YOUTHS CONFESS KIDNAPPING-MURDER

Daugherty Committee Thrown Into Disorder Today

Wealthy Chicago Boys Confess To Murder of Franks

Trailed by the Clue of the Lost Spectacles Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb Come Through With Details of Kidnapping and Murder of 13-Year-Old Lad That Has Baffled Authorities for Past Ten Days

Chicago, May 31.—Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, announced early today that Nathan G. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, youthful members of wealthy Chicago families, both post graduates of the University here, had confessed to the kidnapping and murdering of 13 years old, Robert Franks, son of Jacob Franks, retired millionaire pawnbroker and manufacturer.

They said they had planned the kidnapping in great detail last November due both to the spirit of adventure and because they wanted the $10,000 ransom which they demanded, said Crowe.

The youths said the details included no definite victim and the kidnapping and murder of young Franks was merely an accident.

The kidnapping was carried out in every detail as planned including the victim's death, Crowe said, Leopold and Loeb confessed. He said that Leopold admitted writing the letter to the father of the Franks boy demanding $10,000 ransom and that the automobile which was used to spirit away the victim was a rented machine.

"The finding of the spectacles near the boy's body proved our only tangible clue," said Crowe. "Through them the kidnapping and slaying was traced to young Leopold."

The typewriter used and the clothing stripped from young Franks' body has not yet been recovered, said Crowe, but he expects to have them this afternoon.

The statement added that there was to be used if the boy had not been killed as he was. This was explained in the confession. The killing, which the two have admitted, they said was done in an automobile of the same make as that owned by Leopold. Leopold and Loeb each accused the other of striking the blow with the chisel. Leopold was calm as he made his confession.

The discoloration of the boy's lips was caused by acid, Crowe declared. Similar acid was found in Leopold's room. The acid, the youths declared, was intended to be used for discoloration of the boy's body to prevent identification.

Both the youths were together the night of the kidnapping and after the killing when Mrs. Franks was called over the telephone by a man and told that her son had been kidnapped and was safe.

The following day, Crowe said, young Leopold telephoned from a drug store to the Franks' home, directing delivery of the $10,000 ransom.

After announcing that Leopold and Loeb had confessed to the kidnapping and slaying of Franks, the state attorney declared that they said that at one time they had considered Julius Rosenwald, son of the internationally known philanthropist.

They planned the kidnapping and murder for ransom as early as last November and up until shortly before the kidnapping of Franks they had not selected a victim, the youths said. Loeb is the son of Albert Loeb, vice-president of Sears Roebuck Company, of which Rosenwald is the head. Crowe declared that the case would be presented to the June grand jury and would be the first case in their hands. The telegrams and note of the alleged confession, Crowe said, were locked up but that they might be made public late today. Every precaution was being taken to complete the case, he said.

All the kidnapped boy's clothing except his shoes and belt were burned at Leopold's home, state attorney's men alleged today to have been told. The shoes and belt they expect to find in a prairie and a robe in which Franks' body is alleged to have been wrapped when carried to its hiding place is being sought.

Leopold, after making his statement to Crowe as composedly as though he was going through his ordinary daily routine, posed for newspaper photographers and after the cameras clicked, calmly lighted a cigarette.

Young Loeb was apparently most affected by what had taken place but despite the long grinding ordeal he did not appear crushed. Later he collapsed when identified by a cigar store keeper as having gone to the store with Leopold on May 22, the day after the kidnapping, and used the telephone. He was rushed to a hospital.

Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy said it was difficult for him to believe that the two boys or anybody had kidnapped and killed his little fellow. I had just slept for the first time in 36 hours when I was awakened and informed of the alleged confession, he said. It is difficult for me to understand it he murmured.

Relatives of both the youthful prisoners refused to believe the story of the state attorney.

