SPECIAL LEGISLATURE CONVENED TODAY

Governor Urges Adoption Ship Commission Report

Governor Asks Legislature To Enact Ship Bill

Setting Forth the Needs of the State for Such Advancement and Expressing belief that the Measure has Support of People the Governor asks that it be put before them in the November Election.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Recommending special legislation submitting the proposal to the people, Governor Cameron Morrison today urged the special session of the North Carolina General Assembly to adopt the report of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission which recommends the establishment of state port facilities and state ship lines. He also recommended repeal of the constitutional amendment already adopted which relates to the sinking fund of the state highway bonds which provides that none of the gasoline tax and auto license fees shall be used for the funds, and the adoption in its stead an amendment permitting the use of these funds in the sinking fund.

The government also urged legislation looking to recovery by the state as an east to west line the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad. Most of his address was devoted to the ship and water transportation report and recommendations of the commission. The governor went at length into the question of freight rates and benefits, he said, would accrue from the establishment of water routes and state ports expressing belief that if this is done the railroads would be compelled to lower the freight rates.

He expressed belief that the ports would directly benefit 50 counties and by the use of trucks and water routings the other sections of the state would be benefited. The governor urged creation of a commission with power to issue $7,000,000 bonds for port terminals at eastern coast cities and $1,500,000 for acquisition of state owned ship lines if necessary.

"If you go forward with the recommendations of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission," said the governor, "and the railroads do not reduce their charges for carrying freight by rail throughout North Carolina, we will supplant it I verily believe by cheaper water or part water and part-truck transportation of longer part water and shorter part rail transportation to the extent of saving the people of North Carolina a larger sum annually than the $12,000,000 which it costs to administer our state government exclusive of our highway development and other permanent improvements. I therefore with greatest confidence, urge you to enact the necessary legislation to give the people of North Carolina without delay this great opportunity of transportation all commerce which can be carried over water or over water and trucks or over a longer water and shorter rail route from the present cold and cruel opportunity of transportation exclusively at high discriminatory and unjust rates by rail.

The governor then recommended appointment of a commission, as recommended by the report, with the power to issue $7,000,000 bonds at not to exceed five per cent interest, for the purpose of building docks, depots warehouses and other necessary terminal facilities and making physical connections between such depots and warehouses and railroads running into and out of such towns.

That these facilities shall be placed at such towns as the commission may select and find adapted to water transportation or commerce. The governor declared that the Ship and Water Transportation Commission did not recommend establishment of a so called state port but instead recommended putting them at all towns situated so as to make it possible for them to enjoy the benefit of water transportation. The governor then went on declaring that steps had been taken in most states that have water transportation for the states to have a hand in the developing and handling of port facilities. He then said that the commission had not thought it wise to establish port facilities without taking steps to be sure of their being used and have recommended that a commission be appointed and empowered to issue $1,500,000 bonds for establishing ship lines.

"I urge you gentlemen of the General Assembly," the governor said, "to enact in full and complete form the necessary legislation to put into effect the recommendations of this great commission which has looked into and advised us about this matter but I also recommend that you provide that this legislation shall not take effect until after same has been approved by the majority of the qualified voters of North Carolina at the general election in November. I believe that if this is submitted to the people it will carry in every county in North Carolina," he added.

"I am not one of those who think that the people cannot understand this question. I think the great body understands it very much better than experts and professional classes think they do. They know and understand it means a greater and stronger North Carolina. Their courage is high and their determination is absolutely dependable."

Space At Curb Market Be Allotted By Drawing Places

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Discussions, arguments and racing for the most suitable parking placing at the center mark and its curb here by the farmers who come to the city with their products has now been put to an end by an ordinance just passed by the city council. An ordinance passed a short time ago assessed the occupants of curb space at the market ten cents per day but did not regulate the distribution of the space and as a result there ensued many arguments between the farmers as to who should have the best places each day. Many farmers came to town hours ahead of time to get the most desirable spots in regards to sales.

