BRYAN OPENS CAMPAIGN IN WEST WITH VIGOROUS ATTACK ON REPUBLICANS

Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee Declares That "Common Honesty and Equality Before the Law" Is the Chief Issue of the Campaign

River Sioux Park, Elk Point, S. D., Sept. 1.—Governor Charles W. Bryan, the Democratic nominee for vice president, opened his party's middle western campaign here today with a spirited attack against the Republican administration for corruption in office, a high tariff and for failure to provide relief to the farmer.

Speaking from the front porch of the farm home of Louis N. Crill, South Dakota Democratic chairman, the vice presidential nominee, addressed his labor day message to an audience made up chiefly of farmers and laboring elements of nearby points in this state, Nebraska, and Iowa.

While he did not mention specific remedies for agriculturalist, Governor Bryan urged his hearers and every farmer and wage earner in the United States to obtain a copy of the Democratic platform and carefully read it. It contained, he said, "every practical remedy for the relief and encouragement of agriculture." The Democratic Party is a friend of labor, he said, adding that the word "labor" no longer applies only to shop and factory workers, but to those who work on the farm as well.

Governor Bryan declared the Republican administration during the past four years, had struck a blow to agriculture "that can only be remedied during the next four years by election of a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress in November."

"A few Republican members of Congress from the north west who have been compelled to bolt the Republican Party" because it "betrayed the trust placed in that party by farmers of the entire country," the nominee asserted, were aligned with the Democrats during the last two years and assisted them in "restoring equality before the law as it applied to the tax bill."

"If the Democratic Party as a whole is progressive enough and honest enough to secure the votes of the progressive Republican Senators and Congressmen of the agricultural states of the northwest, are not the farmers of the northwest justified in supporting the Democratic National candidates who have been progressive in office and are now standing upon and are pledged to the most progressive Democratic platform that was ever written by a national political party?" Mr. Bryan asked.

The Democratic Party, he continued, is not a party represented by blocs, fractions, sections or creeds, but is one "standing on the broad Jeffersonian principle of equal rights to all and special privileges to none." Its representatives in Congress, he said, "have been furnishing the votes to every so-called bloc that wanted a square deal and opposing every interest that has been seeking special privilege."

"Agriculture is not asking for alms," Mr. Bryan said. The farmers "are not seeking information as to how to farm," nor are they "suffering on account of their own extravagance or lack of thrift." What they want, he said, is "handicaps and the hobbles which have been placed on them by the Republican administration removed."

The farmers were seeking demands similar to those of labor—"a sufficient price for their products to enable them to live at American standards with a margin for old age."

Reventlow Threatening Allied Envoys.

COUNT REVENTLOW

Count Reventlow, leader of the German Monarchists, declared in Berlin that if the Government agreed to the Dawes reparations plan without the consent of the Reichstag the people would tear the protocol up as "a scrap of paper," and that the Hitlerites would treat foreign commissioners as "enemy invaders whose personal safety could not be guaranteed."

AMERICAN LEGION OPENS CONVENTION ASHEVILLE TODAY

Three Thousand Delegates and Visitors Are Present for Initial Session of Sixth Annual Convention

Asheville, Sept. 1.—With approximately 3,000 delegates and visitors here for the occasion of the Sixth Annual Convention of the American Legion and the Fourth Annual Convention of the Auxiliary of the North Carolina Department, convened this morning in joint session preliminary to the succeeding separate sessions of both organizations this afternoon and tomorrow.

The program this morning consisted of welcoming exercises before the joint membership of the two organizations which filled the city auditorium to capacity. W. C. Rodman, of Washington, state commander of the legion forces, presided over the opening of the joint session. Mayor John H. Cathey, of Asheville, delivered the welcome address and the response to this for the auxiliary was made by Miss Lillian Horton, of Raleigh, and for the Legion by R. H. Parker, of Enfield.

Prince Enjoying Stay in America

Soisset, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The Prince of Wales began the day with a strenuous game of polo on one of the numerous private fields near his temporary Long Island home followed by a luncheon party given in his honor by Harold B. Pratt in Glencove.

The heir to the British throne spent yesterday afternoon and much of last night away from the J. A. Burden home, which he is occupying, sending word that he was motoring with some friends. He returned at 11:30 last night.

STEAMER PICKS UP SCHOONER SURVIVORS

East Hampton, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Six survivors of the four-masted auxiliary schooner Samuel W. Hathaway, wrecked at sea last Tuesday in a hurricane which swept the Atlantic seaboard, were picked up early today by the S. S. Southern Cross bound from Beaunos Aires for New York.

WORLD FLIERS LAND IN NORTH AMERICA LATE YESTERDAY

Last Lap Ocean Flight Made Without Mishap; Airmen Pleased That Most Difficult Part of World Flight is Now Behind Them

On board of U. S. S. Richmond, at Ictickle, Labrador, Sept. 1.—The first circumnavigation of the globe by air was virtually completed by the arrival upon the Labrador coast late yesterday of the American Army World Fliers.

