

The Fool Hath Said There Is No God

TWO LARGE AUDIENCES
HEAR REVIVALIST HAM
Choral Singing Under Ramsay is Feature of Sunday's Services

ANNOUNCEMENTS
There will be no services today. Tuesday services: 10 a. m. "A Genuine Convert." 7:30 p. m. "The Days of Malachi."

Combined audiences conservatively estimated at more than 8000 heard Evangelist M. F. Ham yesterday at the tabernacle when he delivered two of the most powerful discourses ever heard here. Yesterday afternoon the auditorium was rapidly filling an hour before the service commenced and last night the great building was well filled by 7 o'clock and when the evangelist took the platform very few seats were left in the tabernacle.

Bethlehem Commandery of Knights Templars attended the evening service in a body.

A great feature of the services was the inspirational music rendered by the great chorus choir, composed of the leading voices of the city which completely filled the large choir platform.

Mr. Ramsey took charge of the great choir Saturday and Greenville is beginning to appreciate the great musical treat in store for her and the musical talent of the city are giving their services freely and willingly to the cause of Christ during this campaign.

Afternoon Service.
A startling attack on the class of people in the world who belong to a group known as anti-Christians, was the message of the evangelist in the afternoon. Full of facts and knowledge covering a broad area of activity in this country, the sermon by the evangelist revealing appalling conditions in this country that are tending to tear down the very vitality of the nation.

At the 7:30 Service.
Mr. Ham preached a wonderful sermon in the evening on "Infidelity" and named several other topics that might be taken for his subject, "Why I Believe the Bible is His Word; Why I believe Jesus Christ is His Only begotten Son." The minister explained that he had discovered that a great host of people who professed Christianity were utterly at a loss to give any intelligent reason for their professed belief in God, His Book, and His Son, and as a result he had prepared this sermon, which is given in part:

"For the first division of our message we will cite two texts: Psalms 14:1, Rom. 1:20. 'The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God.' That is a fool's statement because it is not the product of reason and is contrary to every known system of reasoning. There are four things for which they who deny the existence of God cannot account—the Universe, the Bible, the Christ and the Jew.

As a Fool Reasons.
While waiting in the machine shop of an automobile factory for the men to finish their lunches, having announced a noonday talk to the men, I overheard a discussion among the men concerning belief and unbelief. One who denied the existence of a God when asked who made the universe said: "One time the entire universe was nothing but a bunch of nebular matter and it began to cool and got to revolving so fast that little particles flew off and these in turn got to revolving and finally turned into worlds and revolved into positions." He had the old discard nebular hypothesis.

Then to that group of men the manufacture of the automobile, the locomotive and the watch was explained in the same manner and they called me a fool but their doctrine was no more foolish than my modern explanation was.

I stand on the seashore and watch the water as it evaporates, is carried over the land, comes in contact with a current of cold air, is condensed and falls as rain, watering the earth and flowing through the brooks, creeks and rivers back into the ocean again. I ask the infidel to explain and he says, "Oh, it just happened." No there's an intelligence back of it all. Romans 1:20: "The invisible things of Him since the creation of the world are clearly seen, being perceived throughout the things that are made."

Nature proves the existence of God. Go out on a snowy day and examine the snowflakes with a microscope. No centerpiece was ever more beautiful in its design and structure. Go into the forest and examine all the leaves and you will find no two exactly alike—no two on the same tree, even.

In every realm of nature number and mathematical perfection play such fundamental and universal parts that the more the matter is studied the more absolute becomes the conviction that creative mind is back of it all. The existence of God is an inbred conviction in man. Even the heathen realize that there is a supreme power or being.

The hunger for God is as universal as the hunger for bread. The instinct for worship is as universal as the instinct to eat. And it is a universal law that no creature has instinct that is not responsive to an existing fact. When first born, the babe, the calf, or the kitten instinctively seeks its nourishment. Nobody ever taught it. That instinct is responsive to the fact that the nourishment is there for it. By instinct the birds builds its nest, bee constructs its honeycomb of marvelously accurate hexagonal cells.

