Eastern Shippers Discuss State Commission Report

Speakers Urge Adoption Report Ship Commission

Shippers of Eastern North Carolina Gather in Goldsboro to Discuss the Report of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission Upon Which the Special Session of Legislature Will Be Asked to Act

(Special to The Reflector). Goldsboro, July 25. — Answering the call for a meeting of the man-power of eastern North Carolina to assemble today in Goldsboro, there is now gathered here such an aggregation of representative manhood of eastern North Carolina as has never before come together spontaneously for a given purpose or common interest.

The meeting is for the purpose of hearing the report of the special legislative commission on the state owned ship and water transportation terminals as recommended by Governor Cameron Morrison and now unanimously endorsed by the special commission's report, to be read and acted upon which the legislature has been called for special session on August 17.

The meeting at noon was called to order by H. Galt Braxton, of Kinston, head of the transportation bureau of eastern North Carolina. The opening prayer was delivered by Rev. C. Deed, pastor of the Methodist church.

The gathering immediately got down to business and Dr. J. Y. Joyner, member of the state commission, presented the report of the commission and spoke with power and conscientiousness committing himself to unequivocal action by the legislature without a referendum to the people. The speaker was received with great enthusiasm showing that the entire sentiment of this representative body was in accord with his views. He was followed by Congressman Chas. L. Abernethy in a strong address endorsing the report and taking the same position on original action by the legislature as the former speaker. The next speaker was Major George Butier, of Clinton, who in an exhaustive presentation of the crying needs of eastern North Carolina for just such port terminals as this commission provides in its report, he too committed himself, and the interests which he represented, in favor of the legislature taking original action on the report without referring it to the people.

Among those present who will deliver addresses during the session are Senator F. M. Simmons, of New Bern and General Glenn, of Raleigh.

Export Tobacco Co. Here Doubles Handling Capacity

Announcement was made today of the completion of a program of expansion of the local branch of the Export Leaf Tobacco company. To the local plant has been added another redrying machine bringing the daily redrying capacity of the plant up to a quarter of a million pounds. Besides the installation of the machinery there have been changes in and around the buildings including drives and sheds to assure better and more convenient handling of the tobacco.

In the storage plant located at the south end of Evans street two electric elevators have been installed. Messrs. A. E. Hobgood, manager of the local plant, T. C. Young and V. E. Wells will do the buying for the concern on the local market this season. According to announcement by Mr. Hobgood the Greenville branch will work more than 200 employees during the coming season. These improvements of the local branch of the firm will be a big asset to the market in helping to relieve the congestion which has heretofore prevailed during the rush season.

GREENVILLE BOY PASSES STATE MEDICAL BOARD

Dr. Carey L. Harrington One of 109 to Receive Physician's Licenses

Raleigh, July 25.—One hundred and nine physicians were licensed to practice medicine in North Carolina as a result of the recent examination held by the State Board of Medical Examiners, according to the announcement of Dr. K. P. B. Bonner, secretary of the board.

At the annual session of the Board held in Raleigh June 23 to 28, one hundred and sixty-six applicants appeared before the board. Of this number, one hundred and forty-one took the written examinations and twenty-five applied for endorsement of credentials. There were fifty-three students taking the examinations of the first two years in medicine; leaving eighty-eight applicants taking the written examinations for license.

The Board held an adjourned session in Raleigh on Monday, July 21, to assemble the grades and determine the average grades before the sealed envelopes containing the registration cards were opened, which established the identity of the applicant. As a result of these sessions one hundred and nine physicians were licensed to practice medicine in North Carolina, including one limited license wherein the territory is restricted.

"The young physicians taking the written examinations, as a whole, were possessed of a high order of scholarship and professional training, and average grades ran much higher than in former years," according to Dr. Bonner. "It is significant that the great majority had secured a bachelor's degree in some college preliminary to beginning the study of medicine. To Doctor Oscar Dixon Baxter, High Point, goes the honor of making the highest general average grade of 98 per cent. Doctor Nathan Anthony Womack, Reidsville, took second honor with a general average grade of 95 per cent. The third highest general average was 93.5-7 per cent and was made by Doctor John Warren Henderlite, Raleigh. Sixteen physicians made an

Callers on John W. Davis Bring Good News as to General Political Situation

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Maine, July 25.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, had engagement today to confer with Thomas I. Chadbourne, New York lawyer, who was one of the principal backers of William Gibbs McAdoo for nomination in the New York convention. It was understood that one of the purposes of Mr. Chadbourne's call was to give his personal assurance of his support of the national ticket. Mr. Davis had four callers yesterday.

Besides William R. Pattengall, Democratic candidate for governor of Maine, and Fulton J. Redmond, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate from this state, the nominee conferred with Andrew J. Peters, mayor of Boston at the time of the policemen's strike here in 1919, and former Senator Willard Saulsbury, of Delaware.

All the visitors are said to have given him encouraging reports of the general political situation. Peters said that there was a large independent vote in Massachusetts which would support Davis and that, in his judgment, there was prospect that the Democrats would carry both Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

Fair progress in the building of the campaign organization is being made according to reports that have reached the nominee from his campaign manager, Clem L. Shaver, of West Virginia. M. M. Shaver did not go into details, however.