Hopping off from Ivigtut, Greenland, at 6:29 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and his companions, drove their powerful planes over the 570 miles stretch of water without mishap and alighted at Ictickle at 1:18 p. m.

The arm of the Atlantic which separates Greenland from Labrador is notorious for its ice and fogs but conditions were almost ideal for the flight yesterday. A slight mist along the Labrador coast early in the morning cleared away later and the planes were helped on their way by a wind out of the northwest which at times brought their speed as high as 126 miles per hour.

The four men showed the physical strain of their journey and the suspense of the long days since they left Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, early in August but they expressed keen joy at their arrival upon North American soil and declared their journey around the world was practically at an end.

Wilson Defeats Rocky Mount This Morning

Wilson, Sept. 1.—In the morning game of Labor Day's double bill in the Virginia League, Wilson defeated Rocky Mount by a score of 8 to 4. The result was Rocky Mount 4 runs, 11 hits, no errors; Wilson 8 runs, 12 hits, two errors.

German Lad Is Determined to Enter The United States

Bremerhaven, Aug. 30.—Paul Krupp 18 years old, is now in jail here for ten weeks because of his persistent endeavors to reach the United States as a stowaway. Each one of 11 endeavors has resulted in failure.

But Paul is not discouraged. He says he will next try to ship from Hamburg, where he is not so well known. He prefers American ships for his ventures because the officers are easier on stowaways than men of other nationality. He is striving to reach Springfield, 1., where he claims to have friends.

Young Krupp is typical of scores of German youngsters who haunt the docks at Bremerhaven and seek an opportunity to slip into ships bound for the United States. Paul has been trying for years, and is well known to the emigration authorities at New York. They promptly send him back on the ship that brought him over.

Stage All Set For Opening Of Local Market

Optimism Prevails On the Eve of Opening of 1924-1925 Season; Forecast Best Season for Years

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Greenville tobacco market tomorrow morning. All buyers and sales forces have arrived to assume their duties and on tomorrow morning there will be untold activity in the tobacco district of the city when the auctioneers begin to cry their wares.

With six spacious warehouses and three complete sets of buyers and the handling capacity of the local plants of the various manufacturers doubled, the market is in better position than ever to give the best possible service to those patronizing it and the present outlook for the season is that it will be one of the most satisfactory in the history of the market.

Already much of the golden weed is arriving for tomorrow's sale and do doubt before the end of tonight there will be a substantial offering on hand tomorrow to witness the expected that thousands of persons from this and other states will be on hand tomorrow to witness the start of the 1924-1925 season.

Tobaccoists returning from the South Carolina markets report good prices and satisfied growers in that section and local tobaccoists are very optimistic over the good prospects for the season here.

DAVIS DELIVERS LABOR DAY SPEECH AT WHEELING, W. VA.

Declares Who Believes in Isolation For America Are the Blind Lead.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 1.—Those who counsel isolation for America "are blind leaders of the blind," John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, declared here today in a Labor Day address.

Speaking before the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly, Mr. Davis called upon the laboring men and women of America, as those upon whom the burden of warfare is almost a crushing weight, to lead their fellow countrymen to the great objective of making sure that America takes her rightful place in the councils of humanity.

The adoption of political and commercial policies of the nation to the new conditions of the modern world so as to make the country secure from war declared the nominee is one of "three great constructive duties before the American people if labor is to hold the ground that it has gained by centuries of struggle." He enunciated as others, the preservation of equal opportunity and equal rights. In his treatment of the last two subjects Mr. Davis declared himself as favoring the following policies: the strengthening of the public school systems but against the proposed Federal Department of Education as the entry of a fatal task; for ratification of the Child Labor Amendment so that hungry greed may not again close the door against any triling with the natural right of freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of labor, freedom of control, freedom of the press, freedom in matters of religious belief and property; against proposed curbing the power of the court to protect the weak against unwise and unjust laws; for the writing in plain terms the law against the use of injunctions in labor disputes if that becomes necessary and to make the courts stay within the limitation, already fixed by acts of Congress.

War Strength of Russia.

Moscow.—According to Leon Trotsky, commissar for war, the present strength of the Bolshevik army and navy is just under 600,000. The leader of the Red Army denied a statement made by the British war secretary that Russia now has a permanent army of 1,300,000.

POSSE SLAYS NEGRO THEN BURN HIS BODY

Valdosta, Ga., Sept. 1.—According to a dispatch from Jasper, Florida, to the Valdosta Times, Warren Wood, young negro, was killed by a posse of Jasper citizens who have been searching for the negro after he had run amuck and shot and killed a policeman. The dispatch says the negro's body was burned afterward.

