES. These vital truths should seep deep into the minds of every citizen in this district. It is a distinction to be proud of and should be widely disseminated. The time was never so propitious to make Greenville the leading tobacco market of the bright leaf belt, as NOW. Crop conditions have seldom, if ever, been more encouraging. All things being even, preparations are now figured on handling FORTY MILLION POUNDS or more of the product here this season. But we are not willing to stand at that conservative figure. Citizens representing every line of mercantile, commercial and professional life by individual and collective effort are going to boost Greenville this season as has never been done before. Without reservation of any sort, it can be put down here that we are just bordering on an EPOCHAL PERIOD of the tobacco industry laid upon the foundation of stability and PERMANENCE. To this end let every Greenville man, THINK the Greenville market; TALK the Greenville market and SPREAD its manifold advantages wherever he goes. We want to present a solid phalanx of aggressive BOOSTING. Such a solidified spirit is what wins in any kind of undertaking. Any man who feels the proper spirit of Greenville will not have to be urged or told what to do. He has a distinctive part in this cycle to make this city what it deserves to be—the FORE-

MOST TOBACCO MARKET. There is not anything that has so far to build permanent business as the cordial spirit of fellowip. It is no surmise to say that hundreds of growers, strangers to this market, are going to sell their product here. We must give them a sincere welcome. A cordial handshake and a willingness to serve has done more to strengthen and expand commercial relations than all other influences combined. The satisfaction that comes from the element of personal contact cannot be estimated. It equently welds friendships that last over years and through life. It brings together the ties that bind beyond purely business transactions. Members of the Greenville Merchants association should not be inensible to the importance of that fact! A definite plan should be followed by that organization by which every local business concern should have a representative whose business would be to meet the growers on the warehouse floors, tender personal service, and make them realize that Greenville knows how to diffuse the home atmosphere. Human nature is all alike when it comes to personal consideration. Merchants, bankers and those identified with every other business should feel it a pleasure, to take an active part in this personal attention suggestion. With additional hard-suced roads leading into Greenville and the better prices paid on the market a well established fact, there is every reason to be assured of triumphant success. In places where the roads meeting with the improved highways to this city are not in good condition, it is suggested that they be given attention without further delay by those who are charged with that responsibility. Growers should be given the facilities to bring their product to the market they prefer—GREENVILLE. Predicted upon a careful survey there is only one conclusion to reach: The crop outlook is transcendently fine. It is going to be a season of unparalleled expansion. Therefore, it is suggested, that tobacco men anticipate this prediction and get ready to handle expeditiously this increased volume of business. If additional facilities are needed, don't defer correcting the deficiency, but DO IT NOW. The unrivalled standard of the Greenville market is constantly being spread. However, that is not the issue, because that is conceded. What is needed now is concerted preliminary preparations along organized lines of effort, revolving in a cycle that will attain the desired purpose. Citizens of Greenville, permit us to reiterate, DO YOUR PART. LET'S BE ON OUR TOES. WHEN THE GONG IS SOUNDED AUG. 21, IN THE RACE OF SUPREMACY FOR OUR MARKET BE READY TO GO. AFTER THE RACE HAS BEEN RUN LET THE WINNER BE ANNOUNCED, "GREENVILLE FIRST!" Surely the prestige and "pure" is worth it. The honor and influence is ours if we will GO AFTER IT.

PROTECTING CONSUMER AND INVESTOR

The United States supreme court has recently rendered a decision of great importance as affecting the future development of public utility properties. The opinion establishes the principle that "cost of reproduction at prevailing prices must be considered in fixing rates."

To maintain its own financial standing and credit, a utility cannot afford to be loaded with watered stock, for with rates apportioned to the reproduction cost of its plant it cannot pay dividends on money not actually invested.

A WORLD LAW COLLEGE

There has just been opened at The Hague an Academy of International Law, made possible by funds provided by the American Foundation, established by the late Andrew Carnegie. The ceremonies attending the inauguration of this institution, held in the large hall of the Peace Palace, set apart for the sittings of the World Court, were of a most elaborate character.

This college is one of the fruits of the second Hague Peace Conference, held in 1907, but its establishment was delayed for years by the World War which made impossible any agreement of the nations regarding it.

The number of students who have applied for permission to attend the first course of lectures has far surpassed all expectations. Several Americans have their names on the lists. More young men from this country are expected later on, when the college plans become better known in the United States.

The opening of this World College marks another step toward international amity. It will have close relations with the World Court, and its students cannot fail to be impressed with the importance of that tribunal as an arbitrator of the most difficult problems that can arise between nations.

