LIGHTNING CAUSES $30,000,000 FIRE

Around World Fliers Arrive In Chicago Today

Monterey In Grip Of Terrific Fire Since Yesterday

Four Lose Lives and More Than Thirty In Hospital as Result of $30,000,000 Fire Which Began in Historic Old California City Yesterday

Monterey, California, Sept. 15.—Monterey, the old Spanish settlement seat of the first government of California and inspiration point for many artists and writers, is today in the grasp of a $30,000,000 conflagration which started yesterday when lightning struck a 55,000 barrel oil tank. After a heroic night, during which four soldiers from Monterey presidio were burned to death, the fire spread to eight other tanks and sent more than 30 persons to hospitals suffering from severe burns.

The soldiers were caught by the fire when the first tank was hit from heat and sent a flame of fire and oil in the path of the firefighters who were attempting to save army property of the Monterey presidio. After two o'clock this morning the fourth major explosion sent the fire into New Monterey where five homes were destroyed.

Local fire-fighters have surrendered leadership today in their fight against the flames to the military men.

Danger to the old town was seen during the night when the oil runoff from the fire made a path of flames to the water's edge threatening wharves, and industrial fish plants.

Mrs. Martha Jane Mills Celebrates 103rd Birthday

Mrs. Martha Jane Mills celebrated her 103rd birthday Saturday with her regular family reunion at Mills School House, in Chico Township. Over three hundred members of the family and friends were in attendance. The ten children of Mrs. Mills the oldest being 80 years of age were present with their children and grand children.

Mrs. Mills is quite a remarkable character being one of the oldest if not the oldest citizen of the county. Her late husband owned the land on which the school house is built, and gave it to the school. Mrs. Mills has spent her entire life in that immediate section and at present is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Buck.

After a short address by the Rev. W. H. Laughinghouse a most bountiful dinner was served.

Late in the afternoon the large number of guests departed wishing for Mrs. Mills many happy returns of the day.

Wool to be Unalaska Product.

Unalaska, Alaska, Sept. 15.—The shipment of seven bags of wool from here to Portland, Oregon, this summer, has brought the residents hope of a new era for the Aleutian Island of which Unalaska Island is one of the largest.

An attempt to establish sheep on the Aleutians, which in many parts abound in lush grasses, was undertaken last year. In this enterprise two concerns are engaged, the Aleutian Livestock Company of Los Angeles and the Western Livestock Company of Portland. The wool sent to Portland was said to be of prime quality.

She Claims to Be 120 Years Old.

Said to be the oldest citizen of California, perhaps of the entire United States, Senora Maria Antonia Lonjina Marimo Verdugo de Chavoya recently celebrated her 120th birthday at Los Angeles.

Special Inducements Membership Cam. Eastern Chamber

To stimulate interest in the forthcoming section-wide membership campaign of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce the week of Oct. 6th the following prizes have been announced by Chairman Felix Harvey, Jr.

The county that reports its quota raised first on the morning of Oct. 6th, will be given a full page ad in the Manufacturers Record, free; to the first town of less than 1,000 population that raises the largest amount per capita, population, will be given a full page ad in the Manufacturers Record, free; and to the town of more than 1,000 population, that raises the largest amount per capita, will be given a full page ad in the Manufacturers Record. This, in the opinion of the committee, will serve to put "piz" in the campaign. All the towns and counties are looking for advertising, and this will make it possible for these towns and counties to get some real good advertising free.

Chairman Harvey and the steering committee are very much pleased with the responses that are coming from all over the district in the interest of this campaign. "We want the people to think of it as their own campaign," said Chairman Harvey. The slogan, "Do it for Eastern Carolina" is the way to undertake this task," he continued. W. B. Harvey, chairman of the publicity end of the campaign, is keeping the public informed as to all details incident to this campaign. There are about 70 newspapers on the mailing list and they are being supplied with the data. Jule K. Warren, prominent lawyer of Trenton and chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, is going to launch an active speaking campaign, beginning the week of Sept. 18 that will rival the National election promoters that are now holding forth over the country. Everything points to a real successful campaign.

