GASTON MEANS ASSERTS TESTIMONY DAUGHERTY HEARING WAS FRAMED UP

Means Declares Wheeler Framed Daughter; Roxie Stinson on Characterizes Statement as "Ridiculous"

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 22.—Miss Roxie Stinson, one of the Senate committee's star witnesses in the investigation of Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney General, today characterized as "ridiculous" the purported statement of Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice agent to the former Attorney General, in which he repudiated his testimony before the Senate investigating committee.

Miss Stinson, former wife of Jess Smith, whose name figured conspicuously in the Senate investigation, denied the statement contained in Means' repudiation which declared that Miss Stinson, like himself, had given testimony inspired by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, prosecutor of the investigation. She denied that cooperation had been used in obtaining her testimony. "It is perfectly ridiculous," she declared. "I am only casually acquainted with Mr. Means. How could he know anything about my testimony? I said nothing under coercion. No one forced me to go to Washington."

Means' repudiation, made public yesterday by Harry M. Daugherty, was contained in a letter sent to John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate. The former Attorney General severely criticized Mr. Davis for referring to "the alleged conduct of my administration without first hearing the facts."

The copy of Means' repudiation sent with the letter follows: "To Whom It May Concern: I, Gaston B. Means, desire to make the following statement of facts regarding my connection with the attack recently made by the Brookhart-Wheeler Senate investigating committee against former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and the Department of Justice in particular, and the current administration:

On February 8, 1924, at Palm Beach, Fla., I received a telegram from my wife in Washington stating that United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, through a very close friend, had requested that I see him in connection with the above-mentioned investigation. The information in this telegram came to me in connection with other information at that time. I promptly reported this to a close friend of Mr. Daugherty. The suggestion was made that I see Mr. Daugherty and arrangements to this end were thought to have been perfected, but no such arrangement culminated successfully.

I was advised to go ahead and get in touch with Senator Wheeler and find out what information Senator Wheeler was seeking and what was the basis of any attack Senator Wheeler was about to launch against Mr. Daugherty and the Department of Justice. I called to see Wheeler and held numerous conferences with him, both at his home and at his office, all of which I had a record of.

The only evidence that Wheeler had of any possibility of an attack on the Department of Justice and Mr. Daugherty which he disclosed to me were some records in regard to bringing into Washington of moving pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. Senator Wheeler had this evidence more or less in documentary form and stated to me he was going to use this as an attack on Secretary of State Hughes, President Coolidge and others who attended the exhibit of these pictures.

A former agent of the Department of Justice either directly or through some friends had furnished Senator Wheeler with this information and evidence. I reported to friends of Mr. Daugherty that this was the only evidence that Senator Wheeler had.

In the meantime, Senator Wheeler, because of publicity that he was about to or had offered a resolution to investigate the Department of Justice and Mr. Daugherty, began to have many callers at his office with the most sensational statements, and Attacks Mother's Doctor.

ROSAIE O'REILLY

After her mother had died under treatment of Dr. Alexander Weinstater, of Chicago, Rosalie O'Reilly, pretty daughter of the dead woman, went to the physician's office, and, according to charges, attempted to kill him with drugs and a gun. She insists she is sane and declares the doctor poisoned her mother.

Upon my return from Florida and at a conference with Senator Wheeler, it was agreed that I was to assist him in the investigation of the Attorney General and the Department of Justice in the way of furnishing evidence, examination and coaching of witnesses, etc.

Wheeler grew desperate in his efforts to find some information or which he could base charges against the administration and against the Department of Justice, saying that he was working with LaFollette and had certain plans in view that made it imperative that he make good in connection with his public statements as to the conditions in the Department of Justice and that the Department of Justice be connected with the alleged oil scandals. These facts, and what was going on in Senator Wheeler's office and that an effort was being made to frame Mr. Daugherty were reported to Colonel Thomas Miller, the Alien Property Custodian, an official and personal friend of Mr. Daugherty, with the request that he give this information to Mr. Daugherty. Colonel Miller reported back that Mr. Daugherty said that it would be impossible for any body to successfully frame him up and that he "did not give a damn" about what was going on in Senator Wheeler's office. However, Colonel Miller, understanding more of what was going on, requested that the efforts to secure this information not be dropped, but be reported to him, which I did, from day to day.

