DEFENDERS OF SHANGHAI REPULSE THE INVADERS IN ALL NIGHT BATTLE

Forces of Chic Shiehnyuan Aro Driven Back On Two Fronts by Defenders; Hand to Hand Fighting Takes Place in Liubo During Night

Shanghai, Sept. 6.—The invading northern forces of Chi Shiehnyuan were repulsed on two fronts.—Hwangtu, 15 miles west of here, and at Liubo, 30 miles northwest of here—after an all night battle with Lu Yung Hsiang's forces defending Shanghai, according to an announcement this morning from Chekiang.

Hand to hand fighting characterized the night battle carried on in Liubo streets which resulted in the driving out of the northern troops according to a communique issued by the victorious army. The announcement added that no opposition troops could be seen today between Liubo and Katinghsian, the latter point being nearer to Shanghai.

After refusing the attack of the northern forces upon Hwangtu, General Chang Ping leader of the defending forces, led a successful counter attack forcing the opposing armies back to within two miles of Anting, a town 20 miles west of here along the line of the Shanghai-Nanking railway.

In the Hwangtu sector the defending forces claimed an advance of six miles made along the railway line besides the capture of two companies of Kiangsu's 6th division and four high officers.

A bridge on the Shanghai-Hangchow railway was mysteriously blown up during the night cutting off communications of the lines over which supplies were being sent to the fronts held by the defending forces.

PAUL PAINLEVE NO LONGER DENIES HIS FORGETFULNESS

Havre, Sept. 6.—Paul Painleve, president of the French Chamber of Deputies, has a reputation for being absent minded which would seem to be justified by a recent indictment at the local railroad station.

M. Painleve came to Havre to attend the Franco-Belgian commemorative ceremonies. He was on the train, ready to return to Paris, when he announced that his trunk was missing. He had his several valises, but no trunk. The train was held fifteen minutes while all the train crew searched for the missing luggage. Then M. Painleve called the station master aside: "Don't wait any longer; I have just remembered that I did not bring a trunk."

SHIPWRECKED CREW PICKED UP FROM LIFE RAFT.

CREW OF SAMUEL W. HATHAWAY

No words could tell the story of the six shipwrecked members of the crew of the four-masted schooner Samuel W. Hathaway with the vivid eloquence of this photograph, taken 350 miles out in the Atlantic, by Samuel W. Hathaway with the rescue ship. The picture was snapped as the men one of the boat's crew of the liner Southern Cross, the rescue ship. The picture was snapped as the men staggered to their feet on the tiny, flimsy raft that had been their home for five days after a typhoon sunk their vessel off Cape Hatteras. A moment later they collapsed. They had eaten raw fish and were constantly menaced by sharks. Three other men who occupied another raft are believed to have perished. Their own raft was the roof of the cabin of the schooner.

The articles of this first issue, which have been selected with a view to their practical value to the teacher and the class room, according to Warren are:

GERMANS STUDY METHODS TO INCREASE AUTO DRIVING

Berlin, Sept. 6.—In #1 of Germany, which is somewhat larger than the state of California, there is not a single parking space for automobiles. This fact came to light as a result of an investigation to determine the condition of the motor industry in the country. Police regulations do not permit automobiles to stand in the streets unless attended by the driver, and even then for only a short time. In order to popularize locally the great American pastime of driving one's own car a movement has been started in Berlin and some of the other cities to set up automobile parks within the city centers.

Births in Charlotte Exceeds Deaths 93 During August

Charlotte, Sept. 6.—The births in the city of Charlotte during the month of August exceeded the number of deaths by 93, there being 162 births and 69 deaths, according to the report made public here by Mrs. W. L. Waller, registrar of the vital statistics bureau, of those who died in the city, it was said, that 12 were non-residents.

The August birth rate was lower than that of July when there were 202 births. The July death rate was also lower than that of August for the report shows that only 60 persons died in the city during the month of July.

The cause for the largest number of deaths was said to be heart disease which took the lives of 11 persons during the past month.

Health officers and nurses of the city and Mecklenburg county traveled 1,829 miles during August in carrying out their work of visiting the sick and inspecting the sanitary conditions of certain communities, according to the report of Dr. H. Hand, assistant county health officer.