PERRIN ADDRESSES GRADUATING CLASS HERE LAST NIGHT

Best School Year in History Comes to Close With Last Night's Exercises; Diplomas and Honor Medals Awarded

With the dying away of the last notes of the silver-toned bugle, last night in the college auditorium, there came to a close the most successful year in the history of the Greenville City Schools. Amid the applause of a multitude of friends that thronged the auditorium the members of the class of 1924, the largest in the history of the school, received their diplomas from the hands of Mr. J. L. Little the chairman of the school board. The great audience was a magnificent tribute to the speaker of the evening, Mr. Lewis W. Perrin, and indisputable evidence of the great regard that the citizens of the city have in their schools, and the graduates of their schools. The graduates made an inspiring sight as they filed into the auditorium headed by the chief marshal, Luther Moore. The music for the evening was furnished by the Greenville School Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. E. T. Roberson. This six months old orchestra furnished music which was inspiring and which gave abundant evidence of the progress that is being made in the teaching of music in the local schools. The two piano numbers, rendered by Louise Evans and Edna Smith remarkable for High School children. Supt. J. H. Rose presented to the audience Mr. Lewis

Police Called To Quiet Disturbance Witness Caused

"We Don't Want Any of Your Lies," Greeted A. L. Fincke When He Tried to Testify Before Senate Daugherty Committee

Washington, May 31.—Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, Republican leader in the Senate today, took the witness stand before the Daugherty investigating committee made explicit denial that he had ever aided in the issue of expert liquor permits as indicated in recent testimony by Gaston B. Means.

The story told by Means was that permits in which Lodge interested himself was for export to Canada a Craven Brothers consignment of liquor which was later lauded by smugglers off Atlantic City. The Senator declared that he never knew that Craven Brothers existed. "I never heard of it," he declared. "I never obtained an export permit for anybody."

The committee then heard another voluntary witness, A. L. Fincke, of Rochester, N. Y., associated with the testimony of Roxie Stinson before the committee, who launched a series of charges that created such a disturbance that it had to be quieted by the police.

Fincke shouted, "I am the man Frank Vanderlip tried to give $1,000 for purged testimony against Coolidge" and that he wanted to tell the committee now Senator Wheeler, he committee how Senator Wheeler, had Roxie Stinson.

"We don't want your lies," Chairman Brookhart thundered back at him, and Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, the only other member of the committee present told Fincke he was a crook.

Senator Ashurst promised to put Fincke out if the chairman would allow him to do so, but Fincke left the room immediately before Senator Wheeler entered. A moment later the committee sent for him.

Warren Annihilates Aydlett In Dare County Debate

COMPELLED TO LAY CARDS ON TABLE AT MANTEO TUESDAY

Beaufort County Candidate Forces Elizabeth City Aspirant to Congress to Agree to Abide by First Primary Should They Be the Two Highest Men—Every Section of Dare County Represented at the Joint Debate

Manteo, May 29.—An old time debate attended by one of the largest crowds that ever assembled on Roanoke Island to hear a political discussion was the chief feature here on Tuesday night. People were present from every section of Dare county, and they went back home feeling like they got their money's worth. Three of the four candidates for Congress from this district spoke from the same platform, though the Hon. S. S. Mann of Hyde county made a concluding speech of about thirty minutes after the battle had waged between E. F. Aydlett and Lindsay C. Warren for nearly three hours. Dare county had heard Aydlett many times before both in the court house and in the political forum, but Lindsay Warren was making his first political speech in the county. Aydlett and Warren had hooked up together at Mann's Harbor on Monday night, and Warren had spoken on Tuesday morning at Stumpy Point. At both of these meetings large crowds had assembled, but for some reason it got rumored around that the real affair would come off at Manteo, and the Mann's Harbor people and the Stumpy Point people followed over there and every other section of Dare were likewise represented.

