TOBACCO MARKET SELLS 2,002,768 POUNDS FIRST WEEK

Visitors Declare Prices As Well as Other Markets in State; Splendid Sales Today

The Greenville tobacco market had one of its best weeks in history during the opening week selling 2,002,768 pounds at an average of $17.05.

The Greenville market is selling its offerings at a price according to visitors and buyers as well as other markets in the state. The quality of tobacco has been poor, in fact it has consisted mostly of the first and last curings. The better grades have sold at higher prices and have showed strength.

The Greenville warehousemen are vitally interested in the success of their patrons and are making every effort to secure the highest dollar for their tobacco. According to figures given by adjoining markets they showed a higher average than the local market on opening day but the visitors to this market from those markets declare that the Greenville market is selling the weed at prices comparable with its competitors.

Today witnessed a splendid break with every house finishing by 3 o'clock. The prices were stronger and the farmers were apparently well pleased.

J. Captain Steele, U. S. N., who will command the ship when she is delivered to the Navy, was on board as a passenger. 1216 Pupils Enrolled In City Graded Schools '24-'25 Term

The Greenville City School opening at 10:30, public exercises will be held, and the parents and friends of the school are invited. There will be a program by the High School band and orchestra, as well as other features. The school is especially anxious to have back with it that morning, as many of the Alumnae, and Alumni as possible. There are no changes in the text books in the elementary school's schools. There will be none for four years more at least. In the High School there are some changes this year, brought about by a new adoption by the State Text-Book Commission. These books are good for four years more at least also. Noticeable about the opening of the schools was the great enthusiasm which seemed to be prevalent among the pupils. Apparently there is a great eagerness on the part of the youngsters to get back to their work. All in all, indications point to a most successful and worth-while year.

TWO HELD MURDER CHARGE CHARLOTTE

Body of W. W. Johnson Found in Home of Robert L. Reed Saturday Afternoon

Charlotte, Sept. 8.—An inquiry into the death of W. W. Johnson, of Mount Holly, whose body was found lying in the home of Robert L. Reed, here, on Saturday afternoon will be held late this afternoon by Croner Frank Hovis. Meantime Reed and Lee Fulf, of Statesville, are being held without bail pending a thorough investigation into the slaying.

Neither Reed nor Fulf thus far have made any statement beyond a denial that they knew anything of the affair. Fulf surrendered to the sheriff in Statesville when he learned he was being sought. Reed was arrested at his home here. The body of Johnson was found lying on a sofa in the parlor of the Reed home Saturday afternoon. The hands were folded and the body had the appearance of being laid out for burial except that the head rested in a pool of blood caused from a bullet wound in the temple.

HON. F. C. HARDING ADDRESSES KIWANIS ON "BUILDING"

Emphasized Importance of Building Enduring Friendships

Perhaps one of the most interesting and instructive luncheon programs yet given by the local Kiwanis Club was enjoyed at its regular meeting Friday evening. The attendance was good and a splendid luncheon served. Frank Harrington was in charge of the program and J. B. James directed the music with Victor Davis at the piano.

Hon. F. C. Harding was a guest of the Club and in his usual pleasing manner he gave one of the most helpful and instructive talks yet heard by the Club. His talk was on Building. Only those who build leave a trace of existence behind them while those tear down or do nothing are soon lost from memory. He emphasized the importance of building enduring friendships and stated that building was not only the laying of mortar and brick but the building of the fabric of community life which is possible through the fine and unquestioned character of its citizenship.

Victor Davis gave a talk on why he had returned to Greenville, to live. The fine fellowship and wide field for real service here invited him back. The club was glad to have him return.

W. H. Bradsher and Roy Cox were initiated as new members of the club and Paul Fitzgerald gave them a few pointers as to the meaning of Kiwanis and what they now stand for. Messrs. W. A. Darden, E. G. Joyner and Justice Hull were visitors. Under report of committees, Kiwanian Laughinghouse reported favorably for the opening of the St. Frances colored hospital on Evans St. By a co-operative plan of the church members of the city he stated that at a cost of three cents each that the rent and laundry items of the hospital could be met and that the church, were responding very favorably in the matter. He said if any one had furniture or linen equipment that they desired to donate for a very worthy purpose it could be used for equipping the hospital rooms.

