AROUND-WORLD FLIGHT TO BE RESUMED

Davis Flays Republicans In Acceptance Address

Davis Delivers Keynote Address On Last Night

In Address Delivered at Clarksburg, Nominee Declares Honesty In Government Is Big Issue; Republican Administration Charged With Corruption

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 12.—The supreme need of the hour is to bring back to the people confidence in their government, John W. Davis declared tonight in his address accepting the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Formally putting under way the national campaign of 1924, he indicted the Republican party "in its organized capacity for having shaken public confidence to its very foundations," and laid against it these specific charges:

"Having exhibited deeper and more widespread corruption than any that this generation of Americans has been called upon to witness.

"Complicity in the face of that corruption and with ill will towards the efforts of honest men to expose it.

"Gross favoritism to the privileged and utter disregard of the unprivileged.

"Indifference to world peace and timidity in the conduct of foreign affairs.

"Disorganization, division and incoherence."

Declaring that on the record he would ask the voters of the country to pass judgment of condemnation, "as a warning to all men who aspire to public office, that dishonesty, either in thought, word or deed, will not be tolerated in America," Mr. Davis said the Democratic party was prepared to offer in exchange a "program based on Democratic principles and guaranteed by a record of Democratic performance."

The chief things to which he pledged himself were: An honest, impartial, and so far as human wisdom will permit, a just government.

Opposition to any challenge—"organization or unorganized, under whatever name or in whatever character it may appear"—of the Constitutional guarantees of religious freedom.

Enforcement of all laws, including the Prohibition Amendment, and statutes enacted under it.

Agricultural aid through revision of the tariff; governmental assistance in extending the co-operative marketing principle and by other means. Reduction in taxation and revision of the tariff.

Economy in government, but not of the kind that deprives government employees of pay equal to that they would receive from private employers for similar work.

Approval of the World Court.

Co-operation officially with all legitimate endeavors, whether from the League of Nations or from any other source; to lessen the prospect of war, to aid in repairing the ravages of past wars; to promote disarmament and to advance the well being of mankind.

To maintain the means of adequate national defense "until reason is permitted to take the place of force."

In opposition to the impairment, "either by injunction or by any other device," of the rights of labor to organize and to bargain collectively for "an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions."

The protection of women and children.

Farmers Enjoy Rotary Meet In Their Honor Last Night

Last evening was one of the most pleasant ever having been spent by the Greenville Rotary Club, there being present as guests of the club about two dozen farmers from various parts of the county.

Following the formal opening of the meeting a delightful dinner was served, followed by songs and merry-making by both members and their guests. Each of the guests was introduced to the body and there were many short talks of appreciation for the workings of Rotary and what it is accomplishing, made by various guests.

The address of welcome to the farmers was extended by R. H. Wright, president of the club. In brief words he explained the aims of Rotary and Rotarians and the motto of the organization, "Service Above Self," setting forth the joy of practicing friendship and brotherly love. "It is as friends and brothers that we welcome you here tonight," he said.

Responding to the address of welcome, J. C. Galloway, of Grimesland, on behalf of the guests present, expressed appreciation of the invitation from the club to be present on such an occasion. In his talk the speaker dwelt upon the fine spirit of co-operation that exists between the citizens of Greenville and Pitt county and pointed out that it was through such a spirit of friendliness that the county was enabled to make such rapid progress. "We, of the rural districts of the county, are dependent upon your city and in turn your city is dependent upon us and it is only through practicing the teachings of our Savior, of 'Do Unto Others as You Would Have Them Do Unto You' and 'Love Your Neighbor as Yourself' that we can hope to progress."

"We may attain earthly riches and fame but if we have not practiced brotherly love our memory is placed in the grave with us but if we live a life of brotherly love ever holding forth a hand of friendship to our neighbor, when we pass into the great beyond the glory of our life will continue to be a joy and inspiration to those who live after us." The talk was indeed inspirational and greatly enjoyed.

Dr. W. G. Byrd, of the Maternity and Infancy Welfare Service who is here in connection with the Pitt County Board of Health, made a short talk in which he explained the work which the board was trying to accomplish along this line. He explained that it was hoped that through this department the mortality rate in the county would be considerably decreased.