When the meeting first opened it was an unknown crowd, when it ended there could be no guesswork about how they stood for the lines are more tightly drawn in this county over the Congressional race than they have ever been before. Mr. Aydlett led off being introduced by Howard Grady, Esq. Mr. Aydlett succession and the crowd enjoyed them immensely. Aydlett had told them that if he went to Congress that he would put the country in the League of Nations.

Warren's answer was that if Aydlett went to Congress for 150 years that he would never have a vote on that question. He told the crowd that Aydlett was a great lawyer, and that Aydlett knew that the United States Senate was the treaty making branch of the government and that the Senate alone could vote on that question. He accused Aydlett of trying to reflect on the intelligence of the audience. The crowd then started clapping. Warren then took up the Elizabeth City Independent and W. O. Saunders. He said that he didn't care two cents for the law that had been going on for the last twenty years between these two men. It started, he said, when he was a 15 year old school boy. He said that everybody knew that Saunders and Aydlett had been at each other's throats during that period; that Aydlett had been indicting Saunders, and that Saunders had been getting acquitted. Aydlett had said in his speech that the friends of Warren in the month of March had mailed out copies of the Independent containing the Saunders attack on him, and that in those mailed out copies an endorsement of Aydlett by some of his friends had been left out. He tried to leave the impression with the crowd that Warren was back of this. Aydlett had said that he had written Warren a letter on March 4th about it and that Warren had replied on March 6th disclaiming it. Then came the Warren soaker of the evening. He said that he was utterly surprised at the type of campaign Aydlett was attempting to wage. He said that he thought Aydlett at least had a certain sense of fairness about him. Warren then dramatically produced another letter that he had received from Aydlett dated March 7th, in which Aydlett told him that he was very glad to hear from him, and that his (Warren's) explanation of the matter was entirely satisfactory. He demanded of Aydlett why he had purposely refused to tell the crowd about that letter, and the audience wildly cheered. Then followed the climax of the evening. Warren told them that Aydlett had stood up there and elected on himself by saying that he was going to carry all the counties but three. "How ladies and gentlemen," said the Beaufort county candidate, "I propose to put Mr. Aydlett to the test. I proposed to see just how sincere he is. Mr. Aydlett, said Mr. Warren, "I ask you this question and I demand a yes or no answer. If you and I are the two high men in the primary on June 7th are you willing to agree to abide by the result of the first primary? If a pistol had been fired the scene would have been no different. Aydlett arose to his feet and said he would like an explanation. Warren said that no explanation was necessary, and that he demanded a yes or no answer. Aydlett faltered and hesitated again. Warren again pressed his question yes or no, and then Aydlett said that he was willing. This agreement does not apply if Mr. Mann or Dr. Griffin should either be in the second primary but it does mean that if Aydlett and Warren are the two high men that the first primary will settle the nomination.

The speech of Lindsay C. Warren here Tuesday night will be long remembered in Dare county. It is a case of where a speech will carry a county for him and Dare is safely in the Warren column. One of the most prominent men in the county made a public remark right after the speaking that if the two men could appear together on every platform in the district that Warren would be nominated by ten thousand and majority.

Blinding Headaches

"For about twenty years," says Mr. P. A. Walker, of Newburg, Ky., "one of our family remedies has been Black-Draught, the old reliable. . . . "About eight years ago my wife got down with liver and stomach trouble. . . . We tried all week to help her, . . . but she didn't get any better. She was nauseated and couldn't eat or rest. She began taking Black-Draught and in two days she was greatly improved and in a week she was up."

Mr. W. T. Ward Answers Attack Made on Him by Elizabeth City Paper, The Independent

W. O. SAUNDERS, Editor of The Independent, Elizabeth City, N. C.

Dear Sir:—

In a recent issue of your paper I noticed an article, headed "Warren Finds Liars Help Him," in which my name was used. Decency prompts me to apologize for stooping to answer this defamatory article and an answer is made only because your paper may fall into the hands of those who do not know its policy. It is incomprehensible that your paper, which roosts under Republican wings and has been the mouthpiece of Radicalism, should have the effrontery to print an attack on me, a man who has fought in the front ranks of democracy for over forty years and was fighting in the time when fighting required courage and manhood rather than a poisonous pen. The people of Martin County will tell you that I was fighting to uphold the Democratic Party and White Supremacy while a certain young political trader of this County, who acts as your reporter and is too cowardly to sign his article, was still a helpless babe in his cradle.