While no efforts has been made looking toward the financing of the campaign, some contributions are coming in, among the latest received there being a $50 and $20 contribution both from anonymous donors. Perhaps a dozen suggested campaign slogans have been received and the first samples of the Davis campaign buttons came in yesterday on the mail boat from Rockland.

Messrs. K. A. Pittman and J. R. Turnage, of Ayden, were here today.

Says Western Carolina Folks Easy Mark For Fake Stock Salesmen

Boone, July 25.—The people of Western North Carolina are easy prey for the fake stock salesman, in the opinion of United States District Attorney Frank A. Linney who has declared that although there are now 49 cases involving the alleged sale of fraudulent stock to be tried at the next term of the Federal District Court in Greensboro, that there will be many more before the court is called in December.

Mr. Linney asserted that the people within a radius of 100 miles of Statesville had within the past two years lost more than $1,300,000 in the purchase of worthless stock.

National Guard Mounts Arrive at Fort Bragg

Fayetteville, July 25.—Caretakers with 35 carloads of horses have arrived at Fort Bragg to await the arrival of the National Guard units which will train there during the month of August. The horses are corralled at the Second Field Artillery area and are receiving the attention of veterinary surgeons to insure against the possibility of disease, before they are put into use. "Average grade above 90 per cent." Among the successful applicants was Carey L. Harrington, of Greenville.

GRAND JURY ORDERS ARREST LIQUOR GANG

Police Railroad and Government Officials Included in 36 Warrants

Tampa, Fla., July 25.—The federal grand jury in session here today returned indictments involving 36 people from Jacksonville to Washington including railroad officials, police officers and government officials at the capital in liquor laws violations charges it was learned today. Capias for the arrest of each indicted has been issued and the arrests will be made immediately.

According to William Gober, United States District Attorney, the indictments break up a well organized gang which has carried on for many months and has been largely responsible for portions of the Washington liquor supply. The liquor, it was said, has been landed upon the east coast of Florida and taken to Jacksonville. There it was shipped to Washington in small cases and it was alleged enjoyed full protection from railroad police and government officials until arrival at its destination.

Woman Held For Murder Is Released To Be With Child

Asheville, July 25.—Mrs. Ralph Ralston, held in the Buncombe county jail with her husband on a charge of murder, will be allowed to make a large bond and go attend her infant child, should she so request, it was stated here by Solicitor J. E. Swain. Mrs. Ralston with her husband are charged with the murder of Horace Reese, Montreal officer. They were ordered held without bond but the solicitor stated that considering the need of the infant child for its mother that he would allow her to make bond.

COOLIDGE STUDIES SITUATION WEST VA.

Holds Several Conferences With Leaders From Davis' Home State

Washington, July 25.—President Coolidge is gaining considerable information of the political situation in West Virginia, the home state of John W. Davis, his Democratic rival in the November election.

Three conferences bearing on the situation in West Virginia have been held by the president during the past week and there is promise today of more similar conferences.

Those who have discussed party affairs in West Virginia with Coolidge were Guy D. Goff, until recently assistant Attorney General and now Republican candidate for the Senate; Former Senator Howard Sutherland; and Howard E. Roberson, former Chief Justice of West Virginia Supreme Court and Republican nominee for governor in 1916.

All these said that Mr. Davis is highly regarded among his homefolks but they would not concede anything when possibilities in November were discussed. Republican leaders generally regard West Virginia as one battle ground of 3000 against Wilson in 1916 and Harding had a plurality of about 60,000 votes over Cox.

Up-to-Date Still Taken By Officers In Mecklenburg

Charlotte, July 25.—One of the most complete and up-to-date stills found in this county in many months was taken yesterday from the basement of the old colonial home of Hezekiah Alexander, one of the signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. The house was said to be one of the oldest and most historic houses in the county, and was looked upon with almost a reverence.

County and city officers made the raid and found 2,000 gallons of beer and several gallons of double rum whiskey as well as such equipment as indicated that whiskey making on a large scale had been in operation within the basement.

John Sparkman, tenant farmer, who had lived in the house for the past year was arrested.

Chicago, July 25.—Weaving of flimsy threads of circumstantial evidence into a finely meshed web which holds Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb guilty of the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, was recounted today by witnesses who helped to bring the wealthy college students upon the "mercy of the court." Police officers, newspaper reporters and friends of one of the boys were caused by the state in the hearing before Judge John R. Cavert, to tell of the first hint of suspicion directed against the pair and development into a chain of accusative evidence which led eventually to the confession and guilty pleas.

Howard Mayer, Chicago reporter and student at the University of Chicago with the two defendants told of Loeb's efforts two days after the murder to give him a "scoop" by suggesting the probable course of the kidnapers in collecting the ransom money from Jacob Franks, rather of the slain boy. Don't use my name, explained Loeb, to another reporter to whom he had just given a hot tip. Loeb's cue to him on May 23, Mayer testified, suggested that he go to the drug store at which the ransom letter, written to the elder Franks, had directed the party to call for a Mr. Johnson who would give money for depositing the ransom money. Whoever committed that crime should be strung up, Loeb told Albert Goldstein, reporter for the Chicago News the day the body was found, Goldstein testified.

Two friends of Leopold had earlier described a birding expedition to the vicinity of the culvert. Another officer told of the defendant's leading a squad to a spot near Heavsville, Indiana, where the shoes, belt buckle and class pin, all previously identified by the parents as belonging to Robert Franks, were found.

