HAM CALLS THIS AN AGE OF IMITATION

Ham Indicts Modern 'Christians' Under Seven Charges—Flays Those Who Serve for What There Is In It

In an earnest and deeply impressive sermon last night based upon the seven fold indictment brought against luke-warm Christianity by the prophet Malachi, a sermon at times scathing in its rebukes, at others dramatic in its characterizations, at others rollicking in its appropriate and cleverly interpolated anecdotes, and finally tender and impelling in its appeal, Evangelist Ham last night began the second week of his scheduled five weeks campaign here and from the time he stepped upon the platform until the benediction was pronounced he held the undivided attention of the large audience which attended the service. The sermon was decidedly the most impressive and effective of the series thus far and Mr. Ham's great pulpit power was more in evidence last night than in any previous service.

Despite counter attractions there was no noticeable decrease in the large audience and the singing by the large chorus under the direction of Chorister Ramsey was unusually effective. The music last night was featured by a duet "It Pays to Serve Jesus," effectively rendered by Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Rodgers, Mr. Rodgers also playing the accompaniment.

This morning a large audience, swelled by the clerks and business forces of the city, who in large numbers closed for the morning service. Heard Mr. Ham deliver a most helpful discourse on "Getting Out of Egypt," in which the evangelist plead for his hearers to throw off the shackles of the world and step out into the freedom of the sons of God. The banks of the city began closing this morning and will continue this practice until the close of the campaign.

Tonight Mr. Ham is to deliver another of his discourses in which he draws lessons from this age from a character study of an old testament character, taking for his message to-night the experience of Lot in Sodom. This message is said to be one of the most effective and powerful messages Mr. Ham delivers along this line and it is expected that an unusually large crowd will be present. The song service is scheduled to begin promptly at 7:30.

After reading an excerpt from the book of Malachi, Dr. Ham last night introduced his message with a brief survey of the historical setting and he said in part:

In the later days Israel developed a state of formalism utterly devoid of spirituality, and this state continued down to the advent of the Savior, and was exemplified in His day by the Scribes and Pharisees upon whom he continually heaped withering denunciation.

And if the analysis of the seven churches of Asia as set forth in the first three or four chapters of Revelations is a prophecy of or a prophetic setting forth of the seven ages of the Christian church as I verily believe, then we are living in the last, or seventh age, of Christianity represented by the Laodicean church the only one of the seven about which God hadn't one of the good things to say. Any time you want to find out how our average church looks to God's eyes you have only to turn to the third chapter of Revelations and read what He thought of the Laodicean church, and you can see that the church in Malachi's time didn't have much on us.

Ours is a day of imitations. We can't make honey that never saw a bee, butter that never knew a cow, and we have Christianity not acquainted with Christ. It is perfectly orthodox. He not only believes in the divinity of Christ, he knows it.

His present method of opposition is by imitation. Theosophy, Eddyism and Russellism, and the Laodicean type of religion found in our churches everywhere.

The Seven Fold Indictment.
1. Calling God Father and Master, without giving Him the reverence due a master. The evangelist made telling application of that charge to many church members of this day.

2. Polluting God's altar by offering blind, sick and lame sacrifices on it. The preacher describing the old clothes often sent to orphanages or contributed to the poor, with buttons first cut off and laces removed from the shoes, etc. How many give

Tampa Banker Victim of Daylight Hold-Up

Tampa, Fla., April 23. — A. C. Lewis, head of the board of directors of the Exchange National Bank was held up in West Tampa this morning and robbed of $24,000 which he had on his person, according to report made to the police.

Two men stopped the banker as he drove away from a West Tampa bank, from which he was transferring the money to another bank. The robbers escaped in an automobile and the police have only meagre descriptions.

In 1900 North Carolina North Carolina had about thirty high schools; in 1923 there were 475.

God only such time or such other offerings as they have no use for."

3. "Render service only for reward and not for love. Take away the reward of heaven and the fear of hell, and how many would serve God at all?"

4. That they found His service a weariness. Church members can sit in a show three hours and never tire, but thirty minutes is as long as they can stand it in a church. The reason is, they are not sheep, but goats. They are not spiritual but carnal.

5. God hates pomp and ritual and lip services. He despises to hear your orthodox phrases coming from a herodotus heart. No wonder. God turns against us when an emperer attends church in the morning and leads hosts to the battle in the afternoon.

"God is tired of all this hypocrisy. Away from me, He cries. Many of you are serving Me only for what you can get out of it."

