AMERICAN LEGION ELECTS DELEGATES STATE CONVENTION

W. H. Rogers, F. J. Diener and L. G. Congleton Hosts to Legion Post at Dinner Last Night

Messrs. W. H. Rogers, E. J. Diener and L. G. Congleton were hosts to the Pitt County Post American Legion at a delightful dinner at the Rotary Club last night.

Following the dinner the regular business meeting was held at which time there was discussion of workings of the legion and election of delegates and alternates from the post to the State Convention of the American Legion to be held in Asheville September 1-2.

The post has on hand a supply of application forms for adjusted compensation to be distributed to ex-service men who desire them. Miss Moxley, executive secretary of the American Red Cross, here, who was a guest at last night's meeting stated that she would be glad to assist any ex-service men in looking up their records and filing their claims. These application blanks may also be obtained from the local post office.

Owing to the absence of the committee chairman there was no report as to the arrangements for the celebration to be staged here by the legion on November 11. It is the hope of the post to make this the biggest celebration of its kind ever held in the county.

The delegates and alternates elected to the state convention were: Delegates, W. H. Rogers, J. C. Lanier, D. L. Turnage, D. C. Moore; Alternates, S. O. Worthington, J. L. Evans, K. B. Pace and L. G. Congleton.

Emile Rose Knox To Render Splendid Program at College

The program to be given by Emile Rose Knox at East Carolina Teachers College on Thursday evening at 8:30 will have numbers so different that all in the audience will be pleased. The Wilmington Star in commenting on her recent recital given in Wilmington says: "Miss Knox from her wonderful violin drew music that at one time was fairly wild with enthusiasm and fire, then calm and composed, then dainty to the point of rapture."

"At her every appearance both in and out of the state critics as well as the public have recognized that Emile Rose Knox is a genuine artist with the power to thrill and satisfy vast audiences with the brilliance of her playing and the beauty of her tone."

The public is invited by the college to share the enjoyment of the recital tomorrow evening.

Real Dog Show To Be Staged At State Fair This Fall

Raleigh, July 16.—A real dog show for the State Fair here this fall is promised by General Manager E. V. Walborn, who has completed arrangements for a comprehensive exhibition with the Central Carolina Field and Kennel Club.

Efforts to have a dog show at the State Fair have been made for several years past, but the difficulty has been in getting it organized on a solid basis. This difficulty, it is believed, has been obviated and dog enthusiasts from all over the state are expected to take part.

The Central Carolina Field and Kennel Club has been incorporated under the laws of the State of North Carolina with the following officers: President, E. Guy Robertson; first vice president, Clyde Hornaday; second vice president, Will D. Briggs; secretary-treasurer, Dr. W. T. Scarborough.

The executive committee is composed of the officers and Dr. Lewis Pegram, Raffley Galloway, and Penn Marshall. The club has its headquarters in Raleigh, and already has an enthusiastic membership of dog lovers.

Motor Convoys To State Convention

Kinston, July 16.—Motor convoys on a plan such as will bring back memories, some fond some sad, to the veterans of the World War will be used to carry the members of the American Legion of Eastern Carolina to Asheville to attend the state convention there on September 1 and 2, according to the plans that are now being arranged by the leading posts of this section of the state. Each post will go in a group and several thousand ex-service men, it was said, are expected to go to Asheville from this section. The transports, it is said, will have a regular commander and subordinate officers and the advance upon the mountain city will be carried out as though marching into Paris after conquering the Hindenburg Line.

BRITISH TRADE UNIONS SCORED AS OBSOLETE BY THE MINER LEADER

London.—The trade union movement of Great Britain needs overhaul, says A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, writing in Labor Monthly. Mr. Cook says there are many unions but very little unity, and the present form of organization in this country has become obsolete. The last Trades Union Congress at Plymouth was an exhibition of tribal chiefs fighting to retain the confidence of their tribes. Mr. Cook expresses the belief that there must be real live international organization, instead of a mere meeting of people congratulating one another and passing pious resolutions.

AMERICAN FLIERS REACH ENGLAND

"We Are All Well and Feeling Fine," Said Flight Commander When Greeted Upon Arrival at Croydon

Croydon, England, July 16.—The American Army airmen on their world flight landed here at 2:08 this afternoon. A crowd had gathered at the aerodrome here long before the scheduled time for the arrival of the airmen. Officers of the British air ministry and attaches of the American Embassy were also on hand.

