

A writer in the Baltimore News, commenting on the remarkable strides the south is making in progress, among other things says: "The foodstuffs shipped from the South to the North and West would require more than half as many cars as would be used to carry an entire wheat crop of 800,000,000 bushels of wheat, if every bushel were shipped away from the country in which it was raised.

---All that the South is doing in the rebuilding of its fortunes is merely a revival of the activities of the old south prior to 1860. There is scarcely a railroad in the South today that was not projected before the year indicated. The greatest business achievement in the world during the first half of the nineteenth century was the development of cotton growing from 1800 to 1850.

Today it is a triumphant South that is moving forward with the giant strides of seven-league boots. While what it has done has been largely the work of its people and its own hard-earned capital, there is now a great rush of people and capital from virtually every section of this and foreign countries seeking an opportunity to share in the life of this Heaven-favored region.

NAVY DESTROYERS WRECKED ON ROCKS IN A DENSE FOG

Twenty Five Sailors Reported To Have Lost Lives

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 10.—A tragedy within a tragedy was enacted aboard the destroyer Delphy which went ashore 75 miles north of here Saturday night. This tragedy resulted in the death of Seaman Pearson, whose first name or home address officials have been unable to make known. As the Delphy crashed bow first upon the reef Pearson was thrown down a ladder to the deck and both legs were broken. His comrades immediately went to his rescue and succeeded in taking him to the upper deck. No sooner had he been placed upon the deck when he was blinded by oil from exploding fuel pipes. Crazed with pain he prevented the rigging of breeches buoy about him in order that he might be hauled to safety.

Before his comrades were compelled to leave him they lashed him to the mast in the hope that they would be able to return and carry him to safety but hardly had the last one been taken from the ill-fated vessel when it capsized and sunk with Pearson with both legs broken and blinded with oil, lashed to mast sending out cries for help. Today as pieces of the destroyed vessel were beaten about the waves the comrades of Pearson said that they seemed to see his face through the white and green of the sea and hear still that last call for help.

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Capt. C. J. Holland and all passengers and members of the crew of the Pacific liner Cuba, the 2,500,000 worth of treasure and all mail safe, according to information received by the general offices of the liner here. The passengers and members of the crew were landed at Wilmington, Cal., and Captain Holland, the third mate and four seamen remained aboard the vessel. The vessel was still upon the reef where it struck Saturday night.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The theory was expressed today by high naval officials that some disturbance of the sea caused by the Japanese earthquake was probably the direct cause of the disaster which befell the seven destroyers off the coast of California Saturday night.

Reports from naval officers on the scene have not yet given complete information of the conditions under which the seven destroyers were thrown upon the rocks from other reports it was stated that it was probably due to some form of tidal wave. We must withhold our formal judgment said Secretary Deady, "until the final reports are in so all we can do now is express our deep regret of the tragedy and our gratitude that the casualties were non ore.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. Sept. 10.—Seven United States navy destroyers and the Pacific Mail Liner Cuba were wrecked yesterday morning and last night. Three navy vessels, crashed on the rocks in a dense fog off Anacapa Light, 75 miles north of Santa Barbara, and the passenger steamer on a reef off the southeast end of San Miguel Island, 35 miles off this port.

Twenty-five enlisted men on the destroyers lost their lives in the naval disaster and all the destroyers were reported as total losses.

All Passengers Rescued
The liner Cuba was reported to have sunk during the night but all passengers and members of the crew either were landed at Los Angeles by the destroyer Reno or are on their way to San Francisco on board the Standard Oil tanker W. S. Miller, with the exception of Captain C. J. Holland, the purser, steward and eight seamen, who remained on vessel crashed.

AIR BOMBERS SINK BATTLESHIPS

The effectiveness of bombing battleships from the air from a high altitude was shown off the Virginia Capes when Martin bombing planes of the United States Army sunk the obsolete battleships New Jersey and Virginia. Planes effectively dropped 1,100 pound bombs from a height of 10,000 feet. This excellent photograph shows one of the bombs hitting the Virginia, sending her to the bottom.

GOES BROKE KEEPING TWO WIVES IN ADJOINING BUNGALOWS; ALTHOUGH HE GETS SALARY OF $19,000 ANNUALLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Roy Cummings, acrobatic comedian in the "Passing Show" has gone flat broke trying to support two wives on one salary.