This has been done away with by the bill just passed which states that the space shall be allotted by drawing for places. The lottery to be regulated by the market managers. Hereafter the farmers will take what they draw, one of the officials stated, and that will put an end to the many arguments.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Introduction of lay witnesses by the defense today seeking mitigation in punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb confessed kidnapers and slayers of Bobby Franks brought from State Attorney Crowe a shouted charge that one of them committed deliberate perjury.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The prosecution today refused to accept the proposition from the defense for shortening the hearing before Judge John R. Caverly to fix the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnaping and slaying of Robert Franks.

"Our answer is a blanket 'N,'" was the reply of State Attorney Robert E. Crowe, to proposal by the defense that they dispense with hearing lay witnesses and accept a blanket statement as to what their testimony would be and also dispense with the calling of further lay witnesses by the state.

Two Men Arrested Charged Shooting Shade Ellison, Negro

Theodore Williams, white, and Jim Hardee, negro were arrested yesterday charged with being connected with the shooting of Shade Ellison, negro, near Galloway's Cross Roads was released under a $1000 bond while Williams, unable to give bond is being held in jail awaiting trial.

Ellison was shot in the arm by unknown parties. He was either called to his door or went to the door to investigate a noise when he was suddenly without warning shot. Although not fatal, the wound has been very painful and Ellison is still suffering with his arm. Since the night of the shooting the affair has remained a mystery and has baffled the officers.

A few days ago Deputy Sheriff Whitehurst who has been working on the case gathered enough information to arrest the two men.

Officers believe that Williams is really implicated as it is understood that on Saturday prior to the shooting on Tuesday he made the remark that he was going to kill Ellison. Since the shooting it is reported that he remarked that things would not be settled until another was killed. Officers are working on the case and are determined, if possible, to convict the guilty parties. The two men arrested, will be given a hearing at an early date.

"AND ALL IS ADVERTISING"

We all advertise. The infant's inarticulate gurgles advertise most effectively for board and lodging. Our sons and daughters are well advertised at the head of their classes, and Mr. Kipling's "flanneled fools at the wicket" are advertising their prowess, and perhaps their pulchritude, to all who will see. "Mr. Smith allow me to present my friend, Dr. Scalpel,"—strictly ethical advertising for the doctor.

"Mrs. Gramercy Parke: Tuesday in April." Advertising of a most subtle sort—for Mrs. Parke's friends block her street with their motors and their number advertises the success of her reception.

The diamonds of Mrs. Leonx Newport, the laces of Mrs. Washington Square and the gowns of Mrs. Plaza Van Netherland convincingly express their prosperity and their taste.

We all advertise. It is the one thing all of us do.

In some way or other—always or occasionally—we advertise our smartness, our wisdom, our wit, our wealth and our familiarity with General Pershing and the Captains of Industry.

We are seen at the opera partly for the music and largely to advertise our superiority to the common herd which finds entertainment in the movies.

We choose our pictures and the decoration of our houses with one thought to our own inclinations and another to our friends' opinions.

If our magnificence creates conversation the advertising is successful.

Much money is expended for advertising businesses and personalities.

The high hat is an assertion of prosperity and advertises it wearer into the consideration he might not otherwise receive.

The presentation of a $600,000 collection of porcelains to the Art Museum and the giving of $10,000,000 for libraries in advertising—commendable, useful, desirable advertising, and positively worth the money.

Around the club table, over the Volstead highballs of grape juice, we swell out our chests and talk about the price of "Steel" and "New York Central" just as if it really interested us, and so by inference we advertise that we are quite some large pumpkins in the stock market.

And when we die! Flowers, tears, hearses with plumes, mourners and motor cars, and eulogies and preachers and things, advertise our greatness and the grief of our heirs.

And finally they plant a ton or so of granite immediately above the swelling bosoms, to keep the grave from burting with our pride, and in letters of imperishable stone carve upon it an advertisement of our manifold virtues.

So our life begins with a "help wanted ad" and ends with a "testimonial."

And all is advertising.

Summer Hints for Young Mothers

THE CHILD WHO WON'T PLAY

Healthy children love to romp in summer from early morn until the last call, and if a youngster moopes about the house and looks yellowish, you may know it isn't well.

Think over the little one's diet. It should be watched more carefully in summer. Too much heavy or raw food cause biliousness and indigestion.

