Col. Rodman Addresses Mass Meet on Adjusted Compensation Bill Here

Rev. J. E. W. Cook Pays Beautiful Tribute to War Dead; Memorial Service for Late Ex-President Woodrow Wilson Feature Evening's Exercises

The Pitt County Post of the American Legion together with a number of citizens from throughout the county, met in the county court room last night, to hear State Commander Wiley C. Rodman of Washington, this state, explain in a most lucid manner the purposes of the American Legion.

The meeting was called to order by Post Commander W. H. Rogers Jr., Mr. J. H. Rose then led in a word of prayer, after which, all present joined in singing "America." Mr. Rogers, then addressed a welcome to all present, and in a most sincere and appealing manner called on all Legionnaires to render all services possible, to ex-service men, calling special attention to the fact that no ex-service man could be better served than to be induced to join the American Legion, that the Pitt County Post's potential membership was five hundred and sixty, whereas our membership has never exceeded two hundred. Rev. J. E. W. Cook, in a short but forceful talk, paid a most touching tribute to our war dead. His remarks brought back to the memory of many of those present, the faces and pleasant associations of brethren in service who have long since gone west. And would cause one to think that all their sacrifices were rendered in vain, and that elusive world peace is being most futilely sought.

Following Rev. Cook's speech, Mr. J. C. Lanier, in a pleasing way, and prefaced by well chosen remarks, introduced Commander Rodman, who was acclaimed in a most sincere manner.

Commander Rodman's speech was filled to the brim with information on the Adjusted Compensation Bill, now pending before congress. He showed to those assembled, in no uncertain terms, the why and wherefore of the opposition to such bill. He showed why the some several thousands of millionaires in this country were pooling their resources and efforts to best the Adjusted Compensation Bill. He told in terms, that no one could fail to understand, why it was that Andrew Mellon was making a supreme effort to reduce the taxes of the mighty rich—how he is endeavoring to pull the wool over the eyes of the unsuspecting and ill-advised, telling them that his reduction of taxation would be a great thing for the country at large, when as a matter of fact it will practically effect only those who have an income of $100,000 per annum, the American citizen with a lesser income would feel the reduction such little, that if the news carriers did not keep the matter before them, it is doubtful if they should be cognizant of such changes in taxation as Mr. Mellon flaunts as a boon to the American citizen. It is very plain that if any of our citizenship would give the taxation program of Mr. Mellon a few deep thoughts, they would be unalterably opposed to such a challenge to their intelligence. Commander Rodman followed the trend of Adjusted Compensation and Mellon tax reduction throughout his speech, bringing to light much that was good, and it is safe to say that those who heard him came away with much food for thought.

After Commander Rodman's address, through the means of printed cards, a ballot was taken of those present, relative to their attitude towards Adjusted Compensation for all ex-service men. All who returned their cards, voted in the affirmative.

Tribute to America's Dead. In the course of his remarks the Rev. James E. W. Cook said: "I could not refuse your invitation because I feel that the smallest payment of the debt we owe to those who went to the front must include the laying of an amaranthine wreath of never-fading gratitude on the (Continued on page 6)

Retail Clothiers Association Meets Twin-City Mar. 5-6

WINSTON-SALEM, Feb. 14.—The annual meeting of the North Carolina Retail Clothiers Association will be held in this city on March 5 and 6, according to a statement issued by F. E. Griffith, secretary of the association. It was also announced that Sol Schloss, president of the National Retail Clothiers Association, would come here from Indianapolis, Indiana, for the purpose of addressing the meeting and taking part in the general discussions at the various sessions. The national president is also expected to speak at the banquet on the closing night.

"We promise you a real convention," states Mr. Griffith in a bulletin which he is sending out to all the members of the state association this week. And we leave it to you to decide after the final curtain whether or not the clothiers of Winston-Salem and the officers of the association have made good their promise.

The program has not been completed but some of the features already assured are the theatre party on Wednesday evening, the first day of the convention the addresses and the round table discussions on the following day; the luncheon at the Robert E. Lee Hotel where the Winston-Salem clothiers will be hosts; and the automobile ride around the city on which the all the points of interest will be made including an inspection tour of knitting mills and other manufacturing plants. A banquet will close the session on the night of the sixth. A feature of the program which Mr. Griffith thinks will prove especially interesting will be the showing of the motion pictures that were taken of the national convention last fall.

A number of speakers other than the national president will be on the program, it is said and their names will be announced later. The retiring officers are striving for a record attendance and hope to have all members and many non-members present. The election of officers will take place during the second day of the convention.

WITNESSES TESTIFY BEFORE COMMITTEE IN THE OIL SCANDAL

Oscar Sutro Counsel for Standard Oil Co., Is Questioned

The Senate oil committee decided today that Frank A. Vanderlip will not be questioned until tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—With Frank A. Vanderlip waiting to explain his recent references to the sale of Former President Harding's Marion Star, the Senate oil committee today took upon the stand Oscar Sutro, counsel for the Standard Oil Company of California, and questioned him as to his company's refusal to bid no one of the Fall oil leases.

