Raleigh, May 19.—Chief Justice Walter Clarke, of North Carolina Supreme Court, died at 8 o'clock this morning from apoplexy with which he was stricken just before noon yesterday.

He grew steadily weaker and yesterday passed, but at 1 o'clock this morning he was reported to be holding his own though he was still unconscious.

The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon and will be attended by Governor Morrison and state officials in a body.

Chief Justice would have been 78 years old next August. He has been on the bench for 39 years, beginning his service as a superior court judge in 1885.

SENATE OVERRIDES PRESIDENT'S VETO OF SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL

Four Hundred Converts In Revival Services Yesterday

More than 15,000 persons attended the Ham-Ramsay revival meetings here yesterday and heard Evangelist M. F. Ham deliver three powerful sermons the subjects of which were "The Christian Experience," "Heroes and Cowards—Men and Molluscoids," and "Sudden Death."

At the conclusion of last night's sermon, nearly 400 openly professed faith, taking a stand for Christ. Interest in the services has steadily increased since the beginning and yesterday was a record-breaker both in attendance and in the number of conversions.

Washington, May 19.—The Senate overrode the president's veto of the Soldiers' Bonus Bill this afternoon by a vote of 59 to 26 or two more votes than the two-thirds required for repassage.

Washington, May 19.—Opponents of the bonus bill rallied and fought for time today as the measure approached its final test in the Senate. Seven Republicans in the Senate who had been numbered as friends of the bill were called to the White House and exhorted by President Coolidge to vote to sustain his veto.

Nevertheless supporters of the bill remained steadfast in their prediction of a roll call before night which would override the president's veto. One or two are said to be wavering but leaders on the side of the bonus declared that the defection of so small a number would not be sufficient to defeat the bill.

By unanimous consent the bill was taken up a few minutes after two o'clock on motion of Senator Curtis, Republican, Kansas. Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, asked for unanimous consent for the vote to be postponed until Saturday but Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, blocked the proposal by a formal objection.

Less than a dozen Senators were absent from the chamber when actual consideration of the bill was begun by the reading of the president's veto message.

Raleigh, May 19.—Five men and one woman were dead today and one in a Raleigh hospital is believed to be fatally injured and six others more or less seriously injured as the result of a head on collision between two Seaboard Air Line trains near Apex, 16 miles from here, yesterday afternoon.

Those dead are Henry Jones, 35, Raleigh, white newsbasher; George Meador, 42, Raleigh, negro brakeman; Joe Cotton, 40, Raleigh, negro brakeman; Mary Matthews, 45, Merry Oaks, negro passenger; and two unidentified negroes.

CIVILIZATION ADVANCES

Comparisons are said to be odious, but if we would know ourselves as a nation we must reflect ourselves in the searching mirror provided by past civilizations and our foreign neighbors. The leader can always learn something from his followers.

Modernity is especially interested in the recent archaeological discoveries in Egypt, China, our own Southwest and Central and South America, not so much through empty curiosity as through a desire to learn what the past can teach and to gauge the advance of civilization. We are unconsciously reflecting ourselves in the mummy of King Tut and our institutions in the palace and tomb of the boy Pharaoh.

An American correspondent in Russia writes that the villages in interior Russia are just awakening to the demands of modern life. He cites instances where electricity has just been "discovered" to the villagers and where the theater is only now being brought to the Russian towns.

It is hard for those in urban America to believe that electricity and the theater have been unknown to vast areas of Russia because one forgets or does not know that the same condition exists in many parts of this country. Few persons, to be sure, in the United States do not come in contact with electricity in some of its many forms, but even in the thickly populated East there are still towns which still light their streets and houses with gas. As for the theater, in this country it was first brought to the small American town by the moving picture.

Before the introduction of the moving picture there were structures which purported to be theaters in many of the smaller towns, but the show troupes which played in them were of little worth and far apart. It is to the motion picture that rural America is turning for the panorama of American life, for the American drama and our own peculiar American comedy.

There are not so many more things to do in a city, but one can do so many more without the neighbors getting wise.

In America culture consists largely in the ability to translate a bill of fare into terms of something to eat.

BIG BUSINESS NONPARTISAN

If the current congressional investigations have disclosed anything of real public worth it is that big business and rich men belong to neither the Republican nor the Democratic party, but to all parties—that the campaign funds of both of the major political parties are swelled by contributions from the same men of finance and business. It has been revealed to the public that the only partiality that big business is showing in politics is to itself. What a paradox that one man should finance the campaigns of two opposing political candidates.