Usually a thorough cleansing with Liv-o-Lax and little better sense about the food will straighten out the child quickly. Liv-o-lax is a vegetable laxative that works on the liver, too.

Liv-o-lax is easy to take. Children like it. You can get a good sized bottle at the drug store for 30c.

Follies Girls Dance In "Potash, Perlmutter"

Persons living in the towns and cities which are never visited by the famous Ziegfeld Follies on tour will have an opportunity to see the chorus girls who figure so largely in the revue, by visiting the Theatre today.

A score of the Follies beauties take part in the elaborate cabaret scenes in "Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture produced by

Samuel Goldwyn. In addition there are ten choristers from the cast of the Music Box Revue, the annual production which is the nearest rival to the Follies in New York.

The chorus girls you will see on the screen are the prettiest in the world, and it cost a considerable sum to induce them to appear in the production. But the result justified the expense, in the eyes of Mr. Goldwyn.

"Potash and Perlmutter" was directed by Clarence Luder from the famous play by Morague Glass. The leading roles are portrayed by Alexander Carr, Barney Bernard and Vera Gordon, with a supporting cast including Martha Marshall, Ben Lyon, Eduard Darrand, Ipe Sutherland, De Sasia Moore, Jerry Desiree, Lee Kohlmir and Lee Donnelly. Frances Marion made the adaptation.

SPECIAL LEGISLATURE CONVENED TODAY

Governor Urges Adoption Ship Commission Report

Governor Asks Legislature To Enact Ship Bill

Setting Forth the Needs of the State for Such Advancement and Expressing belief that the Measure has Support of People the Governor asks that it be put before them in the November Election.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Recommending special legislation submitting the proposal to the people, Governor Cameron Morrison today urged the special session of the North Carolina General Assembly to adopt the report of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission which recommends the establishment of state port facilities and state ship lines. He also recommended repeal of the constitutional amendment already adopted which relates to the sinking fund of the state highway bonds which provides that none of the gasoline tax and auto license fees shall be used for the funds, and the adoption in its stead an amendment permitting the use of these funds in the sinking fund.

The government also urged legislation looking to recovery by the state as an east to west line the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad. Most of his address was devoted to the ship and water transportation report and recommendations of the commission. The governor went at length into the question of freight rates and benefits, he said, would accrue from the establishment of water routes and state ports expressing belief that if this is done the railroads would be compelled to lower the freight rates.

He expressed belief that the ports would directly benefit 50 counties and by the use of trucks and water routings the other sections of the state would be benefited.

The governor urged creation of a commission with power to issue $7,000,000 bonds for port terminals at eastern coast cities and $1,500,000 for acquisition of state owned ship lines if necessary.

"If you go forward with the recommendations of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission," said the governor, "and the railroads do not reduce their charges for carrying freight by rail throughout North Carolina, we will supplant it. I verily believe by cheaper water or part water and part truck transportation of longer part water and shorter part rail transportation to the extent of saving the people of North Carolina a larger sum annually than the $12,000,000 which it costs to administer our state government exclusive of our highway development and other permanent improvements. I therefore with greatest confidence, urge you to enact the necessary legislation to give the people of North Carolina without delay this great opportunity of transportation all commerce which can be carried over water or over water and trucks or over a longer water and shorter rail route from the present cold and cruel opportunity of transportation exclusively at high discriminatory and unjust rates by rail.

The governor then recommended appointment of a commission, as recommended by the report, with the power to issue $7,000,000 bonds at not to exceed five per cent interest, for the purpose of building docks, depots warehouses and other necessary terminal facilities and making physical connections between such depots and warehouses and railroads running into and out of such towns,

That these facilities shall be placed at such towns as the commission may select and find adapted to water transportation or commerce.

The governor declared that the Ship and Water Transportation Commission did not recommend establishment of a so called state port but instead recommended putting them at all towns situated so as to make it possible for them to enjoy the benefit of water transportation. The governor then went on declaring that steps had been taken in most states that have water transportation for the states to have a hand in the developing and handling of port facilities. He then said that the commission had not thought it wise to establish port facilities without taking steps to be sure of their being used and have recommended that a commission be appointed and empowered to issue $1,500,000 bonds for establishing ship lines.