"How many of you would serve God if you were to get nothing out of it. You care for nothing save to keep your own little miserly soul out of hell. But don't get the idea you are saved just because your name is on the church roll. You may wake up in hell and be mightily disappointed."

As long as you church members refuse to abide by or pay attention to our church laws, what business have you criticising the city council or the state officials for not enforcing the laws?

Yet there never was a time when it was easier for a man to understand God's purpose. There never was so many helps to the study of the Bible. So that ignorance will not be forgiven you.

WHEELER REFUSED TO APPEAR BEFORE FEDERAL COURTS

MYSTERIOUS LETTER APPEARS IN HEARING

Committee Fails to Find Evidence That Senator Represented Clients in Government Cases

Washington, April 23.—Hint of a mysterious letter about land permits said to have been written by solicitor Booth to Senator Wheeler's law firm was heard today by the Senate Committee investigating the indictment of the Senator in Montana on charges of illegally receiving money and of appearing before United States courts for clients while a senator.

Senator Sterling, of South Dakota, a Republican on the committee said he had been told of such a letter and expected to produce it before the investigation was completed. He declined to give the source of his information. L. V. Beaulieu, a western attorney said he had also heard of such a letter. Beaulieu was the only witness at today's hearing, he testified that he had been chief counsel for Gordon Campbell.

When asked if he knew of Senator Wheeler having represented Campbell he said that he had not, but on the contrary, that Senator Wheeler had told him that he had declined specifically to have anything to do with any of Campbell's litigation except in Montana state courts.

The committee adjourned until tomorrow.

FORD'S BID MEETS OPPOSITION FROM MANUFACTURERS

PROPAGANDA CHARGED THROUGHOUT SOUTH

Tennessee Association and the Pennsylvania Grange Join in Claim That Terms of Bid Too Indefinite

Washington, April 23. — Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals received rough handling today at the hands of the Senate Agriculture Committee. Three witnesses argued against acceptance of the bid in its present form.

Charging that public sentiment had been aroused in the South by a tremendous propaganda which went so far as to boycott manufacturers who opposed the acceptance of the bid, were made by B. H. Wilkins of Tullahoma, Tenn., representing the Tennessee Manufacturers Association.

He declared his organization opposed the Ford bid unless definite guarantees were included that cheap fertilizers and power would be distributed from the Muscle Shoals plant.

D. E. McGuigan, general counsel for the Tennessee Manufacturers Association said to accept the Ford offer would be to turn over the great project for 100 years without reservations or control and for a grossly inadequate consideration.

John A. McStarran, master of the Pennsylvania Grange, the last witness to testify, said the grange was opposed to acceptance of the Ford bid because it did not believe Ford planned to produce a tone of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals.

DANIELS OPPOSED NAVAL OIL LEASES

FEARED TO ESTABLISH LEASING PRECEDENT

Letter From Naval Officer Says He Was 'Obdurate' Only Defensive Drilling Permitted

Washington, April 23 — Josephus Daniels, as secretary of the Navy, was very "obdurate" when it came to getting his approval of any oil leases, Commander H. A. Stuart, U. S. Navy, said in a letter read into the records of the oil investigating committee today.

Commander Stuart was in charge of the Naval oil reserves under the administration of Secretary Daniels and is now on duty in Wyoming with the receivers of the oil reserve there.

Stating that the oil land leased while Mr. Daniels was secretary of the Navy amounted to only 120 acres to the Consolidated Mutual Oil Co., and five wells to the Boston-Pacific Oil Co., all in reserve No. 2 in California.

Commander Stuart said after the result of the 1920 election, Mr. Daniels particularly stated that he had consistently refused to open the naval reserve to leasing and would continue to do so for the rest of his time in office.

These small leases were made only after the best available authority had decided it highly essential to defensive drilling as Mr. Daniels desired to keep as much of the reserve oil as possible in storage in the ground.

"I recall distinctly in the case of the Consolidated Mutual Oil Co. to whom was leased 120 acres. Mr. Daniels was very much afraid that the leasing of even this small acreage would establish which might lead others to authorize leasing as a principle.

Commander Stuart continued, "I feel that there is not a single naval officer who had anything to do with the reserve under Secretary Daniels who was not impressed with his policy of conservation."

Commander Stuart's letter was from Wyoming under date of April 9th in reply to Senator Walsh, proponent of the Senate oil committee.

Arrangements have been made by M. B. Summers, in charge of the weather bureau here, to ship wind velocity instruments to Point Barrow aboard the coast guard cutter Bear, which is to leave May 12. The vessel is to reach Point Barrow in August.