HERRIN QUIET AFTER SATURDAY'S RIOTING 32 WARRANTS ISSUED

Chief of Police Avows Sheriff and Gunmen Responsible for Outbreak in Which Six Were Lost

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 1.—Thirty-two warrants charging murder in the first degree were issued today against alleged participants in last Saturday's pit-toil battle between alleged Ku Klux Klansmen and anti-Klan forces. Twenty-one of the warrants were issued by Police Magistrate Hicks, of Herrin, and eleven by State Attorney Duty, of Williamson county, at Marion.

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 1.—Herrin was peaceful today and residents were preparing for the usual Labor Day celebrations. Meanwhile authorities were dubious as to what developments could be expected. Sheriff Galligan, at his home in Marion, asserted that no other trouble was anticipated but many residents expressed belief to the contrary.

Galligan admitted that yesterday evening eleven prisoners had been taken and nine removed to the Falline county jail at Harrisburg for safe keeping.

Adjutant General Carlos Black, of the Illinois National Guards, arrived here yesterday afternoon to view the situation and decide whether to withdraw the troops. He announced that he would like to recall the militia not later than Thursday.

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 1.—Chief of Police A. M. Walker, in a signed statement, today asserted that Sheriff Geo. Galligan and his gunmen precipitated the clash Saturday in which six men were killed.

FRENCH DEPUTIES MAY FACE CURTAILMENT OF PRIVILEGES

Paris.—A member of the French Chamber of Deputies may change his vote on a given question any time during the following six months. This is called "rectification." Most of the changes are due to the custom of voting by proxy. Only when a roll call is ordered must the members vote in person.

Abuse, have arisen. Often a deputy, finding himself subsequently on the wrong side of a political issue will send in a rectification on the vote cast by a friend, thus setting himself right. Hence it is now proposed to cut the period during which change may be made from six months to three days.

CAUTIOUS AUTHOR CHECKS HIS THOUGHTS AND WORDS

Munich.—Crown prince Rupprecht of Bavaria will soon publish a book of memories dealing with political and military topics. He is sensitive to criticism, however, and as a protective measure has arranged with a group of experienced Bavarian statesmen, and an expert in style, to go over carefully every page of his work.

At the outset Mr. Davis declared he would not make a political speech. "We meet as Americans on an American holiday. We can afford for a moment to forget the political parties and the issues that divide them to speak of things upon which all true Americans agree."

WHEELER ATTACKS ALL OPPOSING CANDIDATES IN LABOR DAY SPEECH

Huge Robberies Bared by Girl's Confession.

MRS. JAMES J. BURNS

The confession in New York City of James J. Burns, his wife, Dot Kelly, bobbed-haired burlesque actress, and Harry Chance, chauffeur, that they "stuck up" the jewelry establishment of Felderheimer & Jacoby, in Maiden Lane, far below the police "dead line" for crooks, has revealed that all of New York's $15,000,000 jewelry hold-ups are directed by a "master mind," which arranged every detail of the successful crimes, even to having doors open so the robbers could walk right in.

Vice Presidential Candidate on LaFollette Ticket Declares Davis Is Trying to Out-Coolidge Coolidge in Play ing to Wall Street

Boston, Sept. 1.—Proclaiming the arrival of a new political cleavage based upon economic division and assailing by name his adversary candidates and summoning the citizens of Massachusetts to what he declared a hereditary tradition of the innovation of national affairs, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, on the Boston Commons today opened his campaign for vice president on the LaFollette ticket.

Again and again he criticized Coolidge whom he termed the "Myological strong courageous and silent watchman who occupies the presidential chair" and attacked Charles G. Dawes, the Republican vice presidential nominee for "his gallant services in the war on organized labor," while he referred to John W. Davis, the Democratic standard bearer as "a man who would be willing, it seems, to cut-Coolidge as a servant of Wall Street."

For himself Senator Wheeler said he would welcome the classification as radical to help in the revolt against living under the dictatorship of a small class in control of the financial resources of the country. He asserted that the only issue of the day was the return of the government to the representatives of the people for, he added, "the two old parties are as alike in everything but name only, now, as the Gold Dust Twins in their subservency to the control of a single dominant power of financial, industrial and commercial interest centering in Wall Street."

For ammunition to support his attack the Montana Senator, depended much upon the record of the Senatorial committee which investigated the official conduct of former Attorney General Daugherty, most of which was brought out by himself as prosecutor.

Corruption in government as had been exposed he treated as the inevitable result of financial control.

CAVE IN TEXAS HOLDS UNDERGROUND ROOM HALF A MILE LONG

Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—Dangling at the end of a wire rope 170 feet into the underground home of many thousands of bats, the governor of the largest state in the Union and the governor of an adjoining state recently explored the great Carlsbad cavern, discovered not long ago in the Guadalupe mountains of southeastern New Mexico. The only means of ingress is in a steel bucket, which holds two persons if they are not too large. The two governors, Pat M. Neff, of Texas, and J. F. Hinckle, went down separately.

