ITALIAN AVIATOR IS STILL MISSING

Special Session Of Legislature Ended At Noon

Efforts To Locate Missing Airman Are Of No Avail

Intense Search Being Made by American Ships for Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian Aviator Who Hopped Off From Iceland With Americans But Failed to Reach Greenland

Washington, Aug. 23.—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian aviator, who left with the American fliers to accompany them on their hop from Iceland to Greenland but is now missing, was last sighted 275 miles north-east of Frederiksdaal, Greenland, on the exact course of the flight from Reykjavik, Iceland to Frederiksdaal.

Aboard the U. S. S. Richmond, Aug. 23.—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian trans-Atlantic aviator who started with the American fliers on their Iceland to Greenland hop was still missing with his companion at eight o'clock this morning.

The U. S. S. Raleigh one of the searching vessels reports that it is too foggy along the Greenland coast to permit the use of airplanes in the search.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Complete plans for the search by land and sea for the missing Italian aviator, Lieutenant Locatelli, who started from Iceland with the American Army around the world fliers but failed to land with them at Frederiksdaal, Greenland, on their 825 mile hop, were outlined in messages received today by the Navy Department from the cruisers Milwaukee and Richmond.

The message from the Milwaukee, dated today and relayed via Louisville, Nova Scotia, said the natives familiar with the coast of Greenland between Frederiksdaal and Frederiksdaal, will conduct a search using boats and small boats, and that searching parties carrying emergency rations and supplies will be employed.

St. Johns, New Foundland, Aug. 23.—The manager of the Marconi station here this morning received a message from the United States destroyer Lawrence off Indian Harbor, Labrador, declaring that the American around the world fliers were expected to arrive at Indian Harbor Sunday.

The message contained no reference to Lieutenant Locatelli, the missing Italian aviator.

FEDERATIONS CONDUCT SPLENDID SERVICES AT TEACHERS COLLEGE

The Men's and Women's Federation conducted one of the most inspirational services since its organization at the Teachers College Friday evening.

Mr. K. W. Cobb conducted the services in a most splendid manner and was assisted by several members of both Federations.

Misses Daugherty, Taylor and Blaggett delighted the large audience with a trio, "Wonderful Grace." Miss Emma Mallison sang a solo, "Tell Mother I'll be There." The scripture lesson was read by Miss Lewis of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Cobb at the conclusion of the services in behalf of the Federation expressed appreciation to the College and the Y. W. C. A. for their invitation to hold services with them on yesterday.

When the invitation was given for those who wanted prayer nearly 40 persons responded. A prayer was offered for these and for the sick of our community.

LOCAL TOBACCO BOARD OF TRADE ELECTS OFFICERS

H. A. Bost Elected President to Succeed Mr. Charlie Schuff; Great Preparations Being Made for the Opening of the Greenville Tobacco Market

The Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade held its annual meeting this morning and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: H. A. Bost, president; Ralph Garrett, vice-president; K. W. Cobb, secretary and treasurer. A committee was appointed to write a letter of sympathy to Mr. F. D. Foxhall who is ill in Battle Creek, Mich., and could not be present at the meeting.

The retiring president, Mr. Charlie Schuff in a few well chosen words expressed his appreciation for the support and co-operation which he had received from the members of the board during his term of service.

Mr. H. A. Bost made a short talk on the future of the Greenville tobacco market. He was indeed optimistic and stated that he thought this year would be one of the most successful in the life of the market. He pledged his support and co-operation with the members of the board and commented on the splendid co-operation which is now existing between the merchants and the farmers.

In the selection of their officers the Board has chosen men who will be interested in the welfare of the market and who will no doubt exert every energy toward keeping it the best market in the state.

Mr. Schuff made a most efficient president and won the love and admiration of the entire membership of the board.

The Board is planning great things for the '24 and '25 season and when the market closes next spring it is expected that the season will prove the most successful since the beginning of the Greenville Tobacco Market.

ATTEMPT MADE TO WRECK FAST TRAIN

Rocky Mount, Aug. 23.—An attempt by unknown persons to wreck the north bound train 86 on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad one and one half miles south of Kenly this morning failed when the engineer of the fast train observed the changing block system and stopped his train to investigate.

