Forecast President Will Refuse to Sign Tax Reduction Bill

Administration Spokesmen Declare That Allowing Both Bonus and Tax Reduction Is Impossible; Bonus May Affect Action of Conferees

Washington, May 20.—Veto of the revenue bill now pending in conference was forecast at the capitol today in view of previous indications by administration spokesmen that enactment of the bonus bill, passed yesterday, would necessitate disapproval of the reduction measure by President Coolidge.

It was recalled that Secretary Mellon in announcing the tax reduction plan declared that the proposal to cut taxes would be impossible if the bonus was allowed. President Coolidge in sending his veto message of the bonus stressed particularly the effect upon government economies.

The repassage of the bill by Congress over the veto may also have some effect upon the action of the conferees.

President Coolidge has declared his opposition to the tax on undistributed corporation profits and the substitute by the Senate for full publicity of returns.

FLOWERS ASKED TO WITHDRAW

Farmer-Labor Conference Declines to Endorse Bailey for Governor

Raleigh, May 20.—The State Farmer-Labor conference here yesterday to endorse the candidacy of Josiah W. Bailey, candidate for Democratic gubernatorial nomination and requested J. F. Flowers, candidate for Democratic nomination as Insurance Commissioner to withdraw from the race.

The endorsement of Bailey was proposed by Dr. J. M. Templeton, of Wake and R. W. Stone, of Guilford. The endorsement was supported almost unanimously by the farm wing but the majority of delegates opposed the endorsement of any candidate. The labor wing is also supporting Bailey but they did not want to commit the organization to support any candidate.

The withdrawal of Flowers was proposed on the ground that the office would take him too far away from the labor element.

DENY KU KLUX KLAN CONTRIBUTED TO THE CAMPAIGN FUND

Officials Tell Senate Committee That Organization Did Not Contribute To Elect Mayfield

Washington, May 20.—Charges of heavy campaign contributions by the Ku Klux Klan to secure the election of Senator Mayfield, of Texas, in 1922, were formally denied in behalf of the Klan today before the Senate committee investigating the contest brought against Senator Mayfield by George E. B. Peddy.

J. E. McQuinn, national auditor of the Klan, told the committee that his books did not show the expenditure of a cent by the Klan either in the Senatorial primary or election resulting in the choice of Senator Mayfield. He was seconded by other Klan officials who spread before the committee a great mass of official records which they said supported completely their statements.

During the examination of witnesses counsel declared that they were prepared to prove by other witnesses that no Klan organization contributed to the Mayfield campaign fund though one local in Texas spent $6 in postage in connection with the election.

HOWELL-BARKLEY BILL MAY GO OVER TO NEXT CONGRESS

Supporters in Doubt After Ten Hours' Fight For Vote on Measure

Washington, May 20.—Defeated in a 10 hours fight for a vote on the Howell-Barkley bill, to abolish the Railroad Labor Board, leaders of the Democratic-Republican insurgent coalition, are today in doubt as to whether they will get a decision on the measure this session of Congress.

The bill when adjournment took place after 10 o'clock last was kept in a position where under the rules it may not be called up again until June 2. Representative Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, author of the bill, indicated that he would renew his effort to get action within two weeks but opponents said afterward that they were prepared to offer a flood of amendments that would stave off a vote on the bill.

MEN AND WOMEN IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Edna Wallace Hooper, rejuvenated actress, announced in Los Angeles, that she is soon to marry a British Army officer in China. She declined to give his name, declaring she had "lost a couple that way." Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Canada, is leading the attack on the right of Chicago to take so much water from Lake Michigan for the sanitary district of Chicago, said to be an encroachment on the rights of Canada and the State of New York. It is estimated the diverted water causes a loss of 500,000 electric horsepower. The Duchess of Westminster, wife of England's richest peer, is said to be seeking a divorce in London, because her husband refused her permission to use his London palace for a charity ball. Edward Payson Weston, 86-year-old world famous pedestrain, was shot in the leg and seriously beaten by a mob in his lonely home near Kingston, N. Y. Mystery surrounded the attack.

Paying of Bonus Huge Undertaking

Washington, May 20.—Enactment of the war veteran bonus bill into law has laid upon the shoulders of the government departments an administrative task so huge that the figures involved stagger the imagination.

They must explore a veritable mountain of war records. From that mass of dusty documents they must pick out the individual war histories of more than 6,893,000 men to provide the data upon which alone bonus payments of any kind can be made.

The daily service of every soldier, sailor or marine who served under the flag in the Great War at home or abroad, is subject now to minute examination. Through his days of sickness and health, of training at home or battle abroad, the searcher must follow each man through the wilderness of official records. And the bulk of the task must be done in the close packed filing cases of the War Department where the intimate official story of America at war alone is told.

In those records alone are more than 187,000,000 separate documents, each of which it may be necessary to handle many times before the veterans can all be assured of bonus payments. It will require 27 separate checking operations to make the examination of the files and it will take 2,800 clerks to do the work in the War Department alone.

There are amazing stories by the hundreds of thousands among these individual war records. There are tales of highest heroism, of great adventure; tales, too, rich in pathos and sacrifice. They are the war story of each one of the millions of men gathered into the vast volume of the files that must now be opened for perusal. Among them are the brief records of the many who were called for service but to whom death came in the hospitals almost before they had taken their soldier oaths.

