CHICAGO SLAYERS DRAW LIFE SENTENCE

LEOPOLD AND LOEB GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR FRANKS MURDER

Youthful Slayers Sit Unmoved as Judge Reads Decision as to Their Fate; Defense Counsel and Members of Family Decline to Comment After Hearing Sentence

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Life imprisonment was the punishment fixed today by Judge John R. Caverly upon Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers, and murderers of 14 years old Robert Franks. This decision was a complete victory for the defense.

The youth of the defendants 18 and 19 years old was the controlling factor in Judge Caverly's decision. He said that no minor had ever been sentenced to death in Illinois on a plea of guilty. He said that such action was contrary to all tendencies of the criminal law.

"It would have been the path of the least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law," said the gray haired judge in his decision. "In choosing imprisonment instead of death the court was moved chiefly by the ages of the defendants 18 and 19. It is not for the court to say he will not in any case enforce capital punishment but he believes it within his province to decline to impose a sentence of death upon persons who are not of full age. This determination appears to be in accord with the progress of criminal law all over the world and dictates the slightening of humanity. More than that it seems to be in accord with to precedent in this state. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors being put to death by legal process to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition."

The court passed separate sentences upon the murder and kidnaping charges naming life imprisonment on the murder charge and imprisonment for 99 years on the kidnaping charge to meet legal technicalities.

Judge Caverly convened court at 9:30 a. m. and without any preliminaries began the reading of his sentence. In presenting the case the judge said it differed from others in that the state was not forewarned of a plea of guilty. The plea of guilty did not form a point in favor of the defense, he said. The testimony has been detailed and elaborated and has been given such wide publicity that it would be useless to repeat any of it now, he continued. But the court feels its duty to say that the defendants are abnormal, otherwise they would not have committed the crime.

As the judge read his decision the two boys gave him a very studied and unexpressive inspection. Loeb sat with his hands resting on his crossed legs and Leopold with his hands crossed and his head slightly inclined scarcely moved. They were virtually immobile.

"Judgement cannot be effected by the testimony brought into the record," said Judge Caverly. "The crime was abhorrent although there was no abuse of the body. The court finds no mitigation in the crime itself, in the defendants' personalities and their antecedents," said the judge. He then accepted full responsibility for declining to impose a death sentence upon persons not of full age.

Not a muscle moved in Leopold's face as the judge indicated that life imprisonment was to be his fate. Loeb blinked his eyelids and gulped almost unnoticed and tightened his lips. Not a portion of the body of either moved.

The two youthful defendants arose at 6:30 this morning after a night of unbroken slumber and ate heartily of a breakfast consisting of eggs and toast.

"I am glad the strain of the trial is over today," Loeb told the judge in attendance. Leopold made no statement.

"It was what we should have expected," said Clarence S. Darrow, chief of defense counsel. "There will be no appeal."

"I do not regard it a victory except a victory of justice," said Benjamin Bachrach of the defense counsel. "Do not congratulate me personally."

Nathan F. Leopold, Sr., sat silently weeping. He offered no comment and merely nodded his head when friends grouped about him and whispered into his ear.

Foreman Leopold, Nathan's older brother, relaxed visibly. He refused to comment and merely smiled as friends crowded about to speak to members of the Leopold-Loeb group.

Allen Loeb, brother of Richard, beamed smiles, but said nothing.

Jacob Loeb, uncle of Richard and former head of the Chicago Public Schools Board, remained silent altho he relaxed visibly after sentence was passed.

The Loeb and Leopolds watched anxiously as Nathan, Jr., and Richard were herded quickly back to the elevator to be returned to their cells. Then as the court room emptied hurriedly Jacob Loeb interrupted an interview with "Oh, Clarence, they are waiting." Nathan Leopold Sr., had recovered his composure and opened a cigar case to pass cigars to members of the group as they filed from the court room.

Edwin Gresham, uncle of the murdered victim, the only member of the Franks family in the court room, refused to comment.

Darrow was commenting upon the possibilities of paroles when Jacob Loeb interrupted. The defense counsel chief said that paroles could be applied for after 20 years of a life sentence had been served but said that it required 37 1/2 years imprisonment before paroles could be applied for under a sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary.