Judge John R. Caverly Has Decided On Sentence of Kidnappers and Slayers of Robert Franks

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The fate of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of wealthy Chicago families, for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks on May 21 has been sealed. Judge John R. Caverly has completed the decision he will render next Wednesday morning as the last official act of his connection with Cook county criminal court.

Upon the decision rest, whether the youths will die on the gallows or grow into manhood within the walls of the Illinois State penitentiary to which defense counsel hopes to get the youths sentenced instead of the death penalty.

Three sheets of ruled manila paper holding approximately one thousand words holds decision of Judge Caverly written yesterday after he had attended church under a police escort. The document will contain a short terse review of the case and the official forms will be added as (Continued on page 6)

COURT RELEASES MYSTERY WOMAN IN WILMINGTON

Recorder Orders Baggage Returned to Woman and Gives Her Until Night to Leave City

Wilmington, Sept. 8.—The "mystery" woman arrested here Thursday was today released and ordered out of Wilmington after a three months jail sentence for violation of the prohibition laws had been stayed.

The charges of larceny of letters and jewelry belonging to Mrs. J. K. Lewis, heiress to the Henry M. Flagler estate were dismissed.

The woman had been identified as Miss Fay, former governess of the Lewis children who are now with their mother in Ontario. She was given until 7:30 this evening to leave the city. If she is not out by that time she will be arrested again. When arrested the woman gave her name as Miss Jonnell. She had in her possession a passport issued in 1919 to Rosalie Cecil Kelly, of Garrison, Md.

The recorder in permitting the net crossing of the larceny charge, also gave the prosecution leave to reinstate the charge if it was found necessary. He ordered the nine bags and other property returned to the woman. The outfit never belonged to her but she asserts she was merely acting for other parties. The baggage included several thousands dollars worth of jewelry.

Chinese Civil War Assumes Greater Proportions as Manchurian Troops Are Mobilized Establishing a New Front

Shanghai, China, Sept. 8.—5 p. m.—Advances on all fronts particularly west of Taihu lake and near Kiating in Liube sectors were claimed tonight at Lung Wha headquarters of the Chekiang troops holding back the Kiangsue advances on Shanghai.

The second army under command of Cgange Yean including the 4th division and a part of the 10th division of the Chekiang troops swelled by some forces from Fukien province has been fighting on the west side of Taihu since yesterday attacking northward toward Cahnging 15 miles south of the provincial border.

Shanghai, Sept. 8.—The armies of General Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria, were in the field today sweeping down from Manchuria toward Peking against the forces of General Wu Tel Fu his old military rival creating a new front to the Chinese civil war which has been confined to fighting west and south of Shanghai between rival military governors for the possession of the gateway city.

This latest movement indicates the making of the territory between Mukden, principal city of Manchuria, and Peking, in Chihli province, an armed camp one thousand miles from the Shanghai line of warfare.

Falkland Boy Falls From Tree, Instantly Killed

Falkland, N. C., Sept. 8.—A tragic accident occurred near Falkland on Tuesday afternoon when Jack Garriss, the fourteen-year-old son of Ashley Garriss, a farmer of Falkland township, fell from a tree and was fatally injured. The boy was last seen when he left home on his bicycle about four o'clock. When darkness came and he had not returned, members of the family instituted a search for him. His mother found the bicycle lying near a tree in the edge of the woods several hundred yards from the house, and upon coming nearer, discovered her son's dead body on the ground under the tree. It is thought that the boy climbed the tree for grapes, and either jumped or fell in such a way as to break his neck, instant death being the result. The funeral services were held in the Falkland Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon, interment being in the cemetery at Falkland.