And among them also, never to be recognized for what it is, lies the brief story of America's Unknown Soldier, the record that would show, if it were in the power of man to pick it out, who he was and where he fought and how he died. By comparison the Army's share in the task of record searching overshadows the work that must also be done by the Navy and Marine Corps to carry out the will of Congress. In the army files are the records of 5,250,000 men who may make claims. Each must be examined as the soldier's record before it can be passed upon. In the Navy files are the records of 551,736 enlisted men and of 11,880 women who served in the rank of "yeoman-F". In the Marine Corps there are some 80,000 records to be combed out.

The War Department files are located here in Washington. They are crowded into the three floors of the historic old arsenal at Washington Barracks, scene of many historic events. It was there that the conspirators were tried for the assassination of President Lincoln and close by is the spot where some of them paid the penalty with their lives.

The documents, grouped in their enveloped jackets, are now set in soldierly ranks in 7,066 steel filing cases that placed end to end would cover more than five miles. They occupy 236 acres of floor space and they weigh 1,080 tons and would fill 54 freight cars.

The very compactness of the files adds to the task of ascertaining the individual stories they tell. It is physically impossible to employ more clerks than the 2,800 who will be put to work about them. During the war the draft operations were far greater in scope because they dealt with men by the tens of millions. But that work was decentralized over the entire country and endless clerical help could be used. Now, the product of the draft in fighting manhood alone is to be dealt with, but that record is all here in the crowding file cases.

The War Department, and in cooperation with it, the other two military services, began preparatory work more than two years ago to make ready for the day when bonus legislation might be enacted. At that time Colonel Robert C. Davis, then commanding a regiment of Infantry at Plattsburg, N. Y. barracks, was summoned to Washington to begin a study that has resulted in the completion of plans for the gigantic

WALTER CLARK BURIED TODAY

Body Lies in State in Capitol; Court and State Offices Closed; Flags Half-Masted

Raleigh, May 20.—The body of Chief Justice Walter Clark lies in the rotunda of the capitol here today while hundreds of North Carolinians passed in long lines through the halls to pay silent tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased jurist.

From 10 o'clock this morning, when the bier was brought from the home of the late Chief Justice, until 3 o'clock this afternoon a continuous procession with bowed heads filed by to pay their last tribute.

At 4 o'clock, lifted by his five sons, two sons-in-law and a nephew, the casket was removed from the capitol to the Central Methodist church where the funeral services were held. Relatives were the active pall bearers while the honorary included the four Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, Governor Morrison, Council of State, all heads of departments, several Federal and Superior court judges and a number close friends of the deceased.

The capitol is closed, flags of state and nation are at half mast and the Supreme court building is draped in mourning out of respect for the late Chief Justice.

Hundreds of prominent North Carolinians from all sections of the state were here to attend the funeral services.

After the services in the church the burial took place in Oakwood cemetery with full Masonic honors.

Mr. Ham Delivers Splendid Sermon To Men Only

The sixth week of the Ham-Ramsay evangelistic services opened in this city last night with services in the City Club. It was one of the most largely attended meetings of the campaign and proved most inspirational and many confessions were made.

The prayer service this morning was as usual well attended. At 10 o'clock in the brick tabernacle Mr. Ham delivered a strong sermon to men only, on the Seventh Commandment. Nearly two thousand men from every section of Pitt county attended and heard a sermon that will never be forgotten. Many confessions were made and at the close of the services the men pledged their undivided support in helping carry out this commandment. Mr. Ham's thoughts were expressed in such a convincing way that every man present wished that those absent could hear the message.

Services will continue throughout this week with two services in the tabernacle, daily, at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

ROTARIANS HOLD INTERESTING MEET

Last night was visitors night at the local Rotary Club and the affair was enjoyable for both members and their guests.

Following the supper and several songs S. B. Underwood was called upon for a talk on "Some things about Rotary." Mr. Underwood began his talk by listing many of the things which Rotary is not exclusively but which combined form the basis upon which the organization is formed. He said that the first obligation of Rotary is Service to humanity, town, county, state country and the world keeping ever before us the example set by Him who said "Henceforth I call you not servants but friends."

Dr. C. J. Ellen then made several remarks regarding the district bulletin of the work of the clubs during recent months and also about the program of the Rotary International Convention to be held in Toronto, Canada in June.

Prof. J. H. Rose was called upon for a song but instead he gave a recitation which was greatly enjoyed by all.

J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the program committee, was called upon for a few remarks and he outlined the work that his committee hoped to accomplish during the coming year. Superintendent Sheep, of Elizabeth City school, one of the visitors, made a short address to the club using as his subject the East Carolina Teachers College. Mr. Sheep, who for years has been familiar with and interested in Education in North Carolina gave a brief outline of the origin of the movement for the establishment of such an institution in eastern North Carolina and followed it by words of praise for the great work that has and is being accomplished by the college.

Among the visitors were Edward Outland, Greensboro, G. S. Willard, Greenville and J. R. Turnage, Ayden.

THE FEAR OF WAR

There has been opposition to the exploitation and perfection of the aeroplane and dirigible because of their diabolical destructiveness in war.

It is lamentable that the nations cannot proceed in the development of air transportation for or threats of war in the air.

The World War indelibly stamped all ships of the air as instruments of war. It will take years before they are again universally recognized as vehicles of peace.