Among the farmers of the county present at the meeting were: Messrs David L. Fleming, R. L. Dudley, W. B. Vandford, J. F. King, O. W. Eakes, Harvey Allen, T. J. Stancill, Charlie Ross, Marvin Taylor, Heber Allen, L. A. Stocks, R. L. Thomason, E. B. Whitford, W. A. Forbes, Coy L. Forbes, Thad J. Little, Charles McLawhorn, Dennis McLawhorn, L. C. Arthur, E. T. Forbes, William McArthur, J. C. Galloway and H. E. Everett. Other guests present were Dr. W. W. Dawson, of Grifton; Mr. Fred Archer, superintendent of the Greensboro public schools, and Dr. W. G. Senate Deals With Highway Commissioner's Salary and Bill Posting Bills While House Passes Local Measures

Raleigh, Aug. 12.—While the House went through a routine session, the introduction of bills and passed few local measures the Senate today fought short battles over the proposal to increase the salary of State Highway Commissioner Frank Page and the "Bill Posting" bill. The highway measure went back to the committee for amendment and the Bill Posting bill was help up until opponents could have a chance to present their side.

Aside from these matters before the Senate the Assembly marked time pending the hearing this afternoon on the port commissions bill. After the hearing it is expected that the bill will be immediately reported to the upper house of the Assembly and the real battle of the session will begin.

Objection regarding the highway commissioners salary bill was made by Senator Brown, of Columbus county, in view of the fact that no limit was stated in the measure. Senator Brown said he felt that Mr. Page deserved an increase in salary but that he did not want to give the commission unlimited sway.

Raleigh, Aug. 12.—The House of Representatives today passed a bill creating a boxing commission for the city of Charlotte, composed of three members to be appointed by the mayor, along with a number of other local bills, received 34 more measures and after a short session adjourned until eleven o'clock tomorrow morning.

One reported by the committee and promptly passed by the House and sent to the Senate permits stores in Hyde County to sell patent medicines. Chairman Burgwyn, of a special committee, explained that there are no drug stores in Hyde county and that under the state drug law certain needed medicines cannot be sold in the county. The Hyde measure was opposed by the State Department of Pharmacy and Mr. Burgwyn told the House the department had been notified that if it wished to oppose the measure further it could be done in the Senate.

The House also passed a bill providing for an extra term of Superior court to be held in Hertford county in December. The bill provides that the term shall be held on the fourteenth Monday after the first Monday in September. Two bond issues for Nash county and two for Vance county were also passed and sent to the Senate.

AN AMERICAN KARL MARK

In the face of the exploding thirty years ago of Karl Marx's doctrine of a revolution made inevitable by the "exploitation of the miserable masses" under capitalism, the LaFollette treaty of alliance with which he hopes to ensnare the Socialists and the Progressives is a reiteration of the Marxian nostrum in all of its original frenzy and fallacy.

Thus a creed rejected by even the saner sort of soap-boxer is not only embraced in this late era by LaFollette and his nebulous following but constitutes the very keynote of their campaign.

The Independence Day convention called by LaFollette to nominate himself as a candidate for the presidency deplored the impoverishment of the man by the few in this manner:

"The American people are honest, intelligent, patriotic, industrious and frugal. And yet, in a land of untold wealth, dedicated to the principle of equal opportunity for all, special privileges to none, life has become a desperate struggle for the average man and woman. The millions who work on the farms, in the mines, in transportation, in the factories and shops and stores, with all their industry and saving, find themselves poorer at the end of the year than at the beginning."

Concrete testimony to support this proposition is confined, in a document several thousand words long, to the following summation:

"Within the last twenty-four years it has thus come about that these powerful groups, through the control of markets and prices, have doubled and trebled the cost of sustaining human life—of housing, warming, clothing and feeding the American people."

It is hardly possible that the LaFolletians expected to be taken seriously in this matter for there is no semblance of truth in their mutterings. Look at the millions "who are poorer at the end of the year than at the beginning" and compare their present lot with that of twenty-four years ago when living costs were half what they are now. What do you find? Twenty-four years ago did "those millions" send their children to college as at present, did they occupy their present comfortable homes, did they own automobiles, player-pianos, phonographs and radios or the more ancient equivalents of these modern luxuries, did they wear fine clothing and eat rich and costly foods as they do today and did they do on a smaller scale everything their wealthier "capitalist" neighbor did as is the case today?

But the fatal and unpardonable mistake made by the LaFollette convention was its reference to the increased cost of feeding the American people. How will this indictment be received by LaFollette's hoped-for farmer support when the farmers are just now complaining loudly against the low prices their products are receiving from the American masses.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy."