HEAVY FIGHTING CHINESE ARMIES REPORTED TODAY

More Than 400 Casualties on Each Side Result From Heaviest Fighting of Civil War

Shanghai, Sept. 15.—10 p. m.—The heaviest fighting so far in the civil warfare between rival military factions for possession of Shanghai took place yesterday and today along the Shanghai-Nanking railway line directly west of this city. Casualties of the Chekiang army defending Shanghai were estimated tonight to total more than 400 of which half were killed. The Kiangsu attacking army is said to have lost about the same number. Imperial observers declare that the lines of the two armies are virtually unchanged by the fighting although Chekiang headquarters claim substantial advances south of the railway. Concentration of the Kiangsu near Liuhoo was made a few days after hostilities started, advice from headquarters say, for the capture of the entire coast including Woosong the outer anchorage of Shanghai and main point of defense of the city harbor.

Greatest losses to the Chekiang forces were suffered in the sector south of the railway when a flank movement carried the lines beyond Anting twenty miles from Shanghai. The Chekiang soldiers were caught in a machine gun trap and mowed down in wholesale fashion. Trains leaving tonight were filled with wounded soldiers.

Lesser fighting was reported today from the Liuhoo sector on the coast thirty miles west of the city where the commander of the Kiangsu forces has been trying to establish contact with naval forces sent down the Yangtze river from Nanking the Kiangsu capital.

Shanghai, Sept. 15.—The armies of the rival military governors fighting for possession of Shanghai, battled with renewed force on all sectors this morning when the end of the storm and reappearance of the sunshine became the signal for general resumption of warfare.

Tokio, Sept. 15.—Disorder and unrest in the forces of General Chang Tso Lin stationed at Mukden, principal city of Manchuria, have resulted in strong protest from the Japanese Consul General there according to a report received here by the Japanese Foreign office today.

Press dispatches say as a result of the situation the Japanese Consular police are being held in readiness for action in Mukden and Japanese troops may be called out to preserve order.

The Chang Tso Lin troops are concentrating at Mukden to move southward toward Peking for an attack upon the government forces at Ch'ihli province.

Dissension in the ranks of Tso Lin indicated in Tokio dispatches will be a factor in favor of the Central Government forces about to defend Peking. The underlying cause of the Mukden disturbance has not been indicated.

Accepts Invitation To Take Part in Exercises of 150th Anniversary of Continental Congress

Washington, Sept. 15.—President Coolidge today definitely accepted the invitation to speak in Philadelphia on September 25 at the exercises marking the 150th anniversary of the meeting of the first Continental Congress.

Mr. W. B. Singleton Dies in Rocky Mount

Mr. W. B. Singleton, of Rocky Mount, who on Saturday night fell in a pit of boiling water at the Rocky Mount Fuel and Ice Company receiving severe burns died yesterday morning. It is understood that the remains were taken to Washington, N. C., today for interment.

Mr. Singleton was secretary-treasurer of the above named company. It is believed that the top over the pit was perhaps unfastened and as Mr. Singleton stepped on it, it fell precipitating him into water almost at a boiling point.

The deceased is well known in Greenville. He was head officer of the D. O. K. K. Temple of this district and was held in high esteem in fraternal orders, business and social circles.

News of his accident and death has saddened many hearts.

Balloon Breaks Loose With Pilot, Assistants

Tiremont, Belgium, Sept. 15.—During the inflating of a balloon here yesterday the mooring cables broke loose and the gas bag soared aloft carrying the pilot and his assistant in the rigging. The pilot dropped 30 feet to the ground and was killed. His assistant clung to his perch and came down with the gas bag sustaining only minor injuries.

GERMAN WRITERS GLEEFUL OVER OLYMPIC DISPUTES

Berlin, Sept. 15.—German sport writers greeted with printers' ink cheers the news that the Olympic games in Paris this summer aroused some criticism in the United States and that a movement had been started in England proposing that the British refrain from further participation in the contests.

"Frankly," says one writer, "it is a case of sour grapes so far as the Germans are concerned, because Germany was not invited to take part in the games this year."