INTERNATIONAL RESTORATION

What statesmen and politicians, ministers plenipotentiary, the League of Nations and parliaments could not accomplish for world restoration, a committee of business experts has probably achieved.

Alexander Hamilton's report in 1790 upon the finances of the United States rescued our nation from financial chaos and ranks among the classics of finance.

and political warfare have passed since the war of arms in Europe ended. Its nations have wrangled ever since. They long ago demonstrated their incompetence to settle the financial difficulties inherited from the war and increased by the treaty of peace.

Their fickleness and despair drove them to seek American advice as being the only counsel that could be trusted as competent and disinterested.

He and his fellow experts display even greater genius in cutting the Gordian knot of European finance that he demonstrated in devising a budget system for the United States.

It remains for the nations to acquiesce and put into effect through the reparations commission, what governmental machinery was powerless to put into operation.

RECORDS

Marathon saxaphoning is the new endurance craze. The present record holder is a girl who played continuously for 48 hours.

There are always have been and always will be endurance tests among human beings and between mechanical creations.

The marathon dancers and saxophone players attracted the public eye also for the reason that humanity is ever interested in superlative performance.

Knowing no record breaker has ever starved for want of fame and that there is nothing which can not be done a little bit better there are many who for honor hunting go.

Unhappy thought.

With the player-piano perfected some genius may invent a player-saxophone.

The ego needs curbing. When a man gets on his feet too easily, his head has a swell time.

It is better to do your best and expect the worst than do your worst and expect the best.

Markets - Wants

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, La., May 20.—The passing of the Bonus bill by the Senate after close of market yesterday making it a law automatically was reflected in a lower market this morning...

Returns to the Japan cotton trading company, Fort Worth, Texas average the condition of crop cotton at 69.0, the increase in acreage at 4 percent.

The government report for May 5th last year made average condition of crop 71 and the ten year average 72.8.

While the continuance of clear, warm weather is desired in most sections of the interior, the outlook is for unsettled weather, probably showers in all districts of the cotton region, cooler for the northwest portion.

Next Friday will be the last May notice day in New York, in New Orleans next Monday, on which dates trading in May will cease at noon in that respective markets.

As to possible developments in July after May has been liquidated, the following wire from Hobstown, South Texas is significant:

Spot people here are rejecting all offers for July delivery on account of crop delay, caused by lice, which are breaking the stands in places.

This afternoon some liquidation in the cotton market was influenced by weakness in the New York stock market, probably due to the passing of the Bonus bill and fear that proposed tax reductions will be vetoed by the President.

Meanwhile, exports of cotton from the U. S. continue free, since Friday 49,000 against last year; thus far this season, 5,120,000 against 4,100,000, serving to reduce the stock at all United States ports today to 336,000 against 412,000 one year ago.

Next Friday spinners takings for week will likely be bullish as they will run against only 147,000 bales; were 207,000 last week.

Photographers Open Three Day Convention Asheville Tomorrow

Asheville, May 19—Approximately 400 photographers from all parts of the South are expected to be here Tuesday to participate in the opening session of the Middle Atlantic States Photographers Association and the Southeastern Photographers Association, it was said by those in charge of the arrangements of the meeting here. The convention will last through Thursday.

As an adjunct of the convention, approximately two score manufacturers of photographic accessories and supplies have arranged exhibits.

The three silver cups will be awarded for photographic work, it was announced. The first will be for the three best portraits with a second prize for this work, while the third cup will be awarded for the best three commercial photographs.

The convention will be formally opened on Tuesday with L. L. Higginson, of Asheville, in the chair. A feature will be an address by Clarence Stearns, president of the Photographers Association of America and Ben Larrimer on "Cost Accounting." William Shemwell Ellis will give some reminiscences of 20 years of photographing.

On Wednesday the session will be devoted to talks on how to handle patrons and the kind of photographs used by national advertisers. Thursday will be devoted largely to the business of the convention.

Modern Chinese Girls Defy Ancient Tradition

Peking.—"I cannot bear the tyrannical rule at home, therefore I have decided never to return. I shall cut off my hair and become a nun." In these words Pei Chiu, an emancipated Chinese girl, is said to have defied her father after the had reprimanded her for writing for certain Chinese magazines on the subject of democracy, feminine freedom and love.

The father has appealed to the police to help him find his ward offspring.

Further evidence that the Chinese maiden of today is unwilling to have her future arranged for her without a voice in the proceedings comes from Hangchow, in Chekiang province.

Tsai Tseng, nineteen, a pupil of one of the local schools, decided to have a "look see" at the man selected for her by her father. Finding him as she expected, uncouth and a country lad, she expostulated with father. Not willing to offend his old friend, the prospective bridegroom's father, the aunt of the girl managed to secure her conditional promise. The young man must dress himself in foreign clothes for three months and at the end of each week must present himself for inspection. "It is too early to talk about marriage," the girl is reported to have declared. "I will wait and see if he can get rid of his country ways."

Male "Petter" Scored By University Co-Ed

Seattle.—University girls, like their sisters out of school, do not like to be "petted" and must be "veritable Amazons" to defend themselves against the "male of the species" according to an anonymous woman contributor to The Columns, a University of Washington publication.

"The man who doesn't eventually try to 'pet' is a rare specimen, and also a thorough diplomat," declared the contributor in the article entitled "The He-Petter." "This type lends zest to the game—wonder and intrigue.