TEACH CHILDREN FIRE PREVENTION

Almost every day we read in the news reports of children burned to death in dwelling house fires. Not only one child but three, four and five are burned at a time in a single accident can occur, but the sad fact remains that they do, and in most cases they would have been preventable through just ordinary carefulness.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters in conjunction with the National Board of Education has prepared a booklet entitled "Safeguarding the Home Against Fire." This is a fire prevention manual for the school children of America. Eight hundred and thirty thousand copies of this textbook have thus far been printed and distributed. In picture and text it places before a growing child the dangers that surround on every side as a result of carelessness with fire. This book should be in the hands of every school child in America, and should form the basis of a regular school course from the third to the eighth grades at least in public schools.

The mere fact that the annual per capita fire loss in the United States for every man, woman and child is $2.10 compared with 49c in France, 33c in England, 28c in Germany, 25c in Italy and Austria, 15c in Switzerland and 11c in Holland is sufficient evidence that the teaching of fire prevention should start with the child and become a recognized course of study in this nation.

Women might as well reconcile themselves to the fact that the girlish figures they read about are the exclusive property of girls.

SUCH LOVING PETS

"Standard" is the dealer's choice

When a dealer's earnings depend much on the sale of gasoline you may be sure he selects his brand only after thorough study. "Standard" Gasoline stands first with dealers. Count the pumps!

MADE IN THE "CAROLINAS"

"Standard" Gasoline is as popular with the dealer as it is with the motorist. The men who choose this brand to sell are hard headed business men. They know that the public demands quality and that they can get their share of the business only by carrying what the public wants. Judging by the number of "Standard" pumps you see it's "Standard" Gasoline that the public wants.

There is a sound, substantial reason behind this popularity. "Standard" Gasoline has built up and maintained a reputation for quality since motors first replaced the horse. Quality does not show on the surface. Most gasolines look alike. Your best guarantee of quality is this popularity, for it is based on past performance and the personal experiences of millions of motorists.

To Locate Stolen Automobiles Notify The Local Police

During the past few weeks several automobiles have been stolen and their owners have failed to notify the officers. They will discuss the matter with a friend and the police gets the information in an indirect manner.

Chief Jones feels that it is his duty and the duty of other officers to capture parties quietly of theft but unless they are notified, they can't enforce the law. Two or three days after the disappearance of an automobile is too late to notify the officers and get immediate results. In this time the thief could be hundreds of miles away.

The officers feel that it is unfair to them for owners of stolen cars not to notify them in time to do the best they can to apprehend the thief.

Greenville has an efficient police force and they are anxious to do their part towards enforcing the law but they can't without the co-operation of the public. They are not mind readers nor fortune tellers.

If you have had property stolen from you let the police know and they will take the proper steps to necessary in locating the thief and returning to you your lost property.

MR. FRED ARCHER DELIVERS ADDRESS TEACHERS COLLEGE

Speaks Informally On "Mental Attitudes of the Teacher"

Mr. Fred Archer, superintendent Greensboro public schools, who is President of North Carolina Education Association, made an excellent talk at East Carolina Teachers College last evening, giving in an informal way what he called a "few thoughts," which, if he had to name, he could call "Mental Attitudes of the teachers." These thoughts and suggestions were stimulating and practical and carefully thought by one who knows first hand how important that intangible something called "spirit" is to one who deals with children and who has to work in co-operation with others. He asked the teacher pertinent questions as to what they are reading, what men of their communities they are glorifying and what their praise or blame. He mentioned especially the need of sportsmanlike spirit, which many women sadly lack. He referred to President Wright's gracious gesture in paying tribute to a sister college as an example of good sportsmanlike spirit, and contrasted it with the time when all the colleges in the state were fighting against each other.

He warned against the cheap jingo type of patriotism and the small town brand of boosting and boasting. He urged them to select the things that count for the most in any community, such as schools, the government and other institutions whose influence in making good citizens for the future is great.

What North Carolina is to be 25 years from now, he declared, depends largely on the spirit put with the children today. No one can estimate how much of North Carolina's progress today due to the attitude of the teachers 25 years ago. There is danger now that the teachers are too much concerned about their rating.

He closed by making a plea for the cultivation of a fine, liberal, sportsmanlike spirit, and for passing these on so that North Carolina will profit by it in the future.

