Special Session Legislature May End This Week

Port Commission Bill to Be Taken Up in House Tonight; Senate Will Get Highway Sinking Fund Amendment Tomorrow; Members Hope That All Work May Be Completed in Time for Adjournment by End of the Present Week

Raleigh, Aug. 18.—With prospects of being able to finish work by the end of the week of an agreement is reached to let local legislation go over until January, the North Carolina General Assembly was today in recess until 8:30 tonight.

At that hour the House will receive the port commission bill from the Senate and it expects to pass and send to the upper house the constitutional amendment relating to the sinking fund for state road bonds.

The port measure is expected to be referred to a House committee tonight and be back for its second reading by Wednesday. It is thought that there will be very little debate over the measure in the House and it is likely that the bill including the clause referring it to a vote of the people in the November election will be finally disposed of Thursday.

The Senate is expected to receive the sinking fund amendment tomorrow and give it its final reading Thursday.

In view of the fact that the matters for which the extraordinary session was called will be disposed of probably some kind of agreement could be reached to adjourn the session at the end of week. After the session started it was thought that there would be no probability of adjournment before the end of next week and there was a possibility that the entire 20 days might be used.

The constitutional amendment for an increase in the salary of members of the General Assembly and rearranging the judiciary of the state are on the list of discussions for action during the week along with other matters.

Hearing by the Senate Finance committee will be held at 7:30 tonight on the bill to cut taxes on real estate notes and money in banks to a maximum of 55 cents per $100 for all purposes.

One measure which gave prospect of a fight if allowed to come up before the session the bus regulation bill, has been sidetracked for the session upon agreement to refer it to a commission composed of Chairman Frank Page, Secretary of State W. N. Everett, Attorney General Manning, Commissioner of Revenue Doughton and Chairman Lee of the Corporation Commission.

Greenville City Schools To Open On September 8

The Greenville City Schools will open September 8 for the 1924-25 session, and it promises to be a session which will surpass in achievements all former ones. The teaching force is now complete and in the list are to be seen a great number of teachers who were with the schools last year, and who have been with the schools a number of years. Preceding the opening on September 8 there will be a teacher's meeting on Saturday afternoon Sept. 6 at 3:30 o'clock in the library of the high school. Following this general meeting there will be meetings of the teachers according to schools, presided over by the various principals. Also preceding this, during the week of Sept. 1 to 6 will be held the enrollment of all the high school pupils, all first graders and all children who have not attended the Greenville Schools before. Definite announcements about these matters will be made in tomorrow's paper. All the principals will return. Mr. Davis will be in charge of the high school again. He has done an excellent piece of work for the past two years, and is now equipped to do a better piece of work than ever in that he received his Masters Degree from the University of Chicago this summer. Miss Keeter will be in charge of the Evans Street School again. In her work in that school for the past few years she has had the hearty co-operation of the faculty and parents and the goodwill of the children. This is evidence enough for the statement that her work has been of the best. She also has been attending school during the summer. Miss McClelland will return as principal of the Model School, filling the position of teacher, Critic Teacher and Principal for the past two years she has done an excellent piece of work, helping in a large way to keep the work of the college and the city schools linked together. The Model School will have two and possibly three more teachers this year than last year. Three temporary rooms are now being built on the grounds of the schools. These will be utilized until such time comes when the legislature will make an appropriation for the permanent enlargement of the building. The building of these temporary buildings at this time is of great help to the Greenville schools. It means that it will be possible to handle the children this year without crowding in the Evans Street school. In fact two rooms of the Evans Street school will be moved over to the Model School grounds. The school board will thus be able to take the children out of those two very dark rooms, at the Evans street school.

The site for the new elementary school in West Greenville has been secured, and architect is now completing plans for this new building. Therefore, it will not be many days before the school board will advertise for bids for this new building. This building will be ready for occupancy in Sept. 1925. It is planned to make this an eight room two story brick building, and will be up-to-date in every particular.