Cummings recently startled the theatrical world by establishing a "love nest" for his wives near Derby, Conn. Of course he is divorced from one of them, but they live in adjoining bungalows on the Housatonic River. Until recently, however, they dwelt together in harmony.

Last week a tax collector, accompanied by a deputy sheriff, called on Cummings and his wives, and threatened to put an attachment on the bungalows. Cummings gave bond for $750, the amount alleged to be due.

His two wives are Helen Gladings Cummings, No. 1, who obtained a divorce in 1919, and Irene Shaw Cummings, No. 2. Number one has a baby named Edna, but they call her "Billy."

Both women lavish affection on "Billy" and until Cummings built the second bungalow all four lived happily under one roof. When the second bungalow was built, it gave rise to the rumors that the matrimonial triangle was on the rocks. Cummings denied this and added all is still harmony between them. He said:

"I don't know where such reports come from. Perhaps it is White Way gossip. We are all the best of friends."

In discussing his financial troubles he said:

"I am flat broke although my salary of $19,000 a year seems like a lot of money. I saved $3,000 last year, but it is all gone now."

"It takes a lot of money for my overhead expenses. The cost of putting on my act is about $200 a week and the cost of keeping two wives, added to this, keeps me broke. Sometimes I am tempted to jump in the river and end it all."

"I built a bungalow for my first wife for $3,000. I have to pay $150 a week alimony, but she takes $50 cash and credits the other $100 toward her payment on the house. We made this arrangement for the benefit of Billy."

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN THIS MORNING WITH FINE ENROLLMENT

1148 Pupils Enrolled
Shows Increase 174
Over Last Year

The Greenville Graded Schools opened this morning at nine o'clock with all the teachers on the job, and with an enrollment of 1148. The enrollment on the opening date of last year was 974. This is an increase over last year of 174. The large increase in enrollment is due to the fact that a larger number of children are beginning this year than ever before; to the fact that quite a number of people have moved to Greenville during the summer, and also to the fact that the High School Senior Class is about twice as large as has ever been the case here. The High School will graduate this year around sixty five pupils. This will be a record for town of this size. The only congestion this morning occurred in the first grades at the Evans Street School. However, this cannot be remedied very shortly, due to the fact during the summer the office at the Evans Street School was turned into a classroom. The pupils in the Evans Street and Model School were only kept an hour, long enough to make up the rolls and give out the book lists. However, on tomorrow the schools will operate on a full time basis, using the same schedule as last year. In the High School the regular days program of shortened periods, was carried out all night, when the pupils were dismissed. So many of the preliminaries of school opening had been gotten out of the way during the preceding week that there will be not less of time whatever in getting started in any of the schools. There was no formal opening of the schools in the elementary schools because of the fact that there is no auditorium to meet this need. In the High School there will be a formal public chapel exercise on Wednesday Morning of this week, and the friends of the school are cordially invited to be present. This exercise will be held at 10:30.

It is always true that the first two weeks of school see other children being brought to school. Therefore, the chances are that before the end of the month the enrollment of the schools will have passed the 1200 mark. However, Supt. Ross desires all parents to take note of the fact that it will be impossible to receive a beginner in the first grade after the second week of school.

The colored school also opened up this morning but the figures are not available at this time. Due to the fact that the colored people have no building at present, will be very much handicapped in their work this year. It will doubtless be April before the new building will be ready. However, the schools are going right ahead and the school is being conducted in the Odd Fellows Hall, Hemby Chapel and the Holiness Church.