In the meantime Senator Wheeler had secured some of the copies of the letters that Jess Smith had written to Roxie Stinson and with these letters as a basis, allowed them to be read in a way that was never intended on the part of Jess Smith, and interpreted in a different way. All such letters were used as the basis for the frame-up, Wheeler taking the position that he was forced to connect Jess Smith and Howard Manington and others directly with Mr. Daugherty, all the while having in his possession (and he has now) the original statements taken from underworld characters and bootleggers that not at any time did they hear that Mr. Daugherty or the administration were involved in any way in any fraudulent transactions. Senator Wheeler suppressed such information and would not allow any witnesses who supplied him with statements and information showing conclusively that Mr. Daugherty was

ARGENTINES LOOK FORWARD TO STEADY GROWTH

Buenos Aires, Sept. 22.—Countries with a high birth rate have a high death rate but there is one exception in the world and that is Argentina according to Alejandro E. Bunge, economist and government statistician.

In 30 years, Mr. Bunge says, Argentina's death rate has dropped from 25 a thousand to 13.6 a thousand, one of the lowest in the world, while a birth rate of 33 a thousand has been maintained. These two facts combined produce a great natural increase in population. The

GERMAN GARAGES LACK Elements of Efficiency

Berlin, Sept. 22.—An effort is under way to revise the operation of public garages in Germany, and bring into effect some of the efficiency that prevails in this regard in the United States.

Under the German building laws, not more than three automobiles may be stored in one room. To overcome this handicap, garage owners, built box stalls for each car, and divided a large room into many small ones. But the time lost in handling cars in and out of these cells, and the waste of room entailed, are great deterrents, and an effort will be made to amend the law.

AMERICANS JOURNEY TO FRENCH SHRINES HUGUENOT HISTORY

Paris, Sept. 22.—Culminating with the dedication of a memorial tablet in the little town of Avesnes, near the Belgian border, the birthplace of Jesse de Forest, one of the pioneers in the settlement of New York, the members of the Huguenot-Walloon New Netherlands commission have just completed an interesting trip through Europe, visiting most of the spots connected with Huguenot history, and in France being received everywhere in Protestant circles.

Wherever the commissioners went, they distributed the new fifty-cent pieces struck off at the mint to celebrate New York's tercentenary, and the part played in the metropolis' foundation by the sturdy Walloons and Dutch.

The stay in Paris of the Huguenot-Walloon commission was largely devoted to visiting the historic landmarks of Protestantism, including the home of Admiral de Coligny, the church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois, from whose belfry pealed out the signal for the massacre of St. Bartholomew, and the buildings of the University of Paris.

The party entered France from Italy, where they had gone to visit the Walloon communities. Receptions were offered at Nîmes, Montpellier, Arles, Carcassonne, Montauban, Bordeaux, and La Rochelle, all Protestant centers, the last-named sea port city having given its name to New Rochelle, N. Y.

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—America has regained its equilibrium "and the vociferous radical minority will try in vain to move the nation out of its normal course," President F. E. Watkins told the Grain Dealers National Association today.

A settling down tendency reflecting thrift and sobriety, the speaker said, is apparent throughout business, "in striking contrast to the reckless abandon with which uneconomic nostrums were gaining speed a year ago."

"Today Europe's star of hope is rising," Mr. Watkins declared. "Better economic conditions mean an improved foreign market for our products, with a normal export demand for grain. The broadened foreign market for our surplus will benefit the farmer most directly, but the stimulus will be felt also along the line."