It is my unquestionable right to support my friend, Mr. Aydlett, for the nomination. He is the strongest and best man will undoubtedly make the ablest Representative. For what reason, Mr. Editor should your venomous hatred of Mr. Aydlett be visited upon his friends who have in no way injured you? It might not be amiss to remind you here that I do not support your candidate, the Honorable Lindsay Warren, because he has developed into a very formidable rich man's and corporation paid legislative lobbyist.

Can Mr. Warren deny that he was employed by the millionaire Duke of the Southern Power Company, not as a lawyer, but as a paid lobbyist to lobby for a bill in the legislature rendering null and void the Southern Power Company's contract to supply power to North Carolina industries, thereby enabling the Southern Power Company to charge a higher rate for power and that the consequence of his lobbying is that the poorer people of the state have to pay more for power than the cost of production necessitates.

Can Mr. Warren deny that he accepted large sums of money from Moving Picture Trust to lobby against a bill providing for state censorship of moving pictures and that because of this paid lobbying the children of North Carolina are subjected to seeing obscene, immoral and disgraceful pictures that are debarred by censorship in other states; that despite the fact that this bill involved the greatest moral issue that our legislature has had to face in a decade and was supported by the strongest moral forces in the state, the powerful lobby girdling the House and Senate killed this bill, designed to protect the high standards and ideals taught in our schools and churches?

Can Mr. Warren deny that he has served as a professional lobbyist for the banks of the state when they have wanted special legislation to reduce their taxes, while the taxes of the farmers and other constituents whom he represented in Legislature have been steadily increasing?

Can Mr. Warren deny that he was the paid lobbyist of the hotels of the state against a bill designed to protect the health of the travelling public?

Can Mr. Warren deny that he was the bitterest and most uncompromising foe of a bill designed to create a state-owned ship and water transportation system? When fighting this bill did he not know that the freight rates in North Carolina have been increased over a hundred and fifty per cent in the last five years and that the railroads have petitioned for a further increase of forty per cent in Eastern North Carolina? Did he know that the First Congressional District is primarily agricultural and that it is necessary for our hard-worked farmers to obtain some relief from these disastrous freight rates? Did he not know that although the farmers of the First District produce more per acre than the farmers of any other section of the country, their margin of profit from the sale of their produce is less than that of farmers of sections where the freight rates are less exorbitant; that their fertilizers cost them more in that they have to pay for the higher freight rate, that everything they buy from the merchant cost more since the merchant has to pay the higher freight rates? Can Mr. Warren deny that he, along with the railroads, defeated the bill that would have brought relief to the farmer and would have removed the greatest obstacle to the agricultural and industrial development of Eastern North Carolina?

In face of these things your reporter upholds a proved political trader and denounces me on the ground that I make my living buying and selling stock and am an ardent supporter of Mr. Aydlett, a man who would never betray the interest of the people he would represent. Is not a political trader far more dangerous than a "mule trader"? It is the political traders, who through greed and corruption, have involved our Country in the "Teapot Dome" affair and an orgy of scandal and betrayal that will ever besmirch our Country's record.

The author of the same article is profane and prejudiced to the extent of belittling members of the Baptist Church for voting Mr. Aydlett, a benevolent Christian gentleman who has always been interested in church work and who, because of his support of the orphans of this state, deserves the respect of every citizen whether Baptist or not. Must Baptists, because they are Baptists, be denied the right to vote? Is not a man who upholds the Christian Religion best qualified to uphold the standards of our government?