It was thought that the boys would start for their life cells shortly after noon. Leopold and Loeb ordered two steaks two inches thick with every side dish they could think of for their dinner the sheriff said. "It may be the last good meal we will get in our lives," they are quoted as saying.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—In the midst of conflicting reports Sheriff Hoffman definitly announced before noon that Leopold and Loeb would be taken to Juleit Illinois State Penitentiary within an hour.

Sheriff Hoffman said that within a few hours after the sentence had been given out he had received several anonymous telephone calls warning that preparations were being made to waylay the prisoners enroute to the penitentiary.

Thieves Prove That There Can Be Some Honor Among Them

Two thieves broke into a local store and robbed the safe of $70 in cash and several important papers, and a gold framed miniature of the store-keeper's great-grand-mother-in-law. Police saw the thieves as they were leaving the store but failed to catch them.

The next morning the thieves returned the miniature and papers placed on the front step of the store and again made their get-away.

CAPT LYMAN COTTEN GIVES DESCRIPTION RESCUE LOCATELLI

Commander of Richmond Writes Most Interestingly to Parents Giving Description of the Rescue of Italian Aviator

The following description of the rescue of Locatelli, the Italian aviator by the cruiser Richmond and written by Captain Lyman Cotten, commander of the Richmond and a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Cotten, of this county, will be read with interest. Aviator Locatelli had come from Pisa, Italy and joined the American aviators at Reykjavik, Iceland, for the around the world flight. His plane was forced down and after a long search Locatelli and three companions were picked up by the Richmond.

Capt. Cotten in a letter to his parents gave the description of the rescue:

"It was a day of thrills and excitement and anxiety when our planes shot by the Richmond, close aboard and almost at the height of the bridge, they seemed so small and frail way out on the trackless ocean between Iceland and Greenland. It made a lump come up in one's throat.

Lieut. Smith, pilot, and Lieut. Arnold, mechanic, passed first Arnold waving his arms in response to our cheers, but Lieut. Harding with Lieut. Nelson in plane No. 4 kissed both hands at us like a Prima Donna.

Then came the days of weary searching by the Richmond, Raleigh and Barney, the two former using their planes when weather permitted. Three days and nights we kept at it. Ice, fog, wind and all the little pleasures of the northern seas, discouraged us at times, but we were determined to leave no possible spot in our area unsearched.

What a dramatic rescue it was! Too dramatic for the stage.

'Twas near the hour of midnight. A cold, dark, Arctic night. The Richmond cutting the waves of a trackless sea searching for a tiny speck carrying four human lives. Suddenly a flicker of light for a moment on the horizon ten miles away. In a moment the Richmond throbs with renewed energy as she turns and speeds toward the spot, now dark again and apparently unoccupied. A hundred thousand horse power shoves her along. Officers, men, correspondents and more men dash up on deck, half clad, in heavy coats, with blankets thrown around them, anyway to get there. Red stars flash upward from the Richmond. Answering stars from the darkness ahead. Can it be the lost plane? Brilliant white beams of search light, pierce the darkness and reach out ahead, falling here and there on the horizon and lighting up the deck like day, as the ships churned the water towards the spot. A small object reveals itself in a light beam, tossed about by wind and wave. Does it still contain four lives? A flash of color and the red, white and blue rudder of the Italian plane is recognized. The Richmond dashes up. Wild excitement and volleys of language on the plane, as the ship stops 20 feet from the huge monoplane bobbing up and down like a cork in the water. Lines are hoisted from ship to plane. Men crank their machines under the brilliant search light beams. Locatelli and his three companions climb aboard. Tired, haggard, unshaven and bedraggled, but over flowing with garrulous gratitude at their rescue after tossing about on the lonely unfriendly ocean for 82 hours.

Effects of officers and men are passed on board from the crippled plane. She is set on fire and cast adrift passes astern, flaring up and sinks in a thousand fathoms of water. The refugees go below for hot coffee and sandwiches. The captain orders, "Steady on your course for Labrador." The bell strikes two.

Several townships surrounding this city have already made their reservations of space and are now preparing their special exhibits. The mills of the county will also have exhibits of their work in its various stages.

BETHEL MEMBERS LEGION HOSTS TO PITT COUNTY POST

Post to Observe Ladies' Night Tuesday, Oct. 21; Last Night's Meeting Greatly Enjoyed

When the Pitt County Post of the American Legion accepted Vance Bunting's invitation on behalf of the Bethel members, to be their guests at the September meeting, much enjoyment was anticipated, but never before in the memory of man have guests been so royally entertained.

