HAM-RAMSAY ANNOUNCEMENTS TODAY
4 p. m. Teen Age Girl's Prayer Service at the home of Miss Elsie Zahniser in charge of Mrs. Joseph Chandler of Fayetteville.
7 p. m. Business Women's Prayer Service in the Inquiry Room at the Tabernacle led by Mrs. Chandler.
7:30 p. m. Regular night service. Subject "The Unpardonable Sin."
TOMORROW
8:30 a. m. Business Men's Prayer Service at the Pythian Hall. A service every man in town should attend. 75 men were present at the inaugural service this morning. At least 100 are wanted tomorrow for this thirty minute service.

Another large audience heard Evangelist M. F. Ham last night at the tabernacle when he took off his gloves and in an earnest and zealous manner went after the "Greatest Sinner in Greenville" in the course of which he dealt some telling blows at many prevalent sins especially that of taking God's name in vain, classing the man who takes God's name in vain as a greater sinner than a murderer, a libertine, or a thief.

A spirited song service preceded the sermon in the course of which Chorister Ramsay paused and told of his visit to the area devastated by the cyclone and called upon the audience to render financial assistance. Without any pull whatever over $700 was pledged by the audience in less than five minutes and instructions given to pay the pledges into the Pitt County Red Cross. A. B. Ellington, treasurer, or deposit to their credit at the National Bank. Rev. Seoville, pastor of the Methodist church, led in a prayer for divine aid to the stricken area.

Just prior to the sermon Mr. Ham called upon Loomis Goodwin of Raleigh and Joseph Chandler and Rev. Sam K. Phillips of Fayetteville, all of whom responded with enthusiastic reports of the great work being done in their respective towns by the laymen as a result of the Ham-Ramsay Campaign recently conducted in their towns, and plead for Greenville to render undivided support to the evangelist here.

Following the service Mr. Ham met with the Teen Age Girls of the audience and introduced to them Mrs. Joseph Chandler of Fayetteville who is to have charge of the work among the young ladies here. This afternoon her work will be inaugurated with a service for the Teen Age Girls at the home of Miss Elsie Zahniser and tonight at 7 o'clock she will meet the young business women of the city in the inquiry room of the Tabernacle for a short service preceding the regular night meeting.

This morning 75 men were present at the inaugural Business Men's Prayer service at the Pythian Hall which was led by Mr. Rodgers of the Ham-Ramsay Party. A deeply impressive service is reported and it is hoped that at least 100 men will attend this service tomorrow morning and each morning hereafter.

The text last night was Luke 12: 47-48—"And that servant which knew his Lord's will and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes. For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required; and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more."

Also Luke 16:15—"Ye are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts; for that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God."

His argument was to show by the scripture that the man who sins against God is more guilty than the one who sins against man; also that the man who sins against the light is more guilty than the ignorant person committing the same sin. Also that the wealthy, influential, educated, prominent, moral, successful man is more guilty than the ignorant, poor, immoral drunken bum who commit the same sins; because the first class carry more people into error and hell than the other class.

MUSCLE SHOALS AGAIN BEFORE COMMITTEE

North Carolina Banker Believes Ford Would Do as Well at Shoals As He Has in Auto Production

Washington, May 2.—Fred M. Allen, of the Gastonia Chamber of Commerce, appeared as the first witness before the Senate Agriculture committee in its Muscle Shoals hearing today.

Mr. Allen told the committee that needs of North Carolina manufacturing interests for power explained the state's interest in what disposition was made of the Shoals.

"Water-power, resources of the state will be all utilized by 1930," Mr. Allen said, "and the industries of the state must then look elsewhere for power as the use of coal for power is impractical. We want Muscle Shoals developed, but unless this development is along the lines specified by the provisions of the federal water power act the industries of the south will be undermined."

"We are opposed to the Government letting anyone exploit the possibilities of the property," Mr. Allen said, and went on to explain that he was not interested on any particular bid but that his organization wanted the resources of the Shoals controlled according to the provisions of the Act.

Mr. Early, a North Carolina banker, followed Allen on the stand and said development of Muscle Shoals would help agriculture in the south by producing cheap fertilizer. Declaring his belief that Mr. Ford would decrease the cost of fertilizer, he said, "he has beaten the world by mass production."

Mr. G. Leibold, private secretary to Henry Ford, was next called on and said that he did not know of any telegram from President Coolidge to Mr. Ford offering "to deliver" Muscle Shoals to Ford. Said he had received telegrams from Miller, but that Miller did not represent Ford and had voluntarily offered information.

Mr. Leibold said he did not pay much attention to Miller's telegrams because they were only "gossip" and did not contain much real information.

Chairman Norris read a telegram from Leibold to Miller asking for more information and saying that Miller would be received at Leibold's home in Dearborn; also the telegram from Miller quoting President Coolidge as saying he "was trying to deliver the shoals" to Ford, and another from Miller to Leibold offering more information of a more confidential nature obtained at a conference at the White House.

Veteran Organizations Join "Daughters" In Memorial Day Plans

Washington, May 2.—American Legion Posts of Beaufort county will participate in the Memorial Day celebration which the Daughters of the Confederacy will inaugurate here on May 10, according to an announcement made by Commander Harry R. Paul of the local Legion post.

