LOCAL MARKET HAS LARGEST BREAK OF WEED YET OFFERED

More Tobacco on the Greenville Warehouse Floors Today Than Ever Before in History of Market; Prices Much Stronger On Many Grades

The largest break ever recorded in the history of the Greenville tobacco market was witnessed today when more than 1,000,000 pounds of the leaf were offered on the floors of the six warehouses.

Realizing last night that there was going to be a record breaking sale today, the buyers agreed that in order to co-operate with the warehouse men and the farmers that they would make a desperate effort to clear the floors today if possible. With this in view the sales started at 8:30 o'clock this morning and continued throughout the day with an intermission of 15 minutes for lunch.

Despite the unusual quantity of tobacco the prices were much stronger than at any time this season and the sales were handled in a manner of which any market would be proud.

The heavy sales are due to the recent bad weather which has prevented the growers from marketing their offerings. With today's sunshine, the first in several days the farmers took advantage of it bringing to the Greenville market the greatest day in its history.

A spirit of optimism and good cheer was evidenced throughout the day and the warehousemen, farmers, and buyers co-operated in such a manner that nothing happened to cause any friction as the sales progressed.

Growers from adjoining counties some from a distance of approximately one hundred miles told their tobacco here today. They were not only well pleased with their prices but expressed great satisfaction over the manner in which the sales were conducted.

The buyers seemed more active and more anxious for the tobacco today than at any time this season and as a consequence some grades advanced from five to ten cents a pound.

At an early hour this afternoon trucks and wagons loaded with the weed were coming into Greenville to be here ready from the sales tomorrow.

Both Commissioner C. H. Bartlett and Chief Duckett denied that they knew who the signers were, however men who have resigned and who have offered their resignation to take effect at an early date, state that they resigned because they thought that they were expected to do so.

The commission took the stand that Chief Bartlett was an efficient and worthy chief. It was stated that he had served the fire department faithfully ever since 1886 and that for past five years he had been chief.

After general opening exercises, when all students and visitors were assembled in the auditorium, students and teachers went to their various class rooms for the business of getting acquainted, assigning work, etc. A very competent staff of teachers will be in charge of the school this year, five of whom were in the Falkland School last year.

Mr. David House, of Bethel, will be principal, succeeding Mr. O. K. Goodwin, of Apex, who has held this position for the last two years with a marked degree of success. Other members of the faculty are as follows: Miss Lowney Olive, Chapel Hill; Miss Aletha Canady, Bath; Miss Hansford Pa'erson, Manteo, Va.; Miss Myrtle Sylvant, Snow Hill; Miss Dora McLawhon, Winterville; Miss Ina Bell Worthington, Winterville; Miss Ruby Worthington, Winterville.

Two years ago three other schools were consolidated at Falkland, five new trucks, being added. The success of these two years seems to promise a steady growth that will have as its result a rural school in Falkland that will, after a few more years, be splendidly equipped for very efficient service to the surrounding community.

FRENCH DETECTIVE LANDS CRIMINAL AFTER LONG CHASE

Paris, Sept. 18.—This is the story of a Paris detective who traveled half way around the world for his quarry and finally, in the dense jungle of Annam, threw aside his disguise and arrested his man, who is now doing three years in jail.

As related here an antiquary named Malraux was under the observation of the Paris police, suspected of being responsible for some recent thefts from French museums. It was thought he had designs of collections of antiquities in one of the French provinces, and as a matter of routine a detective was assigned to trail Malraux and a companion, wherever they might go.

The pair went to a seaport and there took passage on a steamer for Saigon, French Indo-China, and the detective went along on the same vessel. He did not even have time to buy a change of clothing, but made friends among the crew and borrowed what he needed.

At Saigon Malraux and his friend posed as rich travelers, anxious to see the country, while the detective sleuthed around in the background. He had, however, made known his mission to the local French authorities, and when Malraux asked for guides to the remote districts of Annam, the detective was among the natives assigned, but cleverly disguised. The party scoured the region of Angkor, rich in holy relics and fine specimens of old Chinese art, and Malraux and his companion bought freely. Also they did not hesitate, conditions being favorable, to burglarize Annamite temples for particularly fine specimens.