Fourteen witnesses were examined during the morning session bringing the total to 61 called in two and half days of court procedure. They moved so rapidly through the witness stand that the lunch recess came half an hour ahead of scheduled time to permit the state to prepare additional witnesses for the afternoon session.

Leopold and Loeb stayed in court for a few minutes to exchange assurances with relatives. Leopold spoke briefly to his aged father. Leopold's arm was across his brother's shoulder while the latter clasped the defendant around the waist for several minutes. He nodded and patted his brother and then turned to submit himself into the custody of his waiting jailer.

Officials of the firm announced this morning that they were well pleased with the progress of the work and that unless something unforeseen happened to retard the work that Greenville would have a gas plant in full operation early in the fall. and awaits the arrival of the machinery.

Are using these rare powders
By Edna Wallace Hopper
I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty helps. But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person, to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in the movies, I use very costly powders I have them made to my order, and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks, and nothing is too costly for me.

Now all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. There are two kinds. For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a cold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs but 75 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Anyone who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.

Despite their plea of guilty, Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, sons of Chicago millionaires, still hope to escape the death penalty for the kidnaping and murder of Robert Franks, son of another millionaire. Dr. Karl Bowman, Dr. James Whitney Hall, Dr. William A. White, Dr. W. J. Hickson, Dr. Bernard Guek and Dr. H. S. Hubbert, all nationally known alienists, will appear before Judge John R. Caverly to urge that the boys are insane. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, of Cook County, will demand the death penalty, assisted by Milton D. Smith, Joseph Savage and John Sbarbaro, of his staff.

GOOD FIND MADE BY SWEDISH PRINCE IN AN OLD GREEK TOMB

Stockholm.—The discovery of 250 gold ornaments that were ancient heirlooms even in the time of Homer, the opening of a Greek tomb that had not been disturbed for more than 3,000 years, and the discovery that the so-called saddle roof was not unknown in the architecture of that early day, are some of the important results, just reported here of the Swedish Archaeological Expedition, headed by the Crown Prince, Gustaf Adolf, which is excavating the ancient city of Asine, Greece.

The latest discovery of the Swedish experts came somewhat as a surprise when, after having explored a tomb as big as a house and finding nothing of unusual interest, they turned to a tomb less than five feet wide. This proved to be a treasure trove, dating about 1150 B. C., in the Mycenaean, or pre-Hellenic period.

It contained numerous earthenware vases of rare design and decoration, eight beautiful bronze urns and other vessels, of which one was 20 inches high. One of the smaller bronze urns contained four necklaces of gold and iridescent glass beads, and curiously enough the strings were sufficiently well preserved to show the arrangement of the beads, so that the necklaces can now be restored to their exact appearance 3,000 years ago. The necklaces contained 600 beads and other ornaments of which 250 were of gold.

The great tomb, nearby, which contained few treasures, is nevertheless of great archaeological value, since it is built in the form of a house, and its top, hewn into the rock, is the exact shape of the familiar "saddle roof," with sloping sides and gables at both ends, thus proving that this architectural detail was known in Greece more than 1,000 years B. C.

The Swedish Expedition has been at work in the excavation of Asine for more than two years and has already unearthed and classified more than 500,000 treasures and fragments of value, some of which date back as far as 2,500 B. C. Yet the experts say that the work has only just begun, and that still more important discoveries may be expected in the near future.

All the portable finds of the Crown Prince's expedition are being studied in the University of Lund, Sweden, to which they have been shipped by special permission of the Greek government. As soon as the examination has been completed by archaeological experts the finds will be returned to Greece.

MUCH GOLD STILL HIDES CALIFORNIA MOUNTAINS

San Francisco.—Despite the fact that gold placers in California have produced more than $1,000,000,000 since their discovery in 1848, they are not exhausted, according to a statement issued by the State Mining Bureau.

The bureau has completed an investigation of mining conditions, covering two years and finds that the principal placer area of the state lies in the Sierra Nevada mountains between Susanville on the north and Mariposa on the south. This area is tributary to the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, which are classed as navigable streams. There also is a big yardage of available gravel remaining on the tributaries of the Klamath river. The district within the Sierras, however, is deemed the most important from an economic viewpoint.

According to estimates based on the investigation, there is a total of something like seven billion yards of gravel distributed among the different drainage areas. Not all of this is practicable for working, but the bureau considers it safe to assume 60 percent is feasible for mining. It should yield an average of about 15 cents a yard, says the report, and under hydraulic mining approximately $600,000,000 could be recovered from these drainage systems alone.

The report says: "A perfectly feasible plan for the working of this ground, under the provisions of the Carnieff Act, is now suggested and numbering some 1200 persons, including four ministers of the Church of Scotland, who went along to establish a Presbyterian organization, and it is told that because of their ascetic tendencies, some of the sturdy Scotch families rebelled against them, and were banished from the settlement. Later, it is said, others of the settlers were driven away by the Spaniards, and it is thought likely many of them fled into the jungles and remained. This, if the supposition is correct, might account for the white Indians.

But the San Blas tribe of Indians have a different story. Many years ago, they say, so long ago that no one can recall the date, a band of white men came to Darien and set about to rob the red men of their wealth. In their exploitations, however, the pale face visitors incurred the displeasure of an evil spirit, and soon they died. Their spirits, so the story goes, being accused, were driven into the feverladen jungles, where they stayed forevermore. That is the legend of the San Blas tribe.