As a matter of common justice kindly favor me by publishing my answer to the attack on me in your paper. If you will not do so, I will pay the regular price for a column of advertising.

Yours truly,
W. T. WARD

Other agricultural products are peanuts, sweet potatoes, corn, etc.

Among its leading industries are cotton and woolen goods, lumber, cotton-seed products, leather, machinery and farm implements. Savannah is a large port. Atlanta is the great distributing center.

THE CLASS OF 1924

Now that the ceremony is over they are the same and still are different. The world will never know them again just as they were before last night; it is doubtful even if they will ever look on themselves again just as they did before the formal exercises brought a change in their young lives.

A few days ago they were only high school students—seniors, to be sure, with a certain dignity and gravity which differentiated them from undergraduates. Today they are high school graduates. Only last week they were still schoolboys and schoolgirls with lessons to recite and themes to write; they were subject to all the demands made on students, even as freshmen are subjected to such demands.

Then came a series of tests and ordeals; a few days of anxious waiting; some little worrying on the part of some of these candidates for graduation as to whether they had made the grade. Following this they assembled for never-to-be-forgotten commencement exercises in which they were given the final words of cheer and inspiration which turn students into graduates; and then the high school doors closed forever to forty-four young people in this city, and on the very same instant the doors of the wide, wide world opened to them.

The youngest; but not the least important. Older fellow-alumni and alumnae will take an interest in these new recruits as older persons always do in those who are younger. The great world will be curious about this new school generation; there will be watching and waiting to see whether these boys and girls whom the commencement orator has handed over to us are really as clever and bright as their teachers have made them out to be.

It is a great and growing army this army of high school graduates. May the new recruits find joy in bringing credit to its achievements, ever keeping before them the plea of the commencement orator to live daily by the Golden Rule and to "Know Something, Do Something, Be Somebody."

That postoffice official who says the moderns don't write real love letters hasn't attended any divorce trials recently.

Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, was arrested in California for stealing his own horse, but it may have been on the theory that one who will take a horse when there is an automobile handy deserves arrest.

UNITED WE STAND! DIVIDED WE FALL! AWAY WITH BICKERINGS

(Note—Owing to typographical errors in the statistics contained in yesterday's editorial regarding offices held by citizens of the First Congressional District we are reprinting the editorial in its entirety in corrected form:)

Of the fourteen counties in the First Congressional District, Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Chowan, Gates and Hertford are north of the Albemarle Sound. Dare, Tyrrell, Washington, Martin, Hyde, Beaufort and Pitt are south of it.

The Northern group has a population of 78,954.

The Southern group has a population of 127,052.

These 200,000 people have a common heritage, common ideals and aspirations and common interests. They are a great, harmonious, happy family living in peace and brotherly love. To disturb this beautiful relationship by stirring up jealousies between these two great groups of counties would be exceedingly unfortunate. The people do not care on which side of the sound a representative happens to live, just so he is HONEST, CAPABLE and IMPARTIAL.

The hungry office seeker alone is willing to forment discord and engender strife hoping thereby to advance his own selfish interests. "Pie! Give me Pie! even over the bleeding body of Harmony!" he cries.

We have enjoyed Constitutional Government for 145 years. During this period the northern group of counties have had representatives in 44 congresses, senators in 3 congresses covering approximately 88 years.

TWO GOVERNORS, THREE if we include Hon. T. J. Jarvis, a native Currituckian.

TWELVE SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES, covering approximately 50 years.

ONE U. S. SUPREME COURT JUDGE, 9 years.

ONE CHIEF JUSTICE OF NORTH CAROLINA.

ONE DISTRICT FEDERAL JUDGE.

SIXTEEN COUNCILLORS OF STATE.

ONE COMPTROLLER.

ONE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

ONE STATE AUDITOR.

ONE STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

ONE COMMISSIONER OF LABOR AND PRINTING.