The Bible.
This library which is bound in one volume called the Book (Bibles) is to be accounted for in some manner. We have it. It is either from man or From God. We will not even consider the discussion of destructive critics as to how much of this library is of God and how much of it is of man. If we admit that God has had anything to do with this book at all, we can also believe that He has guarded it from corruption. So we will only seek to answer your own satisfaction. Does the book furnish sufficient evidence within its own lids to justify us in believing that this book as we have it has been furnished us by God, the Creator of all things?"

It stands alone among all other books, makes neither concession nor apology and never has been compelled to revise any of its statements. All attempts to prove it unreliable in its history, unscientific in its statements, unsafe in its precepts have failed miserably.

It does not claim to be a complete history, neither does it pretend to be a treatise on science, but what ever has been dealt with within its pages has mocked the wisdom of the wise, and the criticism of the learned, in every instance where they have attempted to reflect upon its authenticity.

If written by the men whose names are associated with each volume, it has about forty authors, the first writing in 1,400 B. C., and the last about 96 A. D. So they could not have co-operated by mutual consent. They were separated not only by time but by custom. They were under the influences of the civilizations of the following countries: Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome. They came from various walks of life.

To believe that men separated so widely by time, custom, training, thoughts, habits, manners, could have produced this library with its unity and symmetry of thought, each complementing the other, no portion doing violence to another, would be far more difficult than to accept the statement: "All scripture is inspired of God." 2 Tim. 3:16.

To those who have been taught that the Bible was unscientific I hasten to state that not one known scientific fact has done violence to this book. But on the contrary the Bible has evidence of a knowledge of facts which were heralded as discoveries of scientists centuries after they had been recorded in this book.

Job 26:7 fifteen centuries B. C. said, "And hangeth the earth upon nothing," while Hindu scholars were teaching that the earth rested upon the backs of four elephants and others that it rested upon the back of a big turtle, and that earthquakes were caused by the moving of these beasts.

Carolina to Exhibit At Spanish Poultry Show

Raleigh, April 21.—The Poultry Department of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture has just prepared and shipped an educational exhibit to represent North Carolina at the World's Poultry Congress to be held at the Royal Poultry School in Barcelona, Spain, during the week of May 10 to 17.

The exhibit from North Carolina was recently shipped to New York City, where it became part of a larger exhibit representing this country, sent direct to Barcelona.

The exhibit, consists of three large panels illustrated with photographic enlargements and charts showing work done by his department in the control of fowl typhoid.

Dr. Kaupp has also prepared a scientific paper on the feeding of poultry which will be delivered before the Congress by one of the delegates representing the poultry interest of this country. He states that his department decided to make its exhibit on studies done with fowl typhoid because this is an international problem with poultry, affecting birds in both Europe and the United States.

The commission took the matter under consideration.

Wheeler, special prosecutor of the Senate Committee investigating the Daugherty administration of the Department of Justice, was deferred today by the special committee inquiring into the indictment against him.

Senator Borah will call the committee together when the witnesses arrive and has said that one or two further sittings should be sufficient to terminate the inquiry.

STOCKYARD FIRE DESTROYS MANY HORSES, MULES

ONE MAN KILLED
$300,000 LOSS

Richmond, Va., April 21.—At least one person was killed and one hundred and fifty horses and mules lost in a fire which destroyed the Southern Stockyards here last night.

The loss will exceed $300,000. The origin of the blaze has not been discovered but the police are investigating on the theory that a lighted cigarette was thrown into the feed store room.

Fire was discovered about 2 o'clock this morning by a policeman but before apparatus could reach the scene it had spread over practically the whole structure, which covered an area of several acres and was beyond control.

A white man named Charles Bermichi, 30, was killed.

General Carr Sponsors Woman's Alumni Bldg.