"Nowadays, to defend herself a girl must be a veritable Amazon, with no regard for broken sedan windows. But even an Amazon may go down to defeat with a twisted, arched jaw before some of the strong arm, he petter cave men.

"The he-petter thinks that custom demands an interval of etting after every date, and nothing short of war, pestilence or famine can induce him to avoid such a seance."

In defense of the men and attacking the article, one of the men students wrote the following in another unsigned story:

"The real man gets the girl who doesn't 'pet' but the he-petter is nabbed by the zheik-chasing co-ed."

MARRIAGE AND BIRTH RATE INCREASE IN THE FREE STATE

Dublin.—The latest Free State statistics show that the births for the three final months of last year were 14,716, equivalent to an annual rate of 18.6 for each thousand of the estimated population of 3,165,000. The births exceeded the deaths by 4,493, and the death rate was only 12.9 for each thousand operated with him.

of population. There were 4,063 Free State marriages, a slight increase on the average of the previous ten years. The excess of births over deaths is hailed with much satisfaction and compared with London and France. In France the excess for each 10,000 of population was 28; in London it was only 18, while in the Free State it was 57.

You can select a good oil two ways. By making elaborate tests for yourself or by asking by name for a brand that has been tested and accepted by a whole generation of motorists and engineers. Think of the time, expense and uncertainty that you save by asking for "Standard" Polarine.

A name is a convenient handle by which the public reaches for and gets the product it wants. All good motor oils have names. The handle is there for your convenience and protection—use it, please.

You never say "Give me a package of cigarettes" or "a tube of tooth paste." You know what you like and you ask for it—by name. It is to your advantage to buy oil only by name. It prevents substitution. It guarantees uniform quality.

There are several good oils, but none any better than "Standard" Polarine. It is the standard among lubricating oils and has been so for many years. It is still growing in favor. It is an honest oil.

"Homeward Bound" Is Big Sea Picture

Thomas Meighan Has Fine Stellar Role in Thrilling New Photoplay.

Story of the sea, packed with drama and every scene having a distinct thrill of its own, Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "Homeward Bound," based on the story "The Light to Leeward," by Peter B. Kyne, and superbly directed by Ralph Ince, will be the feature at White's theatre one day, Wednesday. Lila Lee, beautiful and popular, plays opposite the star.

In this captivating photoplay, Mr. Meighan is seen as Jim Bedford, a sailor who saves a ship from foundering after Captain Svenson, the cowardly skipper, quite the bridge and gives up the struggle. When the ship reaches port, Svenson is given an ovation and Rufus Brent, the owner, unaware of the facts, makes him skipper of his yacht which Brent aims to present to his daughter, Mary.

Bedford, who loves Mary, refuses to permit Svenson to command the yacht and thus imperil Mary's life. When the yacht is about to sail, Bedford forces Svenson off the vessel and himself takes command. Brent threatens to have Bedford arrested for piracy and after a severe time aboard Bedford takes the yacht to port. He then takes command of an unworthy schooner and before sailing, quietly marries Mary. Events follow in quick success, all of which combine to make the picture tremendously interesting and appealing.

The supporting company is exceptionally strong. In the cast are Charles Abbe, William T. Carleton, Hugh Cameron, Gus Weinberg, Maude Turner Gordon and other noted players.

Work of Education by Better Homes in America Endorsed By Foremost American Women

The average man spends the greater portion of his life in his home. He eats there, sleeps there, spends most of his leisure hours there. Making the world a better place to live in resolves itself to a large extent into making the home really deserving of that title. And that is the aim of Better Homes in America.

This organization, entirely divorced from commercialism of any kind, and in which President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover, and a host of influential and forward-looking American men and women are deeply interested and directly connected, is striving to help American families get the utmost out of their homes—to make them as nearly perfect in beauty, comfort, efficiency, and economy as each family's means will permit.

The organization is now in its third year, having been entirely reorganized early in 1924, with Dr. James Ford, of the faculty of Harvard University, in active charge of the work. Dr. Ford was granted special leave of absence in order that he might undertake this public service.

The Better Homes in America message is carried throughout the country by means of demonstrations of "better homes" in cities, towns, villages and in rural sections. These local demonstrations are under the general supervision and direction of the national headquarters of Better Homes in America, now located in Washington, but local responsibility and initiative are emphasized and given full play everywhere.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, whose picture is shown above, is an active worker for the Better Homes in America movement. Mrs. Winter is a member of the Advisory Council of Better Homes in America, and has repeatedly and strongly urged support of the clubwomen of America in their active participation in Better Homes demonstrations in their communities.

Reduce White Plague Death Rate Sixty-Eight Per Cent. During Seven Years of Framingham Demonstration

One town in the United States has succeeded in reducing its tuberculosis death rate 68 per cent. in only seven years. It has accomplished this at a cost which is not prohibitive. Framingham, Massachusetts, has demonstrated that public health is purchasable and that the returns are more than commensurate with the cost. On the basis of this demonstration, tuberculosis, which until recently headed the list of death causes, may be definitely classed among the controllable diseases.

The death rate from tuberculosis in Framingham, since January 1, 1917 has declined from 121 per 100,000 population to 38 per 100,000 in 1923.

How it was done is, or should be, of interest to every community in America.