FIFTEEN SOLICITORS, covering approximately 60 years.

FOUR SPEAKERS of the House of Representatives, presiding over 22 sessions.

ONE MAN who presided over the Senate for 11 sessions.

ONE U. S. DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND ASSISTANTS AND CLERK.

British Erect Memorial to The Victims of R-38

Hull, England. — The memory of the little band of English and American sailors who were killed when the airship R-38 was destroyed at Hull, will be kept alive by a memorial erected in the western cemetery here by the British air ministry memorial is a pedestal surmounted by an eagle and occupies a plot of ground where six of the victims are buried.

Sir Vyell Vyvyan, air vice-marshal, representing the air ministry at the unveiling, in an address said it was a consolation to know that upon this common sacrifice was founded a bond of sympathy and mutual understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

Captain Hussey, United States naval attaché in London, represented his government and the American ambassador. He paid a tribute to those who died in the disaster, terming them a sacrifice to the future generations to whom aircraft would be a source of strength and protection.

At the conclusion of the ceremony wreaths were placed on the graves of the men by the lord mayor and sheriffs of the Corporation of Hull.

Avoid Using Castor Oil

Nobody likes to give or take castor oil. There is really hardly any need for it since the invention of Liv-o-lax.

And Liv-o-lax fills a double need. It has a marked action on the liver as well as the digestive tract, and so it can be used in cases of bilious attack, and when a cold is coming on, it takes the place of calomel and castor oil. Literally hundreds of mothers have earnestly thanked me for putting this good remedy on the market.

Children love to take Liv-o-lax and it is just as good for the same conditions in adults.

A bottle of Liv-o-lax costs but 30c at any drug store.

DAILY COTTON LETTER
 New Orleans, May 31.—The week-end finds tendency of market upward owing to the continuance of unfavorable weather in the interior, more rain in Texas, and in scattered districts of other sections of the belt, with the temperature below normal in the upper part of the cotton region, which is considered unfavorable for progress of the new crop.

Private advices from the Texas coast region and from the lower Rio Grande section of Southwest Texas are to effect that the rains are delaying cultivation and making plant growth at the expense of fruit that the plant in those sections is growing too fast, not fruiting well and unless dry, hot weather is had soon, there will be little new crop cotton in July and not much in August, in these early producing districts of Texas.

As yet the weather outlook for the cotton region remains generally unsettled, probably local showers in most sections with no decided change in the temperature.

Returns to the New Orleans Times Picayune as of May 25th average the condition of cotton at 66.3 point to an average increase in the acreage about 4.3 per cent, indicating a crop exclusive of linters of about 11,150,000 bales.

The further rains had since 25th instant have created the impression that the growing crop has deteriorated somewhat meanwhile and whatever the Government condition figures next Monday may be, the average condition of the plant today is probably somewhat lower than the bureau report will show for May 25th.

As stated in our previous reviews, the trade is expecting the government report to show a condition of about 67 or about the same average of private returns which would compare with 71 last year and the ten year average of 72.8.

However, if the Bureau on Monday next is 68 or higher, market is likely to decline temporarily, perhaps advance if 66 or lower, whereas a condition of 67 would hardly affect values very much unless the weather outlook on Monday remains unfavorable.

If the market declines, buying on the dip may be advisable especially if unfavorable weather continues, as next Wednesday weekly is apt to be rather bullish. The New Orleans Cotton Exchange will be closed Tuesday June 3rd, Confederate Memorial Day in Louisiana, a legal holiday in New Orleans.

SCHOOL CLOSES RECORD YEAR

W. Perrin: "Know something, do something and be somebody, keeping ever before you the divine principles of the Golden Rule" was the charge that Mr. Perrin delivered to members of the high school graduating class.

Beginning with the philosopher's definition of man, then clearly setting forth the periods of responsibility in life the speaker compared it with the building of a great temple first the laying of the foundation, followed by erection of the building itself and finally the furnishing of the equipment needed to make the edifice complete.