Various federal statutes have been enacted in order either to limit the amount that candidates for office may spend in seeking election, or to insure publicity of the accounts of political committees. Something has undoubtedly been gained in that way. But that there are remaining and serious evils in connection with raising money to conduct political campaigns few honest students of politics will deny.

No survey of the question can have any value unless it is fair and non-partisan. To start with, the fact has to be admitted that large amounts of money are necessary in managing a nation-wide campaign. The multiplication of primary elections, with their necessarily heavy expenditures, together with the granting of the suffrage to women, has directly tended to increase the outlay regarded as indispensable. Nor can there be any use in partisan recrimination on the subject.

How much can be done by statute or publicity to lessen the mischief is uncertain. But there is one form of voluntary remedy that might be applied. It would consist of a determination by rich men in either party not to expose themselves to suspicion, and not to create the possibility of political scandals, by giving large sums of money to party committees.

Before letting your conscience be your guide be sure you HAVE ONE!

Some public men can be trusted in all matters, and some think the newspapers should be censored.

A president cannot well drop in and watch congress at work but he can go to a circus, which is not greatly different.

There are not so many more things to do in a city, but one can do so many more without the neighbors getting wise.

In America culture consists largely in the ability to translate a bill of fare into terms of something to eat.

Markets

Planting about 85 per cent to 90 per cent completed in Oklahoma where a large acreage had to be replanted. Race of Thoroughbreds Biggest Thrill of All for Screen Drama, White's

Heart-breaking Neck-and-neck Finish Has Long Been "The Sport of Kings" — Provides Classics for "Counterfeit Love."

For real nerve-titilating thrills, give us a horse race.

There is no sport in the world that stimulates the red corpuscles of the blood into madly coursing through the arteries as a heart-breaking, neck and neck finish of thoroughbreds as they come thundering down the home stretch.

The Kentucky Derby, the Brooklyn Handicap, the Saratoga Special and the Preakness Stakes are classics in the annals of the Sport of Kings.

Horse racing is the heritage of the Anglo-Saxons. For centuries Merrie England has paid homage to the mighty struggles between blue-blooded equines of the turf, and blue-blooded British aristocracy has ever been the patron and supporter of horse racing.

The historic Epsom Derby has been run annually since 1780, and from the first winner, Diomed, down to Captain Cuttle, which captured the classic in 1922, the nobility of John Bull's island has contributed the majority of the entrants.

Edward the Seventh was a liberal patron of horse racing and maintained a magnificent stable.

King George perpetuates the tradition of his lineage.

The Prince of Wales insists upon risking his neck in cross-country races and steeplechases, despite the fact that he invariably takes a royal tumble before the last ditch is reached.

The most famous thoroughbred breeding farms in the United States are located in the Bluegrass region of Kentucky. This is probably due to the fact that there is something in the succulent quality of the "bluegrass" that makes for stamina, speed and courage in the equine blood.

But it is more probable that the reason Kentucky is known as the mother state of horse racing, is because the old Southern aristocracy of Kentucky has preserved the traditions of its English, Scotch-Irish and Irish ancestors who early settled in Kentucky.

Be all this as it may, there is a horse race in a screen play to be shown at Whit's theatre Tuesday that is said to be the most graphic and thrilling ever shown in pictures. The picture is called "Counterfeit Love," and is a Playgoers Pictures Special produced under the direction of Ralph Ince, than whom there is no better maker of thrills in the motion picture industry.

The scene of the picture is laid in the south, and revolves around a plot in which romance, love, counterfeiting and horse racing flash into some brilliant highlights.

Japan Delays Withdrawal of Her Garrisons, Is Said

Tokio.—The Japanese government has decided to suspend, for this year at least, its schedule for the withdrawal of its special railway garrisons from Manchuria, owing to disturbed conditions in that province. The decision was reached on recommendation of the war office after vigorous representations regarding conditions in Manchuria had been received from Japanese residents there, chiefly along the line of the South Manchuria Railway.

Plans for the withdrawal of the Manchurian garrisons were announced at the close of the Washington conference. The garrisons then consisted of six infantry battalions. Two battalions were withdrawn in 1923; two more were to come out in 1924 and the remaining two in 1925.

Conditions have become such, according to Japanese military authorities, that it is impossible to carry out the scheduled evacuation this year.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL GIVE CONSIDERATION TO FOSDICK DISPUTE

Grand Rapids, Mich.—What has been called an equal rights movement for women in the Presbyterian Church launched at General Assembly a year ago by Mrs. Charles Amory Bilton, president of the Woman's Missionary Society of Cincinnati Presbytery, will come up for action during the General Assembly of the church to be held in this city beginning Thursday. At present only men can become elders and ministers, and only these are eligible for election to the Presbyteries and to the General Assembly. The movement of the Cincinnati women is "to remove from Presbyterian rules and regulations the restrictions in connection with the participation of women in the official affairs of the church."