Mr. Vanderlip arrived at the committee room a few minutes before the committee met and Chairman Lenroot said that he would be called by the committee during the day and questioned at length regarding his circulation of reports about the sale of the Star. The chairman also put into the committee record his telegram from Louis H. Brush, one of the purchasers of the Star. The telegram was as follows:

"Roy D. Moore and I will be in Washington Friday and will request that either one or both of us be permitted to tell the Senate oil investigating committee what we know relative to the purchase of Mr. Harding's paper. Arrive 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon."

The committee has apparently reached no decision as to whether to recall E. L. Doheny to ask him whether or not he ever attempted to employ Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State and for a time law partner of Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Doheny's attorney submitted a statement declaring that neither before, since nor during the period that Mr. Colby was Secretary of State had Mr. Doheny or any firm with which he was connected ever employed or attempted to employ Mr. Colby.

E. C. Finney, assistant Secretary of Interior was quoted today in testimony before the Senate oil committee as saying that Secretary Fall had considered it "unnecessary to have Attorney General Daugherty to pass on the validity of the oil leases before they were made." The testimony was given by Oscar Sutro, counsel for the Standard Oil Company of California. He told the committee that he had suggested to Mr. Finney that the Department of Justice's opinion be sought. Mr. Finney's reply, continued the witness, was that it was not the wish of the Secretary of the Interior, though I don't think that expresses it. He said that the Secretary of the Interior did not consider it necessary to have the opinion of the Attorney General.

A letter to Fall from H. Foster Bain, director of mines, transmitting an opinion by Mr. Sutro against the validity of the leasing policy was put into the record. He said that none wanted Doheny to get into trouble and proposed to do everything in their power to make it easy for him.

John C. Shaffer, publisher of the Chicago Evening Post and a number of other papers was questioned by the oil committee today about a reported grant to him of one eighth interest in the Pioneer Oil Company a subsidiary of the Standard for "services rendered."

Senator Walsh produced what he said was the record of the proceedings of a meeting of the directors of the Pioneer company at which time such a grant was made. Mr. Shaffer said that he had never before heard of those proceedings. He stated that at one time he did hold one eighth interest in the company but that he had sold it and when asked "What services he had rendered?" he replied, "None." He added that he had had land adjoining Teapot Dome.

Mr. Wright Delivers Final Address Of Series at College

As the American government is organized, there is no institution more important than the American public school, for the intelligence and honesty with which our government is administered depends upon the extent to which the rising generation has developed standards of honesty and intelligence. Therefore it is exceedingly vital that the teachers of America have a clear concept of their obligations along the lines of the teaching of citizenship.

This was the conclusion reached by President Wright of East Carolina Teachers College in the final address of the series which he has been delivering to the college students on the teaching of citizenship. The important thing for the teacher to realize, according to Mr. Wright, is that the child is living his life while in school and not merely preparing to live. Habit formation is going on and standards and ideals are being fixed. The school, to the child, represents organized authority. If the school is so organized as to create antagonisms between teacher and children, if the child is indulging in the game of seeing how much law he can violate with impunity, he will as an adult be a citizen who fights the law of the land. War between teacher and children means later rebellion against law and authority. Mutual love and confidence create the atmosphere in which proper ideals of citizenship flourish.

President Wright reiterated his position that citizenship can not be taught as a separate subject. It must run through all subjects and enter into every school relationship. Citizenship is a vital by-product of all school activities. It has its foundation in the spirit of the school and the viewpoints of teacher and children as manifested in the classroom, on the play ground and in every school activity.

Drive for Chamber Commerce Begins Friday Morning

Everything is in readiness for the Chamber of Commerce drive, which will begin in a definite, concerted way on tomorrow morning promptly at 9 o'clock.

Chairman W. H. Dail, Jr., has outlined the details of the campaign to his team captains, who are familiar with the work and are ready to go. Each of the team captains will select at least one worker to accompany them.

All of the workers will be actively engaged from 9 to 1, at which time they will meet at the Kitlow Cafeteria as the guest of Mr. Dail and make their first report.

Mr. Dail feels very much encouraged because of the favorable comment that a number of the Greenville people have given, and with the strong corps of team captains, who have pledged their best effort, coupled with that of the workers whom they will have associated with them, success is already assured.

The general chairman, W. H. Dail, Jr., Team Captains: W. H. Woolard, J. C. Gaskins, E. G. Flanagan, J. N. Hart, C. W. Shuff, J. B. James, Louis Curry.

W. B. COOPER SAYS HE IS BANKRUPT LIVING ON BORROWED CASH

Lt. - Gov. Testifies In Trial In Connection With Bank Failure

WILMINGTON, Feb. 14.—Lieutenant Governor William B. Cooper is bankrupt and is living on money borrowed from a relative according to his testimony here today in the trial in which he and his brother are charged with conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Commercial National Bank of Wilmington. He declared that in May 1921 he was worth over $200,000. The lieutenant-governor appeared nervous when he took the stand but soon regained his composure but speaking rapidly and the rapid movement of his hands denoted the strain under which he was laboring.

He said that he was 57 years old and was the eldest of seven brothers, Thomas E. Cooper being the youngest. His first business was a wholesale grocery concern and he later became a cotton exporter. In May 1921, he said, he succeeded his younger brother as president of the bank and purchased $50,000 worth of stock from him and paid him for it. Proceeding with his story he said that at the time of the purchase of the stock he was worth $200,000 but that now he was bankrupt, had been forced to sell his home and was compelled to borrow $3,000 from a relative to live on.