The new colored school building is now ready for occupancy and will be in use this year for the first time. This building is modern in every way and will be a source of pride for the colored people of the city. C. M. Eppes will be in charge of this building again and will again render the faithful efficient service which he has rendered in the past. Equipment has been ordered for this building and will be here in time.

ROBT. T. BURNETTE DIED LAST NIGHT FEW DAYS' ILLNESS

Prominent Greenville Citizen Passes; Funeral Services Tuesday Morning at 11 O'clock in Memorial Baptist Church; Interment in Cherry Hill Cemetery

Robert Troy Burnette, Sr., 38, died at his home on Cotanche Street Sunday evening at 11:14 o'clock after an illness of only a few days. Services will be conducted from the Memorial Baptist Church Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Leland W. Smith, interment following in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Robert Troy Burnette was born in Nash County, Sept. 10, 1885, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Washington Burnette. On Feb. 4, 1906 he was married to Miss Ethel Shealy, of Beachburg, S. C. He, accompanied by Mrs. Burnette and their three children, moved to Greenville about ten years ago.

Mr. Burnette, upon his arrival in Greenville, entered the business circles as manager of the Burnette Oil Company, which later merged with the Texas Company. He remained with this company until he entered the insurance business, being connected with the Aetna Insurance Company.

For the past few years he has been connected with the automobile industry, being a representative of Dodge Brothers in this territory.

Besides being popular and held in high esteem in the business circles he was also very influential in the religious life of the city. He was a loyal and devoted member of the Memorial Baptist Church. A short while after affiliating with the church he was ordained deacon, in which capacity he served efficiently, winning love and admiration of every member of the church. He not only served as a deacon but he was superintendent of the Sunday School for several years; during which time he often supplied as teacher. At the time of his death he was a deacon, treasurer of the church, chairman of the finance committee and assistant teacher of the Baraca Class. His life has been above reproach and he was never happier than when doing some service for God and his fellowman. In sickness and in health he was always ready to lend a helping hand and his strong personality and Christian life won for him a host of friends who are today bowed in sorrow as they realize that they have indeed lost a friend, who was both trustworthy and dependable.

The passing of Mr. Burnette to his heavenly reward leaves a vacancy in our city which will be hard to fill. He was indeed a citizen to be proud of and one which any city could love and honor.

When the Ham-Ramsay meeting closed and the Laymen's Christian Federation was organized he was one of the charter members and his enthusiasm helped in a wonderful manner towards making the Federation the great success which it has proved to be. Out of respect for their lost member whom they all loved, the Federation will attend the funeral in a body.

Fillingame, caretaker of the local high school found a package containing a human hand on a ledge of a window of the school building. Investigation revealed the fact that the paper in which the hand was wrapped bore the name of a local youth who is a medical student and that it was probably left there by him.

Ancient Coffins Discovered.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

Who shall decide when doctors disagree,
 And soundest causers doubt,
 like you and me?

After listening for weeks to testimony of alienists that would make it appear that the two young men in Chicago who confessed to kidnapping and killing a boy are irresponsible, now comes alienists for the state saying that the slayers show no evidence of mental disease.

Of course there are shades of meaning on the technical terms that may have no importance with laymen yet may be of the highest significance to the experts. Allowance has to be made for honest differences of opinion in the medical profession as in any other. After making all such allowances, however, the average individual will feel fairly safe in falling back upon common sense and judging the defendants by their actions. "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" Those who hear the testimony, of course.

The alienists who in this case keep their feet on the ground and express themselves as nearly as possible in plain terms — not drifting too far from common sense — will make the better impression. The public has no doubt that the court will be able to analyze the testimony of the alienists. Most judges have a lot of common sense.

EARLY AMERICAN EXPLORERS

The fight of the United States Army airmen from Europe to Iceland and Greenland has revived interest in the visit to America by Lief Ericson about the year 1,000. Lief came to this continent in the course of an exploring expedition upon which he had been sent by his father, Eric the Red, discoverer of Greenland.