Among other documents to be considered by the gathering is a memorial from Chicago Presbytery asking the General Assembly to take cognizance of the world situation with respect to warlike preparations and to take steps to represent the mind of the Presbyterian Church against the entire war system. Chicago Presbytery in this memorial petitions General Assembly to issue "a deliverance opposing the anti-Christian philosophy which imagines or pretends that war is inevitable; to declare it to be our deliberate judgment that the war system as a system is fundamentally opposed to the teachings and example of Jesus and must be speedily abandoned if civilization is to escape collapse; to affirm our unalterable conviction that any and all international difficulties can be efficiently and permanently settled by conference and conciliation and, indeed, can be settled in no other way; and to pledge our cooperation with other churches and with forward looking men everywhere in a crusade for the swift outlawry of war by international agreement."

Another matter that will be brought to the attention of the Assembly is the action of the Presbytery of Southern Arizona requesting the United States government to close the Mexican border at 8 o'clock every night, and asking that a dry territory be established 50 miles wide to the south of the American border with Mexico. The basis for such action is the declaration of the Presbytery of Southern Arizona that large numbers of men, women, boys and girls are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars every month wrecking lives by crossing the border into Mexico to gamble, drink, dance, and enter various vices of the underworld.

While the General Assembly is determining the controversy caused by the action of Philadelphia Presbytery protesting against the preaching in the First Presbyterian Church of New York of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist, accused of heretical tendencies concerning the Virgin Birth and other fundamentals of the Presbyterian faith, Dr. Fosdick himself will be abroad. He is scheduled to deliver a series of lectures in Europe and to address the joint assembly of the State and Free Presbyterian Churches of Scotland at the same time that the Presbyterian General Assembly at Grand Rapids is considering his preaching in the New York church.

It is considered probable that the entire Fosdick matter, with all the official papers in the case, will be referred early in the General Assembly to the Permanent Judicial Commission, the supreme court of the Presbyterian church, aside from the General Assembly.

Interest In Motor Cars Puts Crimp Gambling

New York—Real gambling in New York is a dead art, killed by three great factors, the automobile, the world war and prohibition, in the opinion of "Honest John" Kelly. "Honest John" was once a picturesque figure in New York's night life and proprietor of a gaming house on West Forty-first street. He is now centering his activities in the Bahamas, where he is conducting a young Monte Carlo at Nassau. The gambling of by-gone days, as "Honest John" describes it, was vastly different from that practiced by the younger generation in New York today. He finds the greatest change in the size of the stakes involved and the character of the men at play. In his opinion, a stiff game as it was played years ago would scare the present day gambler to death. Yet fortunes were lost in those days, he said, with as little comment as insignificant sums change hands today. Kelly said the gambler of his time was a gallant gentleman, always on the level, winning fair and never known to squeal when he lost.

The chief gambling in New York, today, according to "Honest John," is confined to craps in coffee houses and garages. He bemoans the closing of the palatial gaming houses of the past, and says they are gone forever.

DISEASE, NOT LAZINESS, IS THE CAUSE OF TROPIC LETHARGY

Honolulu.—Victims of the languorous life of the tropics are more to be pitied than censured, according to the view expressed before the Pan-Pacific club here by E. E. Baker, for ten years a resident of the Philippine Islands. Mr. Baker asserted that there is little foundation for the opinion that the tropics produce laziness, adding that what is apparent laziness is nothing more than the effects of tropical disease. The control or elimination of these diseases will bring the peoples of tropical countries into a more even competition with those residents in temperate climes, he held. Referring to the resources of the Philippines, Mr. Baker declared that one acre in a tropical land is worth two in a temperate country. STAMP COLLECTORS BANKRUPT SOMALILAND POST DEPARTMENT London.—The fact that stamp collectors apparently are overstocked for the moment, with the issues of Somaliland, has brought about a financial crisis in the affairs of the postal department of that country. In explaining that the department was in arrears the official in charge said the revenue for 1923 was $6,100, a decree of $9,310 over the previous year "due to the demands of philatelists being satisfied." The government expects to bring out a new issue of stamps this year. Lawns Used to Trim Lawns. London.—For reasons of economy and to make use of some of the inmates, the London Zoo authorities are starting geese and lambs to trim the lawns. The geese are kept from straying by wire fencing, and the lambs are tethered by a long rope which gives them a 20-foot grazing circle. JAPANESE PRINCE GOING TO OLYMPICS Tokio.—Marquis Kuniyoshi Kuni, younger son of Prince Kuniyoshi