This first great health demonstration, under the auspices of the National Tuberculosis Association, was made possible by an appropriation of nearly $200,000 by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Framingham, a town of 17,000 was selected in 1916 as a typical American industrial community. Since then, through the aid of local health and medical agencies, and commercial concerns, every effort has been made to find tuberculosis cases, to treat them successfully, to prevent the disease, and to build up under local leadership, adequate health machinery for a town of this size. From the beginning the people of Framingham have shown an increasing conviction of the value of disease preventive measures. The Board of Health has expanded its activities along infant welfare and tuberculosis prevention lines. The local school authorities have greatly expanded medical, nursing, dental, clinical and health education services. The leading industries have encouraged the periodic health examination of workers and facilities for their care. All this has resulted in the prevention of illness and the prolongation of life.

And the improvement was reflected not only in the tuberculosis death rate; the deaths among babies were reduced 40 per cent. during the period of the demonstration. Framingham is a better place to be born and a better place to live than it used to be. During 1922 and 1923 the people of the town cheerfully spent six times as much for health work as was available prior to the demonstration. Many other cities are taking their cue from Framingham. What has been done can be done. If Framingham's lesson is well learned tuberculosis may before long be definitely ranked as one of the diseases under complete control.

RECORD KRAENZLEIN SEEMINGLY SAFE AT OLYMPICS THIS YEAR

New York.—So long as the Olympic games continue to represent the peak of international athletic competition, the names of two American athletes will linger in the memory of those who follow the turns of the cinder track. These two men reached the pinnacle of individual athletic brilliancy, one by winning four different events in one Olympic meet, the other by winning two events in four successive Olympic meets and one other event in two successive meets.

Olvin C. Kraenzlein and Ray Ewry were the athletes who have inscribed their names on the Olympic roll of honor.

Kraenzlein, a University of Pennsylvania star in the late 90's won four events in the second Olympiad at Paris in 1900. He breached the tape first in the 100-metre dash, the 110-metre high hurdles, the 200-metre low hurdles and won the broad jump. His performance is the only one on record in the history of the Olympic games where any one athlete won more than three events.

Ewry's triumph is even more impressive because it was achieved over a stretch of eight years. In 1900, he won the standing broad jump, the standing high jump and the standing hop, step and jump. He repeated his triple triumph at St. Louis in 1904. At Athens in 1906 the Olympic committee eliminated the standing hop, step and jump but Ewry won the standing broad and high jumps for the third time with apparent ease. In London in 1908 he won these two events again, passing out of international competition at the conclusion of the London meet.

There are many instances of athletes winning two events in an Olympic meet and some who have won three events. Harry Hillman, present track coach at Dartmouth and a member of the 1924 Olympic coaching staff, achieved the remarkable feat of winning three events at St. Louis in 1904. Hillman won the 400-metre run and the 200 and 400-metre hurdles. In the same meet Archie Hahn was crowned as sprint champion with victories in the 60, 100 and 200-metre dashes.

Triple victories have been scored several times in Olympic annals, a trio of American stars performing this feat at St. Louis in 1904 when his country swept the field. Harry Hillman, of Dartmouth, a member of this year's Olympic coaching staff, captured the 400-metre run and the 200 and 400-metre hurdles; Archie Hahn was crowned sprint champion with victories in the 60, 100 and 200-metre dashes; while Lightbody, middle distance crack, ran off with the 800 and 1,500-metre events and 2,500-metre steeplechase.

One of the most remarkable "trifles" and the last one on record was scored by Hannes Kolehmainen, Finnish distance star at Stockholm in 1912, when he won the 5,000 and 10,000-metre runs and the cross-country race.

Many double victories have been recorded, but the increasing tendency for athletes to specialize in one event has reduced the versatility which formerly was so prominent. Paavo Nurmi, great Finnish runner, who won the 10,000-metre run and cross-country race in 1920 at Antwerp, may try for three distance titles this year, while Charles Hoff, Norwegian holder of the world's pole vault record and all-around star, may figure prominently in several events, but these performers are exceptions.

LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland.—Adoption of a financial program for the ensuing three years is the major problem to come before the fourth triennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which convenes here June 2 and continues for a period of from three to four weeks. With the brotherhood already interested in several financial ventures and controlling capital of more than $130,000,000, further financial activities are contemplated.

Retiring executives are expected to be re-elected. President Warren S. Stone, whose term expires this year, has held the office continuously since April 11, 1903, and has in every case been elected by acclamation, and in later years unopposed. Brotherhood officials expect the same course to be followed this year. Assistant Chiefs Al Johnson, Superior, Wis.; H. P. Daugherty, Cleveland; and L. G. Griffin, New York, also are seeking re-election, as is C. E. Richards, Cleveland, secretary of the insurance.

Approximately 420 delegates from every state in the United States and every province in Canada will attend. The delegates represent 903 divisions of the international order.

Other matters include the reviewing or enactment of legislation governing the Brotherhood. Delegates are empowered to make such changes in existing laws as are necessary and establish new rules of expansion. Politics may not be discussed.

Pensions for members and widows are being given preliminary attention. It is pointed out that all widows of members are not entitled to pension, the fund being available only for widows of members of the widows' pension association. The association at present is a voluntary organization.