PUTTING THE AIR TO WORK

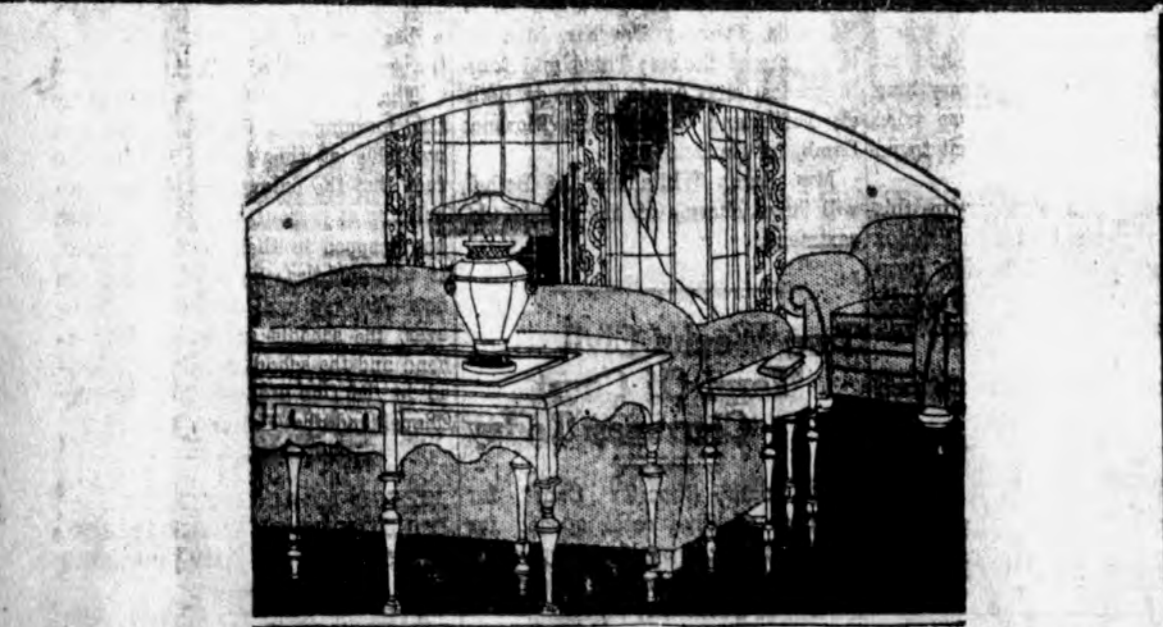

For countless centuries, the atmosphere has been a synonym of freedom and irresponsibility. "The wind bloweth where it listeth," said the Hebrew prophet, and "as free as air" is firmly embedded in idiomatic English through long usage. Save for the inventiveness of ancient mariners who needed power to propel their rickety little craft through uncharted seas, and except for the determination of labor-loving Dutchmen to make even the free winds of heaven bear their share of toil, little had been done until recent years to make use of the tremendous forces latent in the atmosphere.

That air consists of several elements in more or less fixed proportions, has been known for years. That the two principal constituents of air, oxygen and nitrogen, are of great value in the arts and industries, also has been realized for more than a generation. But how to get those elements out of the atmosphere and utilize them, except at greater cost than their apparent value, has been a problem unsolved until the present. During the world war many and great advances were achieved in chemistry and in its application to industrial uses. Not the least of these was the development of a process for obtaining liquid oxygen from the air by extracting it from liquefied air. According to a report of the department of the interior, the extraction of oxygen on a large scale has now become possible at so small a cost that the gas can be used for many large operations in metallurgy, such as the smelting of ores and refining of various metals.

As yet the application of pure oxygen in quantity to the smelting of ores is largely in the experimental stage. In its report, the committee says:

"The committee has developed plans for experimentally determining the effects of oxygen enriched air upon the operation of the blast furnace, and it is recommended that these plans be put into research as to the general applicability of oxygen to metallurgy.

Mastery of the elements is still in its primary stages, as far as science is concerned. But that progress is being made and that the foundations are being laid for a civilization which shall live by a control of natural forces far more complete than is realized today, seems assured.

HIS WIS "FOLLY"

"I made most of my money by doing darn fool things." William J. Conners, Buffalo political leader and newspaper proprietor, is quoted as saying in West Palm Beach, speaking of one of his latest Florida land ventures. Mr. Conners began his career as a poor boy about the Buffalo docks. Today he is rated as one of the most successful businessmen in Western New York.

There is more than a grain of wisdom in Mr. Conners' remark, as telegraphed from Florida. Many aggressive men who have achieved success in the world have done so by disregarding the advice of friends and seizing on chances that have seemed to other persons all but hopeless. Not a few of the world's outstanding geniuses have attained fame only after being regarded for many years as being merely irresponsible and harmless lunatics.

Some of the most successful ventures in popular song publication have been with trifling compositions that seemed to most publishers too utterly foolish to be considered, as witness, "Yes, We Have No Bananas." As for novelists and short story writers, playwrights and motion-picture producers, history in recent years has been burdened with stories of their successes with "foolish" ideas, despite, all prophecies and predictions of failure.