Kuni and brother of the crown prince, will attend the Olympic games in Paris this summer. Marquis Kuni will visit France in the course of a journey around the world. Although born a scion of one of the imperial houses, this young man recently relinquished his princely title and took that of a marquis. Try Our Want Ads Now

Florida

America's Winter Home

Wonderful Opportunity for Manufacturers

Sell your manufactured goods in the South. You can meet competition better on account of lower freight rates, and because it costs less to travel and to sell goods at home. Above all, manufacturers ought to intensify in the territory near-by. It is often found that they do not work their own territory as intensively as possible.

One of the states where business is good and where trademarked articles can be advertised and sold readily, is Florida.

Easy to Sell Goods in Florida

Florida is one of our fastest-growing Southern States. Thousands of people are moving there every year, and so many wealthy people go to Florida in winter that probably the richest group of people in the country live there during that season.

Aside from its attractions as a winter resort, with its hundreds of big hotels and miles of beach along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, many other things add to the wealth and prosperity of Florida. Of course it is famous for its oranges, grapefruit, limes, pineapples, figs, grapes, and other semi-tropical fruits. A large amount of pecans are raised in Florida. Garden vegetables and melons are produced there in large quantities for the Northern market. Large numbers of cattle are raised in Florida, as they require little care. There are immense deposits of phosphate rock which furnish material for large fertilizer industries. Sponges are found on the coast. The naval stores market of the world is made in Jacksonville, where the yards contain the greatest amount of naval stores at any point in the world. Pine lumber, ship timber, tar, cotton-seed oil and cake, are important Florida products. Fresh and salt-water fish form the basis of a large commercial industry of this State. Jacksonville is one of the greatest distributing centers of the South.

The South is Your Best Market

FINLAND'S OLYMPIC TEAM IS AMERICA'S GREATEST OPPONENT

New York.—America, whose athletes have met and turned back rivals for her track and field supremacy since the Olympic games were revived in 1896, faces in Finland this year the most potent rival in the history of international competition.

In the judgment of many observers, the United States has not developed her athletic prowess to marked extent over the past few years, whereas Finland has come forward by leaps and bounds. The little Scandinavian nation, with but two score athletes carrying her colors, demonstrated her strength four years ago in the Olympics at Antwerp by capturing nine first places, as many as this country gathered, although losing on total points. His year at Paris the Finns have mustered an array of stars much stronger than their squad of 1920 with most of the veterans of that year still available, and confidently expect to give Uncle Sam's performers a keen battle.

Finland, review of the records of previous Olympiads discloses, has displaced Sweden and Great Britain as America's chief rival in track and field sports, though this season there are also signs of a British come-back. From 1896 to 1908, the United States swept to overwhelming victories in the international meets, but since then the margin of triumph has been narrowing rapidly. Great Britain formed the stiffest opposition in 1908, Sweden jumped to second place in 1912, while Finland, just beginning to come into prominence in 1912, gave Uncle Sam's stars a strenuous fight four years ago at Antwerp.

America's unbroken records of track and field triumphs have been scored at Athens in 1896 and 1906, Paris in 1900 and St. Louis in 1904, in addition to those at London, Stockholm and Antwerp.

At Athens in 1896 American athletes won eight out of 14 events contested, with Great Britain, Greece and Denmark dividing the remaining six. The triumph at Paris in 1900 was even more marked. Out of 22 events, the United States won 17 first places. At St. Louis in 1904, due largely to the inability of foreign nations to send strong representative teams, the Americans swept all opposition before them, winning 23 of 26 events contested, with Canada carrying off two and Greece one.

The 1906 meet at Athens saw more nations competing and interest at high tide. The point score was as follows: United States 21, Sweden 11, Great Britain 9, Greece 4, Hungary 4, Australia 2, Canada 2, Germany 2, Belgium 1, Finland 1, France 1.

The 1908 Olympiad at London embraced 109 competitions divided into two classes, summer sports and winter sports. Twenty-two nations represented by 2,668 athletes, took part. In the track and field games in this meet the United States emerged with winners, Great Britain 5, Sweden 2, Canada 1 and South Africa 1.

At Stockholm in 1912 the United States won 14 first places and scored 80 points. Sweden was second with five first places and 30 points. Finland was close behind with six first places and 29 points. Great Britain was fourth with two first places and 15 points, with Canada fifth.