The less scenic part of Carlsbad Cavern has been known for many years as a bat cave. Recently explorers traversed several miles of its halls and chambers, and some parts of it were found to have such startling magnificence that President Coolidge by proclamation set it aside as the Carlsbad National Monument.

This cave is among the largest in the world and presents many marvels. From prehistoric times it seems the bats have made their homes here amid the striking underground scenery. For several years large quantities of quano have been shipped from the cave.

At dusk the bats begin to leave the cave for their night of foraging. For about three hours the winged stream resembles smoke pouring from a smoke stack. In the early morning they return, each folding its wings when in midair above the opening of the cave and dropping down into the shaft like a plummet.

The opening of the cavern is in New Mexico but the cave itself extends into Texas. The cave has not been fully explored and its dimensions are not known. It is believed to go down 800 feet below sea level. The ceilings in some places are so high that a person standing on the floor cannot see them even with strong torches.

At the entrance 700 feet below are three large rooms. The biggest is called Shiny's Wigwam in honor of a king of Navajo Indians mythology. The smallest is 100 feet long by 150 feet wide. The largest has not been measured. The three are decorated with gleaming ovals and thousands of stalactites. Still another big room farther on is more than a half mile in length. The stalagmites rise from the floor like great white monuments, and the glittering sides and ceiling resemble the banquet room of a mythological king.

Work Begun on Boulevard Encircle The City of Paris

Paris, Aug. 30.—Paris' dream of a great, green-bordered boulevard around the city is becoming true. It may be a few years before the plan is completed but the work of tearing down the obsolete fortifications is half done and the first sale of the land will take place soon so apartment houses may be erected there.

There are 1,100 acres of land in all in the 32 forts and defensive walls and the moats surrounding them. Three other forts will be kept, partly as a relic of old Paris. Half of the land will be given over to military establishments and railroads while much of the remainder will be site for government buildings, schools, the city's proposed low-priced apartments to relieve the housing shortage and the little "University City," where students, particularly poor ones, may live cheaply under good conditions.

There will be sold only 170 acres in small lots but from these sales the city expects to be reimbursed for the cost of razing the walls of Paris. For the first time the limit on the height of buildings will be limited so as to get the most housing facilities possible out of this land. The buyers also will be required to erect apartment houses immediately.

Russian House Servants Fare Best Among Workers

Moscow, Aug. 30.—American housewives who think their servant problem a difficult one should turn to Bolshevik Russia where housemaids, the cooks and pantry workers demand many more privileges than do servants in the United States. In addition to an eight-hour day and one day off each week, servants here have month's vacation during the year, full insurance, the right to attend trade union meetings whenever they desire, and other liberties.

In Moscow employers must supply their domestics with two dresses a year, two pairs of shoes, four pairs of stockings, half a dozen aprons, and numerous other articles.

HELD AS "BRAINS" OF MAIL ROBBERIES

WILLIAM F. FAHY

William F. Fahy, "ace" of the U. S. Postal inspectors in Chicago, and regarded as one of the Government's cleverest detectives, is under arrest there, charged with being the "master mind" in the sensational $2,000,000 mail robbery at Rondout, Ill. in June, and of other huge mail robberies. The suspicion of his chiefs was aroused when he requested the Chicago Police Department to cease its investigation so that he could work unhindered. He is shown here examining one of the gas masks furnished mail clerks after poison gas was used in the Rondout robbery.

As a class, Russian servants are now better off than any other category of workers. The draw more salary than skilled workmen, enjoy greater freedom, better food, and superior living accommodations. Their position in present-day Russian life is so strong that special courts have been established by the government to hear their grievances.

NATIONAL CAPITOL GIVEN OVERHAULING DURING SUMMER

Washington.—When Congress reconvenes in December, a number of alterations will be found in the Capitrol an dit, environs. An improved method of ventilating the House and Senate chambers will be ready for use; the heating system will be revamped; boilers for supplying heat, light and power to the historic building will be newly installed, and final touches put on the new fire-protection apparatus.

The old English tile in the main corridor and basement floor of the House that has done service for over half a century, worn by the feet of visitors innumerable, is being replaced by American tile of white and black marble design. Numerous committee rooms and offices also are being painted and redecorated.

NORSEMEN WERE FIRST TO DISCOVER AMERICA 500 YRS.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 1.—Discovered rocks scattered across the American continent from Hudson Bay to Puget Sound, deciphered by Olaf Lauritzen Opsjon prove, he declares, claims that Norse explorers established colonies in the Pacific Northwest nearly five centuries before Christopher Columbus discovered America.

Mr. Opsjon, a Norwegian scientist, has conducted investigations into the early Norse migrations for 30 years. Characters carved and painted on mountain cliffs of the northern United States, heretofore regarded as the work of Indians, he declares, are the records of early Norse explorers. Figures of men, birds and beasts he has identified as signs of the zodiac by which, taken in conjunction with astronomical scales in the same configurations, he declares he is able to fix, to the month and day, when they were recorded.

