

No one has any patience with that type of egotism which inspires a man to an exaggerated conception of his powers and capabilities.

If we have absolutely no confidence in our own capabilities and powers it is fairly sure no one else will. This self confidence should not be based on any belief in one's natural superior endowment.

In this connection, self confidence among citizens inspires the determination to make good communities better. This sort of confidence solidified, welds a unit that is impregnable against failure of any project having to do with civic advancement.

DRY ENFORCEMENT CONFERENCE

Almost three years after the constitutional amendment and the Volstead act became effective the National Capital is to be the stage of two important conferences to determine what steps must be taken to bring about better enforcement of the anti-liquor laws. The first is to be a "conference on citizenship" in the interest of prohibition, suggested by two sections of the Federal Council of Churches, which opens next Saturday. One week later the second conference is to be held, called by President Coolidge. The governors of all the states have been invited to attend that parley to devise ways and means to promote the enforcement of the law.

In a measure, the mere holding of these conferences so long after the country "went dry" is a sad commentary on the manner in which the law has been enforced. But in a greater measure they are a warning to the law breakers, that the government, state and federal, is preparing to exert greater efforts than ever before to put down "rum-running" and bootlegging. The "wets" are likely to find within a short time that the sentiment developed for a modification of the liquor laws within the last year has reached its high water mark, and that the tide is setting the other way. There are signs pointing to this, even in the so-called wet states.

If these conferences are to be of any benefit, however, in the matter of law enforcement something practical must emanate from them. One suggestion that strongly appeals as a measure to halt bootlegging is the substitution of jail sentences for fines in all cases. A fine of $100 or $500—and those are among the largest imposed—means little to a rum dealer whose profits run into tens of thousands of dollars each year. But a jail sentence is a different thing. It leaves its mark that is not easily erased.

Last week Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania and the representatives of the department of justice ordered 1,200 saloons to close in Philadelphia. Reports as to the effectiveness of this drive vary, but all declare that many of the saloons defied the order and continued in operation. The Quaker City, it seems, presents a real test case of the effectiveness of the prohibition law, since the Retail Liquor Dealers' association of Pennsylvania has told the proprietors of saloons to "sit tight."

Federal reports show that thousands of convictions have been obtained for violations of the dry laws since 1920, and that during the last 20 months jail sentences totaled more than 3,000 years divided among violators. The number of convictions is being steadily maintained, government officials declare. The dry forces it appears, have been active. But it also appears that the sentences imposed have not succeeded in checking the flow of liquor.

Should Great Britain adopt prohibition—and there are signs that eventually she may—it will be interesting to observe how that law abiding nation carries out the law. Punishment of law violators in England is far swifter than in the United States, due to the fact that the court procedure is quicker, and that the endless delays and technicalities found in American courts are absent.

CURTAILING FIRE LOSS

In some states fire losses the last year totaled more than the entire amount collected for taxes, showing the imperative need of more protection and a stricter observance of simple rules for fire prevention.

Fire Prevention Week is being observed throughout the nation this week with the view of instilling into the public mind the vital necessity of realizing that the fire hazard can be greatly reduced if more attention is paid to avoiding causes that needlessly entail property and life loss. North Carolina cities in several instances, are following a regular educational program of instruction. The value of such teaching cannot be overestimated.

Adequate fire-stopping in dwelling construction is almost as rare as a well spent life. There are many more dwellings which contain no evidence of the installation of fire-stopping details than there are persons willing to assume responsibility for the omission of those details.

Many architects, engineers and contractors, after they have satisfied themselves on matters relating to style, plan and cost, devote their energies to insuring the rigidity of the walls and roof and the load-carrying capacity of the floors are essential considerations. But they are not all. At least one other essential requirement of sound construction has received but scant notice in the building of small houses.

The average carpenter and builder does not realize the extent of our national fire losses or else he considers the possibility of fire as quite remote. Usually the home owner does not have the experience to know what is required. The designer, the superintendent and the contractor, jointly should assume the responsibility of securing careful consideration of those inexpensive details which greatly reduce the fire hazard.

Construction experiments which will help reduce the excessive toll of the fire loss to the country should be peculiarly worthy of study.

Many Thrills In "Famous Mrs. Fair," White's Thursday

A Scene from "THE FAMOUS MRS. FAIR"

Although Fred Niblo's picturization of the great American play, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," at White's theatre, deals with the lives of persons moving in the highest social circles, the Merio-Louis B. Mayer production has more than enough thrills and good, fast action to keep it from being confused with the ordinary tea party plot.