He said that his heavy personal loss resulted from bonds that he had signed to protect depositors in the bank and government agencies. He said that the bonds amounted to more than $200,000 and that judgment in several suits had been granted against him. He filed his petition in bankruptcy, he declared, in order that his creditors might share and share alike if the worst came. He said that it was in the interest of the bank that he had signed the bonds and that they were to protect depositors and $13,500 borrowed by the bank in August 1922 and to aid in making up for the impairment of $85,000 in the bank's capital stock. He said that he had found some bad loans in the bank when he became president but that he had not considered conditions serious until after the Williams report. He declared that he and bank examiners then talked the situation over and that he proposed that the bank be closed if it was insolvent. Mr. Williams replied that this was not necessary as he felt sure that it could work out and advised him and his brother to get busy and try to make some collections, Cooper said.

He said that he believed that he had saved the bank about $50,000 and that he had made very few loans since becoming head of the institution. Most of the loans that have been criticized by the various examiners were made before he entered the presidency he said.

The lieutenant-governor said that every effort had been put forth to improve conditions after the Williams report and that nationalization of the bank was finally decided upon and effected in April 1922. He said that he understood that the $100,000 put into the bank by himself and brother had put the bank in good shape and made up for the losses.

German Claims Considered Berlin, Feb. 14.—George E. Williams and Thomas H. Creighton, representatives of the United States alien property custodian, have completed their work in Germany. They have been in Germany several months, visiting various cities, and gave consideration to several thousand claims. These were an outgrowth of the war and the subsequent seizure of German property in the United States.

Skills and Skates in Switzerland and Berne, Switzerland, Feb. 14.—Winter sports are flourishing in Switzerland this year, and as a result the number of winter tourists has reached a total of 10,000, 6,000 more than last season. The visitors include 4,000 Germans, 2,000 English and 750 Americans.

Says Rembrandt Painted Self The Hague, Feb. 14.—Professor Martin of Moutshuis, the local art gallery, has published an article in which he expresses the opinion that Rembrandt painted a portrait of himself in "The Night Watch," the celebrated picture which is the gem of the Amsterdam Gallery. Martin believes the man standing between the ensign and one of the patriots in the picture is Rembrandt, a self-portrait done in the while the retailers who sell their style of his portraits from 1630 to produce are said to be growing rich. 1645.

Gas Franchise Passes Final Reading at the Regular Meet of Local Aldermen; Dail Petition for Erection of Filling Station Passes First Reading

The last regular meeting of the board of aldermen was featured by gas franchise passing its final reading; the Dail permit for the erection of a filling station on the corner of Fifth and Cotanch streets passing its first reading; the passing of a resolution calling for an election for the issuing of $200,000 school bonds, the report of the committee for the purchasing of a new cemetery site, and the appointing of a registrar for the new registration.

Gas Franchise Passes Final Reading. The gas franchise passed its final reading. Mr. Blackwell is to pay to the town $26,801.50; the cost of the mains, engineering, etc., with interest from January 1, 1917 to the time he takes control, which is a limit of thirty days. He was also required to give a $1000 bond to furnish gas in Greenville in the next 12 months. Bowling Appointed Registrar. L. H. Bowling was appointed registrar for the new registration with Mrs. J. E. Winslow and G. V. Smith to act as pollholders and judges of election.

School Election to be Held. A resolution was passed at the request of the school board calling for an election in Greenville school district to vote on a $200,000 school bond issue with the election to take place on April first.

Cemetery Committee Reports. The cemetery committee reported that they had visited the various sites offered the town for a cemetery purpose and recommended the purchase of the Roy Flanagan property for a new cemetery site, the purchasing price being $13,500. This property is situated on the Stantonsburg road directly in front of Dr. Perkins' residence and back of the Pitt county fair grounds. Definite action looking to the purchase of this property will probably be taken at an adjourned meeting of the board on February 20.

Filling Station Permit Passes First Reading. The question of granting W. H. Dail permission to erect a filling station on the corner of Fifth and Cotanch streets passed the first reading, four voting for, two against and one not voting. This permit will have to be passed again at the next regular meeting before becoming effective.

They have been in Germany several months, visiting various cities, and gave consideration to several thousand claims. Now comes news that there is sensational evidence in store for the Senate oil committee. Wonder what some that has already been heard is to be called if not sensational.

The Senate requests resignations, the President vetoes the requests, and Senator Robinson declares that public opinion will drive officials connected with the oil reserve leases from office. Somebody is wrong and no doubt public opinion will make known in November just who it is.

Saint Valentine's Day and it Leap Year. Many bachelors will have something to occupy their minds now wondering who "Guess Who" happens to be.

THE TAX REDUCTION

The House Joint Resolution to reduce taxes for the taxable year 1923, offered by Representative Garner of Texas, in accordance with the simple, direct, orderly and timely method that Congress should manifestly pursue. Most governments having income tax system pursue this or a like legislative method which has for its object the more change or readjustment of rates for a year or years.