Raleigh, April 21.—General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, lauds the North Carolina College for Women in a letter accepting appointment by Secretary of State W. N. Everett on the committee which is sponsoring a student-alumnae building on the college campus.

"There is no finer womanhood in the land than our own of North Carolina," the general is quoted in the statement issued by Secretary of State Everett. "These young women who study and strive to prepare themselves for the great Christian service of educating our youth are entitled to every support we can consistently give. I feel that this is a tremendously

In his keynote address before the Republican State Convention in New York City, Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes declared President Coolidge would "neither condone wrong nor extenuate crime." In the Senate U. S. Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, assailed President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew J. Mellon for "heedless, unjustified and false charges against the Senate." Baron Matsui, Japanese Foreign Minister, asserted in Tokio that Ambassador Hanjira acted with full authority when he wrote Secretary Hughes of the "grave consequences" that would follow the passage of the Japanese exclusion act. Clara Kimball Young, famous screen and stage celebrity, collapsed on the stage of a Fort Wayne, Ind., theatre and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Reflector Campaign Comes to a Close in A Whirlwin Fintsh

Contest Big Success From Every Point of View; Judges An- nounce Decision 9:15 Amid Much Applause

The great campaign of The Daily Reflector is over.

Promptly at eight o'clock Saturday night, the doors of the campaign office were closed for the last time on one of the greatest and most successful voting contests ever conducted in the State of North Carolina.

From the conception of this great campaign until the last subscription was turned in and the ballots deposited in the locked and sealed ballot box, there was nothing to mar the great enterprise. Rules laid down at the beginning of the campaign were followed to the letter by all of the candidates.

The campaign was a fair and square one from start to finish as all who took part will agree. Those who worked the hardest and secured the most number of votes the winners. The final totals of the votes cast by each of the candidates appears in this issue of The Reflector along with the winners and the judges' report as signed by the judges after having completed the final count.

The Reflector wishes to take this occasion to thank all who took part in the campaign, to congratulate the prize winners as well as those who have gained a commission check. The Reflector also thanks the public in general for the hearty support in this campaign without which it never would have been the unqualified success that it has.

The campaign has carried the cir-ulation of The Daily Reflector to every corner of the vast territory covered by this enterprising newspaper, and its value to the various advertisers is greatly enhanced as a result of this great campaign.

In closing the campaign manager wishes to take this opportunity to thank the various candidates and their friends who took part in the campaign. Of course all could not win the first prize, but all surely were rewarded in proportion to the effort put forth. All fought a worthy and well fought battle of ballots. You each conducted your campaign in a straight forward manner and according to the rules published from time to time. None of you need have any regrets. Those of you who won prizes, won because you hustled just a little harder than your competitors, and those of you who were beaten, were beaten in a straight forward manner by candidates who hustled harder and secured more subscriptions. We thank you all kindly.

The report of the judges follows: "We, the undersigned, duly appointed judges in the Daily Reflector contest, hereby signify that we took charge of the locked and sealed ballot box at the close of the campaign and proceeded to make the final count and recheck. We found all the records in strict accordance with the published rules of the campaign. We, therefore, announced the final total votes cast, and the seven winners according to the rules of the campaign and the records attached which are a part of this report.

(Signed)
J. C. GASKINS,
J. H. WALDROP,
D. M. CLARK.

The prizes were awarded to the following candidates:

- 1st—Miss Lillian Hooker ----- 1924 Buick Four
- 2nd—Mrs. F. J. Diener ----- 1924 Ford Coupe
- 3rd—Miss Hannah Dixon ----- $250 Bed Room Set
- 4th—Mr. D. W. Alexander ----- $150 Victrola
- 5th—Mrs. L. D. Wall ----- $75.00 in Cash
- 6th—Miss Margaret Holland ----- $50.00 in Cash
- 7th—Mrs. J. R. Owens ----- $30.00 Cedar Chest

All not winning a prize and whose name appeared on the list of candidates as published last Friday, will be paid a ten per cent cash commission on all subscription money turned in.

important cause and one in which the citizens of North Carolina will not be found wanting. I am proud to have a part in promoting it. The college has come into its own. It holds an enviable position and its forward step must not be halted through lack of facilities."