The border of Siam was not far away, and the collectors, having decided to leave the country by that route, called up the native guides and dismissed them. Then the Paris detective had his day. The humble disguise was cast aside, the French policeman stepped out, and Malraux and his friend were placed under arrest. The case was tried at Phom-penh, Cochinchina, and Malraux had no defence. It came out, during the trial, that his antiquaries were destined for a New York antiquary, and were worth 1,000,000 francs.

Smith, commander of the "far heel" division have now dwindled from many thousand to a pitiful handful, and his staff have arrived and established headquarters for the reunion sessions which will continue through Thursday.

Despite the weather which is conducive to the rheumatic joints of the veterans who followed Lee and Jackson in the hard winters of the sixties, the "rebels" were in high spirits today, many parading the streets while others sat in corners and swapped reminiscences of the battles of the lost cause.

Lieutenant Edgar B. Taylor, of Richmond, Va., commander of the army of Northern Virginia, and Major Gen. William A. Clark, of Columbia, S. C., commander of the South Carolina Division U. C. V., who are to deliver principal addresses at the reunion Wednesday morning are expected to arrive later today.

Another higher light on the program for Wednesday is the reunion ball in the evening at a local hotel. One of the unique features, on the program is the old fiddlers convention which starts tonight in a local theatre. The elimination contest will be held tonight and the survivors will fiddle for honors Wednesday night.

SPARKS CIRCUS

Thrilling, gripping, stirring action from start to finish, with not a dull moment in it, is an outstanding feature of the performance which the Sparks Circus will present in Greenville on Fifth street near Teachers College on Saturday, Sept. 20.

Included among the many stellar attractions which will be seen are the Mardo and Boston troupes of acrobats; the Ballerina family of bareback riders; the three Walters in a sensational aerial bar number; dainty little Naida Miller in classical and popular dances on a high wire; Paul Wenzel and his troupe of clowns, and over twenty other displays in which dare-devil feats and hair-raising feature attractions alternate with comedy numbers. Besides, there are the trained elephants, tigers, lions, seals and other wild animal numbers.

The performance opens with a richly and beautifully costumed spectacle and pageant entitled "An Egyptian Fantasy," which is presented by a big chorus of pretty girls. The singers are assisted in the presentation by stately horses and elephants, and camels in dazzling trappings and accoutrements. The opening number is said to be fine and inspiring and to be the most beautiful production of the times under canvass.

A complete and interesting collection of wild and ferocious animals from the jungles of India and Africa will be found in the menagerie.

Children under twelve are admitted for thirty-five cents. On circus day seats may be bought at the Horner-Staton Drug Co. for the same price as at the show grounds.

success than the intrinsic merits of Bulwer-Lytton's drama, and Mr. Mantell has always given a vivid, forthright performance.

Several of the motion picture reviewers on the New York newspapers compared Mr. Mantell's screen characterization of Cardinal Richelieu with his stage impersonation and declared the film character to be the greater of the two.

Holland Seeks Remove Mistaken Idea Kingdom

Amsterdam, Sept. 17.—Antiquated ideas about Holland that prevail abroad, and often move the present generation of Dutch people to mild resentment, have at last been tracked to their origin.

A learned society which has made a thorough investigation into the current geographical text books and manuals used in elementary and secondary schools in civilized countries of the world, has published a report which discloses that most of them are about 100 years behind the times.

Horse drawn canal barges, for instance, are still given as the popular mode of locomotion in Holland, and while references to cows and windmills are plentiful, the books are silent on the development of modern Dutch dairy farming and other industries of the country. In one instance, a text book drew a picture of Dutch conditions as they existed 300 years ago.

The society in question has appointed a committee to remedy this state of things by vigorous efforts abroad to bring knowledge present-day Holland somewhat more up to date.