WINNEBAGO INDIANS BESTOW TRIBAL HONORS BENEFACTOR

Kilbourn, Wis., Sept. 6.—A ceremony unique in Indian history took place in the Wisconsin Delta here when Glen Parsons, manager of a local boat company, was christened a member of the Winnebago Indian tribe and then made a chief of all the Winnebagos. Parsons' title among the Indians is Chief Thunder Bird, the Indian word for which is Zazamanaga. The honor was given Parsons chiefly because of his interest in the Indian tribes and activities with them. Chief Thunder Bird Parsons was christened by Chief Little Bird, 101 years old, and said to be a direct descendant of Chief Thunder Bird, who was a warrior of the tribe 200 years ago.

COLORADO PRIMARIES FOLLOW CAMPAIGN OF RELATIVE QUIET

Denver, Col., Sept. 8.—Colorado voters tomorrow will select candidates for 33 congressional, state and legislative offices, after one of the quietest primary campaigns in the state's history.

Lawrence C. Phipps, incumbent, has no opposition in the Republican primary for renomination to succeed himself in the United States Senate. Alva B. Adams, Democrat, who now is filling the unexpired term in the United States senate of the late Samuel D. Nicholson, has no opposition in the Democratic primary for the nomination for the seat now held by Senator Phipps. As a result, Colorado's present United States senators—Phipps and Adams—will oppose each other at the November election for Senator Phipps' seat and one of them will retire from the Senate after the November election.

Three Republicans are contesting for United States senator to fill the Nicholson vacancy. They are Charles J. Monynihan of Montrose, Charles W. Waterman of Denver and Rice W. Means of Denver. Two Democrats are contesting in their own primary for the party nomination for Senator Nicholson's seat. They are Morrison Shatroth of Denver, a son of the late United States Senator John F. Shatroth, and Benjamin C. Hilliard of Denver, who as a member of Congress during President Wilson's administration voted against the declaration of war with Germany.

William E. Sweet, Democrat, governor of Colorado, has no opposition in the Democratic primary for renomination. In the Republican primary, Robert F. Rockwell of Paoonia, now lieutenant governor, Clarence J. Morley, a judge of the Denver district court, and Earl Cooley, a member of the state land board, are contesting for the nomination for governor.

The Ku Klux Klan issue has entered into the campaign. Opponents of Mr. Means and Judge Morley have charged that they have the backing of the Klan. It also has been charged that Judge Morley and Mr. Means are members of the Klan. No public denials have been made by either Mr. Means or Judge Morley. Mr. Cooley, in announcing his candidacy for governor, made a bitter attack on the Klan, and has been making his campaign along the same lines.

COMMISSIONER SAYS SUN YAT-SEN WILL NOT GIVE UP FIGHT

Canton, China, Sept. 8.—Determination of Dr. Sun Yat-sen to stay with the fight until he was won, was determined in an interview granted recently by Dr. C. C. Wu, commissioner of foreign affairs and son of the late Dr. Wu Ting-fang.

"The recent rumors of Dr. Sun's death we have not been able to trace," Dr. Wu declared. "He was not even ill. If we were ill we would issue bulletins."

"There is not much in the story about negotiations for peace with China. The precedent condition for peace is that General Chen issue a formal apology for his revolt. The attempt to murder Dr. Sun in the middle of the night, open rebellion against an established government, actions like these raise a moral issue. That must first be settled by public apology and the rest will be easy. There will be certain arrangements about placing troops, certain compromises on both sides. Probably a northern expedition would be organized, not for the purpose of capturing Peking, but to return to their own provinces the troops of other sections which have been fighting under Dr. Sun's flag."

"Dr. Sun realizes full well that war is hard on the people, even a well-conducted war. But he is no more tired of this war than were England and France tired of the war in 1918. He is determined that he must win."

"The removal of the soldiers to barracks outside the city is not proceeding as rapidly as anticipated, or rather not quite according to schedule; we anticipated that it would be slow."