"Astronomical calculations and numerals in the chronograms or signs show that the first visits were made in the year 1010," Mr. Opsjon said. Appearance of runic letters peculiar to old Nordic writing first drew my attention to the signs. It was then I discovered that the birds, goats and other figures which had been thought to be merely caricatures, were really astronomical signs."

The earliest expedition to the Pacific Northwest, according to Mr. Opsjon's interpretation of the monument, was led by a man named Atle called Lippon by the aborigines. Four other expeditions followed this one, the last led by one Kautson who came in 1362, still more than a century before Columbus' voyage.

"One party of explorers came thru the mountain passes of Montana and down the Spokane valley," the scientist declared, "leaving in the Cascade mountains many stone records. The earliest party of which I have record settled on both sides of Puget Sound, later moving on to the Rogue River valley in Oregon and to what is now Eureka, California, when, outnumbered by the Indians, they were forced to migrate.

"Many battles were fought between the aborigines and the explorers. There are visible records that with superior weapons the Norsemen were generally victorious. They carried bows, arrows, axes, swords and daggers."

In further substantiation of his theory of early Norse colonization of the Pacific Northwest Mr. Opsjon declares many geographical names of the region, heretofore considered of Indian origin, are derivations of Nordic words. Spokane, he says, comes from "spokane," Nordic for "spoken." Idaho he translates from "e da ho." Nordic for "Is that she?" Going further East he makes Sioux from "si oux," early Norse expression for "Say axe."

On the moot question of the original name of Mount Rainier, Mr. Opsjon sheds light by declaring the peak was first named "Takoma," from the Norsemen's expression, "We must give thanks," when they came to the crest of the Cascade mountains.

INTERNATIONAL POLO FINDS HOME PLAYERS THREE GAMES AHEAD

New York, Sept. 1.—Great Britain and the United States each has won four series of polo matches since the famous International Challenge Cup, which will be at stake in the 1924 play at the Meadow Brook Club beginning Sept. 6, was put into competition in 1886.

One of these contests, however, played in 1909 and won by England, does not rank as an official cup affair, so that the standing in the trophy series up to this year gives America the advantage with four triumphs to three. The 1909 play was prompted by the initiative of certain Americans, including Foxhall Keene, who were in England at the time, and they lost the only game played!

The International Cup, one of the most coveted of athletic trophies, first was offered for competition between the two countries in 1886 by the Westchester Polo Club, of Newport, R. I. That year the Hurlingham Club, of England, sent over a team which won two straight matches and took the trophy overseas.

The next official series was played in 1902 when Britain successfully defended her honors, winning two out of three matches from a team headed by Foxhall Keene and Larry Waterbury, two names famous in American polo history.

A lapse of seven years followed during which America, under the leadership of Harry Payne Whitney, built up its original and famous "Big Four." This combination, composed of Whitney, Larry and Monty Waterbury and Devereux Milburn, brought the cup back from England in 1909 and successfully defended it in 1911 and 1913 without sustaining a single defeat.

This combination was shifted the following year, when England again challenged, and after two har fought matches, broke through for her first triumph in a dozen years. America still had her "Big Four" available, but as a team they had passed the crest of their ability, and the substitution of Louis Stoddard and Rene LaMontagne at No. 1 failed to check the tide of defeat.

The war caused another long interval, but in 1921 the United States mustered a new team which won two matches decisively from Britain and brought the trophy once again to this country. This new "Big Four" was composed of Milburn and Stoddard, veterans of international play, and two new stars, J. Watson Webb, lefthanded player, and Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., who was the sensation of the series.

Stoddard has since withdrawn from international competition, but the other three form the backbone of the quartet which will defend the cup against the British team at Meadow Brook in the games scheduled Sept. 6, 10, and 15. Webb, however, has been moved up to No. 1 and his place at No. 3 taken by Malcolm Stevenson, veteran of many national campaigns, with Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr., Earl cup ping and Eric Pedley, new star from the Pacific Coast, as substitutes.

Including England's 1909 victory, the international shows that America has won altogether nine matches while Britain has captured six.

A NATION OF READERS

Some self-confessed intellectuals question the high plane of the American's taste for reading matter but they cannot deny that the American reads more than the other peoples of the world.

Government statistics disclose that there are 20,091 newspapers in the United States and that the country's book business last year was $127,578,093. The nation consumed 8,000,000 tons of paper in the past year. In the fact of these amazing figures none can complain that Americans do not read enough. If we don't all read classical literature all of the time we at least read and that is a healthful sign.

A comparison of paper consumption reveals that more paper is required for the United States than for all of the rest of the world and that this country's consumption per capita is more than twice as great as that of the next largest user of paper.