Moscow, Sept. 18.—Moscow, which from time immemorial has depended upon the horse-drawn carriage and the conventional trolley car for its transportation, will soon have its own motor buses. Eight omnibuses of the London type will make their appearance shortly, and it is the intention of the municipal authorities eventually to secure sufficient additional vehicles to establish connection with suburban districts. This will do much, the officials say, to relieve the fearful congestion on trolley cars and trains, and will also encourage part of the population to move to the suburbs.

MANTELL AS RICHELIEU ON BOTH STAGE AND SCREEN

Robert B. Mantell, noted actor of the famous heroes of Shakespeare's plays, was engaged by Cosmopolitan Productions for the film version of Stanley Weyman's novel, "Under the Red Robe," which will be the attraction at White's theatre on today, because of his distinguished stage characterization of the same historical character which he portrays in "Under the Red Robe"—that of Cardinal Richelieu.

The great Cardinal is one of Mr. Mantell's favorite roles and one that he has acted many times in Bulwer-Lytton's old play. He still gives that play in his Shakespeare repertoire and it is always a favorite with the public. The character of Richelieu has had more to do with the play's

NEW CROPS FOR AMERICA

Avocado, chayote, dasheen, prejobaye, and telfaeria are words that mean nothing to most of the people in the United States. They are, however, worth knowing about and may become familiar ones in the marketplace. They are new fruits and vegetables that have been introduced into the United States by a group of agricultural explorers employed by the government to search the world over for new farm and garden products for America.

Among other advantages possessed by the United States is the remarkable one that somewhere within its borders are conditions of climate and soil in which any plant which grows anywhere in one world may be grown. This present unlimited possibilities, from South America and Asia to darkest Africa. In the last 25 years they have introduced into the United States more than 51,000 new grains, fruits, forage crops, vegetables, and other plants.

Among the most valuable have been durum wheat from Russia, naval oranges from Brazil, rice from Japan, sorghum from the Sudan, and cotton from Egypt. These and others have added much wealth to the agricultural resources, and in some cases have provided a crop for land which could not otherwise be used.

This little group of agricultural explorers is quietly, unostentatiously giving countless riches to the people of the United States, at the sacrifice of home and comfort, and at the risk of their lives. The debt to them should at least be acknowledged.

ON BEING BUSY

Americans are said to be a busy people. The hurrying crowds of city streets are, unique in this country; those who tread foreign streets do so in more leisurely fashion. Yet it is an English writer who observes anxiously, "There are people in the world of whom it may be truly said that they never rest . . . who never read and never think, but who spend their time in moving from place to place and in talking." Is it of English folk that he speaks? The description fits accurately near at home.

Certainly, restlessness becomes a habit and there are no people more restless than Americans. As Mr. Young, the English writer, goes on to state, some persons continually insist that they will go to this place and that "for a rest," and strive feverishly to that end; only to find themselves looking forward from this resting place to another quite as unsatisfactory.

So follow the mind cures, the thought healing, the self-analysis, to which those people find plenty of time to devote.

The cause of this sort of national "busyness" apparently lies in a lack of individual goal. Life is lived not as a unit, but as a day-to-day affair. A worthwhile life cannot be lived without reflection. Mind cures may or may not make opportunity for this a possibility. A much easier way is for each person to realize that he needs time to think, and then for him to take that time.

WORDS AND WISDOM

Now comes a savant who asserts that, in the case of woman, the long tongue, is a feature that accompanies the long head. According to this analyst of woman's proverbial garrulity, it serves as an outlet for excess mentality. This is rather startling to those who have hitherto held a different view of the overtalkative. It is an ancient observation that those who are most verbose are frequently most shallow and that a plethora of words often indicates a shortage of ideas. But it seems not so.

This analysis is rather hard on those deep-thinking sages, who in their passage through life, have been noted for the paucity of their words and the richness of their thoughts. It fixes the label of low mentality on the men of few words, who are conspicuously among those present, and gives the chattering magpies, of human variety, unsuspected merit. For, so far as verbosity is concerned, there is no reason for holding that man and woman analyze differently.

