Suspected Accomplice In McLeary Murder Arrested

Man Suspected As Frank Harrell Now In Custody

Man Suspected of Being One Implicated by Confession of Mortimer H. King in Killing of Army Officer Arrested at Greenville, S. C.; King Jailed at Columbia Following Inquest

Greenville, South Carolina, July 18.—Suspected of being Frank Harrell, implicated by a confession in connection with the murder of Major Samuel H. McLeary, a young man giving his name as Harold Walker was taken into custody by Greenville police early today.

"I am convinced that the man is Frank Harrell, although he gives his name as Harold Walker, Desk Sergeant Curry stated to newspaper men. The suspect was not interviewed by the reporters as the police wanted to make sure first that he was the man wanted or that he was not the man.

Columbia, S. C., July 18.—Search around Lockhart for Frank Harold, young white man wanted as an alleged accomplice of Mortimer H. King in the slaying of Major Samuel H. McLeary, Coast Artillery officer, went on early today. Meanwhile, King, who is alleged to have implicated himself and his companion in the killing near Cheraw, remained in confinement in the Richard county jail.

The plan to place King in the South Carolina State penitentiary was changed by officers when they reached Columbia. Unable to get in touch with the secretary of Governor McLeod in order to secure permission to place the prisoner in the state prison they turned him over to the warden of Richland county jail.

King, a cotton mill operative who said he had been employed with Harrell at one time at Lockhart, S. C., yesterday led officers to the spot 150 feet from the Raleigh-Columbia highway, to what he said was the remains of the missing army officer. Two bullet holes were found in the skull, one on each side near the temples. The officer slain on July 2nd was identified by scraps of his clothing and his shoes which were intact.

A coroner's jury empanelled shortly after the discovery of the remains returned a verdict that the army officer came to his death from gun shot wounds inflicted by King and "other parties unknown to the jury."

REBELS GETTING BEST OF FIGHTING

Information From Brazil That Revolutionists Seem to Be Getting the Upper Hand

Buenos Aires, July 18.—Trustworthy information received here from Brazil early today indicates that the rebels are getting the upper hand in the fighting around Sao Paulo. It stated that the federal government proposed to operations but military chiefs do not entertain hopes of definite results.

An official bulletin issued by the Rio De Janeiro government at midnight was received by La Macion. It states: "Our troops continue to execute important maneuvers on the entire front trying to provoke decisive action. Our left wing has captured the police barracks situated in Vergueiro street and taken many prisoners. Our right wing has also progressed capturing a number of machine guns and quantities of ammunition."

Commercial associations and mining congress there have voted motions of support to the federal government. According to the reports from other states complete calm prevails.

Unless a political compromise is reached the Brazilian warfare which now has been waged for two weeks between the Sao Paulo revolutionists and federal troops will be long drawn out. This is indicated by information which has filtered past the censor and corroborated by statements of voyagers arriving from Rio, Santos and even Sao Paulo.

Student Makes $70 Profit On A $30 Investment

Red Oak, N. C., July 18.—Seventy dollars profit on a $30 investment in the course of seven months is the record established by Cicero Sears, one of the students of the Red Oak Farm Life School located here, according to the story told of the student's work by Smith Hughes, teacher of agriculture at the school.

According to Mr. Hughes, Cicero Sears invested $30 in a bred sow in December 1923 after joining a pig club which the teacher at the school organized. On March 7 the student had two pigs one month old and weighing 24 pounds and four months later they weighed 130 pounds each.

On July 1 Cicero was offered $70 for the sow and $30 each for the pigs, said Mr. Hughes. This makes gain of $70 net on the investment of $50. The offers were refused. When questioned as why such an offer was refused when it would bring such a profit, Cicero Sears replied:

"I do not care to sell my pigs just now as they are a part of my home project work in vocational agriculture and I want to keep them until after the fair at Rocky Mount. This is my first experience in raising pigs but I have found lots of pleasure in doing the work."

Mr. Herbert Morton, of Wilmington, was here today.

KKK POSTS WARNING TO LAWBREAKERS

Placards Urging Adherence to Law Placed Along the Highways About Wilmington

Wilmington, July 18.—Hooded figures last night placed along the Carolina Beach highway flaming crosses to which were attached placards demanding bootleggers and other violators of the law to correct their actions or be carried into court, according to reports brought to this city by motorists who stated that they saw the hooded figures place the warnings. Under the warning were the letters "K. K. K." said the motorists.