TARIFF REVOLT MAKES REPEAL ISSUE

Recent protests against the present Republican tariff, even from interests which it was supposed to have protected, are taken by Democrats and Independents as evidence that repeal of the Fordney-McCumber act will be one of the outstanding issues of the next presidential campaign.

Democrats are pointing to numerous other indications of this uprising. Among these are the following:

The widespread agitation particularly among women, for a reduction in the duty on sugar, based on the conviction that the tariff is to blame.

President Harding's unmistakable avoidance of any praise or even important mention of the tariff in his trip through the country.

Complaints by farmers' organizations against the Fordney-McCumber law's effect in preventing the passage of cattle back and forth between the United States and Canada to find pasturage.

Demands by a lumbermen's association for a reduction of the duty on spruce, fir, cedar, and hemlock logs imported from Canada, on the ground that the tariff is working to the disadvantage of Americans.

Discontent among wool growers because of the decline in the prices of their product in spite of the tariff of 31 cents a pound and the high cost of woolen goods.

The farm bureau federation's finding that the farmers are compelled to pay $300,000,000 more a year in higher prices for what they buy than they get from the tariff by way of higher prices for what they have to sell.

The practical reversal of republican majorities in two congressional districts of agricultural states at elections held since last fall.

Rejection of republican candidates and the election of democrats in Chicago and Detroit and in various towns and cities in Maine, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Iowa, and repudiation in Minnesota.

General recognition to the fact—as evidenced by statements in trade journals and by the admissions of dealers—that the tariff has increased the cost of food, clothing, furniture, furnishings, implements, and equipment.

Stoppage of building operations and the consequent reaction on other industries because of the excessive cost of structural materials which have risen 26 per cent in the last few months.

Attempts on the part of workers in certain industries to get bigger wages in order to make their incomes correspond to the higher cost of living.

Fierce, Gluttonous Wolverine Is Fast Becoming Extinct

SAN FRANCISCO. — The Sierra Nevada wolverine, known as the "glutton of America," and famed for his fierce and bloodthirsty disposition, is making his last stand in the high Sierras, according to Walter Fry, head of the nature guide service, Sequoia National Park, California.

"The wolverine, Mr. Fry says, is being killed off by man, his natural enemy, and by his own gluttonous habit of killing and eating the porcupine. The latter's quills puncture the wolverine's intestines, causing him a death of agony in from seven to ten days.

"The wolverine," says Mr. Fry, "is by far the largest and most formidable of the weasel family. It is a strong, heavy-bodied animal, seldom weighing more than 125 pounds, or exceeding 22 inches in height or 40 inches in length. The wolverine, commonly speaking is not an aggressive animal, but will fight desperately when attacked, or for the care of its young.

"When once engaged in combat the beast knows no retreat, and, as retreat, dying, if need be, but never falling back. He fights as long as a single spark of life remains.

"Mountain lion, bear, and mountain coyotes, whether coming singly or collectively upon a wolverine, seem to fully realize his ferociousness and quickly give way to his paw. The wolverine not only expects the larger animals to leave him alone but requires them to give up their prey and permit him to satisfy his gluttonous appetite. I have witnessed big game leave a carcass when a wolverine appeared, giving him free reign to devour the remains.

"The wolverine has no winning bursts of speed to catch his prey, nor has he the gift of stalking his quarry. His lack of speed and skill has forced the animal to be a scavenger and eat anything in the way of flesh that is captured or found dead. He often follows the trap lines of fur trappers, eating or destroying the catches.

William of Germany Still Retains His Old Autocratic Bearing

DOORIN.—William Hohenzollern, once German emperor, today in Doorin maintains his imperial airs as of old, according to the recitals of those who from time to time come in contact with him.

The latest story is contributed by a traveling company of student-actors. Augmenting their slender incomes by acting medieval mystery plays in various German and Dutch cities, the actors were requested to give a performance of the former emperor's residence. Before doing so they were received by William and they have since given their impressions of the reception.

First they were inquired how to behave. "Speak to His Majesty just as the words come," said the marshal. "Address him in accordance with his exalted position, and kindly make a very, very low bow."

After being admitted to the house, William and an officer appeared in the hall. One of the students describes William as having haughty movements and superior airs. His eyes are nervous, and a hard, pale grey in color. He has striking grey eyebrows. Lines of age furrow his brow, and his mouth seems extraordinarily senescent. His beard and moustache have turned grey, and his complexion is unhealthy.