On nearing a curve equipped with an automatic block system, the engineer of the train noticed the light of the signal change to red signifying that there was some obstruction ahead. Thinking that his was blocked by a freight the engineer brought his train to a standstill and waited for several minutes to allow time for the freight to clear. After several minutes during which there was no sign of another train the engineer proceeded slowly around the curve.

As the train rounded the curve the engineer noticed a rail out of place immediately in front of his train and applied emergency brakes to bring the train to a stop. Owing to the proximity to the bad rail the front trucks of the engine were derailed before the train was brought to a standstill.

Upon investigation it was found that every bolt and spike had been removed from the rail save one to hold it in place until the train should touch it. The rails were still hot from the use of a blow torch in removing the bolts. A blow torch and wrench, identified as property stolen from the tool house at Kenly, were found near the scene.

A flagman of the train reported to have seen a man cross the track to the rear of the train and flee into the woods after the train came to a stop but at such a distance that it was impossible to ascertain whether he was a white man or negro. The crew of the train replaced the rail and after a short delay the train proceeded on its run.

CHANCELLOR MARX DELIVERS REPORT REICHSTAG TODAY

Declares Germany's Rejection of London Pact Will Mean End of Hope for Aid From America

Berlin, Aug. 23.—The London conference for launching the Dawes reparations plan gives Germany a chance that is not likely to be renewed if she rejects it. This was Chancellor Marx's warning to the Reichstag today in the course of his carefully phrased impressive discussion of the London negotiations.

The Chancellor's speech which was to have been read in yesterday's session but was held up because of Communists rowdiness, was a plain spoken warning as well as a sturdy appeal to the Reichstag to use its conscience in the careful consideration of the alternative in event they decide to reject the agreement made by the German delegation in London.

"Who will assure us that it will be possible to again enlist American participation, which under the slogan of the Dawes report has at last emerged from its aloofness, if one of the essential parties to the pact now fails to obtain ratification at home?" he asked the deputies.

Emphasizing the significance of the new orientation in American politics and the hopeless situation into which the reparations problem would inevitably drift if the American interests were permitted to relax or cease, the chancellor said, "The economic fate of Europe depends upon the United States and rejection of the London pact therefore would plunge us into a state of uncertainty politically and economically the effects of which no one can now foresee."

He praised Premier McDonald for his impartial conduct of deliberations and the spirit of equalization with which the German delegates were uniformly treated. The Dawes report is as unpleasant to Germany as the Versailles treaty but is a step forward in the present state of affairs, declared Chancellor Marx. It is the first time since the war that the Germans have met on an equal footing with the other powers and many of her counter proposals had been accepted, he explained. He denied that the German delegates had been confronted with any ultimatum and declared that while the decision would burden Germany it would give her a new economic life and an opportunity to regain her strength and restore German freedom especially in the occupied regions.

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Charles Cardwell, negro, who died here Thursday, was one of the oldest firemen in North Carolina. Cardwell retired from the Victor Department here several years ago when the city abandoned the volunteer fire department. He was said to be a remarkable fire fighter and was always a conspicuous figure at the negro firemen's tournaments a few years ago. He had been section of the first Baptist church here for more than twenty-five years. Cardwell was eighty years of age at the time of his death.

Inspectors Rush To Scene Reported Mine Explosion

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.—Seven State mine inspectors and two miners on trucks are being rushed to Blaine, O., by the State Division of Mines upon receipt of word that the Lincoln Mine had exploded and was burning furiously.

The mine employs 200 workmen but the first report did not state whether or not any of the men were caught in the mine.

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—The North Carolina General Assembly adjourned the 1924 extra session sine die at noon today. The session, which started August 7, was brought to a close after both branches had been virtually recessed for two hours while the enrolling clerks labored at top speed to complete their work.

During the wait a resolution was sent to the clerk's desk in which the House expressed its appreciation of the work of Speaker John W. Dawson, of Winston, who retires after this session.

Speaker Dawson in a brief address of appreciation, told the members of the House that it had been in a large degree responsible for the advancement made by the state. He stated that he had rather have had the honor which the House has conferred upon him than that of any other office.