Gasoline Cheaper Than Other Staples

U. S. Statistics Prove Prices of All Other Commodities Have Made Further Advances

Gasoline has been the lowest priced commodity of general use at all times during the past eleven years and never did get as high, in comparison with pre-war prices, according to a writer in the March 20th issue of Oil and Gas Journal. Yet gasoline is bought so often and so universally that its modest advances have received marked attention and an undue amount of criticism.

During 1920 potatoes reached an average of four and one-quarter times the price charged in 1913, according to Government figures. Sugar cost nearly three times as much and many other commodities cost double or more. Gasoline in 1913, according to government figures, sugar cost nearly three times as much and many other commodities cost double or more. Gasoline at its highest point was only 70 per cent higher than in 1913 in spite of the highest crude oil prices since the early days of the industry.

Last year the average price of gasoline was only 12 percent higher than in 1913, while sugar and clothing stayed around the 100 percent mark and butter around 50 per cent higher.

Not only has gasoline become cheaper by comparison with other commodities, but greater mileage per gallon is being secured, part due to improvement in motors and carburetors, but also due to more scientific balancing of the gasoline itself. If the motorist considers his time valuable, he can also be grateful for the tremendous investment of the past ten years in pumps placed at almost every corner and cross roads, making the purchase and delivery of gasoline quicker and more convenient than that of commodities that have advanced further in price.

The average price level of gasoline over the decade is shown by comparison with that of common food stuffs.

Every commodity has had its fluctuations, but the oil industry's vigorous efforts have kept gasoline well down toward the pre-war level. In spite of having had to supply nearly twelve times as many cars in 1923 as in 1913 and in the meantime provide gasoline for vast armies overseas, great improvements in all departments of the industry have kept gasoline at a figure representing only about 15.5 percent of the average annual cost of running a car.

THAW DECLARED SANE BUT HELD DURING APPEAL

HAS SPENT 16 YEARS IN CONFINEMENT

Evelyn Nesbit and Trustees of Thaw Estate Will Continue Fight to Prevent Liberation

Philadelphia, April 23.—Although declared sane and fully capable of managing his affairs by a jury in the Court of Common Pleas last night Harry K. Thaw is still in the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases where he has been confined for the past seven years.

Thaw was committed to the institution after he had been indicted in New York for the alleged whipping of Frederick Gump, Jr., a high school boy. New York police were searching for him when he was found in a west Philadelphia apartment house with his throat cut. His family intervened to have him declared insane by a Philadelphia court in which they were successful and he was committed to the asylum despite the efforts of the New York authorities to extradite.

After the jury had returned its verdict, William A. Gray counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, who is striving to protect the interests of her thirteen-year old son, requested the usual four day period during which to file a motion for a new trial.

The request was granted by Judge Monaghan before whom the case was tried, who thereupon directed that Thaw be held in the custody of the court. No date has been set for the hearing.

Mr. Gray said that he also spoke for Arthur Dixon representing the trustees of the William Thaw estate who oppose the liberation.

Since he killed Stanford White, the architect, in June 1906, Thaw has spent about sixteen years in jail, prison and hospitals.

Much has been said during the discussion of the pending immigration bill of alleged discriminatory features as though they constituted a grave and serious objection to the bill.
However, there can be discrimination "in favor of" as well as discrimination "against," and now is the time for an American Congress to discriminate "in favor of" America and Americans, whomsoever else they are called upon to discriminate "against" in doing so.

ALASKA'S FIRST AIR POSTMAN
Fairbanks, Alaska.—Alaska's first aerial postman, Bennie Eielson, who flies weekly between this city and McGrath, a distance of 300 miles, is known by the Indians at McGrath as "the moose ptarmigan."

Scores of Indians observed the approach of the airplane and stood with awe as the aviator landed and stepped from his conveyance. ALASKA'S FIRST AIR POSTMAN Fairbanks, Alaska.—Alaska's first aerial postman, Bennie Eielson, who flies weekly between this city and McGrath, a distance of 300 miles, is known by the Indians at McGrath as "the moose ptarmigan." The nickname was earned when Eielson, in February, made his first trip and landed at McGrath. Scores of Indians observed the approach of the airplane and stood with awe as the aviator landed and stepped from his conveyance. The Indians had been skeptical of reports of the airman, but had camped there for days watching the skies.

