SENATE ADOPTS PORT COMMISSION BILL

Powers To Sign Dawes Plan Protocol Tonight

Ship Bill With Referendum Goes To House Mon.

Only One Vote Cast Against Port Commission Bill Carrying Clause for Referendum; East West Railroad Resolution to Come Up in Senate Monday

Raleigh, Aug. 16.—After passing the port commission bill and ordering it sent to the House the North Carolina State Senate today adjourned until 8:30 Monday night. It also passed and ordered enrolled for ratification the House bill creating a boxing commission for Rowan county.

There was no debate on the port commission bill today. The measure passed its final reading with only one vote against it, Senator Williams, of Pasquotank county, an uncompromising opponent of the state's action in the matter, casting that vote.

The companion measure, the resolution providing for procuring east and west trunk line railroad, was laid over until Monday.

The port as sent to the House carries a provision for a referendum vote in the November election on the question of developing ports and the issue of $8,500,000 bonds for that purpose and to establish ship lines if necessary.

In an effort to speed up work of the session the Senate ordered the port measure sent to the House by special messenger in order that the measure might get its first reading before that body today. Some members feared as to the question of its constitutionality and the suggestion was recalled. The bill will therefore go to the House on Monday.

The House resolution calling upon the North Carolina delegation in Congress to use their influence to have the canal between Beaufort and the Cape Fear river completed was passed.

The bill making the term of the register of deeds four years instead of two was passed but was later reconsidered and placed on the calendar again in order that it might be discussed next week.

The Parker bill providing that sheriffs may give discharged prisoners, who have served 30 days or more, a week's food went over for amendments so that the sheriff may give a railroad ticket instead if it will aid the prisoner.

Other bills passed by the Senate included, one to grant a pension to Mrs. Fannie T. Guerant; one providing for payment of damages to roads from the Jackson county road fund.

Raleigh, Aug. 16.—Final action on the Port Commission bill by the North Carolina State Senate was slated for today.

The bill was given its second reading after action had been taken last night on the committee amendment relating to a reference of the bill to the people of the state at the November election this put it in position for a final vote at today's session.

The two-day debate on the amendment, which also carried considerable argument for and against the bill was wound up late last night when Senator Brown of Columbus county, one of the leading advocates of direct passage of the bill by the legislature completed his address.

been anticipated but the margin was unexpectedly large.

The battle over the ship bill has lasted throughout virtually all of this week. Efforts were made on last Monday to call it out of the Water Transportation committee to which it was referred one week ago today. This was blocked however, and the committee held a hearing on Tuesday at which a committee amendment was adopted 8 to 7 striking out a section providing for a referendum.

The bill was reported to the Senate on Wednesday and was made a special order of business for Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. As a result, with the exception of one hour yesterday morning, the bill was discussed constantly for the entire time the Senate was in session during the two days.

The debate was under the direction of Senator Harris of Wake county for the proponents of direct action and Senator Giles for those favoring a referendum. Senator Williams of Pasquotank county closed the debate for those favoring a resolution.

A bill that would substitute the one under discussion was sent to the clerk's desk during the afternoon yesterday but was refused owing to the parliamentary situation. It will be offered again when the bill comes up for final passage.

This measure introduced by Senator Moss calls for direct appropriation of a $2,000,000 bond issue for the development of some one seaport on the North Carolina coast. It does not provide for ships. The measure as it now stands provides for $8,500,000 worth of bonds and for both port development and a state ship line if needed.

Meat Packers Would Be Required to Have Products Inspected

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—Meat packers killing more than 1,000 beef cattle or more than 10,000 hogs or 500 sheep during any one year would be required under a bill passed by the Senate and sent to the House, to have all of their products inspected by a veterinarian appointed by the city in which the packing house is located. The measure provides that the municipality in which the plant is located shall assess a tax of twenty five cents per carcass for maintenance of the inspection department, for each head of cattle butchered; ten cents for each hog and ten cents for each sheep.

The bill also provides that only licensed veterinary surgeons shall be employed for the inspection work. Fees must be placed in the general fund of the collecting city.

Eskimos Lack Grazing Lands

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 5.—Alaska Eskimos with their large reindeer herds, on the Seward Peninsula are facing the same problem that sheep men did in the western states years ago, according to William T. Loop, superintendent of the Alaska division of the bureau of education.

"There are no land leasing or grazing laws in the north and, regardless of the natives' prior rights to the land, their reindeer herds are being found necessary by the Port Commission seven members, which is slowly crowded out," said Superintendent Lopp.

KID M'COY HELD IN CONNECTION WITH WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Theresa Moers and Kid McCoy

Los Angeles, Aug. 16.—An entirely new aspect has been given at the Mrs. Theresa Moers shooting investigation, police announced today, in the testimony of a woman who said she saw two men fleeing from the apartment occupied by Mrs. Moers and McCoy, former pugilist, a few minutes after the shot was fired that ended the life of the wealthy divorcee early Wednesday morning. The new witness, the police say, lives in the apartment directly under that in which the shooting occurred and that she saw one of the fleeing men so clearly and at such close range that she was able to give detectives a complete description of him. This man, she said positively and repeatedly, was not Kid McCoy. She was able to furnish no description of the other man other than she knew it as a dark vague shape of a man running swiftly from the building.

Group 7 to Conduct Services In Simpson Sunday Afternoon

Group 7 of the Laymen's Christian Federation will conduct services in Simpson Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. C. B. Rowlett, one of the Federation's most interested members, will have charge of the service and his message will be worth hearing.

Several members of the Women's Federation will accompany the Men's Federation to Simpson and take a part in the services.

Every man, woman and child in the county is extended a cordial welcome to attend the service.

Union Services Will Be Held In Methodist Church

The union services which have been in progress throughout this city for the past several Sunday evenings will be held tomorrow evening with the Presbyterians in the Methodist Church. Rev. Leland W. Smith, of the Memorial Baptist church, will deliver the sermon.

"BARNYARD GOLF" RANKS HIGH IN THE MICHIGAN STUDENT SPORTS

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Horseshoe pitching is more popular than baseball with University of Michigan students participating in intramural athletics, statistics compiled by Fielding H. Yost director of athletics, have revealed.

The report shows that 670 found diversion in the ancient and honorable game of barnyard golf, while only 150 sought to emulate Ty Cobb or Babe Ruth.

Of the more than 8,000 students participating in intramural sports, 1,300 have shown a favoritism for basketball, and 1,178 for playground ball. Speedball, drawing 900, comes next in line and bowling, with 717 students regularly on the alleys, is fourth.

Gymnastics was the least popular, only 35 participating. Indoor baseball attracted but 50.

D'Oisy Gives Plane to Japan.

Tokyo.—Captain Georges Pelletier D'Oisy, the French aviator who recently completed a flight from Paris to Tokyo, has donated the airplane in which he made the last leg of his journey from Shanghai to the Japanese Army.

HOUSE REPEALS HIGHWAY SINKING FUND AMENDMENT

Amendment Allowing Use of Gasoline and Auto Tax for Sinking Fund Will Be Brought Up Monday

Raleigh, Aug. 16.—The bill calling for repeal of the amendment to the constitution preventing use of revenue as a sinking fund as passed by the last General Assembly was voted upon favorably today by the House and sent to the Senate.

The amendment providing for use of revenue by the State Department, collected from gasoline tax and automobile fees for the retirement of bonds, was carried over until Monday owing to a typographical error in the drawing up of the bill.