William wore a grey-green field-scape and a green sporting hat. The student thought that civilian dress made him appear bourgeois. His manner of address was sharp and Prussian.

Outdoor Meals Without Frills

An old-fashioned toaster, a coffee pot, a sauce pan, half a dozen matches, a few picnic plates, cups, knives, fork and spoons—no other utensils are needed for a real outdoor meal that will make a jaded appetite take a new lease on life.

The necessary food may be packed in a small hamper with the utensils. A loaf of bread, a few potatoes, a juicy steak, coffee, condensed milk, sugar, salt, pepper and a jar of Spanish green olives that have been minced at home—that's all. Skilled woodsmen could dispense with the toaster and even the matches, broiling their steaks on forked sticks over fires made by friction. Even novices can secure good results when broiler and matches are available.

Build a roaring fire and let it burn to a bed of glowing embers. Bury the potatoes, skins and all, in the ashes. In fifteen minutes they will be roasted to a turn. Twenty minutes is necessary if they have been encased in half an inch of clay and mud-roasted, at the sided flavor is worth time and effort.

When the potatoes are nearly done, melt your coffee and broil your steak in a toaster over the coals. Spread potatoes liberally with butter, season with salt and pepper and turn every minute or two until done. Set aside where it will keep warm while you melt a piece of butter the size of an egg in the saucepan. When it bubbles turn in the minced green olives, stir until just warmed (but not cook), then pour over the steak and serve immediately with the potatoes and free.

It's an outdoor meal without frills. Easy to prepare, inexpensive but it's some meal.

Boston Professor Points Out Menace In College Control

CAMBRIDGE.—Co-operation between national societies representing college teachers on the one hand and college administrative officers on the other as a means of arriving at a better understanding and better methods in American colleges and universities is suggested by Professor Harry W. Tyler. Professor Tyler is head of the athletics department at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and secretary of the American Association of University Professors.

Referring to the recent enforced resignation of President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst College and the resignation of several Clark University professors accompanied by statements protesting against the methods of President Wallace W. Atwood, he says: "These events cannot be regarded as merely local in their significance. Quite regardless of the faults or merits of individuals there is no reason to infer that the events are merely symptoms of some more fundamental defect in the organization of our higher institutions?"

The four groups involved in university management, Professor Tyler says are the trustees, the faculty the alumni and the undergraduates. The trustees are usually "somewhat adverse innovation." Members of the faculty "may have become critical rather than constructive or co-operative." To a certain fraction of the alumni "athletic victories are the chief aim and glory of alma mater." The undergraduates are "wager for new ideas and leadership, not always just in their sense of proportion as to 'actives' and scholarship and liable to be exploited by those most interested in commercialized athletics."

LOCALS

"TRIFLING WOMEN," DRAMATIC PHOTOPLAY

Rex Ingram's claim to film immortality is justified again in his remarkable new production, "Trifling Women," which comes on Thursday to White's theatre. It is the latest achievement of the skillful director, whose name has become synonymous with the best in film, and a guarantee of exceptional screen merit. It equals and, in some particulars, surpasses his earlier efforts, and should win a high place among the best of the season's photoplays.

The brilliant director of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other big Metro pictures, is himself both author and adaptor of his latest success. This fact makes his triumph all the more complete for the story and continuity are on a par with the production itself. In all, it is a distinctly worthwhile photodrama, and it is recommended to those who want the best in their motion picture fare.

The story is concerned with the fascination of Zareda, a crystal gazer, whose siren-like fascination attracts men into her net. How she attains wealth and power through a marriage with a wealthy Marquis; how she arranges his death to marry her young lover, Ivan; how she meets a terrible end with her lover when her husband finds them together, makes a graphic and dramatic story.

In the cast are brilliant players. Lewis Stone is seen as the Marquis Ferroni; Barbara La Marr as Zareda; Ramon Novarro as Ivan, and Edward Connelly as Ivan's father, Baron de Maupin. Others in the cast are Pomroy Cannon, Hughie Mack. The fine photography is the work of John F. Seitz.

ANCIENT JAPANESE FORTRESS TO BECOME MODERN PARKS

TOKIO.—Several of the ancient island forts, upon which Tokio and the bay towns depended for their defence in days long past, are to be turned into parks. These islands were built by the government and guarded the entrances to Tokio and Shinagawa, adjoining the capital, and, while in later years the guns with which the forts were manned might have withstood an attack, modern guns have made them quite useless for defensive purposes.

Radio Helped Balloonist Win Big Race

Radio wins race.