Now comes the announcement of the discovery in a Nevada cavern of Aztec writings and other inscriptions resembling Egyptian hieroglyphics, and this suggests that visitors from the Old World may have been in America many centuries before Lief arrived. Archeologists who have investigated the subject are of the opinion that these earlier visitors came from Asia and made the trip along the Kurile and Aleutian islands to Alaska—that is, along the same route, in an opposite direction, that the aviators followed at the outset of their journey.

There is recorded in Chinese history the narrative of Hui Shen, a Buddhist missionary, who in the fifth century visited a land called Fusang, which he describes as 6,500 miles east of Kamtchatka. According to Hui Shen, five Buddhist monks from Cabul visited Fusang about the year 458, introduced Buddhism and ordained priests from among the natives. From his description of the journey there is little doubt that the monks came to this country via the Aleutian islands. There are many things in the Aztec language and monuments which suggest that the people were acquainted with Buddhism.

The Nevada explorers, whose find is regarded as one of the most important Western archeologic discoveries of recent times, believe that further investigation will uncover a buried Aztec city. If this should prove to be the case, and if deciphering of the inscriptions should throw light on the early history of these ancient people, it would make a fascinating contribution to the story of America.

LaFollette may curtail speeches, says a headline, but that appears to apply to the number rather than the length of them.

It seems to be a modern notion that murderer should not be executed unless he has a highly developed moral sense.

A scientist tells what causes the aurora borealis but his explanation will not appear to the average person to offer much enlightenment.

That condemned man respited for the sixth time certainly should be getting used to it and to look forward to the next one with confidence.

Panama had a presidential election the other day without having a revolution. The Panamans are not running true to Panaman form.

Four hundred American lawyers in London attended services in Westminster Abbey. Probably all will claim to have been among the 400.

An ocean steamer bartender says American passengers avoid the hard stuff. Can it be that they are weaned away from it?

Suggestion that building of more houses will result in reducing rents appears to overlook the present cost of building.

Police say that bathing suits worn at the beaches are modest. "Free from excess" is one definition of modest. May be that's it.

The American globe fliers are not so taken with the scenery of Iceland that they are not eager to get away.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY.

Washington, N. C., Aug. 18.—Unique in its form was the announcement party given on the lawn of Mrs. Charles E. Ricks' country home from eleven to one, August 14th, 1924, in honor of her sister-in-law Miss Blanche Ricks, whose wedding to Mr. Bill Minshev of Greenville, N. C. is to take place this fall. The hostess met her guests at the gateway and invited them to the tables arranged for bridge. As the last ones arrived beautiful tally cards, suggesting the coming event were given out and the guests found their respective places. One each table were placed small baskets of pink verbena, rose mints and salted nuts. Pedestals of verbena and lichen with ferns with touches of gold were dotted about the lawn, carrying out the color scheme of pink and green. Music also added to the gaiety of the occasion. After an hour over the cards the hostess presented the guest of honor with a lovely hand painted vase. The high score prize, a lovely embroidered linen towel, won by Mrs. Augustus Windley, and booty, won by Miss Mildred Prichard, of Norfolk, Va., were also given to Miss Ricks. Dainty little bags of rice tied with gold ribbon, bearing a card with a verse asking them to look inside for the secret were given to each guest and on opening them Miss Miriam Shavender found the engagement ring tied to a tiny heart, bearing these words: "Minshev—Ricks" Sept. 11th, 1924.

As she read this aloud Edwin Marshall Ricks, nephew of the bride elect came from the house carrying a large white bag tied with gold nailing which he opened and out jumped the cat. Since the cat was out of the bag the guests began showering Miss Ricks with rice and congratulations. A salad and ice course was then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jas. McCluer, of Washington, N. C., Mrs. C. E. Wilkinson, and Misses Kachel Ricks and Miriam Shavender.

Miss Ruth Credle, in her charming manner gave a toast to wedding bells and as toast-mistress called upon Mrs. Nathan LaGrand of Hamlet, N. C., to give a toast for the bride-elect. She, hesitating only a second, rose and responded in her own attractive way. The following toast was also given: To the groom to be by Miss Shavender; to the single girls, by Miss Harriett Brown of Washington; to Cupid by Miss Gladys Cheson of Kinston, and how to get a husband, by Mrs. Alfred Chaplin of New Jersey. At the conclusion they departed, wishing Miss Ricks much happiness.