Blending into the main theme of James Forbes' famous stage creation and affording exciting contrast to the quietly tense developments of the story are a number of big melodramatic scenes which will bring a thrill to the more blasé of theatregoers.

Probably the most spectacular event in the Fred Niblo production is a race the dead of night between a through passenger train and high-powered roadster. Cullen Landis, at the wheel, took several chances in getting realism for the screen. Roaring along at breakneck speed on the state highway that parallels the railroad tracks in Santa Barbara county, dodging cars along the route, making sharp turns on mountain roads, scaling steep grades, M. Landis gave the cameraman something to talk about.

Versatile Baby Fitzgerald Wins Strand Audience

Baby Fitzgerald, winsome and accomplished again repeated her right to head the Don Davis Dancing Dollies tabloid musical comedy at the Strand last night. The large audience enjoyed her singing, impersonations and clever dancing. She was compelled to respond to several encores. She is one of the best child performers ever seen in this section and her talents still in embryo, promise a great future.

"Red" Walters, black face comedian, is a good delineator of character and portrays the negro part truly to type. The audience seemed to appreciate several jokes that had not run through the gamut of time. The girls comprising the chorus "put over" their selections creditably. The company closes its engagement here this evening.

The Strand management in connection with the vaudeville is also offering one of the best pictures ever screened in "The Trap" featuring that greatest of all character actors, Lon Chaney. His work in this production is said to excel his various other extraordinary character roles.

John Annixter has married and brought to his New York home the coquettish Virginia beauty, Kathleen Vaughn, whose love for her husband does not lessen her desire for the admiration and attention of men. Annixter is so absorbed in his business that he is unable to fully enter into his wife's social life, and she is often thrown into the company of other men.

She meets Barry Clive, a prominent architect and her husband's friend. She is attracted by him and intrigued by his reputation as a lady-killer. Her innocent flirtation is misinterpreted by him and he develops a genuine passion which comes to an unpleasant climax.

He calls on Kathleen during Annixter's absence, declares his love, and embraces her against her will. Annixter comes home suddenly and finds them in this compromising situation. He refuses to hear his wife's explanation, declares he will give her a divorce so she can marry Clive, but says to the latter, before leaving his home for the club: "The woman that can be stolen from one man can be stolen from another."

Kathleen marries Clive and is soon subjected to his unreasoning jealousy.

Kathleen, who has been sobered and altered by the hell she has been through, breaks in and tells them that she refuses to be bargained between them. She will go out into the world and learn to be worthy of the greatest love. "And will you come back to me or him?" asks Clive. "Who knows?" replies Kathleen, and leaves them. "Grand Larceny" depicting this situation is showing at White's today.

PAUL SYSTEM COMMUNITY TIRE FACTORY

You Can Have The Biggest Paying Business in your town—in 6 Months

Absolutely Sure—Safe—Immensely Profitable—Always Under Your Own Control

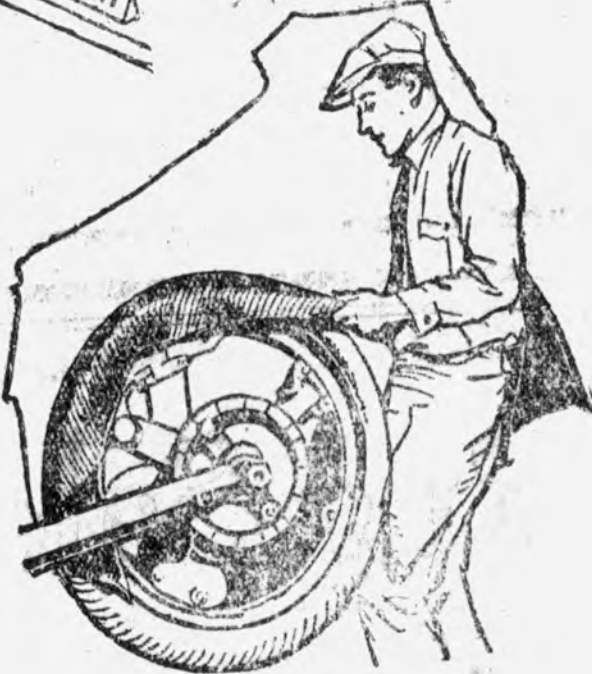

We are the largest manufacturers of Tires in the South and originators of The Paul System of Community Tire Factories.