Lieutenant R. F. Olmstead, winner of the Indianapolis elimination balloon race to determine the three entries to represent the United States in the James Gordon Bennett race in Europe this fall, gives the radio credit for his victory. Equipped with a light-weight set, he was able to listen in to weather reports of upper air currents broadcasted from five of the principal stations of the country, night and morning, while the balloonists were in the air. Another use he found for his radio was in approaching thunder shower areas, the most dreaded interference after a balloonist leaves the ground. Long before lightning flashes could be seen the cracking of the static in his receivers warned him of the approach of the storm. Lieutenant Olmstead's radio-equipped balloon is shown in the air.

UNITED STATES FOREIGN TRADE

It aggregates $185,789,162,000 since the adoption of the Constitution, and 40% of it has occurred in the 9 years since the beginning of the war. Development of the manufacturing industry—its factor in growth of recent years.

The foreign trade of the United States in the 9 years since the beginning of the war is three-fourths as much as in the 125 years preceding the war. Statements compiled by the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York show that the foreign trade of the United States in the 9 years from the close of the fiscal year 1914 to the end of the fiscal year 1923 was $77,000,000,000, against $109,000,000,000 in 125 years from the adoption of the Constitution to the end of 1914. Imports in the 9 years since the beginning of the war to the end of the fiscal year 1923 are $28,000,000,000 against $50,000,000,000 in the 125 years preceding the war, and exports since 1914 are $49,000,000,000 against $59,000,000,000 in the pre-war period. The excess of exports over imports in the 9 years since the beginning of the war is $21,000,000,000, against an excess of but $9,000,000,000 in the 125 years prior to the war.

double the export excess in the 125 years preceding the war is due, says the Trade Record, to the fact that our "favorable trade balance," as the excess of exports is sometimes called, only began in the closing quarter of the nineteenth century when the producing and exporting power of the Mississippi Valley was developed by the extension of plentiful transportation facilities to that area. Prior to 1875 imports usually exceeded exports, but with the increase in transportation facilities and development of production in the interior of the country exports began in 1876 to exceed imports and have so continued to the present time. In the 86 years from 1789 to the end of 1875 there were only 16 occasions in which exports equalled or exceeded imports. In the 48 years since 1875 there have been but three occasions in which exports failed to exceed imports. In 1874 the excess of exports was $80,000,000, in 1880 $168,000,000, in 1900 $544,000,000, in 1914 $471,000,000, jumping, with the big demands of the war to over $1,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1915, 2 1/2 billion dollars in 1917, and a little over 4 billions in the fiscal year 1919. With the fall off in world demand for our natural products, our exports dropped from the high record mark of $1,018,986,000 in the fiscal year 1920 to $3,771,182,000 in the fiscal year 1922, but advanced about $200,000,000 in the fiscal year 1923, making the total exports of the fiscal year just ended $3,965,967,000, or 50% greater than the highest pre-war year, 1913. The excess of exports in 1921 was $2,862,000,000, in 1922 $1,633,000,000 and in 1923, owing to unusually large imports, was but $176,965,000.

Imports since the close of the war have shown a much less percentage of fall than did exports, by reason of the demands of our manufacturers for foreign manufacturing material, and the total imports for 1923 are $3,789,000,000 against $5,238,000,000 in the high record year 1920, and are more than double the imports of any pre-war year. Imports of raw material for use in manufacturing in the fiscal year 1923 are in round terms $1,500,000,000 against $635,000,000 in 1913, or 2 1/2 times as much in 1923 as in the highest pre-war year.