Organization of alumnae and citizens groups in every community of the state is under way in anticipation of the building fund campaign May 19 to 21.

FORD DECLINES TO EXPLAIN BID TO COMMITTEE

HAS NEVER APPEARED TO PRESS CLAIMS

Hooker Crowd Would Produce Agricultural Insecticides If Grant- ed Lease

Washington, April 21.—Henry Ford informed the Senate Agriculture committee that it would be impossible for him to appear in person before the committee to explain the terms, conditions and advantages of his Muscle Shoals bid.

The Committee received a letter today from E. G. Leibold, Ford's personal secretary saying that W. B. Mayo, chief consulting engineer for the Ford interests, would appear instead.

Chairman Morris of the Committee had written Ford that the Committee desired particularly to discuss with him certain modifications of the bid and called attention to the fact that Ford had not appeared before the committee at any time to explain or discuss the bill although it had been pending for a long while.

Experimentation of the production of chemicals for the destruction of 'black Wheat Rust' will be conducted if the Hooker-White-Atterbury bid is accepted, was announced by A. B. Hooker who went on to say that he and his associates also plan to produce "paradichlorid of benzol," an insecticide for combating the peach borer and calcium arsenate which is a specific for the cotton boll weevil.

Farmers Warehouse Under New Management

The tobacco interests in this county and the surrounding sections will be interested in the formation of a new partnership for the operation of the Farmers Warehouse in Greenville for the coming season. The new firm is composed of H. A. Timberlake, S. D. Hooker, and W. P. Moore, and will operate the Farmers warehouse under the firm name of Timberlake, Hooker and Moore. All three of these gentlemen are men of wide warehouse experience, with many friends throughout the tobacco growing sections, and they will undoubtedly add strength and popularity to the Greenville tobacco market.

Mr. Timberlake has been prominently identified with the tobacco industry of this section almost from its beginning, having had a lifetime of experience in the sale of leaf tobacco in Greenville, Washington, and other places. Mr. Hooker was formerly a member of the firm of Moyo, Gentry & Co., and has made many friends among the tobacco growers and patrons of the Greenville market. Mr. Moore is the son-in-law of Mr. W. E. (Rat) Tucker, and has had ten years experience, both as a buyer and as a tobacco warehouseman. He brings to the firm an expert knowledge of the tobacco business which will be of great benefit to the growers.

Altogether, the firm gives every promise of success, and should prove a combination that will increase the growing prestige of the Greenville market.

Accuses Gillet of Receiving Liquor

Washington, April 21.—Speaker Gillette appeared before the Daugherty Committee investigation irregularities in the internal revenue bureau in the enforcement of the national prohibition laws, and questioned Skaife, who was formerly an investigator for the Department of Justice, regarding his statement as a witness before the committee that some of the liquor seized in Washington had gone to Gillette.

"Where did you get your information?" asked Gillette.

"Most of it came from Mr. Woodruff, the witness replied.

"Congressman Woodruff?" Asked Gillette.

"Yes."
The Mr. Woodruff referred to by Skaife is a representative from Michigan.

Insisting that his testimony needed no revision, Skaife reiterated that his information was that Gillette got his liquor from a "constituent."

EASTER OBSERVANCE

The glorious festival of Easter was fittingly observed by all the churches of our city yesterday—both white and colored. But one innovation deserves more than passing notice. At 5:15 a. m., a handful of men and women met on the courthouse steps, and sang Easter Hymns "Early in the Morning, As it Began to Dawn."

On the other side of the square, in the hotel, weary travellers turned in their sleep to hear the songs of eternal hope; and the strains of old familiar times awoke long-buried memories in the prisoners of the jail near by.