We have a most unusual money-making proposition to offer some man or group of men in each city or town of 2000 population or over. Nothing like it has ever been offered before.

The opportunity is so amazing in its possibilities that no man of the necessary business and financial ability will care to let it pass. It offers just the chance for financial and working independence so eagerly sought by every ambitious man. It immediately makes you a leading manufacturer in your community.

It links you up with an enterprise of national scope and standing. It insures you a ready market for all the products of your factory right in your home community. It starts you in a business that is solid and sure—one that is always absolutely under your own control.

And above all, the profits are so generous that even with your factory operating at only one-tenth of its possible capacity, there is a yearly profit for you of almost $10,000. Beyond that, you are limited only by your own ability to build and sell our nationally advertised Clover Leaf Cord Tires. Operating to capacity, there is a possible profit of $75,000 per year. The demand is created—the quality is known—you can meet and beat all competition.

The Coming of this Small Plant Marked a New Step in the Tire Industry

Until recently, a tire factory costing less than $1,000,000 was almost unheard of. A man of moderate means could own at most only a few shares of stock.

But now all this is changed. A world-famous tire engineer has perfected The Paul Community Tire Plant. It can be installed completely in a factory space only 30x60 ft. Here it will turn out from 20 to 40 finished tires a day, and duplicate perfectly, at low cost, the finest product of the largest factory.

It is not necessary to erect a special building. In almost every town or city there is a vacant building suitable for the work, which can be rented very reasonably.

No Tire Building Experience Necessary—No Difficulty in Securing Materials at Low Prices

The Paul Rubber Co., largest tire makers in the South, have secured exclusive control of the patents and plan for operating these Community Tire Factories. Each plant will be carefully installed under the personal direction and by our own engineers.

A skilled tire builder will be supplied to operate the plant and instruct you in the work until such time as he is no longer needed. All raw materials will be supplied at low prices direct from our factory in sealed containers, thus giving you the benefit of the purchasing power of our national organization.

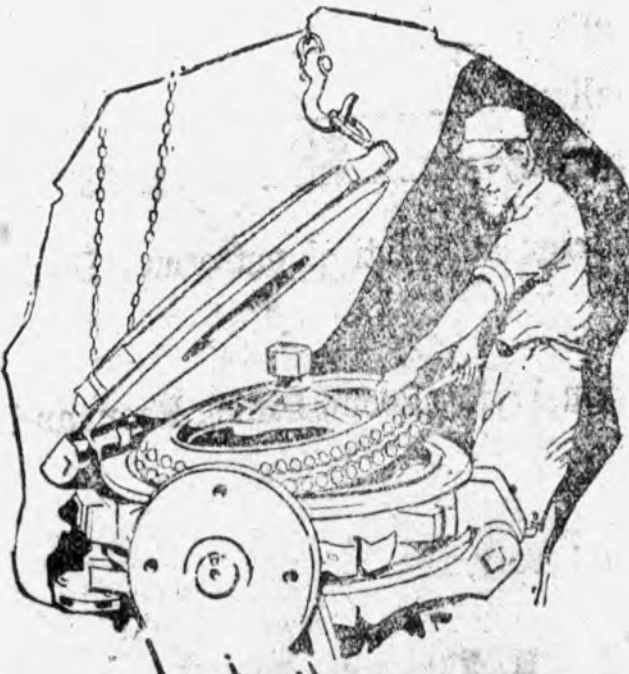

Each plant will be licensed to build and sell the famous Clover Leaf Cord Tires. Each will have exclusive protection in its territory. No plant will be allowed to infringe upon the rights and privileges of another.

No Other Tire Builder or Dealer Can Compete with You

Car owners will call to see how tires are built. Here on a small scale they will see a complete Tire Factory. They will recognize the quality of the tires you build by the Paul System. They will find it convenient and profitable to drive to your factory to get fresh new goods with the full life of the rubber in every tire.

They will see the big saving by buying their tires from you at wholesale prices. They will find it convenient to have adjustments made directly by the tire maker. No waiting—no writing—no delay.

Every good citizen will have a real pride in the success of this new local industry. They will prefer to buy Clover Leaf Tires factory-made, factory-sold, and factory-guaranteed by men they know.