According to their oldest chieftains no San Blas could inter-marry with another race. That law still holds, and so strict is it observed that even now a white man visiting their villages is carefully watched. But there are tales of Pocahontases even among the San Blas, and they say that some of the women of the tribe ran away with pale face men, whom they married, only to be slain later or their babies killed a few days after birth.

It is thought improbable by these unofficial historians that the white Indian is of Spanish origin, for the men of Spain were never referred to by the Indians as white men, but as "jinetas," after the Spanish "horseman." This failure of the Indians to refer to the Spaniards as white men while that term was applied to other strangers of the jungles, is considered solid ground for the theory of those that believe the "new-found" tribe descended from the Scotch.

EXILES FROM RUSSIA DESPAIR OVER NEW IMMIGRATION LAW

Berlin.—America's new immigration law is a bitter disappointment to the 3,000,000 Russian refugees scattered throughout European countries. Under the new law only 1,700 Russians may enter American ports annually, and not more than 170 shall enter in any one month.

At one time there were believed to be about 500,000 Russian refugees in Germany alone. The number is now much reduced, as high cost of living forced many of them to seek other countries where exchange conditions are more favorable.

In Paris, Berlin, Prague, Munich, Dresden, Bucharest, Belgrade and Rome large Russian colonies are endeavoring to keep up their traditions in the hope of being able to return one day to the land which is so dear to them. Every rumor of Bolshevik collapse is eagerly received by the groups which still believe conditions similar to those which existed before the war will be restored in Russia, and that they will be able to return and claim the property which Lenin and his associates seized in the name of the Communist government.

But the younger exiles are impatient over the long delay, and each month there is less disposition to accept the promises of old-line political leaders that the Bolsheviks will be overthrown.

Many of the younger Russians had entertained hopes of emigrating to the United States. Medicine, law and engineering students in various universities of central and western Europe were planning on an invasion of the new world on the completion of their courses. This hope is dashed by the immigration law just enacted.

Russians of all classes are returning to their homeland every time there is the slightest rumor of bettered conditions there. It is their desire to go to Russia rather than anywhere else, but they do so with much difficulty, as their countrymen of anti-Bolshevik tendencies have great contempt for Russians who accept employment under the Communist regime. It frequently means the breaking of all family ties and the severing of old friendships.

Soviet Russia needs the assistance of all the talented Russians who are in exile, and is carrying on an active campaign to win the youngsters over to Communist principles and induce them to return. The Communists also are working hard to create feeling against those exiles who will not return to their homeland on the ground that they are monarchial and undemocratic. This is true of only a small percentage, perhaps, of the refugees. Monarchists have been in far less danger in Russia than liberals who refused to support Communist doctrine. Mensheviks and Social Revolutionaries of the Right, men who were Socialistic without being Communist and refused to follow the Bolsheviks into Communism, have suffered worse at the hands of the Moscow government than their countrymen who never made any pretense of being liberals.

COLOGNE DEMOLISHES ANCIENT WALLS TO MAKE SPORT FIELDS

Cologne, Germany.—Some of the ancient walls of Cologne, which date back to the days of the Romans, are to give way to modern sport fields which are provided for in the city's plans for expansion as announced recently by Dr. Max Adenauer, chief burgomaster. A great sports stadium built chiefly by men classed as among the "unemployed," has already been completed, and 50 football fields, golf links, and space for other games have been provided for in the rearrangement of the districts on the edge of this ancient city.

Preliminary steps have been taken to encircle Cologne with a great green strip some 25 miles in length and averaging five-eighths of a mile in width. It is within this strip that space will be left for sport grounds of various kinds.

PIANO WITH QUARTER TONES BROUGHT OUT IN BRUNSWICK, SAID

Brunswick, Germany, July 6.—The quarter tone piano is an established fact. The inventor has personally demonstrated it to a large number of musical critics who came to Brunswick from all over Germany.

At the present state of cultivation of the human ear, however, the critics believe it won't do to mix too many quarter tones with the half and whole notes to which the ear is accustomed. Their present advice to composers is to reserve the quarter notes for special passages in which melancholy strains are to be given expression.

One technical difficulty of the invention is that of keeping so minutely adjusted an apparatus in tune. Every player of the piano knows that when an ordinary piano has been treated to a number of fortissimos, the instrument soon needs tuning. If this be true of whole-and-half tone pianos, the critics ask, what will happen to an instrument adjusted on quarter tones? And where can piano tuners be found who can distinguish between intervals of only a quarter of a note?

MODERN ROOF DWELLERS

The time seems not far off when the world will again be living much of the time upon the rooftops. Congested cities are crowding the gardens to the tops of tall buildings. The development of air travel must be accompanied by the provision of roof-top landing places. Increasing motor traffic may bring about storied thoroughfares assisting humanity to the house tops.

Hanging gardens of Babylon as Semiramis built them, terraced upon high pillars, were less to look at than the future Babel of a metropolis.

The life of ancient cities in the Orient was largely on the roof; and even today in the hot countries most of the cycle of domestic existence revolves upon the housetop. True, we delve for subways and bury much of the traffic that was on the surface. We inter our power lines, our telephone cables and our water conduits. But above the subterranean passageways city dwellers must take wing to find the room they need.