The Grand International Auxiliary of the brotherhood will convene May 26 and remain in session for about ten days. Mrs. Mary E. Castell, Lakewood, O., is president.

Sweden Ready Resist U. S. Auto Invasion

Stockholm.—While the American motor industry's invasion of Sweden is gathering force, the government authorities are taking defensive measures against the excessive automobile of the country, especially with a view toward protecting the native industry against the competition of heavy imports of cars and gasoline.

The Swedish Board of Trade says

nearly 70,000 cars have been imported into Sweden since 1900, and about 40,000 of these are now in use. Last year 76,000 tons of gasoline were imported, valued at $5,896,000. This tremendous import is looked upon in some quarters as excessive, and the board has suggested that the import duty on cars ought to be raised from 15 to 30 percent ad valorem. The government has also recommended an import duty of one cent a gallon on gasoline and a domestic tax of four cents a gallon.

It is evident that the proposed duty and taxes on gasoline is intended, not only to increase the internal revenue, but also to encourage the use of sulphite alcohol of domestic manufacture as a motor fuel. Recent tests in which a Swedish car using alcohol beat American cars using gasoline has made the question a live one, and the government is proposing to remove restrictions on the sale of denatured alcohol direct to the consumer.

JAPANESE IMPORT WHEAT AS RICE PRICES ADVANCE

Vancouver, B. C.—Advances in the price of native rice are forcing Japan to buy Canadian wheat in heavy quantities, according to T. Shimusaki, representative of a Tokio milling firm, who is investigating the wheat situation.

Mr. Shimusaki said Canadian wheat could be imported by Japan at about 15 cents a bushel cheaper than Japanese wheat could be produced, and was much cheaper than rice. The Japanese people he added have come to prefer wheat to rice.

Japan has imported 80,000 tons of Canadian wheat in the last three months, according to statistics of the port of Vancouver. China also has been a heavy purchaser, taking 120,000 tons.

She took the morning train to Richmond

IT ARRIVED promptly at 9:45. Richmond! The name thrilled Helen to the heart. She almost ran down the car steps to the station platform and up the easy incline to the great marble concourse of Broad Street Station! It was not her first visit, but Helen loved Richmond. She loved its beauty, its historical traditions, and, most of all, its shops.

With impulsive disregard for her conscience, Helen chose a taxi rather than the convenient street car that stopped directly in front of the station. "Miller & Rhoads," she told the driver, with the air of one who knows exactly where to go in Richmond.

In a moment Helen found herself at the entrance to the South's greatest department store. She did not go in directly, but walked completely around the store, for she loved to "window shop." It was the first time she had seen the windows in the new store, and they were perfectly beautiful with their displays of fashion's newest creations.

Inside the store, her first step was to check her traveling bag. Then to a comfortable rest-room to telephone Louise to meet her on the fifth floor for luncheon.

That done, Helen sought the elevators, and found them, centrally located, six in a row, each with its neatly uniformed and courteous attendant.

Getting off at the second floor, she found herself right in the midst of the loveliest display of dresses she had ever laid eyes on. These dresses were the kind she could not buy anywhere outside of Richmond, except, of course, in New York and places like that. There were satins and satin crepes, crepe de chine, and novelty silks. Some were trimmed in laces in the newest ways, and there were the gayest summer colors, too. Helen could hardly decide whether she liked the Peggy Paige frock of rose-gray crepe satin or the lovely girdled frock of green silk crepe. She knew they were all the very latest word in style, for she had learned by experience that Miller & Rhoads are not only Fashion Right, but Fashion First. She finally selected two dresses, one for afternoon and one for sport wear.

With a feeling of perfect satisfaction in her purchase, Helen looked at her watch. It was twelve-thirty, and she had promised to meet Louise at twelve for lunch!

(Helen is just one of the thousands of women, many of them from your own community, who do their shopping at Miller & Rhoads when in Richmond.)

What Is Clean Politics?

TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF PITT COUNTY:

My political enemies, who work in the dark and are afraid to come out in the open, face to face, are giving various and sundry alleged reasons why I am disqualified for the office of County Judge, among which the following are worthy of mention:

- First, because they say that I am slinging mud.
- Second, because Judge Cooper, contrary to law and in violation of his oath of office, disbarred me from practicing law in his court.
- Third, because I am native born, and as they say, do not have sense enough to discharge the duties of the office.
- Fourth, because I am too honest and straight, and as they say, there is no need to corrupt a good man.
- Fifth, because they say that I drink moonshine liquor and would get drunk as often as Cooper.
- Sixth, because they say I said I did not want the vote of any man who ever took a drink of liquor.

Briefly, I shall answer these charges in the order named. First, it is true that I have in response to Cooper's challenge on his record, offered some criticisms showing special favors to violators of the law, but I deny that I am guilty of "slinging mud," because what I said is true and no denial can be made.

Second, I would be unworthy of the respect of all law-abiding citizens and certainly unworthy of the office of Judge of the County Court if I did not resent the imposition of Cooper in unlawfully and despotically depriving me of the right to practice law in the County Court. They say that I am trying to get in by tearing another man down. This is not true, but what has Cooper done to me? He has not only put me down, he has also placed his foot on my neck. If he can get any glory out of this, he is welcome to boast about it. If you think that he should be reelected so as to continue to keep me from exercising the rights guaranteed by our constitution and the Supreme Court of our State, then vote for him, for he is the kind of autocrat and tyrant that you deserve to have for your judge.