Surprisingly Small Investment Required

The Paul Rubber Co. is cooperating in establishing these factories with the smallest possible investment. All plant equipment and materials which, if purchased separately by each individual plant would cost a large amount, are furnished complete for only $7,500 to $15,000, according to the capacity desired.

Where else can you find an investment so safe and so surely profitable? Remember your own plant is always under your own control—yet operated as a part of the nationally advertised Paul Community Tire System. We give you the benefit of our buying and selling power on every tire you build.

Don't hesitate to get the details of this proposition at once, while the greatest opportunities are open in regard to territory. Write or wire us for further particulars today.

FRENCH, WORRIED ABOUT OLYMPICS SEEK YANKEE AID

PARIS. — Successful defeats of French athletes by teams from England and Sweden in the course of dual meets held recently in Paris, have caused much concern among French Olympic officials as to the probable chances of success of the French representatives at the Olympic games next year.

England nearly doubled the score of the French, while Sweden won by the comfortable margin of 102 points to 78.

Such is the concern that the French Olympic committee is seriously considering the employment of professional trainers from other countries to prepare their Olympic athletes, James Duncan, holder of the world's discus throwing record, and W. H. "Sparrow" Robertson, one of the greatest American authorities on foot running, have been approached by the committee with a view of interesting them in the proposition. It is a question of dollars and cents with these two Americans, however, and although their demands are relatively modest, the franc is rather low just at present.

722225grat-cmfwpv cmfwyp p pp
Frantz-Reichel, general secretary of the committee, writing in "L'Avion" says: "The English and the Swedes have defeated us. The best athletes won. Their excellent condition and the superiority of their technique and style are the causes of their legitimate success. We, in France, also have talent of great intrinsic quality, but our weakness lies in its development. We must get experienced professional trainers who, properly paid, would devote their entire time to the study and teaching of the methods which, adopted in America, England, Finland and the Scandinavian countries, have made those nations supreme in the athletic field."

RADIO TO BROADCAST USEFUL INFORMATION ON FIRE PREVENTION

NEW YORK. — "Fire prevention week" throughout the United States and Canada begins today. The entire population of the two countries will be urged to concentrate, during the next six days, upon the problem of decreasing a fire loss which last year resulted in the death of 15,000 persons and the destruction of more than $5220,000,000 worth of property.

It is estimated, according to the Underwriters' Laboratories, that between 75 and 85 percent of this enormous waste is preventable by ordinary care, and it is a fact that the waste, in spite of efforts to prevent it, is increasing rather than decreasing year after year. The per capita loss in the United States is approximately $5.00. The per capita loss in Holland is 11 cents. The nearest approach to the huge per capita in America is approximately 75 cents in England and France.

In order to reach the largest possible number of people with an appeal to prevent fires, advantage is being taken of radio transmission. George B. Muldaur, general agent of the Underwriters' Laboratories, has prepared an address which is to be broadcast tonight from 16 different radio stations in this country and Canada. The estimate of the number of people who will hear this message through the air runs as high as 10,000,000.

SWEDISH DIPLOMAT ACCUSED OF SPYING DENIES HIS GUILT

STOCKHOLM.—Folke Cronholm, Swedish charge d'affaires in Mexico City in 1917, who is credited with having acted in the interests of Germany in the passage of important notes in the early part of the war, has given out a statement in which he denies his guilt. He declares he did not play the spy for Germany during the war, but that in delivering cablegrams in code to the German legation in Mexico he was acting upon the instructions of his superior, K. A. Wallenberg, then Swedish minister of foreign affairs.

Mr. Cronholm's statement says in part:

"Upon my return home I learned of the false rumor that I, as Swedish charge d'affaires in Mexico, was guilty of acting as a spy for Germany during the war, and that as a result I was recalled from my post.

"Referring to this latter allegation, which is ridiculous and false I have already declared publicly that my alleged relations with the German government had nothing to do with my recall.

"As to the charge that in Mexico I acted as a German spy, I declare that the only cause or these rumors and accusations is to be found in that

I, as later did as to my successor, in obedience to orders from my superior K. A. Wallenberg, then Swedish minister for foreign affairs, delivered a number of cablegrams received from him and written in a secret code of which I had no knowledge. Responsibility in this case, which led to such disastrous consequences for Sweden, rests upon Mr. Wallenberg and not upon me, his agent.