According to the motorists the robed procession suddenly appeared on the highway about 9 o'clock and erected the burning insignia at a cross roads. On placards six feet high, according to the reports were warnings: "Bootleggers clean up or clear out. Obey the law and we are with you. Violate the law and we are all around headed for the courts of justice."

Similar placards are reported to have been placed along Riverside drive. At the bottom of the placards were the words "Do not tear down."

Mr. Will James left today for Wrightsville Beach.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, July 18.—The board of directors of the Order of Railway Conductors have formally endorsed the candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for president according to a statement given out by President L. E. Sheppard today. The vote was almost unanimous, he said.

"While the individual can do as he pleases," Sheppard said, "I believe that the great bulk of the membership will support Senator LaFollette. For the vice presidency the board members favored Senators Howell, Nebraska; Dill, Washington; Shipstead, Minnesota; Wheeler, Montana; Representative Huddleston, Alabama or W. S. Stone, secretary of the Brotherhood of Engineers, Sheppard said.

The candidates on the Democratic and Republican tickets who favor labor, especially the railroad brotherhoods, he added, will continue to receive the support of the conductors.

Federation Will Not Conduct Services In Farmville Sunday

A few days ago the Laymen's Christian Federation received an invitation from the Rotary Club and the Ministerial Association of Farmville to conduct services in Farmville Sunday afternoon.

The invitation was accepted, but since that time it has been learned that another service had been planned to be held on Sunday in Farmville, so the Federation will not conduct their services until Sunday afternoon, August 3rd.

After announcing that they would be in Farmville Sunday the Federation cancelled their service in Arthur. Since the service has been postponed in Farmville, however, services will be held in Arthur as heretofore. The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Attorneys Claim Case of Youths Unprecedented

CHICAGO, July 18.—A line of defense based upon a theory of compound insanity, to which attorneys say there is no precedent in medico-legal history, will be advanced in the trial of Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, according to defense attorneys.

The youths possess an interlocking personality, attorneys say. Reports of alienists and the mental experts who examined the youths show that together they were impelled to the commission of a crime that neither alone could have conceived nor executed.

The jury will be asked to consider the youths as a merged personality with the insanity of each coinciding with the murder impulse indicated.

MARTIN LUTHER'S HANDWRITING BRINGS TOP PRICE AT AUCTION

Berlin.—Martin Luther's handwriting commanded a higher price even than autographs of Goethe and Schiller at an auction of autographs here. A letter addressed to the Elector John of Saxony brought 9,100 marks.

The second highest price, 5,000 marks, was paid for a verified and authenticated letter by Goethe to Merck in the year 1774. Schiller's poem, "Der Alpenjager" (The Alpine Hunter), came third, with 3,000 marks.

A Schopenhauer autograph brought only 500 marks. A number of Schiller and Wieland letters found no bidders. Six pages of Heines' poems were auctioned off at 670 marks.

GOVERNOR SMITH TO STUMP COUNTRY IN BEHALF OF DAVIS

Clem Shaver Is Understood to Have Been Selected to Run Campaign; Davis to Leave for Vacation Tonight

New York, July 18.—George E. Brennan, Democratic leader, of Illinois, said today that John W. Davis had favorably received a suggestion that Governor Smith, of New York, tour the east and middle west in support of the Davis campaign.

New York, July 18.—Campaign organization plans formed the subject of a long conference today between J. W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, and a number of party leaders. Included among them were Thomas Taggart, Indiana; George E. Brennan, Illinois; Norman E. Davis, New York; and Clem L. Shaver, of West Virginia, who is understood to have been selected as campaign manager.

Arriving in New York from his home in Locust Valley, L. L. Mr. Davis found Taggart, Shaver and Davis waiting for him at the home of his friend Frank L. Polk. Brennan joined them soon after Mr. Davis's arrival. It is expected that there will be an announcement of the personnel of the organization before Mr. Davis leaves this evening for Islesboro, Maine, where he will spend a week of ten days in rest and recreation and in preparation of his formal address accepting the nomination.

As now outlined the campaign organization will consist of a central board of strategy with field forces in various sections of the country. Under the general direction of Shaver, who conducted the nominee's pra-convention campaign, plans are being made for a vigorous campaign to be launched immediately after the formal notification ceremonies at Clarkburg, W. Va., early next month.