It was also stated that the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars would also participate. The ex-service men have been requested to convene in the city early on the morning of the tenth and to wear uniforms.

Hunt Student Missing Since Easter Holidays

Chapel Hill, May 2.—A state-wide search for Charlie Pritchard is said to now be in operation by the friends and relatives of the who young student says has been missing from the University where he was a student, for two weeks. It has been reported that students heard from him in Durham less than a week ago but at the University it was stated that he had not attended classes since the Easter holidays.

Gen. Julian Carr to Be Buried Sunday

Funeral Party to Arrive At Raleigh This Afternoon and Go to Durham Through the Country

Durham, May 2.—Arrangements are being made here for the funeral of Durham's best loved and most distinguished citizen, General Julian Shakespeare Carr, whose funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Somerset Villa, the beautiful old-fashioned home of the Carrs, where the General lived practically all his life.

The remains left Chicago at one o'clock yesterday on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad transfer will be made to the Seaboard at Washington. The party should arrive in Durham tonight, and upon arrival here the body will be taken to Somerset Villa. Rev. W. W. Peele, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, of which General Carr was a member will officiate at the funeral services and will be assisted by Rev. G. T. Adams and Rev. R. Hibbard.

Gen. Benehan Cameron, life-long friend of General Carr, of Stagville, N. C., will represent General Haldean, Commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, at the service. General Haldean will be unable to attend, owing to illness. General Freeman, head of the Army of Northern Virginia, in the War Between the States, has been selected for the aid to Col. Cameron. Col. Taylor of Richmond, Va., who was chief of staff under General Carr when he was head of the Confederate Veterans, will attend. A. H. Boyden, commander of the North Carolina Veterans, and other commanders from other states, will attend, also. Durham veterans, under command of Maj. W. T. Redmond, will attend in a body, and it is expected that the veterans of the Old Soldiers Home at Raleigh, will also appear at the services, since General Carr was ever mindful of the old soldiers in seeing that they had the comforts they required.

The esteem with which General Carr was held in his community cannot be better illustrated than the following resolution adopted, amongst the many, by a mass meeting of colored people:

"Be it resolved that we, the colored citizens of this community, do give sincere thanks to Almighty God for the kindness and help that have come to us through the life of General Julian S. Carr."

"That we offer our services and our scant means to be used along with that of the other citizens of the community, to perpetuate his wonderful life."
"And we do herewith tender to his bereaved family heartfelt sympathy and sincere gratitude, such gratitude as can come only from those who in the midst of their greatest suffering have lost a true friend."

ANDERSON MAN SHOT THRU NECK

TWO WOMEN BEING HELD AS WITNESSES

Raleigh, May 2.—W. C. Henderson, of Anderson, S. C., was shot through the neck last night while sitting in the parlor of Louise Price in East Raleigh.

Henderson was resting comfortably at the hospital last night, unless complications arise, the hospital authorities say that he will be able to leave within a few days.

According to the police, the bullet that wounded Henderson was fired through the window from outside the house.

Two women, Mrs. Jerry Flanagan and Mrs. R. T. Price were required to put up bond as material witnesses. According to the Flanagan woman, she was sitting in the parlor with Henderson and another woman whose name she says she does not know. The stranger left the room and shortly after there was a shot outside and Henderson exclaimed, "I'm shot."
The bullet passed completely through Henderson's neck.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR SUFFERS IN TORNADO AREA

The secretary of the local chapter of the Red Cross left yesterday for Robersonville to help the tornado sufferers. An appeal is being made to the citizens of Greenville to help the people of the stricken area. Any contribution will be appreciated.

Bethel has contributed $540.00 and two truck loads of provisions. Last night at the Ham-Ramsay service over $775.00 was pledged. At the prayer service this morning $43.00 was raised. The people who pledged this are requested to leave the money with Mr. A. B. Ellington, treasurer of the Red Cross.

Pitt county has been blessed. We can show our gratitude by helping those less fortunate than we. Regardless of the amount of the donation it will be appreciated.

TOBACCO GROWERS SEEKING LARGER FOREIGN MARKETS

Committee Leaves For Europe to Develop Connections With Buyers and Manufacturers

San Francisco, May 2.—A committee, representing the largest co-operative tobacco associations in the United States, will leave New York for Europe tomorrow to seek better markets for the output of their members and to establish more direct contact between American tobacco growers and European dealers and manufacturers, according to Aaron Sapiro, general council for the three organizations.

Scientists Convene At Trinity College

Trinity College, May 2.—The state Academy of Science opened its twenty-third annual meeting here in Trinity College this morning. Affiliated societies such as the American Chemical Society's State section, the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education and the State Physics Teachers' Association met at the same time.

The Science Academy, it was said, is one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the state and is affiliated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The convention was called to order at 10:30 this morning in West Duke Hall by Professor C. M. Heck, of State College, who is president of the Academy.

The first session consisted of the reading of a part of the 30 or more papers that will be read during the convention. The papers consisted largely of original investigation work that is being done by the members of the Academy, and they covered a varied field of science.

It was stated that in addition to these papers to be read before the general sessions that there were 20 papers to be read before the different societies meeting here that are affiliated with the Academy.

An executive meeting was held today in which matters of detail pertaining to the organization handled.