Forever mankind in the days of old was "crawling, but pestered with the thought of wings," and the aspiration of 1924 toward the unchartered spaces can appreciate the cry of the Chinese poet long ago:

Upon this tall pagoda's peak
My hand can nigh the stars inclose
I dare not raise my voice to speak
For fear of startling God's repose.

Pious souls in bygone days thought of the possibility of flying in the light of an angelic attribute. But in the war that involved all the world, our new-found power of levitation was put to malign and diabolic uses. We now stand at the verge of constructive development that shall further the interests of commerce and abridge distance in favor of the swift contacts that go far to eradicate misunderstanding between men and nations.

REJUVENATION

A trait that is typically American is the summer vacation from work. Not every body in the United States is so fortunate as to have "two weeks off" every summer but it is obvious that those that don't constitute the minority. In Europe and Asia the workers take out their leisure in a multitude of national and religious holidays with which they are more abundantly supplied than the American.

Efficiency experts and other cold-blooded statisticians might readily figure billions lost annually to industry and business through the disorganizing and retarding influence of general vacations for employes, and those interested souls who guard over the financial position of the toiler are probably considerably disturbed by self-imposed estimates of the nation's vacation expenses. Figures are interesting any time and in any connection, but they will not deny the America worker his summer vacation.

The summer vacation period is fortunately placed right in the center of those hot months when the wheels of industry and the brains of business and commerce have slowed up by common consent and physical demand. The business of making a living would be at a low tide in summer if there was no such thing as a vacation. Summer lethargy is many times more prevalent than spring fever.

But aside from the economic side of the vacation, where is there a man so barren of the milk of human kindness as to forbid toiling men and women those so greatly anticipated two weeks of freedom from work and care? Consider how they spend that "time off," rolling over the open road, at the shore, in the mountains, in strange cities and through strange lands, or restfully at home. When they return to work they bring with them new energy, new hope and better work. The vacation season of 1924 is on and the vacationists are everywhere. 'Tis a forelorn world of toilers they leave behind.

If you would be president, do not get fat, says Senator Copeland. How about Cleveland and Taft?

"Controversies in America" are blamed for Israel Zagwill's insomnia. Americans were not similarly affected.

One type of politician commends co-operation and condemns combination, though the difference between them is largely imaginary.

Though a German chemist claims to have made synthetic gold, holders of the natural product evince no disposition to let it go at a discount, lest the price depreciates.

Prisoners in Russian jails have been given 30-day vacations to help gather the harvest. Many would more than ordinarily welcome a vacation under those circumstances.

Final accounting and distributing of the estate of Samuel J. Tilden has been made. Perhaps not enough was left over which lawyers might profitably disagree.

In having a period of 17 years between legal executions it looks like St. Louis has been derelict in duty, unless that city is far more law-abiding than many suspect it to be.

TRADEMARK CONTROL URGED UPON LEAGUE FRAUD PREVENTION

Geneva.—International experts assigned to study draft articles for a convention on unfair competition in business have forwarded a set of principles to the economic committee of the League of Nations. These recommended among other things that states which are members of the Union for the Protection of Industrial Property should be asked to assure legal redress, including penal remedies to nationals of other contracting countries in case of fraudulent use of trademarks.

The experts hold that suitable penal measures should be framed to prevent the fraudulent misleading use of trade designations other than trademarks, such as names, styles of firms, headings of printed matter, emblems, etc. They believe that such measures should not apply only to the reproducing of designations or pictorial representations, or both, but also to colorable imitations of the same, as well as to false indications of origin or identity of the producer, manufacturer or merchant, whenever such practices might cause confusion as to the origin of the goods in question.

Furthermore, the recommendations insist that the provisions of the Union for the Protection of Industrial Property should be especially applied in the case of seizures at frontiers of important products which carry an illegal trademark or commercial name.

The experts also suggest that the final convention should prohibit the registration or unauthorized use of national emblems or arms, of official hall marks or signs indicating official warranty, and also of any colorable imitations, as trademarks or as parts of trademarks. This regulation should apply only in the case of goods similar to the goods for which the hall-mark or sign in question would imply a guarantee.

Finally, the experts believe that signatory states should forbid the registration and provide for the cancelling of any trademark which is notorious in trade as a mark owned by a national of another state. Aggrieved persons should be allowed five years in which to apply for the cancellation of improperly registered trademarks. Trademark registrations should be forbidden when they clearly constitute an act of unfair competition.

FLORIDA WILL CELEBRATE LEGISLATIVE CENTENARY

Tallahassee, Fla.—This, the capital city of Florida, is making preparations for a centennial celebration during the week of November 9-15, marking the hundredth anniversary of the state as a legislative unit.

The history that lies back of the plan for the celebration embodies several events that stand out prominently in the record of the United States. In 1818, General Andrew Jackson, without authority from Congress, but according to belief that has been given expression, with tacit consent of the cabinet in Washington invaded Florida, then Spanish territory. He marched with 3,000 men from Fort Gadsden on the Apalachicola river to St. Marks in Wakulla county, raised the American flag, hanged two leading Indians and two British subjects.

In consequence of this demonstration of Spanish weakness, Spain in 1819 consented to the purchase of Florida by the United States, and by 1821 every portion of the territory was surrendered to the United States and the Spanish flag came down. Later, in 1822, a legislative council for West Florida was held in Pensacola, and the next year a legislative council for East Florida was held in St. Augustine.