"I urge you gentlemen of the General Assembly," the governor said, "to enact in full and complete form the necessary legislation to put into effect the recommendations of this great commission which has looked into and advised us about this matter but I also recommend that you provide that this legislation shall not take effect until after same has been approved by the majority of the qualified voters of North Carolina at the general election in November. I believe that if this is submitted to the people it will carry in every county in North Carolina," he added.

"I am not one of those who think that the people cannot understand this question. I think the great body understands it very much better than experts and professional classes think they do. They know and understand it means a greater and stronger North Carolina. Their courage is high and their determination is absolutely dependable."

Space At Curb Market Be Allotted By Drawing Places

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Discussions, arguments and racing for the most suitable parking placing at the center mark and its curb here by the farmers who come to the city with their products has now been put to an end by an ordinance just passed by the city council. An ordinance passed a short time ago assessed the occupants of curb space at the market ten cents per day but did not regulate the distribution of the space and as a result there ensued many arguments between the farmers as to who should have the best places each day. Many farmers came to town hours ahead of time to get the most desirable spots in regards to sales.

This has been done away with by the bill just passed which states that the space shall be allotted by drawing for places. The lottery to be regulated by the market managers. Hereafter the farmers will take what they draw, one of the officials stated, and that will put an end to the many arguments.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The prosecution today refused to accept the proposition from the defense for shortening the hearing before Judge John R. Caverly to fix the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and slaying of Robert Franks.

"Our answer is a blanket 'N,'" was the reply of State Attorney Robert E. Crowe, to proposal by the defense that they dispense with hearing lay witnesses and accept a blanket statement as to what their testimony would be and also dispense with the calling of further lay witnesses by the state.

After 30 minutes recess in which the state attorney with his three assistants considered the proposal, the hearing was resumed with Harry Schryer, student of the University of Michigan, as the defense's first lay witness.

Indicted, Tried And Given Death Sentence Within One Hour's Time

Bolling Green, Va., Aug. 7.—Otto Fleece and Fritz Lewis, negroes, were indicted, tried and sentenced to be electrocuted on September 12 in circuit court of Carroll county here today for the murder last week of Thomas R. Campbell 68 years old farmer. The entire procedure lasted little more than one hour.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—The North Carolina General Assembly convened in extraordinary session shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, heard Governor Morrison read his message recommending the creation of a commission with power to carry out the recommendation of the State Ship and Water Transportation Commission, and adjourned shortly after 3 o'clock until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The session was adjourned out of respect for former Governor Locke Craig, of Asheville, who died recently. A resolution lauding the former governor was adopted by both houses. The House and Senate met in joint session at noon to hear Governor Morrison's address on the ship and water transportation recommendations and other matters upon which the legislature would be asked to act.

The Senate headed by Lieutenant Governor Cooper arrived in the chamber of the House of Representatives at 12:01, the lieutenant governor taking over the presiding officers chair.

Governor Morrison arrived at 12:08 and was escorted by a committee to the clerk's desk from which he delivered his message. He was received by great applause.

Mrs. Morrison and the governor's daughter were seated on the front row of the House chamber. Both were dressed in white.

Joseph Daniels, former Secretary of Navy, circulated among members of the House and Senate during the short recess pending the arrival of the governor. Upon arrival of the governor Mr. Daniels seated himself at the press table where he remained during the delivery of the address.

Secretary of State W. N. Everett, apparently completely recovered from his recent operation circulated among the members during the milling about preliminary to the opening of the session.

George Ross sent up a big basket of sand hill peaches which were distributed one being placed upon the desk of each member.

A quorum being declared the clerk read the proclamation calling the extraordinary session. The Senate was then notified that the House was ready for business and a minute later the Senate sent over a message saying that it was also ready.

A resolution was then introduced that the message of the governor be heard in joint session at 12 o'clock. The resolution was unanimously adopted by both houses.

Resolutions deploring the deaths of E. M. McKeever, Lee County, W. M. Saunders, of Johnston County, and Wiley Nelson of Madison county, were adopted.