The address of welcome will be delivered tonight by W. P. Few, president of Trinity College. This will be followed by the address by President Heck entitled "Science of the Future and for the Future."

An informal reception will be held tonight following the address by President Heck. The Trinity College Faculty Club will act as host.

Saturday morning separate meetings of the different scientific societies that are affiliated with the Academy, will be held.

The officers of the Academy are: President, C. M. Heck; vice-president, J. P. Gilver; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Bert Cunningham, of Trinity College. The Academy it was explained now numbers about 150 members who are among the leading workers in the scientific field of the state.

Relief Crews Busy Throughout South

SEARCH FOR FLYER CONTIUNES UNDER GREAT DIFFICULTY

U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTERS IN CHARGE

Most of Coast Line Uninhabited Even by Natives—Only 2 White Settlements on Route

Estevan, British Columbia, May 2.—Radiograms received here from coast guard cutters engaged in the search for Major Frederick L. Martin, U. S. Army flying corps and his plane "Seattle," contain the information that the search has been divided into four parts and is proceeding systematically.

Search is being concentrated between Chignik and the Shumagin islands; 150 miles to the south-westward.

Coast guard cutter Algonquin is in charge of the search which presents great difficulties on account of the broken formation of the coast which provides thousands of small coves and inlets that can only be searched by launches and small boats.

The best hope for survival of Major Martin and his mechanic Sergeant Alva Harvey of Cleburne, Texas, is that they were perhaps able to reach one of these inlets.

All craft in the surrounding waters have been asked to aid in the search.

Peeryville, a cannery about half way to the Shumagins, and Mitrofanua, between Peeryville and Shignik, are the only spots on the coast of the part of the Alaska peninsula along which the hunt is being pushed where any white men are to be found.

No other place on the coast between here and the Shumagins are there enough natives to make a village.

No large vessels can approach the coast except at a few isolated spots.

THREATEN AND OFFER TO BRIBE SUPERINTENDENT

$50,000 for Release of Condemned Station Murderers

New Orleans, May 2.—Captain Archie Rennyson, superintendent of Orleans parish prison in which six Italians are being held condemned to death for murder at Amite received a letter saying, "We will get you sure if the men hang."

Superintendent Rennyson reported having received an offer of $50,000 if he would permit the escape of five of the prisoners and that he received an anonymous telephone call, and was asked in broken English if he had received the letter offering bribe.

Legion Auxiliary to Hold "Poppy Day"

Durham, May 2.—Plans for the sale of poppies for the benefit of the ex-service men who are in the government hospitals are being perfected, the Woman's Auxiliary of the local post of the American Legion, according to information received at the post headquarters.

For the past several years, the Durham women have been taking part in the annual poppy sale for the benefit of disabled world war veterans who are in various government hospitals all over the country.

Therefore the sales have been large, and the belief was expressed that the sale this year would be a success.

AID IS NEEDED NOW

Send Donations of Food Money or Clothing to Red Cross Headquarters or to Mayor Cox of Robersonville

All business suspended today in Robersonville and the entire population formed itself into committees to do whatever might be possible to help get the area swept by tornado Wednesday back on its feet again.

Some are clearing away wreckage, others salvaging anything there is any possibility of making future use of, others are helping in the care of injured and sick.

Representatives of National Headquarters of the American Red Cross have arrived and are in charge. The work is going forward in a thoroughly systematic manner.

Cash, food, clothing and other supplies have been generally contributed from surrounding counties and towns. Robersonville give $1250. Bethel $540 and two truck loads of food and other supplies. Everetts sent $150 and supplies, and similar donations have been received from other places. Tents have been ordered to the scene by the Red Cross and will be erected at once.

Further aid, however, will be needed and those who wish to aid can do so by contributions of food, clothing or cash. Make your donations through your local Chapter of the Red Cross or send directly to Mayor Herbert Cox, or Mr. I. M. Little, of Robersonville.

Reports from Raleigh announce that the death toll for the state has been increased from three as originally given to five, by the death of a negro, unidentified, in Martin county.

In Atlanta it is stated that confirmed reports of death have now reached 109 but that the total deaths due to the storm will not be known for several days as many of the more than 500 injured are not expected to survive.

Communication is still incompletely established to some of the smaller places and exact number of injured and homeless is unknown.

American Legion Embarks on Great Welfare Campaign

Indianapolis.—The "Community and Civic Betterment Bureau," established at American Legion National Headquarters here under mandate of the San Francisco convention, is beginning an intensive extension of the community and civic welfare work among the 11,000 posts of the organization.

The new division will distribute to all posts a booklet, "Your Post and Your Town," which, while founded on actual experiences of many posts in community welfare work, is not intended as a manual of procedure to be followed in organizing the work among Legionnaires. Under the guidance of the bureau, legion posts will be asked to aid in the development of playgrounds, recreational work, community centers, boy and girl scout troops and in the wider use of the schools.

Legion headquarters has the assurance of cooperation from the Playground and Recreation Association of America and from Community Service, Inc., in the organization's new endeavor.

Crows Kill and Eat a Hare.

Hamburg, Germany, May 2.—A flock of crows attacked, killed and ate a hare near Tarp, according to observers who produced bits of fur and bone as proof. They say that they saw a single crow discover the hare in an open field. The bird flew about the animal and called frantically until it had recruited twelve or more and the flock then descended on the hare and pecked it to death in a few minutes.