The population of the United States has not kept pace with the paper consumption since 1899. Some idea of the growing demand for paper and reading matter is supplied by data showing an increase of four hundred per cent in paper consumption since 1899.

Invariably when the subject of paper consumption is brought up for discussion someone predicts that unless there is immediate curtailment the country's timber source for paper will be exhausted within the current century. In answer to these alarmists a recent federal bulletin announces that America's lumber industry has become so vast that its waste is adequate for the manufacture of the country's entire paper supply. Paper can no longer be charged with the destruction of America's majestic forests.

Readers and nature lovers can both rejoice in the news that the country is doing more reading and restoring more timber than ever in its history.

IMPATIENCE

Impatience is a malady that affects a large proportion of Americans. This is manifest in many ways. Long before a train reaches the station many get up and stand in the aisle as if that would cause the train to arrive a bit sooner. Some feel that it is necessary to be the first to alight, though they may not be pressed for time at all. If a train is a few minutes late in arriving impatience is expressed in remarks about the poor management of the road. If these impatient people wait five minutes for a street car they declare it is a half hour and conclude that the road has gone bankrupt and has quit running cars. If an elevator is not available the instant they want it, they push the button and fuss and fume. It is not unusual for a pedestrian to take a chance on a crossing and then turn and watch the train go by. It is not the value of time which makes such people hurry so. Instead of being as busy as they think they are they are merely impatient.

If impatience were indicative of zeal and efficiency in achievement it might be regarded with tolerance. The person who makes time really count does not hurry. Hurry does not mean rapid work, necessarily. Haste often makes waste.

Impatience leads to fluster and fluster interferes with efficiency. Impatience, possibly, is but a manifestation of the rage for speed. Speed directed in little circles does not carry one far from the starting place.

MAN'S LITTLE INTERESTS

Things in miniature hold an unaccountable fascination for both young and old. From the cradle to the coffin man's first interest is in littleness.

The largest elephant on earth draws a smaller crowd than a herd of baby pachydermata. The museum giant isn't nearly as interesting as the pygmy people in the same tent. As a work of juvenile literature Swift's

"Gulliver's Travels" owes much of its popularity to the Lilliputians.

Dogs, cats, horses, cows and all other dumb creatures are universally loved before reaching mature stature. Hear the ejaculations of pleasure from old and young upon sight of a baby creature of the woods or barnyard. They are all man's pets and playthings.

Psychologists have long been explaining this peculiar trait in humanity and offer many and diverse explanations. Perhaps the most logical theory is that the young represent dependence and helplessness. Man is awed by the powerful appeal of the little living creatures for protection.

It is a strange idiosyncrasy of the hunter that he never kills the cubs of the slain mother beast.

LIVE AND LEARN

If we as a people can learn from experience, without having to be hit on the head with a panic and hard time, the recent slight depression in this country should have taught its lesson.

When industry slowed up, jobs became scarcer—just enough scarcer so that no one was really hurt but enough to make a sensible man think and realize that any movement or any agitation which interferes with normal industrial activity strikes first and hardest at the working man.

As farm prosperity returns more men have jobs not only on the farms but in all lines of industry.

A man who works in a sawmill or a mine should realize that his job depends on prosperity in other lines of business which use the product he produces.

The brakeman or engineer on a freight train should realize that his job depends on "the other fellow" who makes an article for transportation.

If we pull together as a nation success awaits us. If we fight among ourselves we court hard times and failure.

The work of the Dawes' committee of experts to formulate a business-like program for settlement of the Allied Reparation tangle, further emphasizes the value of team work along constructive lines.

This committee figured out such a practical plan that it will be adopted on account of its sanity and simplicity. After five years of European intrigue and jealousy, plain every-day business sense and honesty had to win out over political inefficiency.

The people of Europe have suffered five long years to learn their lesson—namely—that one nation cannot profit at the expense of another.

Thus do we see intelligence finally conquering ignorance. How long individuals or nations suffer during the "process of education" depends upon their ability to learn from observation and escape the severe lessons which experience gives to those who refuse to learn otherwise.

The American people have only a bright future before them if they stand for the square deal policy which will assure continued agricultural and industrial activity.

Milliners say that a woman's hat may be a chapter in history. It may also be a financial depression.

By the way, the silver dollars in circulation appear not to make dollars more plentiful, as far as we are able to observe.

A dancing instructor says that plain girls can be made up "to rival the most queenly of beauties." Beauty is in the "make up."

That Illinois bank which through fear of robbers keeps the doors locked and requires patrons to rap and be identified probably remains bolted when an undesirable applicant for a loan appears.

As a rule, the man or woman who fails to register and vote can give no valid excuse for failure to perform that important civic duty. Both our country and the political parties will be better off at all times with a full registration and a full vote.

England's hangman tired of his job and shot himself. Over here he would have starved to death.