Third, I am proud of being a native son, and if it be true that, as they say, I have not sufficient sense to be Judge of the County Court, then my enemies should rejoice and vote for me, for then, having an imbecile for judge, they should be able to put anything over their desire.

Fourth, it is not my personal welfare that they are interested in, but they are afraid that I cannot be corrupted.

Fifth, as to my drinking liquor and getting drunk, I can only say that such a charge is an absolute falsehood, fabricated and put out by a diseased and criminal mind; but such is a fair sample of the lies that are spawned and hatched in the minds of the desperate criminal and corrupt elements who seek by fair means or foul to bring about my defeat.

Sixth, I have never said that I did not want the vote of any man who ever took a drink of liquor. I only said that I did not drink myself. The only reason any moonshiner, bootlegger, or any other lawbreaker can have for voting against me is that he wants special favors and is not satisfied with fairness and impartiality. I propose to uphold the law in accordance with the oath of office, and at the same time to treat all fairly and justly.

No, I am not a candidate for any selfish reasons nor for vengeance upon any person. I would not have become a candidate at all if anyone else would have taken a positive stand for law and order, and for right and justice.

Be not deceived. This campaign for County Judge is not a contest between individuals, but it is a battle between those who stand for law and civilization on the one hand and lawlessness and anarchy on the other. There can be no neutrality on so vital an issue. There is no middle ground, and any candidate attempting to straddle the issue is making a deliberate effort to fool and deceive the voters. Any candidate who is afraid to openly take a hold stand everywhere and at all times for law and order, is secretly aligned with the lawless elements, and is under their influence and control.

So far, I am the only candidate who has taken his stand openly on the side of law and order. Why do not the other candidates openly and boldly state on which side they stand? Do they dare tell you in public print upon what terms they are obtaining the support of the lawless elements? Can they tell you why those who violate and defy the law are so anxious to defeat me and seem to be content with either of the other two candidates? Why should they be so eager to defeat me when I have promised all equality, fairness and impartiality? It is because I have refused to promise special favors.

Me and Women of Pitt County, be not deceived! The testing time has come. You are now on trial. It is for you to say whether you want law and civilization or lawlessness and anarchy. You must vote right now, or you should hereafter hold your peace, no matter what shall confront you. I wish to urge all people who are with me in this fight, to stand by me and see that all of our friends who are not registered, do so between now and Saturday, which is the last day for registration and that they vote on June 7th, and that we have a fair election and the votes counted correctly.

You have already seen what the opposition will do. Be not dismayed or deceived at anything you may hear at the last moment of this campaign because it is the plan of the enemy to do their work in the dark, and at a time when contradictions cannot be made. The enemy is at work, so I urge all my friends also to keep busy and see that there is a square deal, so that when the voters speak on Saturday, June 7th, there can be no doubt as to how they stand upon the question of law and order.

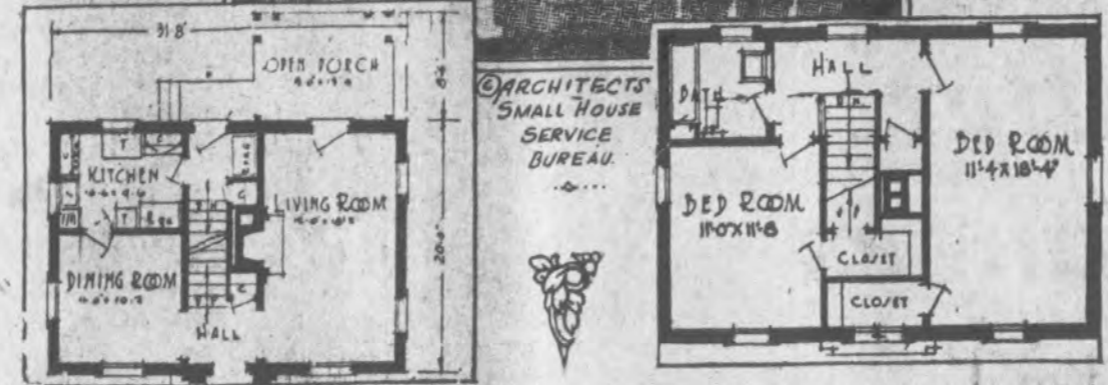

It has been charged that the majority of our people stand for lawlessness. Let's wipe out this slander of the good name and reputation of our county.

Sincerely yours,

James L. Evans

Better Homes In America Movement Emphasizing Need of Single Family Detached Homes As American Ideal

The Better Homes in America movement, which touches upon every phase of the home, and the house only, is encouraging America to become again as far as practicable a nation of families dwelling in single, detached houses. In this, the third year of the movement, emphasis is being laid on the home for the family of small or moderate means. The Better Homes movement is being put into effect all over the nation by local "better homes" demonstrations, where local committees headed by women, active and prominent in civic affairs, are in charge. In 1922 about five hundred such demonstrations were held, the following year about double that number. The indications are that this year "Better Home Week," set for May 11 to 18, will greatly surpass former campaigns both by extending this work to many hundreds of American cities, towns and villages, and by increasing the educational value of the demonstrations. Recently a book of plans, approved by the leading architects of the nation and the Architects Small House Service Bureau, Inc., which originated in the American Institute of Architects, has been published and issued at cost ($2.25) by Better Homes in America. In it are excellent plans for the design of homes for families of moderate means—Houses many of which, if all possible economies are made, should not cost complete more than five or six thousand dollars to build. Mr. Edwin H. Brown, shown above, is president of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau, the purpose of which is to facilitate the planning and building of attractive and economical homes.