Japanese Ban Aids Recruiting

Tokio, Sept. 6.—Since the American Congress passed the Immigration act including the Japanese exclusion clause, fewer young Japanese are dodging compulsory military service, according to the head of recruiting in Tokio. In former years scores of young men tried to dodge conscription, but this year there have been only half a dozen such cases in the capital.

Boston, Sept. 6.—The American around the world fliers reached the end of their Boston objective today when they arrived over the harbor. Three olive drab craft escorted by a dozen land planes circled the harbor like giant birds. On land and among the harbor craft pandemonium broke loose. The fliers circled the edge of the port flying low.

General Patrick, in one of the escorting planes landed first the chief having come in ahead of the world fliers. The planes landed in the following order. Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith craft in the lead; second Lieutenant Leigh J. Wade and third Lieutenant Erik Nelson in the Chicago, Boston II and New Orleans respectively. As the planes taxied to their mooring bays off the official barge anti air craft guns fired the national salute of 21 guns which is usually accorded only the president of the United States or rulers of foreign countries.

Major General Lathan M. Patrick, chief of the army air service alighted a few minutes before the fliers and rushed to the official reception barge with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Dwight M. Davis, there to greet the fliers. The planes taxied easily to their moorings and were made fast and a naval launch went out to meet them. The shore of the five miles water front was lined with thousands of spectators. Thousands hurled hats into the air and waved American flags as one launch picked up the aviators and another gathered up the luggage which they had stowed on their 2000 mile trip.

GERMAN BOYS PLAY FOOT BALL ALL THROUGH SUMMER MONTHS

Berlin, Sept. 6.—The boys and young men of Germany are intensively devoted to football. Where there was one football club ten years ago, there are 15 today. The season play runs through the entire summer and well into the cold of winter.

Educators are of differing opinions as to the value of sports, football, tennis and hockey, to the youth of the land. Some find a tendency to overdo the matter, and say studies are suffering in consequence, but as a general thing physical development is regarded as necessary as training of the mind.

PRODUCER SAYS CLEAN FILMS WILL RAISE TONE OF FICTION

Los Angeles, Sept. 5.—That the palatial and suggestive in modern fiction has received a body blow in the recent edict against the use of such material in motion pictures by Will H. Hays, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, is the opinion expressed here by M. C. Levee, head of the United Studios. Levee supported his statement with the argument that since authors frequently receive more money for film rights to their works than from regular publication sources, they soon will begin to realize that unless their stories are built without objectionable situations and themes a very lucrative avenue of revenue will be closed to them.

ROME'S NEW TRAFFIC PLANS WILL AFFECT CITY TRAINED HORSE

Rome, Sept. 6.—One of the most radical changes in the aspect of the Eternal City that will greet the eyes of thousands of pilgrims next year, Holy Year, will be the complete change in traffic regulations. The city authorities have decided to make the rules of the road to the right instead of to the left, as they have been thru the centuries.

Work already has begun to change the switches on all the street car lines to conform to the new regulations, which are expected to be put into effect within a few months.

Sticklers for the old order of things, however, are predicting a peck of trouble in making the new rules effective. Custom plays a leading role, particularly in the capital city of the peninsula kingdom.

It is recalled that, twelve years ago the same experiment was tried by Mayor Nathan, the only British mayor Rome ever had, who was bent on making the Roman traffic rules conform to those of the rest of Italy.

Everywhere else, except in a few large cities, the rules of the road have always been to the right. But Mayor Nathan ran against a snag, viz: The vine carts.

For generations it has been the custom to transport native wine in barrels on quaint two-wheeled vehicles. The drivers, who are on duty nearly all the time, do most of their sleeping in the daytime, and have trained their horses to go unsteered to their accustomed destinations. Throughout generations these wags have been trained to keep to the left. Wine-carts exist now in as great numbers as ever, so it is predicted that it will be as difficult to change the habits of these horses as it was when Mayor Nathan tried the experiment.

Another difficulty anticipated in the plans concerns the drivers of Rome's 4,000-horse cabs. The plans, as being drawn up, call for special uniform caps with visors for the drivers of horse cabs and taxis; and the cab drivers are up in arms against bringing in these new fangled ornaments that, they declare, disturb practically the only business institution handed down by the middle ages.

The main attraction for being a cab driver at all they assert is individuality of dress. They cultivate regular customers to ride in their low-necked Victorias and they argue that if everybody wears the same headgear how are their customers going to spot their favorite driver? One might as well join the army!