Dr. Wu, dressed in a long, formal Chinese gown, received the interviewer in a big reception room, well supplied with blackwood furniture. Two cups of tea, Chinese style, were unobtrusively served but the commissioner did not even bother to take a sip of his. One was somehow made to realize that he was a busy man, though there was never a hint of this in the way he spoke. His Oxford English and his conversational power are delightful. It was rather in the quiet composure of his manner as he politely waited for the interviewer to ask him another question.

Division of Home Economic Make Great Increase in Work

Raleigh, Sept. 8.—The Division of home economic, a part of the Department of Vocational Education, has made a great increase in all phases of its work under the supervision of Miss Margaret Edwards during the year, it is shown in the annual report of the supervisor.

The enrollment, according to the report, increased from 737 in the unit groups, that is classes taught in the mills, women's clubs, and night community houses, in 1922-23 to 3,435 in 1923-24. Units held in 1922-23 were said to number 31 while those of 1923-24 totaled 229. The number of lessons given were placed at 347 for 1922-23 and 2,025 for 1923-24.

The work of the Division as carried on in the high schools of the state was in addition to the Unit work and it too made large gains in all phases of classification.

The number of schools where the work was carried on in 1922-23 was 72 white and 10 negro, a total of 82 says the report, while in 1923-24 the number of schools being visited by the workers of the Division was 99 white and 19 negro, a total of 118.

The enrollment for 1923-25 was stated to be 2,591 whites and 240 negroes, a total of 2831 while in the

Large Quantity of Calcium Arsenate Used Boll Weevil

Raleigh, Sept. 8.—With the dust poisoning season for the control of the boll weevil at end, it is estimated that since the season started in the middle of July, that approximately 500 tons of calcium arsenate have been used in North Carolina in the fight on the pest of cotton, according to Franklin Sherman, chief of the Division of Entomology for the Experiment Station and Extension Service. This amount is said to be smaller than had been expected. The lack of necessity to use more of the poison was attributed to the favorable turn in the weather.

The matter of the exact time to begin the use of dust poison and when to end varies according to the age of the cotton and the degree of the infestation, it was pointed out by Mr. Sherman. "It was added that no absolute calendar rule could be laid down. The fact that the field workers of the Extension Service and the Experiment Station have been teaching the farmers how to judge these conditions, was said by Mr. Sherman, to have greatly increased the efficiency of their dusting and to have saved much waste of the poison."

"Instances have been related to me this season, where a rather high percentage of the squares were being punctured by the weevil before dusting, and a few days later after a thorough dusting had been given the plant, the percentage of punctured squares had been greatly lessened," said the chief entomologist, "whereas in cotton left undusted for comparison, the percentage had risen steadily."

"The turn to drier weather helped greatly against the weevil in the latter part of July, the weevil grubs being killed by the heat and dryness. By keeping watch on the infestation, the farmers can take advantage of these helps by doing less dusting."

Young Women Make Political Force Of Great Importance This Election Says Mrs. Hert, Republican Leader

JEANNETTE A. HYDE MRS. ALVIN T. HERT MRS. BARCLAY H. WARBURTON

The vote of young women will be a telling factor in the coming election. The intelligent interest which this group is showing in the campaign will be a most significant power, according to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee who is in charge of women's activities for this campaign, in a statement issued at the opening of Women's National Headquarters on the second floor of the Wrigley Building, Chicago.

"The Republican women of this country are organizing to get out an unprecedented vote for President Coolidge and General Daves-

Mrs. Hert said, "While we realize that the first task of women is to bring an inspirational value to political activities, we are working to perfect an organization which will have as its keynote real business efficiency. Reports from the West and Northwest indicate that work is progressing steadily among the women. Eastern headquarters have been opened in New York City. Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national committeewoman from New York, is in charge of the women's division of the East.

"This is the year of opportunity and responsibility for the women of this country. Every effort will be made by the women to get out the vote. We wield our greatest power through constructive organization. Women can use the vote to work for the common good in church, school, home and civic enterprise. This year will show how definite a place women are taking in the affairs of the nation."