He referred to the depression smothered by the grain trade as "a period strewn with the wrecks of long-established business," and assailed politicians who had capitalized discontent. Defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill, he said, was to the credit of the grain industry, "whose vigorous opposition was in time joined by other industries which recognized that if the grain industry were to be socialized, their lines might be next exploited."

"Theories underlying many of these queer measures," Mr. Watkins continued, "are that somewhere in the present system is concealed tremendous profits that can be captured by a producer through some type of co-operative efforts."

"This is pure buncombe. It has been established as such by those engaged in cooperative enterprises, such as local elevators and country stations, and in various terminal market organizations. But the politicians have not had this experience, and the professional agitator would not be influenced by it."

"Nature's action in reducing the world cereal supply has enhanced our prices and the farmer, reasonably prosperous again, will lose interest in political panaceas that have only made matters worse. Farmers know the grain trade fought and won a battle that benefited the farmers."

GROWING FASHION EDICTS

For the one-thousand-and-second time the fashion dictators have predicted the departure of bobbed hair. This time the much overworked prognostication comes from the Fashion Art League of America, meeting in the home town of Loeb and Leopold.

It was either advertising purposes or an exalted egotism that prompted the league of fashion hares to proclaim for the benefit of feminine ears that the coiffure for long locks, exhibited by the league, had sounded the death knell for abbreviated tresses.

This latest prediction does not prove the passing of bobbed hair but it and its innumerable, erring predecessors do prove that the fashion dictators no longer hold the fashion situation in the hollow of their hand. In fact, since they no longer dictate, there are no longer dictators of fashion.

In this one respect—that of bobbed hair—womanhood seems to have declared her own emancipation from the slavery of style and vogue. The dictators of fashion may have decreed the shorn-locks fad, but they have failed utterly to halt it. Actually, the more the fixers of fashions talk, scold and fly into a fit over the prevailing feminine aversion to the mere suggestion of reverting to long hair, the more determined the women are to cut their hair shorter. At least the boy-bob is coming more and more into popularity.

The fair ones appear to have fought the style-setters to a decision on the issue of bobbed hair and seemingly only when the ladies can contrive no new ways to bob their hair or to arrange their bobbed hair and after the current trend leaves no further step than the clippers-all-over, will they listen to exhortations of the hair-restorer and false-hair salesmen and to the edicts of the fashion dictators of longer hair.

ATHLETICS FOR ALL

With the opening of colleges for their new year their prospects in athletics, especially football, form a chief theme for discussion as usual. And also, as usual, criticism is heard concerning the alleged disproportionate time devoted to sports by students. The char has also been revived that only a comparatively few of the young men engage actively in athletics, the great majority obtaining their physical exercise solely through the use of their lungs while rooting from the grandstand.

While these criticisms come principally from those not intimately familiar with college life, they formerly contained some truth, but are becoming less applicable each year to America's leading educational institutions. The new policy of "athletics for all," generally in vogue, has effected much improvement. Under its operation all students are encouraged to take up some form of systematic physical training. As to the accusation that sport seems to be emphasized more than scholarship, the outside public naturally sees little of the academic activities as compared with the more spectacular side of college life exemplified in the games attracting thousands of spectators. The football season, too, is brief, occupying only about eight weeks but attracting extraordinary attention while it is in progress.

The annual report of the graduate manager of athletics at Yale University, just made to the president and faculty, calls attention to the "athletics for all" program and its practical success. Last year Yale had more victories in all forms of competition than ever before, losing only in baseball to Princeton and defeating Harvard at football, baseball, track events and rowing. Of 3,789 students, 2,576 reported regularly for practice twice a week in some branch of athletics. This unusually large participation is attributed to the numerous interclass competitions. Naturally only a few in a big college can aspire to represent it in contests with other institutions, but the opportunity is open to all to engage in some form of wholesome exercise with an element of competition and it is encouraging to find so many doing so.