The Republican method of tax relief for 1923 is hopelessly cumbersome and bungling. It would defer relief for more than a year and involve the taxpayers in every sort of confusion, delay and expense. The Democratic proposal, on the other hand, raises exemptions from $1,000 and $2,000 to $2,000 and $3,000 respectively, and if adopted promptly would have 2,500,000 small taxpayers from making returns on March 15th, and save the government the great trouble and expense of dealing with the same.

Hudson Maxim in a recent speech declared that tea and coffee are intoxicants under the Volstead Act and their sale should be prohibited. The inventor would do well to invent a silencer for human beings similar to that he perfected for revolvers and keep it for his own personal use.

No, it wasn't a woman in the case, but the fact that the women were not allowed to view the mummy case, that caused the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen to be closed yesterday.

Attention has several times been called to the dangers of street skating, yet there has been no let up in this sport, and each day finds more children racing in and out among the traffic on the streets. One of their most dangerous practices is that of trailing or hanging on to automobiles or other vehicles and when someone is severely injured or killed in this way it will be too late to sound a warning.

California Climate Runs Thermometer To Both Extremes

SAN FRANCISCO. — California has about its climate. And California has lots of climate to boast out, according to the United States weather bureau here, which says California has a greater assortment of climate than any other state and more contrasts.

The following official weather reports prove California can delight Eskimo or soothe a savage from West Africa.

The hottest temperature ever recorded in the world was in Death Valley, July 10, 1913, when the mercury rose to 134 degrees in the shade. Bodie, in Mono county, holds the California record for the other extreme, with 36 degrees below zero.

While many parts of the state have never seen snow, Alpine county had fall of 73 feet in the winter of 1907.

Del Norte county registered 153.54 inches of rainfall in a single year. Lake county had 71.54 inches fall in a single month.

In San Bernardino county it once rained 16.71 inches in a single day. In the same county there is a section where not a drop of rain has fallen for more than two years.

Point Reyes, on the California coast, has the coldest summer in America with a mean temperature of 54 degrees.

In some sections of California, frost is found every month in the winter. Other sections never have frost and no extremes of heat, and vegetables, berries and fruit are harvested every day of the year.

In San Francisco has one of the most variable climates in the world, the annual mean for 40 years being 56 degrees Fahrenheit. September, the warmest month, has a mean or average temperature of 59.1 degrees, while the coldest month, January, has a mean of 49.6 degrees. Because San Francisco is never too hot or never too cold, manufacturers and other employers of labor say San Francisco Bay district is most efficient working place in the world.

In 20 years there have been only 10 thunderstorms in San Francisco. Since 1871 snow has fallen here only 10 times. It was never deep and never lasted long. Most of the snow is merely a passing fall of but a few minutes duration.

Red Cross Worker in Alaska "Medicine Man" to Natives

FROM Ketchikan in the southeast to Nome in the northwest defines the long and hazardous trail of Miss Ebba Djupe, American Red Cross field representative in Alaska. It is a stretch of 1,400 miles as the crow flies. By boat and dog sled she gravitates out across the mountains with their Indians to the Arctic Circle with its Eskimos and midnight sun.

This Red Cross nurse halts at nothing in her task of organizing the work and services of the eleven chapters of the American Red Cross that thrive in "Seward's Ice Box," as the Alaskan Peninsula was cynically designated at the time the United States purchased from Russia this land of limitless resources. The Indians and Eskimos, and all the others pioneering in this vast territory, Miss Djupe declares, are "the most lovable people." Duty requiring a steamboat trip up the Yukon river from Nome, and the culinary equipment of the vessel threatening to starve her, Miss Djupe signed as ship's cook, and reports that "the loveliest part of this new occupation is that I will save almost $100 of steamboat fare for the Red Cross."

Arriving at an Indian village from which calls for assistance for the sick adults and children had been sent out, she found nothing but the school building habitable and the place where the sick were congregated in a deplorable condition. There was only one small room to accommodate the sufferers and the Indian women immediately surrounded the cabin, curious to see the stranger come to act the "medicine man."

The needs of health service among the Indians and Eskimos in remote Alaska are very urgent and the death rate among the infants appalling, but through the Red Cross field service in the territory the worst conditions are being attacked with vigor and with encouraging results.

The spirit of this Red Cross service in this difficult field is best conveyed by Miss Djupe, who writes: "Some days I have come back to my room feeling just heartsick, and then I have said: 'This is the reason I am here.' When I came to a spot they call a village I almost gave way to dejection; but then, that is the reason why I am here, else the American Red Cross certainly never would have given me the chance to be chief steward on a steamboat with four Eskimos to take my orders."

in condition. While the next contest is four months away, much of the routine in connection with it already is being handled. The finishing line on the track was moved back for the accommodation of the fans sitting along the stretch. The old finishing line was only a short distance from the first turn in the 2 1-2 mile oval.

The judges' stand was set back from the edge of the track as a direct result of the introduction of the small, one-seated racing cars which performed here for the first time last

May. The numbers painted on the cars were necessarily small and the judges and others had difficulty in checking them correctly. Entry blanks already have been issued for the next race.