American Aviators Made Brough Happy In Fortnight's Stay

Brough, England, Sept. 5.—This quaint Yorkshire village by the River Humber, proud of its long history, is no less proud of the distinction which the American round-the-world aviators conferred upon it.

Brough was old when Caesar's legions annexed Britain to the Roman Empire. The visit of Lieutenant Smith and his five gallant companions lifted this quiet hamlet out of its long past and hurled it present to a place of world importance. For it was selected by the American aviators as the base where they overhauled their machines and made final preparations for the last leg of their trans-Atlantic flight home. Great was the rejoicing of the townsfolk when the six American fliers alighted here.

The welcome of the inhabitants was genuine and sincere and within 24 hours they had taken the visitors to their hearts and homes. The Blackburn Aeroplane Works placed their factory and staff at the full disposal of the Americans, who were guests during their stay at the social club which the Blackburn company maintains for its employees.

It was the industry of the Americans; their willingness to do any kind of work in connection with the assembling of their planes, that won the admiration of the Brough people. The village folk stood by to watch the Americans at their work, and first acquaintance ripened at once into mutual friendship.

The Americans had so much to do that they found little time to meet the villagers outside the airplane works. Nevertheless, at the little village inn in Brough, the publican and his daughter have priceless souvenirs of the visit of the aviators. These are the aviators. These are the long-stemmed churchwarden pipes which the aviators smoked one evening when they visited the inn.

These pipes, each autographed by the smoker, are proudly displayed by the innkeeper. Already an order

First Lady Proves Tactful And Able Helpmeet for President; Her Charm Has Won Admiration of All Nation

BOTH COOLIDGES ARE FLOWER LOVERS. (KEYSTONE VIEW)

Charm, tact and efficiency; these are the characteristics which have made such a complete success of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge's tenure as First Lady of the Land.

Even before her distinguished husband had risen to his present high office, Mrs. Coolidge was one of the most popular of Washington's matrons, and since her occupation of the White House the Capital's enthusiasm for her has grown steadily.

One biographer of the President, R. M. Washburn, a former colleague in the Massachusetts Legislature, has written of the First Lady:

"She is an admirable complement to the President. When he seeks to fuse with the people, she is his vital link. She is a successful blender. She is of attractive appearance. She has a bright mind. She tactfully declines to commit herself on public questions that she may not embarrass her husband."

The charm and tact of Mrs. Coolidge never were more convincingly evidenced than they were by the manner in which she received her sons. They attended the public schools of Northampton, Mass., and were in every other regard just plain American boys. When they grew up and wished to work during their vacations, no obstacle was placed by their mother. And they were capable workers, reflecting the splendid training that had been theirs.

When she first met Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Coolidge was Miss Grace Anna Goodhue, teacher in the Clark School for the Deaf, at Northampton. She was the daughter of the late Andrew L. Goodhue, of Burlington, Vermont, who died in April of 1923, leaving a widow, Elmina Goodhue, mother of the President's wife, Mr. Goodhue was a deacon in the College Street Congregational Church and an inspector of steamboats on Lake Champlain.

Grace Anna Goodhue was graduated from the Burlington High School in 1897 and from the University of Vermont in 1902. Her marriage to Calvin Coolidge, then a young lawyer, took place on October 4, 1905.

FARTHEST NORTH SEA FISHING BANKS TO BE DEVELOPED RUSSIA

Archangel, Russia, Sept. 6.—Soviet Russia has made strenuous efforts this summer to develop her sea fisheries as a source of food supply, and in this connection, it was announced recently, new fishing grounds have been discovered off Jugurski Schar in Arctic waters adjacent to Russia. This new fishing banks were located quite by accident.

It was during a cruise of the steamship Malygin, of 1,500 tons, with Russian sea scientists aboard, who were doing research work for the purpose of studying matters pertaining to the biological, hydrographical and meteorological problems of the Polar regions that great schools of fish were encountered. Further investigations in the same waters, off Jugurski Schar, revealed that the fish made their "homes" there in great numbers. This is said to be the most northerly fishing banks in the world.