Amendment to the North Carolina stop law provides that motor vehicles come to a stop at all railroad crossings where four or more trains pass daily. The amendment allows arresting officers to take a fine not to exceed $10 for the appearance of violators of the law before a Justice of the Peace.

Discussion followed the introduction of a resolution by Representative Townsend, of Harnett county, to provide suitable seats in the galleries of both the branches of the assembly for the use of the governor, his family and friends.

Representative Thurston stated that he failed to see why the governor could not sit among the common people who support the state. He declared himself for the masses and not in favor of heaping honors upon high officials.

Representative Townsend declared that in the past governors had been prevented from visiting the assembly to listen to discussions because they were accused of lobbying if they took comfortable seats among the members.

He explained that it was customary in most states to provide accommodations for the chief executive and that it should be done in North Carolina.

The resolution was unanimously

Methodists Enjoy Annual Picnic At Public Landing

The Methodists, nearly 700 strong, journeyed by auto to Public Landing yesterday and enjoyed a most delightful outing. Weather conditions were ideal, the eats were splendidly prepared, the water was fine, and in fact the picnic in its entirety was a great success.

Mr. Wiley Brown in a most graceful manner presided over four tubs of lemonade and if anyone left thirsty it wasn't his fault.

Mr. W. D. Pruitt, chairman of the transportation committee saw to it that everyone who desired to go had a comfortable seat and the trip was made both ways without any trouble.

V. C. Fleming, who believes in "feeding people" had plenty of chicken, ham and barbecue.

There was a plenty and to spare and everyone left declaring that they were "too full for utterance."

The older people rested in the shade of the large trees while the younger set enjoyed swimming and bathing.

Everybody enjoyed fellowship on the pavilion and the day passed too soon.

The day will always be remembered by the Methodists as one of the best ever spent.

Italian Airmen Crossing Atlantic

Hofn Hornafjord, Iceland, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian aviator, who is making a trans-Atlantic flight in the wake of the American Army around-the-world fliers, arrived here at noon from Thors Haven, Faro Islands.

GROUP 6 TO CONDUCT SERVICES AT MR. BOYD'S IN CHICOD TOWNSHIP

Group 6 of the Laymen's Christian Federation will conduct services at the home of Mr. West Boyd in Chicod township Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. S. T. Hicks will have charge of the services.

Every member of Group 6 is invited and urged to be present.

Among other bills passed was one allowing rural police in Columbus county and one incorporating the Higgs-Roanoke Institute, a reformatory for negro boys of Pitt county.

Agreement Upon Ruhr Evacuation Has Been Reached

Time Limit of One Year Set For Evacuation of Rhineland; Conference to End Tonight With Signing of Protocol

AMERICAN FLIERS FURTHER DELAYED

Washington, Aug. 16.—Departure from Reyjavik of the American airplanes on their around the world flight may be delayed indefinitely to await improved conditions it was indicated by a message from Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, flight commander, received here today by chief of the air service.

The message dated yesterday told of new delays due to ice and other circumstances. The message added that the fliers would hop off as soon as was practical.

London, Aug. 16.—The French and Germans have finally settled their long controversy over the military evacuation of the Ruhr by an exchange of letters today agreeing that August 15, next year, be fixed as the final date when French and Belgian troops must complete the evacuation of Ruhr territory.

The Belgians joined the French in the letters covering these points. Both French and Germans in their letters insist that they have not altered their opinions as to the legal questions involved in the Ruhr occupation.

Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, is also preparing a letter in denial of charges that the coerced Germans to accept the French demand that the Ruhr occupation continue for a year longer. He is also expected to issue a statement expressing hope that the evacuation will be even speedier than provided in the agreement. Belgian ministers have made a statement that the entire territory occupied by Belgian troops have left the Ruhr. In other words the military evacuation will be completed by next August 15.

Preparations continued for the plenary session of the international conference tonight when the complete membership will be summoned and the delegates will sign the agreement as to when the Dawes program will be executed.

Many of the delegates plan to leave London tonight. The French and Belgians are said to have agreed to the immediate withdrawal of 400 of their nationals working on the German railway systems. They will demand retention of only a restricted body of railway employees for the benefit of the occupation forces.

The German delegates propose to have the present accord on the occupation issue formally incorporated into the conference protocol thus making all the signatory powers morally responsible for the evacuation of the Ruhr within one year.

Chancellor Marx will also strive to obtain amelioration of the present administration methods in the Ruhr which would preclude the French from interfering even in the slightest degree with German local courts and other activities.

Interest Increasing In Revival Services Red Oak Church

Interest is still increasing in the revival at Red Oak Christian Church. Last night the church was filled to overflowing. Extra seats had to be provided.

Mr. Fox, in his clear concise way, delivered another splendid message. A quartet was rendered by Misses Louise Stokes and Charlotte Tyson and Messdames James Allen and Leon Tyson. There was one confession at the close of the sermon.

The singing under the leadership of Mr. Toppins is inspiring. Everyone seems to greatly enjoy singing the old familiar hymns.

There will be services tonight, Sunday School Sunday morning at 9:45 and services at eleven o'clock and services again Sunday night at 7:45. Mr. Fox will preach at all these services.

You are cordially invited to attend these meetings. They will last during a part of next week.

Surgeon's Report Strengthens Story Told By Kid McCoy

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—The gun which killed Mrs. Theresa Moers, for whose death Kid McCoy is held in jail here, was held within two feet of her head, a fact which might tend to support McCoy's story of the woman's suicide, the autopsy surgeon announced today.

OWN HAIR THEN GLAMMES HUMAN MONSTER

Rosenthal, Germany.—The police have recently completed a long investigation of a reported attack upon Charlotte Fenster, a young stenographer, by a human monster, who cut off her braids and was prevented from doing further harm by the appearance of the girl's dog, according to Charlotte.

The police, pressing Charlotte closely for the facts learned that the girl wanted to have her hair bobbed and was forbidden by her parents; that Charlotte held up herself and cut off her own braids and then reported the alleged attack to the police.

Mr. and Mrs. James Applewhite and children left this afternoon for a visit in Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach.

J. S. Sutton Suffers Snake Bite on Foot While Pulling Fodder

Mr. J. S. Sutton, of Ayden township, is suffering from a snake bite on his foot, which he received last Thursday while pulling fodder. Mr. Sutton did not see the snake until it was too late to escape. As he pulled back the fodder he saw the large highland moccasin which immediately gave its victim a fight. The first stroke failed to hit Mr. Sutton but the second had its effect and the snake fastened its deadly fangs in Mr. Sutton's foot.

Mr. Sutton was completely unnerved by the attack and reached the house just as soon as possible. Medical attention was given and he is resting as quietly as could be expected. His limb is badly swollen and the pain is intense.

His many friends in Greenville and throughout the Ayden section will regret to learn of the unfortunate occurrence and wish for him an early recovery.

POSSIBLE ELECTORAL DEADLOCK FIGURED POLITICAL DOPESTERS

Washington, Aug. 16.—As always happens when more than two outstanding presidential nominees are in the running, political dopesters again are figuring over the possibilities of a deadlock in the Electoral College this year and speculating whether in that event the House of the Senate finally would decide who should become president.

There are many ifs and ands in these calculations and the dopesters themselves are not forgetful of the fact that only twice in the country's history—in 1800 and 1824—was the College of Electors unable to make a choice. And on those occasions the issues were settled in the House without difficulty.