Success does not always reward foolishness for beneath every success lies a sound reason, and unreasoning foolishness is never sound or sane. Men like Mr. Conners, who have achieved success by personal contact with the realities of life and by victory over great obstacles, almost invariably develop an instinctive sense of values, of both things and men.

They do what may seem foolish to other persons not endowed with vision equally keen. But at bottom, their folly is of that profitable type which many a business man would gladly give his front teeth to possess.

A scarecrow in a vacant lot should make some folks ashamed of themselves, for he hoes his best.

A man of a car without motive power, must always be a trailer.

When opportunity knocks at the door and finds there a greater knocker than himself, he passes on.

Every man thinks he has the ability to outline the duty of another.

What the American people want to know is whether the Governor of Pennsylvania is a good Pinchot hitter.

In 10 days agents of the department of agriculture destroyed a million and a half bad eggs in Chicago. Too bad; they might have come in handy in the event of a hooded demonstration in the Windy City. That's not half of the animated bad eggs in Chicago.

Humanity is so constituted that the bray of a loafing jackass in a field, attracts more attention than the faithful work horse in the field.

Fresh and pretty, funny and tuneful, snappy and dashing can all be applied to O. E. Wee's new Musical Comedy "Cuddle Up" which will be at White's theatre on Tuesday, Sept. 11th, for one night only.

In the advance stage of intelligence and research it is indeed a difficult problem to find something new in the way of entertainment for a public already satiated with the conventional musical show. We can give you positive assurance, that difficult as the task has been, O. E. Wee has succeeded in securing for "Cuddle Up" an entertaining which is full of new ideas, new and striking situations, with both novel and interesting effects. "Cuddle Up" is a revelation in high grade Musical Comedy, it is full of life and fun and has reached the limit for everything to furnish a good time, for all who witness it.

A cast of excellence including George Seldon, Doris Clare, Kathleen Brenon, Elden Baker, Ralph Coleman, Sweeney & Rooney, The Golden West Trio and others make up the list of entertainers, not overlooking the famous "Cuddle Up" beauty chorus arrayed in the gayest of costuming which display almost every shade worn by the smart set.

Big Dramatic Moments Abound In Neilan's Latest-Fools First

A striking example of Marshall Neilan's versatility in presenting on the screen anything from light comedy to heavy melodrama will be seen in "Fools First" a First National attraction which will be presented at the Strand Theatre today and tomorrow.

There is no deadly sameness in the productions which emanate from this director's studios; one is always assured of something new if it bears the Marshall Neilan trademark. Each succeeding picture contains innovations in direction, settings and action, and revolutionary methods of photography and technique.

This is true especially of "Fools First". It contains one of the most original stories it has ever been our pleasure to see on the screen, and it has been produced in such a masterly manner that it intrigues the observer and holds his attention without interruption.

Jack Moye, manager of the Strand announced today that he has secured the services of a 3-piece orchestra which will give delightful music throughout the fall season.

Novel Picture Is "Children of Jazz"

The manners, dress and customs of the folk of the 1850's are admirably shown in "Children of Jazz," a new Paramount picture, based on Harold Brighouse's play, "Other Times," which will be on view at White's Theatre tonight. Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Percy, Robert Cain and Eileen Percy, all well known screen players, are featured.

Richard Forestall, an adventurer, is the son of a queer man living on an island with a score or more of dependents, all of whom seemingly belong to the era of the fifties. Their dress, manners and social customs are so radically different from those of today, as to render them racially distinct. It is these folk in the story that make "Children of Jazz" as different from the ordinary photoplay as day is from night.

Chevrolet Prices

The substantial reduction in announced September 1st, caused a great surprise in the automobile world, in view of the common opinion that good grounds existed for expecting higher prices.

Local Chevrolet dealers state they had no intimation that a reduction was coming as they knew that for more than six months the Chevrolet Company has been unable to fill half the volume of orders received. Three new Assembly plants at Janesville, Wis., Buffalo, N. Y., and Cincinnati, Ohio, and six new Body plants adjoining Assembly plants are rapidly building up production so that it is believed the Company will shortly be in position to fill a much larger proportion of its orders as it is the fixed policy of the Chevrolet Motor Company to price its production as low as production costs permit.

The greatly increased production now possible with seven Assembly and Six Body plants and four Parts plants, ensures construction and overhead savings reflected in the new list prices and which constitutes an important step towards still more economical transportation.