The three machines taxied easily into Croydon aerodrome after an uneventful flight across the channel from Paris. The aviators made the distance between Le Bourget and Croydon estimated 225 miles in three hours and three minutes.

Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, flight commander, was the first to land and the first one to greet the American airmen was Mrs. Stuart MacLaren, wife of the British world flier, who asked news of her husband who is now in the far east.

"I am sorry we missed him but glad that we could help him," replied Smith referring to the new machine which American Expeditionary Forces were able to supply the British aviator in India last month.

As the three planes swept up the field, the crowd increased from a score or more to several hundred, burst out in loud applause and hurried to clasp hands with the airmen and have them write something in autographic albums, on backs of envelopes or on anything else handy. "We are all well and feeling fine," Lieutenant Smith said.

CONFERENCE ON REPARATION PLAN OPENS IN LONDON

Inter - Allied Conference to Put Dawes Plan Into Effect Begins Sessions Today; America Represented

London, July 16.—American co-operation for putting the Dawes plan into effect to set Germany on her feet and stabilize Europe's economic situation, was emphasized at the opening here today of the Inter-Allied Reparations Conference with the English Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald and Edouard Herriot, head of the new French government, the leading figures.

At the conference table with the delegates sat two American representatives, Frank B. Kellogg, American Ambassador to Great Britain, and Colonel James A. Logan, Jr., American observer with the reparations commission.

Premier MacDonald in his opening remarks made special reference to the presence of the two Americans who, although not full delegates, indicated by their presence the good will of the United States and that it would co-operate in the effort to give effectiveness to the Dawes plan.

Ambassador Kellogg, in reply, declared that the Americans were present in the same spirit of co-operation and held as the allied delegates and that the American people believed that if the Dawes plan was made effective it would be the first notable step toward European stabilization.

After Premier MacDonald was chosen chairman of the conference and committees appointed the conference adjourned until tomorrow.

REVOLT IN BRAZIL MORE SERIOUS THAN AT FIRST BELIEVED

Rigid Censorship by Government Prevents Authentic News As to Situation

Buenos Aires, July 16.—A wire less message received from the German steamer General Belgrano, today said that the ship had received a radio communication from the Brazilian Foreign Office denying the reports broadcast Monday by the British steamer Andes stating that the Sao Paulo insurrection had been advanced to within eight miles of Santos.

Rigid censorship by the Brazilian government has prevented any authentic news coming out of the country recently regarding the revolutionary situation at Sao Paulo. Much concern is felt there and it is feared in some quarters that the revolution is more serious than at first believed.

14TH CENTURY GERMAN CHAPEL CONVERTED INTO WAR MEMORIAL

Munich, Germany.—First a chapel, then a sheep barn, and now a soldiers' monument, such is the fortune of an ancient structure in the little town of Dinkelsbuehl, northern Bavaria.

In 1371, the then free imperial city of Dinkelsbuehl erected a Gothic chapel for divine worship. But while the town has carefully preserved its medieval walls and other ancient buildings, it allowed the chapel to deteriorate. The flocks of faithful worshippers gave place to flocks of sheep.

After the world war the burghers of Dinkelsbuehl cast about for a fitting memorial to the heroes of the community who had fallen on the field of battle. Then someone remembered the dilapidated chapel-barn. It was cleaned, renovated, and its interior converted into a memorial hall. A tablet on one of the walls bears the names of the victims of the war.

THREE SUSPECTS IN M'LEARY CASE RELEASED TODAY

Search for Missing Officer Shifts to Hunt for Two Men Who Abandoned Auto Near Canton

Canton, July 16.—Three suspects arrested last night and this morning in connection with the search for two mystery men who drove the car of Major Samuel H. McLeary, missing army officer, into the Thickety section near here on July 3 and later abandoned the car together with the personal effects of the major, have been released by local authorities following inability of Mrs. Luther Hall to identify them. Two of the men were picked up by Chief of Police H. A. Sumner last night. They were strangers and said they were en route to Tennessee. They were taken to the home of Mrs. Luther Hall and the latter was certain that neither had stopped at her home late in the evening of July 3 for water used to wash their hands and fill the auto radiator. The third man, suspected was J. B. King, employee of the Champion Fibre Mills here, was also released when Mrs. Hall said she was certain he was not one of the pair.