Now that final reports are about in covering the disaster which swept the south-western section of the country Wednesday, we are able to judge the magnitude of its toll of destruction.

North Carolina seems to have been more fortunate than the other of its southern sisters, as only two sections of the state were struck with any degree of violence: Chatham county and on the Martin-Bertie county line.

With usual optimism and a knowledge of the neighborliness of our people, we are, too often, inclined at a time like this to overestimate our ability to cope with the emergency and take care, locally, of the needs of our stricken people.

Experience however shows that a rural community is seldom able to do so and much valuable time is saved and much unnecessary suffering prevented when authorities are willing to acknowledge, as did those of Robersonville, the limits of their facilities and let the adjoining communities know of their requirements.

This aid is always freely at their disposal. Food, clothing, shelter, medical and surgical talents—all are ready for the call.

We can well be proud of the promptness with which these resources were hastened to the aid of our zone of destruction near Robersonville.

And another civilizing influence China appears to need is a little target practice.

Unfortunately, the things that afford us the most pleasure are the pleasures we can't afford.

ROMANCE DIES EVERY YEAR

Every now and then some wise acre has a bite day and tries to take it out on the face by chronicling the death of romance. The latest deathblow, some one discovers, is inflicted by so simple a thing as a gyroscopic stabilizer to keep vessels from rolling except in heavy storms. The romance of the sea was about over, anyhow, he says, and this is one of "the final coffin nails."

Romance died when steam replaced sails, when the railroad crowded out coach travel, when the telephone spoiled all the situations rounded on notes that were never delivered. The truth is romance dies every time some one discovers that his digestion is more important than his emotions. He doesn't want to be alone, so he kills off romance for all the world.

It doesn't bother anybody very much. The young lovers, who in the old romantic days could never have gone on a horseback expedition, are taking the trolley for the country for a summer holiday. The poor lad for whom we are asked to grieve because he can not dream of the joys of piracy is busy listening to talk that goes on a thousand miles at sea.

Romance must have died long ago if it had been made of iron armor or viking galleys or of mazzle loaders and sailing vessels. These things it used, but it still thrives when they are gone. The poor soul who tells us romance is dead but makes unwitting confession of the poverty to which his own life has come.

After paying a garage bill one wonders why pedestrians are forever complaining about being held up.

Every normal married man feels a little bit sorry for the poor spinster who can't get a man like him.

Sometimes, however, the tender touch of a woman's hand is a "legal tender" touch.

The man who says he has no desire for riches may be a philosopher; for that matter, any other liar may be a philosopher.

Unfortunately for the peace of the world, sore spots, as well as pins, are visited on the third and fourth generations.

When a woman complains that her husband doesn't understand her, she usually means that she has found another man who does.

When he turns to snarl back at the knockers, you know that he is beginning to feel himself slipping.

DEMOCRATS TO NAME CANDIDATE IN HALL OF VARIED HISTORY

New York, May 2.—Madison Square Garden, where the National Democratic Convention will meet in June, always has been a place of crowds. From the days of the Civil War period when it was the metropolitan terminal for a great railway, on through the phase of its transformation into a gigantic "fest-halle," 51 years ago, until the present.

Always its career has been spectacular. Crowds have passed through its portals to attend the arrival of pennant-covered trains in times when railroads were making historic speed records. Grand opera stars have made their debuts there, boxers and wrestlers have gained and lost championships, six-day bicyclists have paddled their weary courses, bronchos have been busted, elephants have trumpeted and clowns have evorted, flower shows have bloomed, and politicians have thundered under its rafters.

Adding notoriety to its variegated history the Garden Tower, which rears its weatherbeaten 10 stories above the rest of the structure, was the scene in 1906 of a sensational murder, the killing of the architect of Madison Square Garden, Stanford White, at the hand of Harry K. Thaw.

Before it quit the work-a-day world to enter the realm of pleasure the Garden was the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad's central station in this city. Then P. T. Barnum, whose local museums, traveling circuses and epigrams were bringing him fame, leased the rambling structure for "entertainment and exhibition" purposes in 1873. He named it "The Hippodrome."

Two years later Gilmore, the famous bandmaster, gained control of the property, rechristened it "Gilmore's Garden," and put on a series of concerts. It was not until 1879 that the place took the name of the beautiful park it faces, and became Madison Square Garden. To the eye, however, it still was a railroad station.

Then, in 1889, largely as a public benevolence, the late J. P. Morgan and his son and 13 others of New York's wealthiest men financed the erection of a new building on the site the one that stands today. It is a structure of brick and stone covering 32 city lots between Madison Square. Its architecture is of the Renaissance style. An heroic figure of Diana in bronze poses atop the tower.

The Garden was designed so that it could be transformed in a few hours to suit any form of public entertainment, and it can seat 15,000 people.

An army of workmen is on duty always, using "props" from the Garden's huge underground storerooms, to make a swimming tank here, a pressroom for a thousand newspapers there, a ciphers meagerie somewhere else.

A conventionally equipped theater with seats for 3,000 is tucked away in one corner of the Garden, staging daily performances independently of the main building. A concert hall is nearly lost in another corner. Its roof garden was one of the first in the city.