After appointment of House members to various commissions created during the session had been made, George Ross resigned from the National Park Commission because of duties in connection with the State Marketing Department. Speaker Dawson then appointed to succeed Mr. Ross Mr. E. S. Parker, Jr., of Graham.

Both Houses recessed at 10 o'clock for one hour in order to give the enrolling clerks a chance to enroll bills amended or passed during the first hour today.

The House passed and sent to the Senate for concurrence in an amendment to the bill permitting counties to issue bonds for schools. It passed its third reading 72 to 0. The bill, while a state-wide measure formed in order to keep within the Supreme Court decision, was amended by the House to apply only to Forsyth and a few other counties. It was introduced to meet the situation in Forsyth county.

The House refused by a vote of 48 to 23 to table the bill to give $100 to Daniel E. Terry, keeper of the capitol, for extra work during the special session. Representative King, of Guilford county, in opposing the measure charged that bills for extra pay for help was "petty graft." He demanded a roll call and the bill was passed.

The Senate bill making the salary of oil inspectors $2,000 a year instead of $5 per day as at present, was tabled by the House.

Just as recess was about to be taken Speaker Dawson announced the following appointments of House members to commissions under resolutions adopted by the legislature: State prison inquiry, W. W. Neal, Marion; J. C. Moser, Asheboro; and P. D. McKinnon, Rowland; Educational Finance Commission, N. T. Townsend, Dunn; T. C. Bowie, West Jefferson; Clayton Moore, Williamston; C. P. Rodgers, East Flat Rock.

To work for a National Forest in Western North Carolina, George R. Ross, Jackson Springs; B. M. Buck, Black Mountain; J. P. Dillard, Murphy; H. L. Nettles, Biltmore and A. M. Kettles of Burke County.

Mr. B. F. Starkey, of Savannah, Ga., is visiting Mr. J. L. Starkey.

Greenville Kiwanis Club Hold Meeting In Bethel

The Greenville Kiwanis Club held its regular meeting in Bethel last night. About 50 of the leading citizens of Bethel and vicinity were the guests of the local Kiwanis Club. The dinner was served in the basement of the Methodist church by the Ladies Aid Society and it was served to the King's taste. Everybody congratulated themselves that the delicious fried chicken that was served hadn't yet found its way into the ministry.

After the singing of America and thanks given by the Rev. Harris of the Baptist church, the fun of the evening began. Before President Bill Hooker could express his long pent up feelings over the pleasure of the Club in the opportunity of coming to Bethel and enjoying the fellowship with the Bethel citizens, Ed Flanagan insisted in showing off a recent find of his. Recently Charlie Forbes had developed some unsuspected powers of mind reading and mental telepathy. Ed just had to show him off and put him to the test. Charlie was blindfolded. Ed ran quietly to a distant part of the room and placed his hand on the head of W. J. Smith one of our county commissioners. "What is this called Ed?" "Ivory," said Charlie. "What kind of Ivory?" "Solid Ivory," said Charlie. "Right," said Ed. Running to another part of the room, Ed touched a coat. "What is this?" asked Ed. "A coat," said Charlie. The last test was conclusive that Charlie had the goods. Ed ran and placed his hands on Henry Station. "What is this?" "A tank," replied Charlie. "What kind of a tank?" "Corn Licker" was the reply to the discomfort of Henry. Be it known that Henry was one of the Baby Kiwanians of the evening, and was being properly inducted into the mysteries of the order.

Bruce Sugg was master of ceremonies. He threw open his membership might be recruited, attended and proceeded to pull off the program of the evening. He hadn't quite gotten it through his noddle why he, the baby Kiwanian, had been given that unusual honor. He soon learned. The Kiwanis treasury was evidently in need of repairs. Bruce persisted in calling nearly every one he referred to "Mister." "Fine him a dollar," was the popular and oft repeated song of the evening. The two huskies of the Club, Guy Smith and Ed Griffin were Sheriffs of the evening and they proceeded to collect the quarter every time. Bruce was flabbergasted and wondered why Ed Flanagan hadn't picked him out for Charlie to work on earlier in the evening in place of W. J. Smith.