Nevertheless, the figuring goes on as Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette begin warming up for their three-cornered campaign, and some of the prognosticators even advance the theory that all three may fall of election. That point in the complicated skein of theorizing is arrived at in this fashion:

Should no presidential nominee receive a clear majority of the 531 votes in the Electoral College the House would be called upon to select a president from the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes in the college, and the Senate would be directed to choose a vice president from the two highest vice presidential candidates. Should a deadlock then develop in the House, the vice president chosen by the Senate would become president.

The possibility of a House deadlock is based upon the present political situation there, coupled with the language of the twelfth amendment, which provides that if, after counting the electoral vote, no candidate has a majority:

"Then from the persons having the highest number not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as president, the House shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representatives from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all states shall be necessary to a choice."

In the present Congress, the Sixty-eighth, which would be the one to handle such a situation should it develop, the Republicans control 23 state delegations or 23 votes; the Democrats 20, while Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey probably would be unable to vote as their delegations, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, supposedly would be unable to agree, and thereby deadlock themselves.

The 23 Republican states are the membership now stands are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The 20 Democratic states are Alabama, Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

The LaFollette followers control the Wisconsin house delegation and hope in the event of an Electoral College deadlock to swing over also some of the other states in the Democratic as well as the Republican column.

With 25 votes, each representing a state, needed to elect the dopesters say triumphantly: "There you are; see if you can figure it out for yourself."

JAPANESE EDITOR SUGGESTS PACT AGAINST ANGLO-SAXONS

Tokio.—That "the three orphans of the world," Japan, Germany and Russia, must unite for their common protection against Anglo-Saxon domination is the gist of an editorial appearing in the Yomiuri Shimbun formerly a liberal journal but now one of the organs of the nationalist elements.

"In international politics," said the Yomiuri, "there are three orphans in the world, Japan, Germany and Russia. Now they are isolated from each other, but the time may come when changing political conditions will require them to unite. It is likely that at some time an alliance, or relations approximating an alliance, will be effected between Japan and Russia. When the orphans are united it will strike consternation to the soul of Anglo-Saxondom."

BRITISH WOMAN SLAIN BY BANDITS ON MEXICAN RANCH.

Mrs. Rosalie Evans and Wheel showing victim's hair in wheel.

Many arrests have been made and several Mexicans have paid with their lives for the murder of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, wealthy British woman, who was shot and killed at her ranch at Pueblo, Mexico, Bernard Olivares, brother-in-law of Mrs. Evans, is shown standing beside the vehicle in which Mrs. Evans was riding at the time of her death. Strands of her hair may be seen caught in the wheel. Mexican Government officials believe robbery to have been the sole motive for the shooting, inasmuch as John Strauss, manager of the ranch, was robbed of 2,000 pesos.

AMERICA INHERITS THE MAGNIFICENCE OF THE MANDARINS

AMERICAN women will gown themselves this fall in specialties which for gorgeousness will be equal to those worn by the ancient emperors and mandarins. Brocade and tinsels have been developed on American looms in a richness and perfection of artistry never before seen in this country.

The Chinese influence will be the dominant note in these formal fabrics, according to Henri Creange, art director of Cheney Brothers. It is seen, for instance, in this Paris evening gown of brocade, a Chinese design enhanced with silver, which also illustrates the dictum of simplicity of line combined with elaboration of fabric with which we will become accustomed as the season advances.

This gown really depends more upon the hand of the draper than upon the needle of the dressmaker for its effect. The dress is very cleverly handled, with width being thrown on the left side which is slightly shorter. One shoulder is covered while the other has a beaded shoulder strap upholding an under slip of frothy chiffon which helps to soften the line.

The ground of the brocade is a dull, Chinese orange, with old blue flowers. With rich blue ostrich plumes emphasizing its intriguingly irregular outline, this robe has every right to "prize" itself, for one would have far to search before finding a more royal one.

The string of silver beads is very new, and corresponds with the touch of silver in the brocade. The slippers—inevitably—are of silver also.

THIS VERSATILE TUNIC PROVES WILLING TO PLEASE

THE designing little blouse pictured here, artfully helps you to "assume a boyishness, the you have it not," for it generously subtracts just about ten years from your age, and, incidentally, ten pounds from your weight.

Long tunic blouses are in the front rank of fashion and are as practical as they are chic, for they admit of a great deal of variety in the wardrobe, and several can be used with the same pleated skirt. The original of this blouse, observed in Paris by Henri Creange, Cheney fashion authority, was in grey Frostkrepe, with bands of the same material. It was worn over a black satin pleated skirt. The disposition of the bands is ingeniously calculated to enhance the slenderizing effect of the line, and the deep openings at the side of the tunic not only add the desired Chinese note, but give more freedom to the wearer.

That this blouse is also obligingly versatile is proved by the smaller illustration, where a belt is added for the encouragement of those women who find the beltless mode somewhat trying. The belt, of the same material, is passed under the long bands and the tunic allowed to blouse slightly over it. The buckle of the belt is a clear red, and the cool grey of the blouse is further set off by two buttons of red galalith at the center of the square neck, and a matching set of red bracelet and ear drops.

CARRIER PIGEONS PREFER SHIPS TO FLIGHT ACROSS CHANNEL

Bremehaven, Germany.—American ships seldom make the trip between Bremerhaven and Southampton without having carrier pigeons as passengers. The crews of the Shipping Board vessels have made a practice of supplying the tired carriers with food and water, and they seem to have learned to identify the American flag and make for the Stars and Stripes whenever they are weary.

Usually the birds seek the ships about dusk. They apparently dislike the night flight across the North Sea and the English Channel and prefer to ride. The birds are seldom shy. Frequently they allow the sailors to feed them from their hands and inspect the numbers of the discs about their legs.

After the birds have satisfied their hunger and thirst they seek a sheltered perch high on the masts and remain with the vessel until within a few miles of land.

Many of the birds which rest on the Channel ships are doubtless engaged in the races which carrier pigeon societies are conducting between England and the various parts of Europe.

The Cake Eater We Always Have With Us

ALTHOUGH the "cake eater" in the slang sense of the word is a strictly modern product, there has always been cake macking from earliest days and consequently cake eating and cake eaters. And cake pans.

The immaculate lady in the picture is not a housewife indulging in a cake making orgy but one of an army of equally immaculate ladies who daily in the great Ward Bakeries line cake pans with white paper, for the huge output of more than eighty-five million packages of cake a year.

Two thousand years ago, the ancient Romans had a pretty taste in cakes, as will be seen by this drossy bronze cake pan unearthed in the ruins of a Pompeian bakery.

Coming to the New World, before (considerably before) the advent of our modern bakeries, the native redskin had her own way of baking. The squaw would gather and shell acorns from the black oak tree. These were placed in a solid granite mortar as shown in the above photograph and then ground to the consistency of cornmeal with the use of a pestle. After this water was added, and the result baked in the sun. Above are shown typical native Indian bake and cake pans.

Save Save Save

James J. Hill says: "If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or not, you can easily find out. The test is simple and infallible. Are you able to save money? If not drop out. You will lose; You may think not, but you will lose sure as fate, for the seed of success is not in you."

HUMAN NEGLIGENCE PRIMARY CAUSE OF FOREST FIRE PERIL

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—The great forests of firs, pines, spruces, hemlocks, redwoods and sequoias that stretch over the states of the Pacific Coast have been menaced more seriously by fires this summer than at any time in recent years. California, in the grip of a protracted drought was the worst sufferer.

Despite the tinder-like condition of the California national forest, where the most disastrous of the fires have burned, Paul G. Redington, United States district forester here, is of the opinion that there would have been virtually no fire hazard, and would not be at any time, if human carelessness could be eliminated.