In part the speaker said: "When you young men and young women first came into this world you were endowed with a mother's love. It was upon her that rested the first responsibility and it was she who laid the foundation and the first stone of the human temple which you were to become. Throughout your early life you were surrounded by her love and tenderness and it was there that the moulding of your characters began.

"As you grew older, although you were still watched over by that dear mother, the responsibility shifted to those teachers who had been entrusted with adding the frame work of education to develop the temple.

"They have completed their task and now the responsibility shifts to you and, until the end of your days, you are responsible for your actions and achievements.

"The first charge I give you is to know something. Know thyself and go forward. Know the needs of your community, your state and your nation and above all the needs of mankind. Develop within you that temple which is inaccessible save to yourself and Him. Strive ever to live by the divine principles of the ancient but proven Golden Rule and though at times the outer walls of your human temple may be scarred and battered the inner temple or foundation upon which your life is built will be able to withstand the attack and your structure will not fall."

The speaker at this juncture referred briefly to the world conflict that ended six years ago and the idealism of our great War President whose dream it was to make the world a better place to live in by putting into practice throughout all nations the Golden Rule, and how antagonistic politics had made impossible the realization of this dream. "At this time," he added, "out of the sixty two nations in the world fifty-two are members of the League of Nations and among those still on the outside are the United States, Russia, Germany, Turkey and several minor nations." Such a condition should not be allowed to exist, he declared, and he enjoined upon these future citizens the duty of carrying forward the work toward the day when nations will war no more.

He also touched upon the fact that the United States is being used as a dumping ground for foreign undesirable. He stated that in New York the population was 85 per cent of foreign birth or foreign parentage while in the south there was only about five per cent foreign population. What is left of the real Anglo-Saxon race is the southland, he said, and it is up to us to stand as a bulwark against this encroachment of Bolshevism and Communism on civilization.

"As you go from these portals" he continued, "trap after trap awaits you. Ever remember the foundation upon which your temple is built and realizing that there is a definite part for you to play and that you have a duty to civilization, do your part and manfully fight your way and you need hold no worry as to what the future holds for you. Each of you may possibly follow different vocations but remember whether high or low it is worthy and let your life elevate and honor the position which you hold. Be dreamers of dreams, have your ideals and strive always to achieve them. Every boy and girl is endowed with a talent and I charge you to be faithful to your trust so that in the end you may reap your reward.

In conclusion the speaker painted a verbal picture of the sun as it rises at the beginning of the day, travels across the canopy of Heaven shedding its light and warmth upon the world bringing comfort and happiness to all God's creatures and finally at the close of the day descends with majestic glow beyond the horizon. Comparing each life, through its span of years, to the journey of the sun he urged each to so live that daily his or her sunshine would bring comfort and happiness to God's creatures so that when they reach the end of their earthly day it will be as the glory of the setting sun and the work that they have done will live after them.

Following the speech of Mr. Perrin Mr. Little, assisted by Mr. Davis, principal of the High School, presented diplomas to the following:

Bessie Louise Albritton, Robert Bruce Arthur, Katherine Elizabeth Bost, Devie Virginia Burnette, Mary Moye Carper, Dorothy Vernon Currie, Walter Sutton Dail, Jr., Edna Davenport, Clifton Hardy Duke, Jr., Bertha Elizabeth Evans, Louise Evans, Henry Pridgen Fleming, Mary Jeannette Forbes, Maud Flou, Fulford, Jane Forbes Hadley, Lucy Marie Hardee, Maybelle Harris, Martha Elizabeth Holton, Leslie M. The list of awards was announced by the superintendent. This list was the longest that has ever been presented at any of the Greenville School finals. The Woman's Club prize of $10 in gold to that member of the graduating class making the highest average was awarded to Henry Fleming, whose average for the year was 95.6, Marie Hardee came second with an average of 92.5. Walter Dail and Clifton Duke made the remarkable record of not being tardy a single time in 11 years. Clifton Duke was neither absent nor tardy for the four years of high school.