Not a trace of the two men has been picked up since they abandoned Major McLeary's touring car after they had driven the front wheels over an embankment. Their futile attempt to drive across Crabtree mountain is believed to have been a frantic effort to get out of the mountains with the car. Yet had they succeeded in making the summit of the mountain they would have found themselves in a region of impassable roads approaching the mountain wilds of the Tennessee border. Officers are perplexed at the fact that no one saw the two men. They may have walked into Canton, three miles from where the car was abandoned, but if they took the tire and battery from the abandoned auto it is contended they must have entered another automobile.

J. S. Ainsworth, cousin of the missing officer, and Miss Bonnie McLeary, his sister, are here participating in the search for possible clues. Searchers have tramped the section but have found no clue to explain the disappearance of the officer. Ainsworth and Miss McLeary have positively identified the personal effects and suitcases found as the property of McLeary.

MOVEMENT AND THE PRESS

In the United States, more than in any country of the world, there has been made evident the power of the press for the advancement of specific causes. One publication, for instance, has made better health for babies its special endeavor; another has sponsored the collection of funds for suffering peoples of the Near East. It is a well-known fact, also, that the cost of erecting the statue of Liberty in New York Harbor was covered by contributions from the American people collected through the efforts of the New York World.

It is true that the managements of the publishing houses of such periodicals do not suffer by sponsoring a cause; it serves the purpose of giving their magazines and newspapers a distinct function and in course of time a reputation of which they may well be proud. But this is a secondary advantage affecting but comparatively few persons.

The American people should be proud of this unique feature in their magazines and newspapers. It is distinctly their own idea, since each venture has started with one or two individuals, and the support which readers and subscribers give to these various causes shows that this sort of leadership is a kind which they are ready to follow. In years to come, the press and people alike will realize more and more the possibilities of initiating other new movements making for the progress of mankind.

Ruskin had a characteristic theory regarding the degree of ornamentation on a building. The first requirement was that the decoration should be honest. No hidden, uncarved corners, continuing an open finely executed piece of work, could escape his severe censure. "It is not well," he said, "that the ornament should cease in the parts concealed; credit is given for it, and it should not be deceptively withdrawn."

The application of this theory to the lives of men and women in public life is coming to be inevitable. Whether their career lies in administrative office, or the moving picture screen, or whatnot, they cannot escape this severe scrutiny of the public judgment. Once the intimate side of a person's life, the side turned to his family and his intimate friends, is neglected, is allowed to grow selfish and careless, men begin to distrust the validity of the outer life. More and more the public requires worth of character now, as well as of talent.

Sincerity must be the keynote of daily living, as well as of architecture, to bring about successful and beautiful results.

WHY MAN DOES IT

Why do men persist in wearing coats in torrid weather? What became of the shirt sleeve style that was being boomed before the war? No matter how wide the agitation or the discussion of the abolition of the coat, man comes back to it and offers no explanation. Is he such a slave to custom, to fashion, that he cannot bear to be different? Yet he is all the time harping on woman's slavery to the mode.

An Indianapolis man offers what may be the real answer to this clinging to the coat. Everybody knows the mystery of the contents of the small boy's pockets. This Hoosier suggests that man never outgrows that habit and that he sticks to his coat simply because he has to have pockets to carry all the junk he thinks he can with him. Woman has handbags that carry the few articles that she deems essential. Can anyone imagine a man going around with a handbag over his arm? He'd rather swelter and melt in a coat and have the pockets.

He laughs at scars who never tries to pass another car at a curve.

True Americanism consists in feeling a little bit timid in the presence of a cop.

These critics who say there is no culture in America might associate with a better class if they would stop knocking.

The cigar smoked by that fellow who just left indicates that the society for the suppression of tobacco is making headway.

Another item of cost is that of supplying the friend who doesn't carry them in his pocket because he is trying to quit smoking.

The Brazilian rebel chief having been reported captured presumably he'll be handled a la Mexico.

Scientists who predict another ice age probably feel that July is the safest time to announce such a belief.

At Deauville men are going sockless under the impression, probably, that they are introducing a new fad when Jerry Simpson established the style more than 30 years ago.

Wasps imported from France are being loosed in Northern Ohio in campaign against the corn borers. Presumably the wasps will administer a stinging rebuke to the corn pests.

Breeding Yakalos May Augment Meat Supply

Wainwright, Alta.—A new breed of livestock which may have a bearing on the future meat supply, has been developed in the national park here by crossing buffaloes with yaks. Superintendent A. G. Smith says the stock has heavy beef qualities combined with a good rustling nature.