In a recent statement, Mr. Redington attributed to negligence 657 of 839 fires in the state this year.

"About 80 percent," he said, "are caused by carelessness campers, motorists, fishermen and others who frequent the forests. It is true that every year a certain number of fires are caused by lightning, but we do not have the lighting fires. Generally they are started in exposed places at high elevations, spots easily discerned by our lookout men. It usually is a much simpler matter to put them out than to check those of human origin. Campers are apt to cause blazes along stream beds, in places less cool and less accessible."

So serious has the situation been in the California forests that the federal forester arranged for United States soldiers to patrol certain districts of the national reserves where the hazard was greatest. The federal forest service maintained a force of 650 men in this state throughout the summer, and at times, when several huge fires were burning in different national forests, thousands of temporary fire-fighters supplemented the regulars.

At times, when fires were raging uncontrolled and, in several instances, towns were threatened, men near the scenes were conscripted for service.

But this was resorted to rarely. At the close of July the fires all had been controlled and most of them were out, but the drought remained. Normally there is little rainfall on the Pacific Coast in summer. The dry spell in California, however, had started in the early spring. By the latter part of the summer the federal forests had lost more than $1,500,000 in timber, with unestimated damage to watersheds.

There also were severe fire losses in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, though the peril was less acute than in California. Late summer rains removed much of the hazard in Oregon and Washington.

It was held necessary to close to the public large areas of the California national forests. Such closing never would be required could the element of negligence be removed, the district forester said.

He and other officials expressed the opinion that education was the only weapon to combat this carelessness. With this in view, they have placarded the state with posters and notices reminding people to put out their camp fires carefully and not to throw unextinguished matches or cigarettes into the woods.

Declares Moonshiners Been Fertile Source Forest Fires in State

Raleigh, Aug. 16.—Moonshiners carelessly handling fire at their hidden stills have been a fertile source of forest fires in the western portion of North Carolina during recent months, according to Senator Squires who has placed before the Senate a bill designed to prevent fires caused by carelessness. He said that one of his clients recently suffered a loss of at least $20,000 when a tract of 1,000 acres of timber was burned over by a first fire that is believed to have started at a moonshine still.

The Squires bill would require the State Insurance Commissioner to appoint two or more deputies whose work would be confined to the investigation of forest fires. These men would conduct thorough investigations and whenever blame could be fixed would have the power to cause the arrest of the responsible parties. Senator Squires said that carelessness of campers along the highways of the state had been the cause of but few fires in his section. By far the greatest majority, he said, were caused by moonshine makers who place their illegal stills in hidden recesses far in the wooded mountain sections and at a distance from places where they would be discovered in time to prevent serious loss.

DOCTOR HELD FOR BROTHER-IN-LAW'S SLAYING.

MRS. CURTIS W. EMERY

DAVID M. NOBLE & DR. R. D. THIERY

Dr. Raymond D. Thiery, of Somerville, Mass., was arrested and held during a probe into the shooting of David M. Noble, his brother-in-law, when Mrs. Curtis W. Emery, a neighbor, told authorities she had seen no one leave the Thiery home, although Dr. Thiery said the killing was done by a burglar. Dr. Thiery also said he was attacked, and exhibited cuts he said were made by the intruder. The police theory is that Dr. Thiery cut himself with a small pen knife. The gun with which the shooting is said to have been done has been found in Dr. Thiery's residence.

Hunger and Penury Chief Motives For Recurring Murders

Moscow. — Civil war, revolution and famine have made life cheap in Russia. Every day the papers are full of accounts of men and women who either have killed themselves or murdered others for the most trivial causes. Hunger and penury often furnish the chief motives for the constantly recurring murders. One of the most striking cases recently was that of Dousyn Golovkina, a beautiful girl of 17, who killed her girl companion in order to realize $5 on the sale of her clothing. This was the second instance within a week where a woman murdered another in order to get her clothing.

Without the slightest trace of emotion or remorse, Miss Golovkina explained to the judge of the Moscow criminal court that she had borrowed $5 from a woman acquaintance to give to her lover, a youth of 19, and as she found it impossible to repay the debt, she enticed her girl companion to her home, while her parents were out. She directed her previously to dress in her best clothes, as they were "going to a ball."

While the girl was looking at a photograph on the wall of the home, so which her host had directed her attention, Miss Golovkina crept up stealthily from behind and struck her on the head with a heavy hammer. She then dragged the lifeless body into another room, where she cut it in seven parts, burying each part separately in her yard.

Miss Golovkina took the clothing of the murdered girl to her in-laws, who sold it for $10, of which he spent five on drink, giving the balance to the woman from whom his sweetheart had borrowed the $5.

Five alienists who examined the young slayer pronounced her normal, saying she was capable of realizing the responsibility for her act. The judge, on account of her youth, gave her only five years, while her fiancée was let off with a similar sentence.

QUARRYMEN OF INDIANA COLLECT RELICS IN STONE

Bedford, Ind.—Egyptian stone relics from the ancient city of El-El-Amarn, sent by the Egypt Exploration Society, have arrived at headquarters of the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's Association. They will form a part of what eventually is planned to be the most complete collection of stone types in the world. King Tut-Ankh-Amen's father-in-law, Amenhotep IV, 33 centuries ago, founded the city, whose ruins are now known as Tel-El-Amarna, on the Nile in Upper Egypt, and from which the collection was excavated, according to Thomas Whitmore, who obtained many of the relics for the society.

Quaint pieces of limestone furniture, low-slung chairs, stools, stands, an offering table, and curious utensils for grinding meal are included in the collection, dug from many homes of these ancient ruins. There are also bits of sculpture bearing hieroglyphics sharply carved and easily translated.

GERMAN INDUSTRIALISTS ALARMED OVER EMIGRATION OF WORKERS

Dusseldorf, Germany. — German skilled workers are leaving the Fatherland in quest of better luck elsewhere in such alarming numbers that German industry is seriously jeopardized. This is especially true of the Ruhr Valley.

A conference was recently held here between representatives of the Prussian government and the Rhinish industrialists, at which this question was aired. The speaker for the industrialists used the following unequivocal language:

"The emigration of German workers is reaching greater and greater proportions. The great majority of those emigrating consists of skilled specialty workers. In other words, it is our most capable workers who are leaving their country. "German industry, which by its nature is dependent upon capable specialty workers as its very backbone, is threatened with annihilation if emigration continues as at present."

Famous Doctor Sees End of Sickness.

The possibility of eliminating disease from civilized countries was the theme of the address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, by Dr. David C. Bruce, chairman of the governing board of the Lister Institute of Preventative Medicine, who succeeded in controlling parasitic maladies in the British Army during the World War. The end of sickness, he declared, is not so far off, if medical science continues its present advance, and if the public will heed its advice.

PROMINENT FIGURES IN NEWS OF DAY.

Below, Senator James A. Reed & Prince Henry of England

Prince Henry, 24 years old, third son of King George of Great Britain, is reported about to wed a daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, at whose home in Scotland he has been a recent visitor. The Spanish throne is tottering and King Alfonso may abdicate owing to the grave political situation, according to rumors. United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, denied he will desert the Democratic Party and in a statement issued after his recent illness pledged his full support. Cardinal Mercier, the venerable Belgian prelate, whose health has several times been reported failing, is suffering from phlebitis, a disease which attacks the veins, dispatches from Brussels say.

YOUTH AND WOMAN FOR WHOM HE SLEW.