Our idea of real go-getters is the divers who recovered $35,000,000 gold from the sunken Laurentic.

Cole Bleas leads for senator in South Carolina. He did not, as governor, empty the penitentiaries for nothing.

Retail Clothiers and Furnishers to Meet In New York Sept. 8

Chicago (Aug. 25).—An almost speechless convention has been planned for the eleventh annual gathering of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers which meets in Grand Central Palace, New York, the week of Sept. 8, according to announcement at association headquarters here. There will be no set speeches except at the opening, when Mayor Harlan will give an address of welcome, but there will be a co-ordinating exposition, directors say, that will speak louder than words.

Every dealer, however, will be given opportunity to express his own or ask the views of other members, on problems of the business. In this way it is hoped to give the members greater value than formal addresses would afford.

The program provides for discussion of store management and the "Dress Well and Succeed" campaign which has been in progress. Beside this the entire time of the convention will be given over to the discussion of whatever matters the retailers desire.

Over three hundred manufacturers from all parts of America will participate in the Exposition, which will occupy two floors of the palace. There will be no set style show but the exposition will show style tendencies of all types of material, including knit goods demonstrated by living models.

The "Dress Well and Succeed" campaign will be stressed. Already over 2,500 retail clothing merchants throughout the country are using the slogan and a co-operative advertising plan has been developed. Wherever the campaign is started, it will include five to seven full pages of newspaper space, illustrating merchandising ideas. In addition there will be 48 quarter pages built on "Dress Well and Succeed," each bearing some specific point to show the influence clothing has on business and social success.

President Roswell S. George, Watertown, N. Y., has been active in the preliminary work of the convention.

Interment followed in the Cherry Hill cemetery. The Rev. Leland W. Smith pastor of the deceased conducted the service. His remarks were beautiful and most appropriate for a child, as James was only 14 years of age. He was a loyal church member and was interested in his Sunday School class. The services were largely attended and the floral offering was large and beautiful. Several out of town relatives attended the funeral.

The club also went on record as protesting the action of the American Automobile Association in refusing the local club the right to affiliate with the national body. The club will sponsor a 35 mile an hour speed law for the State, enforcement of the law with reference to bright headlights uniforms for all highway policemen and the making of theft of automobiles or accessories a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

200 Locomotives Scrapped.

Hagenau, Alsace.—A "boneyard" of 200 heavy-duty locomotives of the latest type has been installed here by French authorities. To handle the traffic in Alsace only a score of them were needed.

tural states are a dangerous element and that they are not standing on the constitution. The common people, among whom are to be found the farmers and wage earners, will give their answer in November."

Discussing agriculture at another point, the nominee said "misuse of the Federal Reserve system" by the Republicans had reduced the per capita circulation of currency from fifty one to thirty nine dollars and curtailed the value of farm products and land.

Continuing, Governor Bryan said Republican leaders in the east had begun to realize something must be done for agriculture. "President Coolidge," he said, "in his speech of acceptance says the Republican platform recognizes that agriculture should be on a basis of economic equality with other industries. The Republican Party has said that in its platform, but it has opposed every piece of legislation that was introduced in congress that would put agriculture on an economic equality with other industries."

The Republican Party's interest in the farmer, he asserted, has been "usually expressed in interest rates" legislative and administrative "unfriendliness" had cost the farmer and livestock producer "billions of dollars in the last four years" he declared.

Referring to Mr. Coolidge's speech again, Mr. Bryan asserted the President offers "no practical or permanent remedies for relief of agriculture."

Governor Bryan compared Democratic control of national affairs from 1912 to 1920 with the Republican administration since that time and declared that four years ago "special privileges" laid the foundation at the Republican National Convention "to plunder the country through government favoritism, official privilege, and administrative incompetency."

Selecting phrases from his Republican opponent's speeches, Governor Bryan said, "my friend and former fellow townsman, General Dawes says 'this is a campaign of brass tacks' and our good President says that we must apply 'common sense'."

"I say that the Republicans have already gotten the farmer down to bed-rock and it is time to apply common honesty in government as well as in private life, the confidence of the people in their government is to be restored and if the masses of the people are again to enjoy prosperity and contentment."

Governor Bryan again attacked "special privileges" and asked: "What legislation has been passed during the past four years for the benefit of the farmer, of the wage earner, or the masses of the people, that didn't have a string to it?"

Summing up, he asserted that while the "privilege seeking class were reaping their reward for substantially supporting the Republican party in the campaign four years ago by securing indefensibly high tariff rates, transferring a large percentage of their taxes to others to bear, deflating the currency and compelling the farmers to pay loans in larger bushels of wheat and corn than they borrowed, the politicians who demanded and secured some of the highest appointive offices in the gift of the government were not overlooking their opportunity to join the get rich quick club."