Incidentally, we learned that the singers were from St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The important fact is that nineteen centuries after the event, the Resurrection of Jesus means something to these disciples of His, and that they want the world to know it. They realize that the Resurrection is not merely an historic event—an event in time; but that it is an eternal and ever-living fact having virtue and power today. A short Scripture Lesson and two brief Collects with the Benediction closed this impressive service. As we said the number present was small; but we prophecy that next Easter hundreds will gather to sing to their Risen Lord at sunrise on Easter morn.

IF ADVERTISING STOPPED

"What would be the reaction upon the cost of living if advertising ceased and its beneficial force were stopped?" This question, asked by the Fourth Estate, provides much food for rumination.

It is interesting conjecture. Advertising largely takes the place of personal selling efforts, which is very much more expensive.

A California editor cogitating on the possibility of a cessation of advertising says:

"It would mean that our railroad trains would be thronged with salesmen whose homeward bound mail would carry fewer orders, all of smaller volume than now. "Distribution upon the present scale would be impossible. Manufacturing would fall off, with a consequent decrease in labor demand. Jobbers would find their business proportionally limited. Retailers would make fewer and slower turnovers. Prices of all commodities would take a rise that would make war prices and ante-war prices seem low by comparison.

The old-fashioned man who preached the doctrine that woman's place was in the home seems to have given up in disgust.

William S. Hart In "Wild Bill Hickok" Will Delight Fans

Famous Paramount Star Returns to Screen After Retirement of Two Years.

William S. Hart in "Wild Bill Hickok" directed by Clifford S. Smith is an announcement that will have familiar ring to the motion picture world. In the good old days, beginning in 1914, Clifford S. Smith directed this famous star in no less than forty-five pictures. Twenty-two of these were two-reelers and twenty-three were five-reel features. These were the Western productions that made Bill Hart world-famous as the King of Western heroes.

Few theatregoers have forgotten "The Aryan." Many critics still refer to this picture as one of the best ever screened. What Western memories are awakened by "The Disciple," "Hell's Hinges" and "The Apostle of Vengeance!"

With the return of William S. Hart to the screen under contract to make nine specials for Paramount release, the star has formed a new organization, which however, is composed almost entirely of old Hart stand-bys. Entrusting the direction of his future productions to his successful co-workers of early days, he has again hit upon an ideal combination as Smith is ranked a leader in the making of Western pictures.

"Wild Bill Hickok" marks the director's debut for Paramount release. It will be shown at White's theatre next Thursday, April 24. Ethel Grey Terry plays opposite Mr. Hart and heads an excellent supporting cast. The feature is said to be one of the most thrilling of Mr. Hart long repertoire.

EVANS ACCEPTS CHALLENGE OF COOPER AND INVITES COOPER TO JOINT DISCUSSION

Greenville, N. C., April 21, 1924

Judge Lewis G. Cooper, Greenville, N. C.
 Dear Sir:

In your announcement for re-election you state that you are a candidate upon your record as Judge of the County Court and if renominated you propose to conduct the court and enforce the laws in the same manner as heretofore. In your speech at Bethel Friday night you said you were proud of your record and issued a broadside challenge to anyone to show what your record was.

You have, therefore, made your record as Judge and your manner of enforcing the law the main issue of this campaign and have challenged discussion of the same. As an avowed candidate for the office of County Judge upon a platform of Law and Order, of public service instead of selfish interests, with fairness and impartiality to all, without undue harshness to any and with special favors to none, I accept your challenge thus flung to the world, and I do here and now formally invite you to meet me in joint discussion of the issues of this campaign before the people of every precinct of Pitt County so that the voters can be fully informed and vote intelligently.

I am anxious to have you with me before the people and I hope you will accept this opportunity to show why you are so proud of your record. Please advise your decision in this matter promptly.

Very truly,
JAMES L. EVANS.

THE MELANCHOLY PERSON

Shakespeare says Hamlet was melancholy. And he was. There's no doubt of that. He was a very sad prince, was this prince of Denmark. But why was he so melancholy? "Ah!" as Hamlet might answer, "that is the question."