The breed has been given the name "yakalor," which Mr. Smith believes will prove more practical than "cutalo," evolved several years ago by crossing buffaloes with domestic cattle. "Yakalors" breed true to type, are sturdy and able to forage for themselves, he said.

More than 1,500 buffalo calves were born this year in Wainwright park, which makes up for the excess sires killed last winter. The herd now numbers 6,000 full grown buffaloes, the largest in existence and one of the remnants of the millions of bison that once doomed western prairies, according to Mr. Smith.

IDLE FEMININE TALK BLAMED FOR POOR TELEPHONE SERVICE

Tokio, Japan.—Feminine garrulity is one reason for the inefficiency of the Tokio telephone service, according to an apollgia issued recently by the municipal telephone bureau.

The statement says that a large proportion of all calls are by women to women, and moreover when two women are talking much of their conversation is idle. To prove its point the telephone bureau issued detailed statistics, the manner of compiling which it does not explain, to show how much time is wasted in various classes of telephone conversations.

When a woman is talking to a woman, it is claimed, 26.4 percent of the talk is idle and unnecessary; when a woman calls a man, the waste is 13.8 percent; when a man calls a woman, it is only 9.7 percent; when two men talk, 10.6 percent.

MINISTER CALLS 'IF WINTER COMES' GREATEST FILM

Rev. E. B. Wyllie of Ottawa Says Mark Sabre Is Finest Character of the Screen.

Ottawa.—In a sermon that was unusual in Ottawa pulpits, the Rev. E. B. Wyllie, M. A., reviewed the popular novel and motion picture, "If Winter Comes," by A. S. M. Hutchinson, at Erskine Church last night before a large gathering. He described the book as a story with a great moral, or a pure character study, and the motion picture of the story as one of the greatest the industry has produced.

Dr. Wyllie's summing up of the central character of the story was that in Mark Sabre the author had created a Christ-like character as could be conceived in modern life. He said that if Christ were living on earth today he would be regarded as a futile, simple fanatic, much the same as modern criticism considered the central character in "If Winter Comes."

Speaking of the picture, Dr. Wyllie said it left a gripping impression which the book did not leave. The personality of Mark Sabre's wife he described as a representation of the "smug, respectable, twentieth century church woman, lacking the spirit of love and sympathy taught by Christ."

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

SAFETY ALWAYS PAYS

Automobiles are used more in the United States than in any other country in the world because they cost less here, gasoline is cheaper, roads are better and taxation is lighter. A third of all the cars are on farms and in towns of less than 1,000. Only nine per cent are in cities of more than 500,000 and yet those cities have traffic problems which are becoming increasingly troublesome.

The commonest type of accident today is where a motorist hits a pedestrian and yet the fact is that in most cases, the pedestrian is guilty of the traffic violation. All of which teaches the motorist that he cannot assume that the motorist will observe the law.

He said that men who were God-touched, like the character of Sabre in the book, were "the saviors of the world and in them faith in humanity was vindicated."

WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROP GOVERNMENT REPORT

Washington, July 16.—Summary of weather and crop conditions in the cotton region for the week ended Tuesday, July 15, 1924:

Seasonable temperatures favorable for cotton generally, but continued rains in the Eastern portion of the belt very unfavorable in central Northern and Northwestern districts. Progress and condition of cotton in Texas averaged fairly good, early planted fruiting fairly well, crop still backward and irregular and rains now generally needed. Growth of cotton in Oklahoma fair to very good, blooming in Southern portion, few weevil but crop about two weeks late. Local rains favorable in Arkansas, where plants fruiting nicely, but too dry in Louisiana, where progress is poor and some deterioration reported. Growth poor also in Mississippi. Progress mostly fair to very good in Alabama, with blooming to Northern border, though stands are irregular. The growth of cotton is satisfactory in Tennessee, where it is well cultivated. Cotton made very good progress in much of Florida, though getting grassy and there are some complaints of shedding. Generally too much rain fell in Georgia, where cotton made rapid growth at the expense of fruit, considerable complaint of shedding and grassy fields. Decidedly too much rain in the Carolinas and Virginia. Rapid growth at expense of fruit in South Carolina and poor progress or deterioration in much of North Carolina, where fields are grassy and too wet to cultivate. Favorable for cotton in the more western states.

THE WEATHER

Temperatures favorable over belt. More rain reported over Alabama. Nearly one inch in Montgomery district. Light rains general and Western Arkansas, half inch reported in Little Rock district.