Chow call was set for 7 o'clock promptly, and right on the dot all the soldata were present, sniffing the air with an eager sniff and wearing a hungry mien. And it was a supper to delight the soul of an epicure; barbecue, chicken a la Bethel, pickles, cold slaw, salad, ice tea—that's as far as the writer progressed, for it was plainly a case of matter over mind. It is to be regretted that all members of the Pitt County Post were not present, for they have plainly missed something. It was the unanimous opinion of the writer, and everybody else concurred, that it was great to be the guests of the Bethel members.

After supper, the Adjutant was called on to read the minutes of the last meeting, they were approved with but a slight objection which only added a little necessary spice.

Rev. J. P. Harris then delivered an address of welcome, in so natural and clever a manner, that immediately all present felt that Bethel was their home town. Post Commander, W. H. Rogers, Jr., responded to the speech of welcome, and acquitted himself so nobly that we are getting more proud of him every day. He stands head and shoulders over the rest of the members of the Post.

Mr. Rogers then called upon all ex-service men and members of the Legion Present to rise give their names, residence and what they did for a living. It was quite interesting to note the great variety of vocations and professions represented at the meeting.

Mr. S. O. Worthington, one of the Post delegates to the State convention at Asheville was then called upon by the commander, to make a report of the trip and convention. To start off with Mr. Worthington went to Charlotte, and ended by going to Charlotte, but in the interim he told some interesting things that took place at Asheville; how Wade Phillips of Lexington beat Bob Cherry of Gastonia on the first ballot by a vote of 119 to 115; that the convention was held in the city auditorium, and Legion headquarters were at the Battery Park Hotel; that although some had been communing with the spirits they were still in medium condition. All in all, he says, the convention was a great event, and shows a wonderful spirit permeating the American Legion; a spirit for law and order, for rendering assistance to the disabled ex-soldier or service man or woman, and for the promoting of the great common welfare of the country.

On motion of Mr. J. H. Waldrop it was decided that the next regular meeting of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion on Tuesday night, October 21st, 1924, be designated ladies night, and every member be permitted to bring one or more ladies with him, depending altogether upon his social and financial status. Mr. S. L. Bridgers, Dr. A. M. Schultz and Mr. D. L. Turnage, were (Continued on page six.)

Again the Richmond is noiselessly cutting her way through the cold waters of the north all quiet on board, except the purring of the radio as it tells the world of our little drama with its happy ending far away under the shadow of "Greenland's Icy Mountains." Did I hear a little whisper "Well done Richmond?" Perhaps it was, only a consciousness within me of duty satisfactorily done."

CONSERVATIVE GAME OF BASEBALL LIKED BY JAPANESE FANS

Tsingtao, Shantung, China, Sept. 9. —The Japanese love baseball with an undying affection. A crowd of 5,000 spectators is a common occurrence, and frequently 7,000 to 8,000 people cover the sides of the natural amphitheatre in Tsingtao where the ball-tossers perform.

The Japanese play the game conservatively; they dislike taking long chances and abhor wild base-running. One of the fastest outfielders in the Tsingtao aggregation, who formerly played the game in America, has a tendency toward risky base-stealing and consequently is kept safely on the bench where his example will not upset his mates.

As a rule the fans are intensely loyal, and they could teach American crowds a few lessons in sportsmanlike behavior. They look upon "razzing" as something that isn't done. The Japanese are considerate of the feelings of others and to "raze" a player would be unpardonable. For the most part a crowd of Japanese spectators maintains a funeral silence, but it will burst into a salvo of applause without rhyme or reason. Sometimes a player receive a consoling wave of hand-clapping after making a mess of a grounder or miffing a high fly. A long foul ball, almost fair, frequently moves the crowd to a display of sympathy.

Japanese pitchers have a habit of uttering a war cry as they deliver the ball. This is supposed to help the morale of the team. Sometimes the twirler shouts the equivalent in Japanese of, "Are you with me?" to which the players reply, "To a man."

It is customary to present a huge wreath of flowers to the winning team, and it is not uncommon to see an ornate silver cup presented to the winner of a single contest. Hundreds of dollars are spent on prizes, and upwards to players including all sorts of merchandise, clothing and jewelry.