Mr. Davis then announced the winner of the John Edwin Scoville Memorial cups. The cup for boys was awarded to Norman Winslow, and the cup for girls was given to Jane Hadley.

Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Rose here took occasion to thank the people of Greenville and the school board of Greenville for the loyal support and genuine co-operation given the schools throughout the year.

Following this the audience stood immovably while the band played the National Anthem, and then as a tribute to the dead of American Sons who died in the recent war, the audience stood silent while the bugle sounded taps, or the soldiers Good-night.

that he hoped the postal employees did not try to carry all of these orders in their heads, declaring this to be impossible.

He gave a word of encouragement to the distributors of mail insisting that they should not make material things their goal but that they should seek to be of service for which they would be rewarded, using as a quotation "For What Profiteth it a Man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul"

After Mr. Cook's excellent message the meeting adjourned for dinner which was spread on the Seminary campus, and was much enjoyed.

The meeting reconvened for a business session after dinner and the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year: Walter Buck, Ayden, President; A. J. Turnage, Fountain, vice-president; F. D. Turnage, Fountain, secretary-treasurer; executive committee: W. R. Hardison, Stokes; J. R. Johnson, Winterville; H. C. Tyson, Farmville; Chaplain: O. H. Jackson, Winterville.

The retiring officers are O. H. Jackson, president and Jacob McCotter, secretary-treasurer.

Rev. James E. W. Cook, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Greenville, delivered a most interesting address. Mr. Cook stated that the 300,000 postal employees of the 50,000 postoffices of the country were doing a wonderful work in disseminating information to the citizens of the country. He declared that this would be a terrible place in which to live if there were no postal workers; that he had never heard of a postal employee being a traitor to his country but that he could not say this much for the preachers, that during the war some ministers were known to have given information to the enemy. He said that the postal employees were one of the greatest armies that functioned during the war, that they distributed literature, etc., to aid in selling liberty bonds, war savings stamps and performed other duties which was of great assistance in winning the world war, and that they were also rendering a valuable service in enlightening the world. That the darkest cloud which overhangs the nation is the fact that seven million people in this country could not read and write the English language, two million of which are unfamiliar with any tongue, even their native language. He spoke of the recent Japanese exclusion act and said that he thought this the right course, declaring that he favored entire immigration exclusion for the next ten years so that the foreigners we now have in this country could be educated since the illiteracy among them was so appalling and breeds anarchy and bolshevism.

He referred to the recent oil scandal in Washington, but declared that the postal service was freer from graft and scandal than any other of the governmental departments.

The speaker mentioned the fact that various orders were issued from the postoffice department and said

Everyone remembers and loves Tarkington's "Penrod" stories, his "Clarence," "The Flirt," "Alice Adams," "Conquest of Canaan," etc.

Then again, Alfred Green directed "Pied Piper Malone." As the title graphically promises, it is a story of Tom and a flock of lovable children. No one will soon forget "The Bachelor Daddy," which Mr. Green also directed. He also made "Our Leading Citizen," "Back Home and Broke," "The Ne'er-Do-Well" and "Woman-Proof."

I am a Candidate For Sheriff of Pitt County

In offering myself to the voters as a candidate for Sheriff, I realize the fact that I am a comparatively young man, and not so well known throughout the county as the other candidates. I have permission and am pleased to refer to the gentlemen whose names appear below as to my moral character and fitness for the office.

The office of Sheriff at this particular time is a highly important one. The law gives the Sheriff an exceptional power to enforce the law, and, if conscientiously and diligently employed, the Sheriff can put down much of lawlessness and prevent crime. If elected, I shall faithfully discharge the duties to the best of my ability with all the power vested in me.