Regulation of Freight Rates Depends Upon Starting Waterways

KINSTON, Feb. 14. — Charles Kirkpatrick, who will assist in the re-organization of the Chamber of Commerce in this city next spring has declared that the progress of Eastern Carolina depends to a large extent upon the regulation of freight rates through the establishment of waterways which are the only permanent way of securing just freight rates from railroads. He pointed out that barge lines and their means of water transportation in other parts of the country had forced the railroads to give reasonable and just freight rates. The Chamber of Commerce states that the State of North Carolina has over 2000 miles of used waterways.

New Device Transmits 1000 Words a Minute

LONDON. — Striking evidence of advancement made in invention during 1923 is found in the recent bit of telegraphic and other inventions at the British Imperial College of Science and Technology.

The most notable development is in the telegraph; delay in submarine cables has been largely eliminated by using the action of light on selenium, which responds so rapidly that signal sent out is recorded even before the full current has passed the wire.

The magnetic telegraphic drum recorder is shown, capable of speeding messages to 1,000 words a minute. This is effected by the current he incoming signal passing through coils contained in a rapidly revolving iron drum and turning to a magnet for a brief space, attracting a slight piece of iron, and like a brake shoe. This opens a fine syphon tube charged with ink, causing it to record the signal on the paper-tape as it flies by.

Another exhibit is an "undulator," an instrument used in high speed wireless telegraphy, capable of printing an endless slip of paper up to 10 words a minute.

Another device which appealed to laymen and professional is a complicated photographic apparatus for taking motion pictures at a rate of 5,000 a second.

French Proposal to Tax Foreigners Quickly Killed

PARIS. — A boycott on all goods from countries with high exchange rates, which means principally the United States and English merchandise, is being pushed vigorously by the French in order to assist in saving the franc. However, other experts and public men are not so very loudly in the chorus, and the French realize that tourists from high exchange countries are in fact what has helped to keep up exchange.

Efforts to tax foreigners in France and suggestions to tax high exchange visitors are charged with resentment by residents here. M. Luchaire, in the Chamber recently caused the prompt withdrawal of a bill in charge for a 240 francs a year as residence tax, with the announcement that foreign money brought by tourists more than balanced France

Traveling Libraries Helping Russians

BELGRADE. — "The Russian people are reading today as they never have read before," said H. M. Lydenberg, of the New York Public Library on his recent return to this city after three months in Russia spent in observing existing library systems.

"Whatever the Soviet government is or is not doing for the Russian people," Mr. Lydenberg continued, "it is making it possible for them to read books. And the Russian people are availing themselves with remarkable avidity of the new opportunities placed in their hands by the Bolshevik administration in Moscow."

"I was impressed, wherever I traveled, by the moving libraries along the rail lines, from the Polish frontier to Moscow and from Moscow to the Balkans. The libraries are installed on trains which make stops of a few days at all stations, down to the little villages. The people take out books for home reading, and then return them on a subsequent trip of the library on wheels. The amount of business done by these ambulant libraries is impressive."

MAGISTRATES ASKED TO STUDY REAL FACTS AS TO LUNACY

LONDON. — In order to help them in their work, certain London magistrates will attend lectures on lunacy four days a week, commencing in March. The course has been organized by the Central Association of Mental Welfare and, after their lessons in the morning, the magistrates will visit certified institutions for defectives, prisons and remained homes.

Sir Leslie Scott, chairman of the Welfare Association, says it has been felt that some such practical course might be of interest and help to magistrates in a part of their work, to which so much attention has recently been drawn. At present a magistrate can override an expert opinion which decides that a person is a mental defective. "We have arranged to bring the two together, in order that they will the better understand the others' point of view."

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF THE FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Elizabeth City, N. C.

The citizens' friend, Mr. E. F. Aydt, after constant solicitation for several years, has consented to be a candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District in the coming Primary. He has never before been an aspirant for political honors, but has freely and unreservedly given his time and services in the behalf of others that desired to represent the Democratic Party in the Halls of Government. It is therefore, but fitting, that we should nominate him to Congress in the next primary.

He is a man of strong convictions of duty, knows the needs of the people of this section as probably no other from his long observation and interest, an arduous worker that lets no cause fail for lack of properly directed energy, an insistent claimant for the doctrines of the Democratic party and the right of his people, and an intensely moral and Christian gentleman who has kept alive his love for the people at the altars of the church. It is just this kind of Representative that we need in this District to help stabilize the affairs of the nation.

I sincerely hope that we can depend upon you to use your splendid influence among your many friends in the support of his candidacy.

With kindest personal regards, I remain,

Yours very truly,

P. H. WILLIAMS

Indianapolis Prepares For Next Motor Race

INDIANAPOLIS. — The starting line at the track of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the annual 500 mile international sweepstakes automobile race is held every May 30, has been moved into the back stretch about 200 feet. The judges' stand, which also has accommodations for the newspaper reporters, also has been moved and set farther back from the edge of the track.

Although only one automobile race a year is held at the speedway, a corps of workmen are given year-round employment to keep the place

Patsy Ruth Miller In "Name the Man"
Patsy Ruth Miller, the eighteen-year-old Goldwyn actress, received the unusual distinction of being accorded the ingenue lead in "Name the Man" Victor Seastrom's first Goldwyn picture, an adaptation of Sir Hall Caine's novel, "The Master of Man," which will be the attraction at White's theatre for two days, beginning Monday.