SIXTH CENTURY GRAVES YIELD MANY PRE-CHRISTIAN RULES

London.—The discovery of a number of skeletons with numerous funeral relics of pre-Christian date near Stratford-on-Avon in a sixth century cemetery, is regarded by English archaeologists as one of the most important finds ever made in England.

The gem of the collection consists of a magnificent umbo, or boss, of a warrior's shield, which was found with other implements of warfare buried with a body. The shield boss which is pronounced to be antique is of iron, beautifully decorated with plates of cast bronze with gold attachments and ornamented with gold on the apex and around the rim.

During the course of the excavations 214 interments were found, some of them having been cremated and the ashes buried in earthenware urns of beautiful designs.

In 1900 the assessed valuation of property in North Carolina was 306 million dollars; by 1920 this had grown to over three billion dollars. Eggs preserved in water glass may be poached this winter. They are plentiful and cheap now but will be scarce and high when cold weather comes.

HARRISON FORD REAL FAVORITE OF MOVIE FANS

To play a young Englishman who is impersonating a Russian officer in order to live up to the story he has created for himself, is the interesting part that the leading role in his new picture gives to Harrison Ford," John Briggs, in "The Fool's Awakening," which comes to White's theatre today has an exciting time in this Metro picture, which is full of thrills and which is a more serious characterization than Mr. Ford's usual roles.

Harrison Ford was born in Kansas City, and received his early education right in his home town. Then came the beginning of his theatrical career, when he joined a stock company in Syracuse, N. Y. While I was playing in "Strongheart," he became interested in the screen. He was offered an opportunity to appear before camera by Jeanie MacPherson and did not hesitate in accepting.

For several years he stayed with Famous Players-Lasky, where he established himself firmly in the picture world. He has also appeared in pictures under the Realart and First National banners, and his popularity still grows with each new production.

His camera debut was made in "The Crystal Gazer" with Fannie Ward.

The team of Constance Talmadge and Harrison Ford is famous in.

Christiania.—The investigations which were commenced last year by the Norwegian Fishery Department to discover the whereabouts of the great cod shoals are to be continued this summer.

Further areas about Spitzbergen will be subjected to examination and in addition to the official expedition it is probable that more than one expedition will be undertaken as a result of municipal or private initiative.

Beauty Gone, Girl Asks $500,000.

MISS HELEN JESMER

This photograph of Helen Jesmer, former member of the Follies in New York City, was taken before she went auto riding with Philip Morgan Plant, 23-year-old stepson of U. S. District Attorney William Hayward, who inherited $15,000,000 from his father, the steamship and railroad magnate. On the ride the car skidded and Miss Jesmer was injured, losing the sight of one eye and having her face crushed in. As a result of the alleged loss of her beauty her suit for $500,000 is on trial in a New York court.

DISCARDED COOLIDGE HEADGEAR TRAVELS ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Berkeley, Calif.—Derby hats have been "stylish" during the past few months, but President Coolidge wore one back in 1916.

This derby bearing the name "Calvin Coolidge" and a date of November 2, 1916, was recently resurcted for the annual derby day of the College of Commerce of the University of California. It was found in a San Francisco second hand store where students went to purchase all the debbies they could find for their celebration. The second hand dealer said the man he bought it from, a tramp, said the hat had been given him by Mrs. Coolidge, together with some other clothes, soon after the Boston police strike.

TWIN WICKED CITIES OF BIBLICAL LORE LIE UNDER RED SEA

St. Louis, May 2.—Evidence of the existence of a Canaanite civilization of the early bronze age, dating about the twentieth century B. C., has been found by the Xenia expedition in a tour of the Dead Sea region of Palestine, Dr. Melvin G. Kyle, head of the party, said in a letter received here.

Dr. Kyle, who is president of Xenia Seminary here, declared his explorations had tended to confirm the judgment of earlier investigators that the two cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, which, according to Biblical accounts were destroyed by fire and brimstone, are buried beneath the Dead Sea beyond the power of men to discover them.

Pottery found in the graves opened by Arab treasure hunters in the region, Dr. Kyle's letter said, shows conclusively the existence of the early Canaanite civilization. He characterized it as a "pre-Moabite civilization," pointing out that "Lot was the father of Moab."

"This is a necessary first link in the evidence we desire," the letter continued, "for the Bible represents just such a civilization as being here in the days of Sodom and Gomorrah. Moreover, there follows just here one of those expressive silences in the Bible history.

"The destruction of the Cities of the Plain put out that civilization as suddenly and complete as one snuffs out a candle. Never again is any mention made or hint given or implied of a civilization in this plain after the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah. This is exactly what our researches have revealed. Thus, what seemed only negative evidence becomes a positive evidence on the subject. The next civilization that appears in Byzantine, which comes more than 2,000 years later."

Although suggestions have been made that divers be sent down into the Dead Sea to recover something from the two cities beneath its surface, Dr. Kyle scents the idea, declaring the rushing waters of small rivers have brought down alluvia deposits that have been filling the bottom of the sea, making the work of divers exceedingly difficult, if not impossible.

HORSE SOLD FOR TWO BITS AT AUCTION IN CALIFORNIA

Alturas, Cal.—One horse was sold for 25 cents and 30 horses were sold for $1 each at a recent public auction held here to clear the national forest ranges of horse herds of little value. The highest price paid for any horse was $17.