Pictured with Mrs. Hert above are two of the prominent women who will take an active part in the campaign. Mrs. Jeannette A. Hyde of Utah, and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton of Pennsylvania, members of the executive committee of the Republican National Com-

Below: MAUDE ADAMS & LIEUT. J. P. ARNOLD

It has just been revealed that Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, U. S. Army Air Service, was the hero of the 'round the world flight from Greenland to Labrador. When Lieutenant Lowell Smith's airplane fuel pump broke Lieutenant Arnold worked the pump, twice a minute, for four consecutive hours, saving the plane from wreck. When he landed he collapsed. Owen D. Young, temporary General Reparations Agent under the Daves plan, has received 20,000,000 gold marks from the German Government, first of the reparations payments. Jimmy Murphy, daredevil automobile racer, won the 250-mile classic at Altoona, Pa., in which Joe Boyer was desperately injured when he crashed into a guard rail. The Lake Ronkonkoma, Long Island, estate of Maude Adams, noted actress, has been advertised for sale for $142 unpaid taxes.

BOTH PARTIES WATCH OUTCOME IN MAINE OF STATE ELECTION

Portland, Me., Sept. 8.—The Maine campaign for the biennial state election, which will be held today has been featured by attempts on the part of the Democratic political managers to stress state questions to the exclusion of national issues, and on the part of the Republicans to do exactly the reverse.

The fight is almost wholly between the two gubernatorial candidates, State Senator Ralph O. Brewster of Portland, the Republican nominee, and William R. Pattangall of Augusta, former state attorney general, the Democratic selection.

In the contest for the Republican nomination Mr. Brewster had the support of the Ku Klux Klan in Maine. He won over Frank G. Farrington of Augusta, president of the state senate, by a margin so narrow that the result was not determined until the governor and council had reviewed the primary ballots and thrown out several hundred on account of alleged frauds and irregularities, reversing the official result as originally declared.

Mr. Pattangall in his campaign speeches has charged that his opponent is the Klan candidate and that the real issue is Klan domination of the State. Mr. Brewster has made reference to the Klan but once, and then to say that he stood squarely on the Republican platform, like the Democratic platform, made no mention of the organization.

Despite Republican effort to eliminate the Klan issue from the campaign, it is expected to be a factor in voting, although to what degree only the result will determine. There will be defections from both parties by reason of it, party readers predict.

In addition to choosing a governor, the voters will elect a United States senator, four members of congress, a state auditor, a legislature and county officers. Senator Bert M. Fernald of Poland, whose term expires next March, is a candidate to succeed himself. His Democratic opponent is Fulton J. Redman of Ellsworth, formerly a member of the state legislature as a Republican.

The present Republican representatives in Congress, Carroll Y. Beedy of the first district, Wallace H. White, Jr., of the second, John E. Nelson of the third, and Ira G. Hersey of the fourth have been renominated.

The Democratic nominees are William M. Ingraham in the first, Bertrand G. McIntire in the second, Leon O. Tabbetts in the third, and Clinton C. Stevens in the fourth.

The second is the closest district in the state. A feature new to Maine was injected into the contest in the first district by Mr. Ingraham declaring for radical modifications of the Volstead law.

National speakers of note have been sent into the state by the Republican National committee, while the Democrats have for the most part depended on home talent.

SWITZERLAND HAS RECORD YEAR IN EXPORTS FRUIT, NUTS

Zurich, Switzerland, Sept. 6.—Fruits from the Swiss valleys have been exported this year on a larger scale than in any other period. Many of these shipments have gone to Germany where there is a big demand for fruits of all kinds, and where the Swiss exporters found a ready sale for much of their produce now that the renten mark has replaced the worthless paper currency.

According to provisional estimates compiled here Switzerland this year will have an excess of about 16,000 car loads of elder fruit, 8,000 cars of eating apples, 10,000 tons of plums and 1,500 tons of walnuts for exportation. Paris and London as usual took a large share of the Swiss fruit crop.