Miss Miller plays opposite Conrad Nagel. Mae Busch has the role of Bessie, the tragic heroine, in this dramatic picture.

Miss Miller, who has reached her greatest opportunity in this picture, has been in the movies only about two years. Born in St. Louis, she was educated there and lived just as tens of thousands of other American girls until her parents motored to Los Angeles. She was walking on the street one day when a motion picture director, struck by her charm, engaged her for a film. That was the start, and since then Miss Miller has been in constant demand for leading feminine roles. She recently appeared in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and with Charles Ray in "The Girl I Loved."

Radio May Bring Great Change In World of Science

RICHFIELD, Feb. 14.—The world of science and medical investigation may revolutionize in the future by the continued experimentation in radio in relation to the affect that it has upon the senses, especially that of hearing, if the occurrence that is said to have taken place in this city, is found to be a natural thing and not just a coincidence.

The story that appeared in the Stanley News-Herald, tells of a young man who had been deaf and dumb from birth who regained his hearing suddenly while trying to listen over the radio.

"Trudell Ritchie, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ritchie, has been deaf and dumb from birth, says the News-Herald, and up until a few days ago had never heard a sound of any kind. He was trying on the head gear of a radio set when he made known that he had heard a sound. However at first the sound was not clear and the apparatus was adjusted, his face registered delight, and claimed that his hearing was more distinct. He now claims that he can hear over the radio but not otherwise.

"The amplifier was tested out, but he can not hear except using the headgear. It is claimed that he can distinguish different kinds of music by this means although he had never heard them before.

"The young man is well educated in the mute language, but this is the only means which he has had in the past of getting an idea of music or as a means of distinguished between the different musical instrument.

"The incident has created quite a sensation throughout the county and many people have come Richfield to confirm the story.

"It is believed by many that the discovery of a means of hearing on the part of this deaf mute, may lead to important developments in the scientific world.

Next Step World Peace Is Subject Mrs. Allen's Address

GREENSBORO, Feb. 14.—"The next step in world peace" was the subject on which Miss Florence E. Allen, associate justice of the supreme court of Ohio, addressed the students of the North Carolina College for Women here in the Presbyterian church of the Covenant. The church was packed to its capacity young ladies from the college who were all eager to hear the only woman supreme court judge in the United States. W. C. Jackson, vice-president of the North Carolina College, introduced Judge Allen and outlined her varied career as teacher, musician, editor, lawyer, and judge.

"Thou Shalt Not War" was the key note of Miss Allen's talk and it was this commandment that she declared should be written into the code of international law. With this line of reasoning the jurist spoke in the manner of one who was voicing an ideal for which she was willing to strive; and she carried her listeners to convictions of her plans.

America should lead this undertaking, Judge Allen pointed out because America is better fitted with men and women, of strength and ability, has more material resources, and less corruption than any other nation in the world today.

Two plans were offered by Miss Allen as a means of enacting the law. One is that the United States shall call a conference of nations at which war shall be declared illegal and the other is that the United States shall propose a treaty with each and all other nations declaring war to be illegal.

Judge Allen said that a body to enforce the law could be formed once the law was enacted, but that the best method of enforcing the law would be through economic boycott and the teaching of nations the desire to observe the law.

Chinese Girl Wins Right Choose Hubby

PEKING.—Miss Chiang Chin-yin, an 18-year-old high school girl who recently disputed the right acknowledged through thousands of generations of a parent to give his daughter's hand in marriage without her consent, has scored a noteworthy triumph. Not only has she converted her father and mother to her modern viewpoint, but her elder brother as well has renounced his right to a voice in the selection of his sister's life partner.

Miss Chiang made known her determination to defy parental authority by inserting an advertisement in various Chinese newspapers notifying everybody interested that she refused to recognize a betrothal agreement made by her elders with the father of young Hsiung Pao-chi. The parents have now resorted to the same means of acknowledging their acquiescence in the girl's rebellion and agreeing to cancellation of the contract.

The incident has aroused great interest among young Chinese maidens who are becoming rapidly modernized. The conservative older generation, however, thoroughly condemns the innovation as incompatible with the teachings of Confucius, and a threat to the ages-old authority of parents which must not be countenanced.

built in Chicago in 1923," said Mr. Glenn. "Of these, 5,889, all costing under $10,000, are owned by working people, families in which the heads of the house wear overalls and work in factories and other industrial plants.

"The average wearer of overalls cannot afford to pay $50 a month for rent when he has a family to support. When we know that the average working man has foresight enough to be thrifty and save in order to purchase his home, we need have no fear for his civic and social attitude."

Soviet Government To Grant Autonomy To German Colony

BERLIN.—Soviet Russia is about to give autonomy to the German colonists on the Volga, and will make the community, which has already been organized by the Volga Germans, a part of the Soviet federation. Of the 800,000 German colonists still reported to be alive in Russia, Dr. Otto Fischer of Hamburg, who is well acquainted with the conditions in Russia, says at least 600,000 are in great distress. The majority of these colonists are Catholics. Half of the German colonists in Russia are along the Black Sea and the remainder are on the Volga, in the vicinity of Saratoff.