Considerable space was devoted by the German press to the Paris games the sport news frequently appearing on the pages mostly devoted to politics and the writers, pointing to the lack of enthusiasm among the crowds and much attention was given to every disputed point wherever the contestants or judges disagreed.

AMERICAN LEGION NAT'L CONVENTION OPENS IN ST. PAUL

Address by Commander John R. Quinn and General Hines Feature First Session of Convention

Saint Paul, Minn., Sept. 15.—Proclaimed by its commander a proved quantity the American Legion opened its Sixth Annual National Convention here today. National Commander John R. Quinn's address in which he said the legion's prestige had been doubled by its accomplishments of last year, and the address of General Frank T. Hines, Director of the Veterans' Bureau, were among the first session's activities.

A few hours after the opening of the legion convention the "Forty and Eight", the fun organization of the legion, and the Auxiliary composed of women closely related to the legionnaires, started conventions in nearby halls. Meanwhile many thousands of veterans who come annually to the convention, not as delegates but to meet former comrades, took over the downtown business districts parading behind their bands or retelling old told events of the trenches.

Meeting in the municipal auditorium where the five day convention is being held, the convention this morning heard addresses by city and state representatives and greetings from the Auxiliary and Forty and Eight and several reports from committees followed by brief addresses by representatives of the G. A. R. and United Confederate Veterans.

Craft Closes Season With 55th Home Run

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 15.—Babe Ruth's record of fifty-nine home runs for a season is safe today for another year. Clarence "Big Boy" Craft of the Fort Worth club striving to beat Ruth's record finished the Texas league season yesterday with his record for a single season four short of that of Ruth. Craft got his fiftieth home run yesterday.

SANTA CLAUS HAS HARD JOB BREAKING IN HIS REINDEER

Anchorage, Alaska, Sept. 15.—The average youngster who pictures Santa Claus as having a soft snap skipping his herd of reindeer from roof to roof, would revise his opinion if he saw a reindeer broken to harness, say those who have undertaken the job.

Being a nomad, the work deer can not be carraled as a calf and gradually domesticated. He must be taken when practically full grown. The battle to break him lasts for many weeks, with the animal alternating between trying to escape and fighting like a Tasmanian devil, declares Tom Pootoluk, an Eskimo herder.

First the reindeer is deprived of his horns. It requires two or three strong men to get the creature harnessed. Then the fun begins. At times the driver reeks refuge under the sled until the deer has cooled down and decided to cease hostilities for a while.

"Driving dogs all right," commented Pootoluk. "But reindeer—I rather walk. He worse horse, cow, pig, automobile, all together."

Efforts to Rid Palestine of Malaria Show Success

Jerusalem, Sept. 15.—The scourge of malaria is gradually but surely subdued in Palestine, according to an official government report making public the proceedings of a recent meeting of the Anti-Malarial Advisory Commission. Colonel Heron, director of health of the Palestine government, presided.

It was stated that there had been less malaria throughout Palestine in 1923 than in any previous year, and that nowhere did it appear in epidemic form. This was due to some extent to the small rainfall during the preceding winter, but chiefly to anti-malarial measures taken.

The opinion was expressed that the conditions now prevailing in Palestine were the most practical demonstration of the value and success of applied preventive malarial work.

The government is being assisted in this work by an Anti-Malarial Research Unit financed by the Jewish joint distribution committee of America, the Unit being in charge of Dr. I. J. Kligler.

Municipalities are readily assisting in anti-malarial work in the towns where they provide the necessary unskilled labor and others.

Smoking Alters Women's Faces, Says This Gynecologist

Vinnet, Sept. 13.—Women who are heavy smokers lose their fair complexion much more quickly than non-smoking women, in the opinion of Dr. R. Hofstatter, noted Viennese gynecologist, who has written a book entitled "The Smoking Woman."

The features of smoking women, he contends, are usually much sharper than those of non-smokers. The more women smoke, the sharper the nose and chin are outlined and the skin becomes very taut.