AVIATORS SOON TO RACE FOR $50,000 IN PRIZES

Dayton, O., Sept. 10. —Aviators who flew together over the German lines in the world war, and others who waited together for that opportunity, will meet here in one of the biggest military reunions since the armistice, when the International Air Races are held at Wilbur Wright field, October 2, 3 and 4.

The Army Air Service has given assurance that flyers and officers throughout the country will be permitted to attend, and approximately 400 from almost every military post and field have already signified that intention.

Arrangements for the reunion are being made by Major A. W. Robins and John F. Curry, commandants of Wilbur Wright and McCook fields, and Major George Brett of Wright field.

The International Air Races, the chief attraction here, will include 12 racing events, for which $50,000 in prizes have been offered.

South Likes Coffee Cocktail

THE South, long famed for mint juleps and corn whiskey, has found a new drink in post-Volstead days. It is the coffee cocktail, a breakfast appetizer which seems to be gaining a growing popularity below the Mason-Dixon line.

Southern railroads and southern hostelryes serve it as a demi-tasse. Several of the dining car services place it before each passenger who enters the car for breakfast, irrespective of what his order may be. A number of the famous hotels of the South make a special feature of it with a waitress assigned to do nothing but look attractive and pour black coffee into each guest's demi-tasse cup as soon as seated.

Served at Breakfast —The coffee cocktail made a hit with me," remarked a New Yorker who had just returned from a business trip through the South. "In the dining room of a New Orleans hotel at breakfast, the waiter brought me a demi-tasse before passing me a menu card. The same thing was repeated in a hotel at Mobile and at another in Birmingham. Between New Orleans and New York I had three occasions to order breakfast on a diner, and all three times a coffee cocktail was served.

"In my enthusiasm, I mentioned it to three gentlemen in Atlanta who had been traveling through the southern territory. One of them said that when stopping in Shreveport, La., a coffee cocktail was served to him in his room. Another mentioned that he had one served to him on a diner between Dallas and New Orleans, and the third had enjoyed coffee cocktails on two other southern railroads."

DESPITE HIS DEATH
LENINE DOMINATES
THOUGHT OF RUSSIA

Moscow, Sept. 9.—Like so many other commanding figures in history, Nicolai Lenin, creator of Soviet Russia, is greater in death than in life. If the founder of the modern communist state has failed to become a "god" or a "saint," he has literally become in the minds of the Russian Bolsheviks, an idol of as great fame as America's Washington or Lincoln. In the center of Moscow's famous "Red Square," Lenin lies moldering in a frail wooden tomb, a symbol to these Bolshevik intelligentsia of the death of Russia's greatest rebel and of the renaissance of a new Russia.

Throughout the day and night, within the walls of the Kremlin, as sacred to Russians of the monarchical period as Lenin's tomb is dear to the heart of the Communist, thousands of Russians who have embraced the Soviet faith pass in silence before this strange mortuary chamber of cedar and oak and, without getting a glimpse of the frail body within, stop to do reverence to its departed spirit.

There are those, of course, of the old Czarist regime, who look upon the wooden sepulchre as a grim reminder not of the death of a man, but of the destruction of the old Russia. It is to guard against any untoward demonstrations from such as these that guards are on duty at the tomb and behind the Kremlin walls, ready with bayonets to suppress the slightest gesture of insurrection.

But it is not alone at Lenin's tomb the Bolsheviks pay homage to his memory and works. Countless streets, villages, towns, railroad stations, and even newly-born children have been named after him. In every store, restaurant, hotel, theatre, museum, railroad station, and even on locomotives and upon airplanes high in the sky, one sees lithographs of the revolutionary leader. They are there, whether the occupants or observers like them or not. Leninism, the Communists would like to have one believe, has supplanted real religion in the minds of the people, which the government set out to exterminate.

The visitor's gaze is met all over Russia by the image of Lenin. In his likeness is not represented in plaster busts in every shop window in every town, it is found in the schoolbooks, on posters, in every government office, in public monuments, in cinema films, on postage stamps, in tourist souvenirs of Russia. His portrait is seen even on public lawns, ingeniously worked out in flowers and foliage. It probably will soon appear on Russian coins. It is already furnace-blasted on house hold dishes and pottery.

"Leninism" is as common in Russian terminology as Marxism, Communism or Syndicalism. The Soviet authorities have seen to it that Russia's children are duly instructed in the life and achievements of their first revolutionary head. They have just appropriated nearly $1,000,000 for the wide circulation of Lenin's writings among the population. They have set aside a huge sum for the erection of a magnificent mausoleum of marble and bronze to supplant the present wooden tomb of the "Father of Modern Russia."