President Wright introduced Superintendent Archer in a very happy manner, referring especially to his work in one of educational centers of the state.

The chorus singing of the students under the direction of W. A. Potter was very fine.

Chauffer Shoots Woman and Then Commits Suicide

Great Neck, N. Y., Aug. 12.—An unsealed stamped letter addressed to Clark Wood of South Norfolk, Va., today gave police a clue to the motive for the shooting to death in an automobile last night of Mrs. Clark Wood and the suicide of Frank Fayward, New York chauffer.

The letter written by Fayward and found in his pocket told Wood that it was his wife's desire to marry him (Fayward) and of the latter's decision not to wed.

The letter urged Wood to induce his wife to return to Norfolk and closed with this warning: "If she doesn't go back she will never marry me nor any one else."

DAILY COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, Aug. 12.—The continuance of the drought in Texas and high temperatures there, except in Northwest portion where some rain fell, influenced market to a higher level today. Because of the continuance of dry weather over the drought areas, crop accounts from Texas are less favorable and further deterioration is likely unless the needed moisture is provided in the near future.

There have been scattered showers in other sections of the western half of the belt, heavy at points in Oklahoma and Arkansas the past week, but so far the precipitation has been insufficient, especially in Texas.

To the east of the Mississippi river the crop, except in Mississippi where rain is needed also, indicates that the crop continues to make favorable progress.

The New Orleans weather bureau predicts generally fair weather for this forecast (the west Gulf States), tonight and tomorrow.

With warmer in Northern portion. The market, therefore, remains under the dominating influence of the weather in the western half of the belt, particularly in Texas, has nearly 49 per cent of the entire cotton acreage in south, and stands to make about one-third of the entire crop of the belt. It is for this reason that the market is so sensitive to climatic developments in that important state as the trade is in hope of Texas making more cotton than that produced last year, or more than 4,210,000 bales which was the amount ginned in Texas last season. Based on conditions as of August 1, Texas promised a yield of 4,240,000 bales, but as the drought continues there, it is likely that the present outlook as for a yield there of only about 4,000,000 bales.

If a good crop is to be made in Texas this year or a larger yield than last year's production, it is imperative for good rains to visit Texas in the near future, or during the next ten days, otherwise final results in that state may be disappointing.

GRAIN REPORT
 There is a noticeable lack of enthusiasm outside buying of corn on futures, despite official reports showing that the crop is one to three weeks later than normal. Dry weather is badly needed for harvesting of oats and increasing complaints of damage are coming in as the result of recent storms.

Profit taking and hedge selling of wheat has more than offset the bullish developments abroad. Freezing weather continues in the Argentine.

driven from human greed and unequal laws.

Prevention of child labor and suppression of the illicit traffic in soul destroying drugs.

Conservation of all of the natural resources of the country.

"Grateful care" to the "veterans of our wars, especially to those who were stricken and wounded in the country's service and whose confidence has been so cruelly and corruptly abused."

Finally, Mr. Davis said he entered the campaign free from pledge or promise to any man and would "hold it so to the end." Also he declared that, when it became necessary to raise funds for the conduct of the campaign they would be contributed "with this understanding and this only: that neither the Democratic party nor I as its leader have any favors for sale."

Expressing in general terms his approval of the proposals contained in the platform adopted by the convention which nominated him, the candidate said he could not be expected at this moment to discuss them in detail or to outline the methods by which they are to be carried into effect.

"There will be time enough for that," he said.

Much of his address was given over to a measured attack upon the record of the Republican party during the past four years. Recounting what he termed "the multiplied scandals of these melancholy years," Mr. Davis assailed the Executive Branch of government for "hurried efforts to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy upon investigators and, finally, by trumped up indictment, to frighten and deter" the investigators from their pursuit.

He charged that in the enactment of the present tariff law there was "an unblinking return to the evil days of rewarding party support and political contributions with legislative favors." Also he charged inability of the administration to function due to disagreement between the President and the Republican majority in Congress to agree on public questions.

Declaring that it was not in domestic matters alone that "the symptoms of this creeping paralysis" have appeared, Mr. Davis said that not only have Executive recommendations for adherence to the World Court been "flouted and ignored, but no evidence is in sight that the Republican party as now constituted can frame and carry to its conclusions any definite and consistent foreign policy."