TO THE CHAIN GANG

Judges in other localities might do well to follow the example of the Asheville Judge who declares that persons convicted of driving automobiles while intoxicated will be given sentences on the chain gang regardless of wealth or social position. Everyone knows that there is no place in the life of today for the drunkard or the reckless driver and to combine the two evils into a drunken driver is a constant menace to the society of civilization. It is to be hoped that in putting the chain gang method of punishment into practice the sentences will be for long enough to afford the public relief at least for a while.

VIOLENCE ALWAYS LOSES

Violence is about the most unpopular thing in the United States today. To attract the animosity of the American public there is no surer way than to resort to force. The public's intolerance of disorder and lawlessness is having a refining effect upon those groups and classes among which might is still right. Industrial strikes are no longer accompanied by property damage because it is no longer countenanced by public opinion. Violence defeated the very purpose of the last strikes defiled by it.

Lynchings, once condoned and abetted by the intelligent South, is now looked upon with disfavor and apprehension even in the farthest South. There is a marked falling off in the number of lynchings and the diminishing number are perpetrated by degenerates and illiterates.

Students of American history and psychology express the doubt that any emergency other than actual invasion of American soil could draw the American people into another war. It is believed by many that conscription will never again be possible in the United States except in the event of war at home.

Our growing national aversion to violence is not the result of fear, lack of patriotism, emasculation or blindness to justice, but to a strengthening conviction that it is unnecessary; that the human mind can gain more than the powder mine; that education is more effective than enforced legislation; that the wheels of justice, which grind slow, grind exceedingly fine.

COMPANIONSHIP

"God, love and money" are given as the "three prime consolations known to man in the difficulty of his life" by Christopher Morley in the July Century magazine. Morley says with all three consolations man is supremely happy, with one of them he is contented and with none of them his life is filled with despair and is empty of all joy.

Every community knows its members who having God ask nothing more from life. With them God is love and money and life itself. There are other men and women who have love and desire nothing more. They obviously give neither thought nor care to God or money. As for the members of the human family who are happy with their "money bags," they appear contented in their work of making and spending money. All three of these groups seem to find life worth the living and are probably seldom heard to complain.

But perhaps there is a fourth consolation unsung by sage Morley, but none the less consoling to man. This fourth consolation is the power to think. There is no greater consolation than the ability to think alone. Relatively few people can tolerate meditating solitude, but many envy those who can. There are men and women who know of no better company than their own thoughts. They are called philosophers and their thoughts and words are eagerly sought after by solitude-fearing people. We will extend Morley's prime consolations to include "thought."

Consoling ourselves with thought don't we finally find that all four consolations are but symbols of something else—companionship? Why does man turn to God, love money or his thoughts but for company? Isn't it a fact in the final analysis that man's one consolation is society, not necessarily of people, but of something? Some then will find consolation in God, others in love, others in money and still others in their thoughts but all in the companionship thus offered to them.

A philosopher is one who gets what he wants in this world by wanting less.

HARVARD EXPEDITION GETS SPECIMENS OF ANCIENT CHINESE ART

Cambridge, Mass.—Manuscripts 2,000 years old, some of them in Sanskrit, original holy books of the Buddhist faith, a beautiful bronze mirror, and specimens of sculpture more than ten centuries old, are among the archaeological exhibits brought here by Langdon Warner, fellow for research in Asia, of Harvard University. Mr. Warner has completed a tour which started a year ago through Western China.

The trip, in which special search was made for traces of early Buddhist influences, carried the expedition along the ancient trade route to India and north to the Gobi desert to an old city, now in ruins, at which Marco Polo outfitted, six centuries ago, for his 46-day journey to the Great Khan's capital, Karakorum.

At the ancient city, which Polo called Edsina, neither vegetable nor animal life is now possible. The canals, with which the expedition proceeded, were halted eight miles in the rear and were used to haul water to the excavating party.

The desert has advanced its frontiers, Mr. Warner said, and has surrounded the city, of which the walls still stand, their sun-baked bricks etched and worn by the blowing sand, but with the gateways, curtain walls and bastions still plainly discernible. Fine specimens of stucco sculpture, the bronze mirror and other finds were dug from the ruins.

Mr. Warner went in search of relics of the development of art in China, which followed the visits of the earliest of Indian traders. He endeavored to collect all available specimens of the early art surviving the centuries and to learn more of its early development.

Some of the manuscripts that were brought back are believed to be original holy books of the Buddhist faith. Some are long paper scrolls in Sanskrit, brought from India, some are copies of these, made in transit and some are translations into early Chinese or Turki made by Central Asian converts. Their age is estimated to be about 2,000 years.