The lips, says Dr. Hofstatter, lose their rosy natural color and become pale, while the corners of the lips show wrinkles prematurely and there is a tendency for the lower lip of a female smoke addict to project further than the upper lip. Through this gradual change the features of the smoking woman become more and more masculine. Dr. Hofstatter claims to have observed that heavy female smokers have a pronounced growth of beard.

The eye of strong female smokers undergoes a change, says Dr. Hofstatter. The lid rises and falls much more slowly. There is a tendency to stare. Some women even become cross eyed as they smoke.

Among the women who smoke heaviest are teachers, students, female physicians, actresses, artists.

AMERICAN INVENTION WILL HELP JAPANESE FOREIGN TREMORS

Tokio, Sept. 13.—Japan, more severely mauled by earthquakes than any other land, plans to turn to in earnest to study the tremors, means of forecasting them, and methods for mitigating their disastrous effects.

Plans and estimates for a system of seismological research stations, to be placed in nine separate districts particularly affected by earthquakes, will be laid before the Imperial diet when it convenes next December.

Dr. Imamura, head of the seismological department of the University of Tokyo, believes that earthquakes can be foretold with accuracy sufficient to permit precautions that will lessen their ill effects. This will be possible through the equipment of these nine stations with the most modern seismological instruments. Every known method will be used to study formations and movements of the earth which may precipitate a disastrous tremor.

The feature of this equipment will be an American apparatus for recording movements of the earth crust, designed by Dr. A. A. Michelson, head of the department of physics of the University of Chicago. This consists of two iron pipes each 302 feet long and 6 inches in diameter laid across each other, imbedded in concrete and iron casing, and filled with oil and water. The instrument, according to Dr. Imamura, is so designed that the movement of the lines formed by the meeting of the oil and water in the pipes can be observed by means of an arrangement of prisms. The theory is that when the lines have shifted to certain positions the early approach of an earthquake is to be expected. Dr. Imamura says, however, that the exact time of the vibration cannot be foretold. An eight acre field will be needed for the installation of each station.

TASK OF SALVAGING GERMAN VESSELS IN SCAPAFLOW COSTLY

Scapaflo, Sept. 13.—The first ship of Germany's wartime navy, which was sent to the bottom of the sea here by her oars on June 21, 1919, has been raised and will be consigned to an equally ignominious end on the scrap-iron heap.

A firm of London engineers has completed the salvage of the vessel—the destroyer V70—after a year's work and many unsuccessful attempts to float her.

The V70 was a big ship of the 80 class which had sunk in 20 fathoms of water in the center of the Flow. The engineers had exhausted the best known methods of ship salvaging before using the system of undersliding heavy cables and raising the ship by means of the floating dock. This latter method was used about six weeks ago when the vessel was raised eleven feet before the iron chains which were then used broke, thus allowing the prize to settle once again to the bottom. Wire supported the enormous weight long enough to permit the dock to be placed under the ship.

The dock was then towed near the shore where workmen will start cutting through the heavy steel hull and dismantle the fittings. At present the engineers are unable to estimate the ship's value but after they had pierced the heavy seaweed coating they found the metal to be in a better state than was expected. They claim that the salvage work, though costly will show a good profit but it will not make a very large contribution to aiding the reparations payments.

Several of the other ships which were scuttled in the Flow will be raised in a similar manner but it will take between three and four years to complete the work.

Bathing Makes Beauty, Say Belles of Bali

EVEN, far distant Bali, in the Dutch East Indies, has its devotees of daily bathing. While these Island belles might be somewhat at a loss in the modern American bathroom shown above, they appear very happy in their open air ablutions, which after all seem to include the two necessities of the bath, plenty of water and some equivalent to the standard American Ivory. Americans are the most bathed people in the world, statistics tell us. More than 2,000,000,000 pounds of soap and soap products are consumed in the United States each year, according to figures compiled by R. R. Deupree of the Procter and Gamble Company. The huge output of soap suds engendered by this liberal use of soap are lathered in 7,500 gallons of water which the average householder uses each month. Even at that, however, the ideal of a bath a day per person advocated by health authorities, is still to be attained. Readers of this newspaper may obtain free an interesting booklet, "The Care of the Normal Skin," by Dr. William Allen Puzey, President of the American Medical Association. LEGION'S TRIUMPHS RECITED J. R. QUINN IN YEARLY ADDRESS

St. Paul, Sept. 15.—Passage by Congress of legislation for the disabled, and the enactment into law of the adjusted compensation bill, were "two triumphs for the American Legion which has doubled its prestige and made the organization more cohesive for service to the nation in the years before it," John R. Quinn, retiring commander, said in his address before the national convention here today.