There are indications, not only on the Archangel coast, but in Northern Norway as well that the Russian interests are going in for deep sea fishing on a much larger scale than at any time since the revolution. Formerly the "Russian trade" was a main feature of such Norwegian towns as Vardø and Hammerfest. As far back as the fifteenth century the Pomors fished and traded along the Norwegian coast. Gradually in the eighteenth century the fishing passed into Norwegian hands, the Russians continuing their attention to the purchase and shipping of the catches. In the five years ending in 1912, more than 140,000 tons were thus purchased, much of this going to England. With the war and the revolution this trade vanished, but now Russia has begun to buy fishing craft in Norway with which to catch her own fish, thus bringing about a great saving for the Russian people.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The following poem was written by Miss Ora Taylor, a young lady who has been spending several weeks in this section of the state selling Bibles. The poem is dedicated to the friendship made during her stay here.

When the golden sun is setting In the North Carolina hills; When my mind begins to wander, And with golden fancy fills. I can hear the night hawk calling, Gently calling, to its mate; I can hear the waters splashing On the margin of the lake. Then my fancy gently wanders To the places I have been; To the sights I have been seeing— And I long to see again. Let us slowly stroll together, Through the wood of sighing pine, Listen! hear the red bird calling? "Sweet! sweet! Dear old summer-time!" There on Pamlic's shining waters, Glistening waves, all sunbeam kissed, Sparkling water of dear Pamlic, How your fragrance will be missed! When I think of those dear friend-ships; Of the friends that I have met; How my heart goes out toward them, Those dear friends I can't forget.

Oh, the bright and sunny Southland, Where we find the best that grows; Corn and cotton, sweet potatoes, Peanuts, growing in straight rows. Just to see the happy faces Of those people in the South; Just to hear the kindest greetings That proceeds from any mouth. Of mortal man, in any country, North or South—East or West; You can't pass Old North Carolina, For they surely have the best.

Then I think of dear old Greenville; That good place I love so well; Where we met the dearest people— Let our gladdest praises swell!

Where there ever is a greeting, On the tongue of every man; Coming from his heart, to youward; Helping you just all he can.

I'll forget dear Greenville never! Nor the other places there, In that dear state, North Carolina, Where they, joys and sorrows share.

WHERE BODY OF SLAIN DEPUTY WAS FOUND.

The body of Giacomo Matteotti, multi-millionaire Socialist member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, whose kidnaping and murder almost resulted in the overthrow of Premier Benito Mussolini, whom Matteotti had been fighting, was found in a fox's cave 15 miles from Rome. Bloodhounds followed scant traces to the cave, where the cost of the murdered man was found. Inside the cave was found the body, torn to pieces by animals, and identified by dental work. The other picture shows the body being borne to a village cemetery for interment.

Trotsky is Popular With People; Feared By Soviet Officials

Moscow, Sept. 5.—Leon Trotsky, Soviet minister of war, retains a dominant place in the minds and hearts of the Russian Bolsheviks. All efforts within the Communist party and Soviet government to subordinate him have failed. There is little doubt that if a referendum were held among the people of Communist leanings, the creator of the Red Army would be selected to fill the place left vacant by the death of Premier Lenin. But the war minister's associates in the government fear if he were chosen as the national leader of the country, he would attempt eventually to set himself up as a sort of Napoleonic dictator. For this reason they lose no opportunity to repress his personal ambitions and political activities.

Trotsky's services as a speaker are in great demand because of his ready oratorical skill and wide knowledge of international affairs. Scarcely a day goes by that he is not called upon to address a political convention, a scientific congress, or a workmen's gathering. One of his favorite topics at these meetings is America and the American "bourgeoisie." But Americans at home must sometimes be amused at some of the extravagant and alarmist expressions of the Soviet war minister. He is forever prating about "America's preparations for a new and more deadly warfare on Europe and Japan."

In a flamboyant speech before the All-Russian Congress recently, Trotsky said the European proletariat, in its struggle for power and world revolution, would have to reckon upon "capitalistic America as an irreconcilable and all-powerful enemy." He said the revolution would develop much more slowly in the United States than in Russia and the East. He predicted the people of the East would throw off the yoke of imperialist countries and seize power in Europe, but that "America will remain the most formidable opponent of the proletariat."