Lee Sadler brought out forcibly and beautifully the "Principles of Kiwanis" in his talk to the two babies Henry Station and F. L. Blount. Our motto "We Build" embraces all. The true Kiwanis spirit is a silent yet dynamic influence back of all the good in the development of the community life. Kiwanians are a group of forward looking men, interested not only in the material welfare of the community, but also in its moral and spiritual welfare, dedicated to undergird all that makes for true living.

Dr. Charlie Laughinghouse brought the attention of all present in a gripping way to the awful toll now being paid in the coin of death, unnecessary suffering, through ignorance and our worship and attention to material things and our thoughtlessness and carelessness of human values.

In 1922 there were in Pitt County 1881 births. Only 45 per cent of these mothers had the care and attention of a competent physician. 55 per cent of these good women of Pitt county went down to the very threshold of death that our citizenship might be recruited, attended and proceeded to pull off the pro-

EVANGELIST HAM IS CARRYING ON

Some two years or more ago an evangelist who was little known in North Carolina came into this state. He pitched his tent in Goldsboro and began a series of evangelical meetings which held the attention of the public and drew greater crowds than had ever before attended such a meeting.

Scoffers sneered at the evangelist and his co-workers. "They are like all the rest of 'em," they said, declaring that they were "out for the money and are putting on a religious side show."

Time went on, the week or two grew into several weeks, the attendance increased and near the end of the meeting there had been the greatest number of converts in the history of any revival meeting ever held in this city.

The evangelist was the Rev. M. F. Ham, his assistants, Messrs Ramsay and Rogers.

And still those who had scoffed at the meeting continued to assert their unbelief in the sincerity of those who professed religion and in the evangelistic party in general.

That was more than two years ago.

The evangelist went to New Bern which at that time was said to number among its citizens some of the hardest boiled sinners in the State. The same success which attended the meeting in Goldsboro was duplicated in the city on the Neuse and many were saved.

At Wilson and in other towns where Ham and Ramsay have held their meetings there has not only been conversion after conversion of the deepest-dyed sinners who are now walking the straight and narrow paths of righteousness but their conversion has been permanent thus far.

Of course there have been instances in which those who claimed to have been converted went back to their old ways, but these instances have been few and far between.

On last Sunday the Ham-Ramsay party began a revival meeting at Henderson. Converts from Goldsboro, New Bern, Wilson and other towns where this party has held forth in North Carolina were on hand to attest to the fact that the Ham-Ramsay party were God-sent to their towns and to the great amount of benefit these towns and their citizens had received as a result.

Henderson is fortunate in having the Ham-Ramsay party in its midst. We have no doubt whatever but that their stay there will do great good and that this will be lasting in its effect.—Goldsboro News.

SIDEWALKS ON THE PIKES?

Sidewalks may have to be provided along all rural highways at some time in the future. They would cost an enormous amount of money and probably would introduce a complicating factor into the problem of road improvement.

If sidewalks along rural roads generally are not to become imperative a way will have to be found to protect pedestrians from road hogs. People afoot have equal rights on the roads with automobiles. Yet there are large numbers of drivers who ignore pedestrians' rights, imperil their safety and seem to take delight in bespattering them with mud or covering them with dust. Considerate drivers there are, but they appear to be few, and the walker on the public highway is in grave danger from the large numbers of inconsiderate ones.

The "rules of the road" do not appear to apply with respect to people afoot. That courtesy which has grown up among motorists, often more respected in the breach than in the observance though it be, should be extended. If pedestrians' rights are not voluntarily recognized and respected, steps will have to be taken to enforce them, or safe walks beside the rural roads will have to be provided. It is for motorists in the country to make plain whether they want more restrictions on their liberties or higher taxes for road improvements, which must come if they do not accord more consideration than is due from them to walkers.

Cheer up! Only 800 more years until 2224.

Scientific Missions in Indians of Montana Asia Arouse Japs

Osaka, Japan.—Japan's inactivity in the exploration of the Asiatic continent, in view of an American expedition under Roy Chapman Andrews to seek the first home of man in the uplands of Mongolia, and General G. D. Bruce's British expedition attempt to scale Mount Everest, has drawn an editor attack from the Osaka Mainichi, one of Japan's great newspapers.

This inactivity, the Mainichi asserts, is especially culpable at this time, when the American exclusion law has made it desirable for Japan to seek closer relations with her fellow Asiatics.