The American Legion has answered any doubts, fears, hopes or suspicions of the nation," Mr. Quinn asserted. "It begins a career which past accomplishments indicate will be replete with great deeds. The Legion is now a proven quantity. Where there was doubt, now reposes confidence. Where there was hope, there is now assurance. Instead of fear, the legion has inspired trust. We are respected for our ideals, admired for our stamina, loved for our unselfish service."

"During the year, two major victories have been won by the legion, triumphs which have proved its great influence for good and crystallized it into a majestic force working for the betterment of our country," continued Mr. Quinn. "The greatest was the passage in the last hours of Congress of the so-called Reed-Johnson Bill. Sweeping in its reforms, generous in its provisions, just in its interpretation, it is in my opinion, the greatest reform legislation for the disabled since the creation of the Veterans' Bureau."

"The other outstanding achievement was the enactment into law of the adjusted compensation bill. Not so important from our viewpoint as the Reed-Johnson Bill, or as vital as other victories we have obtained, the adjusted compensation bill nevertheless, took on added importance in the public eye because of the enemies it made. The opponents of this bill, using it as an open means of attack, had an ulterior object in view. Fearing us, because we were the open spokesmen for those who could not speak for themselves, the opposition wished utterly to destroy the legion. They failed. Instead of crushing our organization, our enemies proved our inherent strength. Instead of destroying us, they made us cohesive."

"Passing over the work done this year, Mr. Quinn said that if in immigration we did not achieve total suspension, there has at least been immigration reform following generally the thought of your resolution of 1923."

The legion's Americanism policies have been closely followed, the speaker said, foremost among them being the creation of the Community Service and Civic Betterment bureau; the essay contest participated in by more than 300,000 school children; the conference to combat illiteracy, and the creation of a code of flag ethics in many states.

Continuing Mr. Quinn said: "Within the last half decade we have reached in a business sense the same level as a $1,000,000 corporation. Not only is the national commander the leader of a great fraternal organization; he also is, in effect, the president of a business concern which each year has a money turn-over of more than $1,000,000. This year the legion has been in its business aspect successful. I suggest, however, that some plan be devised to place employment in the legion work on a more permanent basis."

"The work for the service man, for Americanism, and for child welfare must go on. They are mandatory. They are the obligations willed to us by virtue of the greatest conflict in history and by your desire to render unselfish service as expressed numerous times in convention assembled."

"I believe that the American Legion should stand manfully in opposition to any force or policy which would tend to partition the public domain, and exploit it for private gain."

"Five years of the legion's life are past. Before it stretch years rich in opportunity to serve our nation. We must not falter in the forward drive. Our disabled comrades who cannot speak or act for themselves look to us for aid and guidance. Let them not look in vain. The war may be over but the legion is still here, ready with the willing hand of comradeship. Our country calls to us for aid. Let us pray to God that by His guidance every act of ours will prove that the legion's claim to be an institution of service is no idle boast."

Prison Bars No Barrier to Musical Broadcaster

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 12.—Many people regard a prison as the last place in which to achieve fame, but the case of Harry Snodgrass, con vict in the Missouri state penitentiary here, is an exception. For Harry, although serving a term behind the stone walls of the state prison, has not only achieved renown, but he has acquired nation-wide fame, as well—chiefly due to radio. More than two years ago he was sentenced to serve three years on a charge of attempted robbery. He entered prison virtually unknown, but today his name is familiar to persons in almost every section of the country.

Harry brought a gift of his fingers with him. He is a pianist of rare ability and can play with extraordinary skill and technique, several masters have declared. Soon he was playing once a week or more at station WOS, the state radio-casting station, one of the most powerful in the country.