The head of the Red Army said that the World War, which reduced Europe to ruins, was made possible only by American support. "Now that the war is over," he continued, "the United States is helping the European bourgeoisie maintain its position. The United States, which has tenaciously refused to recognize Russia, is attempting through the report of the Dawes committee to organize a system for the enslavement of the European laboring masses. America is monstrously rich. Her bourgeoisie possesses unusual resources for maneuvering internal and foreign politics."

A RARE SEASON

What is so rare as a day in June, except it be an autumn day?

A fair fall day combines everything that is best in weather. It boasts of a bright and hot sun. It lays claim to a crisp and invigorating air. Its skies are untainted by mist or dull cloud. The day is devoid of summer's oppressive heat and humidity, of the dampness of spring and of the chill of winter. Above all, it forebodes a cool, refreshing evening and a night of sound slumbers.

It only needed improved highways to make autumn the most popular season for motoring. More pleasure cars take to the open road on a Sunday in fall than in the middle of the summer vacation season. The reason is that driving is more comfortable in the fall when the heat is not so intense.

For a hike over the hills and into the valleys there is no other time of the year so perfectly suited as autumn. There is no direct beams of the sun to exhaust you and nature's garb is never more beautiful. There is a charm in the open known only to the fall of the year.

Autumn's one defect is her proximity to winter's winds and cold. Coming as she does after blistering summer it is natural that autumn should be a constant reminder of the snows and storms which are to follow. Yet, the privilege to enjoy the perfect days of the fall is worth the discomforts of winter.

Other things for which we look forward to autumn are the opening of the schools and colleges, the ushering in of the football season, the harvest with her fruit and pumpkins and the festival days of Halloween and Thanksgiving.

Autumn seems lamentably brief, sandwiched in between torrid summer and drear winter, but it is a season of rare gifts to man.

OUR WINTER

"What sort of winter are we going to have?" the average family man is asking anxiously, mindful of shoes, clothes and other necessities. Nature is said to be the best weather prophet and if this holds true the outlook for Mr. Average Householder is sad indeed, for a long, hard winter lies before us. Note the following signs and prepare accordingly.

Fur on wild and domestic animals is unusually heavy; ants have gathered their winter supply of food early and store is far below the surface of the ground; cockleburrs filled out and ripened early; corn husks are extremely thick; nuts and acorns are plentiful and are being stored unusually early by squirrels, chipmunks, jays and woodpeckers; wild geese have big bones and heavy feathers; woman—lovely but irrational woman—is wearing her waist lower and has discarded the heavy furs she has been wearing all weather-wise folks all agree that the prospects are for a "real, old-fashioned winter."

So there is no joy in the average home for summer.

Our own diagnosis is that ninety per cent of the world's trouble is jumpy nerves.

Many a neighbor's dog is a howling success.

A fool and his money are soon envied.

Trouble is easy to borrow; but hard to pay back.

Some optimists are just too lazy to kick.

Some of these song hits should have missed.

The only arguments some people listen to are their own.

If dentists sent their bills first we could grind our own teeth.

GOOD ADVICE FOR FARMERS

In a booklet just published entitled "Safeguarding the Farm Against Fire," the National Board of Fire Underwriters says:

"The farmer, above all others, needs to give special attention to the reduction of fire hazards and the adoption of protective methods. This is true for several reasons. In the first place his house, barn and outbuildings usually are constructed of combustible materials; being more or less isolated, they are peculiarly subject to lightning stroke; kerosene and gasoline are likely to be stored about the premises and used for light and power; the farmer crams his barn with hay, straw and feed all of which are subject to spontaneous combustion; and last, but by no means least, he is nearly always beyond the reach of organized fire protection.

"Fire precautions ought to be an integral part of the original plan of a farmstead. Its various buildings should be so separated that if a fire occurs in one, the rest will not inevitably be doomed. In common with dwellings everywhere, there are several interior features of rural home construction which, although higher in first cost than ordinary work, carry with them increased safety to life and property. Among these are the employment of fire-resistant roofing material; the provision of two stairways in different parts of the house; the enclosure of stairways, particularly a rear one that enters the kitchen, and the installation of fire-stopping between floors. All these items with the exception of the fire-stopping, are features that can be introduced even in structures long standing."

RADICALISM NO TERROR

Business generally, which means banking, manufacturing, farming, exporting and importing, mining, lumbering, power development and transportation, has no fears of radicalism and is improving. There is no real fear of a Third party or any ripping up of the Constitution in states or nation, and the political system of our country that has stood a century and a half will stand 1924.