Love existing between Mrs. Anna Willow, more than twice his age, caused Ralph Shadle, 17, to kill Mrs. Willow's husband with a shotgun, according to his own confession. Mrs. Willow corroborated his statement. The boy declared Mrs. Willow made love to him and he killed at her urging so that he could have her to himself. Both are in jail at Middleburg, Pa., near where the crime was committed.

Delight them
with refreshing
Orange-Crush
Pure, Healthful and Delicious

Mothers — you can give the children all the Orange-Crush they ask for. It's pure, and healthful, and delicious. By actual analysis, conducted by Professor Harry McCormick of the Armour Institute of Technology, a six-ounce bottle of Orange-Crush has been shown to contain a food value of 186 1/2 Calories.

These are the six ingredients of Orange-Crush — six reasons for its supreme deliciousness: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes); (3) Orange juice; (4) Pure carbonated water; (5) U. S. Certified food color; (6) Pure cane sugar.

Delight the children — yourself and the rest of the family, too — with a round of these sparkling and refreshing drinks this very evening. Simply ask your grocer to send you home a case today.

Pure and Wholesome —and accepted as such by the highest medical authority in America

THE American Medical Association—the national organization composed of practically all the first-class physicians in the United States—publishes a popular magazine known as HYGEIA. This magazine is published not for profit, but to place before the public, on the highest authority of medical science, the latest findings on the subject of good health. Naturally the pure-food standards which advertised products must live up to in order to be accepted by HYGEIA are the strictest in the world.

Observe now the above page-advertisement of Orange-Crush reproduced from the July issue. And note, too, that Orange-Crush is the only fruit-flavored carbonated beverage which has ever gained admission to the advertising columns of HYGEIA. Incidentally, Orange-Crush is not only a pure-food drink—as witnessed by its acceptance in the pages of HYGEIA; it is also the most refreshing and delicious drink that ever trickled down your throat! Try one—icy cold and served you in the famous Krinkly Bottle—today.

PROVINCIALISM

If the present trend of events continues, there will soon be no provincialism left in the United States. Isolation is what makes people provincial, and isolation is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

The telephone was the first medium to connect far-lying districts with the life of the cities. The automobile next furnished a means of rapid and convenient transit. Now the city has been brought to the small town by means of the radio. When Prairie Depot, Ohio, can listen in on concerts as far east as Newark, as far south as Atlanta, and as far west as Kansas City, then that town partakes in a measure of the characteristics of the cities. They have something in common together.

The great national roads form another de-provincializing element. A sparsely settled district, however far it may be from the larger centers, cannot grow self-centered and peculiar when cars from 10 different states pass through town every day.

In fact, the danger lies in the opposite direction. Towns tend to grow rather too much alike. Without labels, it is difficult for a stranger within a diameter of 500 miles to be able to distinguish one town from another. Town spirit is also becoming more difficult to foster. Communication and easy travel have brought this about. There may come a time when the people of this country have extended their travels around the globe so widely that they will not appear even as distinctively American.

WHY NOT GET FUN OUT OF LIFE?

Sinclair Lewis is right; a lot of Americans do not get enough fun out of life.

The young intellectuals challenge contemporary life and thought because it is regimented and standardized. Davenport is put in front of fireplaces, not because the owners want them there, but because other people have them there. Mr. Babbitt installs a cigar lighter in his car, not because he thinks he gets fun out of a harmlessly glittering automobile accessory, but because he thinks it gives "class" to his machine. Doing things because other people do them, or doing them in sincerity to impress other people is one way of leading a dull life.

Fun comes by being one's self. The exterior act should reflect the one within. The davenport is in its proper place when it is where you want it as a being living your own life, and not giving a fig for artificial mass standards. Golf is a good game if you play it because you like it. But it is a poor pastime when you find it but another way of doing what other people do. You might rather play marbles or hopscotch, if marbles or hopscotch better releases your fun instinct.

The remedy for much of which the young intellectuals complain lies in questioning ourselves more as to why we do things. Have our opinions come to us ready-made from our parents or from our environment, or have we thought things out for ourselves? Do we put cigar lights on our cars for the convenience of cigar smokers or to acquire a sham "class"? Why not do more things, think more things, feel more things, that are really our own? That's one way to have fun.

Men want to make things and do things that reflect themselves. They want to create, in the spirit of play, things beautiful or odd or interesting. They get fun out of life to the extent in which the things they make or do reflect what they really are. But as long as the chief business of life lies in coming out better than our brothers in the competitive struggle the brighter business of making life interesting and creative must wait.

Apparently, being a psychiatrist offers chances of big fees, provided one is willing to do that sort of thing.

FASTEST?

O Man, to what undreamt of heights art thou not soaring!

A human being has thrust himself, in a crude mechanical device, through the air-envelope that covers Mother Earth, at the rate of 288 miles an hour.

This is the fastest that any living thing ever has been propelled by its own volition.

Too much, perhaps, we dwell upon our kinship with the other animals. Man is, after all, the king. He has done what was not done before, and the heart gives a leap of hope at the prospect which lies before him.

What are the limits of speed. In humility, answer that you do not know. Here is a gift, a chance, a stepping stone to the stars. If speed can be increased to the measure of the dreams of man, the universe, not one mere world, is his oyster.

In the hand of Fate we lie, the fingers clenched tightly over us. With this achievement of Lieutenant Maughan, it seems that one finger is slowly being forced back. The crushed thing flutters. It fain would deny the barriers, struggle free. If time and space can be thus conquered, may not the riddle of life itself one day be resolved?

CHAIRMAN BUTLER IS RIGHT

"The only practical way to secure responsible political action," says Mr. Coolidge, "is by the formation of parties." And then we learn that the Republican Party is responsible for everything good that has happened since March 4, 1921, and not responsible for any of the evil.

The conduct of Secretary Hughes "has seldom, if ever, been surpassed."

The conduct of Secretary Mellon is "unmatched since the days of Hamilton."

The conduct of Secretary Fall is seldom, in fact never, to be discussed.

The conduct of Secretary Denby is above criticism, at least by Mr. Coolidge.

The conduct of Attorney General Daugherty was seldom, if ever, noticed.

No Government "ever provided so generously" for its veterans and none ever had less to say about the fashion in which its representative, Charles R. Forbes, dealt with the veterans.

Due to the wise policy of his party, there is "an economic survival."

The Washington Conference was "sublime."

True to the principle of taking all the credit in sight and not gushing over the discredit or yielding credit to any one but a Republican, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Dawes, Ambassador Kellogg and Col. Logan are given the whole credit by name for the repatriation plan. Owen D. Young, who did most of the work, and Henry Robinson are graciously not mentioned. They are not Republicans in good standing.

For generosity of mind, for evidence of understanding, for grasp of public affairs, this speech is not distinguished. On the fundamental issue it is just a little sly. "Wherever there have been suspicions of guilt involving members of any party," says Mr. Coolidge, "I have caused them to be investigated and presentation made to the Grand Jury." No, really. Even in a political campaign, does Mr. Coolidge expect the public to take that as an honest account of what happened? What investigation did he "cause" when suspicion attached itself to Fall? Who did the investigating for him? What investigation did he "cause" when suspicion attached itself to the Department of Justice? Under terrible pressure from the Senate and an outraged public opinion, he appointed two lawyers to handle the oil cases after Senator Walsh had done the investigating. And, so far as we know, Mr. Coolidge never investigated a blessed thing on his own initiative, but did his very level best to stop all the investigations.