LABOR PARTY IN AUSTRALIA MAKES STEADY ADVANCES

Melbourne, Sept. 8.—Labor's victories in Australia did not receive the check in this state that political prophets had predicted. Victoria, considered the most conservative state in the commonwealth, has returned labor in greater strength than any other party in the election now in progress. Figures show that labor is certain of 29 seats.

The present situation here is: Labor, 29; Nationalist, 24; Farmers party, 12. The election was caused by a split between the Nationalists and the Farmers Union, which governed under a composite cabinet.

Queensland, South Australia, West Australia and Tasmania now have labor governments. In New South Wales labor is believed to have the best chance to win the next election.

Labor members of the Commonwealth parliament, at present ruled by a composite cabinet of Nationalists and Farmers, predict they will sweep the polls at the next election.

Small Town Attractions Dim White Lights

Airplane view of the Indian Refining Company's plant at Lawrenceville, Ill. Above the famous skating rink at Manhattan.

THEY may talk a lot of the lure of the Great White Way to the New Yorker, but little old Main Street looks better to him than even these glammers.

450 dyed-in-the-wool Gothamites journeyed out to Lawrenceville, Ill., in January at the invitation of the Indian Refining Company, whose sales and executive forces they comprised. They were promised by the Company free transportation back to New York after six months if they wanted to return. 431 have elected to remain in this town of 7,000 inhabitants; only 19 have returned to New York. Home—which to these 450 meant Manhattan up to eight months ago—was never like Lawrenceville, say these pioneers, who have quickly taken to the delights of small town life in America,—golf, tennis, the country club.

The move was undertaken by the Indian Refining Company, makers of Havoline Oil and Indian Gasoline in order to concentrate the refining plant and executive forces in one place in the center of their market. The success of the move may have a far reaching effect industrially on the population of the United States, taking men and women from the big cities to the small towns where the plants of industry are located.

LAND SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed and delivered by W. B. Williams to W. H. Wednesday, October 1st, 1924, the following described real estate:

Situate in the county of Pitt and in the town of Grimesland, being lots 6 and 7 in Block "B" on the plot formerly owned by Proctor Bros. and known as part of the plan of Grimesland, surveyed and platted by David C. James, C. E., said plot recorded in Berlin Zoo Sells Monkeys. Berlin, Sept. 8.—"Bargains in monkeys" are being advertised at the Berlin Zoo, where a visitor may purchase any monkey to which he takes a fancy.

The idea of selling monkeys originated with the zoo director recently when he found that he had on hand more of the comedians of the animal family than he cared to keep in stock, because of the high price of peanuts. There are not quite so many buyers as the director had figured on.

GREENVILLE'S ARMY

The grandest army of the republic marches against the citadels of ignorance today, 20,000,000 strong. Greenville's regiments are mobilizing, with captains and lieutenants in command. Conscription is the rule. And as the army moves, so moves the city, state and nation with it. In all the annals of history no finer page has ever been written than that which records the triumph of free public education in the United States of America.

One could describe this nation-wide phenomenon in the language of statistics—so many children, so many schools, so much money, etc., and etc. But let us view it from another angle.

An army of voters more capable of exercising the great function of the ballot because of mental equipment and the power of decision, without which no free government is safe.

An army of mature minds better able to cope with prejudice, class consciousness and hatreds. An army developed intellectually, dedicated to the making of a better today than yesterday, a better tomorrow than either.

An army whose knowledge and taste shall inevitably raise the standards of art, music, drama, and life in all their ramifications.

An army whose proud accomplishments in the past, and whose promise for the future lends glory to the wisdom and leadership of the nation's founders. An army whose continued well-being and happiness places an obligation upon each American to support the public school system to the limit.

SALVAGING PUBLIC SCHOOLS

To make the public school system, both elementary and higher education, attain its greatest usefulness to the American people, three things are quiet important.

First, extend industrial education until about one-half the time is spent on text books and the other half on learning trades and making boys and girls useful citizens.