What he termed the prize of the entire collection is a statue of the ninth century unearthed in Western China, not a Buddha, but one of the attendant gods.

Mr. Warner told of discovering behind a small temple, high on the face of a cliff, a cave-chapel whose walls were literally covered with Buddhist figures, of a very early period, carved in the living rock. It is estimated that the carvings date back to 350 A. D. He told also of examining a Ho-nan, on the border of Turkestan, some excellent specimens of wall painting.

The rare treasures-brought back will go to the Fogg Museum and the archaeological exhibits to the Peabody Museum.

Uncomfortable Riding For Some

to work being done by the state, counties are bonding themselves and spending millions of dollars yearly in order to expedite construction of the roads.

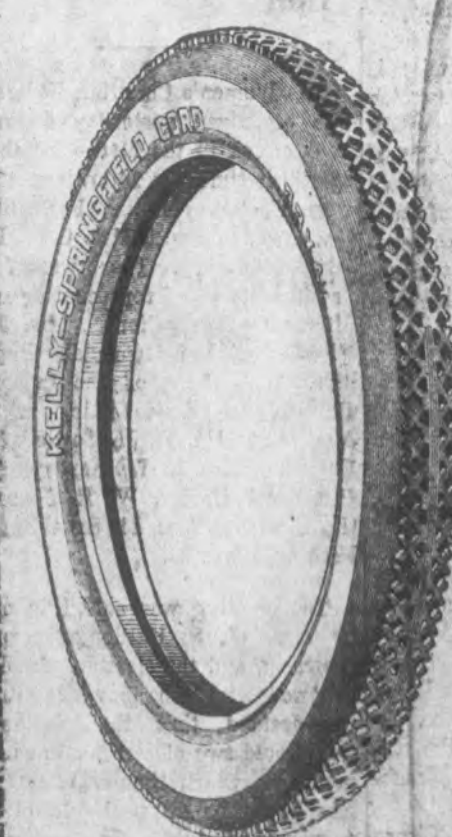

The state road department has only about $4,500,000 a year to operate on, in addition to labor of a thousand or more state convicts who are assigned to road-building work, but is going ahead with its program constructing highways that cost from $20,000 to $40,000 for the hard-surfaced type, and around $2,000 a mile for sand-clay surface.

The system provides for a road into Florida from Waycross, Georgia, extending along the east coast to Miami that will eventually extend to Key West when the contemplated Overseas Highway is completed; two roads through the central part of the state from north to south; one across the northern border from Jacksonville to Pensacola, and a number of others crossing the peninsula and western wing at different intervals. Another, the Tamiami trail, extending along the west coast from Tampa through the Everglades to Miami, is also under construction.

"Tanlac has done me such a world of good that I never fail to speak up for it wherever I go," is the appreciative statement of G. F. Frady, 29 Summit St., Biltmore, N. C.

"Three bottles of Tanlac put me back in fine condition and I stayed in tip top shape until recently when I began to feel somewhat run-down again. So now I am back on Tanlac, taking the Vegetable Pills along with the tonic, and am getting fine results. You certainly can count on Tanlac doing the work."

He Believes in Love At First Sight

Is there such a thing as love at first sight? Thousands of words have been written on the subject. Just as many have been used to prove that it is a natural phenomenon as to prove that the theory is mere bald-erdash. But numberless lovers have declared that love often does come during the first meeting, and who should know better than they? To define it, however, is another matter. A lover questioned on the subject will smile and say "Well, it's rather hard to explain." He will admit, however, that it's "a certain indefinable something"—accompanying the meeting of eyes—that sets the pulses racing and the heart pounding. That is probably what Ralph Hartsook would have said if he had to give his opinion on the subject, and he ought to know as well as the next one for did he not experience that wonderful instant when he felt the girl he saw for the first time was for him?

Ralph had no friends when he came to the Flat Creek District of Indiana to teach school. In accordance with the custom of the time, he was to "broad around" at the homes of the people who had child of school age. At the first home he came to, was Hannah Thompson, "bound out" as a servant. Ralph looked at Hannah and Hannah looked at Ralph. The miracle, the unexplainable, took place and both caught their breath at the wonder of it.

This charming love story is delightfully portrayed in Edward Eggleston's famous novel "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" which Whitman Bennett has brought to the screen. Henry Hall and Jane Thomas are seen as the lovers and they make "love at first sight" seem a very real phenomenon indeed.