People began to write asking who the "wonderful" pianist was. His name became known, and now Snodgrass' renditions both of popular and classical music are given to a wide radio audience.

What Harry will do when he gains his liberty is not known, but he can have his pick of a score of good positions playing the piano in several sections of the country, according to prison officials.

Deadhead Students to Be Ousted.

Goettingin, Sept. 12.—Officials of Goettingin University recently announced that they intend to clear the rolls of "deadheads". It was said that the tuition fees of 900 have been overdue since the beginning of the summer term.

MEXICO RESISTS INVASION OF FOREIGN TERMS IN SPORT

Mexico City, Sept. 15.—Rooters at scholastic athletic contests in Mexico will not shout their wretched enunciated versions of American college yells if Dr. Bernardo J. Gastelum, the newly appointed secretary of public instruction, can enforce one of the first rulings he issued after taking office.

Mexican athletes must be encouraged, and has come to mean, the same in Spanish as it does in English is not explained, but "Strike 'em even though some of the Yankee college yells have become a sort of out" must go, as well as "knockout" international sport language. What and its Mexican equivalent will happen to "Rah, Rah," which "knockeo."

A LOST TRAIT

It has been frequently observed that the American people are losing that imperturbable serenity their forefathers are said to have possessed. The present generation is said to be capable of getting excited over trivialities and of arguing about anything.

Instances cited in support of this appraisal include Defense Day, which stirred the pacifist, militarist and patriotic camps into heated debate; the Loeb-Leopold case, which was the cause of countless arguments on capital punishment and justice for the rich and the poor; prohibition, which has the whole nation divided between pro and anti; the Klan the presidential campaign, the third party, taxes, Japanese exclusion, the League of Nations and every other conceivable subject on which it is possible for opinions to differ.

Americans have always argued—for arguing seems to be instinctive in all forms of animal life—but pool-room, after-church and street-corner debates are not what is under discussion here. This former closed-corporation form of forensic combat is thought to have been replaced by the tendency of the whole people to become more easily aroused into vociferous protest or approval.

If the criticism is founded on fact there is a ready and plausible explanation for the national change. With virtually every man and woman reading in the newspapers and listening-in on the radio about the same happenings of the day, and under the closer relationship between people through growth in urban population it is not surprising that the whole nation overnight becomes interested in the same things, talks about and, inevitably, differs on them.

Perhaps Americans should be adversely criticized for having cultivated too much of the laissez-faire attitude for their own good. If people didn't interest themselves in that which concerns their welfare they can not expect others to. When government fails, politicians go wrong or fanatical reformers get something over, it is generally because a people were not interested or aroused to the argument temperature.

SLOGANS

Nowhere else on earth has the slogan or catch-phrase reached as high a stage of development as in the United States. By the same token the slogan does not play as considerable a part in the commercial, political and civic life of other peoples as it does of the Americans.

The editors of the American Mercury magazine find "the most certain way in which to impress, persuade and convince the American public about the virtue of anything, from a war to a pill, is, first to devise a catchy slogan and, secondly, to make sure that it has in it only a minimum of accuracy."

We must agree with them that "Making the World Safe for Democracy" and Liberty Loan" helped win the world war and that when we "remembered the Maine" we gave Spain the worst beating since the Spanish Armada.

None will deny the value of the catch-phrase in national advertising and even in local commercialism. Everybody knows to what particular product you refer when you say "Babies cry for it," "There's always a picture ahead," "His Master's Voice," "Is there a little fairy in your home?" and many other similar advertising slogans. In fact, few nationally known products are not sold under a copyrighted trade-phrase. Do you know of an automobile, from the cheapest to the most formidably-priced, that can not be singled out by some slogan? To think of one would be as difficult as finding a sloganless soap or city.

It is irrefutable that slogans sell where nothing else will, but it would be unjust to the public to say that it takes the catch-phrases at their word. Barnum annually proclaimed his circus as "bigger and better than ever" and his successors are emulating him today, but nobody goes to the circus just because of this "slight exaggeration." The catch-phrase or advertising slogan is as much a part of American business methods as advertising itself. There is nothing illegitimate or reprehensible in the institution, but its power as a salesman is almost supernatural.