Second, establish a public school savings system where every child will learn as early in life as possible to accumulate small savings instead of learning to spend money faster than they earn it.

Third, sell school bonds direct to the taxpayers in small denominations and keep the interest money at home among the people who pay the bills.

With these slight reforms put into effect, the public educational system might save our country from becoming a nation of soft-handed white collar non-producers.

FUNDAMENTALS

Two thousand years ago was spoken a parable whose interpretation has to a very large extent been spiritual, but should be material as well. It was the parable of the builders—the man who built his house on the sand, and the man who built his house on a rock. The one house was destroyed, the other stood. In our social, political, and economic life today we are building too much on sand, and not enough on the solid foundation of fundamental principles.

It is a common observation that people of this day and generation "do not seem to be well grounded in fundamental principles." The home, the school, the church are blamed for this shortcoming to some extent, and all combined to a larger extent, and if so should give attention to their failure properly to inculcate the demonstrated truth of ages, the basic relations of righteous and successful life. But whatever their failure, it does not wholly excuse the man or woman who persists in building on sand. Each and all are endowed with some degree of common sense and powers of observation which would guide unless they were blinded by selfishness.

Natural laws are not secrets. They are everywhere in evidence, in the simplest relations of matter as well as in the most complex transformation of it. Obedience to them is instinctive with the tiller of the soil, the toiler in the mines, and mills. Indeed, obedience is almost second nature from the smallest child to the aged grandparent. And natural laws govern men themselves in their relations and transformations in the material world. The principal reason why they do not govern the relations of men as they should, is not that men are not aware of them, do not recognize them, but deliberately attempt to set them aside and substitute for them their own laws. They do this though they cannot break a law of nature, rather will themselves be broken by it.

Moral law is but natural law applied to matters of right and wrong. It is man-made no more than natural law is. It is as absolute, also. The fact that one man may not see right or wrong as another may, does not change what is right or what is wrong as determined by natural law. The idea that "what is one man's food is another man's poison" is merely the embodiment of fallacy as the food may not nourish, or the poison act so quickly in some cases as in others. The laws of nature constitute some articles as foods, some as poisons, and those laws cannot be changed. So moral law dictates right and wrong as certainly and as absolutely, though the right may not be distinguished from the wrong with equal discernment by all persons: The failure is their fault, not that of the law.

Both natural and moral law are fundamental to all so-called man-made laws. The principles laid down are basic, and in man-made laws are merely extended or applied by direction. They apply without these, but expression and direction are needed because of the necessity to guide, admonish, and punish, and to make plain that this is done in accordance with law. Yet if every man-made law were wiped from the statute books the principles would remain because laid down in natural and moral law, for the reason that natural and moral law are created by the Infinite, and are as much a part of His creation as the world in which we live and the sun and moon which warm and light it. The man-made laws that should be wiped from statute books are those that do not embody the eternal principles of truth and justice, and these are best tested by our social structure whether it be builded on sand or solid rock.

To any intelligent man or woman it is evident today that application of fundamental principles discloses the fact that there is too much artificial and too little substantial in the lives of too many people—not only in their thinking but in their living. To too large an extent ours is a make-believe sort of living in which we are fooling ourselves that we are succeeding in disregarding the experiences of the ages and blazing a new pathway to some ideal condition or other which fundamental principles rule cannot possibly exist. Man must live by the sweat of his brow and when there is too little production to satisfy human needs man will either wake up and work, or succumb to the law of the survival of the fittest. And some will survive longer than others because there is inherent in them more power to keep themselves alive. Men may be born equal but they are never created equal, yet may develop themselves to greater quality if they are willing to pay the price.

But men who rise pay some price or other. It may be tremendous sacrifice of time, or expenditure of effort. Whichever the case, they will do so in conformity to natural law, and if their improved estate be permanent in accordance with moral law, building on the solid foundation of fundamental principles.

"Bandits Run Amuck"—headline. The "Amuck" must be a hotel.