"Our young men will go in great numbers to the usual summer resorts this summer," says the Mainichi, but we regret to note that no Japanese are planning to take a part in the great exploring adventures that are offered. We envy the Americans and British their bold scientific undertakings at great expense. They are not afraid of hardship and danger.

"Since Congress adopted the exclusion clause, some Japanese have raised a vigorous propaganda for an Asiatic federation, with the support of some Chinese and Indians. These people seek Japan's leadership. It is Japan's duty to lead these other colored races to racial prosperity and welfare, but we must not be led astray by big names. First we must foster our national strength, strength on the ties with our brother races in Asia and assist them in the advancement of Asiatic civilization. Our millionaires must make contributions to this field and our scientists must enlist in the cause."

Osborne Conceded Place In Athletic Hall of Fame

New York.—By virtue of his achievements in the Olympic games, Harold M. Osborne of the Illinois A. C. has won an enduring place among America's premier track and field athletes of all time. Osborne won two gold medals by his brilliant victories in the running high jump and decathlon at Paris, thereby reaching the zenith of a long and remarkable career.

The one man, aside from Osbourne himself, to whom a lion's share of credit is due for the athlete's record is Coach Harry Gill, who has been training men at the University of Illinois for 20 years. Gill discovered and developed Osbourne shortly after he arrived at the university, an obscure aspirant for honors in the world of sports.

Osborne, who possesses intercollegiate, National A. A. U. and Olympic trophies, won his first important title, the Western Conference high jump championship, only four years ago. He has suffered occasional reverses in this event since then but has remained supreme in the decathlon, his specialty. He registered his most praiseworthy achievements in this event at the Colombis Stadium a few weeks ago, not only winning the Olympic title but establishing a new world mark.

A BEAR AT HOME BUT A DEAR AT THE OFFICE

The fact that a man can be a bear at home and a "regular dear" at the office is one of the secrets of married life divulged in John M. Stahl's production of Avery Toppin's famous play, "Why Men Leave Home," a First National picture which is coming Monday to White's theatre. It is a scorchingly funny offering from start to finish, and has been directed with all the skill and finesse for which Mr. Stahl is noted.

When he was first married John Emerson was an ideal husband, attentive, considerate and cheerful. But a year later found him an irritable and disagreeable old bachelor—that is, in his own home. The moment he reached his office his entire demeanor changed, and he became a smiling and considerate employer.

Markets

(Furnished by James William Cobb.)

COTTON LETTER AND GOVERNMENT REPORT

New Orleans, Aug. 23.—Returns to the Government as of August 16th report on which was issued at 10 a. m. today, or after market was closed, average the condition of cotton at 64.1 vs. 67.4 during AugFWYPCMFV. The average indicated yield per acre is placed at 153.5 pounds, forecasting a crop of 12,956,000 bales exclusive of linters. Including the linters the indicated crop is about 13,738,000 bales, whereas the world's consumption of American cotton last season was only 11,124,000 bales including linters. The Government report about confirmed the average of private crop estimates which was 12,973,000 bales. Last season's production was 10,125,000 bales, as per final findings. Since American markets were closed before today's bureau report was issued, Liverpool, for the first time, will have the opportunity to digest the Government report before the American markets open next week. If the American markets would probably have declined further. It is likely therefore that American markets will be lower Monday morning, especially if Liverpool comes worse than due.

The present indicated supply of American cotton for this season, compared with last year's supply, is as follows: World's carry-over August 1, 2,319,000 vs. 2,573,000; crop lint estimated 12,956,000 vs. 10,159,000; crop linters estimated 777,000 vs. 609,000; Total indicated supply 16,052,000 vs. 13,401,000; world's consumption blank vs. 11,214,000.

It is probable unless serious deterioration occurs in the future, that there will be more than an ample supply of American raw cotton for the world this season, for while Europe seems to be improving as to trade, textile trade conditions in the United States remain unsatisfactory, active spindles, on a single shift basis, during July having been only sixty per cent of capacity. Some rain is now wanted in nearly all sections of the belt, especially Texas, Louisiana and Georgia to permit crop to continue to make favorable progress.