And what has he to say about the corruption itself? Simply this, that his Administration was not "desirous of a dishonest and corrupt Government." This is as if a policeman who had fallen asleep at his post should say, "I do not advocate burglary." And then, faced with the fact that the burglary nevertheless took place under his nose, should add, "But how dare you say that I was in cahoot with the burglar?" Mr. Coolidge indignantly denies that he committed the crime of "desiring corruption," with which no one has charged him, and under the cloud of this indignation omits any comment on the lesser but none the less important charges of negligence, indifference, obstruction and indecision.

The speech will add nothing to his fame. It is however, a triumphant vindication of Chairman Butler's campaign strategy. That is to keep Mr. Coolidge in Washington, have him say as little as possible, and then see what can be done in intensive machine work to slow up the drift of vote away from the Republican Party.—N. Y. World.

Miners Journal Gives Facts Regarding the Purchase of Coal

Indianapolis.—Elimination of the seasonal demand for coal would be a blessing to the industry and to the public in general," says the United Mine Workers' Journal, official publication of the United Mine Workers of America. The statement was made in discussing the recommendation of the American Engineering Council that seasonal storage of coal would cut the public's coal bill, eliminate danger of coal famine and stabilize the industry.

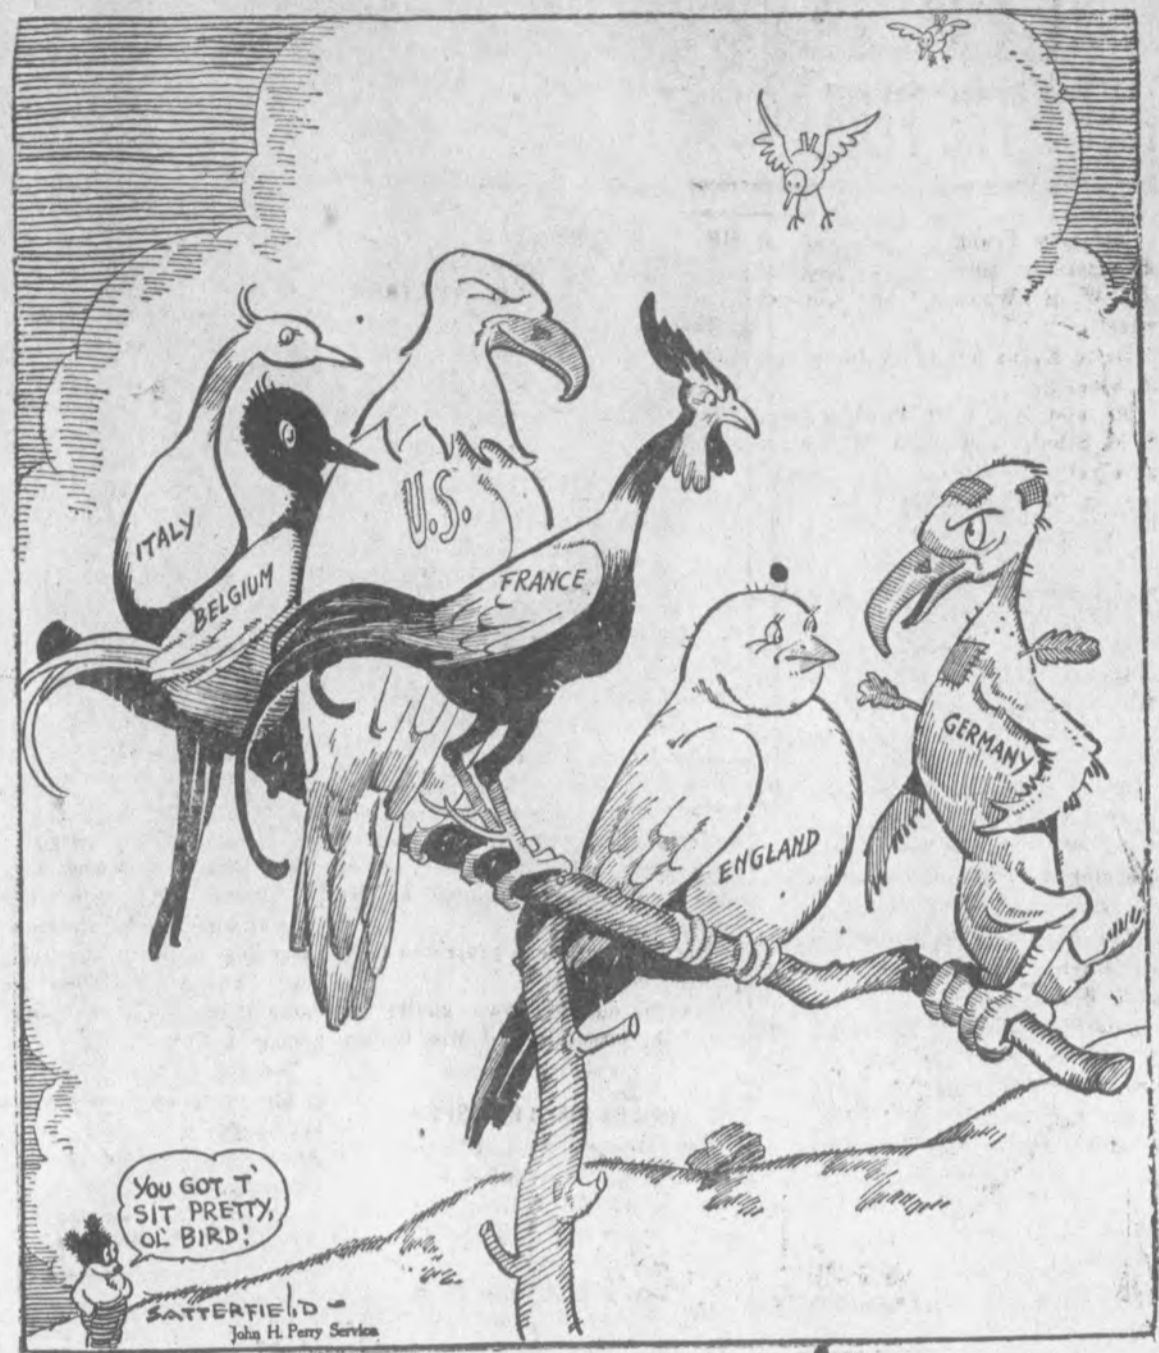

The plan of having the public purchase its coal on annual contracts for yearly requirements with a provision that the coal be delivered monthly in equal allotments long has been advocated, the article points out adding that under the present conditions 47 percent of the idle time of the industry is caused by the seasonal demand for fuel. It was suggested that the council's recommendation also might help solve the problems of too many mines and too many miners.

ITALIAN ARMY EXACTS SERVICE DESPITE THE BOY'S FINE RECORD

Rome.—During the war the youngest soldier in the Italian army was Franco Lawrence who, driven from his home by the Austrians when the Italians overran the border in 1915, became a volunteer in the Italian regiment of Guides at 12 years of age, and had risen to be a sergeant major when he was fifteen. Lawrence took part in over a dozen big actions and was awarded the silver medal for valor for his bravery on the Piave.

All this, however, has availed the young hero nothing, and as all his achievements occurred before he was 18 years of age, he has been called under arms again to do his ordinary military service. The boy veteran is now stationed at Ferrara, and a public subscription has been opened to give him a gold medal in memory of his unique experiences.