Some men call up the ticket office to reserve themselves an office.

A feminine writer says nothing is thinner than a married man's excuse. The lady hasn't tried restaurant soup lately.

This "incompatibility" they talk about when they ask for a divorce is simply the product of chronic bad manners.

However, the opinion that prisons in this country are better than those in Europe does not give those who are most interested a brighter outlook.

Mr. Moore will be here September 11th, 12th and 13th, which is the coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday. ANIMALS FROM U. S. CHARTERS GRANTED TO IMPROVE NATIVE PORTO RICAN BREED

Houston, Texas, Sept. 6.—Porto Rico plans to import several consignments of American animals for the purpose of improving the Porto Rican breed of cattle, horses, swine, goats, poultry and rabbits.

The consignments consist of 45 head of Texas milk cows which have passed through various stages of Texas fever and now are believed to be immune from that disease which is prevalent on the island. Eight sires, four jerseys and four Holsteins, were purchased from the Texas A. and M. college by W. M. Ellison of the staff of the Porto Rican department of agriculture.

A portion of the sires and all of the cows will go to the Porto Rican health department which, among other things, seeks a continuous milk supply for the hospital for tubercular patients at Rio Piedras. Native cows, it seems, give a good quality of milk for a limited time each year, but the supply is short and averages, the government estimates, about a half tea cup full to each inhabitant on the island. The health department also will get one of the sires and the experiment station of the department of agriculture another. The remainder will be used for breeding purposes.

Mr. Ellison was here on his way East to purchase more cattle, including Ayreshares and Guenheys, for shipment to Porto Rico. He also has been commissioned to purchase a pure bred Arabian stallion, a number of Nubian goats, a quantity of swine and a number of rabbits as well as eggs from high grade poultry.

Porto Rico's eggs, he said, come largely from game chickens and are undervalued as compared with eggs from the American hen. Inferior eggs on the island are sold during the winter for 50 cents a dozen.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, Sept. 8.—Although the governments average condition of the crop and yield was about as expected, ginnings to Sept. first were larger than generally expected causing prices to decline. Returns as of Sept. 1 averaged the condition at 59.3 against 64.9 on Aug. 16th of this year and 54.1 as of Aug. 25 last year, indicating a yield of 12,787,000 bales against 12,956,000 as of Aug. 16 this year and 10,788,000 as of Aug. 25 one year ago when final out turn of the crop was only 10,128,000 bales. Ginnings to Sept. 1st this year were larger than generally looked for considering lateness of the Texas crop amounting to 958,204 bales against 1,142,660 bales to same date last year of which Texas furnished 630,842 against 1,089,530 last year.

Considering the indicated crop, compared with general expectations, the market ruled weaker than generally expected. In addition to the heavier ginnings than looked for the weakness was attributed to trade interests having cancelled open orders to buy. A feature of the situation is that there was heavy deterioration in South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee southwest states due mainly to the continuance of the drought, which has continued since returns were compiled on first instant.

Under the circumstances we think the market is low enough for the present and as next Wednesday's weather and government report is likely to be bullish as result of continuance of the drought we favor buying especially on depressions at least for a turn. Reports from the interior tell of much premature opening, due to the continuance of dry weather which if it continues is likely to reduce the present indicated yield especially if weevil or worms become more numerous and more active.

the judge pronounces sentence. Through the judge's labor and effort solely the decision was reached although he stated that after his responsibility in this case has become a matter of history he will make a fight for three judges hereafter to sit in capital cases where trial by jury has been waived by a plea of guilty.

Today the rough draft of the decision was given to a stenographer, sworn to secrecy, to typewrite. What the tired little man wrote yesterday the world will know a few minutes after 9 o'clock Central Daylight time on next Wednesday morning.

In the Cook county jail Leopold and Loeb spent Sunday listening to an entertainment by professionals. It was the last Sunday they will spend in their old cells for next Sunday they will be either in death cells awaiting execution or in detention cells awaiting removal to the state penitentiary.