Some doubt is expressed by the German press as to whether the Germans in Russia along the Volga can be won over to the soviet standard by giving them autonomy because of the extreme hardships they have suffered under the Bolshevist regime visited upon them by famine and the requisitioning of their grain and cattle by the soviet government.

German first emigrated to the Volga area 150 years ago and 50 years later the German colonists settled along the Black Sea. Of recent years there has been a great emigration of these German-Russian colonists to the United States, especially to Kansas and North Dakota. Many of them also have gone to the Argentine.

A new famine is now facing the Volga Germans, and the Berlin Catholic paper Germania is carrying an appeal for the colonists. The extremely high price of all sorts of textiles in Russia and the bad economic state of the Volga Germans make it impossible for most of the colonists to buy clothing. Many children cannot attend school because of the lack of clothing, and even the clergymen are reported to be so poverty-stricken that they have no suitable clothing to wear in the churches.

Both the Catholic and the Protestant German colonists have clung to their religion in Russia in spite of the Bolshevist agitation against all churches and the martyrdom of priests and preachers and they have clung to their mother tongue and customs.

Marienthal, the largest Catholic community in Russia, had 12,000 inhabitants before the soviet regime. It now has only 1,000 and other centers have been similarly reduced under the disorganized and unsettled conditions brought about by the political upheaval and the famine.

New German Oil Sold Under Written Guarantee Rubs Out Rheumatism

A remarkable new discovery of German Chemistry, called Buhler Oil, for the relief of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, is astonishing the medical world. This marvelous oil seems to kill rheumatic acids as effectively as these other German pain killers—Naxocain for painless dentistry and Aspirin for headache pains.

Rheumatism in very many cases is due to internal abscesses (such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth) which give off poisons, and which are carried in the blood to the joints and muscles. Buhler Oil when applied to the affected parts, seems to quickly penetrate and be absorbed by the body tissue. Even in the most severe and stubborn cases almost instant relief has been obtained.

So remarkable have been the results from the use of Buhler Oil that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense it to rheumatic, gout and neuralgia sufferers in this city with a positive written guarantee to return the full purchase price of the first bottle if it does not bring wonderful relief. All sufferers should promptly take advantage of this guarantee. Sorbol Pharmacy, C. O'Hara and B. S. Warren.

ALASKANS WIN STRIKE AGAINST COST OF LIVING

NENANA, Alaska.—Gold-seekers along the lower Yukon River have just won a strike against the cost of living, according to men here on their annual pilgrimage from the Arctic placer fields to the "outside."

Old-time prospectors explained that they had wrought a metamorphosis of trading in Alaska. Traders, they said, no longer can dole out time-worn goods, but must meet the competition of mail order houses in the States, as well as that of the more modern towns that have sprung up along the Alaska Railroad.

The railroad, with its connecting steamboat lines, which extend far down the Yukon in summer, was the medium through which the miners won their advantage. The railroad provided a facility of shipment never known to interior Alaska.

Fairbanks was the first "placer camp" to abandon the quarter of "two bit" piece as the lowest basis of change. That city came to accept the despised nickel and dime. Before the government railroad was built, ten cents was called a "short bit" and was not legal tender. When the first Fairbanks trading company took dimes and nickels, there was an outcry from other stores and rejoicing among prospectors and laborers that prices soon became lower.

Wages dropped with prices, but to help meet adjustments, the Alaska railroad established a commissary, with provisions for sale at prices existing in the states. Many railroad laborers are getting but $4.50 a day this winter, but the railroad gives them the privilege of drawing any part of their wages in food, and the workmen found, early in the winter that for a day's pay at this rate they could receive in provisions the equivalent of $9 in prices at the trading-posts of the interior. They boycotted the traders by getting all their food from the commissary.

Merchants protested to the railroad management and received the reply that whenever prices were on a fair comparison with markets in the states, the commissary would be discontinued. Colonel Lee H. Landis, manager of the railroad, announced this week that Anchorage business men had agreed on what he considered reasonable prices, so the commissary there would be closed.

Prospectors of the Koyukuk and Chandalar, far to the north, gained their point by ordering provisions from coast towns or from mail order houses in the states. Some traders on the Yukon went out of business, and others dropped their prices to meet the competition.

A number of impecunious prospectors are making their "grubstake" for next summer by working on the railroad.

Elderly Printers Maintain Traditions In Illinois Field

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Two Illinois printers, Mrs. Tillie Hodge, 80, of Tiskilwa, and Col. W. N. Bates, 84, of Pekin, claim the distinction of being the oldest active printers in the United States. Both are hand compositors and both are at work over their cases every work day in the week. Mrs. Hodge in the offices of the Bureau county Republic where she learned to set type by hand. Later she went to Chicago, and when President Lincoln was assassinated she helped "hand pike" the story of the event for a Chicago morning newspaper.

Since that time Mrs. Hodge has worked in the South and in several parts of the Middle West. She was married in 1868, but returned to her trade when her husband died in 1888. Mrs. Hodge is remarkably active for her age. She is a student of physical culture and is a busy reader, keeping well informed on current questions.