The friendliest terms are cash on delivery.

Talk is cheap because they make it out of nothing.

No matter how she hides her age it always tells on her.

A great many people think they are tactful when they are merely liars.

Love: the quality that kids you into thinking you like the perfume she uses.

Those who claim credit for inaugurating the disarmament movement are a little late. The movement was begun 1921 years ago.

Keep trying and after a time you will become so important that you can leave the car at home and ride on the street car without losing caste.

METHODIST-PHILATHEA CLASS MEETS.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 16, the Philathea class of the Methodist church held a social and business meeting which proved to be one of the most delightful of the year, in the home of Mrs. J. W. Higs, with Mrs. Marvin Blount, Mrs. R. G. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Higgs as hostesses.

The class was glad to have at this first meeting of the fall several of the former members of the faculty of the Greenville schools and also to welcome several of the new teachers.

The arranging for the box of clothing for the little girl at the Orphanage whom the class clothes, and the election of officers constitutes largely the business of the evening.

The officers elected as follows: Mrs. Luther Herring, teacher; Mrs. R. G. Fitzgerald, president; Mrs. Fred Forbes, vice president; Miss Eloise Ellington, secretary and treasurer; Miss Lill Wilson, reporter.

After the business there was an amusing contest called the "Coo-Coo" and a prize for the one who carried out best the instructions of the contest. This resulted in a tie between Mrs. Herring, Mrs. Goodson, Miss Willis and Miss Helene Higgs; after the second trial Miss Higgs was counted winner.

A most refreshing ice course was served, closing a really pleasant evening.

LOWER MEXICAN FREIGHT RATES TO BE EFFECTIVE IN SEPTEMBER

Mexico City, Sept. 16. — To increase traffic on the Tehuantepec Railway, connecting the recently opened free ports of Salina Cruz and Puerto Mexico, and to hasten the development of the free zones, the free port commission has decided to cut existing steamship freight rates from New York to Mexican ports 20 percent.

In this maritime campaign the free port commission will use the four cargo steamers, "Mexico," "Coahuila," "Jalisco" and "Monterey" bought by the government with the proceeds of the special Centenary Tax levied in 1920. The commission expects to have the steamers ready for service in September.

SWARMING RODENTS OF LAPPLAND FILMED FOR AMERICAN MUSEUM

Gothenburg, Sweden, Sept. 18.—American scientists have just taken the first film ever obtained of the migration of lemmings, molar-like animals, one of the most unique phenomena of the animal world.

Dr. Clyde E. Fisher, a curator of the American Museum of Natural History, and Carveth Wells, now here from a recent trip to Lappland, say that a curious and absolutely unique film is that of the lemmings. These rodents seem to multiply in teeming numbers, at irregular intervals, and are now more multitudinous than they have been for 18 years. A wanderer above the tree line in the Lappland mountains may suddenly see the ground covered by them for miles. They come by the millions, swimming rivers and climbing over mountain ridges. Then either for lack of food or in conflict with natural enemies, they perish in masses.

The Americans declared that they had missed nothing of natural interest in Lappland. They even took special films of the mosquitoes.

DUTCH LEARN TO TALK ENGLISH FROM AMERICAN TOURISTS

Amsterdam, Sept. 18.—American tourists have flocked this season to the quaint island of Marken in the Zuyder Zee. This is one of the few communities in Holland where the native dress has not given way to standardized clothes. Huge balloon trousers for the men, and gay pink, blue and yellow waists, full petticoats and white caps for the women still are worn in Marken.

Wealth in Lowly Coppers.

London, Sept. 18.—Seventeen million pennies packed in 14,000 bags, weighing 158 tons and worth just over $70,833, are stored in a cellar in Westminster. They are the property of the Gas Light and Coke Company, which collects them from penny-in-the-slot meters. Six hundred million pennies are collected every year from meters owned by this company.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The United States navy has at last come around to the policy generally observed by European nations of strict secrecy concerning implements of national defense. The custom of a hundred years is being set aside, in the case of the new mine laying submarine for which $8,150,000 has been appropriated. Beyond the fact that her plans call for width of beam, speed and cruising radius beyond anything known in that type, details of the new submarine are jealously guarded.