The secret of Coue's power was that in getting people to saying they were "better and better in every way" he got them to thinking the same thing. The secret of the advertising slogan is that in getting people to use the slogan it gets them to use the product represented by the slogan.

TOLL OF THE HIGHWAY

In spite of all the warnings and all of the moralizing, carelessness and reckless driving continue to exact a terrible toll of death on the highway. This is particularly the case on Sundays when more than the usual number of automobiles are in operation and when we seem to have more than the ordinary quota of inexperienced drivers.

The great need is to educate the people to the danger that confronts them by some striking illustrations. In mills and factories safety devices are saving many lives, but for some reason it seems to be difficult to keep down the number of accidents on the highways. One of the reasons for this is that the congestion in the large cities grows greater year by year, while the number of vehicles increases at the same time.

It cannot be said that the police are indifferent, because they are constantly engaged in improving and modernizing the traffic rules. One of the troubles no doubt is tendency to haste on the part of everybody, in machines and afoot.

The "Stop, Look and Listen" signs at railway crossings did a great deal of good in their way and in their day. Possibly some clever person will invent a caption that will be just as effective for automobilists on the public highways.

"Knickerbockers" is singular! they look that way.

This is the age of specialists; especially nerve specialists.

What doth it profit a man to be good if he's good for nothing?

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN BOOK, 1924.

Condemnation of President Coolidge, the Republican leadership and "corruption of government" is the striking note in the Democratic Campaign Book just issued by the Democratic National Committee, which is primarily a manual for speakers and editors. A careful prepared series of articles, tables, data and statistics on other issues is presented, but through out the book emphasis is given to graft, dishonesty and scandal during the Harding-Coolidge administration.

President Coolidge is criticized for not having taken the initiative in the unearthing of "corruption" for failure to act promptly after the revelations made by the Senate committee, and also for not making a greater success as a leader.

"President Coolidge, faced by signal opportunities and national expectations, has lamentably failed as a leader either of the people or of his party," says the Campaign Book. "He has failed to solve domestic problems or to improve foreign relations."

Teapot Dome and the Naval Oil leases, the Doherty "loan" of $100,000 and the Sinclair "loan" of $25,000 to Secretary Fall, and Denby's and Fall's separation from the Cabinet are gone into in detail. The Republican party as now controlled by the reactionary leaderships charged with responsibility for the whole oil affair. Another chapter gives the details of the Veterans' Bureau investigations, and charges the indictment of Forbes to the leadership of the Republican party as another scandal.

The investigation of the Department of Justice forms the subject of another chapter, and the Daugherty charges are related, all to the discredit of the Republican administration.

The Campaign Book sharply attacks Charles W. Dawes, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, as an "inveterate reactionary." It also charges him with being an enemy of labor and affiliated with his brother in one of the big oil companies, now the defendant in a suit by the government, which charges the company with violation of the anti-trust laws.

An extensive chapter is devoted to the Fordney-McCumber tariff act which is dominated as a "profiteers' tariff." The cost of the tariff to the consumer is described as follows:

"Based on statistics of production exports and imports, the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act gives protection to the profiteering special interests of $6,270,895,300. The amount of protection is so high that the interests thus favored do not dare to take full advantage of it. It is estimated that only two-thirds of the tax levied as protection is collected. This means that the American people under the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act are taxed $4,000,000,000 or more than the cost of running the government. Of this vast sum, only $500,000,000 goes into the United States Treasury, and $3,500,000,000 into the pockets of the protected interests. The passage of the Fordney-McCumber

The Mercy of the Court

ber Act encouraged and legalized profiteering by the protected interests, enabling them to raise their prices in conformity with the protection granted."

The President's secretary, C. Bascom Skemp, also comes in for criticism. He is described as a "patronage huckster," and letters dealing with alleged sale of federal appointments in Virginia in exchange for campaign contributions are reprinted. The removal of the civil service employees from the Bureau of Printing and Engraving is described in detail and cited as evidence of Republican disregard of the merit system, under the heading "Rape of the Civil Service." President Coolidge is also criticized for his veto of the postal employees' pay bill.