The following are comparisons of the old and new prices.

Firpo Lets Down In Sparring Works, Appears Listless

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 11.—After two days of unusual activity in which he showed to advantage, Luis Firpo has slipped back into the old rut and his training is listless and uninteresting. Only about 200 persons deserted the pageant to see the South American struggle through his afternoon program and those that did were poorly recompensed. The rowd was apathetic and so was Luis. He sparring six rounds as if they were one sort of penance to be gone through with and forgotten. He rushed after McCann and swung Firpo is never impressive unless he is stirred to action. Being a poor boxer he derives no pleasure from boxing and although he sticks to it training religiously it is all too apparent that it is a grind for him nothing else.

Naturally sluggish physically, Firpo must be driven into real exertion. If the men with whom he is sparring hit him hard enough to cause him, or make him appear awkward that makes him mad, then, and then only, he comes to life, and becomes not a boxer but a fighter. Today his three opponents, McCann, Koebele and Pera, failed to jar him into action and his performance was dull and amateurish.

McCann was first to face him and the Newark heavyweight drove home a smashing right uppercut just before the second and last round. This brought down on his head a few of the Argentine's justly famous rights. But although Carlos Vega, the time-keeper, permitted the round to go ten seconds overtime, apparently to give Luis a chance to get revenge,

Polynesians Put Taboo On Tattoo, Style Has Waned

Tattooing in the South Sea Islands where of generations the highest form of this art was to be seen, is dying out. The rising generation of Polynesians frowns on the practice. This is one of many discoveries made by Eollo M. Beck, head of the Whitney South Sea Expedition, sent out by the American Natural History Museum on a five-year trip of scientific investigation in the little known island in French Oceania. Mr. Beck returned to New York after three years' absence, bringing 6,000 specimens of rare birds, which he expects will throw fresh light on the theory of evolution as propounded by Charles Darwin.

When conditions were unfavorable for acquiring bird, plant, or fish specimens, Mr. Beck devoted himself to the study of native customs or to the commercial opportunities in those regions. At Huahana, Island, 49 miles east of Nukihiva, in the Marquesas group, he saw a perfect example of tattooing. Describing his visit there he said: "One old man called in a parau, a native dress of great proportions, had his entire body covered with artistic designs that will soon no more be seen on living flesh. To get a picture of him I had to bribe him with a present of five francs, but the resulting photograph did not show the intricate markings of the needles. "I was told that it had taken four months to cover his body. He paid the tattooer a pig a week for his services. Another old man had a strip of bright blue tattooing across his face extending from ear to ear. At Himoan car by I noticed an old woman both of whose legs were well marked with the blue ink of the tattooer.

"The custom of tattooing, it seemed to be in general practice about thirty years ago. Formerly it was considered a mark of great distinction, but now that the natives have come more into contact with civilization they regard it as a disfigurement. In the course of a 12,000 mile travel, among countless thousands of scattered islands, I only met one native an old woman, who admitted that she still occasionally practiced the art. Even then she did so in secret. The rising generation has pronounced against it, and it will soon be necessary to refer to anthropological books for a record of the designs used."

BIG SHOW COMING TO GREENVILLE NEXT SATURDAY

Flaming posters in all the corners of the rainbow, throughout this section, proclaim the fact that Christy Brothers' Four Ring Wild Animal Shows are to be seen in Greenville Saturday, Sept. 15th. Already the small boy and his elders are happy in anticipating the coming of this mighty tinted amusement enterprise and its countless wonders. For this season the Christy Brothers has enlarged their shows in every department, and their greatly augmented list of performers feature acts and menagerie exhibits made it necessary to add many more railroad cars. Today, special train, and long double length cars are required to transport the huge tents, pond rous wagons, cages, dens, chariots, tableaux cars, elephants, camels, horses, ponies, men and women.

In the triple zoological gardens combined under one vast spread of canvas, are to be found the finest living specimens of rare, strange and curious animals from every quarter of the globe, and every animal actor. Making a visit to Christy Brothers' famed Animal Exposition

Figuring Marks Causes German Insanity, Claim

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Paper mark mania is a new form of insanity developing in Germany. Several insane asylums have recently received an increasing number of victims crazed by the sudden plunge into calculations in millions. These inflation victims in many cases are older women of the ruined middle classes, widows with microscopic pensions or fixed incomes, which once sufficed for maintaining life but are now hard enough to buy a piece of bread.