BLOSSOM TIME PLEASES CAPACITY HOUSE LAST NIGHT
"Blossom Time," presented by Messrs. Shubert appeared here in White's theatre last night and was thoroughly enjoyed by a capacity house.

The musical comedy different in every respect from the usual show of its kind was by far the best and most enjoyable ever presented here. The entire cast was composed of real artists and the singing was a feature which will long be remembered.

The time of the play dated back to 1826 and the costumes were in keeping with the times. Three acts featured with singing and dancing were presented. Arthur Geary as Baron Franz Schuber and Greek Evans as Franz Schubert were splendid in their respective parts. Margaret Merle as Mitzi and Freita de Soria, as Bella-bruna were two of the best actresses seen on the local stage and both, especially Mitzi charmed the large audience with their singing.

Every member of the cast took their part well and could not have been improved upon.

"Blossom Time" has been looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by the theatre goers of Greenville and their expectations were fully realized last night in the presentation of the wonderful production.

JAMES P. COOK—FOR STATE AUDITOR

By Al Fairbrothers in Raleigh News & Observer

I believe it can be said of me that I have never before written "a piece for the paper"—outside my own publication, suggesting that the people of a great state should take heed to what I say concerning a candidate for public office. I have seen the other fellows boost, and have many times yielded space to their conclusions.

Inasmuch as I am now out of the newspaper game—retired from the public and from politics, I have one last appeal to make if you deem it worth space, or, will give me space, in your columns to make it.

For over thirty years in season and out of season, Mr. James P. Cook, of Concord, has been my friend. Over thirty years ago he and I were compatriots. We ran daily newspapers in North Carolina. We both insisted that this was destined to be a great state commercially, and both to a common end labored for what has come to pass. He was running the Concord Standard, a little daily publication that he established in 1880, and when I first met him over thirty years ago it was at Asheville whether we had journeyed to attend a great Southern Immigration convention—we were delegates.

I had been talking prison reform. I had been talking many ultra things for those days—but Jim Cook was thoroughly saturated with an idea and an ideal—believed that vice of youth did not approximate crime of age. He believed that juvenile offenders against the peace and dignity of a commonwealth did not constitute criminality and that laws which punished the professional burglar, forger and all other classes of criminals should not be invoked when a tender youth—through environment of God knows what, had for a moment side-stepped and walked the wider path. A case in the Cabarrus county court had touched him—he had seen the great un pitying shame of the law's harshness—he knew that the Artful Doger of the street, the apt pupil of Fagan was not the Oliver Twist whom environment had overtaken and circumstances crucified. So in Jim Cook was born an idea. It was the establishment of the Stonewall Jackson Training School—and of this, in its magnificent progress and development the whole state is cognizant. And yet that was not a child of yesterday.

Joe Caldwell, with his Charlotte Observer, knowing Cook and knowing human nature, lent his support to Cook's all but idle dream in those days—and the legislature of North Carolina of 1897 chartered the Stonewall Jackson Training School. Governor R. B. Glenn who always listened when humanity called appointed Cook a member of the Board, and that Board comprised of some of our most prominent people, men and women, selected Cook as Chairman.

This was not pinning a badge on the lapel of his coat and telling him to strut down the aisle—but it was handing to him a task that most men would have dreaded. But Cook assumed the responsibility. His heart was full—and what has been accomplished there is for no one of us to say. It has been marvelous. I took time to attend the recent dedication of the Cannon Building—I looked over the grounds, realized as I stood there that things like that don't happen. When I see the Rocky Mountains on the Western Plains—see the magnificence and the glory and the grandeur of God Almighty I know that things don't happen. And when I see what man has wrought—if against all odds, I stand uncovered not in the awe that Divinity inspires but in full appreciation of the strength of my fellow man.

Now when I say that all the work that Cook has done has been without money and without price—I hope I have explained what I am leading to, and what is justification for what I am going to say in a very few words. Cook has done these things for us. For us. For you, for me—for the state—for the United States—he has by self sacrifice, by giving of his time, his talents and his heart, started something that must go around the world. And for its betterment. For its uplift. For its advancement.

And it seems to him that he would like, in rounding out this life well and nobly spent, to serve the state in an official capacity—where his talents and his ability would save the state in its expenditures many thousands of dollars—where he could for a term in the office of State Auditor render a service worth while and worth his way—and I, as a pilgrim on the pike, as a voter, as a tax payer, as one who has helped build this state, would like to ask the voters of North Carolina to see that the name of James P. Cook is the one they check when voting for State Auditor.