"With the reconstruction of Europe weighing heavily on the world," he said: "with American economic life dwarfed and stunted by the interruption of world commerce; with the agricultural regions of the west sinking into bankruptcy because of the loss of their foreign markets; with our people as powerless spectators, offering to the world nothing but private charity and individual advice."

Moving from his attack on the opposition to a discussion of other issues, Mr. Davis saved to the last his utterances on the subject which was the basis of a bitter fight in the New York convention—religious freedom. Without referring by name to any organizations, the nominee said he wished to "denounce bigotry, intolerance and race prejudice as alien to the spirit of America" and promised that when elected, he would "set up no standard of religious faith of racial origin" as a qualification for any of the thousands of offices he would be called upon to fill.

For the aid of the farmer, Mr. Davis said the Democrats proposed to see to it that the discriminations which the tariff makes against him shall be removed; that this government by doing its share toward a European settlement shall help to revive and enlarge his foreign markets; that the forces of government shall be put actively to work to lend assistance to endeavors for extending the principle of co-operative marketing; that when widespread distress has overtaken him, every power which the government enjoys under the Constitution shall be exerted in his aid.

"He is entitled, too, to demand an adequate service of transportation at reasonable rates," the candidate said. "In spite of the failures and shortcomings of existing laws, this is an ideal which I can not believe to be beyond the reach of attainment."

Turning to the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Davis told his audience that the Democratic party favored the World Court "in sincerity and not merely for campaign purposes, regarding it as a real advance toward the peaceful settlement of international disputes."

As to the League of Nations, the candidate declared that "we do not and can not accept the dictum authorized by any expression of popular will that the League of Nations is a closed incident so far as we are concerned." Adding that at no time had he believed that the entrance of America into the League could occur, would occur or should occur until the common judgment of the American people was ready for the step, he said he was "serenely confident" that a day would come when the voice of public approval would find means to make itself heard.

Promising that if he became President of the United States America would sit as "an equal among equals whenever she sits at all at international gatherings, Mr. Davis said he could not reconcile it with his ideas of the dignity of a great nation to be represented at such gatherings only "under the poor pretense of 'unofficial observers.'"

Red Cross Worker Speaks At College

In her talk Miss Crawford presented the Junior Red Cross as a tool with which to put into practice the theories of modern education.

Great Cast In "Bedroom Window"

The cast of the William deMille Paramount production, "The Bedroom Window," an original screen story by Clara Beranger, presents a line-up of leading players that is all-star in every sense of the word.

May McAvoy and Malcolm MacGregor are featured in the principal roles of the picture, a gripping mystery comedy-drama, which will be shown next Thursday only at White's theatre. Ricardo Cortez also has an important part in the cast as have Robert Edeson, George Fawcett and Ethel Wales. All are featured. Then there is Charles Ogle, who can always be relied upon to give an excellent character portrayal, in a comic butler's role, and Guy Oliver plays a detective. Medea Radzina, the famous Russian beauty, is excellently cast as an altogether charming young woman who claims that the murder in the picture was committed over love for her. Lillian Leighton and George Calliga also appear in support. Quite a line-up, you'll agree!

Miss McAvoy, MacGregor and Cortez have never appeared on the stage but won their spurs after a rapid climb from the "extra" class. The four men, Fawcett, Edeson, Oliver and Ogle stepped from the stage into pictures and are about to celebrate the 150th year of combined playing. Ethel Wales, Miss Leighton and Medea Radzina turned to screen work after a few years' experience in legitimate plays. So, you see, they're all pretty well fitted for the parts they have to portray in "The Bedroom Window." Naturally, all give perfect performances.

It'll be a long time before you see another cast like this in a picture. There has been many a cast called all-star, but there is one that is all-star!

Castor Oil? Never Again!

That's what numbers of mothers are saying since they have tried Liv-o-lax for the bilious attacks, indigestion and similar disorders of their children.

Mother dreads giving castor oil just as much as the baby fears taking it, and the same applies to colamel.

It was because the common family laxative fails to act on the liver that W. L. Hand began experimenting to devise a remedy that would act on both liver and bowels and take the place of colamel and castor oil, and the Liv-o-lax formula, as has been proven in thousands of households, meets this need.

Liv-o-lax is purely vegetable and is a liquid remedy, so pleasant to taste that the children love to take it.

It is just as good for bilious conditions and disorders of digestion in adults. You can get Liv-o-lax now at your favorite drug store.