Still Fishing at 101.

Clarion, Pa.—Clarion county assessors usually list men of advanced age as "invalids" but when William Krator, of St. Petersburg, aged 101, was granted a fishing license the assessor decided a change in the man's status was necessary. The society aims to acquaint the growing generation with masterworks of German culture. This year's program includes Schiller's "Wallenstein" trilogy, Goethe's "Egmont," and Wagner's "Tannhauser" and "Meistersinger." This year 6,000 young people applied for permission to witness the plays.

Miss Knox Delights Large Audience In Violin Recital

Miss Emilie Rose Knox in her violin recital at East Carolina Teachers College last night surpassed herself in her marvelous playing. She added to the enviable reputation she has made as an artist and showed her advanced greatly since her appearance here a year ago. She played beautifully every number on the program. Her tone quality, her technique, and her sympathetic interpretation of every number as well as her sureness of attack and ease of manner proved her the seasoned professional at home on any stage.

The range of her program gave opportunity for various moods and style and satisfied the variety of tastes of those in the audiences. Some preferred the beauty and richness of Beethoven's "Minuet in G," others loved best the melody of Kreisler's "Old Irish Love Song" or the "Old Refrain" of the delicacy of the "Spinning Song" by Popper, the dreaminess of "The Swan" by Saint-Saens, the lit of the "Caprice Viennois," by Kreisler, or the swing of Gardner's "From the Canebrake," or the sparkling "Chinese Tambourine." The opening "Hungarian Dance" by Brahms, seemed to get the large audience into a mood of enjoyment.

The only about an hour long, all too short, it seemed.

The music lovers were delighted that she gave us encores Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Meditation" from Moscut's "Thais." She closed with the popular air "Marchetta."

Miss Bertolet's accompaniments were a fit setting for the violin. She followed every mood of each number, contributing greatly to the success of the program.

Miss Knox will leave in the fall for Europe to spend two years in study. The people of Greenville will follow with great pride her career as an artist and will always welcome her return engagement.

MARKET GOSSIP
Our market opened 20 to 35 points lower on account of poor cables from Liverpool. Liverpool came lower than due but recovered some of its loss before the close. Weather reports from Western Belt indicate that there is a possibility of the drought being broken over the week end, in which event we look for much lower market Monday. The market is being held up by the tightening of the July cotton in New York.

SLEEPING ON RAILWAY TRACKS INTERRUPTS THE TRAFFIC IN KOREA

Seoul.—Korean unfamiliarity with railways, resulting in frequent accidents and obstruction of traffic, has been a source of worry for the authorities of the Japanese built and owned Chosen Railways. A campaign of propaganda to teach the Koreans not to walk or sleep on the tracks has been started.

The railway authorities estimate that at least 500 trains a year are obliged to stop because Koreans on the track do not heed the warning whistles. There have been instances in which Koreans, particularly on hot summer nights, have slept on the tracks, using the rails for pillows with fatal results. In some such cases, friends of the victims have charged the railway with responsibility and have destroyed sections of track in revenge.

GERMAN MOTOR MANUFACTURERS FEAR THE AMERICAN COMPETITION
Leipzig.—German automobile manufacturers are much worried over the prospects of American competition. Certain embargoes upon the importation of foreign cars are about to expire after which nothing but a customs tariff will stand in the way of a flood of American autos.

German manufacturers recognize that they can only hope to meet American competition if they unite and simplify production. Thus far there has been a tendency for every auto engineer coming up from the ranks to set up for himself as soon as his funds permitted, and to devise a car slightly different from existing types. The result has been that mass production is unknown in Germany.

As a first step toward concentration and centralization, the two largest automobile manufacturers in Germany, Daimler and Benz, have pooled their interests and entered into an arrangement which approaches standardization.

REMOVAL ALASKAN SUBSCRIBERS GET NEWS PAPERS BY AIRPLANE

Fairbanks, Alaska.—Subscribers for the Fairbanks News-Miner-Citizen who live in lonely cabins, road-houses and isolated campus within a hundred-mile radius of the town have their papers delivered by airplane a few hours after publication, the newspaper announces.

The paper has contracted with an airplane company for this service. The aviator attaches the papers to small parachutes and they drift down somewhere near the habitation of the subscriber.

This method is saving weeks for the readers. The old method was to send accumulated issues by dog teams once a month.