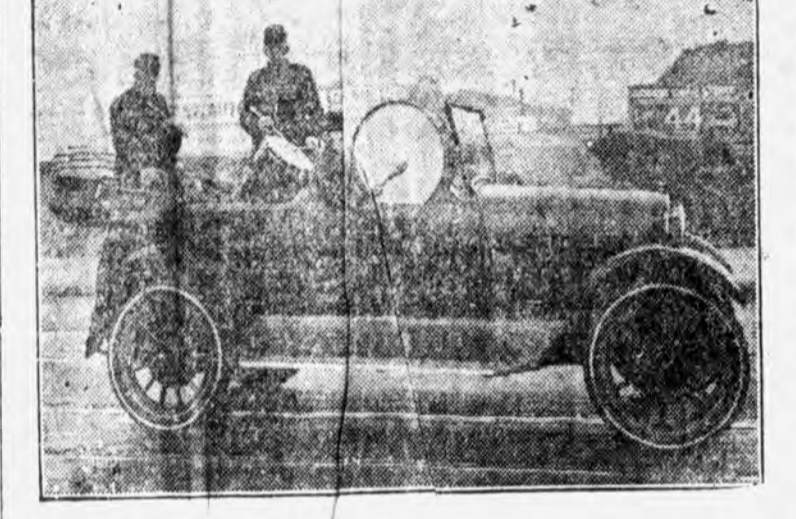

Meantime the exports of manufacturing have made a similar growth, the total exports of finished manufactures in the fiscal year 1923 standing at approximately $1,400,000,000 against $776,000,000 in the highest pre-war year. Our foreign trade in the fiscal year 1923 exceeds that of 1922 by more than a billion dollars and is nearly double that of the year preceding the war.

Poison Pen Writer Scored at Hearing

NEW YORK, July 25.—A portrait of George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Authors, composers and publishers, as a Lethargic who made love to many women, and when he became bored, rid himself of them by writing poison pen letters to her husbands and relatives, was drawn today by Assistant District Attorney Maloney.

The picture was sketched in a brief filed in general sessions, opposing a motion by Maxwell's counsel to dismiss indictments charging his client with having written such letters received by Allen A. Ryan, prominent Wall street trader, and many others. Judge McIntyre reserved decision on the motion.

The New Helps Recall Memories of the Old

Graphic portrayal of how the Civil on the Gettysburg battlefield sixty war might have been carried on if year before.

No less impressive evidence of progress such as that used today, was staged in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, July 1-3.

From the crest of Little Round Top near Gettysburg, Pa. veterans of the North and South witnessed a re-enactment by modern artillery of the attack they had made and repulsed.

Calls Dr. McBrayer "Kaiser Bill" of State

RALEIGH, July 25.—"Every patient that enters the state sanatorium is afraid of Dr. McBrayer's overbearing and domineering disposition."

He is the Kaiser Bill of North Carolina," is the way that Caviness Brown, of Lillington, counsel for the inquiry, investigation commission, described the head of the institution here today.

Judge Walter Neal, counsel for the defense, ridiculed the charges preferred against Dr. McBrayer, declaring that the hospital had grown from a small affair to one of the largest institutions of its kind in the country, under the direction of Dr. McBrayer. He further asserted that the whole investigations was brought about by a disgruntled employe of the institution.

Dry Leader Indicted On Extortion Count

NEW YORK, July 25.—Two indictments for extortion were added by the grand jury here today to the charges of grand larceny and forgery for which W. H. Anderson, head of the Anti-Saloon League of New York has already been indicted. The grand jury handed up a presentment which severely criticized Anderson for his expressions made public while the grand jury still had his case under investigation. The indictment for grand larceny and forgery were passed by the grand jury last week. Anderson pleaded not guilty to the new indictments and his bond of $5000 was continued.

BERLIN, July 25.—Berlin newspapers today report that the German police had taken prisoner a French courier in an express near Hagen. Important documents were found in his possession, police say, intended for the head of French forces in the Ruhr.

MORRISON SHIFTS ALL BLAME FOR ANY DEFICIT TO MAXWELL

ASHEVILLE, July 25.—Governor Morrison got back into the fray on State finances last night with a 1500 word statement in which he shifts all the blame for whatever deficit there may be in State funds on the shoulders of Allen J. Maxwell, member of the state corporation commission.

The Governor says that if it were not for the fact that he did not have enough money to meet appropriations, it was Maxwell's fault, because he drew the bill.

Also the $710,000 school debt the Governor says that occurred in his administration, but he is of the opinion that Maxwell had a good deal to do with that because he is satisfied that Mr. Maxwell had more to do with the bill under which this school deficit occurred than any other person in the State.

The Governor's statement part follows:

FILIPINO STRINTER, ONCE HUMILIATED, IS NOW HERO

MANILA.—By winning the 100 and 220-yard runs at the recent Far Eastern Olympiad at Osaka, Japan, Fortunato Catalan, Filipino inter, won the honor of representing the Philippines at the Olympic games to be held in Paris in 1924. Catalan has covered the century in 15 seconds, within one-fifth of a second of the world's record held by Charles W. Paddock, H. P. Drew, and D. J. Kelly.

Catalan, who is a farmer boy from the interior of the Island of Leyte, in the Philippine archipelago, failed in his first attempt to make a school track team, and was relegated to the kitchen as a cook's helper in order to defray his expenses. His failure was 1915 during the East Visayan athletic meet held in the province of Cebu.