Governor Morrison finished his delivery of his address at 2:14 this afternoon and both houses adjourned at 2:20.

"AND ALL IS ADVERTISING"

We all advertise. The infant's inarticulate gurgles advertise most effectively for board and lodging. Our sons and daughters are well advertised at the head of their classes, and Mr. Kipling's "flanneled fools at the wicket" are advertising their prowess, and perhaps their pulchritude, to all who will see.

"Mr. Smith allow me to present my friend, Dr. Scalpel,"—strictly ethical advertising for the doctor.

"Mrs. Gramercy Parke: Tuesday in April." Advertising of a most subtle sort—for Mrs. Parke's friends block her street with their motors and their number advertises the success of her reception.

The diamonds of Mrs. Leon Newport, the laces of Mrs. Washington Square and the gowns of Mrs. Plaza Van Netherland convincingly express their prosperity and their taste.

We all advertise. It is the one thing all of us do. In some way or other—always or occasionally—we advertise our smartness, our wisdom, our wit, our wealth and our familiarity with General Pershing and the Captains of Industry.

We are seen at the opera partly for the music and largely to advertise our superiority to the common herd which finds entertainment in the movies.

We choose our pictures and the decoration of our houses with one thought to our own inclinations and another to our friends' opinions. If our magnificence creates conversation the advertising is successful.

Much money is expended for advertising businesses and personalities.

The high hat is an assertion of prosperity and advertises it wearer into the consideration he might not otherwise receive.

The presentation of a $600,000 collection of porcelains to the Art Museum and the giving of $10,000,000 for libraries in advertising—commendable, useful, desirable advertising, and positively worth the money.

Around the club table, over the Volstead highballs of grape juice, we swell out our chests and talk about the price of "Steel" and "New York Central" just as if it really interested us, and so by inference we advertise that we are quite some large pumpkins in the stock market.

And when we die! Flowers, tears, hearses with plumes, mourners and motor cars, and eulogies and preachers and things, advertise our greatness and the grief of our heirs.

And finally they plant a ton or so of granite immediately above the swelling bosoms, to keep the grave from burting with our pride, and in letters of imperishable stone carve upon it an advertisement of our manifold virtues.

So our life begins with a "help wanted ad" and ends with a "testimonial."

And all is advertising.

It may be true the King of Siam is opposed to bobbed hair, but what difference does that make? The opinions of royalty don't cut much joe these days.

When one judges one's self the verdict is pretty sure to be acquittal.

Do our turn. All the world's a stage and most of us make a show of ourselves sometime or other.

Summer Hints for Young Mothers

THE CHILD WHO WON'T PLAY

Healthy children love to romp in summer from early morn until the last call, and if a youngster mopes about the house and looks yellowish, you may know it isn't well.

Think over the little one's diet. It should be watched more carefully in summer. Too much heavy or raw food causes biliousness and indigestion.

Usually a thorough cleansing with Liv-o-Lax and a little better sense about the food will straighten out the child quickly. Liv-o-lax is a vegetable laxative that works on the liver, too. Liv-o-lax is easy to take. Children like it. You can get a good sized bottle at the drug store for 30c.

Follies Girls Dance In "Potash, Perlmutter"

Persons living in the towns and cities which are never visited by the famous Ziegfeld Follies on tour will have an opportunity to see the chorus girls who figure so largely in the revue, by visiting the Theatre today.

A score of the Follies beauties take part in the elaborate cabaret scenes in "Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture produced by

Samuel Goldwyn. In addition there are ten choristers from the cast of the Music Box Revue, the annual production which is the nearest rival to the Follies in New York.

The chorus girls you will see on the screen are the prettiest in the world, and it cost a considerable sum to induce them to appear in the production. But the result justified the expense, in the eyes of Mr. Goldwyn.

"Potash and Perlmutter" was directed by Clarence Badger from the famous play by Montague Glass. The leading roles are portrayed by Alexander Carr, Barney Bernard and Vera Gordon, with a supporting cast including Martha Mansfield, Ben Lyon, Edward Durand, Hope Sutherland, D. Sacia Meers, Jerry Devine, Lee Kohlman and Lee Donnelly. Frances Marion made the adaptation.