1925 Olds Six Introduced Today

The Oldsmobile Six was introduced in its refined and beautified 1925 costume today by the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Michigan. Fundamentally the car remains the same as it was when it was introduced nearly a year ago and at which time it created a sensation in automotive circles as the lowest priced six cylinder car in the world. For the coming year it will add to this proven automobile refinements in line and mechanics.

The most striking changes are in the design of the radiator shell and hood. The radiator shell is nickled and follows the most approved and advanced designs in both European and American car construction. It has a graceful double curve at the top with a slightly curved peak downward in the center which acts as a base for the long known Oldsmobile oval emblem.

Extending downward the radiator shell follows slightly concave lines broadening outward at the base which continues the easy curves that are features of the design.

The shell is somewhat higher than the previous style, which makes possible an almost level stream line hood extending back to the rear of the cowl. The hood follows the double curve of the top of the radiator shell, adding distinctiveness.

The refinement of the front line is further added to by the use of new bell-shaped head and cowl lights, which are standard on all models. These lights are of a heavier and more substantial design than were the drum type formerly used, and their curving lines harmonize perfectly with the new design.

Durable Duco satin finish is used on all models. The standard models are finished in Oldsmobile blue, a rich, dignified shade, trimmed with ivory striping on body and wheels. The sport models continue to use the weathered bronze-green shade that has proven so popular during the past season. These are striped with black and gold. Throughout the line, even including the upper sections of the closed models, Duco is used, thus insuring a really permanent finish and one that can be economically and quickly repaired in case of mishap.

The full line of eight body types is continued. These are the touring, sport touring, roadster, sport roadster, two-passenger business coupe, four passenger coupe, sedan and De Luxe sedan. The touring and roadster are upholstered in black fabricoid, while the open sport models have the heavily grained brown Spanish type upholstery. A new striped velour of a brown-taupe shade trims the interior of the closed models. These are also equipped with metal sun visors covered with black fabricoid. All closed bodies are Fisher built.

Barthelme's In Youthful Role

Richard Barthelme returns to a modern role in "Twenty-One," the First National picture which comes to White's Theatre Monday, after almost a year in which he has played nothing but costume character parts. "Twenty-One," with its bathing parties, its taxi bandits and its strong modern theme, should have widespread appeal to those fans who wish to see Barthelme in the costume of 1923.

Barthelme himself executes a jump from the heavy character role in "The Fighting Blade" to a typical youth of today, which, according to preview reports on "Twenty-One," he plays with an ease that is a tribute to his versatility. The picture is said to be replete with human touches and comedy and presents a powerful climax revolving about one of the great problems of the present day—the habits of the younger generation.

Dorothy Mackaill plays her second role opposite Barthelme in "Twenty One" and again takes a long step forward in her rapid development as a motion picture actress. Ivan Simpson is another newcomer to the ranks of motion picture players who is said to give a stringly good performance. Joe King, Dorothy Cumming, Nellie Parker Sualding, Bradley Barker and Lawson and a large cast of flappers and society belles play in support of Mr. Barthelme.

All the exterior scenes in "Twenty One" were filmed in Westchester County—at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club and at Samuel Untermyer's famous estate Grey-stone.

The true identity of Ruth Dundy became known only after she had married a woman in Marshalltown, Iowa, where she had worked as a man for some time.

"The Gypsy Rover" Delights Teachers College

The performance of the operetta "The Gypsy Rover," at East Carolina Teachers College last night was a marked success, noted especially for the beautiful singing, both of the solo parts and choruses, and the picturesque ensemble scenes.

The solo parts were taken by girls with beautiful voices, and each one was dramatically fitted for the part. Miss Elsie Mae Willis, tall and handsome, and with a good voice, as Rob, the Gypsy rover, sang and acted in a natural easy manner that won her audience as readily as she won the Gypsy children with fairy tales and songs, or with bold wooing won the proud English girl, Lady Constance, whose part was taken by Miss Ger-nette Myers, who made a dainty but spirited heroine, with a sweet voice of beautiful quality. Miss Hortense Mohorne, as the cautious "don't-cher-know" Lord Craven, the unlucky lover, formed an unlucky contrast to the rover, and did some of the best acting of the evening.

Miss Elizabeth Morris, by her bold, dashing acting and because of her rich contralto voice, was easily one of the favorites of the evening. She has dramatic fire and a big voice that are characteristic of operatic singing.

The most brilliant solo of the evening, the waltz song, was sung by Miss Nora Williams. She interpreted it artistically, and her singing gave evidence of her superior training. The voices of Misses Williams and Morris blended wonderfully in the two duets, one before the curtain, "Gypsy Sweethearts."

There was a pretty duet in the second act by the English couple, Nina and Captain Jerome, whose parts were taken by Misses Bessie Alford and Maxine Felton. Miss Mary Louise Elliott, as Meg, was a typical Gypsy beauty and sang well. Miss Beulah Carr as Marta was a good Gypsy, and Miss Flonnie Spell as Sir George Martendale, was a fine English gentleman.

The dances contributed greatly to the success of the evening. In the solo dance at the beginning of the third act, Miss Mary Field was all grace and lightness. A Spanish dance gave a distinct note to one scene, and the dances by the English maids and the men added grace to the scenes. The dances were directed by Miss Field, director of Physical Education.

The costuming, which was in charge of Miss Armstrong, teacher of sewing, was excellent.

The groups of brown skinned Gypsies dressed in brilliant colors with sparkling beads, and the daintily gowned English maidens and conventionally dressed English gentlemen gave variety and life to the scenes.

Miss Bertolet as the accompanist played with rare sympathy and intelligence.

Mr. W. A. Potter, director of the music, and Mr. R. C. Dyal, dramatic coach, deserve the chief credit for the success of the performance.

There was a large and appreciative audience.

ERECT MEMORIAL TO PRESIDENT HARDING KANSAS CHILDREN

Hutchinson, Kas., Aug. 16.—A memorial of granite with a bronze tablet, set in a little park surrounded by a three-foot stone wall, marks the spot of a farm near here where the late President Harding shocked grain under a broiling sun in June, 1923, when on the trans-continental trip that was brought to an end by his death. The memorial was dedicated August 2, the anniversary of his death.

It was the Chester O'Neil wheat farm, eight miles west of Hutchinson, that the late President shocked grain in the "Ohio way," as he expressed it to Senator Arthur Capper and Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, of Kansas, who previously had showed the Kansas way of doing it. Then Mr. Harding drove a harvesting machine several times around the field, so the "newspaper boys could have a story," as Mrs. Harding said.

The President and party had been greeted at the entrance to the farm by a little group of country folk, among them several children. With them the President and Mrs. Harding chatted freely, the President taking some of the children in his arms. These children and others of Reno county, by contributions of nickels and dimes, raised the fund to erect the memorial.

A bit of ground at the entrance to the field was donated by Mr. O'Neil and a pretty little park was laid out with shubbery, blue grass and a surrounding stone wall. Here on the top of Ray Hill, where thousands of tourists pass on the paved highway that is part of the New Santa Fe trail, the memorial will stand. Atop a flag staff the American flag will fly daily, for the children of the Ryl school have obligated themselves to be custodians of the colors, to see that the flag is raised and lowered each day.

England Will Seek Draft Instrument

Geneva. — When the council of the league of Nations meets in August before the assembly which opens September 1, it will be asked by Great Britain to approve a draft instrument setting forth the conditions under which England is expected to carry out the mandate over Iraq, or Mesopotamia. Instead of the customary mandate straggle which applies to the Pacific Ocean islands and other mandated lands like Syria and Palestine, Great Britain has inserted her mandate obligations in a bilateral treaty which the Bagdad parliament recently ratified.