Hamlet lived in a great castle—yes—but that castle was not as sanitary as the average backyard of today.

No plumbing, no bath tub, no shower, no closet, no lavatory, no kitchen sink, no running hot and cold water—well, wouldn't that condition make anybody melancholy?

No wonder Hamlet saw things in the dark and plotted to kill his whole family.

A sanitary home and a clean body are the first steps in a cheerful outlook, and without a cheerful outlook no man can be the success he would like to be.

THE FOOL HAS SAID THERE IS NO GOD

to have discovered that the earth turns round; but 2,300 years before that Isaiah (40:22) wrote: "It is He that sitteth above the circle of the earth," and Luke (17:34-36) 1,550 years before Galileo, speaks of Christ's coming to the earth again when it would be midnight at one place, noon day at another and morning at another and evening at another, a condition that could not be were the earth not round.

Thirty-four hundred years ago Moses warned (Deut. 4:19) Israel against the worship of stars which the Lord had allotted as portions unto all nations under the whole heavens and that was 3,100 years before Copernicus was born. How did that get into the Bible if it was not known then that the earth was round?

"It is the unexpected that happens," a veteran statesman once said. The anticipations of the most far-seeing and the precautions of the wisest are mocked and put at naught time and again by the bitter irony of events. We might as soon think to pluck the stars from the heavens as to wrest its secrets from the future.

Four-fifths of this book is prophecy and while it is rapidly becoming history we may with more certainty look for the history of the future to fit the prophecy of the present like the wax impression fits seal.

One of the most powerful weapons against infidelity is the fact of prophecy and its fulfillment. It is a theme so vast and of such striking importance that it is surprising that the church has neglected it. Yet the more the question is studied the more wonderful it becomes in its convicting power and all sorts of higher criticism are swept aside like chaff before the breeze in the onward march of historical fulfillment. The marvel of it all possesses the student when he realizes that there are other "sacred books" but that none of these pretends to prophesy at all. Pascal, the historian, said he had studied all other religions and in the Christian alone found prophecy.

"Produce your cause, saith the Lord; bring forth your strong reasons, saith the King of Jacob. Let them bring them forth and show us what shall happen; let them show the former things, what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them, or declare us things to come. Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know, that ye are gods." (Is. 41:21-23). "I declare the end from the beginning and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all by pleasure." (Is. 46:10.)

This was the Lord's challenge of false religions. None of them ever made good. Yet not a single Bible prophecy, whose time of fulfillment is now or is passed, has failed in the minutest detail. Great prophecies were fulfilled at the time of Christ, great prophecies are having fulfillment before our very eyes, and the fulfillment of great prophecies is yet to come.

Then numbers of cases may be pointed out in which God's word tells of things that are to take place at a future date and alongside those prophecies history records that took place just as foretold. This is true of Tyre, Sidon, Alexander and his kingdom, Egypt, Edom, Petra, Thebes, (or No) Memphis, Philistia, Askalon, Samaria, Bethel, Jerusalem, the Temple Judea. And from the beginning of the old testament to its end there was prophecy of the Christ that was to come as the Messiah the saviour of man.

Jesus has power to make Friends:—These words were spoken to eleven poor, uneducated fishermen to whom He committed the task of telling all the world of Him. The number of His friends has been ever increasing from that day till this and now there are multiplied thousands who would dare to die for Him.

Jesus has Power to Make His words remembered: He took no stenographer along with Him to take down what He said, and yet we have preserved today many of His words while here upon earth—the New Testament which has been marvelously preserved through all the attacks upon it.

Jesus has Power to make His words obeyed, though he had neither army nor navy. All over the world today men's hearts are touched and quickened by the words of Christ, thousands gladly march at His command even through dangerous paths. Will you have this man to reign in your hearts?

Our motive is service and there is satisfaction in our accomplishment.