This form of administration was found to present difficulties, however, and an agreement was reached that legislation should emanate for the whole of the territory, from a central point equidistant from Pensacola and St. Augustine. Thereupon, two commissioners were appointed, and early in 1824 Indian fields belonging to the Seminoles, north of St. Marks, on the highlands of the present Leon county, were purchased and the site of the capital selected. On that site the first legislative council for the territory of Florida was held in a log hut. It is this event that is to be commemorated.

The celebration will have as leading features historic pageants, military and other parades in Tallahassee, while all churches and schools throughout the state are expected to join in the commemorative exercises.

COTTON OUTLOOK IS DISTRESSING

Reports From Belt Show Decrease From 73 to 56 Per Cent

Raleigh, July 25.—Since June 25 weather conditions have been so distressingly bad for cotton that the condition declined from 73 to 56 per cent for July 16, which represents as an actual measure, 56 pounds of lint cotton worth $17.20 based on a price of 30 cents per pound, according to Frank Parker, State Agricultural Statistician in his July 16 cotton report. The decline through the south as a whole is about the same as usual, he said, and the present forecast of production in North Carolina is 720,000 bales as compared with 1,020,000 harvested last year. This does not take into account the abandoned acres since June 25.

"With the exception of Louisiana, where the decline was 12 per cent," says the report, "the area having the worse weather was Virginia, North and South Carolina. Georgia had a net improvement of one percent as against the usual decline of 3 per cent. The belt averaged 68.5 per cent as compared with 71.2 per cent three weeks earlier. A year ago the condition was 67.2 per cent. These figures indicate 164 pounds lint per acre on a basis of Virginia's 54 per cent condition. North Carolina's 56 per cent condition indicates 189 pounds per acre and South Carolina's yield of 159 pounds is based on a condition of 59 per cent. Georgia at 76 per cent of a crop, forecasts 136 pounds per acre. The yield in Texas is estimated at 130 pounds per acre and 69 per cent condition. The south's crop is forecast at 11,934,000 bales from a condition of 68.5 per cent of a full crop (normal condition)."

According to Mr. Parker, the comments received from over 500 reporters making estimates on cotton conditions were very profuse in the following expressions: 151 remarks indicated that the "cotton crop is very grassy;" 253 reported that the crop was either damaged by continued rains or that there was "too much rain;" 74 remarked that they were unable to cultivate on account of rain; 62 mentioned "poor stands" as an important factor; 57 stated that the crop was "drowned out on sandy lands;" 93 remarked that the boll weevils were at work (primarily in the Coastal counties and those bordering on South Carolina); considerable abandonment was mentioned; many reported "big weed and little fruit."

"Most of these reports were made while the rains were still occurring daily and when things looked very blue," asserted the statistician, "For one week we have had considerable sunshine and little rain. This permitted intensive cultivation and a wonderful improvement in the deterring of the weed growth. The plants are forming squares rapidly and with favorable weather for three weeks considerable setting of squares can occur. The principal factor is whether the weevils, which are now scarce, will migrate at an early date in sufficient numbers to do considerable damage to the crops. It is still possible, due to the lateness of the crop, for the migration of weevils to occur two weeks from now still do very heavy damage. The July 16 report of 56 per cent condition in North Carolina was based on the condition of the crop at that time and did not take into consideration the possible damage by weevil at a later date. The best condition is to be found in the western Piedmont counties, while the poorest is in the southeastern and northeastern counties."

Co-Ops to Receive Payment Tomorrow

Raleigh, July 25.—An aggregate of $2,300,000 will be paid on Saturday to 50,000 bright leaf tobacco farmers of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, according to a statement issued by James H. Craig treasurer of the association. The payments will be made from 60 co-operative market located in Central and Western North Carolina and Virginia.

The Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, it was said, has been rapidly paying out money to its members for the past four months and the disbursement on Saturday will bring the total amount paid out as second payment on the 1923 deliveries to more than $5,000,000.

It was stated that the members had expressed their gratitude for the cash money which was coming at a time when it was most needed. The old belt tobacco growers will be given another payment soon, according to the announcement, which, it was said, is in line with the policy of the association to pay the growers in cash instead of waiting for accumulation of money from the sales.

Five Bottles Brought 56 Pound Gain

Mrs. Williams Went From 108 to 164 On Tanlac

"When I took Tanlac four years ago, it left me feeling stronger and better than in years and since then I have enjoyed splendid health," said Mrs. C. L. Williams, 39 Central Ave., Asheville, N. C., recently.

"What was called constitutional anaemia had kept me run-down so long I lost hope of ever being well and strong. I suffered severely from nervousness and headaches, my food gave me little nourishment and I kept getting thinner and weaker until I only weighed 108 pounds.

"But Tanlac gave me such an appetite I could not eat enough and upon finishing my fifth bottle, my weight had gone from 108 to 130 pounds. With such a good start, I have kept gaining gradually until I now weigh 164 pounds—about what I always wanted to weigh. I have such faith in Tanlac that I also give it to my children."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

COFFER-MILLER PLAYERS DELIGHT AUDIENCE

The Coffe-Miller Players will present the comedy of the "Forced Physician" or "The Imaginary Invalid," at 8:30 this evening at East Carolina Teachers College.