Col. Bates learned the printing trade in La Fayette, Indiana, at the age of 13 working on a morning paper and setting the type by the light of tallow candles. He still has the stick in which he set his first type.

In those days there was not a sharp division between the work of the editorial staff and the composing staff, and the same men that wrote the newspaper often set it up, printed it and delivered it. Mr. Bates has done considerable reporting in connection with his work on various newspapers. After working on several papers in Chicago and down state Mr. Bates enlisted in 1861 and fought through the Civil War. At the end of the war he returned to Pekin where he established his own shop in 1870.

Mr. Bates is commander of the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic, which he organized, and is considered an authority on local history.

RODMAN ADDRESSES MASS MEETING ON COMPENSATION BILL

(Continued from page 1) tombs of those who fell; and because I never neglect an opportunity to assure you who remain that your comrades are not dead at all.

"Salute the sacred dead; Who went and returned not—Say not so! . . . We rather seem the dead, that stay behind. Blow, trumpets, all your exultation; Blow! For never shall their aureoled presence lack. They came transfigured back. Secure from change in their high hearted ways, Beautiful forevermore, and with the rays, Of morn on their white shields of expectation."

There is a wonderful significance in that profound saying of Jesus—"Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn or wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

No higher form of existence can be attained except through the extinction of the lower form that preceded it. That is a universal law. It is true of the seeds and flowers. It is true in the realms of business, education, and national life as well as in the case of individuals. No man is fully alive who is not ready to die for something or someone. Self-preservation is not Heaven's first law. The first law of Heaven and of earth is the law of self-sacrifice. It was the devil who said, "All that a man hath will he give for his life," and like most of the devil's assertions it is a lie. Any true man will sacrifice life for duty, honor, principle, liberty, love and in the sacrifice will find a higher life. So, I again assert that our heroes are living—living again in our purified affections, living again in our larger visions of life, as well as living among the innumerable host who have kept their life "unto life eternal." So we can sing with:

TRAIN MACHINE GUNS ON HERRIN STREETS.

Machine gunners of the Illinois National Guard are shown training their guns on the streets of Herrin, now in the grip of a fight between "wets" and "drys," in which the Ku Klux Klan has been involved. The troops were rushed there to prevent a recurrence of the bloody massacre during the mine war a year ago.

Douglass Roben:

"Glorious lads! To the land of the living, Through the dark vale you have passed from our view; Yours, we believe, is the crown of the victor, Yours the reward of the faithful and true, Hark to this requiem fond, Blest be your life beyond! Your joy be eternal in Paradise bright! God's grace uphold you there; Christ's love enfold you there; Heroes immortal, who died for the right."

Within the last few days the remains of the great Commander-in-Chief of our war heroes has been laid aside in the sleep of death, and his spirit has joined those who fell on the fields of Flanders and on a score of other bloody fields. And I have been wondering at the greetings they would give him. They loved him passionately; they responded to his call to arms with loyalty and devotion. They believed in the purity and sincerity of his plans. They need none had caught his celestial vision of a world "safe for democracy," and than are we. But we can honor ought to make wars henceforth and forever impossible. I have been wondering what the beloved leader said when he met them "over there." Did he say as we have often said: "My Braves! We won the war, but we have not won the peace?" Did he say: "Your work was all in vain and for naught. I left a world still full of hatred and malice and cruelty and suspicion—a world still leaping for the butchery and carnage of wars?" Or did he say: "My Comrades, be of good cheer! You started a movement which, though not yet realized, will someday win the world to brotherhood and peace?"

What does your life count for today? Are you cherishing the ideals which Woodrow Wilson so gloriously presented and represented, and for which your Comrades died; or, are you lowering the standard in your own life? There is only one way, my brothers, in which we can really honor our dead. It is not by singing their praises. It is not by firing "taps" over their grassy beds. It is not by weaving phrases of eloquence into a memorial garland. They need none of these. They are truly better off than are we. But we can honor them by our loyalty to the cause for which they fought and died. We can honor them by still determining that wars shall cease between the nations of earth, and by devoting all our powers to the cause of liberty, equality and fraternity. Will you not do so? Each and every man must decide for himself. In the words of John Oxenham:

"To every man there openeth A way, the ways, and a way: And the High Soul climbs the High way And the Low Soul gropes the low. And in between, on the misty flats, The rest drift to and fro. But to every man there openeth A High Way and a Low, And every man decideth The Way his Soul shall go."

FEELS MADE OVER

McLoud says friends now remark about his fine health since he took Tanlac. Was physical wreck.

"When I compare my present perfect health with the physical wreck I was a few years ago, I can say Tanlac has accomplished something bordering on the miraculous," is the precise statement of Harry McLoud, prominent fraternal order man and veteran employee of the Bethlehem Ship Building Corporation, Sparrow Point, Md.

"Everywhere I go my friends ask me what has given me back such robust health, and I answer with one word—Tanlac.

"At forty-five I was almost a complete physical and nervous wreck, and had to spend fourteen weeks in hospital. About a year and a half ago I took my first Tanlac, and three bottles made a marked improvement in my appetite and general condition. Last March I resumed the treatment, and half a bottle a week has run my weight up thirty-five pounds, leaving me just like a man made over. Tanlac is simply great."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.