Competition at Antwerp was especially keen. The United States shared first place victories with Finland, each nation scoring nine first places, but America far outdistanced her rival in the matter of seconds and thirds and won by a wide margin.

Bulgaria Would Resume Commerce With Turkey Now

Constantinople.—Rumors that the treaty now being negotiated between Turkey and Bulgaria looks to common military action against Jugoslavia and Greece are denied by M. Radeff, the Bulgarian minister here. "Nothing could be further from the truth," said the minister recently. "My instructions do not include any action looking to military cooperation between Turkey and Bulgaria. Diplomatic relations between Turkey and Bulgaria were terminated with the signing of the armistice on the Salonica front, and the actual relations between our two countries were dissolved by the treaty of Neuilly.

"My mission is to establish relations with Turkey on a new basis, a basis of commercial co-operation. As Bulgaria's next door neighbor, Turkey before the war was a good customer of Bulgarian products. At the present time the interchange of commodities between the two countries is much reduced.

Paris War Panorama May Come to U. S.

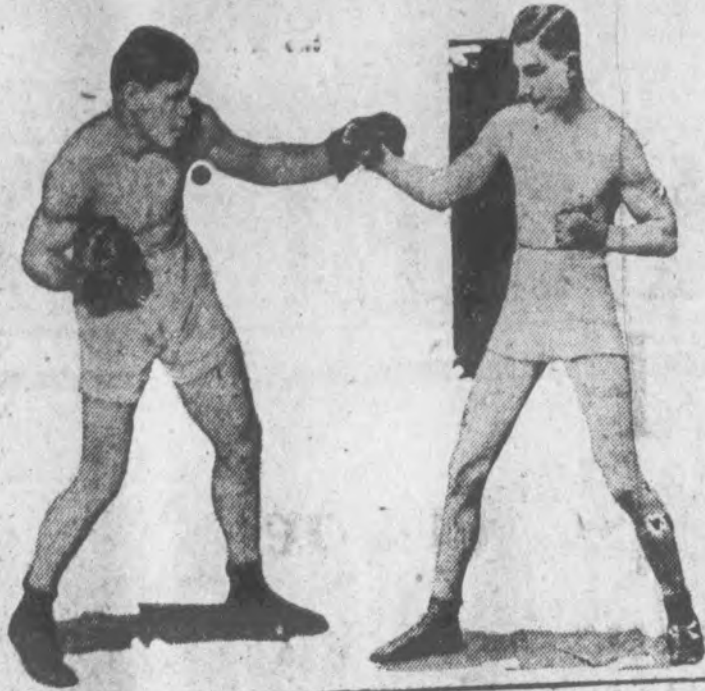

Indianapolis, May.—An offer of the owner of The Pantheon de la Guerre, a panoramic picture of the world war, to have the American Legion sponsor its American exhibition, will be among the subjects considered by the national executive committee of the Legion, at its meeting here beginning today. One representative from each of its departments, five national vice-commanders and the national commander compose the committee.

Building requirements in Paris provide that no temporary building such as that which now houses the painting, may remain standing for more than five years, a time limit which soon expires, headquarters states. The painting is 36 feet long, 45 feet high and is said to have 6,000 faces. Fifty artists required nearly four years to complete the work. The late Woodrow Wilson and other Americans are central figures.

Other matters to come before the meeting include authority for establishing a traveling exhibit of war relics, the nucleus of the proposed Legion national museum; a proposal to commemorate the arrival of the first American troops in France by the erection of a monument at St. Nazaire, and endorsement of a memorial to Woodrow Wilson, to be built in Washington. This project originated in Tennessee.

Among matters of particular interest to the organization which will be considered by the committee will be life membership, trophies and awards, creation of a mutual aid and benefit division, and conduct and rules concerning national conventions of the organization.

Germans of the Volga Form Soviet Republic

Saratoff, Russia.—Johannes Schwab, a German school teacher of the Volga district, who is regarded as a tried and trusted communist, heads the executive committee of 50 which directs the affairs of the new German Soviet Republic of Russia. This so-called republic is federated with the Union of Soviet Republics having its capital in Moscow.

The German Volga government embraces the fragments of the German settlements along the Volga which have survived the great war and the many civil wars which have taken place in the Volga area. Germans first settled here 100 years ago. Catherine Second promised them practical independence and exemption from Russian military service.

But the thrifty Germans became so prosperous that the Russian government would not let them alone and gradually limited their rights until the outbreak of the great war, when the German schools were closed, the German press was suppressed, religious liberty was limited and German men were forced into the army. Under the Bolshevik government the colonies suffered the loss of lands, cattle and crops, and many of the colonists moved away.