Their performance of the Rivals last night was an excellent all round production of that ever new delightful comedy. Mr. Coffe playing in the two vastly different roles of Bob Acres and Sir Anthony.

Mr. Jess Coffe is a great actor. Few in the audience seemed to realize that the same man was playing the two such vastly different roles as the whimsical eccentric Bob Acres and the irascible old tyrannical father, "Sir Anthony Absolute," and it was difficult to say which he played better. Miss Martha Miller as Mrs. Malaprop kept the house in a rear. None of the choice misused words failed to get across and the grandiose manner added greatly to the effect.

Arthur Curran, Capt. Jack Absolute, either as himself and as his rival Beverly, was one to win the hearts of all romantic girls as he won that of Lydia Languish. Miss Louise Sawyer as Lydia was a charming romantic girl.

Minor Coburn as Sir Lucius O'Trigger was a good foil for Bob Acres. The parts of the two servants were well played.

The handsome eighteenth century costumes were designed by Miss Miller.

Those who were so fortunate as to see the performance were delighted and will not fail to see the equally enjoyable play this evening.

TWO CONCERNS TO HELP THE FARMER ARE CHARTERED

New Organizations To Protect and Promote Agricultural Man and Cotton Dealer

Raleigh, July 25.—Two charters were issued yesterday by the office of the Secretary of State for organizations designed to promote and to protect the welfare of the agricultural man and cotton dealer.

The American Mutual Agricultural Assurance Association of North Wilkesboro was issued an unlimited period charter. It is non-stock and has been inspected, sanctioned by Stacey Wade, Insurance Commissioner. Its purpose is specified as that of operating an inter-insurance mutual association by assuming the risk on agricultural undertakings.

The organization will take place in North Wilkesboro on Saturday, July 26 when F. L. Ives will act as president and E. P. Ives will act as secretary. It will begin operation upon the procurement of 200 separate risks. The incorporators are the above named men and J. M. Prevette, R. E. Faw, Jr., all of North Wilkesboro and D. V. Nichols and W. D. Crab both of Purlear and others.

The Charlotte Cotton Exchange is incorporated, with authorized capital of $100,000 and $625 subscribed by J. H. Cutter, H. H. Orr, John M. Griffith and others all of Charlotte, was also issued a charter. The purpose of the Exchange was stated in the application to be: to establish uniformity of trade customs and policies among its members; to encourage equitable principles in cotton trade and to promote the general welfare of the cotton business and to act as arbiters of differences between members.

Other charters issued at the same time were:

Cedar Creek Realty Co., Asheville, with authorized capital of $10,000 and $2,000 subscribed by Charles Webb, J. D. Pool, and J. G. Stikeleather, of Asheville and R. C. Clark of Atlanta.

Baroness Wainmaker Holub, formerly Harriette Lorraine, international dancer, recently secured a divorce from her husband and accepted $120,000 as alimony, believing he was only "moderately rich." Now she has sailed from New York for Genoa, Italy, to see him for an additional $500,000, having learned that he is worth $10,000,000. General Frank T. RUSSIAN CROWN JEWELS SAFE IN MOSCOW, SAYS BRITISH M. P.

London, July 25.—The many picturesque stories to the effect that the crown jewels of Russia have been sold are all fables, according to Sir Martin Conway, M. P., for the common English Universities, who has just returned from a private tour of art in Russia.

"In the Treasury at Moscow," Sir Martin said in an interview, "I saw the crown jewels, and held them in my hands, including the crown of Catherine II, and the sceptre with the great Arley diamond. I have no doubt that they were the original crown jewels. They are very wonderful, and I do not think the authorities have any intention of selling them. The jewels that have gone out of Russia probably were private property."

FIRE LOSSES IN JUNE SHOW BIG DECREASE

Greenville Is Among Cities in State That Suffered No Fire Loss Last Month

Raleigh, July 25.—The officially reported fire loss for the month of June totals $176,629 as compared with $297,093 for June 1923, according to the monthly fire report of Insurance Commissioner Stacey Wade. There were 111 fires of which 17 were caused by lightning and these 17 fires showed a loss of $86,325 or nearly half the total of the other 94 fires, the report says.

Most of the lightning fires were of barns and stock, asserts the statement, while most of the loss was from three fires, a cotton ginney at Clayton with a loss of $8,500; a lumber plant at Shelby with a loss of $33,500 and a cotton warehouse at Robeson with a loss of $24,000 in all an aggregate of $66,000. In the state there were only two other fires during the month of June where the loss was over $5000, it was stated, these being a drug plant at Raleigh, $10,000 and a veneer plant at Goldsboro, $46,000. Deducting a loss of $122,000 from these five houses from the total loss for the state, leaves $54,629 as a loss for the 106 other fires.

The compiled data shows that the fire loss for the first six months of 1924 in North Carolina was $1,581,815 as compared with $2,857,119 for the same period of 1923. The estimate for the United States and Canada for the first six months of 1924 shows a loss of $181,096,250 as compared with $222,050,200 for 1923.

Prominent among the cities reported as having no loss from fires were: High Point, Durham, Washington, Greenville, Statesville, Tarboro, Reidsville, Sanford and Thomasville. Towns with but one fire given as Rocky Mount, Hickory and Kinston.

Storm Insurance Planned

Madison, Wis., July 25.—A campaign has been inaugurated by the Wisconsin State Telephone association to enroll telephone companies in a cooperative sleet and storm insurance plan. The proposal is declared to be the first attempted in the country.