Disappearance in business of political radicalism is a change which ought to stimulate enterprise, and help revival in trade. Stock prices habitually advance when general trade is improving; and both stocks and bonds are advancing.

The third party furor looks overdone if the sane and sensible everyday American will get out and vote instead of trusting the other fellow to vote and save him.

A successful man always runs things; he never walks them.

The great task is not to define Americanism, but to refine it.

Oh, Patriotism, what expensive hates are engendered in thy name!

Every man whose affairs are getting along nicely, thank you, despises a whiner.

The only kind of publicity men shun is the kind that might interest the grand jury.

However, there will never be enough liberty in the world to drown the wail of minorities.

Once let the world cheer madly when a peace advocate passes by and the business of war will be ended.

The reason the optimist looks on the bright side is because he is seldom on the inside.

Life is full of disappointments, and the story seldom lives up to the thrill of the headline.

When the world reduces its armament, perhaps there won't be so much wanton killing of time.

The only certain thing about the conference is that the folks back home will cuss the delegates.

Some people think they have no pep unless they are getting excited about something or other.

Some one asks why the air is more dense near the earth. Probably gets that way by associating with folks.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' NOVEL MADE INTO PHOTODRAMA

The announcement of White's theatre management that "Main Street," a screen adaptation of Sinclair Lewis' novel describing the small town, will be shown for two days beginning Monday will be hailed by all motion picture enthusiasts as an event out of the ordinary run of things. This because of the discussion pro and con awakened by the story which was the most widely discussed in the history of the literary world during the past few years.

Florence Vidler and Monte Blue have the featured parts, the former as Carol Kennicott, the young girl burning with new ideas and the desire to make Gopher Prairie adopt them, and the latter as Dr. Kennicott, her husband. The picture is said to follow the book with fidelity.

Briefly, the story centers about Carol, about whom tongues begin to wag in connection with her friendship for Erik Valborg, a young dreamer, the only person in the town sympathizing with Carol. She goes her way, mindless of the gossip, trying to make the town advanced and new-fangled.

Old Valborg, Erik's father, resents the intimacy between his son and Carol, whom he blames for keeping away from the farm. At last the doctor, in his effort to save Carol from a bad reputation, tells her she must stop and be content to live as others do. She consents, but finds it too late, that Erik now in love, wants to force her to elope. The climax comes in a big scene in which her life is imperiled.

MISS DE GAFFERELY STARS IN "DOPE FIEND"

Appearing in one of the most difficult roles ever assigned to an actress, Miss Marie De Gafferely starred last night in the great American drama, "The Dope Fiend," which was presented by the William Stock Company, and her clever portrayal of this difficult part won the hearty approval of the large audience which was held spellbound by the great theme of the play.

"The Dope Fiend," which is taken from the book, "Human Wreckage" deals with the life of the poor unfortunate who has become addicted to the use of morphine and other narcotics.

In a most realistic manner Miss De Gafferely portrayed the part of the addict, showing to what extent the use of the drug may drag its victim down into the mire of shame, suffering and sorrow.

Every character in the drama last night was ably presented by the members of the company, and all who attended the play proclaimed it the best that has been presented here in many a day.

The five piece orchestra continued to win the hearty applause of the audience with their splendid selections. As usual, the special numbers between the acts were exceedingly fine, and the audience was given a full three and one half hours of splendid entertainment.

Tonight the lovers of country life and all that pertains to it will have an opportunity to see the Williams company at their best in playing the ever-popular comedy, "Forty Five Minutes from Broadway." This is the play which first placed George M. Cohan in the spotlight on the greatest play center of the world—Broadway. Many humorous situations that will furnish many a hearty laugh and drive away the hot-weather blues are presented in this farce. There will be several good special numbers between the acts, and the usual splendid instrumental selections by the company orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Lee Allen.

Mr. M. O. Blount, of Bethel, was here today.

Mrs. C. L. Porter, and children, have returned from a visit in Charlotte.

MISS MABLE GLEN BEST ENTERTAINS.

Miss Mable Glen Best entertained a few of her friends last evening in honor of her house guest, Miss Biedie Sitterson. After the arrival of the guests they were invited to accompany Misses Best and Sitterson to White's Theatre where they enjoyed seeing Walter Hiers in "Fair Week." After the show they were invited to the drug store where they were served ice cream and cold drinks.