SOLDIER'S BONUS

(Continued from page one.) Clerical machinery it now becomes his duty to set in motion as he is now Adjutant General of the army. The youngest of American Major Generals, General Davis served in France as Adjutant General of the American Expeditionary Forces. In that capacity he conceived and created the Central War Record Office of the American land forces in France, an agency unequalled by the Allied Armies. He began that work with himself and one clerk as the personnel of what ultimately reached a peak of 7,000 clerks, aside from the many officers it required. It was against that back ground of experience that General Davis visualized the task before him in Washington. He saw at once that there were three main elements in the war records of the army, the overseas records, the War Department original records, and the records of the embarkation service. He began his work by calling to his aid the officers who during the war had the greatest knowledge of each of these groups of records and it is with the aid of that staff of less than a score of tried and experienced "two-listed" men that the plans were shaped in readiness for the bonus bill. Some idea of the complications that must be met may be gained from the fact that the army files contain the records of 50,328 Smiths who served during the war; 40,101 Johnsons; 28,902 Browns and 227,938 men named Williams. In countless cases initials and even the first and second names are identical, yet the records must separate them one from another and to each give his proper share of benefit computed on the other and to each give his proper share of service he rendered in the war.

Another complication foreseen lies in the fact that 23 percent of all these 5,000,000 potential claimants can not read nor write the English language. A corps of interpreters, having among them knowledge of almost every tongue, must be included in the great office force to deal with the analysis of the records.

The starting point for every veteran in seeking compensation must be the filling out of application blanks already printed. It is here that General Davis fears there may be delay and to reduce that danger as much as possible he has not only revised the form time and again to reduce it to the simplest possible terms but has called to his aid the American Legion patriotic and civic organizations and every ramifying agency of the Federal government over the country to distribute the blanks and to help the veterans fill them in.

"Do not pay fees other than a notary charge" runs the language of emphatic notice which will be circulated everywhere. "The law prohibits any persons from charging a fee for assistance in the collection of the compensation."

Legion posts everywhere have agreed to serve not only Legion members but all war veterans in filling out the blanks. In the same way every army post or detachment every national guard center and every official of the federal government of whatever kind will give voluntary aid. General Davis has laid down one other rigid rule. Applications for banks will not be received by the War Department directly from the veterans. There will be no necessity for that as the blanks and the envelopes in which to mail them will be made available everywhere and correspondence direct with the department would crush it under the load of clerical work before it could even begin on its real task.

When the applications are received they will go into a "receiving station" and notice will go back to the applicant that his case is in hand. From then on the applications will move in orderly way through the ramifications of the files to be checked and re-checked time and again.

There will be reference wherever necessary to the muster rolls of regiment and even small detachments and there will be comparison of finger prints to insure identification. The applications which can be checked in the regular way will move directly through the main channels of the files. Where difficulties are encountered, however, the troublesome application will be promptly side-tracked to a "trouble clerk" for special treatment and in order that there may be no delay and congestion in the main traffic.

General Davis estimates that with the system he has mapped out it will be possible to attain an average output of 30,000 certificates, checked and delivered to the Veterans' Bureau, every day for six days of every week which means about nine months of work. In order to reach that average, however, the system devised has been made sufficiently flexible to reach a daily total output of 70,000 certificates as a peak load in the full stress of the work.

The product of all this vast clerical labor will be the typed certificates forwarded to the Veterans' Bureau containing the records of each man's service and the computation of the exact amount of compensation to which he is entitled under the law. It is from the War Department, Navy and Marine Corps certificates that the checks for cash payments and the insurance policies will be filled out by the Veterans' Bureau and mailed to applicants.

Virginia Salesman Adds His Testimony

A. E. Howell, of Richmond, Gets Relief From Stomach Trouble at Four Years' Duration

"What I know about Tanlac after trying it out in my own case is certainly worth passing on to everybody who is having trouble with their health," is the striking statement made, recently, by Alson E. Howell, a well known salesman, residing at 209 North 20 St., Richmond, Va.

"A four years' siege of stomach and nerve troubles had just about knocked me out. I could neither eat nor sleep to do much good and I went down in weight, energy and strength to where my efficiency as a salesman was seriously threatened.

"My first real relief came when I began taking Tanlac and five bottles fixed me up in great shape, leaving me better off every way than I have been in years. My stomach, liver and nerves, in fact, my whole system seems in fine condition. I have gained about fifteen pounds and feel strong and well all over."

Substantial Security

When you lend money, you deserve good security. That security may be a man's word, if you know him to be honest, or it may be goods or other property. When you invest your savings in a "savings institution" or in a business, that money is held in trust by the user. You should be more interested in the security back of that trust than in the actual earnings.

In a Building and Loan Institution the security is first mortgages on homes that are fully protected by fire insurance—generally considered the safest security in the world. Ordinarily, the larger the earnings the weaker the security. This is to a certain extent over-come by our economical operation and by our mutual or co-operative distribution of earnings—which are higher than in any other institution offering the same safety to 43 funds.