Under the plans now being started, it is declared the companies would be able to protect their properties by insurance at approximately one-third of the commercial rate.

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, July 25.—Speculative buying, in which Chicago grain interests are reported to have participated largely, sustained market today in the face of more favorable climatic conditions in the Western and Central portions of the belt as well as in the South Atlantic area, where needed dry weather prevails.

Rather light to moderate rains, heavy at Oklahoma City, occurred in Oklahoma over night and rain was reported from numerous stations in North and Northwest Texas as well as in the central portion of the belt, while generally fair weather prevailed to the east of the Mississippi river which was favorable for all sections of the cotton region especially since the outlook is for cooler weather in the Southwest.

While insufficient rain has fallen in Texas so far, prospects are for more moisture there in the immediate future, perhaps in other sections of the western half of the belt which would be beneficial.

Now that July, the last of old crop months has expired by limitation, operations in the future will be based solely on legitimate conditions such as the trade demand and prospects for the new crop.

In anticipation of a larger consumptive demand, from American mills next season, and because of the revival of the textile trade in Europe, a large crop, perhaps in excess of 12,500,000 bales will be required for next season, as stocks of old crop cotton are so small everywhere the world will have to depend almost entirely on the growing crop for next season's supply.

The drought in the Western half of the belt threatened serious consequences but the coming of cooler weather and some rain has revived hopes for a breaking of the dry belt spell. However much more rain is necessary in all districts of the cottontral and western portions of the belt to afford the necessary relief. The recent sharp advance in market has stimulated the demand for cotton goods in New York.

'Little Johnny Jones' Romance of the Turf

Beauty and the Beast clash together with dramatic effect in 'Little Johnny Jones,' the George M. Cohan stage success starring Johnny Hines, to be seen today at White's theatre. The 'Beauty' takes the form of a charming little English girl who decides to forget her blue blood and tradition because of her love for Johnny Jones, the American jockey; and the 'Beast' is a professional gambler of shady past, who tries to put stumbling blocks and dangers in the path of the young Yankee lad so that he might win the girl himself.

It is a romance of the turf, the story of Johnny Jones, the Yankee jockey, who is scheduled to win the English Derby. A bar in his way comes up in the form of Robert Anstead, a gambler, who knows his horse doesn't stand the ghost of a chance unless Johnny is put out of way and disqualified. A plot bristling with adventure is concocted to prove that the Yankee has agreed to throw away the race, and Johnny has to show that actions are stronger than words, before he is reinstated in the heart of his sweetheart.

Johnny Hines, called the George M. Cohan of the screen, has the stellar role of Johnny Jones, who rides his favorite horse, Yankee Doodle, to victory at the English Derby and eludes the trap set for him his supporting cast is made up of Windham Standing, Margaret Seddon, Robert Prior, Molly Malone, George Webb, Mervyn LeRoy, 'Fat' Carr, Pauline French, and Brownie, the Wonder Dog.

FREE STATE PLEASED BECAUSE WASHINGTON ACCEPTS THE ENVOY

Dublin.—The official notification of Washington's acceptance of an Irish minister empowered to deal with questions between the Free State and the United States has given much satisfaction in Ireland, where it is regarded as 'tangible proof of the United States' recognition of Ireland's new status.'

'Washington,' says the Freeman's Journal, 'is not frightened by the spectres which a certain section of the English press is busy conjuring up. Free State ambassadors have no intention of playing the part of a bull in a china shop as English die-hards profess to believe. They can be trusted to handle their business on business-like lines, keeping always well in mind that American friendship is not the least valuable of Irish assets.'

SISLER'S SIGHT GRADUALLY RETURNING TO NORMALCY

St. Louis, July 25.—Baseball fans generally throughout the country have noted with satisfaction this season the work of Manager George H. Sisler of the St. Louis Browns and the hope is now entertained that eventually his impaired vision will become normal.

Voted the most valuable player in the American League during the 1922 season, Sisler was stricken with influenza in February, 1923, and his condition was aggravated by sinus trouble and tonsillitis, resulting in impaired vision which caused his retirement from the game for the 1923 season. For a time it was feared that his baseball days were over, but Sisler gave his eyes a careful, patient course of treatment and rest.

With the opening of the 1924 season Sisler assumed his regular position at first base in addition to managing the Browns. He admits that the defect in his vision has not been entirely remedied, but with his eyes constantly improving he is optimistic that his sight will gradually return to normal. The defect, he declares, hampers him in batting, but its effect upon his fielding is negligible.

TO OUR LAUNDRY PATRONS

Beginning with the week of July 28th, laundry must be paid for when delivered. Our driver is kept busy each week and when he has to make several calls to collect his tickets it not only throws him back in his work, but it works a hardship on the driver, as all tickets are charged against him personally. Some have been allowed the privilege of letting their tickets run from one week to another. This was done as an accommodation to the customers, but because some have abused this privilege to the extent that they dispute tickets and allow them to accumulate, we must insist that the driver be paid when the package is delivered. We stand ready to correct or allow any errors that might be made, and pay for any article proven lost by use. It is far more convenient for the customer to pay upon delivery than it is for the driver to call several times to make collections. Hoping that the public may see and appreciate our position, we are Yours to serve, GREENVILLE LAUNDRY.