The council will be requested to agree that the mandate shall be implemented by a treaty of alliance between Great Britain and Iraq, and to approve an arrangement by which the treaty of alliance shall terminate when Iraq becomes a member of the League of Nations. In any case the treaty of alliance comes to an end not later than four years from the coming into force of the Treaty of Lausanne. The consent of the council is required for any modification of the terms of the alliance, and England promises that if any dispute should arise between England and any other member of the League over the interpretation of the alliance, it shall be submitted to the world court of justice, if it cannot be settled by direct negotiation.

The military agreement which forms an annex to the main treaty provides that Iraq accepts full responsibility for the maintenance of internal order and for the defence of Iraq from external aggression. With this end in view, it is agreed that the material support now being rendered by Great Britain shall be progressively reduced with all possible expedition. Future British assistance will take the form of stationing adequate British forces in Iraq of the granting of facilities for mili-

PRINCETON STAR GOES WEST TO WORK FOR MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 13.—Harvey C. Emery, Princeton athletic star, joins the University of Michigan staff of coaches in September to assist Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics, in the development of the Wolverine football eleven.

Emery played tackle on the Tiger eleven, was captain of last year's track and wrestling teams and was regarded as the best collegiate hammer and discus thrower in the east. His work at Michigan, in addition to assisting in coaching the varsity football, track and wrestling teams, will be principally in the four year course in physical education, athletics and school health.

AMERICANS EUROPE RESENT SHOW U. S. FLAG TO DRAW TRADE

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 16.—Steps to boycott all European merchants who have resorted to the American national colors for advertising purposes have been taken this summer by American tourists who have been shocked at the extensive use made of the Stars and Stripes to draw attention to numerous kinds of wares in various countries.

It has been pointed out by tourists that there is scarcely a city on the continent which has been frequented by Americans, where the combination of red, white and blue is one form or another has not been used as an advertising medium, and the world has been passed around by travelers to give such stores and shops a wide berth wherever possible.

Tourists have reported that in a few instances where the attention of dealers was called to the improper use being made of the American flag for advertising, the practice was given up at once. On the other hand, however, other patriotic Americans say that their protests were ignored altogether by merchants and the colors remained in the display windows, or over the shop doors or in some other position where they had been placed to draw attention.

Travelers who have made investigations in several countries say that there are no laws covering the use of the American national colors for advertising purposes and that on this important American consular officials are powerless to take action.

In one of the principal streets of Moscow the Stars and Stripes were painted over a shoe repairing shop during the regime of Czar Nicholas II and the colors, faded by age and scattered scars of the Bolshevik revolution, are noticeable to passers-by even to this day. Persons who understand English are able to read the time-worn lettering which says "American shoe repairing done here," printed over the American colors, but the old shoemaker himself passed out with the revolution.

WOMEN TRAIN AS BANKERS IN CHINA TO RUN OWN BANK

Peking.—Thirty girl students have graduated from a "school of banking" established in Peking two years ago, and will be appointed to posts as clerks and officers in the Peking Women's Commercial and Savings Bank, says the Asiatic News Agency.

The banking school was established by a Mrs. Woo who was impressed by the success attending efforts by Chinese women in Shanghai to found a bank. The Peking women's bank is still in embryo, but it is proposed to start it with $1,000,000 and to be ready for business next spring.

In an address to the graduates Mrs. Woo stressed the point that Chinese women should interest themselves in business in order that they may not lag behind their western sisters. By cultivating an earning capacity, she said, educated girls may not be forced by their parents against their will.

Mrs. Hsiung Hso-lin, wife of premier Hsiung, is said to be a patroness of the new banking enterprise.

ORIGINATOR OF SOUVENIR POSTAL CARD CELEBRATES BRATES ANNIVERSARY

Gottingen, Germany. — Heinrich Lange, who has just celebrated his 50th anniversary as proprietor of a stationery and art store in this city, has achieved more than local fame by the fact that he was the first German to bring out a view postal card.

Shortly after taking over the business, Lange had the designs for the first series of souvenir cards drawn by a Gottingen architect, Hildebrand.

Since then the sending of souvenir postal cards has become so popular in Germany that it is a common practice for the German tourist to order post cards at the same time that he orders his beer and his meal. Some inveterate post card senders can even be observed dashing out of the train at every station and hurriedly writing and mailing a view of the town through which they happen to pass.

FRUIT JUICE WITH A KICK DECLARED TO BE ILLEGAL

Washington. — A warning against using the current fruit crop to make intoxicating beverages in the home has been issued by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League. The case pending against Representative John Phillip Hill, of Maryland, for alleged manufacture of illegal fruit juices at home is cited. Mr. Wheeler set forth his views on fruit juices to correct possible misinterpretation of his recent statements on the subject before the house judiciary committee, when the 2.75 percent beer bills were being aired.

"The fruit crop now coming on the market may be used in making non-intoxicating fruit juices for exclusive home use," Mr. Wheeler explained. "If the juice become intoxicating in fact, then they are forbidden for beverage use by the constitution and the Volstead act, which exempts only non-intoxicating fruit juices and cider for exclusive use in the home."

"Congressman Hill tested this law when he made fruit juices containing as high as 10 percent of alcohol, last year, claiming that the law permitted this. The government challenged his right to make fruit juice that was in fact intoxicating wine. A temporary injunction issued by United States District Judge Soper prevents Mr. Hill from further violations of the law. The date of final hearing has not been set, although the case was filed Oct. 11, 1923. If Mr. Hill makes more beverage intoxicants under the name of fruit juices, he is liable for contempt of court. Intoxicating fruit juices are under the ban, even when made in the home to drink. Mr. Hill is in Europe, where fruit juices may be obtained with as high an alcoholic content as desired."

GERMAN WOMEN ABSOLVE EX-KAISER FROM WAR GUILT

Eisenach, Germany.—The Amalgamated Women's Clubs of Germany have resolved that Germany was not to blame for the beginning of the war in 1914 and held a special meeting to devise ways and means of scientifically assembling material designed to prove their contentions to the world. The meeting, attended by women from all parts of the republic, was held in the castle of Warburg, where Martin Luther fought the devil while he was passing ten months under the friendly arrest of the Elector of Saxony.

Frau Clara Mende, president of the organization, in her opening address, asserted that the 'club' women had made arrangements to give wide publicity to documents which tended to show that a secret understanding existed prior to 1914 between the Russian Czar and other nations and with which Germany had no connection whatever. It was due largely to these secret agreements, she contended, that the war was brought about.

The onus of starting the war had been put on Germany by the world at large, declared Frau Mende, but the life work of the associated clubs would be to prove otherwise.

Germans Like Shakespeare

Weimar, Germany.—Shakespeare is more popular in Germany than in England, according to the German association of theatrical managers. During 1922, the association points out, Shakespeare was produced in the German republic 2,017 times, which included "The Merchant of Venice" 247 times and "Othello" 207 times.

Surgeon's Wife Revealed as Medium.

Boston's mysterious "Margery," psychic medium who entered the contest for the $2,500 prize offered by a national magazine for authentic proof of psychic power, has been revealed as Mrs. Le Roi Crandon, wife of a prominent surgeon. Her control, whom she has styled "Chester," now is said to be Walter, a dead brother of Mrs. Crandon. Mrs. Crandon declined to enter the contest unless she was given permission to pay the entire expenses. Tests were held at her home and the experts declared she had done some remarkable things.