Our Electoral College does not open as soon as others, but it makes history while in session.

Automobile Race Ends in Collision At Five Points

An automobile race having for its reward either a box of candy from a local young man or a kiss from an unknown young lady was an interesting event of yesterday on the Washington-Greenville road.

The young man, who by the way is well known for his charming and attractive personality, accompanied by a young lady, was joy riding yesterday morning when a Ford Coupe containing three young ladies passed and re-passed them. At last the young man in a most tantalizing manner threw out the challenge to the driver of the Coupe, that they race and that if he beat her she forfeit a kiss and if she won he would forfeit a box of sweets. He met his Waterloo, because the young lady proved that she was a sport and accepted the challenge.

Then for several minutes people passing gave them the road. First the Kiss appeared eminent then the "box of candy." It was a race long to be remembered. Just as the two cars reached Greenville, the young man passed the young lady keeping in the lead to Five Points. Upon reaching Five Points he stopped and waited for his reward. Did he receive it? Certainly. As the young lady drove up she heard this nice, polite Romeo call out to her that she was a Fiker. "Come and see," she retorted no time was lost as the young man cleared the space receiving upon his arrival at the Coupe a kiss long to be remembered from one of North Carolina's most bewitching young debutants. Just one. That was all promised and after paying her debut she stepped on the gas and went on rejoicing. She had lost. Alright she was a sport.

The young man although he was accompanied by one of Greenville's fairest and most attractive young ladies, not satisfied with "two is company", apparently wanted a crowd and for that fact he chased the Coupe until the "little lady," who had no more kisses for forfeit evaded him and made her get-away. Or did he think that perhaps she would accept another challenge? To find the answer find the young man and he will be glad to give any body who really wants a kiss, all the directions in an "auto kiss way."

Latest Report: Quite a number of Greenville's young men, old men, married men and single men, found the Washington-Greenville road very attractive yesterday. At my rate the road wasn't deserted.

IDEAL LOVERS PLAY IN LILIES

Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, Stars of "Black Oxen" Again Together.

Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, who, since their appearance together in "Black Oxen," have been widely heralded as the screen's ideal lovers, are again co-featured in "Lilies of the Field," First National's production of the noted William Hurlbut play, which is now being shown at White's Theatre. And once more the magnetic lure of that combination is proving irresistible to the motion picture fans of this vicinity.

Miss Griffith is cast as Mildred Harker, the wife of a man who seeks love conquests far and wide and whose only tie to her is their three-year-old daughter Rose.

Tearle has one of the greatest roles of his career—that of "the richest bachelor in the world" and one who views the world, and especially its women, through cynical eyes.

Not content with such a brilliant pair of co-stars, Director John Francis Dillon has assembled a supporting cast familiar to all play-goers. The cast includes Sylvia Bremer, Myrtle Stedman, Alma Bennett, Craufurd Kent, Charlie Murray, Phyllis Haver, Cissy Fitzgerald, Edith Ransom, Charles Gerrard and Dorothy Brock.

It is seldom that such an assemblage of talent is seen in a single photoplay.

Dublin Building Flats.
 Dublin, Sept. 22. — Twenty-two thousand families, numbering almost a third of the city's population, are living in Dublin in one roomed tenements. It is estimated that at least 20,000 new houses are needed.

The municipal commissioners have drafted schemes to provide for 7,000 families. They propose to clear away old tenements and lay out a number of blocks in flats. Temporary structures will be provided to house the people during reconstruction.

Methodist Conference Will Hold Its 99th Session in Reidsville

Reidsville, Sept. 22 — The North Carolina Methodist Protestant Conference will hold its 99th annual session at the First Methodist Protestant Church of this city during October 29 to November 3, it was announced here today by Dr. J. D. Williams, pastor, who will be the host of the conference.