One of the severest indictments in the book is that part dealing with agricultural and business conditions. It is charged that the Republican administration permitted 600,000 farmers to go bankrupt. Concerning business and industry the Campaign Book says:

"A brief study of the business and industrial record from and including the first year of the Harding-Coolidge administration, 1921, through the first six months of 1924 should forever silence the old false claims that the Republican party is the party of sound business policies and of prosperity. The figures are from the records of R. G. Dunn & Co., and not to be questioned:

	Bank failures.	Liabilities.
"1918	20	$5,131,887
"1919	50	16,520,862
"1920	119	50,708,300
"Total 3 years	189	$72,361,049
"1921	404	173,027,776
"1922	277	77,735,551
"1923	540	196,790,000
"1924 (1st 6 mos.)	428	153,228,720

"Total 3 1-2 yrs. 1,669 $600,782,047
"To summarize: Both in number and in the aggregate of liabilities, bank failures during the first three and a half years of the Harding-Coolidge administration exceed by more than eight times those of the last three years of the second Wilson administration, although two of those years, 1919 and 1920, were 'reconstruction' years, when business hazards were extraordinarily great and when many failures were to have been expected."

It is charged in the book that the Coolidge-Melton leadership endeavored, in its program of tax reduction to pass a bill that would reduce the taxes of the rich by huge percentages and the taxes of the poorer people by small percentages. Extensive figures and tables are submitted to prove this contention.

The book also contains a large amount of material on labor, much of it prepared by William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor in President Wilson's cabinet. The record of the Democratic party and the Wilson administration in their activities for labor are presented in detail.

One of the longest and most forceful chapters in the book deals with foreign relations, and is from the pen of Norman H. Davis, who was one of Woodrow Wilson's closest friends and advisers during the second Wilson administration. Mr. Davis recounts the efforts of Mr. Wilson to "bring the nations of the world into co-operation for peace, and concludes by stating the Democratic position of today, as shown by the party's platform declaration and the statements of its presidential nominee.

A long chapter is devoted to women's part in policies and government, with numerous references to show the more liberal attitude of the Democratic party and the last Democratic administration on this subject. Detailed biographies and records of the two nominees are given, and a comparison of all three party platforms by subjects.

Copies of the Democratic campaign book may be had from the Democratic National Committee, Investment Building, Washington, D. C. Price, 25 cents.

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, Sept. 15.—Weak cables and the return of generally fair weather to west half of belt influenced market to a new low level thus far this season this morning. Liverpool cables—London big seller also ring. Sentiment bearish. Some fear of labor troubles in the New England mill districts due to the wage question contributed to the early decline. The coming of a moderate tropical storm to the east Gulf was attended by rather general rains in the South Atlantic States and prospects are for more rain in that region. Census returns as to consumption in the United States for month of August were a little larger than expected and domestic mill stock remained small at the close of August compared with last season mills of the United States consumed 357,000 bales last month vs. 492,000 and mill stock August 31 were only 653,000 against 811,000. While domestic consumption will likely figure small for September compared with one year ago some little improvement is noted since August consumption was a little larger than for July. 357,000. Texas advices are to effect that as a result of the rains there the basis is slightly higher and it is possible that the basis in the eastern belt may become firmer in consequence of the present rains in that section.

The general impression is that the market is low enough for the present a strade buying and speculative buying is likely to develop as result of the lower prices established.

Meanwhile the market is supposed to be heavily short in all future markets and in event of the trade demand improving a covering movement by shorts is possible, which could bring about a sharp reaction when least expected.

Under the circumstances it may be advisable for shorts to take profits pending new developments.

Arrangements have been made to ship reindeer carcasses to Seattle in large numbers. The animals are to be slaughtered at Kokrine, on the Yukon River, and dressed and frozen. There are now 2,100 large power plants in Sweden, of which about 50 percent furnish light, heat and power for the country districts. Besides there are several hundred smaller plants using less than 10,000 horsepower each.