The auction was arranged by officials of the Modoc National Forest. Cattle and sheep growers of the region require few horses, the automobile having replaced the broncho in all except actual range riding. Thus the surplus of horses had increased until it was a problem. Hundreds of horses were disposed of at the auction. Many others may be had almost for the asking.

Large Hats for Summer Afternoons

Perhaps there is a Mah Jong tea at the Club or a little informal tea in your own garden, whichever it is you will of course want to wear a picture hat. The new large hats are very picturesque. The crowns are higher than last year. Some are literally buried in flowers and others are strikingly trimmed with just two or three stunning large flowers. Many styles.

Betty saw his hat first!

It was one of those trim grey Schobles that make a man look so well — always just right for semi-formal wear. "There! That would be Jack!"

LOCAL ALUMNAE OF N. C. C. W. ATTEND MEETING ROCKY MOUNT

The alumnae of the North Carolina College for Women, Greensboro, who accepted the invitation extended to them and were at the Palace Theater in Rocky Mount at 11 o'clock, April 26, enjoyed a rare treat.

A 1000 foot reel of scenes in and around this growing college were shown. The new buildings were quite "new" to some present but Spencer and the Administration Building were familiar to all.

Dr. Foust and Mr. Forney were roundly applauded when they appeared on the steps of the latter. After the very enjoyable picture lunch was served at the Woman's Club Cafeteria.

Following the lunch Miss Emily Austin, Tarboro; introduced Miss Clara Byrd, alumnae secretary of the college, who made a most excellent address.

She pointed out the need for the building for student activities which is now under discussion and enlisted the sympathy and interest of every one present.

Mr. Cash, the business manager of the movement, in a few words explained the plans by which the building could be placed in the center of the campus and became a home for the many necessary phases of student life which are now cramped because of inadequate space or which are being dropped altogether.

Many of the alumnae present made short snappy speeches endorsing the plan and promising whole-hearted support. Miss Byrd and Mr. Cash were pleased with the spirit and interest shown.

Next of course "The Old North State" was sung and the meeting adjourned. Those in attendance from Pitt county were Miss Lucy Crisp, Falkland; Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Mrs. Luther Herring, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Mrs. W. C. Vincent.

Misses Sallie Joyner Davis, Birdie McKinney, Dora Coates and Carolyn Clarke, Greenville.

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, La., May 2. R. J. McCarley & Co., Greenville, N. C.

Virtually the same influences as of late, cool weather, inland, large exports and rather large spinners takings for the week, lifted market today after it had ruled easier in early morning as result of easier cables than due, but realizing and more favorable crop reports from the Eastern half of the belt occasioned market to sag again in the late trading.

Numerous complaints of the necessity to replant in localities of the northern half of Texas and Oklahoma, as result of the recent heavy rains, low temperature and high winds, continue to come in.

The weather inland, however, was much improved since there was no rain in the interior over night except light scattered showers in the northern portion of the cotton region with no decided change indicated for the immediate future.

Exports from the United States. This week 126,000 against 32,000; since August first 4,945,000 against 4,112,000. Spinners takings of American cotton by the world.

This week 185,000 against 158,000; since August first 9,407,000 against 10,488,000. World's visible supply of cotton today American 1,303,000 against 1,683,000. Other kinds 1,604,000 against 1,614,000. All kinds 3,497,000 against 3,297,000.

000. Of last year's crop of American which was about 10,750,000 bales, including linters, the south has marketed already 1,372,000 bales against 10,260,000 marketed to even date last season, showing how rapidly the interior is being drained of the remnant of the old crop and the need of an early and large crop for next season.

Meanwhile, weather developments in the cotton region will play an important part in shaping the course of values. Dry warm weather is required in all sections of the belt, except showers along the Texas coast and in the lower Rio Grande valley, where moisture is claimed to be wanted. H. & B. BEER.

ELECTION ISSUES IN FRANCE CONFUSED WITH PERSONALITIES

Paris, May 2.—The presidency of the republic, as well as the life of the present government, is involved in the French general election, according to the leaders of the Radical-Socialist coalition.

A few weeks ago it appeared that the only issue would be Poincare and his policies. The intervention or President Millerand, however, to prevent the repeal of the electoral reform law with a threat to resign his office if the law was not left intact, will make it impossible for him to remain in office if the government majority is overthrown in the election.

Apart from these personal elements the issues of the campaign are not so clear cut as they promised to be. Poincare himself has contributed to the confusion by abandoning the majority that sustained him in the occupation of the Ruhr and in the adoption of the bills for the balancing of the budget.

In his new cabinet there are several members who opposed both these policies, and the premier has declared that the majority to which he promised official support in the elections has become a minority. These developments, it is thought, now will enable the opposition to concentrate their efforts on the exploitation of the premier's unpopularity. "General Discontent will be the chief of staff of the opposition forces," is how one political leader put it, adding that the government majority would be "led by General Apprehension." On the one hand are the people, disgruntled because of heavy taxation and high cost of living, and on the other all those who regard high taxation and high prices as the inevitable consequence of Germany's refusal to execute the treaty of Versailles, who believe that the menace from the east is the greatest danger to France, and that the economic problem and the question of security are linked together in the policy of France respecting Germany. They will say to the voter that if Poincare's policies are not continued, if a weaker government succeeds the present one, Germany will not only persist in her refusal to pay, but will be encouraged to go on with her preparation for another conflict.