From the drug store they returned to the home of the hostess where conversation and games were enjoyed.

Miss Sitterson was an attractive honorée and Miss Best proved an ideal hostess.

Markets

(Furnished by James William Cobb)

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, Sept. 6.—The undertone of the market remained steady today in the face of the uncertainty attending the realization of the Government crop reports next Monday. There is some disposition to lower crop ideas compared with the previous Washington forecast for a yield of 12,856,000 bales, on the theory that the continuance of the drought in the southwest and the absence of sufficient moisture elsewhere lowered the condition of the plant sufficiently to more than offset the higher pars for September first.

The additional private crop estimates were issued today, two of them locally, one placing yield at 12,400,000 bales, the other at 12,450,000 while the third estimate pointed to a production of 13,200,000 bales.

That cotton is at about value for the present is indicated by the larger sales at reporting markets yesterday—50,000 bales, the largest day's business so far this season, indicating that the trade is willing to buy and the producer disposed to sell around current levels. Domestic weekly trade reviews are encouraging, indicating a slight improvement in most lines of business and foreign trade reports are satisfactory with prospects of expanding in the future.

While there is a general complaint of the wake rain in the interior for late cotton, there is an absence of insect activity except from scattered localities, whereas at this time one year ago almost incessant rains were lowering the grade of the crop and weevil and worms were numerous and active in nearly all districts of the cotton regions.

Meanwhile the continuance of fair weather this year is permitting picking, ginning and marketing to progress rapidly after a late start in Texas and the grade of early receipts is reported much better than one year ago. The immediate future of the market will likely be governed by next Monday's government crop forecast.

GRAIN MARKET

GRAIN MARKET

The grain markets are a big merchandising proposition with wheat, oats and rye carrying an immense amount of hedging against cash grain with good buying of wheat against exports sales, but it is not sufficient to offset the hedging pressure without the help of an increased speculative buying. For the moment the trade is inclined to regard wheat, corn and oats market tired and believe that profits should be taken on all bulges.

RUMORS OF U. S.-JAPAN TROUBLE MAKE BONIN ISLANDERS UNEASY

Tokio, Sept. 6.—Inhabitants of the Bonin Islands, the chain stretching southward from Japan proper, are uneasy over rumors of trouble between Japan and the United States since the passage of the Japanese exclusion law by the United States Congress, according to reports reaching military authorities in Tokio.

The Bonin Islands would be Japan's first line of defense for the home islands in case of a naval war, and the islanders are uneasy about the outcome of the strained situation arising from the new immigration law. Their anxiety, it is reported, has been increased by frequent visits of inspection to the islands by high military and naval officers which have been noted recently.

Maccabees' Head In G. O. P. Drive

MISS BINA M. WEST.

Miss Bina M. West of Port Huron, Michigan, Supreme Commander of Ladies of the Maccabees of the World and founder of the Women's Benefit Association will be an important figure in the national campaign this fall. She is a member of the executive committee of the Republican National Committee. Closely associated with Miss West in the organization of Republican women in the state of Michigan is Mrs. Orin T. Bolt of Muskegon, state vice chairman. Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the National Republican Committee, who has charge of the women's activities in this campaign, has issued an appeal to the Republican women of the country, asking them to get every eligible Republican voter in their families to the polls registration day. In response to this appeal Miss West and Mrs. Bolt are organizing the Republican women of the state of Michigan into clubs by towns and precincts. Through these clubs they hope to secure a complete canvass of the women of the state. "Approximately 25% of the women eligible to vote actually voted in 1920," said Mrs. Hert in a recent interview. "This means one out of every four. Women are out to round up 'civic slackers' and this means men as well as women."

PREMIER'S BLOOD TOO VALUABLE TO SELL, SAYS EGYPTIAN POLICEMAN

Alexandria, Sept. 6.—The coat of an Egyptian policeman, stained with the blood of Zagloul Pasha, prime minister, is too valuable to be sold, in the opinion of the officer. The latter's coat became smeared recently when an attempt was made on the premier's life and the officer rushed to his assistance.

At the hospital the bluecoat was offered $500 for the stained garment, but he declared the leader's blood was too valuable to be sold. He said he intended to present the coat to the house of the nation.