Today, seven months after Lenin passed to the unknown, the pile of green-stained wood that rests above his head in the heart of Moscow, "Mother of Russia," is the focus of all the ideals, hopes and aspirations of Russian revolutionists. To the rest of Russia the moral tenement of timber-wood, with its mute occupant, typifies only a destructive epoch in Russia's thousand years of life.

WINE MERCHANT SAYS TOBACCO SPOILS TASTE FOR CHOICE BRANDS

Strasburg, Sept. 10.—Thirsty Americans who visit a famous old-fashioned wine restaurant in this city, which has a cellar that is known to connoisseurs, all over Europe, are frequently surprised at not being able to obtain vintages which had been recommended to them by friends. The proprietor is an artist in blending food and wines and will not serve his choice wines to persons who order cocktails and begin smoking before their wines are served.

He insists that the cocktail and all other mixed drinks are a nuisance which should be confined to restaurants and bars, which do not specialize in fine wines and will not waste his precious cellar on men and women who spoil their taste for delicate wine by mixing tobacco up with their liquor.

Never Burn

Are using these rare powders

By Edna Wallace Hopper
I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty helps. But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person, to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in the movies, I use very costly powders. I have them made to my order, and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks, per, photo 1923

But I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities, under my name. I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best.

Now, all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. Here are two kinds. For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a cold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1.00. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind it costs but 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better Powder I would get it quickly. Anyone who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.

Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.

FRANCE NOW GETS LARGE PART OF GERMANY'S FORMER CHINA TRADE

Dresden, Sept. 9.—The United States has again taken the lead over all other foreign countries as Germany's best customer for china, but the business has not resumed the pre-war proportions by any means. The English, Swiss and Dutch, formerly among Germany's best customers for the china output, are being supplied chiefly from France at lower prices than prevail here.

The depression in the export trade is said by foreign buyers to be due to the excessive prices and high freight rates which have resulted in buyers seeking goods either in France or other countries which can undersell the Germans.

Investigate CHIROPRACTIC, the Drugless Health Science, THOROUGHLY, before you are operated on, FOR EVERY ORGAN IN OUR BODY IS VITAL TO OUR WELFARE AND CONTINUED HEALTH. These organs are kept healthy and functioning as a result of the active intelligent energy sent out from the BRAIN. This nerve force is transmitted to the organs of the body by the spinal nerves. To protect these nerves and as support to the body we have a spinal column. The spinal column is made up of separate, movable bones. If one of these bones comes out of place pressure results on the nerve. THE CHIROPRACTOR RELIEVES THIS PRESSURE BY ADJUSTING THE VERTEBRA THAT IS OUT OF PLACE, thus restoring HEALTH. THE RUSH TO COLLEGE

The extent to which the young people of this country have acquired faith in the value of higher education may be gathered from college enrollments which are now being made public. Smaller colleges as well as universities which have so far been heard from report almost incredible increases.

Despite some remarkable records in the past, it is certain that the rush to college this year will be greater than ever before. Even increased tuition and living costs in college towns as a result of this crowding are no bar to the great crowd clamoring for a college education. In the schools in which it was decided to resort to stiffer entrance examinations to keep down the enrollment even this has failed. The desire for higher education seems to overcome all obstacles.

For obvious reasons many educators had expected, if not a decreased, at least no greatly increased enrollment; so that they are now at a loss to explain this unexpected phenomenon. Others see in it nothing more than the fact that public interest in education is being taken up at the point where it stopped when we went to war. The demand for higher education, however strong it may seem now, is no greater than it would have been normally had there been no war.

A good share of the increased college enrollment is due to the fact that the value of a college education is becoming more widely known. No doubt the raising of the standards of education even in the high schools has much to do with this rush to college. Many parents who a decade ago were satisfied with a high school education for their children are no longer satisfied with this minimum. They are applying to education the slogan so familiar in the field of business, "The best is the cheapest in the long run." Certainly our present rush to college admits of no other interpretation.

AFTER BASE BALL

The base ball season, if the world's series is included, has still almost a month to run.

But from the standpoint of public interest, particularly among lovers of sport, our national game will have a close competitor in foot ball for the rest of the season. Will this team or that beat its ancient rival this fall?