No nation among the signatories to the Washington arms convention permits inspection of its navy yards in which construction is in progress upon vessels not covered by that agreement. Heretofore but slight restraint has been imposed by the United States.

Both England and Japan are known to have made great strides in their newest auxiliaries, the British submarine SX-1 having aroused especial comment, although not the slightest detail is known generally of her capabilities. In the case of Japan, it has been said officially that the United States government is ignorant of the potentialities comprised in her newest cruisers and destroyers.

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, Sept. 18.—There was much realizing this morning which market absorbed on scale down, values reacting suggestively as result of the continuance of unsettled weather inland, better spot advices, and reports that boll worms were doing much damage in northwest Texas and that weevils were increasing in the south Atlantic states due to the rains.

There was much rain in nearly all sections of the cotton region overnight, and indications are for the continuance of unsettled, showery weather inland, which would tend to lower the grade more and probably cause insects to become more numerous and active.

Three additional mid month private reports were issued today condition ranging from 57 to 58.6 and the indicated yield from 12,943,000 to 13,290,000.

The next Government forecast report will be turned out September 23, at 10 a. m., New Orleans Time and will give condition of crop as of Sept. 10, also ginnings to 15 instant. The report issued Sept. 8th gave condition as of Sept. 1 59.3 indicated crop 12,787,000.

Bombay, India, cabled: "Falling prices for cotton restrict the demand for cotton goods." Alexandria, Egypt, cabled: "Egyptian Government decides to buy Egyptian cotton on the open market in order to support price." Liverpool cabled: "Undertone good on the report picking retarded by wet weather. Trade buying. Better spot demand."

Compared with last season exports today were 12,000 vs. 3,000; since Friday, 202,000 vs. 710,000; since Aug. first 578,000 against 548,000. Weather conditions will likely continue to assert much influence on values. As yet climatic conditions inland remain generally unsettled with the probability of more rain.

Spinners takings for week tomorrow will run against 174,000 last year and may be as large or larger than one year ago.

Serving Tea Is Real Art Says Interior Decorator

THE spirit of hospitality is most artistically expressed in the charming custom of serving afternoon tea, thinks Agnes Foster Wright, one of New York's City's most successful interior decorators, whose tea table is always delightful to look upon. Harmony of color is carried out not alone in the selection of the china to harmonize with the hostess' frock and with the table, but in the sandwiches, as well, says Mrs. Wright. For instance, for Hudson sandwiches which are a favorite with her friends, Mrs. Wright selects brown bread because it harmonizes better with the delicious concoction used as filling.

man, who has held the office for that length of time. All told, says Mr. Shipman, 18,778,000 tickets for various purposes have been ordered printed and distributed.

A compiled list of the tickets shows that the Democratic party, state and national, candidates will require 2,600,000 tickets while the Republicans require 2,000,000, a grand total of 4,600,000.

The aggregate number of Democratic tickets for the ten Congressional districts is given as 1,323,000 and that of the Republican tickets as 855,000.

Four amendments to the State Constitution and two official referendums are to be voted upon at the November election. For these questions, it was stated by Mr. Shipman, that 1,000,000 tickets each "For" and "Against" will be printed. Which will mean 12,000,000 tickets for questions submitted to the people other than the choice of candidates.

The four amendments to the Constitution to be submitted to the vote of the people are: For limiting of the state debt; to increase the pay

ENGLAND'S ROOFS OF LEAD OCCASIONALLY NEED REPAIR

London, Sept. 18 — The leaden roofs of some of England's old churches, a heritage from mediaeval times, occasionally have to be melted down, rolled over and then replaced. The lead itself is indestructible, but it has been found that at the end of every 200 years, the metal should be recast to give the best results as a roofing material. The lead on the famous dome of St. Paul's however, has not been melted down since it was placed in position in 1710.