"The nation has been humiliated and the world has been shocked at the dishonesty, the incompetency, the greed, the graft, and the corruption that has been uncovered by congress in connection with this administration without any assistance or encouragement on the part of the chief executive."

Mentioning again the president and his running mate, Gov. Bryan said: "President Coolidge says that the issue in this campaign is common sense, and Mr. Dawes says that 'the Republican party under the leadership of President Coolidge has taken its stand firmly upon the constitution of the United States and all know where it stands.'"

"That great leader of the Democratic party, that able lawyer and statesman who has had the ability to determine what is wrong at the present time and has had the courage to say so—John W. Davis—says that the issue in this campaign is 'common honesty' and I want to add four more words and say that the issue is 'common honesty and equality before the law.'"

"The constitution the Republican party and are all of the leaders of the Republican party standing on the constitution with Mr. Coolidge and with Mr. Dawes?" he asked and added "why indulge in generalities?"

Governor Bryan then named those officials who were involved in the various scandals in Washington and continued in an interrogative vein: "Are these high-up officials in the Republican administration who are still recognized as Republican leaders, some of them who took part as delegates in the recent Republican national convention, are they standing on the constitution with the Republican party in this campaign?"

"If so" he continued "we request the Republican leaders to give us a modern definition of what the constitution means and whether they are standing on their own physical constitution and whether they refer to that great document that guarantees the individual his inalienable right."

The vice presidential candidate prefaced his address, his first outside his home state, and the first since his formal notification, August 18, with an explanation of how Labor Day was created and with a reaffirmation that "Labor is not a commodity—but that it is human and must be dealt with humanely."

He described the two major parties and said he had been devoting almost his entire time during the last 38 years in framing "legislative and administrative remedies for governmental and business abuses."

He paid high tribute to the administration of Woodrow Wilson, declaring that during his administration "each and every one of the measures enacted—had for its simple purpose the wiping out of class privilege, class advantage and class distinction." He defined a progressive as "one who thinks in terms of human beings" and a conservative as "one who thinks in terms of dollars."

Hansen Agricultural Explorer Embarking For Siberian Steppes

Kuokkala, Finland.—Almost forgotten by a world that once adored him, Ilya Repine, one of the foremost Russian painters of his generation, recently celebrated his 80th birthday. He is living in seclusion here, nursed by his daughter.

It was Repine who, back in 1869, led the revolt against the Petersburg Academy of Art, which had become thoroughly stagnant and unwilling to accept any new ideas. He organized a secession movement known as "The Wanderers," from the fact that the group of painters who seceded took their exhibition from city to city. Their slogan was life, truth, movement, and freedom in the use of color.

Repine turned exclusively to Russian national themes. Russian sagas and fairy tales often supplied the theme. He was also fond of depicting the life of the submerged masses of Russia with a realism and fearlessness which would have landed him in jail had he not been so prominent.

made at the coming sessions of Congress to clarify the situation.

The demand for space in the Patent Office ousted the models from their exhibition cases at the end of the last century, but the government has had to continue paying space rental for them. A proposal now being considered is to have a commission appointed to sort out the models that might prove of historic interest, and perhaps sell the others at public auction.

PIGEONS STEER STRAIGHT THRU HEAVY SWISS FOGS

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 30.—An interesting test of the reliability of pigeons as message bearers was recently made by the Swiss general staff. Twenty doves were taken to the highest accessible point of the "Jungfrau" and released. The day was cloudless in the upper regions of the Alps, but all the cities and valleys were screened from view by a thick layer of fog. Seventeen doves started in straight lines for Berne. Two started in the wrong direction, and a third became lost for a while in the valley. But the entire 20 finally reached their destination. The three erring doves were ### only ten minutes behind the leaders in getting home.

CACTUS PLANTED AS NOVELTY BECOMES A NUISANCE IN AUSTRALIA

Tucson, Ariz.—Forty years ago species of southwestern cacti were introduced in Australia as a novelty, but now they have become such a nuisance that every effort is being made to get rid of them, reported C. F. Dodd, an Australian agriculturist, who has been here looking for cactus-eating insects which might be transferred to Australia.

Mr. Dodd conferred with experts at the University of Arizona. Several vicious types of insects were suggested, and the visitor began experimenting with their power of destruction. The few cactus plants transplanted in Australia came from Arizona.

Financial Troubles Overtake the 120 Infantry Band

Raleigh, Aug. 30.—Financial troubles have overtaken the 120th infantry band. Mayor E. E. Culbreth, noting the strife within the ranks of the band, has threatened to withdraw the city's appropriation to the band unless its internal strife ceases and the band practices and plays as per contract.

A few weeks ago members of the band were ordered to bear arms as regular infantrymen. This aroused a storm of protest and then the band's leader, Director Braxton, was demoted and reduced in rank and pay. Since then the organization has not seemed to function, and the Mayor has taken the matter up with Adjutant General Metts. The city's appropriation is contingent on concerts and regular practice.