The high prices and heavy tax argument, it is expected, will take largely in the industrial centers, but will be less effective in the rural districts that are always inclined toward conservatism and where the high cost of living is understood from a different angle than in the towns. Farmers are pretty well off on account of high prices, but they represent only about 30 per cent of the voters.

The issues in 1919 were the collection of reparations from Germany and the restoration of the devastated regions. The "sacred union" of parties established during the war and continued in the support of those issues, brought the "National Block" into being. Partisan politics has killed the "sacred union" and hope deferred has weakened the reparations issue. The struggle practically goes back to the prewar basis with the extreme liberal parties questioning the republicanism of every other party or faction and using the sacreword of "the man on horseback" with Poincare, singularly enough, made a live issue by his demand for full powers in the matter of economics. "No dictatorship" will, in consequence, be one of the rallying cries of the opposition, if it isn't the principal and most potent one.

Her dual personality as Toinette and the notorious "Humming Bird" for whom the Paris police search in vain, gives the star a wide range of dramatic possibilities in this production.

Consistent Misspelling Lands Culprit in Jail

St. Louis.—A test in spelling ordinary words played a prominent part in bringing about the conviction in federal court here of Samuel L. Sheets, of Paris, Ill., on a charge of sending threatening letters through the mails. As a result Sheets will have to spend two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans.

On January 31, last, J. P. Sparks, a road contractor of Kirkwood, a suburb of this city, and former employer of Sheets, received a letter in which the threat was made that "arsid" would be thrown in Mrs. Sparks' "fare" and that Sparks' little daughter would be injured. To emphasize his demand for $2,500 the writer stated he "ment" business and left the inference that someone of the Sparks family would "disapear" if the demand were not complied with.

According to the testimony of a post office inspector, Sheets was put to a test in spelling and misspelled the words in the same way in which they were written in the letter. The spelling "papers" were also submitted as evidence. Sheets denied that he had written the letter.

HAM-RAMSAY

points made were the following: Does God make any distinction among sinners, according to his opportunities, endowments, education, influence, etc? Are some punished more severely for the same sin than others?

Mao's laws make a distinction between misdemeanors and felonies—between sins—but they make no distinction so far as the letter of the law is concerned, between those who commit these crimes. But with God it is different.

"For the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for the Lord looketh on the heart." I Sam. 16:7.

"For your thoughts are not My thoughts; neither are your ways My ways, saith the Lord." Isa 55:8.

And in Proverbs Solomon says: "There is a way which seemeth right unto man; but the way thereof is the way of death."

Another thing: God judges men from a different standpoint than men. Some of the greatest sins in the eyes of God are only misdemeanors in the statutes of men, and the greatest of all sins in the sight of God is not an offense against the laws of man at all. We are justified in saying that the greatest sin is a violation of the greatest commandment. In the Decalogue the first four commandments prescribe man's duty to God, while the next six set forth his duty to his fellowman. Now the first and greatest commandment is to love the Lord, the God, with all thy heart, etc. A violation of this commandment is not a violation against any statute ever enacted by man. Following this is the commandment, not to make or bow down to any image and this too, is ignored in all human statutes. For a violation of the next two, relating to profane swearing and Sabbath desecration, our statutes prescribe light punishment, where the punishment prescribed by God's law was stoning to death.

But you say you are not a Jew and therefore not under the Jewish law. Brother, the ten commandments embody God's law; and till you accept Christ and come under His law of grace, and then you do right from motives of love and not compulsion.

And you may think you have no idol worshippers in Greenville, and hence no violators of the second commandment; but really there are more idol worshippers in this country than in heathen countries of the same population. Every man's ideal is his god, and every man makes a deity of something that lies nearer his heart than does Christ, (unless he puts Christ first. The greatest sinners therefore are not in heathendom nor in the penitentiaries.

In the eyes of man, murder is a much greater crime than swearing; but with God the order is reversed; because murder is an offense against man, while swearing is an offense against God Himself.

The Sin and the Sinner.

God doesn't look at the sin so much as at the sinner. There are towns in Africa having 100,000 inhabitants and not a book store or a newspaper in them, while in Greenville are both book stores and newspapers, churches and schools, and lodges and literary clubs and young people's societies and every means of enlightenment.

Yet you fritter away your time and opportunities. Just as the men of Ninevah and the Queen of Sheba shall rise up to condemn Capernaum and Bethsaida in the day of judgment, so will these ignorant Africans rise up to condemn you of Greenville in that day. For if the sermons you have heard had been preached to the African cannibals they would have repented long ago. Ninevah was brought to repentance in three days.

So and Peter 2:21, says you had better never have known the way of righteousness than to betray it after having obtained knowledge of it. I would rather go to the judgment from the penitentiary than from Greenville, for I would not have to face so many wrecks I had made.

In Asheville, N. C., we had a fight on to vote out the saloons, and the liquor gang set about thirty or forty business men to sign and publish a statement that while they were for temperance, and didn't want drunkards, and still they were for the saloon. As if a saloon would be of any use unless it turned out lumber!