STEALS KISS FROM GIRL ON JOY RIDE

Once during the ride he kissed her lips. Not even Lochinvar, riding back into the West, with his stolen bride, got such a thrill for this was 1923 and the coal black steed is now a high powered automobile.

The rider is Richard Barthelme in the role of Julian McCullough in his next production, "Twenty-One" which will be shown at White's Theatre on today, and the girl is Dorothy Mackaill—Dick in the role of the rich man's son, Dorothy as the daughter of a factory foreman.

The struggle between love and social position, pride and the pocket-book is the theme of this up to date tale in which Dick returns to modern life on the screen.

"Twenty-One" was directed by John S. Robertson as a First National release.

THIS COAT FROCK KEEPS ITS WEARER A STEP AHEAD OF FASHION

JUST a step ahead of fashion one may walk with this frock, which illustrates several ideas so new that this costume may be taken as a future prediction as well as a most charming present reality.

There is more than a suggestion of the mode Directoire in this model with its quaint postillion-like cape collars, made in black velvet and worn with a separate blouse, either of black silk or a contrasting color. The skirt is cut in one piece with the long straight back which buttons on to the shoulders of the blouse, as shown in the upper small sketch. It "unwraps" gradually when the belt is unfastened, thus giving itself the right to come under the heading of coat frock, although it is hard to realize that this sophisticated costume has any relation to the simple models we have been accustomed to group under this term.

To return to the composition of the ensemble, the top collar is adjustable, and can be put on or taken off at will, according to whether Madame is in the house or on the street, or wishes to vary her costume.

The tucked blouse is worthy of a paragraph to itself. It reverses the usual order, and leaves its chemist front plain, while it tucks the rest of itself. The long tight sleeves, with their flared cuffs give the required touch of picturesque to match with the dashing collar.

This costume could of course be copied in silk instead of velvet, if desired. One of the new ribbed silks, like Cote Centaur would be appropriate.

Markets

(Furnished by James William Cobb)

DAILY COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, La., Aug. 18.—A further important decline was recorded today due to additional large crop estimates and more favorable crop weather in the southwest, more rain reported in some of the drouth areas of the western half of the belt especially in North Texas and Northern Louisiana.

Returns to the Memphis Commercial Appeal average the condition of cotton at 64.9 indicating a yield of 12,825,000 bales and returns to the gross average the condition of the plant at 6.4, pointing to a crop of 13,258,000 bales while returns to the Watkins bureau average the condition of the crop at 66.8 indicating a production of 13,340,000 bales. Linters not included.

Cables were much lower than expected and liquidation continued, apparently only starting, causing market to decline sharply. If next Saturday's Government report forecasts a crop of 13,000,000 bales, this season's indicated supply, including last season's carry-over and linters would total over 16,000,000 bales as noted by the following comparatives: American cotton: World carry-over July 31, 2,319,000 vs. 2,573,000 if crop, lint 13,000,000 vs. 10,139,000 if crop linters 900,00 vs 700,000 (estimated) season indicated supply would be 16,219,000 vs. 13,432,000 worlds consumption blank vs 11,141,000.

Under circumstances cotton would be an investment as there would be no incentive at prevailing prices to advise buying except at much lower price levels. Final settlement of the reparations problem in Europe is encouraging but it will likely be some time before the plan becomes operative and has the desired effect on international trade as the contemplation of banknotes loan on $200,000,000 to Germany has yet to be floated and by that time market may be much lower than buying may be advisable but that time is not here yet.

CLOCK WITHOUT FACE OR HANDS TELLS TIME FOR FOUR CENTURIES

Lullington, England.—A clock in a church tower here has neither face nor hands, but has given the parishioners accurate time for nearly four centuries by striking the hours on the church bell.

Built in the sixteenth century by the village blacksmith, it comprises two heavy stones, a rope 30 feet long and a crude escapement. It is wound up daily by the sexton, the winding barrels being of oak, like the beams in which the iron bearings work.