Forecast: — Eastern Belt, partly cloudy, probably local thunder showers. Western, partly cloudy except Louisiana. Generally fair.

Cotton.

Corpus Christi wires: The weather over this territory continues favorable. The crop in Nueces county is estimated at around 5,000 bales against 93,000 last season. Picking will commence the first of next week. In the Rio Grande valley the movement of cotton will be under good headway by the last of the week.

Lowell, Mass wires: Three largest cotton mills here re-opened after shut downs of from ten days to two weeks.

New Bedford, Mass., wires: Better demand for new crop spots. Certificated stock at New Orleans 12,454 bales.

Austin Texas: Texts crop has steadily improved since June 25th. Saw acres of cotton yesterday in Hayes, Caldwell and Guadalupe counties with 3 to 12 grown bolls, a fine color and fruiting every day. Honey Dew is causing some shedding but this is only local. Some isolated spots are infested with flea but there are no weevil or worms. Think government report of July 1th this year will show fully as good as June 25th last year, which showed condition of 77. If we get a few more days of favorable weather for Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, it will not be a question of how much we are going to make, but how much we can gather."

DAILY COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, July 16.—Our market was unchanged this morning on the opening, although Liverpool was three better than due on July and seven better on October, spots were 13 lower however, with sales 5,000 of which 4,000 were American. The market remained more or less quiet, the first hour awaiting the weekly weather report which by the way will be the last one until the government report is released next Monday and much stress will be laid upon it as it covers practically the time up to which the report will be based on.

The report as a whole was construed as more or less bullish as there was too much moisture in the eastern belt, where the third consecutive week of rainy and cloudy weather has prevailed while moisture was needed in the west gulf section. As a rule conditions were favorable in North central sections and fair in northwest portions of the belt, but in Texas, while progress was fair and early planted cotton was fruiting at the crop remained backward and irregular and shows lack of rain fall.

A report from Jackson Mississippi from a very reliable source, in regard to that state says, to date nothing has happened to seriously impair the hope for a good crop throughout the state and the prevalent feeling is that they will make a good crop and while the plan is smaller than usual, it is more perfectly limbed and has been putting on fruit rapidly, dry weather will rapidly mature the plant and keep down boll weevil damage which has been negligible so far.

Dry goods report shows cotton goods steady with slight increase in business, yarns yet.

Worth Street says jobbers looking for an improved demand from the west owing to the higher prices of grain.

Market advanced early in the forenoon on the high temperatures reported from Texas, 25 stations reporting 100 to 106 degrees there today against 17 yesterday with 100 to 104. The fear of drouth in the western belt was also a considerable factor and continued to advance toward the close due to the higher grain market.

Demands for Long Credit Hamper Trade With Russia

Stockholm.—Requests from Russia for long credit in Sweden, in some cases for periods of three to four years; slow business procedure and severe maintenance of the Soviet foreign trade monopoly, combined with almost insurmountable difficulties in the way of private Russian enterprise, are some of the things encountered by Swedish exporters dealing with Russia under the new trade agreement between the two countries according to a statement given out by the Swedish General Export Association.

Since the exchange of ratifications of the treaty May 1 the deals closed have totalled not more than about 1500,000, involving purchases of such Swedish products as paper, pulp, cream separators, steel plates, and agricultural machinery. Although the Russians have in certain cases asked for three or four years' postponement of payments, no credit of more than six months has so far been granted. The procedure is slow because all negotiations and orders must come through the Russian Trade Delegation in Stockholm, and this body must obtain competitive bids, not only from Swedish firms, but also from abroad.

While private enterprise is permitted in Russia, the Soviet is itself in competition with such business, and the individuals and private firms find their activity severely inspected and heavily burdened with taxes. Swedish firms, therefore, do not at present look for much business with Russia except through the monopoly.

Airplanes Sow Grass Seed.

Miami, Fla. — One of the latest commercial uses of the airplane, which may possibly be perfected to revolutionize certain phases of agriculture, is that of sowing seed by plane, successfully demonstrated in the suburban territory of Miami recently, where 640 acres of land were sown to carpet grass within a period of 20 minutes. For the area sown during the experiment, it was said, it would require two men hand-seeded 30 days.

Here are six reasons why it is so utterly delicious: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges—which gives that delicate and distinctive flavor (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes) which gives the tang; (3) Orange juice; (4) Carbonated water—which gives "zip," sparkle, purity; (5) U.