Who will lead in the Western conference? Who will carry off honors in the East? These are questions which are shaping themselves today and which in the coming days will come more and more to the front.

From now on in increasing numbers mole-skins and noseguards and headgear will be brought forth from dark closets and attics, where they have lain for the last nine months; tackling dummies will be rigged up; stalwart and husky youths will be given a careful scrutiny by zealous coaches, and within a week or ten days the lines of scrimmage will form on the gridiron.

It is the fact that the good player must be in good physical condition which has given foot ball the value it has as a game. So long as it clings to the ideal of the physical and mental development of the participants, foot ball is a game deserving of support.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

The Chicago professor who has gained a little brief notoriety by his declaration that 90 per cent of the women are homely, probably is one of those odious "efficiency experts." They reckon everything in percentages. Whatever he is, he is woefully off his base in making such an assertion.

Ninety per cent, indeed! Not even in Chicago, we venture to say, will so large a proportion of homely women be found. And in Greenville not 90 per cent, nor nine per cent—no, it cannot be conceded that even one per cent of our women are homely.

There are different standards of judging feminine pulchritude. Turks and Eskimos are said most to admire women who are, let us say, plump, well-rounded, moon-faced. Others prefer the svelt type. Ideas concerning beauty vary.

The Standard dictionary, defining "beautiful," says: "The definition of 'beauty,' 'perfection of form,' is a good key to the meaning of 'beautiful,' if we understand 'form' in its widest sense." It is submitted that under the terms of this definition (if we understand "form" in its widest sense) all women are beautiful. The dictionary goes on to say, however, that "there must be harmony and unity, and in human being spiritual loveliness, to constitute an object or a person really beautiful."

No attempt will be made to answer for the women of Chicago as to whether they possess the additional requirement of spiritual loveliness. But it can be said in behalf of the fair ones of Greenville, without fear of successful contradiction, that they have this, as well as unity and harmony.

"Back to nature" is a movement, not a fashion.

Shooting stars is what some movie fans would like to be doing.

It isn't what a man stands for as much as what he falls for.

The learned man who discovered the race is growing taller may have been watching his small son.

Lo Rocque Plays Role of Coward in Latest Production

In "Code of the Sea," a Victor Fleming production, featuring Rod La Rocque and Jacqueline Logan, La Rocque has the role of the son of a sea captain, whose supposed cowardice caused the deaths of 200 men, women and children in the billowy waves of the Pacific, because he hadn't the courage to ride out a terrific storm in his lightship.

All of the heartbreak of waiting for men, who go out to sea and who Logan is featured with Rod La Rocque. La Rocque's great grandfather was a French mariner, who perished when his ship foundered and sank in a gale off the coast of Spain. His widow lived only nine months afterwards, dying of grief. And the story of this love is one of the most sacred traditions of the La Rocque family.

"When I was a child," relates the actor, "my grandmother used to tell me of the exploits of my great grandfather and of his wife. Up to that time the La Rocque family had much of its interests tied up in the sea in shipping ventures. But the tragedy which was really a double affair caused all of my relatives to withdraw from any associations identified with water."

"Code of the Sea," with George Fawcett and others in the supporting cast, opens White's Theatre Thursday.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This Greenville Woman Who Tells Her Experience
All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Greenville case is one of many:

Mrs. J. J. Nobles, 1100 Washington St., says: "I was bad off with my kidneys and back. This trouble had me feeling miserable all the time. When I was on my feet my back pained so badly I couldn't lift anything or bend over without a sharp, shooting pain through my kidneys. Specks floated before my eyes and my kidneys didn't act right, either. I used Doan's Pills from the Warren Drug Co., and two boxes relieved me."

PREHISTORIC ANIMAL REMAINS EXCAVATED NEAR BUENOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, Sept. 10.—Laborers doing excavating work in the suburb of Vicente Lopez, just outside the city limits of Buenos Aires, have discovered a rich deposit of fossil remains of the beasts who used to inhabit this part of South America in prehistoric ages. The head of a glyptodon, the predecessor of the armadillo, together with dorsal and thigh bones, were among the finds, which included also bones of a prehistoric tiger.

The glyptodon skull is not of the giant species, but the paleontologists of the National Museum of Natural History, who are conducting the excavating work, consider it as one of the finest examples yet discovered being almost completely preserved, including nearly all the teeth.