GRAIN

The future of wheat prices largely is up to the farmer. Winter wheat farmers should not expect values to hold up if they continue to market liberally, and spring wheat farmers of the Northwest are likely to be disappointed in the prices they secure if they rush their wheat in faster than export trade can take care of it. Exporters absorbed large quantities of wheat futures in the break, but liquidation and hedge sales exceeded the demand and carried prices down. It is claimed that liquidation is not over. There was nothing to induce buying of corn other than the fact that prices have had a big break.

THE WEATHER

Temperatures a shade cooler over the belt; light rainfall reported in Amarillo district, scattered rainfall in Oklahoma.

Forecast: — Eastern and Central belts mostly partly cloudy. Western belt partly cloudy over Texas. Arkansas and Oklahoma generally fair.

Greenville Kiwanis Club Holds Fine Meeting in Bethel

only by some negro mid-wife or other incompetent. We spend money for churches and other material things but let our wives and mothers suffer with nobody but a negro mid-wife in their hour of greatest peril. There were in Pitt county in 1922 six hundred and fifty two deaths. Of these 302 were children under two years of age. What does this mean? Nearly half of the children born die before they are two years of age. Fifty percent of the pain, apprehension, torture, goes for naught because the average business is unwilling to spend. We had 21 cases of diphtheria in July. Thirty cents worth of toxin-anti-toxin would have prevented 90 percent of these cases. It is the duty of the man who knows these things to make these facts known to the business men of our communities so that they, understanding, will be willing to spend their money for these vital and essential things necessary for human welfare.

Charlie Shuff, manager of the Imperial had tobacco for his topic and spoke interestingly.

Henry Staton voiced the pleasure of Bethel in having the Kiwanians in their town; the long and growing friendship existing between Bethel and Greenville, and pledged his folks to work with Greenville in the up-building of Pitt county. Everybody went home feeling that they had had a wonderful time.

Confederate Veteran Visiting This City

Mr. W. C. Baldwin, confederate veteran of Orange county, and his wife, formerly Miss Annie Garrison, of this county, are visiting his relatives here.

Mr. Baldwin called upon The Reflector today to talk over some of his early memories of Greenville and to comment upon the rapid progress made by the city in recent years.

In 1862, at which time Mr. Baldwin had just passed his fifteenth birthday, he volunteered in the Confederate Army and for awhile as a member of the 44th regiment, under command of Colonel Robert Singletary and Captain Robert Bingham, now head of Bingham School at Asheville, was stationed in this city. During his stay here in '62 Mr. Baldwin stated that he was critically ill and with several of his companions was quartered in the old Academy which stood upon the site where is now located the Evans Street School. Mr. Baldwin said that the hospitality and kind and loving attention shown him and his sick companions by the ladies of Greenville during that time had always remained one of his most cherished memories.

For a number of years Mr. Baldwin traveled his business bringing him many times to Greenville and Pitt county where he met and in 1910 married Miss Annie Garrison. Although he will be 78 years old on his next birthday Mr. Baldwin states that he is enjoying the best of health.

a picture of the King George Drive, the improved road through miles of foliage near Wilmington and profusely illustrated throughout with views of the roads of North Carolina. It draws attention particularly to the old story of "Before and After" and illustrates it with views of roads in Alleghany county. Good roads views in many other counties of the state, including the mountain sections and Eastern Carolina are shown frequently in its pages, while bridges of the state also are a conspicuous part.

A large photograph of Frank Page, chairman of North Carolina Highway Commission, accompanies the article praising his work in the development of the state. The bulletin terms the progress made in road improvement in this state as "North Carolina's Road Building Romance of Achievement." "The expenditure of more than $76,000,000 in road building in North Carolina with its tremendous returns with no political gifts or sinecures," says the bulletin, "is what has been accomplished so far in North Carolina, and the progress has not yet begun to stop."

HAS A GENUINE MEDIUM BEEN FOUND AT LAST?

One of the scientists who has been investigating the baffling phenomena evoked by the mysterious Boston spirit medium who calls herself "Mrs. B." or "Margery" tells of his extraordinary experiences in the seance room. Experts who have exposed one medium after another have so far been able to discover no fraud in this remarkable woman's demonstrations. See next Sunday's World.