One case of mark insanity took the form of constant figuring, particularly multiplying with zeros. The mark broke to another record today. After the official rate was fixed at 20,000,000 to the dollar it sank further to 22,500,000.

German pessimism about the paper was freely expressed that the mark would sink to 100,000,000 to the dollar in the next few days or even to absolute zero. A German financial expert commented:

"Today's doings on the foreign exchange market showed that the brakes cannot be applied any more on the downward course. The flight from the paper mark has become universal again."

A wild catastrophe boom sent up all stocks as usual. As the market fell there was a feeling of panic on the Bourse. Some stocks gained 100,000,000 points and more, while the Rhineland Westphalian specialties leading the stampede, Bochumer sold up to 3,000,000,000, and Harpener 3,250,000,000.

Artillery School In Hawaii Going Good, It Is Said

Since Major C. E. Chapin organized the Non-Commissioned Officers' School of the Hawaiian Coast Artillery Department at Ford De Russy in 1920, it has been recognized as one of the most efficient and successful organizations in the islands, says the United States Army Recruiting News.

The school was established with the object of gaining and maintaining among the non-commissioned officers of the C. A. C., a uniformly high standard of efficiency. The aim of the instructor is to turn out a group of qualified leaders thoroughly instructed in the duties of zeal, with loyalty, initiative, dignity and confidence.

The course at the school is for a period of ten weeks, which with the week allowed for organization, allowing the students to make their choice of the elective studies, absents the man from his organization for eleven weeks. In order to make attendance at the school attractive and to enable the students to devote their whole time to school work the men are placed on detached service, and none of the usual military duties are required of them. No guard, no fatigue, no kitchen police are items which have aided in making the course for entrance keen. Another agreeable feature is that no evening study hours or night work of any kind is on the schedule of instruction.

The course of study and training supplements the previous training of non-commissioned officers by a care these men should be familiar with before entering. Throughout the course, instruction is given in teaching these same subjects to other men, it being constantly borne in mind by the school staff that not only an expert knowledge of the subjects covered must be acquired by the students but that they must be capable of imparting this knowledge to others.

Dempsey Punishes Partners At Camp; Champ Looks Good

SAKATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Farmer Lodge Minnesota heavyweight Ray Newman, a 175-pound boxer of Jersey City, and George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro, felt the brunt of Jack Dempsey's accurate energy when the world's heavyweight champion resumed training at his White Sulphur Springs camp here. The champion went through ten rounds of work at the matinee session before a crowd of about 300 admirers, and Lodge, Newman and Godfrey each boxed two rounds against the champion. Each of the sparring partners felt relieved when the call of time ended his part of the day's work with the titleholder. His day of rest yesterday left Dempsey eager for a workout this afternoon and he indicated this eagerness in every move he made while sparring.

Dempsey put variety into his work. He mixed up his partners so that he could sandwich in a little speed and defensive work between the heavy stuffed bag.

In his workout today Dempsey showed his old weakness—the deficiency of being open to a rival's left hand. This weakness was brought into bold relief against Lodge and Godfrey, but particularly against the latter. Aside from this, however, Dempsey showed himself to be in superb shape. He is fast with his hand and feet, enjoys the hitting accuracy which is characteristic of him and his wind is all that could be desired. At no time during today's workout was the champion's wind labored, and when he had completed his drill Dempsey was breathing normally.

It Saved Her Life Says Asheville Lady

As it is only in accordance with the laws of nature that loss of weight physical and nerve force result from ill health, so it is that by the same law we regain our lost weight and strength when our troubles are righted and the system put in order.

This is why so many wonderful recoveries and remarkable gains in weight have been accomplished by Tanlac. Tanlac brings back normal health, weight and strength through its effect on the appetite and nutrition of the body. One of the most striking statements yet published in connection with this fact is the following from Mrs. G. W. Beachboard 75 Tremont St., Asheville, N. C.

"After an attack of ptomaine poisoning I suffered from chronic stomach trouble and my health was generally broken down. I was bedridden for six months—could not walk a step—and had very little hope of ever getting well."

"I began to improve rapidly. I now eat and sleep fine and have gained about fifty pounds. I don't believe I would have ever gotten well if I had not taken Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.