About 150 ministers and laymen are expected to attend the session, it was said, and they will be entertained in the home of Reidsville. According to those in charge of arrangements, extensive plans are being made for the entertainment of the delegates.

The conference of the Methodist Protestant Church of North Carolina, it was explained is composed of 229 organized churches with 80 active ministers. The total membership of these churches was stated to be 26,439.

Financial records of the conference of the past year show that the churches combined donations for all purposes totaled $265,000.

The first session of the annual conference this year will open on Wednesday morning, October 29, at 10 o'clock, when Dr. A. G. Dixon of Greensboro, president of the Conference, will deliver his annual address to delegates. Rev. C. W. Bates, of Henderson, secretary of the Conference, will make his annual report at this time.

According to Dr. Dixon and other leaders of the Protestant Methodists in North Carolina, this year's session will be one of the most important that has been convened in many years, for many subjects relative to the work the denomination in religious and educational fields as well as social welfare work will be discussed and acted upon at this time.

The conference this year, say the officials, will give much consideration to the new college enterprise, the High Point College, which opened its doors for the first time in High Point a few days ago, after buffetting the storm of financial distress, due to delayed payments of pledges and unexpected needs of money arising.

J. D. Williams, "will be given to the needs of the new educational institution."

The annual conference has jurisdiction over all church activities in the denomination in North Carolina. It was announced, and at the annual session many matters of importance to the work of the denomination are discussed. Each active pastor gives a report of the work of his charge, reporting gain in membership and money raised. The claims of the General Conference, are considered at this time.

Assignments to the various pastorate are made at the annual conference and much interest is always manifested in these changes, it was said. Though there are always some changes, the Methodist Protestant church places no limit to the time a pastor may serve a church, the officials stated, and the time often runs as high as eight and nine years.

A list of the official representatives of the General Conference who will attend the state conference has not been made public, but the belief was expressed that several delegates from the main governing body would be present.

COTTON LETTER

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—The trend of values was to a lower level today as result of prospects for better weather in nearly all sections of the cotton region; fair for the western half of belt except shower on the Texas coast and generally fair eastern half of the cotton region, except showers for Florida. There was some liquidation and probably some hedge selling because of the uncertainty attending tomorrow's government forecast and report on ginnings to Sept. 15. The average gues of 74 members of the New York Cotton Exchange as to condition of the crop is 50.8.

There was issued a private estimate indicating ginnings to 15 instant at 2,900,000 there are no official comparative for the corresponding date last year but a private estimate based on the gin output per working day for last period places the probable ginnings to Sept. 15, last year at 2,400,000 ginnings to Sept. 15 last year were 3,230,000 bales.

If tomorrow's government report indicates a yield of 12,800,000 or more market will likely decline, probably advance if 12,000 or less. The quantity of cotton to be reported to ginned to 15 instant will probably have some effect on values also.

Domestic and Manchester textile trade advices are more cheerful some improvement in the demand for cotton goods reported but there remains room for much improvement.

Washington advices that the average number of spindles operated in the United States during August was 23,761,440 or at only 62.8 per cent capacity on a single shift basis against 22,897,499 for July of this year and 31,865,279 for August of last year.

Recently Washington wired the New Orleans cotton exchange: "No estimate of cotton abandonment would be made in Sept. 23 report. Average abandonment allowed for in pars."

Tomorrow's government report and ginning reports will be released at 10 a. m., New Orleans time.

GASTON MEANS ASSERTS TESTIMONY DAUGHERTY HEARING WAS FRAME-UP

not involved in any fraudulent matters at all.

People who called to see Senator Wheeler furnished him with letters they had received showing that any attempt to reach Mr. Daugherty in any manner would prove disastrous to them. I have all this documentary evidence, which will throw an entirely different light on the Wheeler investigation. This documentary evidence is absolutely irrefutable.