I stated from the platform that I would rather have my picture hung in a rogue's gallery than my name on that paper. The men and the newspapers castigated and threatened. I just let them sweat all what I said had been given time to soak in, and then I made the following explanation: My picture in that place would destroy any influence I might have had. But my name to that paper might and probably would be the means of making both physical and moral wrecks of many young men, an detailing misery upon their relatives and exposing the state and a burden on society. There are women in this town, of highly respectable social standing, who are making more habits and gamblers than any strumpet or gambler can make; because they are undermining the very foundation of the character of the young in the formative period thereof.

When I go into a town I can soon tell what sort of teachers are in control of your schools, by the interest the pupils take in the meetings. And let me say that the worldly, dancing theatre-goers, Sunday school teachers leave their impress on their pupils also. "By their fruit ye shall know them." It is a shame on the churches that while they demand that their doctor, their lawyer, their public school teachers, and even the man who shoes their horses shall be thoroughly qualified for their work; you will permit any sort of spiritual quack to tamper with the eternal destinies of your children in the Sunday school.

You can't penitentiary a man for breaking a bank; what a pity the same punishment can not be meted out to the one who wrecks a character. But I propose to label some of them, anyway. When I presented a lot of bills to a Mexican bank since for the purchase of a draft, the banker laid aside several and put a stamp and stamped them and handed them back to me. I saw the word "counterfeit" stamped on the face of every one of them. The law required him to do that. If all the counterfeit Christians in the churches could be stamped across their faces, what a blessing it would be both to the churches and to society at large.

Now there are only two sides in this fight, Jesus says: "He that is not for Me is against Me, and he that gathereth not with Me scattereth." I am going to line up these two sides and let you select the one with whom you will go. The leader on one side is the devil; following him are the men having murderous hearts; next to them are the highway robbers, masked and ready to kill a man for a dime; next to them are the sneak thieves and footpads; then follow the drunkards and wife beaters; after them the karlots class; followed by the swell tango set, and at the tail end are the men who lead lives outwardly clean and moral but who refuse to align themselves with the churches and other forces of righteousness—the cursers and Sabbath desecrators.

Now are you prepared to take your wife and daughter and fall in behind this gang? There are but two, Christ's and Satan's; no middle-ground left. There are but two ways; the broad way that leads to destruction and the straight and narrow way that leads to life. There are but two destinies; hell or heaven. Choose your side!

The other procession is headed by the Savior of men, the Christ who gave His life to ransom your soul; after Him comes the Holy Angels; then the old patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; then in order, apostles, martyrs, saints and the blood-washed throng of pious mothers and godly fathers and pure wives.

The Devil in the Church. The devil in the church is ten

Aged Woman Is Held in "Curja" Slaying.

MRS. ANNIE MATTSON.

Mrs. Annie Mattson, an aged widow of Fort Bragg, Cal., is under arrest there on the charge she is responsible for a series of murders under "spirit orders" that came in writing. The direct charge is that she murdered her 24-year-old son recently.

More dangerous than the devil himself. That is the reason we aim our hottest shots at him. It is necessary to either make him so conscience smitten and ashamed that he will come clean, or to destroy his influence so that it will not longer be worth anything to the devil, nor count for much against Christ.

The eight woes pronounced by Jesus in the 23rd Chapter of Matthew were hurled at the leading church members who stood right in His presence.

Yes, for committing the very same sin the religious are more guilty than the irreligious; the influential than the lowly; the rich than the poor; the learned than the ignorant; the wise than the foolish; the respectable than the disreputable.

The infidel is not dangerous to the cause of Christ. The devil never had one Bob Tugersoll. He roared that such blasphemous oratory did him more harm than good, so he never put another into the field. He is accomplishing more by such imitations of true Christians as he can get into the churches, and especially into the pulpits.

The devil is selling society with a view to catching at the fish he can. He uses the drunkards and bootleggers and harlots and gamblers and thieves and disreputable men generally as sinkers, to hold the beam of the net so no fish can get under it. He is using the hypocritical church members and the respectable moral outside bunch as floaters to keep any fish from escaping over the top. Now if we can just cut off the floaters in Greenville his seine will sink to the bottom and catch nothing but mudcats, turtles and pollydogs. Won't you churches help us cut off the floaters?

Paris No Longer Angered by German Art And Music

Paris.—Germans and German products are coming back to Paris and France, and their return causes less fuss and protest as each step becomes known.

German music came first. Within a year after the armistice Wagner was played at the opera and in big concerts to occasional stormy scenes and many catcalls and hisses. Soon it was accepted without comment.

The proposal to have Max Reinhardt stage some of his German successes at the Odeon, a government theater, stirred up such a scene in the Chamber of Deputies that the government had to forbid the productions, but the German motion pictures have fared fairly well, although frequently criticized as being "German propaganda."

Something of a pacific love-scene took place on the Mayence football field some months ago when a German team met a French fifteen in a match that was preceded by an exchange of flowers by the two captains.

German buying of fine wines, hats, gowns and other luxuries caused a little tempest recently, but the criticism subsided when commercial interests said the country needed all the foreign money it could get.

German art made its first appearance this week at the Independent Salon in pictures and books. The publishers wanted to price their offerings in dollars or sterling, but the French made them realize the only money of France is the franc.