Up until the time I took the stand in the investigation I understood that I should seek information as to what Senator Wheeler was going to do, and on the day before I took the stand received information that Mr. Daugherty said I could go "to hell" so far as he was concerned. Except for this message I would not have taken the stand the day I did, but would have stalled the situation along. I can and will review my testimony, pointing out statement for statement that I made for Senator Wheeler at his suggestion, that I knew not to be true, but in order that it would complete Senator Wheeler's chain of circumstantial evidence, and in addition to that, I can show by my physical evidence that my statements could not be true at the time I called Senator Wheeler's attention to the fact that it was probable that these statements could not be true. In other words, I was at some other place, and the records will show entirely different from where I was alleged to have been at the time.

The only reason I made the statements the way I did was because of the message received from Mr.

Daugherty just before I took the stand.

By quick review of the testimony before the Wheeler committee, with the documentary evidence available, it can be proved conclusively that Senator Wheeler knew that he was framing Mr. Daugherty and the Republican administration and to some extent this involves the oil investigation, because Senator Wheeler was constantly in close touch with Senators Walsh and LaFollette in connection with this inquiry.

While this frame-up was going on, I was in conference with Senator Walsh, Senator Wheeler, Senator Dill, Robert LaFollette and Phillip LaFollette. I have in my possession a subpoena issued by Senator Dill for me to appear before the Walsh committee and to testify to evidence that they framed up and which plan was abandoned because Senator Wheeler decided that he did not want any favorable publicity withdrawn from him in connection with the Daugherty investigation that might revert to Senator Dill and the Walsh committee.

Briefly, there is available now all of the papers, documents and other material in connection with the Daugherty investigation which will absolutely off-set the unfavorable record as it now stands; also in connection with these documents is a great deal of material in connection with the oil matters, including McAdoo's correspondence with Senators Walsh and Wheeler.

The testimony given before the Wheeler committee by Roxie Stinson, R. Momand, myself and the majority of the other witnesses was nothing but a tissue of lies put in the mouths of these witnesses by Senator Wheeler primarily to confound and disconcert the Department of Justice and the administration.

These witnesses and myself were persuaded to make these false statements by Senator Wheeler under threats of indictments in some cases and by promises of gain and aid in others.

Briefly stated, the letters, correspondence and documents available will absolutely refute and confound the Wheeler-Daugherty investigation findings and throw an absolutely different light on the oil investigation where prominent Democrats were urging that their names not be drawn into the matter.

I spent weeks with Senator Wheeler, talked personally to nearly every witness that appeared before the committee, and gained Senator Wheeler's confidence to the extent that I read, assorted and handled most of the letters, documents, etc., that came to the committee.

(Signed) GASTON B. MEANS.

Aboard the Wheeler Special Train Enroute to Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 22.—Gaston B. Means, star witness in the Daugherty investigation, whose reputation of his won testimony was published Sunday, called Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent vice-presidential candidate, over long distance telephone last night and gave a startling version of that episode, Senator Wheeler announced today to correspondents.

Means asked me to call together in order that he could present evidence and personal testimony which would prove he had never grosser corruption in the executive departments in Washington than those alleged in public hearings last spring, Senator Wheeler declared.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The published statement by Gaston B. Means, star witness in the Daugherty investigation repudiating the testimony he gave at that time, added a new turn to the charge, counter charge, repudiation and re-repudiation which filled the records.

No sooner had Means' statement been published when there were reports that he had also repudiated it. Accounts including circumstances of the details of the alleged re-repudiation were published. When Means was sought by correspondents of the Associated Press for questioning with regard to the report of his re-repudiation they found him in a hotel room with the door barred with a piece of timber, which evidently had been brought up by Means for that purpose. He admitted the correspondents but was disinclined to answer questions. He did, however, say with regard to the statement given out by Daugherty with respect to his testimony, "Such a statement was signed and I have not repudiated that statement."

Means' attention was called to details of stories allying repudiation but he declined to answer further questions.

Soon afterwards Means disappeared from his room and could not be located for further questioning.
